SUPERIOR COURT.

September Term in Session.

The following cases have been disposed of since yesterday's report:

Tobe Wooten, nuisance, guilty. The grand jury returned a true bill against B. B. Jones, the colored man who killed a boy near Ayden in August.

Some civil matters having been compromised between the parties at interest, judgment was entered accordingly and the cases went off the docket. These were:

R. L. Joyner, administrator of Alfred Williams vs East Carolina railway. This was an action arising out of the killing of Williams by an engine on the railroad of the defendant.

Jacob Forbes vs Atlantic Coast Line railroad. This was the case arising out of an engine and caboose running into the team of the plaintiff at Fifth street crossing in Greenville.

R. L. Johnson vs C. T. Munford. This was the case in which a boy of plaintiff tore down a sign of defendant and the latter whipped the boy with a buggy whip.

Marcellus Edmundson and wife vs Atlantic Coast Line railroad. This was a suit arising from the excursion train wreck at Bruce.

AN OLD PAPER.

One That is Genuine and not a Reprint.

F. M. Hornaday has shown us a copy of The National Intelligencer, printed in Washington, D. C., and dated April 28th, 1836. It is a genuine old paper, and not a reprint as some of the so-called old papers exhibited in this late day are.

While off on his recent trip Mr. Hornaday visited the old home place of his mother's ancestors in Scotland county, near Laurinburg. This old paper was found in the walls, between weather boarding and plastering, of the "big house" known as "Ballacholish" that was built by her great grandfather. Two other copies of The Intelligencer, one dated 1835 and the other 1841, were found in the same place. They contain notices and speeches by H. Clay, Daniel Webster and other prominent public men of that time. How the old papers got in their hiding place that preserved them all these many years cannot be explained. They were found while recent repairs were being made to the building.

Mr. Hornaday will donate this old copy he has to the Historical Society of Trinity College

Ordination Service and Mission at the Episcopal Church.

On Sunday, Oct. 1st, at 11 o'clock a. m. the Rev. W. E. Cox, Deacon, will be ordained to the Priesthood by the Rt. Rev. Robert Strange, D. D., Bishop of the diocese, in the Episcopal church here. The Rev. Claudius F. Smith, of Washington, D. C., will preach the ordination sermon.

On Sunday, Oct. 8th, at night, Bishop Strange will begin a series of services which will continue throughout the following week, ending Sunday, Oct. 15th. All are cordially invited to attend these services.

Gin House Burned.

About 11 o'clock Thursday night the gin house of J. B. Galloway, in Chicod township, was destroyed by fire, together with about ten bales of seed cotton. The loss is about $3,000. The fire is supposed to have caught in some way from the boiler which had been used while ginning during the day.

No Cheap Affair.

Those graphophones which the Hub Clothing Co., is giving away with $25 purchases are standard machines and as good as can be had. All who get them are pleased.

TO IMPROVE SERVICE.

Government Orders Rural Mail Boxes Numbered.

Postmaster R. C. Flanagan has received an order from the post-office authorities requiring the numbering of mail boxes on the rural free delivery routes. This is a requirement of the government to facilitate the handling of mail on the routes, and goes into effect all over the country. The numbering of each route will begin with "No. 1" taking the box nearest the postoffice from which the route is served.

Patrons of the route should cooperate with this movement to improve the service for their benefit. The postmaster will furnish each patron with the official number for his box and the patron must put the number on the box.

AYDEN ITEMS.

AYDEN, N. C., Sept. 22, 1905.

In lowering one of the windows at the Methodist church Wednesday night Mr. J. J. Edwards had the misfortune to let the window fall, breaking the glass and cutting his hand so severely Dr. Dixon had to take five stitches in doing up the wound. Mr. Edwards is suffering right much on account of it, but was able to be out some yesterday.

J. D. Cox, of Winterville, spent the day here yesterday.

Miss Lillie O'Daniel, State lecturer and organizer, lectured in the Disciple church Wednesday night and organized a W. C. T. U. society Thursday. We hear her lecture spoken highly of and all who heard her were much pleased.

E. C. Beddingfield, of the Raleigh News and Observer made us a call Wednesday.

The nine months old child of Louis Braxton died at the home of its grandfather here Wednesday morning and was buried yesterday afternoon. Its mother died about four months ago.

Arthur McLawhorn, of New Bern, is here on a visit to relatives.

Charlie Manning, who has been living here about six months has with his family moved to Greenville to live.

Miss Cora Long, of Hobgood, after a visit to Mrs. Osborne C. Nobles, returned to her home Tuesday.

Miss Daisy Carman is visiting at Stokes.

Mrs. Jesse Cannon and Miss Irma Cannon have come home from Seven Springs.

John Alexander is back again from Bertie county.

Cotton sold here Thursday from 10 1/2 to 10 1/4.

C. A. Fair is away up in Maryland, Connecticut and New Jersey visiting relatives.

Those lovely holes, oh, those beautiful holes, they make our sidewalks holy, and the commendation bestowed on our authorities is wholly complete. They are holes and no mistake.

Mrs. J. W. Allen returned to her home in Greenville Thursday after a visit to friends here during the week.

Barnes Sumrell and Major Smith with a force of hands left yesterday morning for Belhaven where they will erect a large brick structure for parties in that place.

Miss Blanche Cannon left Tuesday evening for Greensboro where she will attend the Normal and Industrial college.

There have been sold on this market up to yesterday morning 454 bales of new cotton. Considering the time of season this is an unusual number. We don't believe it can be beaten at any point on the Kinston and Weldon railroad.

Prof. T. Cook Covington arrived yesterday and is now busily engaged preparing for the opening of the graded school next Monday.

Mrs. C. L. Patrick spent Wednesday in Greenville.

Abundantly abundant—Three—Tuesday night the stork visited the home of Mr. Jack McLawhorn near here, and left him three bouncing boys, one of whom has since died. Mr. McLawhorn was married some time last December and these boys are his first.

The protracted meeting still continues in the Methodist church Services are held twice every day.

Strenuous efforts are being made toward the building of a Free Will Baptist church here. We are informed the promoters are very much encouraged and have met with excellent success. The contributions have been liberal.

STATE NORMAL AND INDUSTRIAL COLLEGE

Presidents Office.

Greensboro, N. C., August 24, 1905.

Greensboro Life Insurance Company,

Greensboro, N. C.

Gentlemen:

Enclosed you will find a remittance for the full annual premium on my policy in your company, and with it I wish to send my congratulations upon the extraordinary record of the company during the first month of its life.

I have taken out this policy for three reasons:

1. Because I believe in the substantial business men who are backing the company.
2. Because I like the form of the Income Indemnity Policy.
3. Because I desire very much to encourage, so far as I am able to do so, the building up of strong insurance companies in North Carolina, in order that we may send less of our capital through insurance companies to build up other sections of the country instead of our own.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) CHARLES D. McIVER.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 22, 1905.

With two weeks of court to be followed by a week of carnival, and then a circus, things ought not to get dull right away.

The doctors do not appear to be much of a success at stopping yellow fever, but Jack Frost will stamp it out before many weeks more.

They now say it ain't so again, that Miss Roosevelt did not jump into the bathing tank with her clothes on. Whether she did or not, was simply her business.

We have been asked twice what is Greenville going to do about the evening train connection at Kinston being broken. Does not look like she is going to do anything.

North Carolina insurance companies are doing well in their business, and they will do better since the people have found out how much of the premiums sent to the Northern companies is used for campaign contributions.

Those New York life insurance companies undergoing investigation are trying to make it appear that Democrats were also beneficiaries of their campaign contributions. They will not succeed in getting many people to believe it.

What is the matter with the Boston newspapers? One of them wrote about the late wreck at Bruce, Va., as a premeditated affair on the part of the railroad, intimating that the negroes were got on the train and the draw left open purposely just to kill a lot of them. And now another of the papers is saying Komura, the Japanese peace envoy, who has been sick since the termination of the negotiations, is trying to commit slow suicide in order to escape the wrath of the Japs at home.

"Green goods" operatives in New York sent one of their "come on" letters to a North Carolina postmaster, not knowing that he was postmaster. Instead of going on, as invited to do, the postmaster turned the letter over to the post-office authorities who sent a disguised detective and the swindlers were captured. After being arrested one of them said "we caught a wise man instead of a sucker." But there will continue to be "suckers" for such swindlers to operate on.

Col. Grimes' Great Address.

In the Farmers' National Congress in Richmond last week Hon. J. Bry an Grimes, Secretary of State for North Carolina, delivered an able address on "The Agricultural Resources of the South." We have seen no abler presentation of the South's wealth, and the address may well be filed a way in every office and home for the study of our great resources. The eloquent closing paragraph was as follows: "In this summerland, the land of boundless undeveloped wealth, of inexhaustible resources, lies the future of this great Republic. Here is the most American part of our Union, the dawn of a new era is upon us. Here, beside the farm is being built the factory. Around them are great forests, and iron roads, and deep rivers run to growing ports. Good roads are being built on every hand, postal routes will go to every man's door. A parcels post is being recognized as a necessity soon to come, and everywhere telephones destroy isolation. School houses are near every home, and churches rise in sight of each other. Prosperous, cultured and happy homes abound everywhere. We are rich in all material resources, but richest in brave men and good women. To this home of plenty, this land of promise, our own fair, Sunny Southland, we would love to welcome you!"—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

Decided to Tell the Truth Once.

A Michigan editor grew tired of wielding the whitewash brush in matters of obituaries, decided to reform and tell the truth just once. He commenced as follows on a well known citizen: "Died—aged 57 years, six months and twelve days. Deceased was a mild-mannered private citizen with a mouth for whiskey and an eye for hoodle. He came here in the night with another man's wife and joined the church at the first chance. He owed us seven dollars on the paper, a large meat bill and you could hear him pray six blocks. He died singing 'Jesus Paid It All,' and we think he was right, as he never paid anything himself. He was buried in an asbestos-lined casket, and his many friends threw palm leaf fans in the grave, as he may need them. His tombstone will be a resting place for hoot owls."

Through streets crowded with white robed Koreans, the long lines of imperial soldiers at present arms, Miss Alice, riding in a yellow palanquin, triumphantly traversed the streets of Seoul Tuesday evening, while imperial bands clanged imperial music. Think of it! Our Miss Alice, in all that pomp and splendor. But we'll wager last summer's straw hat that Miss Alice was serene amidst all the fuss and feathers, and that the official yellow palanquin never held a daintier creature. We bank on Miss Alice—Charlotte Observer.

Those boys in Spencer who were caught taking a peep at a meeting of Masons through the ventilator in the ceiling must have been reading Sut Lovingood. It's a pity they did not meet with the same warm reception as did Sut when discovered. That lodge room had a lath and plaster ceiling. Sut undertook to sit on the laths, with his feet over a joist. The lath gave way, but not to sufficient extent to let through his entire body, which shut up like a jack-knife, his shoulders and legs remaining above the ceiling, and he could not extricate himself. One of the Masons standing on a chair, went to work on Sut with a board.

Story of Adolph and Anna.
Adolph, an Austrian artisan, adored Anna, an aristocrat. And Anna adored Adolph. Another aristocrat, Alfred, an ambassador, adored Anna. Anna adored Alfred. Alfred addressed Anna, admiringly. Anna assumed amazement. Alfred abjured Anna. Anna admonished Alfred. Alfred adopted aggressiveness. Alfred's audacity alarmed Anna. Alfred attempted abducting Anna. Anna, afraid and agitated, acquainted Adolph. Adolph accused Alfred. Alfred, angered, abused Adolph awfully. Adolph answered Alfred. Alfred attacked Adolph. Anna, aghast, aided Adolph. Adolph and Anna almost annihilated Alfred. Alfred abdicated absolutely. Anna accepted Adolph. Adolph and Anna absolutely absconded and abandoned Austria altogether, arriving at Antwerp, and always abiding abroad afterward.—Exchange.

Rest After Meals.
"After dinner sit awhile," is a time honored saying. It is also a very true and physiologically correct one, for when our food is undergoing digestion our body is doing a great deal of important work. If, therefore, we persist in taking exercise after food we are really "burning the candle at both ends" and giving our body double work to do, with the result that indigestion sooner or later attacks us. We should therefore rest after meals, and before them as well, and the feeling of restfulness and indisposition to work just after a meal is a natural warning and indication that we should seek repose at that time—not necessarily sleep, but quietness and rest.

A Lawyer's Satire.
Lord Chancellor Eldon pronounced the word "lien" as if written lion. Sir Arthur Pigott, a distinguished chancery lawyer, maintained that "lien" was to be pronounced like lean, and one day each made a stand in court for his favorite pronunciation, whereupon Jekyll, a witty lawyer, perpetrated this rhyming pun, which alludes to the parsimonious arrangements of the chancellor's kitchen:
Sir Arthur, Sir Arthur, why, what do you mean
By saying the chancellor's lion is lean?
D'ye think that his kitchen's so bad as all that.
That nothing within it can ever get fat?
—London News.

The Way He Said It.
The young wife was weeping bitterly. Her mother softly stole in and put her arms about her.
"What's the matter, Dolly?" she asked.
"Oh, I am so miserable!" she wailed.
"For what reason, dear?"
"I—I asked Tootsey this m—m—morning if he w—w—would marry again if I d—d—died, and he—"
"What! Did the brute tell you he would?"
"N—n—no. That what's the matter. He j—just looked at me as if I had accused him of b—being crazy and said, 'Well, I should rather think not!' And oh, mother, it was the way he said it!"—Kansas City Independent.

A Slight Mistake.
"Whenever an unknown person of distinguished appearance enters my office, I am reminded of the experience of Frank Vanderlip," said a senator's secretary. "When Vanderlip was Secretary Gage's private secretary, before he got well acquainted he paid little attention to the people he did not know. One day a member of the cabinet called on Secretary Gage and was ignored for some time by Vanderlip, finally going into the private room unannounced. The cabinet officer complained to President McKinley, and the president mentioned it to Secretary Gage, who thereupon reprimanded Vanderlip.
"The next day Vanderlip turned over a new leaf. One of the first persons to enter was a distinguished looking old fellow with a patriarchal beard. Vanderlip received him with great consideration, handing him a chair, which the old fellow took with gravity and some wonderment. Seating himself opposite, Vanderlip asked, with a most engaging smile, 'What can I do for you, sir?'
"Oh, nothing," replied the visitor. "I just came to wind the clocks."—Washington Star.

A Useful System.
The wife of a distinguished congressman is enduring some good natured chaff over the recent failure of a theory which she has held as to the uses of memory systems. Not long ago at a large dinner she was telling of a remarkably gifted man whom she had lately met, but whose name had escaped her.
"I am sure," she said, while the company waited eagerly for the system to work, "I am sure his name began with B and had three syllables"—a long pause. "Oh, yes, I remember!" she announced finally. "It was Moore."—Harper's Weekly.

Necessary.
A young Scotch minister, with an exalted opinion of his forensic powers, said one morning to his man in the kirk: "I don't think, John, I need put the gown on. It's only an incumbrance, though some folk seem to think it makes a preacher more impressive."
Verge John — Aye, aye, sir. That's just it. It makes ye mair impressive, an' ye need it, sir; ye need it.—London Sporting Times.

His Criticism.
Edmund Burke once showed a painting to Sir Joshua Reynolds, whose opinion he invited. Sir Joshua looked long and attentively at it. "Well," he said, "I really don't know what to say. It's a cleverish thing, but whether there's sufficient promise in it to justify my advising the young man to adopt art as a calling I really cannot say." It was Reynolds' own work, done many years before.

An Odd Compliment.
An Irishman was in the company of a widow to whom he was paying his addresses, when on giving a shudder she made use of the common expression that some one was walking over her grave.
Pat, anxious for every opportunity of showing his affection for the lady of his choice, exclaimed:
"By the powers, ma'am, but I wish I was the happy man."

Conviction Follows Trial

When buying loose coffee or anything your grocer happens to have in his bin, how do you know what you are getting? Some queer stories about coffee that is sold in bulk, could be told, if the people who handle it (grocers), cared to speak out.
Could any amount of mere talk have persuaded millions of housekeepers to use the leader of all package coffees for over a quarter of a century, if they had not found it superior to all other brands in Purity, Strength, Flavor and Uniformity?

This popular success of LION COFFEE can be due only to inherent merit. There is no stronger proof of merit than continued and increasing popularity.
If the verdict of MILLIONS OF HOUSEKEEPERS does not convince you of the merits of LION COFFEE, it costs you but a trifle to buy a package. It is the easiest way to convince yourself, and to make you a PERMANENT PURCHASER.
LION COFFEE is sold only in 1 lb. sealed packages, and reaches you as pure and clean as when it left our factory.
