ANOTHER TRAIN NEEDED.

Can Be Had With Proper United Effort

It has long been apparent that another daily train is needed on this branch of the Atlantic Coast Line, and THE REFLECTOR believes the time is now ripe to secure it if the proper effort is made. More than two years ago an effort was made to get another train on this road that for a time looked like would meet with success, but other things came along that sidetracked the movement for the time being. A Sunday train was put on, but this was of no practical benefit except for getting mail on Sundays and to give people who desired to do so an opportunity to travel on Sunday, yet this did not help the congestion of freight and the slow handling of passengers and mails on week days.

Then there was a make-shift of an evening connection with trains going west from Kinston that gave some relief to passengers and mail when the connection could be made. Now by a change of schedule on the Atlantic & North Carolina road this connection in the evening is practically broken, so that all the dependence this ninety-odd mile branch of Coast line is one mail train and one freight a day, and this is totally inadequate to the need of the towns along the road. It works to the serious disadvantage of business and inconvenience of travel.

There is ample business on this road for two trains a day carrying mail and passengers. And one freight train that is compelled to handle both local and through business is not sufficient. This trouble, as THE REFLECTOR has pointed out several times before, could be remedied with a combination train of passengers, mail and solid cars of freight leaving Weldon in the morning on a fast schedule and return in the evening.

This improvement, however, is not coming if our people continue to keep silent and not ask for it. With proper effort it can be had and right now is the time to be acting.

OAKLEY ITEMS.

OAKLEY, N. C., Sept. 25, 1905.

S. A. Congleton and wife spent three days at Hassell's last week.

Miss Mary Taylor returned home last week after spending a few days in Tarboro.

Mrs. J. T. Jenkins and daughter Mrs. E. Rogers, visited in Robersonville Wednesday.

Quite a crowd from here attended church at Great Swamp Sunday.

E. Buck left here Saturday on the 6 p. m. train for Chocowinity to spend Sunday but he found the mosquitoes so bad he walked back same night.

We have two markets in this town, no beef cattle allowed to be sold here when known to be over 35 years old, it must show signs of having been fed as much as three times in the last year.

G. B. Overton and family, of Robersonville, spent Sunday here, the guests of Mrs. Sallie Williams.

J. W. Phippen, of Washington, spent Sunday here with W. M. Skinner.

Last Saturday the Oakley and Eureka team met on the Robersonville diamond. The game closed 11 to 9 in favor of Oakley. The boys hope some team will come over and give them a little amusement. This is the fourth time these clubs have played and it stands 3 to 1 in Oakley's favor.

I am a candidate for the nomination for president in 1908. Of course I could not afford to take the little office but I want to see how much I will beat W. J. Bryan. If I get elected there will be no inaugural ball, it will be an old time corn shucking.

W. N. Shine, of Kennonsville spent last Sunday here with friends.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Adopted by Ladies of the Baptist Church.

Whereas, it has pleased God to remove from our midst Miss Myrtle Wilson, our beloved sister and friend, therefore be it resolved;

1st. That while we bow in humble submission to Him who doeth all things well, we, in behalf of the members of the Missionary and Aid societies of Memorial Baptist church, feel that we have lost a valuable and useful member, the community a sweet and noble life, and all who knew her an earnest and sympathetic friend whose daily life was a constant and unflinching source of inspiration and comfort.

2nd. That we extend to the bereaved family our deepest sympathy in this hour of pain and suffering and pray that the God of love may uphold and sustain them in their irreparable loss.

3rd. That a copy of these resolutions be placed upon the minutes of the societies, a copy be sent THE REFLECTOR for publication, also one to the family.

AYDEN ITEMS.

AYDEN, N. C., Sept. 26, 1905.

We are requested to announce that the directors will give free tuition to two or three boys who will perform the necessary work in and around the graded school during the present session. This is a good opportunity for some smart boys and we hope it will be taken advantage of.

Miss Fannie Dixon, of Grifton, came up Friday to enter the graded school here.

Ex-Sheriff W. H. Harrington was here Friday.

Mrs. R. W. Smith has returned from a visit to Kinston.

There were services Sunday in the Free Will Seminary conducted by Eld. Phillips. A large congregation was in attendance.

If the Ayden graded school hasn't got the prettiest set of lady teachers in the state, then mark us down as no judge of beauty. Our opinion on this subject has never yet been brought into question. We can prove all we say by Prof. Ragsdale. He called at our house Sunday evening, but he didn't ask for us, still we venture the assertion what he lacked having a good time no one else need seek for.

Wood Kittrell, of Winterville, was here Sunday.

Miss Minnie Cooper, of Washington, has been visiting Mrs. J. J. Hines.

Mrs. Marcellus Cooper, after a pleasant visit to her brother, Stancill Hodges here, has returned to her home in Washington.

Mrs. Marion Crawford, of Winterville, has been here on a visit to Marcellus Letchworth.

Miss Dora Manning spent from Friday evening until Monday with friends in Ayden.

Miss Ethel Burnett after several weeks stay with her sister, Mrs. Osborne C. Nobles, left Monday for her home in Oak City.

C. A. Fair who has been away for the past two weeks up in Atlantic City and other summer resorts, came home Sunday.

There were 226 bales of cotton sold on the market here last week. The price paid was from 10¢ to 10½ cents.

On the first call of roll at the opening of the graded school yesterday morning 115 pupils responded to their names.

Out at the Ayden Lumber camp Sunday night Tom Purvis, a notorious drunk negro, without the slightest provocation, cut and slashed Elijah Manning, a very peaceable and industrious negro, with a razor and then fled. The wounds are of a serious nature and it is not yet determined as to what the result will be. Monday morning Deputy Constable Bronson Tripp boarded the train with a warrant for Gold Point, at Parmele he caught his man, but while waiting for a return train his prisoner managed to make his escape. Mr. Tripp is full of regrets but he couldn't help it. This was his first case.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Jenkins died Saturday night and was buried in the cemetery Sunday afternoon.

John Z. Brooks, of Grifton, was here yesterday.

Overseers throughout this township are now busily engaged working their roads. Good roads are a necessity to success and prosperity and we hope advantage will be taken of this extremely fine weather and all roads in the county put in first class order. Wherever good roads are seen is a sure sign of thrift and enterprise and we hope the overseers will realize this fact and act accordingly.

Presidents Office.

Greensboro, N. C., August 24, 1905.
Greensboro Life Insurance Company,
Greensboro, N. C.

Gentlemen: Enclosed you will find a remittance for the full annual premium on my policy in your company, and with it I wish to send my congratulations upon the extraordinary record of the company during the first month of its life.

I have taken out this policy for three reasons:

1. Because I believe in the substantial business men who are backing the company.
2. Because I like the form of the Income Indemnity Policy.
3. Because I desire very much to encourage, so far as I am able to do so, the building up of strong insurance companies in North Carolina, in order that we may send less of our capital through insurance companies to build up other sections of the country instead of our own.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) CHARLES D. McIVER.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 26, 1905.
 WINTERVILLE HIGH SCHOOL.

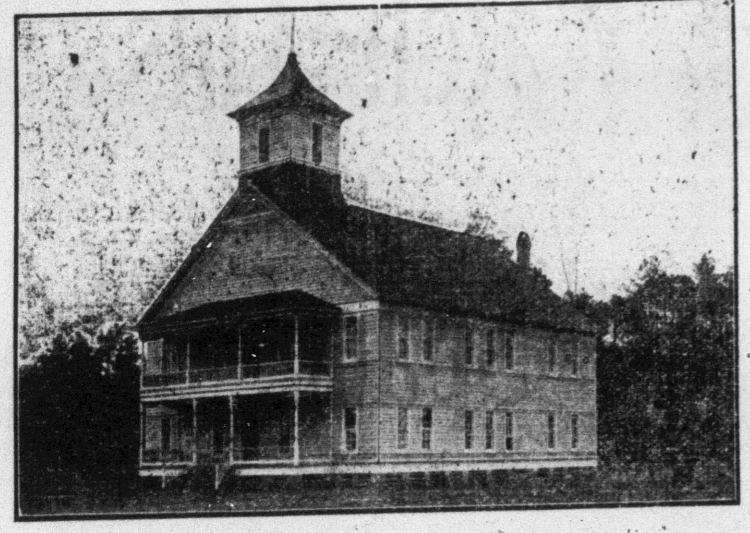

A Progressive Institution That is the Pride of This Section.

It is always a great pleasure to us to note progress and especially along educational lines. No greater blessing can come to any people than the establishment of an educational institution which is to be properly conducted and surrounded by influences which tend to form character while it is developing brain power. No better illustration of this kind of an institu-

Association in that year the building and grounds were donated to association to be equipped and become an associational school.
 It was evident that early provision must be made for dormitories for the pupils, and in the following summer what is known as the girls' dormitory was built. This is a handsome structure containing nineteen bedrooms, parlor and dining room. This was filled when the next session opened and plans had to be laid for another dormitory. This, known as the boys' dormitory, was built the next year and contained fifteen rooms. By this time the three buildings and equipment represented an outlay of about $13,000.

During the scholastic year 1900-1901 the number of pupils enrolled reached 156, of which number 34 were boarders and six counties were represented. 1901-1902 the enrollment reached 218, the boarders being 51, with nine counties represented. 1902-1903 the enrollment reached 255, the boarders being better work is being done nowhere.

 Prof. G. E. Lineberry has been principal of the school since its organization and his heart and energy are enlisted in the work. The school is indeed fortunate in having such a man at its head, and his assistants are selected with an eye to their ability and character.
 The growth of this excellent school has indeed been remarkable and will continue. It is already the pride of Pitt county and the Neuse Association, and we see no reason why it should not become the educational center for all Eastern North Carolina. There is ample room for more buildings and equipment, and with the moral and Christian influences surrounding it we expect to see Winterville High School without a peer in North Carolina.
 There is wisdom in concentrating money and teachers in one great school rather than dissipating both over a large territory with a number of schools. The very best advantages can be had cheaper in this way. The impress made upon every boy and girl in a strong institution is entirely different from what it is in a weak one. Everything favors bringing enough boys and girls together to give them the very best advantages at the very least cost. This is what is looked for in Winterville High School. Its friends want to see the good work going on there enlarged and strengthened until it shall in every way meet the educational needs of the age.

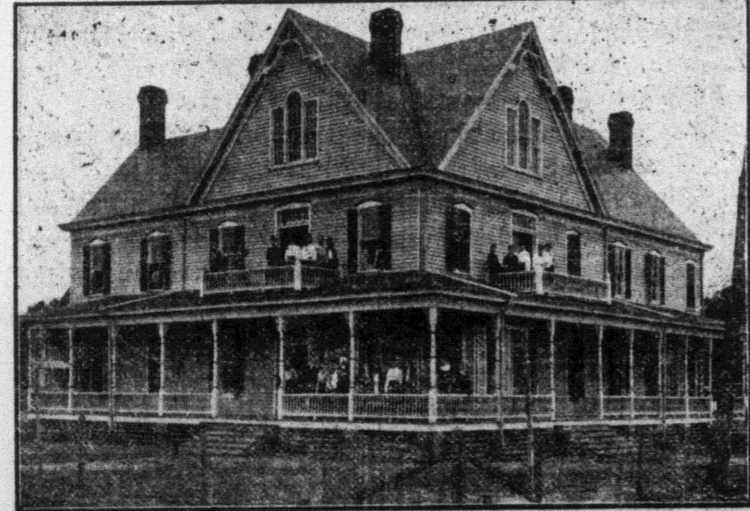

ACADEMY BUILDING.

tion has been had than the subject of this sketch. The Winterville High School located at Winterville, a splendid growing town, about six miles South of Greenville, is in our opinion one of the first institutions of its kind in North Carolina. With a board of trustees composed of the best men from a number of counties, with fine moral and religious surroundings, with an elegant Christian gentleman and scholar of marked ability at its head assisted by a competent and consecrated corps of teachers, with splendid equipment, both in buildings and furnishings, it is preparing and sending out young men with character and education to take their places in life's work. A ready influence is being felt in all of Eastern North Carolina and it is with pleasure and pride that we are giving to the public this brief and inadequate account of its organization and progress.

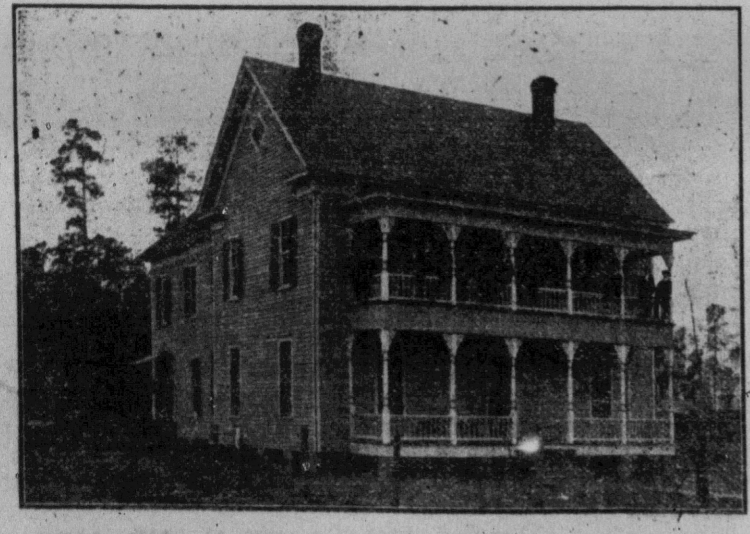

The growth of Winterville High School since its foundation has been remarkable. The first beginning of the school was in the fall of 1899 when it opened with 22 pupils in a two-room house that had been rented for that purpose. This was only a temporary arrangement until the permanent quarters for the school could be made ready. Prof. G. E. Lineberry and one other teacher constituted the faculty at that time.
 A. G. Cox and Dr. B. T. Cox had donated a four-acre lot and the citizens of the community joined in building the first house on the property. This was a well arranged two-story building containing four recitation rooms, four smaller rooms for music and art and a large chapel. This was completed early in 1900 and at the meeting of Neuse Baptist 92, with eleven counties represented.

 1903-1904 the enrollment reached 201, boarders 78, with thirteen counties represented.
 1904-1905 the enrollment was 222, boarders 85, with eleven counties represented.
 Two of these years arrangement was made for public school scholars of the district to be admitted which accounts for the enrollment being larger in those years.
 The school has so grown in reputation and popularity that it was seen in advance; that the school would be full, and the gratification of trustees and faculty can be imagined when the session of 1905-1906 opened with 150 present, 94 of them boarders and 18 counties represented. This large number of boarders so taxed the capacity of the dormitories that a dwelling house near the school was purchased for temporary use and work commenced at once on building another sixteen room dormitory. Already this is nearly completed and ready for use and every room in it is engaged by pupils waiting to come. The faculty now numbers seven instructors and

It is a Desperate Creature and Hunters Give It a Wise Bath.
"Talking about fierce things, the wild hog is about the toughest member I have ever tackled in the woods," said a man from Arkansas, "and if you have never met him in his wildest state you have no conception of his desperate nature. He is thoroughly desperate and thoroughly vicious. He has that kind of viciousness which invites trouble. I never shall forget an experience I had with a wild boar some years ago during high water. The whole St. Francis basin was overflowed. I had gone into the bottoms from the hills for the purpose of rescuing some stock. I had carried my dogs along, thinking I might hunt bear while in a section which was notably good for this kind of sport at that time.

"Just about sundown one day my dogs opened up in a wild, almost impenetrable part of the section I was in, and from the way they barked I thought they had a bear at bay. I got to them as soon as possible. The cane and undergrowth were so thick that I was within a few yards of the dogs before I could see them. I could see that they were a bit timid about the attack, a thing I had never observed before when they had a bear at bay, and this roused my suspicion a bit, though I was not quite prepared for the thing that happened a few seconds later. Before I could realize my peril a wild boar, one of the largest I had ever seen, dashed out of a clump of cane and made straight for me. Fortunately there was a low limbed, inclining tree a few feet from where I stood. I leaped up the tree just in time to save my hide. The hog missed me by a mere scratch. The dogs were quick to take advantage of the situation and made a fierce attack. They fastened on to the hog's ears almost in a jiffy. His fight to free himself was awful and bloody. It was a frightful mix up, and my dogs were suffering fearfully. For a time I could not help them. I could not shoot without shooting one of my dogs. They were being cut all to pieces by the boar's tusks. But once in the fight not one of them would quit. The loss of blood made them desperate. Directly, during a lull in the scramble, I got a chance to use my rifle and plugged the boar between the eyes. The fight was over then, but my dogs were in bad shape. The wild boar is about the most desperate thing I have ever encountered."

THE WILD HOG.

It is a Desperate Creature and Hunters Give It a Wise Bath.

"Talking about fierce things, the wild hog is about the toughest member I have ever tackled in the woods," said a man from Arkansas, "and if you have never met him in his wildest state you have no conception of his desperate nature. He is thoroughly desperate and thoroughly vicious. He has that kind of viciousness which invites trouble. I never shall forget an experience I had with a wild boar some years ago during high water. The whole St. Francis basin was overflowed. I had gone into the bottoms from the hills for the purpose of rescuing some stock. I had carried my dogs along, thinking I might hunt bear while in a section which was notably good for this kind of sport at that time.

"Just about sundown one day my dogs opened up in a wild, almost impenetrable part of the section I was in, and from the way they barked I thought they had a bear at bay. I got to them as soon as possible. The cane and undergrowth were so thick that I was within a few yards of the dogs before I could see them. I could see that they were a bit timid about the attack, a thing I had never observed before when they had a bear at bay, and this roused my suspicion a bit, though I was not quite prepared for the thing that happened a few seconds later. Before I could realize my peril a wild boar, one of the largest I had ever seen, dashed out of a clump of cane and made straight for me. Fortunately there was a low limbed, inclining tree a few feet from where I stood. I leaped up the tree just in time to save my hide. The hog missed me by a mere scratch. The dogs were quick to take advantage of the situation and made a fierce attack. They fastened on to the hog's ears almost in a jiffy. His fight to free himself was awful and bloody. It was a frightful mix up, and my dogs were suffering fearfully. For a time I could not help them. I could not shoot without shooting one of my dogs. They were being cut all to pieces by the boar's tusks. But once in the fight not one of them would quit. The loss of blood made them desperate. Directly, during a lull in the scramble, I got a chance to use my rifle and plugged the boar between the eyes. The fight was over then, but my dogs were in bad shape. The wild boar is about the most desperate thing I have ever encountered."
—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Retort Vicious.

"A number of years ago when I lived in Woburn, Mass.," said a well known Bostonian the other day in the Boston Herald, "a Dr. Kelley resided there and was the leading physician of the town. Later there came a young physician who was far less successful than his neighbor. In fact, he lost so many cases that many remarks were made concerning him.

"One morning while out making calls the two doctors met, Dr. Kelley having one of his patients riding with him. Dr. Brown, the other physician, saluted him with: 'Ah, good morning, doctor. I see you take your patients to ride?'
"Yes," said the other. 'I see Griggs takes yours.'
"Griggs was the undertaker."

India's Sacred Vulture.

A specimen of the very rare "Pondicherry" or "sacred vulture," of India and Africa was shot recently in South Africa. Its measurements were: From tip to tip of wings, 106 inches; from beak to tip of tail, 42 inches. The "sacred vulture," which grows to an immense size, has its head bare, neck covered with folds of skin of a pinkish hue and tremendously powerful beak and claws. It is described as very self assertive, driving off all other birds from their prey. It builds enormous nests of sticks and leaves and lays but one egg during the season.

Properly Inquisitive.

He was sitting in the parlor with his best girl. Shortly after 9 o'clock her little brother entered the room and after some time asked the visitor:
"Say, Mr. Jones, can you swim?"
"Now, Johnnie, you go out of here. You shouldn't ask Mr. Jones such a question."
"Oh, I don't mind," said Jones, evidently trying to make a favorable impression on the youngster. "Certainly I can swim. But what made you ask me that question?"
"Well," replied Johnnie as he backed to the door, "I heard sis tell ma that she was going to throw you overboard."—Albany Journal.

In London's Subway.

We all know the tiresome traveler who loves to ask the name of each station at which a train stops during a journey. A passenger in a third class carriage on the underground railway had put this question to everybody in turn as station after station on the Inner Circle was passed. At last an old woman, who had not spoken before, answered the inevitable inquiry by putting up her nose and sniffing critically. "Westminster bridge," she then said gravely. "They all smells different."—London Chronicle.

THE WELL DRESSED MAN

Should consider with great forethought the suit he is to buy and the store he is to buy from for the coming season. His general appearance will depend largely upon the fit of his clothes, and the CLOTHES he wears.

Good Cloth: This is the foundation of your suit. Avoid those unreliable firms who deal in shoddy and pin your faith to "GRIFFON" Clothes.

Good Fit: This is another essential that you should exercise with more care than all others. A poor fitting suit is a poor piece of property. But it matters not, how tall you are, how slim you are, how stout you are, how short you are, we have 'em to fit your form. A "Griffon" suit has the distinction of being distinctly stylish.

All the new things are here. At any price from $10.00 to $22.50 we will make it very interesting to you. Bring your shoulders with you.
