FALL OPENING.

J. B. Cherry & Co. Entertain the Ladies

Today J. B. Cherry & Co., held their opening of new style fall and winter goods. The openings at this store are always looked forward to with pleasure by the ladies for they know this firm always carries the best to be had. The display of this season's goods was magnificent there being a great variety of chiffon velvets and dress goods, henrietta cloths, crepe de chine, new plaid silks, baby Irish crochet laces in all over and bands, lace curtains, buttons and dress trimmings, long cloaks and rain coats, and many other pretty things.

The store was splendidly decorated with draperies, autumn leaves and red flowers. Beautiful souvenirs, colored chrysanthemums were given to the ladies who visited the opening.

Chewed Ear Nearly Off.

Charlie Pope, fireman and Ernest Jones, porter, on the A. C. L. passenger train, got into an altercation on the train before it reached Kinston last night, and Pope chewed Jones' ear nearly off. The row was squelched and the two men assisted in putting up the train, but when they started off, in the presence of Capt. George Smith, the engineer, Jones knocked Pope down, thus renewing the row. They were parted however, before anything more serious was done. Both are colored men.—Kinston Free Press.

The Great Van Amburg Show.

Our citizens will soon have an opportunity of visiting one of the good shows of the country. The Great Van Amburg Show will pitch its tents in Greenville on Oct. 10th. The show promises to come this year larger and better than ever before. The many up-to-date features presented by this show are novel and startling. The horses and trained ponies are the best. Elephants, camels, lions and a large collection of trained animals are to be seen in the grand free street parade, in the forenoon on the day of exhibition.

STATE NEWS.

Fakers following in the wake of the Van Amburg circus, fleeced a number of people at Louisburg. One prominent farmer was buccinated out of five hundred dollars.

The suit against C. M. Bernard for $20,000 damages for ruining a girl in Raleigh has been started in Wake county Superior court by the father of the girl.

A hundred thousand dollar cotton mill is to be located at Statesville.

Governor Glenn has returned from his New England trip.

A case out of the ordinary came off at Durham Monday. A warrant was issued against a man for being drunk. The man sent the justice word to go to his home to hold the trial. The request was complied with, the trial was held in due form, the man was adjudged guilty and was fined $2. This made the man mad and he proceeded to "cuss out" the justice, whereupon the latter fined him $10 and sentenced him to ten days in jail for contempt of court. The man was taken from his home to jail to serve the sentence.

Greensboro Life Insurance Company, Greensboro, N. C.

Gentlemen:

Enclosed you will find a remittance for the full annual premium on my policy in your company, and with it I wish to send my congratulations upon the extraordinary record of the company during the first month of its life.

I have taken out this policy for three reasons:

1. Because I believe in the substantial business men who are backing the company.
2. Because I like the form of the Income Indemnity Policy.
3. Because I desire very much to encourage, so far as I am able to do so, the building up of strong insurance companies in North Carolina, in order that we may send less of our capital through insurance companies to build up other sections of the country instead of our own.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) CHARLES D. McIVER.

PITT COUNTY PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

As the scholars of the county are soon to begin another year's work, it may not be out of place to review briefly what has been accomplished during the past two years and make a few predictions as to the coming session.

Two years ago the board of education realized that the time had come to put a man in charge of the schools, giving all of his time to them. The progress made during these two years has shown the wisdom of their action. At this time there was not a public school in the county employing more than one teacher. Neither was there a single local tax district. Now there is a school in Greenville employing a competent superintendent with seven additional teachers, with an enrollment of more than four hundred. At Bethel there is a school with a well equipped man as superintendent and four assistant teachers, with an enrollment of more than two hundred. At Ayden there is a graded school with a competent superintendent and four assistants, with an enrollment of more than two hundred. At Farmville the school has a splendid superintendent and three additional teachers, with an enrollment of two hundred or more. At Grifton there is also a good school with a splendid superintendent and three additional teachers, enrolling between one and two hundred. At Centerville two ladies are employed and the school enrolls about eighty pupils. At Ballard's X Roads the school employs two ladies and the enrollment last year was seventy eight.

All of these districts, except the last two, are local tax districts and more than $12,000 of special taxes are paid. The teachers in all these schools are as thoroughly qualified for work, and are doing as good work, as any teachers in the state. The rural schools have shown almost an equal improvement. There were one hundred and five white teachers employed in the schools of the county last year, and only three of these held second grade certificates. Twenty-five or thirty of the rural school buildings were neatly painted last year, and in the past two years there have been built thirty new and commodious buildings.

In nearly all the districts the old desks, etc., are being replaced by comfortable ones. The school finances have been unusually well looked after. The last sheriff of the county, O. W. Harrington, was a fine collector and was always prompt in paying the school fund, having at all times an interest and pride in the development of this department of work in the county.

The appropriations for the present year will, we are informed, be fully as much as they were last year and will, therefore, insure a five months' term in every district. The enrollment and average attendance of the schools is increasing gradually all the time. The character of the work done is improving rapidly. The teachers are becoming better and better qualified to do up to date work. A live teachers' association is exerting a wonderful influence for the betterment of the schools.

With the work in the hands of a splendid, progressive and wise board of education as the present one composed of A. G. Cox, L. C. Arthur and B. M. Whitehurst is, and with a prudent, wise and aggressive superintendent as Prof. W. H. Ragsdale has shown himself to be, we feel safe in predicting that the schools will continue to grow more and more efficient, and that at no distant day we shall have ideal schools in the entire county. One thing remains for the accomplishment of this, and that is the hearty support of our entire people.

Criticism as it is generally done never helps anything, but always tends to pull down. We know that the men who have this work in charge have at heart the best interest of every citizen and child in the entire county, and it behooves all of us to give our loyal support to the work, and in so doing we will aid in giving our own children the best advantages educationally and thereby give them an equal chance in life with the most favored.

STRIKE AMONG UNION PRINTERS.

The strike among union printers has reached North Carolina, and on Monday the union printers in the different establishments of Charlotte threw up their jobs and walked out. This was not because the Charlotte printers had any grievance against their employers, but because the International Typographical Union, that is trying to enforce a demand for eight hours' work at a full day's pay, ordered them to quit.

This movement, we believe, started some time ago in Chicago and has spread to various parts of the country. It is the most absurd demand of which organized laborers have been guilty in late years. The employers of union printers are right in their determination not to yield to the demand and the public ought to uphold them in it. A man has no more right to demand a full day's pay for eight hours' work than a grocer has to charge a customer for ten pounds of sugar and only give him eight pounds, or a railroad to collect fare for a hundred miles from a passenger and carry him only eighty miles. The principal involved is the same.

True, a man has a right to work or not work, just as he chooses, provided he has visible means of support, but he has no right to demand pay for work which he does not perform. If he engages to do a day's work and falls short in his time, he is obtaining wages dishonestly for the short time. This strike among union printers can accomplish no good. It will inconvenience employers for a time, but just think of the number of men out of employment with winter coming on and their families dependent upon them. How are these to be supported?

The only persons benefited by these strikes are the officers of the unions who get large salaries out of the contributions of the members and live in idleness. Worse still, they will engineer a strike and then sell out whenever there is an opportunity to make money for themselves by so doing. Experience has proven this time and again in late years.

The printing business affords a good opening for people willing to work. There is great demand for non-union printers. It is a business that young men and boys and girls of energy and fair knowledge can readily learn, and they can find an opportunity of learning in almost any printing establishment.

A young man seldom gives a thought to the harvest when he sows wild oats.

A LOGICAL CAD!

As a Wrong Had Been Done, Somebody Had to Suffer.
Did you ever hear of the robber who tried to enter a second story window in Cairo and broke his leg?
Well, the robber went to the cadi and complained about it. He said the man's window was badly made or he wouldn't have fallen out, and so he wanted justice. The cadi said that was reasonable, and he summoned the owner of the house. The owner confessed the house was poorly built, but claimed that the carpenter was to blame, not he. This struck the cadi as sound logic, and he sent for the carpenter. "The charge is, alas, too true," said the carpenter, "but the masonry was at fault, and I couldn't fit a good window." So the cadi, impressed with the reasonableness of the argument, sent for the mason. The man pleaded guilty, but explained that a pretty girl in a blue gown had passed the building while he was at work and that his attention had been diverted from his duty. The cadi thereupon demanded that the girl be brought before him. "It is true," she said, "that I am pretty, but that is no fault of mine. If my gown attracted the mason the dyer should be punished and not I."
"Quite true," said the cadi. "Send for the dyer." The dyer was brought to the bar and pleaded guilty.
That settled it. The cadi told the robber to take the guilty wretch to his house and hang him from the doorsill, and the people rejoiced that justice had been done. But pretty soon the crowd returned to the cadi's court, complaining that the dyer was too long to be properly hung from his doorsill. "Oh, well," said the cadi, who by that time was getting tired of the business, "go and find a short dyer and hang him. Somebody's got to suffer."

How Clove Trees Are Raised.
Zanzibar is the principal source of the world's clove supply. The seeds are planted in long trenches and kept well watered, and in the course of forty days the shoots appear above ground. They are carefully watered and looked after for two years, when they should be about three feet high. Then they are transplanted—about thirty feet apart—and well watered until they become rooted. From that time they require only ordinary care. In five or six years they come into bearing, when they are of the size of ordinary pear trees and very shapely.
Then the young plantation is a pretty sight. The leaves of various shades of green tinged with red serve to set off the clusters of dull red clove buds.

The Captain's Comment.
An old sea captain and his mate, feeling hungry, the other afternoon went into a restaurant on the water front and ordered dinner. The waiter, with considerable flourish, placed a plate of thin, watery looking liquid before each of them.
"Say, young fellow, what's this stuff?" shouted the captain, gazing in amazement at the concoction under his nose.
"Soup, sir," replied the waiter.
"Soup!" shouted the old sea dog.
"Soup! Bill!"—turning to his mate —"just think of that! Here you and me have been sailing on soup all our lives an' never knowed it till now!"—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Arithmetic and Dresses.
Teacher—If your mother had twenty-five yards of stuff and made a dress requiring but eighteen yards how much would she have left?
Little Girl—Mamma can't make her own dresses. She has tried often, and they are always either too—Teacher—Suppose she sent it to a dressmaker, how much would the dressmaker send back?
Little Girl—Depends on which dressmaker she sent it to. Some wouldn't send back any.
Teacher (impatiently)—Suppose she sent it to an honest one?
Little Girl—Some of the honest-est ones cut things to waste so that there is never anything left, no matter how much you send 'em.

A Scene of Danger.
A bishop was once invited to dinner at a certain house. During the course of the meal he was surprised to hear the little daughter of the house state that it was dangerous to go to church.
"Why do you say that?" said the bishop.
"Oh," said the little child, "I heard papa telling mamma that last Sunday there was a big gun in the pulpit, and the canon was in the reading desk, and the choir murdered the anthem, and the organist drowned the choir."

The Longest Name in the World.
The town that boasts of the longest name in the world is in Wales.
The name is Llanfairpwllgwyllgogerychwyrndrobwllllantysiliog-ogoch, which is abbreviated for colloquial and postal purposes into "Llanfair, P. G." The pronunciation of the full name will be made easier if it be remembered that the "w" in Welch is pronounced like the "oo" in "food" and the "ll" like the "er" in "certain," while the "ll" is pronounced almost like "chi," though more accurately like "chi" of the Germans.

INSTANCES OF ECONOMY.

One Man Who Got Better Because It Was Cheaper Than to Die.
The Scottish miser who blew out the candle that stood beside his deathbed, saying that "moonlight was good enough to die by," had a worthy rival in the economical French officer who thus explained to a wondering Englishman how he contrived to live upon a pension of 5 francs a week:
"See you, mine friend, it is verree simple ven you do know it. On Sunday I dine vid one friend of mine, and den I do eat so much dat I vant no more till Wednesday. Den on Wednesday I do buy one great big dish of tripe, and dat make me so sick dat I can eat notting till Sunday again!"
Even this masterpiece of frugality, however, is fairly matched by the exploit recorded of a rich but parsimonious English merchant who had been ordered abroad for the good of his health. But his health seemed to get very little good by the change, for he came back worse than he went and was thought to be actually dying when the ship came in sight of Southampton, the port for which she was bound. Hearing this, the captain himself went hastily down to see if anything could be done for his passenger. But the latter, whose temper was evidently not at all improved by his approaching end, received him very sullenly and would hardly utter a word. At length the invalid asked abruptly:
"How much do they charge a man for landing on this pier?"
"A penny," was the reply.
"And how much is the charge, then, for landing a corpse?" inquired the dying man, with undisguised eagerness.
"Two shillings," answered the surprised captain.
"Well," cried the invalid, with a burst of righteous indignation, "if you suppose, my friend, that I'm such a fool as to pay 1s. 11d. extra for dying, you're very much mistaken! Sooner than let myself be imposed upon to that extent I'll recover!"
And it is recorded that he did.—
Los Angeles Times.

Timing an Egg.
Cooks are often accused of want of method, but the Aunt Dinah in Howard Paul's egg story is not open to any such reproach. Invariably when she put the eggs in the sauc-pan she began singing "Rock of Ages" and sang through two verses.
"Aunt Dinah," asked Mr. Paul, "are there not three verses in that hymn?" "Dar is, massa, but I sings only two when I wants 'em soft and three when I wants 'em hard." His other egg story is good too. He was traveling on a Pennsylvania railway, and when his breakfast was brought the eggs were underdone. "What time are we making on this train?" he asked the waiter. "A mile a minute, sir." "Then boil the eggs another mile, and they'll be quite right."—London Truth.

Fish and Water.
Fish are nearly the same weight as the water in which they live, so that they can move in it with great ease. The majority of them also have an air bladder inside of the body, which enables them to go up or down in the water at will. When a fish desires to go down deep it can press the air out of this bladder by means of certain muscles and thus increase the weight of its body, and when it wishes to rise again it takes off the pressure, the bladder fills with air again, and its body becomes light enough to rise.

She Knew His Skill.
He had been out for a day's fishing, and as he proudly displayed the contents of his basket to his wife she exclaimed:
"Oh, John, aren't they beauties?
But I've been so anxious for the last hour, dear!"
"Foolish little one!" said John carressingly. "Why, what could have happened to me?"
"Oh, I didn't worry about you, love, but it grew so late I was afraid before you got back to town the fish markets would all be closed."

Just What He Wanted.
Sarcastic Father—Julia, that young man Smily has been here three nights in succession, and it has been nearly midnight when he left. Hadn't you better invite him to bring his trunk and make his home with us?
Innocent Daughter—Oh, papa, may I? It is just what he wanted, but he was too bashful to ask you.
He'll be delighted when I tell him this evening.

Knew His Landlord.
One night Sir Henry Irving on getting into a cab gave the driver a fine Havana cigar. By the time the end of the journey was reached the cabby was putting on airs. His hat was on one side, and sitting bolt upright, he was smoking with keen enjoyment, an enjoyment that rejoiced the heart of the actor, who told him he was glad he liked the cigar. "Yes, I do. I never dreamed of such tobacco!" Thereupon Irving gave the jehu another cigar of the same brand, with the injunction to smoke it after supper. "No, sir, I won't, for the very smell of such a cigar as this in my house would make the landlord double my rent."

THE WELL DRESSED MAN

Should Consider with great forethought the suit he is to buy and the store he is to buy from for the coming season. His general appearance will depend largely upon the fit of his clothes, and the CLOTHES he wears.

Good Cloth: This is the foundation of your suit. Avoid those unreliable firms who deal in shoddy and pin your faith to "GRIFFON" Clothes.

Good Fit: This is one essential that you should exercise with more care than all others. A poor fitting suit is a poor piece of property. But it matters not how tall you are, how slim you are, how stout you are, how short you are, we have 'em to fit your form. A "Griffon" suit has the distinction of being distinctly stylish.

All the new things are here. At any price from $10.00 to $22.50. We will make it very interesting to you. Bring your shoulders with you.
