AYDEN ITEMS.

AYDEN, N. C., Nov. 3, 1905.

Miss Louisa Cox went to her home in Winterville Wednesday after visiting the family of W. F. Hart.

J. A. Harrington has been to Greenville this week.

John Hart and little son, of Kinston, have been here during the week.

Harvey Cox, of Winterville, has been to see us.

The recent drop in cotton has brought about a stay of proceedings for a while.

John Stokes was in town Wednesday.

Sam Dixon, col., an employee in the livery stable of T. W. Hart while riding a horse had the misfortune to let the animal fall, and in going so fell on the negro's foot, mashing it badly. Sam is laid up for repairs but his damage is not of a serious nature.

We are exceedingly pleased to learn that W. J. Boyd and family, formerly of Edward, have moved to Ayden and will make this their home. Mr. Boyd is a gentleman of means and he and his most excellent family will add very much to the material and social life of our community. Already he has commenced the erection of a handsome two-story nine room residence on Second street. We bid them a hearty and cordial welcome, and we congratulate Ayden and ourselves upon the addition of such worthy people.

Mrs. Stephens is in attendance upon the Free Will conference now in session at Dunn.

Miss Evelyn Sutton, of Winterville, has been visiting Miss May Smith.

Frank Lilly and D. S. Moore went to Grifton Tuesday.

Now that the fairs are all over, the trains a little more on time, business some livelier, the natural cussedness of things that account having assumed better shape, and Thanksgiving as well as Christmas are looked for with longing eyes and beating hearts to bring better times, the whereforeness and whereofness of discontent will be known no more for awhile and the conductor and engineer may safely leave their little gins at home while the rest of the world is at peace and all things are at work for the good of man, amen. Let us rest.

E. H. Shelburn and Lon Roun tree, of Greenville, were here a short while one day this week.

Mrs. W. C. Jackson and Mrs. T. H. King and children are visiting Mrs. W. J. Jackson in the country.

Mrs. R. C. Cannon went to Greenville yesterday.

Mrs. W. E. Hooks and children returned Thursday from a visit down the road.

J. J. Edwards was in Greenville Thursday on business.

B. F. D. Albritton, of Hookerton spent Wednesday night in town with friends.

Next Monday night a series of meetings will begin in the Missionary Baptist church. The pastor will be assisted by Rev. H. H. Marshburne, of Asheville. The meeting will continue through the week.

Several new families have moved here, but we have found it utterly impossible to learn their names. Anyway Ayden is growing and that is inspiring.

Nobody wants 10 1/2 cents for cotton. It is 12 cents or nothing and we believe that is going to be the price. There is but little unsold and surely that will demand a good price.

The fruit tree man is here delivering trees.

Things don't stand still in Ayden. Somehow there seem to be legs to it all and it walks right off and there's lots of walking too. Do you catch on? Well, then, a Pinkerton might.

TOWN MATTERS.

Proceedings of the Board of Aldermen.

The board of aldermen met in regular monthly session Thursday night with all the members present. There was not a large amount of business to transact and the session did not last as late as usual.

The street committee made a majority report recommending the opening of a street from Dickinson avenue through the Sutton property, and an order was made accordingly. This action will bring on litigation, as the owners of the property will resist the order.

The ordinance prohibiting screens and painted windows in front of pool and billiard rooms was amended so as to include restaurants.

J. F. King, who recently purchased the J. J. Turnage livery business, was given permission to continue under the same license. In a discussion following this the board agreed that hereafter no transfer of license will be granted when a business changes hands, but the purchaser of such business must obtain new license.

The white cemetery committee reported the work of cleaning Cherry Hill cemetery in progress and that the summer house had been painted. There was some discussion relative to appointing a committee of three representative colored citizens to co operate with the committee in work done in the colored cemetery, but no action was taken.

A street light was ordered placed on Pitt street near the hose reel station.

The salary of the assistant police was increased from $35 to $40 per month and an overcoat was allowed him.

The finance committee stated plans were about perfected for borrowing money to construct the sewerage system and it is expected that work can soon begin.

The different officers made report for the past month. In the dispensary report sales for October were $5,826.60 and the purchases $4,403.40.

Orders on the treasurer were issued amounting to $901.55 which included $400 for water and light service to the town.

TOBACCO SALES.

Nearly Two Million Pounds in October.

Secretary C. W. Harvey, of the Greenville tobacco board of trade, furnishes us the following figures of sales of leaf tobacco on the Greenville market:

Sales for the month of October 1,932,466 pounds at an average price per hundred of $8.43. Total sales for three months—August, September and October—6,419,531 pounds. For the same three months of 1904 the sales were 3,885,874, showing that the sales of this year have been nearly twice as large as last year.

The general opinion is that the crop of this year is over two-thirds sold.

Little Margaret Moye Dead.

A second shadow has fallen across the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Moye. Their little daughter, Margaret Howard, aged nearly 22 months, was taken from earth at 10:30 o'clock this morning. All her life the sweet little girl had been delicate and for some weeks she had been declining. All that love and skill could do were exerted to save the life of the little one, but these could not stay the hand of death. Many hearts throb in sympathy with the parents in their great sorrow and pray that they may have divine comfort in this trial.

The interment will take place in Cherry Hill cemetery at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

PROGRAM FOR TEACHERS MEETING.

Saturday, Nov. 11, 1905.

10 a. m. Devotional exercises—Rev. Mr. Viehe.

10:15, Reading minutes and roll call.

10:30, Difficulties encountered in rural school work, five minute papers by Misses Delia Smith, Florence Felton, Daisy Carman and Nancy Coward.

10:50, How can we overcome these difficulties? Five minute talks by G. E. Lineberry, W. H. Ragdale, G. W. Prescott and F. Cook Cavington.

11:20, Difficulties encountered in graded school work, five minute papers by Misses Ada Tyson, Neva Rogers, Dora Hornaday and Olivia Cox.

11:40, How these difficulties may be overcome? Five minute talks by T. C. Adler, W. B. Dave, W. G. Amick and J. H. Melver.

12 m. Report of Literary committee.

General discussion of this report.

It will be seen from the above program that its purpose is to aid every teacher in the county in his or her work. I want to request again that every teacher attend these meetings, and call your attention to the fact that the rules governing the schools in this county requiring you to do so. The penalty attached for non-attendance is that I am not allowed to approve your voucher. I hope no teacher will force me to have to do this. I repeat what I have said before that your interest in your work is measured by your interest in these meetings. Let us have more than one hundred teachers present at this meeting.

Elizabeth City, N. C.

C. J. Deylin, a bankrupt coal miner of Chicago, is dead, and the dispatches say he leaves $5,000,000 of debts behind. Better to have left them than take such a burden along with him.

They are acting like hoodlums in the campaign in New York. When flags are put up in favor of certain candidates, opposition crowds gather and pull them down.

Though it has been forty years since the civil war ended and the negroes were freed, the old overworked ex-slave swindle keeps cropping out and the perpetrators find the old darkeys easy game to work. Recently the pension comm., secured the conviction of one Butler Harris, who did a large business in North Carolina traveling around among the ignorant negroes representing himself as an agent of the government appointed to grant pensions to ex-slaves.

WHAT YOU CAN OR CANNOT SHOOT

As the hunting season in this state has opened the Audubon Society has issued a circular naming the game and non game birds under the laws of the state. There is no game warden in Pitt county, but all the same those who want to see the law observed can report any violations.

The laws of North Carolina protect at all times mocking birds, thrushes, woodpeckers, yellow hammers, wrens, native sparrows, red birds, orioles, chimney swifts, night hawks or bullbats, whip poor-wills, swallows, martins, warblers, nuthatches, chickadees, gulls of all species, terns or strikers, skimmers, shearwaters, herons and cranes, cormorants, pelicans, sea pigeons, vultures or buzzards, and all other wild non game birds, and also their nests and eggs.

The following are by statute declared game birds and may be killed during the open season and in such manner as prescribed by law in the various counties, viz: Loons, grebes, swans, geese, brant, ducks, rails or marsh hens, coots, pallinules, plovers, shore or beach birds, snipe, woodcock, sandpipers, yellowlegs, chewink, curlew, wild turkey, grouse, partridge, pheasant, bob-white, dove, robin and meadow lark.

The following birds are not protected by law, viz: English sparrows, owls, hawks, crows, blackbirds, jacksnaws and rice-birds.

A non-resident must secure a hunter's license from county clerk before hunting in the State.

It is illegal to ship from the State the bob-white or the partridge, grouse or pheasant, wild turkey, snipe, woodcock, or any protected non game birds.

For additional information regarding bird and game laws apply to the State's bird and game wardens, or to the Audubon Society of North Carolina, Greensboro, N. C.

It seems that some method could be devised whereby civil suits in superior courts might be settled more quickly than at present. Sometimes cases drag on for months and even years, necessitating much worry and expense to the county. At some terms of civil court there is comparatively little to do owing to the large number of cases continued. Of course continuances are often necessary, but we do not think there is any excuse for a case being in the courts several years.—Winston Sentinel.

Gambling at Fairs.

The annual howl is being made by the press of the State, through editorial and correspondence, about the gambling which is seen at the various fairs. And about as much is said in promises that such things shall not be allowed again. The public has come to believe that promises to keep out fakirs and gamblers mean nothing. The promises are made every year, but the next year when the game man or the man with tricks and devices applies for a license, by some means the license is granted and in goes the gambler and flip goes the promise made a year before that gamblers should no more be allowed. The editor of The Commonwealth has seen no fair this season except the State fair at Raleigh, and we thought it was about as easy for the gamblers there as we had ever seen it anywhere, notwithstanding there has been the annual promise almost "time whereof the memory of man runneth not to the contrary," that "next year they shall not enter." And likewise the indecent shows hold their accustomed place there, despite the promise that they shall not show again. It really begins to look like "fair" promises are not to be counted upon and that the fakirs are in for every fair, it matters not who says what.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

Limelight Virtue.

No sign of the times is more encouraging than this universal outburst of righteous indignation over the disclosures of corruption in the three big life insurance companies. Nearly all States have been heard from. In the West especially expressions of horror and demands for instantaneous reform have been emphatic.

This is good and stimulating, and it is peculiarly regrettable that some States, which are now represented by their officials as being all a thrill with virtuous wrath against the conspicuous Wall Street culprits, have been exceedingly good natured, not to say lax and sticky-fingered, in their own housekeeping. They have given a free field to life insurance concerns and methods which would not have been permitted for a moment in Massachusetts or Connecticut, nor even in New York. Within their jurisdictions a singular kind of life insurance horse trading has been carried on, one wobbly company selling out to another—swopping its policy-holders for almost anything from mining stock to dogs. They have kept the open door for rank savings bank swindles, and have been by no means marble-hearted in other similar respects.

To denounce Wall Street corruption is not only good, but popular. Every body loves to make a firm stand for virtue when it is sure to bring bouquets and preferment. Putting up the bars on the conspicuous insurance concerns and savings banks at home is a different matter.

It is suggested that all males above the age of twenty-one who now find themselves struck with amazement over the revelations of malfeasance in the "lig three" and over a system State regulation which could permit such things, turn to the statutes of their own States and see what safe-guards their legislatures have provided for policy holders and bank-depositors then look about and see how such laws as exist are enforced. They will find that the disease is by no means peculiar to the country east of the Alleghenies.—Saturday Evening Post.

SPORT IN TUSCANY.

It Includes Shooting Song Birds and Dining on Bat Pie.

The olive trees around Lucca are not nearly so old or so gnarled looking as those familiar to visitors on the Riviera, probably because, owing to the proximity of the mountains, the climate in which they grow is more temperate. The earth in which they grow is a reddish gravelly soil. In fact, for olives the drier the earth the better, and they do not require much depth. It takes the fruit of five of the largest trees to make only one barrel of the pure oil containing thirty-six liters and a half—that is, about 110 pounds in weight. And even this amount cannot be reckoned upon often more than once in every two years. Moreover, an olive tree has to be planted and grafted four years before it will produce fruit at all.

There would be a great many beautiful singing birds in the groves and mountain sides around Lucca were it not for the passion which the Tuscan contadini have for the caccia—the chase. The sport they indulge in all day long is shooting at goldfinches and linnets and other little birds, all of which are sold and eaten. In the markets at Lucca I have seen jays for sale. Upon my expressing a doubt as to their succulency I was assured that they were excellent when boiled. Fancy boiled jay as a repast!

There is apparently no rule in Tuscany as to not shooting on the highroads. Indeed on every mile or two of roadway you will probably meet at least one cacciatore with a gun upon his shoulder. They will fire at anything, even a bat. I myself saw my friend's cook, Tito by name, shoot a bat on the highroad. He said if he could only get enough of them they would make a good pie. Ye gods! Bat pie and boiled jay—what a dinner!

I ascertained that there is some excellent trout fishing to be obtained not very far from Lucca, many of the trout being of good size. The trout are already in season in the month of February and rise very well in March and April to a fly.—Lieutenant Colonel Andrew Haggard, D. S. O., in Chambers' Journal.

Divorce in Burma.

There is something to be said for Burma. If the Burmese husband and the Burmese wife come to the conclusion that they have injudiciously increased the marriage rate their procedure is simple and direct. The wife does not go to her solicitor, but to the tallow chandler. From him she obtains two little candles. These she brings home, and she and her husband sit down on the floor, placing the candles between them. One candle represents the husband, one the wife. They are lighted at the same moment, and the owner of the one which goes out first leaves the house, taking only his or her clothes, while the owner of the more enduring candle remains, also the owner of the house and all that therein is.

Thus divorce becomes simple and charming. It will be observed that the wife always selects the candles.—Chicago Law Journal.

Turn About.

"A depositor in a neighboring trust company," said a banker, "is an eccentric farmer of middle age. This farmer, though he is wealthy, overdraw his account one day to the tune of $500.

"Notification of the overdraft was at once sent to him.

"He replied: 'You tell me I have overdrawn my account $500. Well, I know it. So what is the necessity of bothering me about it? Why not trust me as I do you? Do I go to you when I have money in your institution and shout, 'You have $500 of mine?' Such statements are superfluous either way.'—Buffalo Enquirer.

His Peculiarity.

"You must find that impediment in your speech rather inconvenient at times, Mr. Biggs?"

"Oh, n-no. Everybody has his little peculiarity. Stammering is n-m-mine. What is y-yours?"

"Well, really I am not aware that I have any."

"D-do you stir y-your tea with your right hand?"

"Why, yes, of course."

"W-well, that is y-your p-peculiarity. Most p-people u-use a t-tea-spoon."—Liverpool Mercury.

The State and the Individual.

The state is by nature clearly prior to the individual and to the family, since the whole is of necessity prior to the part. The proof that the state is a creation of nature and prior to the individual is that the individual, when isolated, is not self-sufficing, and therefore he is like a part in relation to the whole. But he who is unable to live in society or who has no need, because he is sufficient for himself, must be either a beast or a god.—Aristotle.

The greatest truth is sometimes told by the biggest liar.

BOWIE'S INDIAN FIGHT.

It Was a Fierce Battle and Against Desperate Odds.

In 1832 James Bowie and his brother were prospecting for gold along the San Saba river in Texas when they were attacked by Indians. The fighting lasted only one day, but for seven days longer the Indians surrounded the party to prevent their escape. In the book entitled "With the Makers of Texas" it is recorded as the most desperate Indian battle in the history of Texas.

The number of the Indians being so much greater than ours—164 Indians to eleven white men—it was agreed that "Rezin" Bowie should go out to talk to them and endeavor to compromise. He and David Buchanan walked to within forty yards of where they had halted. He requested them in their own tongue to send forward their chief, as we wanted to talk with him.

Their answer was, "How do you do?" in English and a discharge of shots, one of which broke Buchanan's leg. Bowie returned their salutation with the contents of a double barreled gun. Then, taking Buchanan on his shoulders, he started for camp.

The Indians opened a heavy fire upon them, and when their shot failed to bring down Bowie eight Indians on foot took after him with tomahawks.

When the Indians were close upon him his companions rushed forward and brought down four of them. The other four fled.

The Indians now opened a heavy fire. Their chief, on horseback, urged them to the charge. James Bowie cried out, "Who is loaded?" All our guns were empty with the exception of Mr. Hamm's. He was told to "Shoot that Indian on horseback." He did so. His shot broke the Indian's leg and killed his horse. We saw him hopping around his horse on one leg, with his shield on his arm to keep off the balls.

By this time we had reloaded, and several balls pierced the shield and he fell.

Finding that we would not be dislodged from the thicket, they set fire to the dry grass to rout us from our position. The fire came down upon us before the wind, and our situation looked desperate. The sparks flew so thickly that not a powder horn could be opened. But when the fire reached the ring around our wounded men and baggage we succeeded in smothering it with buffalo robes, deerskins and blankets.

It was now sundown, and we had been warmly engaged with the Indians since sunrise. Seeing us still ready for fight, they carried off their wounded and gave up the battle.

A Wonder of Antiquity.

One of the greatest wonders of ancient Egypt was the famous artificial body of water called Lake Moeris. According to Herodotus, "the measure of its circumference was 3,300 furlongs, which is equal to the entire length of Egypt along the seacoast." The excavation, which was made in the time of King Moeris (the memnon of the Greeks and Romans), was of varying depths, and its center was occupied by two pyramids, the apexes of which were 300 feet higher than the surface of the water. The water for this gigantic artificial reservoir was obtained from the Nile through a canal, which six months of the year had an inflow and the other six an outflow, corresponding to high and low water in the river. The canal gradually filled with sand, and the lake has long since evaporated, but its bottom is still one of the most fertile tracts in Egypt.

In Fit Array.

Talk as one will on the vanity of clothes, the consciousness of being well dressed has something of moral force in it. "Brush your hair and things won't look so bad," was the wise counsel given by a friend to a woman whose husband had lost his money.

The little child in Mr. E. J. Hardy's "Manners Makyth Man" hit on this great truth when she replied to her mother, who was reproving her. "Oh, Katie, why can't you be a good little girl? See Julia, now. How nice she is! Why can't you be as good as she?"

"Pr'aps I could, mamma," answered Katie, "if my dress had little pink bows all over it."

Never Had Driven a Solicit.

The manager of the Doemp laundry had advertised for a man.

Early next morning a mild eyed young chap appeared and referred to the advertisement.

"You think you can fill the bill, do you?" asked the proprietor.

"I dunno, boss. I've druv a laundry wagon, but I never druv one of them other things."

"What other things?"

And the applicant handed him a clipping of the ad., which read:

"Wanted—A man to drive laundry wagon and solicit."—Baltimore American.

Truths that Strike Home

Your grocer is honest and—if he cares to do so—can tell you that he knows very little about the bulk coffee he sells you. How can he know, where it originally came from, how it was blended—or with what—or when roasted? If you buy your coffee loose by the pound, how can you expect purity and uniform quality?

LION COFFEE, the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES, is of necessity uniform in quality, strength and flavor. For OVER A QUARTER OF A CENTURY, LION COFFEE has been the standard coffee in millions of homes.

LION COFFEE is carefully packed at our factories, and until opened in your home, has no chance of being adulterated, or of coming in contact with dust, dirt, germs, or unclean hands.

In each package of LION COFFEE you get one full pound of Pure Coffee. Insist upon getting the genuine. (Lion head on every package.) (Save the Lion-heads for valuable premiums.)

Reviews of Reviews The Cosmopolitan Woman's Home Companion

Many other publications are desirable, and you may prefer this or prefer that fiction and art publiati'n, but the Review of Reviews is necessary. Substantial American men and women are going to keep up with the times and they are going to take the shortest cut which is the Review of Reviews.

A leading magazine for 18 years with the recent change of owner ship it has been improved. It is far better in every respect, and aims to be the best in the field. Every year or so there's one notable advance in the sorward movement among the many magazines. This year it is the Cosmopolitan.

The Woman's Home-Companion is for every member of the family. For our bright, earnest, cultured, home loving American woman it is an ideal entertainer and helper in a thousand congenial ways; but the fathers and brothers and sons join in its perusal by the fireside; children eagerly turn to the pages that are written for them.

The American Farmer is the leading Agricultural paper of the country, and pertains to farming, live stock and poultry raising. Every farmer should have it
