PERSONAL MENTION.

Of Those Going and Coming.

A. L. Nelson came in today.

E. H. Hardison went to Winterville today.

P. T. Anthony went to Kinston Monday evening.

A. M. Moseley returned this morning from Ayden.

Postmaster M. G. Bryan, of Winterville, was here today.

A. H. Rawlings, of Norfolk, who had been here a few days, left this morning.

C. L. Wilkinson went to Tarboro Monday evening and returned this morning.

Dr. H. D. Harper, Jr., of Kinston, came over on the afternoon train Monday and returned that evening.

Miss Brightsie Savage, of Edgecombe and Miss Ethel Pugh, of Winsor, who were visiting Mrs. L. M. Savage left this morning.

Prof. W. H. Ragsdale left this morning for Raleigh to attend the state convention of county superintendents of schools. He will be absent all the week.

TAYLOR-BEVERLY.

Marriage of Popular Couple Near Bethel.

Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 6th, at 3 o'clock there was a beautiful marriage at the home of Mr. B. A. Beverly, near Bethel, when his charming daughter, Miss Sadie, was led to the altar by Mr. Cartwright Taylor, a very enterprising and successful young man from near Robersonville.

The parlor was artistically decorated with ferns and palms. Miss Effie Grimes rendered the wedding march. Rev. J. T. Eubanks, pastor of the Baptist church, was officiating clergyman.

The bride wore a handsome suit of grey. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of Mr. Taylor's father, where an elegant reception was given them. We congratulate the happy couple and wish for them a prosperous voyage through life. X.

As to "Professor Napoleon."

One of those fellows who goes about getting up entertainments with local talent for the alleged benefit of some local charity has played Charlotte like a flute. The only wonder is that the Charlotte papers express any surprise about it, for the game's as common as can be. This fellow had some sort of a performance that he called "Professor Napoleon." Local talent did the work under his direction and paid all the expenses. The Charlotte papers were worked for several days "Professor Napoleon" was very conspicuous in the papers. Well, the performances were pulled off and the receipts aggregate $1,500. The play was for the benefit of the Presbyterian Hospital and when the settlement was made the hospital got about $80, while "Professor Napoleon" is pockets bulging with swag, departed for some other town to work the game again.

AYDEN ITEMS.

AYDEN, N. C., Dec. 12, 1905.

Several farmers brought cotton here last week and refused to take 12 cents and carried it back home. They will hold it for 15 cents. We hope they may get it.

The schools here will close for one week during the Christmas holidays.

The sad news reached here Sunday that Miss Leua Tucker, daughter of Mr. Joshua Tucker, of Swift Creek, had died in Baltimore, that morning at 5 o'clock. Miss Tucker was in Baltimore for treatment and her host of friends were hopeful that she might return to them in the full vigor of life, but an All-Wise Providence willed it otherwise and the sad news came almost as a death blow, for she was greatly beloved by those who knew her best. All things we firmly believe happen for the best, and in the death of this estimable young lady no doubt great good will result and her life will leave an imprint of everlasting results.

Ayden will have another brick building. The offices being built for Dr. Skinner and E. G. Cox will be of brick. They will be of the latest design with all the more modern improvements. Two large rooms in front and two of same size in rear, which will be used exclusively as a doctor's and insurance offices. There are in course of erection no less than a dozen or more nice buildings here. Oh, for that factory! We can't understand it. Our money men, and they have money to spare, readily admit a factory would pay, and common sense teaches would add munificently to the growth and development of our town. Where there are cents now, dollars would be realized and a life of activity and thrift would be seen from every point. Gentlemen, don't let another year pass without a factory.

R. B. Sumrell and wife spent Friday in Greenville.

Six trains a day. It can't be said of Ayden now, "Rus in Urbs" can it?

O. C. Noble has been to Greenville during the week.

Misses Nina Cannon, Nelie Mumford and G. W. Prescott attended the teachers' meeting Saturday.

Miss Emma Lee, of Dunn, has been here on a visit to friends.

W. J. Boyd has returned from a visit to Edward.

Rev. T. H. King, of LaGrange, filled his regular appointment in the Baptist church here Sunday morning and evening.

Upon arrival of the new daily train here Monday there was a large number of people out at the depot to meet it. This is a long felt need and our people greatly rejoice that we now have it.

J. J. Edwards and A. M. Moseley are in Hookerton on business.

Miss Nina Frizzelle, of Greene county, had been visiting Miss Ida W. Edwards.

Miss Lucy Turnage after a very pleasant visit to friends here has returned to her home in Ormondsville.

John Hornaday, of Greenville, came down Sunday evening to bring his sister, Miss Dora, who had been on a visit to her parents.

FARMERS' INSTITUTES.

Two Parties to Make a Tour of Counties in January.

The Farmers' Institutes for North Carolina will be begun early in January by two parties of instructors.

One institute party will be in charge of Dr. Tait Butler, and its appointments are as follows, the meeting for the different counties to be at the places named all in January:

Another party will be in charge of Dr. H. H. Hume, and the meetings in January are as follows:

Warrenton, Saturday, 6th; Jackson, Monday, 8th; Halifax, Tuesday, 9th; Tarboro, Wednesday, 10th; Washington, Thursday, 11th; Swan Quarter, Saturday, 13th; Reper, Monday, 15th; Williamston, Tuesday, 16th; Columbia, Thursday, 18th; Currituck, Saturday, 20th; Camden, Monday, 22nd; Elizabeth City, Tuesday, 23rd; Hertford, Wednesday, 24th; Enenton, Thursday, 25th; Gatesville, Friday, 26th; Winton, Saturday, 27th; Windsor, Monday, 29th.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Same Acreage for 1905.

President Harvie Jordan, of the Southern Cotton Association, has issued the following letter to the farmers of the South regarding a reduction in cotton acreage for 1906. The letter says in part:

"The Southern Cotton Association will not ask the farmers of the South to reduce the cotton acreage for 1906 less than that planted in 1905. The association does ask and insist with all the force at its command, however, that the acreage planted in cotton throughout the belt in 1905 be not increased during the planting season of 1906. Let the watchword of every Southern farmer be "diversification" and through that agency produce an abundance of food supplies to maintain each farm.

"The present estimated twenty-seven million acres planted in cotton is sufficient under normal conditions to produce enough cotton to meet the demand for the American staple. Any material increase in the cotton acreage for 1906 will tend to stagnate the cotton market and depress prices below their legitimate value. The legitimate law of supply and demand is the only true medium of regulating fair and legitimate prices for our great staple product."

President Jordan closes the letter with a strong appeal to the farmers to plant an abundance of small grain, corn and side crops and urges them to raise more hay, cattle and hogs, that the farmers may become self-sustaining.

OVER THE STATE.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Andrew Carnegie has offered $10,000 to establish a library for colored people in Greensboro, on condition that the city appropriate $1,000 per year to purchase books and maintain the library.

From the office of the State Auditor it was given out that the tax receipts to the state in North Carolina for the past year had been $2,786,468.02, while the disbursements amounted to $2,503,693.88, leaving a balance on hand for the fiscal year ending the 10th of November, $282,774.14.

A $20 Watch Free.

We know that most of the people of Greenville are studying what to give this one or that one for a Christmas present. It is a question not so very easy to solve in the great majority of cases. In giving a present it should be your chief aim to give something that is appropriate and suitable for the person to whom it is to be given, and it is essential also, that the present be in keeping with the sentiments of the season.

There is no better place in the world to find a gift such as is outlined above than at a book store. What can be more appropriate than the dainty articles which you find in the class of stores mentioned?

Greenville has a book store, and in it can be found those articles of merchandise which, as gifts, are most suitable for Christmas. Evans' Book Store has a splendid line of Christmas goods, and as an inducement to purchase of them, they offer you the following:

Fifteen hundred tickets are to be issued numbered from 1 to 1500. One of these tickets is to be selected and deposited in the Bank of Greenville, the number thereon to be known by no one. Each purchaser of fifty cents worth of goods will be given one of these tickets, and the person getting the number corresponding with the one drawn out and deposited in the Bank of Greenville will be presented with a six size watch fifteen jewel Elgin, Cresent twenty five year gold-filled case.

Who will get the watch? The cash value of the watch is $20.00

A Chocolate Set Free at Rick's.

119 First Day.

From the way travel started out on the new passenger train it is going to be a success for the railroad as well as great convenience to the public. On the first trip between Tarboro and Kinston 61 passengers were handled, and on the return trip the number reached 58, making a total of 119 passengers the first day.

Truths that Strike Home

Your grocer is honest and—if he cares to do so—can tell you that he knows very little about the bulk coffee he sells you. How can he know, where it originally came from, how it was blended—or with what—or when roasted? If you buy your coffee loose by the pound, how can you expect purity and uniform quality?

LION COFFEE, the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES, is of necessity uniform in quality, strength and flavor. For OVER A QUARTER OF A CENTURY, LION COFFEE has been the standard coffee in millions of homes.

LION COFFEE is carefully packed at our factories, and until opened in your home, has no chance of being adulterated, or of coming in contact with dust, dirt, germs, or unclean hands.

In each package of LION COFFEE you get one full pound of Pure Coffee. Insist upon getting the genuine. (Lion head on every package.)

(Save the Lion-heads for valuable premiums.)

A SUBMARINE BATTLE.

The Strenuous Time a Big Crab Had in Making a Meal.

On a shallow shore of Long Island, near New York, extend long sandy beaches. These often are interrupted by creeks or little inlets into which the tide runs at high water, running out again when the tide falls.

Standing on a bridge over one of these runways, I happened to see a big crab making a dinner upon a piece of fish which he held firmly in one claw. Around him, but at a safe distance, were several smaller crabs, who did their best to join in the big crab's dinner.

Meanwhile the big fellow had no time to loiter over his meal, for in spite of his clever sparring with his free hand every now and then one of his small enemies succeeded in making a successful raid and retreated safely with a bit of the fish.

Still, between attacks big Mr. Crab was holding his provisions so fast that the little pirates would soon be defeated unless they could invent a better plan of attack. They had been making quick dashes and still quicker retreats, but the big crab by wheeling to and fro and by striking out or snapping his nippers at them made a successful defense. He had only to turn as if on a pivot, while they must advance and retreat some distance.

Therefore the small fry consulted their ingenuity and adopted a new plan of attack. One by one they scurried upstream, keeping near its banks, until they were about eight feet above the defender of the fish. As each reached the right distance he would launch himself into the swiftest part of the current and let himself be whirled downward.

By the time the young cruiser crab was opposite the big battleship crab he would be going so fast that it was hard to hit him or to grip him, and yet he, keeping head-on and having to make no effort, except a single, quick grab at the fish, was able to score a frequent success.

No sooner did the big battleship crab avoid one little cruiser than another was upon him, and his store of food rapidly diminished. Seeing that his defense was overcome, the big fellow gave up any attempts to fight and devoted himself to eating as fast as possible.

In a few moments the fish was gone and the battle was over. But it certainly was an uncomfortable way of taking dinner—for both parties to the battle. Civilization has its advantages.—Forest and Stream.

A Costly Error.

The want of punctuation in telegrams has sometimes been followed by serious complications. A notable case occurred some time back when a certain nobleman, while at his house in the west end, dispatched a wire to a celebrated Edinburgh physician, the favorite doctor of his wife. Almost immediately following the dispatch of this telegram another followed it stating that the doctor would not be required in the following terms:

"Don't come. Too late!"

The telegraphist made the message:

"Don't come too late."

The medical man, construing this as urging him to the greatest haste, arrived in London, claimed his fee and expenses, amounting to £200, and by legal proceedings obtained that sum.—London Tit-Bits.

The most successful process for waterproofing a garment is that of Priestley's, and every Cravenette treated to their process bears their name, and when in addition to Priestley's ravenette stamp an overcoat is identified with the label of Wilkinson the combination is one that insures not only a waterproof overcoat, but also an overcoat of fine fabric, with all the knocks of fashion and style that distinguish the "EFF EFF" Clothing people from the ordinary sort.

The esteemed Congressional Record is again making its appearance and wrapping paper will be correspondingly more plentiful while it lasts.

South Carolina farmers in the vicinity of Spartanburg have decided to plant only ten acres of cotton to the mule for next years crop; with a view, if enough farmers adopt the rule, of keeping the acreage small enough to maintain high prices for the next crop.

We are unable to see any plausible reason for the way cotton has slumped in the last few days. Perhaps the bears think the farmers are holding back a large lot of it, if so they are very much mistaken. True some are holding, but there is no large supply of cotton now to be marketed.

Bertha Brown has been virtually banished from Durham county by the judgment of the court this morning. She was fined $100 and cost for keeping a disorderly house, and a capias was issued imprisoning her in the county jail for 12 months if found in the county after next Monday. This will stand against her Durham should now breath easier.—Durham Sun.

This is the same old story—run a bad citizen out of one town to be turned loose on another community. It is an unwise practice that some judges or municipal authorities have and it ought to be stopped. If Bertha Brown was not fit to remain in Durham she is not fit to remain in any other town. If she ought to be in prison, Durham jail is the proper place for her and not be palmed off on some other town.

What loafing on the Job Means.

Almost anyone will do to perform an ordinary job in an ordinary way. It is when some extraordinary occasion arises that the difference is shown between full confidence and half confidence, between real service and the service that is measured by the amount of money that is drawn on Saturday night and by the clock which permits leaving work at a certain hour.

It is curious how thoughtless and how short-sighted some people are who work for others;—how much they fail to realize that whether or not their services are fully appreciated, they owe it to themselves to do each day's work that is in them, and to do some thinking as well on behalf of those who employ them.

Heart service cannot be bought,—it must be rendered,—and you will not find among all the successful men in this part of the world a one who worked for others and did not render this kind of service.

A first class man or a first class woman—the kind who are able to make a success for themselves—never knew what it was to loaf on a job for other people. If they had done this they could not have succeeded, and if you do this you cannot succeed simply because you will get the habit of being dilatory, careless and neglecting both your interests at times. The pace which is now required for success is too strenuous to permit of anything but unflagging industry and zeal guaranteeing success.

If you are a second class worker and expect to remain that all your life your condition is, indeed, an unfortunate one, for your place can be filled through a want ad. by fifty second-class people in a few days. It is hard to get first class men and first class workers at almost any price. The head of any business concern will tell you this, and for this class of people he is willing to pay the limit that his business will permit his paying. He is glad to do it. They make money for him, for they save time, they save worry and they save money as well as make money.

There is another point this business of loafing on a job or of failing to give the quickest and most intelligent and thest thought, energy and effort to it that we can—that is it is dishonest. It is failing to render service that you sell. It is just the same thing, so far as dollars and cents are concerned, whether you take money away from a man directly or whether you take it by not giving him what you contract to give him.

We are happy to say that we think that most people who work—and nearly everybody works these days—do try to render conscientious and honest service. It is because of this that the American nation has grown to be so great and powerful a nation. It is because of this that business goes ahead and that more positions are opened up to more workers. The success of any business depends upon the vitality of those who manage it and on those who work for it more than upon any other single condition. You cannot lose money for the firm and get it in your pay envelope. You cannot waste time for your employer and expect him to be able to do better by you.—Norfolk Dispatch.

Sunday was a strenuous for the life-saving crews at the Kitty Hawk, Kill Devil and Nag's Head stations. The first two battled against a terrific sea for several hours in an effort to reach the stranded steamship Aragon, and finally succeeded in shooting a line across the vessel's decks. After this the entire crew of 21 men was brought safely to shore in the breeches buoy. Tonight the Aragon is high on the beach, in good condition, except for a broken rudder.

THE ALASKAN MOOSE.

He is the Greatest of All the World's Horned Animals.

After all has been said about the horns of the world's greatest horned animals there is positively none that equals in impressiveness the gigantic mass that crowns the head of a really big Alaskan moose. Take them in situ, as the geologists say, on the head of their rightful owner, and in length, breadth and thickness they inspire in the mind of every intelligent human being a feeling of genuine awe. I do not see how even an intelligent dog or horse can behold a pair of seventy inch moose antlers without being profoundly impressed. The antler springs horizontally from an upper corner of the head on a stem of solid bone that is like the trunk of a hickory sapling. A foot or so from the bur it throws off toward the front—quite gratuitously, as it were—two or three big spears of bone that are of much use in a fight. As soon as there is room for real development the main stem flattens out into an enormous slab of bone, perhaps two inches in thickness, from twelve to eighteen inches wide and from two to three feet long. This is the "palmation," and a very appropriate name it is, too, for in the center it is hollowed like a human palm and studded along its upper edge from six to twelve fingers and thumbs of solid bone.

In sheer exuberance of strength and excess of horn material an Alaskan moose antler occasionally throws off from the lower surface of its palm, or it may be from the front of the beam, a big, rugged spur root of bone, which always has an extra impressive effect on the beholder. The largest antlers of Alaskan moose are in the Field museum at Chicago. They have a spread of seventy-eight and a half inches and weigh ninety-three and a half pounds.—W. T. Hornaday in Scribner's Magazine.

A Ducal Practical Joke.

Duke Carl of Wurttemberg was very fond of practical jokes in his younger days. Once he called at a farmhouse and asked the farmer's wife, who was churning, for a glass of milk. She did not know her visitor, but went away to fetch the milk, when the duke seized a cat which was lying near and threw it, with a ducat, into the churn. When the old woman returned he drank the milk and walked away.

A year later the same prince entered the house in a different dress and again asked for a glass of milk and inquired whether some one hadn't once secreted a cat in her churn. The farmer's wife laughed and said:

"Oh, yes, and I wouldn't mind him doing it again at the same price."

"What did you do with the butter you were churning then?"

"Oh, I sent it to the palace, where they take all my stuff!"

Not at All Nice.

Mr. William Huggins was angry, and he certainly appeared to have some justification for wrath.

"Liza," he expostulated, "don't I always tell you I won't 'ave the kids bringin' in the coals from the shed in my best 'at? It ain't nice, Liza."

"Just listen to reason, if you please, Bill," said his wife coldly. "You 'ave spoilt the shape of that 'at with your funny 'ead already, and as you're workin' coal all day at the wharf wot can a little extr' coal dust in your 'at matter?"

"You don't see the point, Liza," explained William, with dignity. "I only wears that 'at in the evenin', and if while I'm out I take that 'at off, why, it leaves a black band around my forehead. Wot's the consequence? Why, I gets accused of washin' my face with my 'at on! And it ain't nice, Liza."—London Life.

The Origin of Wearing Liveries.

The wearing of liveries dates back to the days of gentle service, when it was the custom for kings to deliver splendid habits to the members of their households. In days of chivalry a duke's son would wear the livery of his prince, an esquire that of a knight, and it was not until modern times that the word took on its present use.

Liveries were gradually suppressed at the close of the middle ages, partly on account of the cost of providing them in increasing quantities and partly because the growing households of liveried retainers became a menace to the king's peace.

Reviews of Reviews

Many other publications are desirable, and you may prefer this or prefer that fiction and art publication, but the Review of Reviews is necessary. Substantial American men and women are going to keep up with the times and they are going to take the 'shortest cut' which is the Review of Reviews.

The Cosmopolitan

A leading magazine for 18 years With the recent change of ownership it has been improved. It is far better in every respect, and aims to be the best in the field. Every year or so there's one notable advance in the forward movement among the many magazines. This year it is the Cosmopolitan.

Woman's Home Companion

The Woman's Home Companion is for every member of the family. For our bright, earnest, cultured, home loving American woman it is an ideal entertainer and helper in a thousand congenial ways; but the fathers and brothers and sons join in its perusal by the fireside; children eagerly turn to the pages that are written for them.

The American Farmer is the leading Agricultural paper of the country, and pertains to farming, live stock and poultry raising. Every farmer should have it

DRAWING UP WILLS.

What Lawyers Will Do and What They Don't Like to Do.

That it takes a smart man to draw a will is an adage the respect for which in the legal fraternity is evidenced by the fact that few lawyers want to furnish visible evidence of their part in drawing up wills. It is perfectly easy for a man to hire a lawyer to draft his testament, of course, no matter how complicated its provisions may be. It is quite another thing to get the lawyer to witness it. He will not even allow clerks in his office to do so, except perhaps where the client is an old or regular one. He wants him to go elsewhere to get the necessary attestations. There are exceptions to this unwritten rule, it is true, but it is pretty generally observed.

"Lawyers will not so admit it," said one of them, "but the true reason is they don't care to be identified with the instrument. It is about as difficult an undertaking as a lawyer can face to draw up a will where the bequests are surrounded with conditions that will close up all loopholes to a contest. Most testators know how they want to dispose of their estates, but it is exceedingly hard to express their wishes in a way that will leave no doubt when subsequently disappointed heirs call it into question. The books teem with instances of the inability of smart men, some of them distinguished lawyers, to make a will that will stand under a stiff fight. Lawyers naturally don't want to be associated with a document that may be pronounced bad, and so they are unwilling to sign as witnesses or to let their employees do it. I suppose it to some extent argues a lack of confidence in their work. Anyhow, the precaution is of little use, for invariably the lawyer who drew it is disclosed in any litigation over a will."

The "Georgia Grind."

Colonel Anstruther was distressed. His St. Louis host had asserted that Missouri was the garden spot of America for the production of watermelons. Being a Georgian, Colonel Anstruther could not allow such a statement to pass uncorrected.

"Suh!" he exclaimed. "Proof of the abundance of watermelons lies in the facility for eating them. Can you show me, suh, a man in Missouri who has yet acquired the equivalent of the Georgia grind?"

"The Georgia grind!" demanded the Missourian. "What is that?"

"The Georgia grind, suh, is the ability to feed a continuous and unbroken line of watermelon into one side of the mouth while emitting a continuous and unbroken line of seeds, suh, from the other side. The mere development of that art, suh, is proof beyond doubt that Georgia raised the most watermelons, suh." —Youth's Companion.

Puffs of an Engine.

The train was starting. The puffs of the locomotive, at first slow, grew faster and faster, and finally seemed to cease in the roar of the train.

"It is the emission of the waste steam through the chimney that causes the locomotive's puffing, coughing sound," said an engineer. "As the train's speed increases, the puffs increase in rapidity, and when ten a second are emitted the ear can't distinguish them separately any longer—it hears them as a continuous roar. A good many people, on this account, think a locomotive only puffs at starting. Really, she puffs all the time, only the puffs are too rapid to be recognizable. A train going a mile a minute gives twenty puffs per second."—New York Press.

A Full Answer.

An English rector one Sunday preached from the text, "Who art thou?" After reading it, he made a pause for the congregation to reflect upon the words, when a man in a military dress, who at the instant was marching very sedately up the middle aisle of the church, supposing it a question addressed to him, replied: "I am, sir, an officer of the Sixteenth Regiment of Foot, on a recruiting party here, and having brought my wife and family with me. I am come to church because I wished to be acquainted with the neighboring clergy and other people." This so deranged the divine and astonished the congregation that the sermon was concluded with considerable difficulty.

Have the Right Change.

The traveling public will do well to remember the rule of the corporation commission that a ticket agent is not obliged to make change for a large bill when the same will put him to an inconvenience in conducting his sale of tickets. The reason for the rule is obvious and parties going away should have as near the exact price of their ticket with them as they are able to calculate.

The Pay for Labor.

Considerable comment has been made in the State recently about the pay of the labor. One thinks it not enough and many will say it is too much. It is neither and it is both. Some laborers may not be paid enough while many are paid entirely too much. It should not be any more a question as to what is paid the laborer than it is how much does he earn. The truth is, almost all laborers who are hired at a certain price do as little as possible to hold the job. Many an employer who pays his laborer fifty cents, a dollar, or two dollars a day would be glad to increase the pay if only he could get the laborer to give him better service. Somehow the opinion has taken hold of the laboring world that the man who hires some one else to serve him is rich, at least in a comparative sense, and can stand to pay for any sort of service, good or bad. Just here is as much cause for the disagreement about labor as anywhere else. Let all employers be convinced for a given time that those whom they hire to do their work are thoroughly faithful, and there would be less complaint and discontent about labor.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.
