WINTERVILLE NOTES

Interesting Items from Our Hustling Neighbor.

WINTERVILLE, N. C. Jan. 6, 1906.

Oscar Speight, of Renston, was in town Friday evening.

Miss Maggie Rollins, of Robersonville, is visiting Miss Mollie Bryan.

Mrs. Siddle McLawhorn, of Ayden, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. L. House.

Frank Carroll, a very prosperous farmer, of the Black Jack vicinity, was in town Friday.

John Stokes went to Greenville this morning.

John Nobles has recently moved away from our town to Greenville.

While we regret the loss of him and his family, we wish them much happiness and success in their new home.

The residence which has been occupied by John Nobles, is now occupied by E. W. Braxton. While we are losing good neighbors we are also gaining some.

G. A. Kittrell has recently bought and moved into the John Nichols house on Elm street.

Maek Ellis, of Kinston, the owner of the Ellis Carriage Works, was in town Friday on business with the A. G. Cox Mfg. Co. He knows a good thing when he sees it, so he is dealing with this firm.

Miss Ida Wynne, of Parmele, went home Friday evening to spend Saturday and Sunday with her parents. She is a student of Winterville High school.

Miss Georgia Joyner, one of the teachers of the Winterville High school, went to Greenville this morning.

B. F. Manning, one of our hustling merchants, went to Greenville Friday on business.

Miss May Brooks, of LaGrange, who is teaching at Renston, was in town Friday evening.

Gerome McLawhorn, of Renston, was in town Friday evening.

Frank James and wife, of Bethel came down Friday night to visit Mrs. James' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cox.

Oscar Rollins, who has been clerking for our prosperous merchant, H. L. Johnson, has accepted a position as clerk in the post office. Oscar is a wide awake young man and we know he will serve the people well in his new work. We wish him much success.

The Vance Literary Society met Friday night at the usual hour and elected new officers for the spring term which are as follows: President, S. C. Carroll, Vice President, S. L. Parker, Secretary, R. T. Cox, Treasurer, D. R. Jackson, Supervisor, Albert McCauley, Marshal, John Buslinger, Critic, G. E. Lineberry. We have an excellent set of officers and are looking for good work from the Society this spring. Judging from the query for Friday night, it being "Resolved that Utah should be excluded from the Union," we know it will be a warm debate.

The Philoallean Society met Friday night and elected new officers for the spring term which are as follows: President, Bessie Moorhead, Vice President, Rosabel Taylor, Secretary, Nannie House,

Treasurer, Addie Cox, Supervisor, Annie Perry. Critic, Mimie Cox. They have excellent officers and we know the work will be the same. The A. G. Cox Manufacturing Company are shipping so many cotton planters that is hard to get the number correctly, for instead of shipping 400 a week they ship 400 a day. That number a week would not give the firm a start.

GROWTH OF RED MEN.

Speech of Great Sachem F. M. Hodges at Greensboro.

In giving an account of the raising of chiefs of the tribe of Red Men, at Greensboro, the Record says:

The principal address of the evening was made by Mr. F. M. Hodges, of Greenville, Great Sachem of North Carolina, whose splendid speech was well received and heartily applauded. He spoke of the early history of the Red Men, saying:

"The Improved Order of Red Men is the oldest fraternal organization of purely American origin. It was born in patriotism, nurtured in freedom, inspired in friendship and consecrated in charity. It is the lineal descendant of the Sons of Liberty, who afterwards called themselves by various names, some of them being called the Sons of St. Faria, after the famous sachem or chief of the Delaware Indians; others called themselves the Liberty Boys. All of them made use of Indian dress as their disguise from the uninitiated, and some of the Indian characteristics are retained and used by the Improved Order of Red Men."

In conclusion, Mr. Hodges said: "In 1905 the Great Council convened in the Hunting Grounds of Salisbury with 31 representatives, three past great sachems, and six past sachems, with the great chiefs. There were at this time 36 tribes with a membership of 1,791, a gain of 385. At this session I was elected to the Chieftaincy of Great Sachem, and since the Great Council session in May last, there have been eleven tribes instituted and I am informed by our Great Chief of Records that the reports for the one-half year ending December 31, will show an increase of about 1,200, or a total membership of about 2,900 December 31, 1905. I am proud to state that Minnesota No. 52 was instituted during my Great Chieftaincy. We have had many drawbacks on account of the organizers, some of whom worked more for money than they did for the good of the order.

"Extending many thanks to Minnesota Tribe for the kind invitation to be with you, and for the many courtesies, I beg to say, 'I now have done.'"

Farmers' Institute.

A good number of farmers from different sections of the county were here today to attend the farmers' institute. Interesting sessions were held both this morning and afternoon. Dr. Tait Butler and W. J. McClendon, of the agricultural department were present and made addresses on timely topics.

Christmas Tree.

There was quite an interesting time at the Christmas tree for the Free Will Baptist Sunday school, Friday night. The tree was pretty and the members of the school were pleased with what they received.

Parmele Dry.

We learn that the commissioners of the town of Parmele refused to grant licenses to retail liquor there, so that Parmele is now a dry town. The travelers going through who have been in the habit of hurrying from the train to the nearest bar room will have to look elsewhere for their drinks.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Of Those Going and Coming.

A. B. Minor returned to Suffolk today.

H. B. Harris went down the road this morning.

W. J. Smith and family returned this morning from Tarboro.

W. E. Perry, of Kinston, came over Friday afternoon to help THE REFLECTOR out of the cramp the paper has been in with a short working force.

COTTON FARMERS.

Meeting of County Association.

A meeting of Pitt county branch of the Southern Cotton Planters' Association was held here today with a large attendance of farmers. R. R. Cotten, district chairman, presided.

Books were opened giving all who desired an opportunity of becoming members, and many joined. Those who joined contributed 3 cents for each bale of cotton they will hold, and this amounted to a total of $15.08.

There was much interest in the meeting and when adjournment was had it was to meet again on the first Monday in February. Every cotton farmer in the county ought to be in the association.

Robbery at Grifton.

The store of J. R. Harvey & Co., at Grifton, was broken into, Friday night, and a quantity of clothing and dry goods stolen. This is the third time the same store has been robbed in the last two months. W. C. Hines was sent for with his blood hounds and went down on the "Reflector special."

OVER THE STATE.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

At Shelby a little boy, aged 5 years, while playing with a pistol shot and killed his little sister, aged three years. The father of these children, who at the time was chief of police, was murdered two years ago by a negro.

Thursday the mayor of Greensboro had about fifty gallons of confiscated liquors emptied into a sewer. A crowd gathered around to see the "booze" run out.

John Atwell, at one time a well to do citizen of Mooresville, committed suicide Thursday by cutting his throat with a razor.

The commissioners of Lenoir county tied on the question of issuing licenses to saloons in LaGrange. The chairman of the board voted in favor of the saloons and the licenses were granted.

Adjournment.

The weather was so inclement on the day for meeting in December that no meeting was held. The program that was to have been had that day is for this meeting. Beginning from this time the work of the future meetings of the associations will be based largely upon "McMurry's General Method of the Recitation." The books will be on hand at this meeting so that the teachers may supply themselves with them. We begin this year under the most favorable conditions of any year in our school history. I shall be very glad to see every teacher in the county present at this first meeting in 1906. Most of you are enjoying your work during this session. This association is doing much to make conditions better for you. Will you stand socially for it and its work? Your presence is the only thing necessary for a splendid meeting. Shall we have it?

WELSH SUPERSTITIONS.

They Associate Spectral Hounds With Mountain Storms.

One of the many curious superstitions of the Welsh peasantry is that of Cron Annwn, or "the spirit hounds of the air." When a storm rages over the mountains of Wales the peasant will tell you that his ear can discern the howl of the Cron Annwn mingled with that of the wind, but sufficiently clear and distinct to admit of no mistake of what it is.

These "spirit hounds," he tells you, are the spectral dogs which hunt the souls of the dead, or which foretell by their expectant cry the approaching death of some person of evil deeds. Few of those who pretend that they can so readily distinguish the cry of the soul hunting pack are willing to admit that they have ever actually seen a Cron Annwn, "for," they say, "who would linger until such specters dawned upon the sight?" They are described by Faliessin and also in the "Mabinogion," where it is said they are of a clear, shining white, with red ears. The above seems to be the universal description, and on that account the author of "Mythology of the Ancient Druids" gives it as his opinion that they are really "mystical transformations of Druidish priests, with their white robes and red tiaras."

In the popular superstitions of Ireland, where a similar belief in spectral hounds exists, they are said to be "jet black, with eyes and teeth of fire." Old Con McMichael, who murdered twenty persons in the early part of the fifteenth century and who got rid of his victims by burning their bodies, is said to have been eaten by spectral dogs "that could be seen high in the air awfully rending and tearing his flesh." One of the peculiarities of the Cron Annwn is that the farther away they are the louder their cries appear, the sound decreasing as they draw near.

WHAT IS AN EPIGRAM?

Primarily an inscription, it is now of vastly greater dignity.

An epigram in its primary signification was nothing more nor less than an inscription. It was "something written" to mark a spot or an event. It was the form of words attached to an altar or a monument or an image to show whose image or monument or altar it was. If you consecrated a secular elm to Pan you pinned an epigram on the bark to announce that fact. If you presented to a friend an amethyst cup engraved with a figure of Bacchus you embodied in an epigram your sentiments. It is a mistake to suppose that these pieces were in their first inception satirical, but the Romans made them so, and as time went on the trick of writing them in Latin as well as in Greek involved an attention to concentrated effect. The epigrammatist tried to fill his little glass as full as possible, and there were bubbles of malice round the brim. Gradually the idea grew that an epigram ought to finish with a snap; that the very end of the last line ought to contain the essence of the lampoon. This type of the form was amusingly defined by Dr. Edward Walsh, a poet of the latter half of the eighteenth century:

An epigram should be—if right—
Short, simple, pointed, keen and bright,
A lively little thing;
A wasp, with taper body, bound
By lines, not many, neat and round—
All ending in a sting.

The poetical shape was always preserved, since without it an epigram would scarcely have been anything at all. A French wit, La Monnoye, said that an epigram in prose is a cavalryman dismounted. But a large proportion of the Elizabethan and Jacobean epigrams were beggars on horseback who if they had been turned off their rhyme would have been beggars and nothing else. The idea was that a joke or a statement of fact, whether grave or gay, had but to be rhymed to become a piece of literature worthy to be printed and preserved in the archives of a poet's writings.—Edmund Gosse in Harper's Magazine.

A Triumph of Elementary Education.

The following little incident happened in a London suburb: A bootmaker's apprentice, a lad of about fourteen, delivered a pair of boots at a tradesman's house. The tradesman's wife, accustomed to orderly business ways, asked the lad after handing him the money for the boots to receipt the bill. At this request the lad showed the greatest confusion, so that the woman to reassure him said, "Just receipt it as a matter of business." Whereupon he wrote laboriously something on the paper. In the evening when the tradesman examined the papers on the spike he came upon a bootmaker's bill, at the foot of which was written in large letters in a school-boy hand, "As a matter of business." It was the youthful apprentice's literal interpretation of the demand for a receipt as a matter of business.—London Mail.

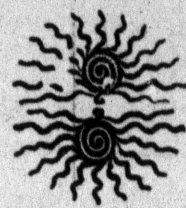

Jewels on the Sick List.

Precious stones are subject to serious changes. The discoloration which attacks them when they have been exposed to the air for a long time is spoken of as a malady. The influence of light makes itself felt plainly on topazes and garnets. The garnet turns much paler in a short time, while the topaz assumes a darker shade and even loses the brilliancy possessed by it when freshly cut. The most sensitive stone in this respect is the opal. It suffers always by excess of heat. Owing to its chemical composition is sensitive to all changes of temperature. Pearls also deteriorate very easily. Indeed the only way to keep them in good "health" is to wear them next to the skin night and day. Society women usually do so.

Tempered With Mercy.

An English gentleman went to a village in the north of Scotland for a week's fishing on the lochs in the district. He was very unfortunate, having caught nothing in the first five days of his stay. Of course his hotel bill, a boatman's hire as well as sundry odd amounts made the fishing rather expensive. On the last day, however, he killed a nice salmon, and in the course of conversation with the boatman he said, "Donald, do you know that fish has cost me £10?" "Aweel, sir," replied Donald, who took life very easily, "all things be mixed wi' mercy. It's a blessing ye didna catch ony mair."

THE DISPENSARY.

Ever since the dispensary was established in Greenville on the first of July, 1903, there have been opponents ready to say all manner of things against it and in every way possible mislead the public as to its operation. During the first six months there were such hindrances thrown in the way as not to give the institution a fair showing during that period. The past year these hindrances were less pronounced so that it was not trammelled by them, yet there are those who have continued to misrepresent the situation in order to create as much opposition as possible.

In order that the public may be correctly informed in the matter THE REFLECTOR will give some facts bearing up it, from which all can judge for themselves.

To get at the financial operations of the dispensary manager W. S. Atkins was interviewed. His books for the past six months show that the purchases in that time amounted to $19,381.18 and the sales for the same period were $32,796.20. The amount of stock and cash on hand Dec. 31st was $3,924.66 which after deducting the amount of unpaid bills leaves a net profit for the six months of $9,711.82. In the same period the sum of $8,000 has been paid into the treasuries of the town and county, one-half going to each. For the entire year 1905 the sum of $14,000 was turned over to the town and county, the town's half going into the general fund and the county's half going the public schools of of the entire county. Thus it is seen that from the proceeds of the dispensary in one year the town received $7,000 and the county received $7,000, whereas from license taxes on the eleven bar rooms that previously existed the town received under the highest levy made only $2,750 and the county only $2,200. The figures speak for themselves whether it is better, from a financial standpoint, to have a dispensary or saloons.

As to the effect of the dispensary upon the police courts of the town, Mayor F. M. Wooten was interviewed. From the dockets under his administration and those of his predecessors a comparison for the months of November and December in the years 1903, 1904 and 1905 is made. In November of the year 1903, while the saloons were open, the number of cases tried before the mayor were 24, of which 14 were for drunkenness. December of the same year the number of cases was 43, of which 21 were for drunkenness. In November, 1904, in the early career of the dispensary, the total number of cases was 25, of which 8 were for drunkenness. In December of the same year the number of cases was 28, of which 7 were for drunkenness. In November, 1905, the number of cases was 25, of which 9 were for drunkenness, and in December of that year the number of cases was 18, of which 5 were drunkenness. These figures tell their own story and show how the offences for drunkenness have decreased.

Isaac H. Smith, the big New Bern negro, who once went to the legislature, and often got himself before the public by saying and writing things to the newspapers, has met his price and fallen. Isaac stood high as a vestryman of the colored Episcopal church of his home town, and it fell to his lot to raise money for the church. This caused his downfall. The church became suspicious that what he collected was not all accounted for and turned over, so asked Bishop Strange to go there and make an investigation. The investigation disclosed that there was ample ground for the suspicious, the bishop finding facts to show that Isaac had collected funds and kept them. Thereupon the bishop publicly excommunicated Isaac on the charge of stealing. A negro politician and church money won't do well together.

As to moral conditions since the dispensary was established is almost useless to speak, as every one who passes through the streets of Greenville can but notice the great decrease in drunkenness and mark the difference. While the dispensary does not meet all the desires of the advocates of temperance or prohibition, it is from every point of argument so great an improvement over bar rooms that no one who has the best interests of the community at heart ever wants to see another saloon in Greenville.

Posting Him.

On one occasion when Rev. Charles Page Eden was dean of Oriel college grave complaints against the college cook were brought to him by one of the undergraduates. The dean sent for the offender, recapitulated his several delinquencies and threatened him with dismissal.

"La, Mr. Eden," rejoined the cook in a confidential tone, "it's no manner of use attending to what the young men tell you about my dinners. Why, you know, Mr. Eden, they come in just in the same way to me and complain about your lectures!"—London Mail.

Why He Changed Faith.

A southerner was telling of an old colored man in his neighborhood who first joined the Episcopal church, then the Methodist and next the Baptist, where he remained. Questioned as to the reason for his church travels he responded:

"Well, suh, hit's this way: De 'Piscopals is gemman, suh, but I couldn't keep up wid de answerin' back in dey church. De Methodists, dey always holdin' inquiry meetin's, and I don't like too much inquiren' into, but de Baptists, suh, dey jus' dip and are done wid hit."—New York Press.

BARONS OF KINGSALE.

How They Got the Right to Remain Covered Before Royalty.

When the king of England rides through the streets on a state occasion his approach is generally heralded by the loyal citizens along the route baring their heads. Though this is mostly a spontaneous act of courtesy, it is also something that a monarch can legally claim as a right. The barons of Kingsale have long been exempt, however, having the privilege of remaining covered in the king's presence.

They had this dubious distinction as a reward for an old time service. Seven centuries ago Philip of France summoned that cheerful hero, King John, to mortal combat. John thought he would rather not, but offered De Courcy, Lord Kingsale, freedom from the dungeon in which he lay if he would take in hand the commission.

De Courcy, spoiling for a fight, agreed, and John and Philip sat together to see somebody's head cracked. The French champion cried off on seeing the size of the Englishman, whereupon the untried conqueror playfully stuck his helmet upon a post of oak and drove his sword through it and so deep into the wood that none save himself could withdraw it.

He had purchased his freedom, and his reward he heard from his magnanimous sovereign's lips: "Thou art a pleasant companion, and heaven keep thee in good beavers. Never unveil thy bonnet again before king or subject."

The Kingsales used to keep covered before their sovereigns until George III., jealous of his subject's privilege, complained, "The gentleman has a right to keep covered before me, but even King John could give him no right to be covered before ladies."

William III. was much averse to removing his hat, even in church. He was Dutch, and Dutchmen wore their hats in church. So would he. Besides the Jews, the chosen ones, sat in their synagogues hatted, and they ought to know what was what. For the liturgy he might slip off his mighty beaver, but the parson had no sooner mounted to the pulpit than up upon the kingly head the hat went again and there remained until the end of the service.—London Standard.

When Are We Strongest?

The lifting power of a youth of seventeen years is 280 pounds. In his twentieth year this increases to 320 pounds. In the thirtieth and thirty-first year it reaches its height, 365 pounds. At the end of the thirty-first year the strength begins to decline, very slowly at first. By the fortieth year it has decreased eight pounds, and this diminution continues at a slightly increasing rate until the fiftieth year is reached, when the figure is 330 pounds. After this period the strength fails more and more rapidly until the weakness of old age is reached. It is not possible to give statistics of the decline of strength after the fiftieth year, as it varies to a large extent in different individuals.—Chicago Journal.

A Valuable Possum.

When he was asked about the price of a big, fat possum he was hawking around the old Georgia ducky said:

"He's wuth $1 a day, suh."

Then he explained his meaning as follows:

"You see, boss, I wuz five days locatin' whar he lived at, en w'en I finally koted up wid him hit wuz Sunday, en de preacher seen me, en I wuz turned out de church, so I figgers de value er my time at a dollar a day—not ter mention de loss er my church standin' by de possum causin' me ter fall fum grace."—Atlanta Constitution.

Don't Be Afraid to Smile.

We do not smile enough. I am sure of it. Of course we smile in greeting and we laugh at jokes, but that is not virtue, only a matter of course. The time to smile is in our intercourse with the family, every day, all the time, almost every time we speak. If you do it you will find this remarkable thing, that it makes you seek the eye of the person to whom you speak, and that is the sweet way to keep alive a current of sympathy. Don't reserve your smiles for the select few. Cast them over the world like beams of sunshine to make it happier.—Exchange.

A leading magazine for 18 years. With the recent change of ownership it has been improved. It is far better in every respect, and aims to be the best in the field. Every year or so there's one notable advance in the forward movement among the many magazines. This year it is the Cosmopolitan.

Woman's Home Companion

The Woman's Home Companion is for every member of the family. For our bright, earnest, cultured, home loving American woman it is an ideal entertainer and helper in a thousand congenial ways; but the fathers and brothers and sons join in its perusal by the fireside; children eagerly turn to the pages that are written for them.

A Curious Lake.

Bridger lake, in northwest Wyoming, has a queer characteristic and one which cannot be claimed for any other body of water in America. It has this peculiarity: It discharges its waters into both the Pacific ocean and the gulf of Mexico. During the average seasons the waters of Bridger lake flow out through a small river which is a tributary to the Yellowstone, and the water thus discharged finally reaches the gulf by way of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers. During rainy seasons the level of the lake becomes so high that the waters empty through another opening also. The waters which are discharged through this second chasm flow into Snake river and thence to the Pacific ocean through the Columbia.

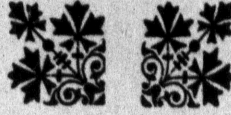

The Ears of Insects and Animals.

It would be quite natural, of course, to look on the side of the head of any living creature, provided he had a head, for the organ of hearing. Such investigation, however, no odds how thorough, would be void of results in many instances. In the clam it is found in the base of his "foot," or feeler. In the most of grasshoppers it is in the fore leg, while several species of insects have it in the wing. Lobsters and crabs all have the auditory sac at the base of the antennae, or feelers.

A Christmas Pessimist.

A pessimist, I take it, is a grownup man whose cause is to prove the wicked doctrine that there is no Santa Claus.

1906.

We wish to extend to all our customers and friends very best wishes for a happy and prosperous NEW YEAR together with our sincere appreciation of their liberal patronage during the past season, which we shall endeavor to deserve.
