AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town.

AYDEN, N. C., Jan. 16, 1906.

Married—At the Carolina hotel Saturday evening Miss Rosa Johnston, a pupil of the seminary and a daughter of Godfrey Johnston, near Greenville, was united in marriage to Mr. Luther Little, of Beaufort county, Squire J. J. Stokes performing the ceremony. This happy couple left on the Sunday morning train for the home of the groom. Before leaving however they took in the fire.

W. E. Patrick went to Goldsboro Thursday and returned Friday.

Lee Bland, of Greenville, has been here on a visit to his parents.

D. S. Moore left Friday morning presumably for Greenville.

Quarterly meeting of the Missionary Baptist was held with the church at this place Sunday morning and evening.

Right many people from here are in attendance upon court in Greenville.

Miss Dora Hornaday went to Greenville Saturday and returned same evening.

Saturday morning in the neighborhood of Bethany church, Mr. Joe Smith was seriously hooked by a vicious bull. The services of Dr. Dixon were called in and it was said the condition of the wounded man was real serious and that he bled profusely from several wounds inflicted by the maddened brute. We have been unable to learn all the particulars.

Friday morning Constable Hemby armed with a warrant for a negro went to look his man. While on the road he overtook a darkey who asked permission to ride. The constable kindly consented and landed his passenger at his destination, to find later his companion was the culprit looked for but whom he had permitted to escape. Mr. Hemby is just now afflicted with a case of mean grins.

GENERA NEWS.

Happenings of Interest Over the Country.

Albert Patrick, the New York lawyer convicted and awaiting execution, has been granted a reprieve by Governor Higgins until March 19th.

The Southern Cotton Growers Association, at the session held in New Orleans last week, voted to hold the remainder of the cotton crop on hand for 15 cents. The convention also recommended a reduction of 25 per cent in acreage from that planted in 1904.

The Journalist Walter Wellman, has received a peremptory order from the Chicago paper which he represents, to go at once to the North Pole in a balloon. Many other journalists, however, say there is nothing remarkable about the peremptory order, and that they have often been told by their editor to go to a more dangerous and hotter place, without a specification as to the vehicle.—Durham Sun.

Dastardly Deed Attempted at Chapel Hill.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Jan. 15.—Charged with an attempted criminal assault upon little Laura Mann, the nine-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Mann, of this place, M. M. Downie, a brick layer between twenty-five and thirty years old, in default of $500 bond, was sent to Hillsboro jail Sunday morning, there to remain until the next session of the Superior Court.

It was between six and seven o'clock Saturday night that Downie attempted the foul crime against this innocent child. He was a boarder in her mother's home, Mr. Mann, the father, employed in a cabinet shop in Raleigh, being in that city at the time.

To Widden Cotton Market.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Senator Clay today submitted an amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill, appropriating $250,000 for the study of conditions in Central and South America and in the far East in order to extend the markets for American cotton goods.

American Beats at Billiards.

Paris, Jan. 15.—In a 500 point billiard match tonight for the championship of the world between Maurice Vignaux, of Paris, and Willie Hope, of New York, the latter won by 177 points.

TEACHER'S MEETING.

Interesting Session Saturday of Last Week.

Although the weather was bad last Friday and Saturday, the teachers' meeting of Pitt county held in the Greenville graded school building Saturday morning, Jan. 13th, 1906, was a happy success. A good crowd was present, and all seemed to enjoy the time spent pleasantly and profitably together. Those teachers who came over rough and muddy roads deserve much credit, but be it said in justice to honesty, they would not have come so cheerfully if they had not known that there was something good in store for them at the end of their journey, for the teachers' meetings of Pitt county have never been other than interesting and inspiring.

Owing to the fact that a number of the teachers were absent, the regular programme was not rendered, and the meeting was made informal. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. H. H. Moore. Prof. Smith, superintendent of the Greenville graded school, was introduced to the association. He made an excellent impromptu speech, in which he spoke highly of the work the association is doing, and expressed a desire to be of service in the work.

Miss Howell, formerly a teacher of this county, told something of her work in the Goldsboro graded school, and represented the magazine edited by her brother, of New York.

Last, but not least, came the address by Prof. W. B. Dove, ex-superintendent of the Greenville graded school. Mr. Dove tried in a very forceful manner to impress upon the teachers the importance of being professional, doing their best, and at the same time valuing themselves and their work.

Several short talks were made at intervals by Prof. W. H. Ragsdale, who is always willing to speak an encouraging and helpful word to the teachers, over whom he has supervision. Pamphlets by able authors on geography and nature study were distributed.

This meeting, though its attendance was necessarily smaller than usual, did much good, and will long be remembered by those present as a most pleasant occasion. May the influence of the association continue to grow and spread, leading cheer and inspiration to its members. Dora Hornaday, Reporter.

Must Be On Hand.

If witnesses at this court want to get pay for attendance they had better be within the court room when called. Monday when several absentees were called Judge Long ordered the clerk to make an entry against all witnesses who were not in the court room when called and not allow them to prove tickets for attendance.

THE WEATHER

Fair tonight and Wednesday, colder tonight and in eastern portion Wednesday.

NORTH CAROLINA MEASURES.

Inland Waterway and Hatteras Light Interesting Congressmen.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—The rivers and harbors congress in session here is attended by all the members of the North Carolina delegation, who were appointed delegates by Governor Glenn, and they are manifesting a decided interest in the proceedings of the body, which are participated in by representatives from twenty-six States. Representative Patterson was selected a member of the committee on credentials this morning.

The congress will be asked to give approval to the proposed inland waterway, which is fathered by Representative Small, and which was endorsed by the congress at its last session in Baltimore in 1901.

Since the government has signed a contract with Capt. A. F. Eells and his associates for the construction of a light house and fog signal on the outer Diamond Shoal, off Cape Hatteras, which is regarded as the graveyard of the Atlantic, the engineering world particularly and the maritime world generally, are watching the undertaking with no little interest. Previous attempts to place a light house at Hatteras have resulted disastrously, but Capt. Eells and his associates are absolutely confident of success.

Help the School Fund.

It is a hard matter to keep people seated in the court room and it makes Sheriff Tucker hustle to look after the standers. Monday afternoon Judge Long told the sheriff to go around and collect 25 cents out of every man who wanted to stand up and turn it over to the school fund. There was an immediate break for seats.

Another Wreck.

There was another wreck Monday on the Plymouth branch of the Atlantic Coast Line. It occurred near Jamesville. Three freight cars were demolished and the track was torn up for some distance.

A delegate has introduced a bill in the Virginia assembly prohibiting football in that state. And this is what comes of our boys winning last year.—Durham Herald.

LITTLE THINGS THAT COUNT.

The Other Fellow Needs to be Encouraged.

How many of us have paused to think how much help there is in a handshake when given in a spirit of true friendship? Or in a word spoken in a brotherly way? Even in a kindly glance bestowed upon a weak or disheartened brother and conveying with all the meaning in your soul the unexpressed, "Be of good courage."

The majority of mankind today ask not for food, not for raiment, but for sympathy. As you walk along the street you meet a man whose face shows that he has had some misfortune cast upon his life. You meet such men every day, on the street, in your office—and even at your own home. They are pessimistic and discouraged, and distrust all the world. Their spirits are at low ebb and they need to be inoculated with courage.

Again, there are others who perchance are in some vocation which does not measure up to their ambitions. They are discouraged. They look around at the lives of other men, apparently successful, and the dissatisfaction at their own condition increases. That dissatisfaction often urges them to redoubled efforts, but unfortunately it more often means lost hope and blasted ambitions. They need to have some one tap them on the shoulder and say, "Be of good courage."

To say to a weak brother some little word of encouragement often will make him a moral giant and assist him to rise above his difficulties and his shortcomings. He needs words of strength. He needs the hearty handshake, the hand upon the shoulder—the reassuring smile.

What a changed world this would be if each one of us would watch for just these little opportunities for doing good. Humanity is in constant need of help, and in spite of the fact that we are living in prosperous times there are men everywhere about us craving for support and sympathy and comfort. Do you give it?—Exchange.

OVER THE STATE.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

An explosion of blasting powder near Bryson City, Swain county, tore the bodies of a white man and three negroes to fragments.

Winston-Salem, Jan. 15.—By the explosion of a coal stove the home of Deputy Sheriff J. J. Cofer was practically destroyed by fire today. The officer was confined to his bed by sickness, in his efforts to save his baby, which was in the bed with him, was badly burned in the face. Nearly all of the household property and wearing apparel belonging to Mr. Cofer and the members of his family was lost.

Saturday afternoon William Venters, son of the late Mr. George Venters, met with a serious accident. While assisting Robert Jackson in operating his wood cutter, which is attached to an automobile, he in some way got his right hand entangled in the machinery, having all his fingers, with the exception of his thumb, cut off.—Washington Messenger.

JUDGE LONG'S CHARGE.

There is no better way to judge a man than by his speech, and those who heard Judge B. F. Long's charge to the grand jury Monday were quick to reach the conclusion that he is a man of high character and ability, a keen discernor between right and wrong, a good judge of men and what is in them. At times he gave emphasis to the point under discussion in very plain language, calling "a spade a spade" when the subject justified it. Following him in his charge THE REFLECTOR jotted down some notes here and there to speak of more fully than could be done in the first reference to what he said.

In speaking of the dignity surrounding the office of grand jurors and the duties incumbent upon them he said they should make presentment of such offenses as came within their own knowledge. They should even go further and make presentment when matters come to them upon credible information. But there is a distinction as to what credible information is. If a man is mouthing around the grand jury room with some complaint and they know him to be a common liar, he should be dismissed at once without further ado. But the word of a man known to be honest and true in character is worthy of consideration and information coming from such a source was creditable.

Judge Long expressed surprise at finding upon reaching here that there were 140 cases on the criminal docket, yet it had been only a short time since a criminal court. Should one from a foreign land drop in and look at this record, without looking into the faces of the people, he would conclude that all were bad. But the criminal class are in the minority, and thank God it is so; for if they were not in the minority there would soon not be a court house left standing. Yet such conditions existing in so large and intelligent a county shows that the law aiding citizens fail in their duty to assist officers in repressing crime.

He expressed disapproval of the present petit jury system that requires twelve men to reach a verdict. When much is at stake, the prevailing fool idea about selecting juries makes the temptation strong to get one man to hang a jury, and with the defendant having twenty three peremptory challenges while the State only has four makes this easy to accomplish. In this respect the jury system ought to be changed, and three-fourths of the jury should be sufficient for a verdict in a capital case, and a majority or two thirds in minor offenses. To help bring about a reformation in this particular he would like to be a member of the Legislature about twenty minutes, for he would make a speech on it that long if he did nothing else.

By way of parenthesis to show that the present jury system had outlived its usefulness, he gave two illustrations. One was the homestead allowing a man $1,000 of real estate and $500 personal estate—a good law just after the war when men were impoverished and needed relief from debt, but now a discourager of thrift in that it held some men back from accumulating more than the homestead through fear of having to pay their debts. The other was the government system of pensioning every fellow who smelled powder in the war. He believed the valiant disabled soldier ought to have a pension, but this way of every deserter, every fellow who hid behind a stump or took to the woods being on the pension list and getting something for nothing is absurd. These and the present jury system are abuses that ought to be corrected.

Before coming into this court he asked the register of deeds for statistics as to what the courts of Pitt county were costing the tax payers. The figures furnished showed that the courts of the past fiscal year cost $5,485.86, the clerk collected in jury taxes $590.65, leaving the net cost $4,895.21, and the people got back in fines for the school fund only $1,343.50. Your courts costs too much.

Liquor brings more cases to the criminal docket than come from any other source. The trouble in getting the illegal selling of liquor stopped is that there is too much lying about it. Neither those who sell it nor those who buy it will go on the witness stand and tell the truth.

Another trouble hard to correct is carrying concealed weapons. While this law is on the statute books it ought to be enforced, but even then the habit is not stopped. He some times felt that the judges of the State ought to come together and agree upon some uniform penalty for this offense.

The foregoing is only a part of the strong points Judge Long made. His interesting charge left an impression for good upon every lover of law and order who heard him.

It is too late to grieve over spilled milk, but some articles got in Monday's paper without the proof being read, and the errors spoke for themselves.

Charlotte folks have been calling it "medicine for the cook," but since the Wadesboro discovery they can say it is "rat exterminator" they want.

Lexington is going at the thing right. A mad dog appeared in that town and bit several other dogs. In one week the police have killed seventeen canines and are still going loaded to the muzzle for them.

"The good roads in this county speak for themselves," says the Durham Sun. So do the bad roads down this way. They sing out every time a hoof pulls out of the mire or a wheel turns over in the mud.

New Rat Exterminator.

According to the Wadesboro Messenger and Intelligencer an Anson county man has discovered a simple and most effective rat exterminator—nothing more nor less than corn whiskey. This, like most great discoveries, was made accidentally. That paper thus describes how the discovery was made and what good results followed experiments by the discoverer:

A well known gentleman of Lilesville township recently accidentally discovered a rat exterminator that lays rough on rats in the shade for effectiveness. The exterminator is nothing less than corn whiskey, and the only trouble about its coming into general use is that there are few people, who have it about them, who are willing to divide with the rats. Several nights ago the gentleman in question happened to leave a small quantity of whiskey in a saucer on the dining room table. Next morning he was surprised to find the whiskey all gone and the table almost covered with dead rats. He then placed some whiskey in his barn and the rats drank it greedily and immediately keeled over and gave up the ghost.

But, for the reason stated above, we very much fear that this remedy for rats will never be popular with the public.

It strikes us that most people who, after this, take any corn liquor to their homes will be inclined to test it on rats before trying it themselves. Few people, we believe, would be willing to take a drink of corn whiskey after seeing the effects as above described of a sample exposed to the rats on the premise. Corn liquor that will kill rats must be horrible stuff indeed and a man who is willing to put any of it in his stomach must have strong faith in the poison-resisting powers of that one of his organs. We are inclined to think, though, that it was not "the corn in the liquor" which killed the rats, but some of the poisonous ingredients used to such an extent by some manufacturers and dealers. It will be noticed that this Lilesville man does not state that he had drunk any of the whiskey from which he had taken the doses administered to the rats.—Wilmington Messenger.

BURNSIDE'S ROMANCE.

Killed at the Altar When a Young Man by a Kentucky Girl.

The story of the life of General Burnside is the sweetest morsel of patriotic reminiscence possessed by Liberty, says the Liberty correspondent of the Indianapolis News. He is the idol of local history. Liberty has only one other love—Joaquin Miller, "the poet of the Sierras." Burnside and Miller were born at the gates of this old town, and the boyhood days of both were spent within its borders.

In December, 1851, Lieutenant Burnside returned from the Mexican war to Liberty for a visit, and while there he met a young woman from Kentucky. He fell in love almost at first glance, and the affection appeared to be reciprocated. They became engaged, and preparations for the wedding were made in the Kentucky home of the promised bride. The ceremony was to take place in a church, and numerous guests had assembled to witness it.

Burnside and his sweetheart marched down the aisle to the music of a wedding march and took their places before the altar. The clergyman received the vow from the bridegroom and turned to the bride to ask if she was ready to take him as a husband. The assemblage was astounded when the woman before the altar stammered, "No!" and broke the hand clasp. She then hurried from the church, followed by Burnside and the astonished wedding guests.

For years that sensational wreck of a youthful dream had an effect on him, and he had little to do with the gentler sex. He had the satisfaction of hearing a few months after he was jilted that the young woman had married another man under threat. She had boasted that she would serve him as she had Burnside. On the way to the church, however, the bridegroom drew a revolver from his pocket and said:

"You are to be one of two things—my wife or a corpse."

The hint was sufficient, and the trifter with masculine affections gave an affirmative answer to the questions of the minister.

Prior to the civil war Burnside married Miss Mary Bishop.

Upset Clerical Dignity.

The minister who had the reputation of never relaxing from his dignity was trying to prove to a few congenial friends that the reputation was not deserved. "Why, one day I laughed right out in the pulpit," he said, "and I did not get over the disgrace of it for several weeks. But it was one of those times when my sense of humor got the better of my ministerial calm."

"It was one hot summer day, and my church was very close to a house. The windows of the church were open, and we could hear distinctly the murmur of voices next door. I had just offered prayer, and there was the intense silence which always follows an invocation. In the solemn silence a woman's harsh voice screamed:

"John, where are the nails?" And a gruff voice answered:

"In the coffeepot, you fool. You put them there yourself."

Abolished Death.

The problems of life and death, which, to say the least of it, puzzle most people, are lightly disposed of by the child. A little girl, coming in contact with death for the first time in the shape of a lifeless bird that she found in the wood, ran with it to her nurse, according to the London Chronicle. "What can be the matter with it?" she cried in amazement. The nurse, of course, improved the occasion. "The bird is dead," she said portentously. "We must all die some day." The little girl looked at the small corpse in her hand contemplatively, then dropped it with some disgust. "You may die if you want to," she remarked. "I shan't."

He Didn't Haft.

He was one of those unruly youngsters who make the life of a public schoolteacher a hard one. He was in the primary grade. He came in one morning with dirty hands and face. The teacher looked at him severely.

"Johnny!"
"Yes'm."
"Have you washed your face and hands this morning?"

"No'm."

"Why not?"

"None of the folks is home, an' I don't haft to."

is daily enacted, in thousands of homes, as Death claims, in each one, another victim of Consumption or Pneumonia. But when Coughs and Colds are properly treated, the tragedy is averted. F. G. Huntly, of Oakland, Ind., writes: "My wife had the consumption, and three doctors gave her up. Finally she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which cured her and to day she is well and strong." It kills the germs of all diseases. One dose relieves. Guaranteed at 50c and $1.00 by J. L. Wooten, druggist. Trial bottle free.

Occasionally a man marries to prove that he can do as he pleases and finds when that is done that he no longer can.

A reasonable amount of food thoroughly digested and properly assimilated will always increase the strength. When people are too easy with you, be careful. They may be letting out enough rope for you to hang yourself with.

Sickening Shivering Fits

of Ague and Malaria, can be relieved and cured with Electric Bitters. This is a pure, tonic medicine; of especial benefit in malaria, for it exerts a true curative influence on the disease, driving it entirely out of the system. It is much to be preferred to Quinine, having none of this drug's bad after effects. E. S. Munday, of Henrietta, Tex., writes: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and jaundice, till he took Electric Bitters, which saved his life. At J. L. Wooten's drug store; price 50c, guaranteed.

When a widower is having a love affair, he must wonder what idiot wrote, "The whole world loves a lover".

We wish to extend to all our customers and friends very best wishes for a happy and prosperous NEW YEAR together with our sincere appreciation of their liberal patronage during the past season, which we shall endeavor to deserve.

We are now making preparation for the biggest year's business any firm in Eastern North Carolina has ever known. Leather, Cotton Goods and Wool are advancing rapidly, therefore for the protection of our customers we are placing large orders as far in advance as the factories will accept them.

Our after Christmas clearing and stock adjusting sale will commence with the New Year. The holiday rushing has left us with broken lots, odd sizes and season goods such as the economical shopper is always on the lookout for. These goods will be sacrificed during this Great Clearance Sale and the prices will reach the lowest limit.
