A FARMVILLE OFFICER MURDERED.

CONSTABLE W. J. LOVITT SHOT WHILE ABOUT TO SERVE WARRANT.

One Negro Arrested for the Crime and One Escaped. Hines' Dogs Do Good Work.

Constable W. J. Lovitt, of Farmville, was shot and killed Saturday night while in the performance of his official duties. Mr. Lovitt has been constable of Farmville township only three weeks, having been appointed by the county commissioners on the first Monday in this month to succeed R. E. Belcher resigned.

The particulars of the tragedy are as follows: Saturday evening about sunset Messrs. John Case and W. H. Smith started on a wagon from Farmville to their homes about 5 miles distant. When they reached the cross roads, not quite two miles from Farmville they met several negroes on foot in the road, who refused to get out of the way so the wagon could pass. Mr. Case told them to get out of the way as they were on foot, when one of the negroes told him to drive the wagon around, as the road belonged as much to them as anybody had they were not going to get out of the way.

Mr. Case picked up shovel that was in the wagon and got out to make the negroes give room to pass, Jerry Cobb, assisted by Sylvester Barrett, got the shovel away from Mr. Case when Mr. Smith jumped out of the wagon to go to his assistance. Cobb broke Mr. Smith's arm with the shovel and also struck Mr. Case, while Barrett cut Mr. Case's clothing with a pocket knife.

Messrs. Case and Smith went back to Farmville for the former's arms to be dressed and while there swore out warrants for Cobb and Barrett, which were placed in the hands of Constable Lovitt. The officer, accompanied by Dr. C. C. Joyner and Mr. Richard Carr, started out to find the negroes. About a mile beyond where the previous trouble occurred they overtook two negroes in the road. Constable Lovitt jumped off the buggy and ordered the negroes to halt, when one of them shot him, killing him almost instantly. The negroes fled and the body of the dead officer was carried to the home of Mr. Watt Parker, near the scene of the tragedy.

Sunday morning Coroner William Fountain went out and held an inquest and Constable Lovitt was buried that afternoon.

Mr. W. C. Hines with his blood hounds, accompanied by Deputy Sheriffs S. I. Dudley and R. Hyman, went out there before day Sunday morning and put the dogs on the trail. The dogs worked the trail finely and Sylvester Barrett was soon captured. Jerry Cobb was also trailed for some time but there had been so much passing about that the dogs lost his track.

Barrett was brought to Greenville and placed in jail.

There is some talk of offering free lands to induce immigrants to come to North Carolina. We had better induce people who have money to buy lands and are able to do something for themselves and the State. There are plenty of inducements here for that class of people without inviting the fellows who are looking for a gift.—Wilmington Star.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.

MERCHANT SHOT AT THROUGH STORE WINDOW.

A Negro Named Frank Young Arrested, Convicted and Sentenced to Seven Years in the Penitentiary for the Act.

Mr. C. D. Tunstall keeps store on Dickinson avenue, near the depot. Saturday night a negro named Frank Young went in the store and invited him when Mr. Tunstall knocked the negro down and made him go out of the store. The negro stood around outside the store for sometime and was heard making threats.

An hour or two later while Mr. Tunstall was in the back part of the store cutting meat for a customer, some one fired a pistol at him through the window. Fortunately Tunstall had stooped over just as the pistol fired and the ball went directly over his back and did him no harm.

The negro Young was suspected of doing the shooting and a warrant was sworn out for him. He had disappeared in the meantime but as he had relatives living around Grifton it was thought he had gone in that direction and officers were advised to look out for him.

Officer D. W. Beddard found Young in Grifton about noon Sunday and arrested him. The negro tried to draw a pistol on the officer at the time of a rest, but the officer was too quick for him. Officer Beddard brought Young to Greenville Sunday evening and he was placed in jail.

The courts made quick work of Young. He was given a hearing before Mayor Wooten this morning and sent on to Superior court now in session. The grand jury was only a few minutes in finding a true bill. The case was called at once, Young plead guilty and was sentenced by Judge Long to seven years in the penitentiary. This is the kind of quick work that counts in dealing with criminals.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Business Meeting and Delightful Social. In Celebration of Lee's Birthday.

The business meeting of the Epworth League of Greenville Methodist church, was held Friday evening at the home of Mrs. H. C. Hooker, followed by a delightful social and literary meeting. A large crowd was present, and the reports showed the league to be in a most flourishing condition. The program of the literary department was well rendered and greatly enjoyed.

At the business meeting, immediately preceding the social and literary meeting, several new names were presented to the league for membership, each being accepted. The roll call showed a large per cent of members present, and a large amount was collected in payment of January dues. It was then decided to make a donation to the Methodist orphanage at Raleigh, and many of the members promptly expressed their willingness to aid this worthy institution in anyway possible. Many of the ladies of the league have agreed to devote a portion of their time to sewing and making clothing for the orphans at Raleigh.

After the transaction of business, the league entered into a literary and social meeting, which consisted of a delightful and instructive program celebrating Lee's birthday. The participants showed at once they were well up on their subject, and the program which follows was of an exceptional high order:

Song—Dixie—Chorus.
Paper—Sketch of Lee—Harry White.
Reading—Strike My Tent—Mrs. D. D. Overton.
Song—Sing me a song of the South—Mrs. H. C. Hooker.
Song—Old Folks at Home—Chorus.

Miss Mamie Haskett furnished the instrumental music for the evening, presiding at the piano with her usual charm and grace.

Corresponding Secretary.

INCURRED HER DISPLEASURE.

But The Reflector Did Not Make It Rain.

We have been told wherein THE REFLECTOR has incurred the displeasure of a certain sweet little girl in town. The fifth birthday of this particular little miss was approaching, and she had been told that she could invite some of her little friends to be with her. On the eve before the happy day while the family were around the fireside, one of them read aloud from THE REFLECTOR "Rain tonight and tomorrow." Next morning when the little miss awoke and found it raining she began crying, and when asked her trouble said in childish sobs "THE REFLECTOR had no business printing that. It ought not to rain on little girls birthdays." That was very cute in her, and when she gets old enough to know that THE REFLECTOR did not make it rain she will love us as well as ever.

Sunday was an ideal spring day and the churches had large attendance.

Opera House Tonight.

The Corinne Runkel Stock Company will open a three night engagement at the opera house tonight and the play that will be seen is one of the companies strongest bills. The play deals on the South and is very interesting from start to finish. This play and the others that will be produced here never have been seen in this city by any other company. The specialties between the acts are a novelty and will be enjoyed greatly. Tickets can be had at Coward & Wooten's drug store at 35 cents for the orchestra.

A MONSTER BOOK.

The Largest One in the World in the British Museum.

The Chinese department of the British museum library contains, says a writer in Cassell's "World of Wonders," a single work which occupies no fewer than 5,020 volumes.
This wonderful production of the Chinese press is one of only a very small number of copies now in existence. It is an encyclopedia of the literature of China, covering a period of twenty-eight centuries, from 1000 B. C. to 1700 A. D.

It owes its origin to the literary proclivities of the Emperor Kang
He, who reigned from 1662 to 1722.
In the course of his studies of the ancient literature of his country Kang He discovered that extensive corruptions had been allowed to creep into modern editions, and he conceived the idea of having the text of the originals reproduced and preserved in an authoritative form.
This was a mighty conception truly, and in its execution it remains unique down to the present time.
For the purpose of carrying out the work Kang He appointed a commission of learned men to select the writings to be reproduced and employed the Jesuit missionaries to cast copper types with which to execute the printing.

The commission was occupied for forty years in its great task. Before the work was completed Kang He died, but he had provided that his successor should see the book completed, and he faithfully carried out his trust. The book is arranged in six divisions, each dealing with a particular branch of knowledge. The divisions are thus designated: First, writings relating to the heavens;
second, writings relating to the earth; third, writings relating to mankind; fourth, writings relating to inanimate nature; fifth, writings relating to philosophy; sixth, writings relating to political economy.

Immense.
"You know, they say," remarked Mr.
Sloan, gazing dubiously at the mistletoe above her head, "that kissing really spreads disease sometimes."
"Yes?" replied the sweet girl. "By the way, did you know I was vaccinated recently?"

You cannot give a quart of love out of a half-pint heart.

For coughs and colds no remedy is equal to Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar—the Liquid Cold Cure. A reasonable amount of food thoroughly digested and properly assimilated will always increase the strength. MONDAY, JAN. 20th, 1906.

North Carolina is usually a winner, but in the cock fight with Georgia at Covington, Ky., she came out worsted.

Dr. J. Rumble, the most prominent minister in the State, and for years the pastor at Salisbury, died Saturday at Red Springs. Men of his high type are few.

With Wilmington's fifty-odd saloons it looks like the city ought to have enough in the whiskey line, but it is stated that the distillery plant of the Nick Williams Co. is to be located there. The city may be expected to "raise old nick" then.

Saturday was a good day for issuing charters by Secretary of State Grimes. But the nearest any of them came this way was Goldsboro. It is time Greenville was pushing up and getting on that charter list, and we would like to see one for a building and loan association head the list.

The devil seemed at large in Pitt county Saturday night, his subjects even stalking around in defiance of the law or fear of the court. The attempt to assassinate a merchant in Greenville, the murder of a constable at Farmville and the burning of a church at Ayden are dastardly acts that alarm people. Let the guilty ones be tried and punished as speedily as possible.

Congressman Sulzer, of New York, has introduced a bill to increase the salary of the President of the United States to $100,000 a year and of the vice-president to $25,000 a year, the change to take effect March 4, 1909. There are men willing to take the office for less, yet there are many who make that much money in a year without the work or the danger that the President undergoes.

An Editor's Toast.

At an editorial convention one of the country editors offered the following toast:

"To save an editor from starvation, take his newspaper and pay him for it promptly. To save him from bankruptcy, advertise in his paper liberally. To save him from despair send him every item of news of which you can get hold. To save him from profanity, write your correspondence plainly on one side of the sheet and send it in as early as possible. To save him from mistakes, bury him. Dead people are not the only ones that make mistakes. Newspaper readers would do well to remember that there are no perfect people, editors or read-

A YEAR AND A HALF OLD.

Corn on Stalk Still Standing in Field, Sound as a Dollar.

Mr R. L. Hodgin, one of Guilford's farmers living in Fentress township, about a mile and a half from Pleasant Garden, has something not often seen—a field of corn standing that was planted last summer a year ago. The stalks near the ground are somewhat decayed, but the corn itself is as sound as ever. Naturally the question is asked why he left it there. His neighbors say because he did not need it, having an abundance, and that he left it to enrich the field. He could have sold it, of course, but he is not that kind of a man.

It is said of Mr. Hodgin's mother that at her death she had two horses aged 17 years, on neither of which had there ever been a collar. She had raised them from colts, but having no use for them she never broke them to harness and declined to sell them at any price.

The story reminds one of the horse from the Oak ridge settlement that had such wonderful long hoofs. Some family disagreement arose and the horse, its ownership being in dispute, was left in his stable for long years and was never taken out. He was finally sold and was exhibited at some of the fairs in this State four or five years ago, but the strenuous life was too much for him and he gave up the ghost.—Greensboro Record.

Why Women Marry.

Some women marry because they haven't the courage to stay single. Some women marry because a man has asked them to and they don't like to say "No." Some women marry because they want a little more money in their purse and more credit at the shops. Some women marry because they want to put "Mrs." on their visiting cards and the word "wife" on their tombstones. Some women marry for money—money and nothing else and with it comes responsibilities of which they never dream. Some women marry because they love the man; because they want to be his wife, his friend and his helpmate; because they want to make him feel that there is one woman in the world whom he can love and cherish, and from whom he will receive love and consideration in return; because they want to make him feel that if sorrow comes he has a sympathizing loving friend close besides him, and that in the days of joy there is one who can give him smile for smile. These are the only women worth marrying.—Exchange.

Look Up.

The following, credited to "Unknown," is too good to be lost: We love the man with the rose on his tongue, the man who sees the boy's dirty face but mentions his bright eyes, who notices your shabby coat but praises your studious habits, the man who sees all faults but who is quick to praise, slow to blame. We like to meet a man whose smile will brighten up deadness, whose voice is full of music of the birds, whose handshake is an inspiration and his God bless you a benediction. He makes us forget our troubles as the raven's dismal croak is forgotten when the wood thrush sings. God bless the man of cheer. There is plenty of trouble here and we need not increase it. There is a lot of dying done ahead of time.

Doubtless the reason that wisdom cryeth in the streets is that cunning has stolen its pocketbook.

Gov. Glenn in Richmond.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 19.—Gov. Glenn, of North Carolina; came over from Petersburg, where he made an address before the Virginia Anti-Saloon League, and dropped in on the House of Delegates today. He was invited to a seat beside the presiding officer of the day, Col. Robert E. Lee, grandson of Gen. R. E. Lee, and responded appropriately to calls for a few remarks, making reference to the significance of "Lee-Jackson Day," the day being celebrated.

Governor Glenn afterwards dined with Governor Montague at the Executive Mansion.

Reports of Gins.

Dallas, Texas, Jan. 19.—The semi-monthly bale report of the National Ginner's Association compiled today shows that 176,496 bales have been ginned from January 1, to January 15, 1906, inclusive. This added to the government's last census report shows a total of 9,897,071 bales ginned during the season of 1905-06. There yet remains to be ginned 136,762 bales. President Taylor, who compiled the report, stated that the cotton territory was very generally covered and the report therefore should be very accurate.

Some esteemed exchanges are saying that the Southern Cotton Association is as much a trust as the coal trust. If the Association owned the cotton and fixed the price arbitrarily it might be a trust, but it owns no cotton and its action is only a recommendation to the people who do own the cotton. No trust there.—Wilmington Star.

Ultra shoes have just as much snap in them as any $5.00 or $6.00 shoe, and our own designs are all the time producing styles which are later copied by houses all over the country. Extravagant Longings.

I'd like to have sufficient wealth
To ride to yonder town;
There buy myself two pair of shoes
And pay for them right down.

I'd love to visit a bazaar
And, wild as it may seem,
Be able at the second hour
To purchase me some cream.

I'd like to own a cake of ice
I would, upon my soul,
And have sufficient money left
To buy a ton of coal.

I'd like enough to keep a roof
Slate shingled o'er my head
And buy a lot in yonder plot
To rest in when I'm dead.

Yours Truly,

W. Taft & Van Dyke

A NATION OF SNOBS.

That is What an English Writer Calls His Country.

It is difficult to talk much about being "a gentleman" and behaving like a gentleman, says an English writer, without betraying an inward and invisible want of breeding. The "grace" which is the true word for what we mean by gentlemanly qualities should never be dwelt upon, although its absence should be denounced. That grace of soul, of feeling, of habit, of manner and of conduct which should attract no attention, no surprise, no eulogy, is born in a person and can never be acquired, although a stratum of good manners, which is all that the majority mean by "gentlemanly," is often the result of education. "You have the grace of God," said Launcelot Gobbo when he meant to convey that Bassanio was a gentleman, and I wish that more of us were Gobbos in the art of expression.

This word "gentleman" is very English in its application. The French have no equivalent, although they are a nation of gallant men, a nation of cavaliers. The Spanish have no equivalent, although they are a nation of grandees. A prouder people does not exist, yet the distinctions between class and class in Spain are much less accentuated than in England. Through Spain we arrive at the paradox that the most aristocratic country in Europe is also the most democratic. One cannot imagine a Spaniard asking another "to behave like a gentleman," for there is only one standard of behavior in Spain. The omnibus conductor, exchanging cigarettes with the grandee, will exhibit as much mastery of the charming courtesies of life as his "superior," as we should call the grandee in England.

I cannot regret the misuse of the word gentleman, because its use seems to me except on occasions of ceremony utterly snobbish and meaningless. What a pity it is that we have no word like "monsieur!" You can address any one by that title in Paris, from a cocher to a duke, and you are right. The French "gentleman," stepping into a fiacre, will address the cocher as "monsieur" as readily as the cocher will so address him. In England we use "gentlemen" officially, without implying any foolish class distinction, but we have no word for the interchange of courtesy. Our "sir" implies superiority, the last thing which "monsieur" does. We are a nation of snobs, and it is being brought home to us by the word "gentleman" being arrogated by precisely the class to which we would deny it.

Ancient Grist Mills.

The city of Rome was supplied with no fewer than fourteen aqueducts, not necessarily for drinking purposes, because it always had the river, which afforded a copious flood of fresh water, but for the sake of convenience and especially to supply the baths and drive the water mills, most of which were located under Mount Janiculum. It was these water mills which made Rome a great manufacturing city. They were employed in innumerable arts, and gave rise to endless mechanical inventions and improvements. When, in the sixth century, the Goths laid siege to Rome and cut off the aqueduct water, Belisarius established a series of floating boat mills on the Tiber, which, being driven by the current, enabled the accustomed industries to be resumed. Grist mills driven by streams or the wind were common in the rural districts, the more ancient ones pounding the corn in gigantic mortars, the improved ones grinding it between revolving stones.

The Color Explained.

"What is the color chatain?" a certain young man asked of a venerable creole lady, whose hair was white as snow. She rummaged through her mind for terms of explanation, being a little liable to forget English words at times. Finally, however, she replied: "Chatain, 'dat is the color of my hair, you understand, when I was young." And then she smiled with satisfaction at the exact manner in which she had explained the term, while the questioner still wondered what color chatain was. — New Orleans Times-Democrat.

WHAT IS BROMONIA?

(BROMOZONE)

Bromonia is a product as near capable of curing the majority of diseases as it is possible for Modern Science to produce. The use of Bromonia makes pure blood. Bromonia is not a miracle but simply the result of the scientific investigation of the greatest chemists of the present century. At the first symptoms of fatigue headache or backache, which are often the forerunners of disease, send for your physician if you will, but, if you take Bromonia, you may find that by the time he has answered your call, that the symptoms have disappeared.

Use Bromonia as directed. Live a temperate life. If you become ill while so doing, we will pay any reasonable doctor's bill on demand and proof of illness. We don't want you to invest a cent, however, until we have bought the first bottle for you. Fill in the coupon under this advertisement and mail it to us, taking care to write your name and address plainly, and we will send you without any cost to you whatever a full size package to try. No matter what your trouble is, write to us. Correspondence confidential. Address Bromonia Co., New York.

J. L. Wooten will give his personal guarantee that you will receive a free bottle if you send us coupon.

Fair Warning.

Henry had been so continuously and persistently naughty that, says the New York World, his aunt, who had charge of him in his mother's absence, did not know what to do with him. In despair she said weakly:

"If you will not behave I shall put you in one of grandpa's hen-coops."

"Well," said Henry sturdily, "before you put me in I want to tell you that I will not lay any eggs."

Between Them.

"Have you any children, Jones?"
 "Oh, yes! You know Robinson?"
 "Which Robinson—William?"
 "Yes." "Know him very well. What's that got to do with it?"
 "I'm going to tell you. He and I have fifty-one between us."
 "What are you talking about? You must be crazy! What do you mean?"
 "It's quite correct; he lives on one side of the orphan asylum and I on the other!"
