BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION.

The Time Has Come for One in Greenville.

We see by the Aegis that the citizens of Goldsboro had a public meeting and organized a building and loan association and it behooves the citizens of Greenville to get busy and organize one here. There are a number of our citizens that are anxious to take stock and thereby get them a home. Read the following along this line taken from the Raleigh Evening Times:

"In the normal man is the home instinct, the desire to be lord and master of his own vine and fig tree. Incidentally, since this is not what we are going to write about, it's this instinct that has made of men little lords of creation and of governments lasting monuments to their love of order.

"All men want homes, but most of them are not possessed thereof for lack of means to acquire them by outright purchase. On the other hand the majority of men are earning a little bit more. But the surplus comes bit by bit, sometimes regularly, sometimes irregularly, and it would take a weary waiting for the dribbles to make the pile necessary to stake off the lot and call in the architect and contractor.

"There is the demand, the many that want their homes, but have only the few dollars per month to expend on them. Now for the supply. Here is where the building and loan association comes in. It makes it possible for that little surplus over and above a living to be applied monthly to the purchase fund of a home asset instead of a rent liability.

"It may cost a little more than the rent for the time being, or rather the outlay may be a little more, but at the end of a few years there is a piece of property to show for it. This is wealth, for wealth is property. But at the end of a period of rent paying there is nothing to show save perhaps a soured temper as the result of frequent disagreements with landlords and consequent moves of the household lares and penates, which latter articles also have suffered grievously by the several uprootings.

"As we understand the building and loan association, it advances money for the building of homes, the amount to be returned in small monthly installments, together with the interest, the company securing itself by a lien on the lot. In addition to this, it is generally the case that stock may be bought in the association on easy terms, so that the young man who has no immediate use for his home may invest his savings in a safe enterprise that generally pays an excellent dividend. These associations have met with practically nothing but favor and success wherever they have been established. They did literally fill a long-felt want. There are two such enterprises in Raleigh, and they are no exception to the statement just made."

February starts all right enough, but may do a plenty before it winds up.

CARD PARTY.

Mrs. S. J. Parham Entertains.

Reported for Reflector:

Mrs. S. J. Parham gave a delightful card party at her home on Wednesday afternoon from three to six o'clock. On entering the hall the guests were received by Mrs. Parham, assisted by Mrs. Asa Parham. After being served to punch by Misses Nina James and Mary Higgs, they were ushered into the parlors where they played six-hand euchre. The score cards unique and most appropriate to the occasion, it being the fifth anniversary of Mrs. Parham's marriage. The same idea was carried out in the prizes. The first, a burnt wood box, containing stationery, was won by Mrs. Richard King and the consolation, a match holder in wood, was won by Mrs. R. O. Jeffress.

Mrs. B. E. Parham then asked the guests into the dining room, where dainty refreshments were served. The rooms were tastefully decorated and lighted by many candles in silver candelabra. On leaving each lady was presented with a souvenir bearing the dates 1901-1906.

The guests were Mesdames Moseley, Fleming, Whedbee, Ricks, Forbes, Carr, Ficklen, Jeffress, Vines, Wilson, Clark, Cobb, White, Stanell, Dail, King, House, B. E. Parham, Asa Parham and Mrs. Fullford, of Washington, N. C. Misses Martha O'Hagan, Nina James, Mary Higgs, Lizzie Jones, Lottie Skinner and Irma Cobb.

MONDAY THE DAY.

No Meeting Will Be Held Saturday

At the last meeting of the Pitt County Branch of the Southern Cotton Association adjournment was had to meet again on the first Monday in February, 5th. Not knowing that this meeting was arranged for, President Moore, of the State association, called a meeting for this county on Saturday, 3rd. President R. R. Cotten, of the county and district association, has written to President Moore regarding this, and the meeting the latter called has been changed to conform with the date previously made by the county association. All are requested to take notice that the meeting will be held on Monday, 5th, and not on Saturday.

OVER THE STATE.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Hereafter in Salisbury persons who imbibe enough soppaw to stagger on the street will be arrested.

Mrs. Mildred Stokley, aged 91 years, died Tuesday at Wrightsville.

The Elizabeth City Economist says that Mr. F. F. Cohoon has the oldest Bible in the State. It was brought to this country in 1728 by William Swain, who landed at Nantucket, Mass., and was given by him to his son, John Swain, who settled in Tyrrell county in 1730. John gave it to his grandson, Elikiem, who carried it with him during the Revolutionary War. It has been carried through three wars by descendants of the original owners.

ENTERTAINMENT AT CLUB.

Messrs. White, Clare and Whedbee Hosts.

Reported for Reflector:

Messrs. H. A. White, F. W. Clare and H. W. Whedbee were the hosts at a delightful informal luncheon given in the Carolina club rooms Wednesday evening. Music and cards furnished delightful entertainment, and at 10:30 a five course luncheon was served in the club dining room. No form of social entertainment is more enjoyable than these informal affairs at the club, and last night the event was especially pleasant.

Those present were—Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Clare, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Carr, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. White, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Whedbee, Mrs. E. B. Ficklen, Misses Cotten, Cobb, James and Higgs, Messrs. J. S. Henderson, Jr., of Salisbury, R. T. Hayes, of Charlotte, P. S. Cotten and T. J. Moore.

February Weather Forecast.

The Washington Post has a weather prophet, who steems his forecasts to such an extent that he copyrights his predictions. W. W. Marsh is his name.

February, he says, will be an open month, but quite stormy. The weather during the month will be mild, with occasional cold waves and heavy snow, the snow storms changing to sleet and heavy rains, causing floods over the greater portions of the country. Damaging floods will occur over the Ohio Valley, along the Ohio river and tributaries, Pennsylvania, Pittsburg and head waters of the Ohio. Those living along the Ohio and its tributaries should be prepared for the rapidly rising rivers during February. Mild weather to cold weather to cold waves and heavy snow storms. Blizzards, changing to heavy rains at times, causing high rivers and floods over the Western streams. Mild weather to winter storms of heavy snow, changing to heavy sleet and rain storms over Kansas, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Missouri, Minnesota, and the Dakotas and States west of the Mississippi River.

Heavy rains and cyclonic storms over the South, the Southern and Gulf States, causing floods.

The precipitation during February will consist of heavy rains over the South. The storms over the Carolinas and other Southern States will be quite severe and damaging. Between January 31st and February 2nd, heavy rains are predicted for this section, followed by fair weather from 3rd to 5th. From 6th to 12th severe storms with probably sleet will visit this part of the Atlantic coast, while storms will be general over the United States from 13th to 16th, then three days of generally fair weather, followed on the 20th to 24th by violent storms over the entire country, cyclonic winds in the interior and great gales on the coast. Fair weather will then ensue on the 25th and 27th. The month ending with unsettled weather over the greater portion of the country.

"Breedin' Wedder."

Mr. L. C. Arthur says these bright days with a hazy cast remind him of what an old time darkey on his father's plantation over in Virginia used to say. When this kind of day would come the old darkey would shake his head and declare "Boss, dis looks mity party, but hits jes er breedin' wedder." If these pretty days are breeding weather you may look out.

Danger in the Barrel.

There is a man in Pitt county who lost a leg by a barrel of whiskey rolling out of a wagon on him and cutting his leg off. Forsyth county has gone a little ahead of this. Up there recently a man was killed by a barrel of molasses rolling on him.

Italian Labor in the Cotton Fields

In commenting upon the experiment of utilizing Italian labor on the cotton plantation. The Houston, Texas, Post remarks that "there is no reason to doubt that cotton raising on a large scale by corporations is to become a feature of the cotton industry in the South, and these corporations will employ only efficient and reliable labor. The employment of negroes by the small farmers has almost entirely ceased. In Texas three-fourths of the cotton is already produced by white labor, and white agricultural labor is becoming more and more in demand in other sections of the South." On this subject The Vicksburg, Miss., Herald says that general observation and census statistics have long since convinced it of the rapid proportional increase in cotton growth by white labor. "Heretofore," continues The Herald, "the Delta has been practically unchanging, but the Italian tests will surely affect the complexion of the cotton black belt, too; as it has of the sugar country to the south of us. There the influx of Italians from 1890 to 1900 made Louisiana a white State." It is surprising to learn that there is a tendency toward large cotton farms operated by corporations as it is to be told that Italians in large numbers are replacing the negro as field hands. These conditions now rule in the Louisiana sugar belt, and the prediction that they will spread over the cotton-growing area is interesting indeed.—Charlotte Chronicle.

The Ground Hog Friday.

Look out for the ground hog, who, according to custom since the mind of man runneth not to the contrary, will make his annual appearance Friday, February 2. Should his hogship see his shadow, back to his hole he will go and us poor mortals will have to undergo the rigors of winter for yet another 40 days. Should he however, fail to see his shadow, prepare for the entrance of spring, for winter is no more.

THE WEATHER

Queer Ways In Which New York's Big Stores Are Defrauded.

"It is an almost incredible thing," said a man from one of the big stores recently, "how often seemingly honest people give way to temptation and commit what are comparatively small breaches and yet certainly are transgressions against honesty.

"We have had three instances of it during the past week. One lady, a regular customer of ours, had charged to her account a brass kettle costing about $7. The delivery man made a mistake and took it to the wrong apartment, and the lady there, a neighbor and acquaintance of our customer, received the package and kept it. She does not deny it, but simply refuses to give the kettle up. She says the mistake was not hers, and she sees no reason why she should right it. Of course we had to right it with our customer.

"Another woman, also an old customer, had some expensive draperies sent to her house on Saturday. The Monday following our man went up to see about the hanging of them, and she told him she had decided not to take them. When the hangings were returned to us they showed unmistakable signs of having been used and even slightly injured. The papers described that woman as having given a big entertainment on that particular Sunday, and the deduction is easy to make.

"Still another woman ordered from our ready to wear suit department a handsome black coat, which happened to fit her without alteration. It was delivered one day and returned the next. When examined, it was found to have been worn, and worn hard, too, as there were splotches of mud on the bottom edges. We had reason to believe that woman had been obliged to attend a funeral and took that method of avoiding the purchase of a black garment.

"When such unscrupulous persons chance to be old customers we usually have no redress at all."—New York Press.

Superstition and Science.

A young woman in Washington, who is a graduate of a seminary that makes a feature of hygiene, was walking with a friend and discussing some rather abstruse questions on sanitary science, on which she intended to present a paper before a woman's club in the capital. The graduate was holding forth in approved seminary style on the scholarly theme when she suddenly stopped and picked up a pin on the sidewalk.

"I am surprised," smilingly observed her companion, glancing at the rusty pin as the graduate stuck it under the lapel of her coat.

"It is a little superstition I have never been able to conquer," said the graduate, "but," she hastened to explain, "I shall sterilize this as soon as I get home."

"Why do they call him a proprietor, ma?"

"Out of politeness, my son. To call him a highwayman would not sound nice."—London Telegraph.

Satisfying the minds of the people is doing right much in these times of frequent miscarriages of justice.

The press dispatches did not give the brand of necktie the New York boy wore that stopped his father's bullet, and some manufacturer lost the opportunity of a good advertisement. It did say, however, that the necktie was daddled with cotton batting, and this should increase the demand for the staple.

1900 Calendars for 1906.

Do you throw away your old calendars? A Paris statistician has discovered that it is a mistake to do so, and being of an economical turn of mind has discovered further that calendars for 1900 will serve equally well for 1906.

As a rule, of course, a calendar is only of use eleven years later, and leap year upsets this calculation pretty often. But as 1900 was allotted 365 days only, instead of 366, the days of the 1906 week fit exactly those of 1900.—London Daily Express.

Consolation.

It is part of nature's plan,
And the river wide, we lag beside,

The sun never fails to rise.
And the mountains of doubt we worry about
Are stepping stones to the skies.

To All Spot Holders.

The recent heavy depression in the price of future contracts and spot cotton is totally unwarranted from the standpoint of legitimate supply and demand. The price of cotton should be based on its intrinsic value and not subject to the whims and fancies of speculation. Let us examine the statistical position of supply and demand. Exports for season ending August 31st, 1905,—8,745,316 bales. Takings of American mills same period 4,565,733 bales. Total for the past season 13,341,049 bales. Exports since September 1st to January 20th, 3,948,060 bales. American spinners takings for same period 2,272,583 bales, making total of export and domestic takings this season, to January 20th, of 6,220,643, a difference of 7,120,406 bales between the present and past season. Assuming that only 6,000,000 bales will be required for export and domestic takings for the balance of the present season as against 7,120,406 bales last year, after the same date where is the cotton to come from to supply the demand. Allowing for a crop of 10,250,000 bales, there remains to come into sight only 2,667,369 bales. Port and interior stocks are figured at 1,479,000 bales. If the American mills take the entire port and interior stocks and 721,000 bales from the crop yet to be sold to fill their demands, it will leave only 1,947,000 bales of cotton for export to satisfy the foreign spinners demand for at least 3,500,000 bales,—and this figures the foreign demand at fully 1,500,000 bales less than was taken from the source last year. These are facts based upon actual conditions. Yarn spinners are now selling their output on a basis of 14 cents per pound for the raw cotton. This has been going on for months. Every bale of cotton held in the South should easily command a price of not less than 15 cents, basis middling. The spinners can easily pay 15 cents for the balance of the unsold portion of this crop and will do so if the spot holders stand firm. Speculative manipulation by the "bears" operating in the future market is no guide to the true value of cotton. Telegraphic reports received by the association from all points in the South indicate that spot holders are standing firm and will not sell at declines. Hold firm for 15 cents; the cotton is worth it, and I challenge any spinner to show the contrary at present prices of dry goods. Theodore Price is daily filling the Southern press with misrepresentations of facts and doing all that money and ingenious manipulation of figures can do to break the solid South. Spot holders in the South should show by their firmness that they can and will repudiate such men as Theodore Price and the methods employed by them for purely selfish gain. Those who hold will win the battle and get 15 cents for their holdings.

President Southern Cotton Association.

Meeting of Cotton Association.

There will be a meeting of the Pitt County Branch of the Cotton Growers Association in the court house at Greenville, on Monday, Feb. 5, at eleven o'clock. All cotton growers, business and professional men interested are cordially invited to attend this meeting. Hon. C. C. Moore, president of the North Carolina Division Southern Cotton Association is invited to be with us. Come out, we wish your help.

QUEER ENGLISH LAWS.

The Acts of Parliament Abound With Absurdities.

The British parliament can abolish any institution in the country—the throne, the church, the courts of justice—and can even extinguish itself. "It can do anything," said Lord Palmerston when prime minister, "but turn a man into a woman or a woman into a man." But, adds a writer in the Grand Magazine, it is often unable to "make sense" of the statutes in which it embodies its authority.

One of the ludicrous enactments to be found in acts of parliament is the statute for the rebuilding of Chelmsford jail. The bill as originally drafted provided that prisoners should be confined in the old jail until the new one was built. But in committee a clause was added to the effect that the new prison should be constructed out of the materials of the old, and the bill became a law before anybody detected this glaring absurdity.

Then there is the "fifty-second of George II., chapter 146," which enacts that the penalty imposed under it shall be given half to the king and half to the poor of the parish. After the act had been passed it was discovered that the penalty which the act provides is transportation for fourteen years. The first intention was that the penalty should be a fine of £500. On second thought parliament substituted a term of penal servitude, but it forgot to omit the clause providing for the division of the spoils between the king and his indigent subjects.

Again, the Darlington improvement act of 1872 has a "definition" which it would puzzle the most astute lawyer to explain. It reads, "The term 'new building' means any building pulled or burned to or within ten feet of the surface of the adjoining ground."

Such mistakes are due to clumsiness or carelessness. Others as amusing arise from the use or misuse of technical language. Even the lay member tries to copy the jargon of the lawyers, and the result frequently is that he confuses every one, including himself.

One amendment proposed by such a member was worded as follows: "Every dog found trespassing on inclosed land unaccompanied by the registered owner of such dog or other person, who shall on being asked for his true name and address, may be then and there destroyed by such occupier or by his orders." But this gem of meaningless rhetoric was not passed.

Peers of the realm as well as the humble commons are not above lapsing into ambiguity. A certain noble lord in committee on the agricultural holdings bill put down this startling notice:

"To ask the government whether they will consider the practicability of introducing some provision for alleviating the great hardship now suffered by the family of any clergyman if he dies while occupying his glebe, as many clergymen have lately found themselves reluctantly compelled to do."

The South Goes Forward.

With a population 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 less than the population of the whole country in 1860, the wealth of the fourteen Southern States is now greater than the wealth of the whole country in 1860. Authoritative figures compiled by the Manufacturers' record show that the assessed property values in the South in the year just closed were $6,648,000,000. These may be safely estimated as representing the values of $16,620,000,000.

GREENSBORO LIFE INSURANCE CO.

GREENSBORO, N. C.

CAPITAL $100,000.00

SURPLUS $25,000.00

During its first six months existence the company has demonstrated to the people of North Carolina that they not only save money by buying life insurance at home, but that the Greensboro life gives more protection than is afforded by other companies. The people of North Carolina believe so strongly in the Greensboro Life Insurance Company that they are giving it more business than any other company is writing in the State.

"THE BEST LIFE INSURANCE POLICY IN THE WORLD"

is the unanimous verdict of the people who have bought the Greensboro Life's superb INCOME INDEMNITY POLICY. This is the most satisfactory life insurance contract ever devised. It carries insurance to its logical conclusion by protecting both the insured's life and his earning power. It pays double insurance in case of accidental death, and in the event of total and permanent disability or incapacity, the policy becomes paid up and participates in the profits of the company. Dividends are guaranteed and may be used to reduce the number of annual premiums.

Absentmindedness.

The best instance I know is that of an amiable Irish judge, now no longer on the bench. Among other amusing tales told of him it is said that on the occasion of a "bar dinner" he went upstairs to dress, but did not reappear. The company sat patiently for some time till at length, just as their hunger was getting the better of their manners and an emissary was being dispatched to hunt up the missing judge, his lordship appeared and explained, with many apologies, that, imagining he was retiring for the night, he had undressed and got into bed. After an hour's repose it suddenly struck him that he had not yet dined, on which he hurried down to his guests. —London Spectator.

The Innocent Bottle.

By the side of a certain portion of a suburban railway stands a glue factory which sometimes gives out a particularly offensive smell. A lady who was obliged to travel on this line quite often always carried with her a bottle of lavender salts. One morning an old farmer took the seat beside her. As the train neared the factory the lady opened her bottle of salts. Soon the whole car was filled with the horrible odor of the glue. The old farmer put up with it as long as he could. Then he shouted, "Madam, would you mind puttin' the cork in that 'ere bottle?" —Chicago News.

Reviews of Reviews

Many other publications are desirable, and you may prefer this or prefer that fiction and art publication, but the Review of Reviews is necessary. Substantial American men and women are going to keep up with the times and they are going to take the shortest cut which is the Review of Reviews.

The Cosmopolitan

A leading magazine for 18 years. With the recent change of ownership it has been improved. It is far better in every respect, and aims to be the best in the field. Every year or so there's one notable advance in the forward movement among the many magazines. This year it is the Cosmopolitan.

Woman's Home Companion

The Woman's Home Companion is for every member of the family. For our bright, earnest, cultured, home loving American woman it is an ideal entertainer and helper in a thousand congenial ways; but the fathers and brothers and sons join in its perusal by the fireside; children eagerly turn to the pages that are written for them.

The American Farmer is the leading Agricultural paper of the country, and pertinent to farming, live stock and poultry raising. Every farmer should have it.

REMEMBER

you get all four of these papers with THE DAILY REFLECTOR a year for $5.00, or, all four with THE EASTERN REFLECTOR a year for $8.00

SMOKING IN HOLLAND.

The Dutch Are the Greatest Users of Tobacco In Europe.

The Hollanders are perhaps of all the northern peoples those who smoke the most. The humidity of their climate makes it almost a necessity, and the very moderate cost of tobacco renders it accessible to all.

To show how deeply rooted is the habit it is enough to say that the boatmen of the trekschuit, the aquatic diligence of Holland, measure distance by smoke. From here, they say, to such and such a place it is not so many miles, but so many pipes.

When you enter a house after the first salutations your host offers you a cigar. When you take your leave he hands you another and often insists upon filling your cigar case.

In the streets you see persons lighting a fresh cigar with the burning stump of the last one without pausing in their walk and with the busy air of people who do not wish to lose a moment of time or a mouthful of smoke. Many go to sleep with pipe in mouth, relight it if they wake in the night and again in the morning before they step out of bed.

It really does appear that smoking is for the Dutchman a necessary vital function.

Many people think that so much smoke dulls the intelligence. Nevertheless if there be a people, as Esquiroz justly observes, whose intellect is of the clearest and highest precision it is the Dutch people.

"Smoke," said a Hollander, "is our second breath." Another defined the cigar as the sixth finger of the hand.—Pearson's Weekly.

Just to See Them Kick.

It is one of the anomalies of western life that a pale, slender, high voiced, light haired and altogether effeminate individual named William Antrim, sometimes called Billy Bonny and usually known as "Billy the Kid," should be the worst desperado in the history of the frontier. Yet in considering the so called "bad men" of the west his name must stand forth as the superlative of badness. Some of the gun fighters of frontier days killed in self defense, and others killed when they were in liquor or inflamed with anger. But "Billy the Kid" was the only white man who slew out of pure wantonness. Three of his victims—Mexicans they were—he bowled over "just to see them kick," as he laughingly explained afterward.—Arthur Chapman in Outing.

His Majesty.

Henry VIII. and the sovereigns before his reign were usually addressed as "My liege" and "Your grace." The latter epithet was originally conferred upon Henry IV., "Excellent grace" was given to Henry VI., "Most high and mighty prince" to Edward IV., "Highness" to Henry VII., which last expression and sometimes "Grace" was used to Henry VIII. About the end of this reign all titles were absorbed by that of "Majesty," with which Francis I. addressed the king at their interview in 1520. James I. coupled this to the title "Sacred," or "Most excellent."—London Answers.

How Maps Are Made.

Large map making firms have geographical libraries, collected from every source and in every language. The modest sketch map of the missionary in some wild region is as highly valued as the most complete survey map. In making a new map of any important region the compilations made by others are hardly ever touched. Representatives are sent out, and every detail is taken from its original source. These representatives are paid enormous salaries. They are never rushed, but are allowed to take as long over their work as they think it necessitates.

Needles In England.

Needles were first made in London by a negro from Spain in the reign of Queen Mary. He died, however, without imparting the secret of his art, and it was lost until 1565, when it was recovered in the reign of Elizabeth, and Elias Growse, a German, taught the art to the English. The manufacture of needles was then again lost to England for nearly a century, but about 1650 it was recovered by Christopher Greening, who settled at Long Crendon, in Buckinghamshire.—London Chronicle.
