AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town.

AYDEN, N. C., Feb. 6, 1906.—

B. F. Manning spent last Friday in Winterville.

Mrs. William Worthington and little daughter are visiting relatives on the other side of Tar river.

Mrs. Marshall Barber has been on a visit to friends in Winterville.

Carlos Harris, of Greenville, is here. He has several contracts for painting and will remain some time.

Look out for the prettiest delegation to the teacher's meeting next Saturday. It will hail from Ayden and don't you forget it.

There were services in the Disciple church Sunday morning and night, and in the Methodist and Episcopal churches at night conducted by their regular pastors.

Miss Lucy Turnage, of Ormondville, is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. M. Edwards.

Miss Will Harper has returned to her home in Greene.

Mrs. R. C. Coward is visiting her mother in Snow Hill.

Prayer meeting in the Baptist church Wednesday night and special services in the Methodist church Thursday night.

The protracted meeting in the Methodist church closed last Friday night. It was by far the best meeting ever held in Ayden. Rev. Mr. Glenn preached plain, practical sermons and large congregations attended every service. There were 60 professions of faith, of whom 34 new converts joined the Methodist church, and 10 by certificate, while 10 others signified their intention to unite with some other church. Mr. Glenn and wife left Saturday for Newport where he will conduct another meeting.

Mrs. Prince, of Parmele, who has been visiting her mother here left for her home yesterday.

Misses Ethel Skinner and Lille Bennett, of Greenville, were the guests of Misses Eula and Clyde Cox from Friday until Monday morning.

Mr. A. A. Aldridge, a very interesting and popular widower from the Centerville section, gave us a call last Friday afternoon and pleasantly entertained us with a glowing account of a recent visit down near Dover where he not only spent a delightful time, but what he and the girls lacked in whiling away the time no other widower or lone old bachelor need undertake. From his version it is difficult to determine whether the girls were much enamored of his many excellent qualities, or his dreams and mind readings will bring about results so seemingly greatly desired, Oh, he is an Alec, and handsome Alec, too.

Dr. D. L. James, of Greenville, spent the Sabbath here with W. J. Boyd.

J. A. Harrington manager in charge of the Ayden cemetery is certainly having lots of work done on the premises and has added much to the cleanliness and beauty of the surroundings.

Sunday was a lovely day and all the Sunday schools and churches were largely attended.

Paul Buhman, of the U. S.

Marine service stationed at Newport, N. J., is home on a furlough of two weeks after which he will return to his command which will at once start on three years cruise in the Asiatic squadron.

Mrs. J. H. Bell, of Kinston, spent from Thursday to Sunday with Mrs. J. T. Smith Jr.

Samuel Tundall and family, of Kinston, have been here on a visit to relatives.

PITT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

Holds Interesting Meeting And Elects Officers.

An important and enthusiastic meeting of the Pitt county branch of the Cotton Association was held in the court house in Greenville Monday, 5th. R. B. Cotten, president of the county association, being unable to attend owing to sickness, O. L. Joyner, vice president, presided. Mr. Joyner explained fully the objects of the meeting and the business before it.

G. T. Tyson offered his resignation as secretary and treasurer, and it was accepted, W. A. B. Hearne being elected to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Joyner read a notification from R. R. Moore, president of the State organization, relative to a more thorough and complete organization of the State, county and township organizations, giving the rules governing same with fees for membership, etc.

A resolution was passed endorsing the general plan of organization and pledging the hearty support of the Pitt county branch.

The election of permanent officers for the period of 12 months resulted as follows:

President—R. R. Cotten.
Vice-president—O. L. Joyner.
Sec'y. and Treas.—W. A. B. Hearne.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

L. F. Evans, Greenville.
W. L. Nobles, Greenville.
Marshal Cox, Winterville.
J. S. Hines, Ayden.
S. M. Jones, Bethel.

The meeting adjourned to meet at 11 o'clock on the first Monday in March, at which time a capable speaker will be present to more fully explain the objects and benefits of this organization, and every man in this county interested in its general welfare should attend and take part in this meeting. The membership fee is 25 cents quarterly, and a tax of 3 cents per bale on each bale of cotton raised during the past season. An organization of this kind deserves the earnest and enthusiastic support of every loyal citizen of Pitt county, cotton grower, merchant or professional man, and if supported will accomplish, and in fact, has accomplished a vast good.

Church Conference.

Wednesday night there will be a business conference of the Baptist church at which time every member who can do so should be present. The roll of the church will be called and several matters of importance will come up for attention.

The cold wave is with us.

BUSINESS CHANGE AT KINSTON.

E. G. Barrett and C. A. Waters Purchase Stock of C. T. Munford.

An important business transfer was consummated in the city yesterday, Mr. C. T. Munford sold his large stock and business to Messrs. E. G. Barrett and C. A. Waters, who will continue the business under the firm name of Barrett & Waters. Both Messrs. Barrett and Waters have been with Mr. Munford for a long time, as salesmen, and have acquainted themselves with every detail of the business and are well equipped and hustling, progressive young business men.

Both young men comprising the firm are well known in trade and social circles in the city and are very popular. Mr. Barrett is a native of Farmville, Pitt county, and has been with Mr. Munford since 1899, working himself up from an humble start to the responsible position of manager of the Kinston branch of Mr. Munford's extensive business, a position he has held since it was established here several years ago. Mr. Waters is from Plymouth and he, also, has been with Mr. Munford several years in the capacity of salesman and has made a number of friends here.—Kinston Free Press.

OVER THE STATE.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

A Greensboro negro has been locked up for having seven wives.

At a negro festival near Kinston, Saturday night, one negro killed another.

Raleigh gets the next meeting of the Teachers' Assembly, June 12th to 15th.

John Gardner, a negro living near Kinston, was arrested and placed in jail for committing an outrage on an 8 year old negro girl.

Two Concord boys were fooling with a pistol. It fired off, shooting the one holding it in the arm. This caused him to drop the pistol when it fired again, shooting the other boy in the leg.

CONFEDERATE SOLDIER DEAD.

Passes Away at Soldiers' Home.

A letter to THE REFLECTOR from Superintendent R. H. Brooks of the Soldiers' Home, at Raleigh, announces the death of Mr. John Mooring, which occurred Sunday morning after a sickness covering some time.

Mr. Mooring was 63 years old, and went to the home from Pitt county about four years ago. In the war he was a member of Co. A, 7th Regiment N. C. Troops. He leaves two sisters—Mrs. D. H. Moore and Mrs. Maud Moore—who live in this county near House. He was also a cousin of ex-Sheriff G. M. Mooring.

W. J. Boyd, of Ayden, was in town Monday.

F. G. Whaley returned Saturday night from Suffolk, where he attended the funeral services of Mr. J. M. Shepherd, the father of Mrs. Whaley. Mr. Shepherd died at his home in Suffolk Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock and was buried Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the cemetery at Suffolk. Their many friends extend sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Whaley.

Mrs. Mary Lancaster, aged 93 years, who lives about nine miles from Shelmerdine, is quite sick with pneumonia. She is the grandmother of Mrs. Ricks of this place, and was visited by Dr. and Mrs. Ricks Sunday.

CHANGE IN OFFICERS.

The Greenville Banking and Trust Company.

At a meeting of the directors of the Greenville Banking and Trust Company held Friday afternoon, the resignation of L. I. Moore, as president, was accepted and E. J. Cobb was elected president to succeed him. C. S. Carr was elected cashier to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Cobb's promotion to the presidency of the institution.

Both of these gentlemen have long been connected with this bank—Mr. Cobb since its organization—and they are officers of exceptional ability.

If it don't snow soon it will miss a good chance.

ANOTHER BANK.

Greenville to Have a National Bank.

In the press dispatches sent out from Washington we see that authority has been given for the organization of the National Bank of Greenville, N. C., capital $50,000. The following gentlemen with others are the incorporators: L. I. Moore, Harry Skinner, F. G. James, L. W. Tucker, J. F. Dav- enport and E. A. Moye, Jr.

These are well known professional and business men of Greenville who have the ability and means to bring success out of such an enterprise. Greenville is progressing rapidly and there is room here for a third bank. This new one, being a national bank, will be under government supervision and will give the town broader recognition in financial circles of the country.

The organization has not yet been perfected, but we understand that the National Bank expects to be ready to begin business in about sixty days.

A PRESIDENT WHO NEITHER REIGNS NOR GOVERNS

Under the constitution of 1875 the French President is chosen by the Senators and deputies in joint session. This method of selection insures the choice of man whom the legislators know, and whom they believe to be devoted to the principle of the supremacy of the legislature. They habitually select a man who has long been a member, and has perhaps served as president, of one or the other of the chambers; who has been active in committee work, and has perhaps held a portfolio in one or more ministries; who is not a strenuous or aggressive, and has not made too many personal enemies. This president, under the provisions of the constitution, may exercise certain enumerated powers only in the councils of ministers, and every act of his must be countersigned by a minister. The constitution also provides that "the ministers are collectively responsible to the chambers for the general policy of the administration, and individually responsible for their own personal acts." The French constitution vests the appointment of the ministers in the president, and does not require that their appointment be confirmed by the legislature; but by the mode of his election and the nature of his position, the French President is obliged to take his ministers from the dominant party or coalition in the Chamber of Deputies, as the King of Great Britain takes his from the dominant party in the House of Commons. The list is actually drawn up by the party leaders, and the President appoints the men whose names are submitted to him. All the powers conferred upon him by the constitution are, in fact, exercised by the ministers. As the familiar French witticism puts it: "The King of Great Britain reigns, but does not govern; the President of the United States governs, but does not reign; the President of the French Republic neither reigns nor governs."—From "The French Presidency and the American," by Munroe Smith, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for February.

THE CLAQUEERS.

How They Do Their Work in the Theaters of Paris.

The question of employing claqueurs in New York theaters has been agitated, but it is safe to say that the American sense of humor will never permit this. The claque in European cities consists of a small body of men, under the orders of a chief, who undertake to applaud actors and actresses at certain times. The only one of the band who is remunerated is the chief. The men under him get the privilege of seeing the play without paying for their seats. The chefs de claque of the great subsidized theater of Paris are officials paid by the management to do certain work. Their salaries vary from 300 francs to 500 francs a month, and for that sum they are expected to take with them into the theater at each performance a certain number of men with big, strong hands and intelligent enough to clap when they are given the signal by their leader.

The claqueur's work does not demand intellect of a high order. The chief is supposed to have taken notes at the rehearsals, to have consulted with the manager, to have talked with the author and to have a very accurate idea of the good points of the play. The men under him are scattered all about the house ready to give a quick response to the signal of their leader. Most of these men are eminently respectable. They are small shopkeepers, students of the drama and pupils of the Conservatoire with insufficient money to spend upon theater going. At the opera they number thirty. They assemble every evening at half past 7 in a cafe at the corner of the Boulevard Haussmann and the Rue Lafayette, where they crowd around their leader and answer to their names like small schoolboys. As each answers "present" to his name he receives a metal ticket upon which is the number of his seat.—New York Herald.

A Model Republic.

"There are few men as happy as you in your family relations."

"Yes, my household is a model republic in miniature. You see, the secretary of the treasury is my wife, the secretary of war my mother-in-law and the minister of foreign relations my daughter."

"And of course you are the president?"

"No, man. One can see from that question that you are a poor, ignorant bachelor. The presidential chair is occupied by the cook."

"Well, then, what are you?"

"Why, I am the general public and support the government through the payment of taxes." — Modern Mexico.

Genuine Boston Attitude.

The inhabitants of "The Hub of the Universe" are said to have their own ideas of their own importance. The comic artists for years have reaped a rich harvest in caricaturing the wise Boston children. A story which is attributed on good authority to Henry James hits off this Boston attitude to perfection. At a dinner party Mr. James told the story of a Back bay Boston lady who in one sweeping classification spoke of "the people living below Beacon street, New Yorkers and that class of people." — New York Herald.

They never gripe or sicken but cleanse and strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels. This is the universal verdict of the many thousands who use DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills relieve headache, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, torpid liver, sallow complexion, etc. Try Little Early Risers. Sold by John L. Wooten.

There's a cure for old age, an excellent and thorough one. There is nothing sensational about it. It is the best the doctors can find under existing circumstances. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Wooten's Drug Store.

All old time Cough Syrups bind the bowels. This is wrong. A new idea was advanced two years ago in Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. This remedy acts on the mucous membranes of the throat and lungs and loosens the bowels at the same time. It expels all cold from the system. It clears the throat, strengthens the mucous membranes, relieves coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, etc. Sold by John L. Wooten.

It is easier for the overage man to keep a dairy than a diary.

Don't deceive yourself. If you have indigestion take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It will relieve you. Rev. W. E. Hocutt, South Mills, N. C., says: "I was troubled with chronic indigestion for several years; whatever I ate seemed to cause heartburn, sour stomach, fluttering of my heart, and general depression of mind and body. My druggist recommended Kodol, and it has relieved me. I can now eat anything and sleep soundly at night. Kodol Digests what you eat. Sold by John L. Wooten.

True wit is always incidental—and usually accidental.

Don't let your face grow old, sallow, hollow and wrinkled. If you care at all for beauty, take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Wooten's Drug Store.

It looks like Kinston ought to be getting in line for a hanging.

Hold Greenville back? No! You had as well try to stop the current of the river.

If you have anything in contemplation for Greenville's development you had better trot it out before somebody gets ahead of you.

The "oldest inhabitant" has seen a colder winter and a warmer winter, but he has not brought back the one that compares with this for changeableness.

With every prospect of Greenville's development so pleasing, it does look like enough folks would take time by the forelock to get a building and loan association on the way.

You folks who have any idea at all of buying real estate in Greenville had better strike while the iron is hot. There is no special excitement now and property is reasonable, but first thing you know it will take dollars on top of dollars to get a piece of ground here.

We remember that some years ago the late Dr. C. J. O'Hagan appeared before the board of aldermen and urged the importance of a system of vital statistics for Greenville, whereby a correct record of deaths and their causes, prevalence of diseases and other matters pertaining to the public health could be made and preserved for information and comparison. Greenville has grown greatly since that time, but as yet no steps have been taken for keeping such statistics. In a town as large and important as this such statistics ought to be kept.

That was a good meeting the farmers of Pitt county held here Monday, the attendance being large and much interest shown. In this fight against low priced cotton the farmers should have the aid and cooperation of all business and professional men, for whatever affects the farmer is felt alike by all. If the farmer wins in this fight he is henceforth master of the situation as regards the price of cotton, but if he fails he can never again have a voice in fixing the price of his chief product. There should be no such thing as failure now.

A London doctor is said to have written a book entitled, "How to Live Forever." In this country it is not necessary to write a book to give advice on this subject. Get on the pension roll and your name, like the poet's brook, goes "on forever."—Durham Sun.

TRINITY COLLEGE NOTES.

TRINITY PARK, FEB 5TH, 1906.— Messrs. Lloyd LaRoque and Loyd Wooten, of Kinston, are spending a few days in campus with friends.

Dr. L. L. Hendren gave a very interesting talk Thursday afternoon, under the auspices of the Science Club, his subject being "The Panama Canal Construction."

During the month of January there were added to the library more than three hundred new volumes. Almost the entire number were purchased out of the library fund, the cost being several hundred dollars. The most of these books were purchased for the department of economics. With these additions the library now has thirty-one thousand catalogued books, besides hundreds that have never been catalogued.

It is almost a certainty that Trinity is to have another game added to her list of athletic sports in the near future. The game in question is a basket ball. Trinity has already received a challenge from Wake Forest, wishing to arrange dates for games to be played in February, but it is doubtful if the team can get practice enough to be in readiness for a contest before March.

Washington's birthday will be observed by the college as a holiday. It has always been the custom of the college to invite some speaker to deliver an address on the evening of this day. The speaker for this year will be Rev. G. E. White, D. D., of Atlanta. Dr. White is a native of North Carolina, and has the reputation of being a great pulpit orator.

Error in Posting Train.

Mr. R. O. Alexander, the well known cotton merchant, was holding tightly in one hand a roll of greenbacks this morning. He remarked to the News man that the money had been refunded to him by a railroad, and a representative of a competing line thought he should have it framed.

Mr. Alexander states that he was at a certain station on the Atlantic Coast Line several days ago when a stationmaster posted a certain train 30 minutes late. Because of this the Charlotte man missed his train and his expense account was increased $9 thereby. Mr. Alexander apprised the management of the facts in the case. He received a letter by return mail informing him that the treasurer of the company would honor his draft for the amount of his expenses. He received the money and the occurrence is so unusual that he thinks mention should be made of it.—Charlotte News.

North Carolina People Caring for Themselves

...ent in favor of Home Insurance Companies is stronger in North Carolina than in any other...
...remark made a few days ago by the representative of a Life Insurance Company who...
...this fact speaks volumes for the future welfare of North Carolina and shows that our...
...to care for themselves instead of relying upon others. They are caring for themselves in...
...by buying from THE GREENSBORO LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

THE SUPERB INCOME INDEMNITY POLICY.

Which is recognized as the best Life Insurance contract yet devised. The best evidence of the superiority of this contract is to be found in the fact that more North Carolina people are buying the Income Indemnity Policy than are buying the Policies of any other Company. This Policy costs no more than others, but it affords a great protection. It pays double insurance in case of accidental death and becomes fully paid up for the life of the insured in case of total permanent disability or incapacity. Dividends are guaranteed and may be used to reduce the amount of Annual Premiums.

The Queer Way in Which a Number of Indians Celebrated.

An Indian is a child in many ways, but he shows this characteristic especially when he has money to spend. The sooner his riches are returned to general circulation the better the child of nature is pleased. A very amusing instance of this is told of the Cheyenne warriors away back in the dark ages, when Cheyenne City was a much smaller place than it is at present.

The only day in the year when these red men were a source of interest to the inhabitants was that on which they received their allowance from "the great White Father." The citizens of Cheyenne prided themselves upon the celerity with which the government funds were restored to circulation. On one day in particular there was a large sum coming to each warrior from the government for some lands which it had purchased from them. Each warrior was turned loose upon the business community with something like $2,000. While the innocents were looking about for treasures which they might possess one of the braves sighted a hearse, which was the first vehicle of the kind he had ever seen. At the time of the great payment of the Cheyennes there were few vehicles of any description in the city. Particularly was there a dearth of such as could be used for pleasure wagons. So it is easily understood that the red man possessed himself immediately of the funeral car and a team of six mules, though it took nearly all the money he had under his blanket. He and his squaw seated themselves on the box seat and drove off in fine style. Whenever any other Indians of the tribe were encountered on the way they were invited to get aboard, and soon every available inch of space on the roof was filled. Next they were crowded into the box, where they presented a most ludicrous appearance, with their solemn eyes looking through the glass sides. When no more passengers could be admitted the equipage drove off at a fine pace to make a tour of the shops which most appealed to their custom. The occupants of the hearse changed rapidly as the Indians succumbed to their too great purchasing power. The hearse also changed from one owner to another for a small consideration. But through the entire day of the orgie the vehicle was spared any serious damage and at last was sold back to the undertaker for a small sum. His punishment for taking advantage of the simple minded Indian arose from the fact that the citizens of Cheyenne would never consent to hire the hearse again. The remembrance of the part it played in the Indians' spree was too much for them, and thereafter it could have no serious part in their affairs.—New York Herald.

THE HOME STRETCH.

It Repaid Mrs. Saunders For the Misery of Her Week Off.

There has probably never been a more homesick sojourner in a great city than Mrs. Homer Saunders was during her week's visit to New York. "Didn't you enjoy one namable thing?" asked one of her Bushby neighbors when Mrs. Saunders had been happily rattling the pots and kettles in her own kitchen for a few hours. "Didn't Homer take you around sightseeing or shopping?"

"Why, Homer would've been glad enough to," said Mrs. Saunders as she began a fresh attack on one of her frying pans which was not absolutely glittering. "He'd've been pleased to tote me around with him and Lottie all the time, but what do you suppose I care about sights o' brick and stone and rushing folks and shops full o' things I'd never need in Bushby if I lived to be a hundred?"

"There's Central park," offered the neighbor mildly.

"Well enough for those that aren't used to a couple o' miles' stretch o' hill and wood and medder whichever way they've a mind to look," admitted Mrs. Saunders, "but I tell you one thing I did enjoy—a little book I got hold of."

"Why, you never were a great hand to read," said her old friend, with surprise.

"Not works o' fiction," said Mrs. Saunders, "nor yet biography. But this little book had lists o' trains in it, and the first day I got there I found the Bushby page. There was a great clock in Lottie's parlor, and I used to sit there and see what the time was and where the trains would be, how near the junction, and so on. I never had all those junction trains firm fixed in my mind before, but now I have. And I kep' saying to myself: 'Well, now there's a train so and so. Let's play I'm going to take that,' and so on."

"I'd go through the whole performance, riding in the stage with Jake and all. And I tell you," said Mrs. Saunders, turning a radiant face to her visitor, "when I got fairly seated down in that old coach this morning and felt that place where the stuffings begun to bust through the leather and heard Jake cluck up those hosses I said to myself, 'This is worth all I've endured in the last week, hard though 'twas to bear!'"—Youth's Companion.

A Story of Jean Bart, an Old Time French Naval Officer.

Jean Bart, a French naval commander of the last part of the seventeenth century, was at one time ordered to convey the Prince de Conti, a candidate for the throne of Poland, to Dantzic, a voyage fraught with danger, as his vessel must pass through the waters where were cruising the hostile fleets of the English and Dutch. During the passage the little squadron was chased by the enemy, and Bart, as soon as they were reported, called his little son to him and gave him whispered instructions. The pursuit continued for eight hours, and at the end of that time the enemy was no longer in sight. Then Bart went down into the cabin, where the prince had been sitting in ignorance of the day's excitement.

"You've had a narrow escape, monseigneur," said he.

"What do you mean?" asked the prince.

"Why," answered Bart, "that we've been chased by three eight-gun ships and nine frigates. We've run them out of sight, and there's nothing to fear."

"But, M. Bart, if they had taken us?"

"Oh, monseigneur, that was quite impossible."

"Eh! What? Why impossible?"

"Because," answered Bart, "I had stationed my brave son, my Cornil, in the gunroom with a lighted match and strict orders to put it into the powder if we should be overpowered."

"What!" cried the prince. "You would never have done such a thing?"

"Certainly I would have done it," said Bart. "It shall never be said that I allowed you to be taken when the king ordered me to take care that you were not."
