COTTON ASSOCIATION.

County Branch Met Monday.

The Pitt county branch of the Southern Cotton Association met in the court house here Monday. Not as many farmers were present as had been hoped for, yet the attendance was good.

Interesting talks were made by President R. B. Cotten, Messrs. O. L. Joyner, L. F. Evans, S. M. Jones and A. A. Forbes.

The association now has a county organizer, Mr. A. A. Forbes, in the field, which will secure much more interest. He has recently organized a township association at Bethel and will go into other townships over the county as fast as possible.

The more thorough the organization the more effective will be the work for the principles of the association. Every farmer and every business man ought to unite with the association, as the fight the cotton farmers are on has for its object the helping of all classes.

SHELMERDINE ITEMS.

SHELMERDINE, N. C. Mar. 6.

M. J. Crumpler and David Dawson, of Washington, spent Monday night in town.

Little Susie Keeter, who was badly hurt from a fall, is improving.

Tom Whitehurst, of Greenville, spent several days with friends near Shelmerdine last week.

Dr. L. E. Ricks returned Saturday night after a short but pleasant visit to his mother in Pantego.

C. D. Baker and J. P. Alford attended church at Timothy Sunday morning.

Mrs. Allen and son spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. N. T. Stokes, on Pine street.

Rev. James Corbitt preached at the Methodist church here Sunday night.

Offie Ross spent Sunday with friends in Vanceboro.

Miss Olive Woodard spent Monday night with Mrs. J. O. Bobbitt.

Quite a large eagle was sent here today, having been caught in a trap by Elwood Cox, living near Shelmerdine. The eagle measured 7 feet from tip to tip, and has killed several sheep and some geese.

Buggies Mix Up.

There was a collision of two buggies on Evans street, Monday afternoon, that mixed things up for a few moments. Mr. W. W. Matthews was driving down the street and Mr. Sam Harrington was going in the opposite direction, and near the intersection of Fourth street they came together. Both men were thrown out in the street but neither of them hurt. Mr. Matthews' buggy was quite badly smashed and Mr. Harrington's harness was broken to pieces.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town.

AYDEN, N. C., Mar. 6, 1906—

Owing to the bad weather Saturday was a bad day for collecting taxes, but it was extremely lively on young ducks.

A. L. Sumrell left yesterday to resume his work at Belhaven.

Mrs. Hugh Brooks has come home from a visit to Grifton.

Mrs. J. M. Sumrell is on a visit to Mrs. Allen Sutton near Greenville. Mrs. Sutton, who has been on a visit to friends here, returned to her home Monday.

J. L. Ross, a farmer living near here, died Saturday morning and was buried Sunday. He is brother of John Ross, of this place.

J. H. Savage and family have returned from Washington.

Mrs. J. A. Davis and Miss Marriescn left Saturday for Baltimore for the purpose of purchasing millinery for the spring trade.

Miss Ella Wayne returned from a visit down the road Saturday.

The little boy of J. A. Harrington, who has been very sick for the past two weeks with pneumonia, died last Saturday night and was buried in Ayden cemetery Sunday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Jones, of the Disciples church, a very large crowd was in attendance.

D. S. Moore and J. M. Blow took an all day ride on business in the county Monday.

There were services in the Disciple church Sunday morning and in the Episcopal church at night, the pastor in charge conducting same.

Squire Robert Jenkins, of Grifton, has been here several days surveying land for parties in and around Ayden.

Dr. Joseph and W. E. Hooks came home Sunday evening from a ten or twelve days visit in various sections of Florida. They report a grand old time in the land of flowers, alligators and other various animals and reptiles. Mr. Hooks tells us of an incident where a young 'gator, some two feet long, was caught in the morning and in less than 24 hours his 'gatorship was skinned, the skin tanned, beautifully colored and made into a handsome ladies hand bag. Mr. Hooks purchased the bag and has been showing it around among his numerous friends. It is indeed a unique piece of workmanship and displays nice skill and taste. There have been many envious eyes and the persuasive power brought to bear for its possession has proven almost irresistible.

Useful for Reference.

The Bank of Greenville is distributing an almanac that contains much useful information. Among other things it contains a list of all the state officers and of every county in the state and gives the time of holding courts. It makes a handy little book for quick reference.

THE WEATHER

Fair tonight and Wednesday, with slowly rising temperature.

ELM CITY SOCIAL EVENT.

Elegant Reception Given to Rev. J. L. Rumley and His Bride.

Elm City, N. C. March 3—In the social realm a marriage is ever an occasion of pleasant anticipations. No event of like nature has been looked forward to with a greater degree of interest than the blending of the lives and destinies of Rev. J. L. Rumley, pastor of the Methodist church at Elm City, and Miss Mary Louise Haskett, one of Greenville's accomplished and amiable daughters. The marriage was solemnized at three-thirty o'clock, February 28th 1906 by Rev. J. A. Hornaday at the home of the bride, Greenville, N. C. They left immediately for Elm City and arrived on the Norfolk show-fly. They were met at the station by a number of young people, and amid a shower of rice were driven to the parsonage.

Here a reception was given them by the members of the Methodist church. The parlors, reception hall and dining room had been transformed into creations of beauty under the skillful management and deft fingers of Mrs. R. S. Wells and her assistants. Soft lights added brilliancy to the enchanting scene. The reception was in its entirety artistic, unique and altogether beautiful.

The guests were welcomed in the front hall by Miss Irma McGowan and Mr. J. C. Winstead, Miss Ernestine Vick and Mr. C. M. Early. They were then ushered to the cloak rooms by Miss Emma McGowan and Mr. Jesse Davis. The guests were then conducted to the reception parlor, where the bride and groom and the receiving party consisting of Dr. E. G. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pridgen, Prof. and Mrs. A. B. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Hedgepeth and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Watson awaited them.

The color scheme was most artistically carried out in red, with graceful draperies of crimson and American beauty roses.

In his ever graceful style, Dr. E. G. Moore presented the guests to the bride. After tendering their best wishes and congratulations, the guests were invited across the hall, where another vision of loveliness greeted them. There the color scheme was pink and Miss Hazel Doles, attired in a lovely pink gown served Frappe. In this room was displayed the wedding gifts, testimonials of love and esteem from friends. After lingering here a few moments, Mr. E. O. McGowan, Dr. B. F. Barnes and Miss Bertha Pridgen led the way to the dining room, where a dainty collation was served. The color scheme of yellow and white prevailed here, which was also carried out in the refreshments. The gentlemen in the receiving party wore the conventional black. The bride was gowned in light blue Lansdowne with lace garniture and held an exquisite bouquet of bride's roses. Miss Irma McGowan, Alice blue silk with lace trimming; Miss Ernestine Vick, white silk over blue; Miss Emma McGowan, cream voile; Mrs. W. H. Pridgen, black silk and lace; Mrs. Cameron was attired in the bridal dress of white silk; Mrs. T. S. Hedgepeth, white

Not Like Other Girls.

The theatre going people will have the pleasure of witnessing a most thrilling four act drama at the Masonic opera house on Tuesday night, March 13th, in which Miss Alyce Kee Nan is the star in the above play. All the mysteries of electricity are used, and two electricians are carried with the production, as effects are used on the stage, under the stage, and in the wings of the theatre. The 3rd act opens with a thunder and lightning storm, in which all the elements are vividly shown, torrents of rain are falling, peals of thunder are heard in the distance, and flashes of lightning flood across the skies, making a picturesque effect that has never yet been seen on an American stage.

Fire in Kinston.

Kinston came near having a big fire Sunday night in the business section of the town, but a good water supply and fire department kept the loss down to $1,000. The fire was in the store of W. H. Cummings under the opera house

Disturbs People.

A man under the influence of liquor wandered to the residence of Rev. J. A. Hornaday, in West Greenville, Monday afternoon and alarmed the members of the family. The intruder was arrested. Such men ought to be put where they will not disturb people for awhile.

The woman who thinks only of her looks always looks it.

Much that stands for love wouldn't stand the test of cullp paers.

The woman who thinks only of her looks always looks it.

The out of town guests present were Dr. B. F. Barnes, Mr. Graham Williams, Mr. Fred Hornaday, Miss Nannie Daughtry.—Raleigh News and Observer.

RAILROAD ACCIDENTS.

There are 15,877 persons employed by the railroads, and in the operation of trains 35 employes were killed and 492 injured; 5 passengers were killed and 143 injured; 74 other persons were killed and 152 injured. That large number of persons killed in one year—114—is enough to cry for the employment of life-saving methods and greater care. The number of injured was 737. Those killed and injured were 901. A comparison of these killings and injuries with the like number of trains, employees and passengers hauled in any New England State or in any country in Europe would show how far behind them we are in the safe operation of railroads in North Carolina. There must be a remedy, for the lives of passengers and railroad employes are too valuable to be thus (in some cases needlessly sacrificed).

Women's Meetings.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Baptist church will meet at three o'clock Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. P. E. Daucy.

A Curious Complaint.

As a cross-examiner John Philpot Curran, the famous Irish orator and lawyer, was unrivaled. He was ingenious, says Barry O'Brien in his book of reminiscences entitled "Irish Memories," witty, trenchant, raking a witness by the fire of raillery or overwhelming him by a series of perplexing questions.

"My lord," cried one of his victims, "I cannot answer Mr. Curran. He is putting me in such a doldrum."

"A doldrum?" exclaimed the judge. "What is a doldrum, Mr. Curran?"

"Oh, my lord," replied Curran, "it is a common complaint with persons like the witness. It is a confusion of the head arising from a corruption of the heart."

DIDN'T GET THE JOB.

Why One Man is Now Careful About Stamping Envelopes.

"I know a man who lost a good job once by doing that," said the tall, slim man in the lobby of the Stafford.

"Doing what?" asked the short, fat man who was putting a stamp on an envelope.

"Why," said the tall man, "sticking a stamp on lopsided."

"You don't say!"

"I do," said Harold D. Stauffer of New Orleans. "It happened that I was the young man. It was not so many years ago either. A paper in Galveston had advertised for a proofreader in 1893, and at that time I was out of work and needed a place badly. The salary was good, the work congenial, and I had enjoyed some little experience at it with satisfaction to myself. So I wrote a formal application, addressed the envelope and hurriedly stuck a stamp on about a quarter of an inch northeast of the proper position and zigzaggy across the top. A few days later I received this answer:

"Dear Sir—Your application has been placed on file; but, while all other qualifications seem to be present, the carelessness indicated by the manner in which you affixed your stamp may, unfortunately, be an index to the character of your work, and we may frankly say that the circumstance will be taken into consideration in reaching a decision.

"You could have knocked me down with a feather. I had no idea of a stamp except as carrying agent for the letter, and whether I placed it upside down, sideways, to criss-cross or on edge so long as it carried the letter did not appeal to me as material. I wrote and explained that the position of the stamp was not a character index and suggested the unfairness of the conclusion, as the stamp might have been put on by my office boy. An answer came in due time. Such deeply personal letters, the writer said, were not trusted to office boys by careful men. Argument: The office boy plea was merely another indication of possible carelessness. Now, whether that man was having fun with me or really took the matter so seriously I don't know, but I do know one thing."

"What's that?"

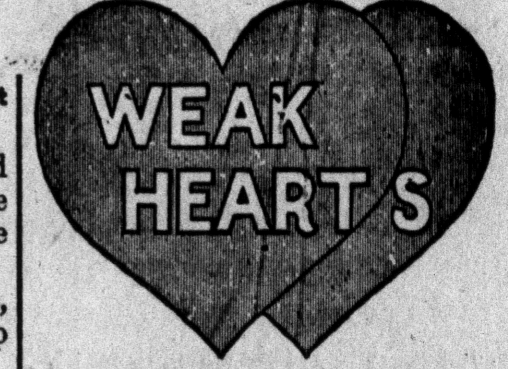

"I didn't get the job."—Baltimore News.

An Exemplary Congregation. "Taking them one with another," said a well known Chicago clergyman at a recent dinner, "I believe my congregation to be the most exemplary observers of the religious ordinances."

"Why so?" asked his neighbor, a lawyer with the cross questioning habit strong upon him.

"Because the poor in this congregation of mine keep all the fasts and the rich all the feasts."

are caused by Indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart. Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

When the electric plant puts on day current, as seems to be the prospect at an early day, you will see many swell enterprises developing around town.

It will mean something for Greenville for the business men to be united and working together to advance the interests of the town. It would be proper to enforce the law of Sabbath elsewhere in this country against some other people as well as the Adventists.

IMMIGRATION FIGURES.

The latest statement issued by the bureau of immigration shows that the number of arrivals from Europe during January was 46,269, from all other countries except those of Asia 3,484, and from all Asia only 1,373. The most of the Europeans come from Italy, Hungary and Russia, Finland being included in Russia. Why do not the Chinese exclusionists go into hysterics over these facts? Has our labor nothing to fear from the "pauper labor of Europe" of which we have heard so much, and has it everything to fear from Asiatic cheap labor when the European "invasion" exceeds all the Asiatic nearly 34 to 1.—Chicago Chronicle.

Another frog story comes now from Kansas, where a man is running a frog farm, and is not only making a big fortune on selling their legs, but has also made a pile of money on the sale of their hops. Now, is there a snake story that can come up to this? Orange, Va., Observer.

THE RUGBY GAME OF FOOTBALL.

The New Zealand team visited New York on its homeward way, and played an exhibition game against a New York team chiefly composed of men who had learned the game in England. The New Yorkers were unable to raise a full team, however, so the New Zealanders loaned a number of their sparemen. During the game a member of the New York team had to retire. The New Zealanders promptly sent one of their men to fill his place, and played out the game one man short, as substitutes are not allowed in the English game.

This game was witnessed by a number of authorities on American football, and they were highly pleased at the exhibition. They saw that the game, though fast, was devoid of rough play, and that no player was seriously injured, notwithstanding the absence of armor. The costume of the player at Rugby football consists of a light Jersey, running breeches, short stockings, and shoes. The knees are bare, and if shin-guards are ever worn they are placed under the stockings, for a player is ashamed to wear them openly.

What astonished the spectators most, perhaps, was the openness of the play, the wonderful passing of the ball, and the accurate kicking of it by men running at top speed. It was conceded that the Rugby game is more interesting to watch than ours, requires quite as much speed and skill, and is far less dangerous. It is a game that can be played by any one of average strength and skill, and a mild form of training is all that is necessary. A man of light build who is speedy and uses his brains has an equal chance with a man of brawn, and in this Rugby football is typical English athletics generally. Take any of their sports, and you will find that it is something to afford an afternoon's amusement and to "keep a chap fit" for the remainder of the week,—a game that any one can take a hand in.—From "What England Can Teach Us in Athletics," by G. Upton Harvey, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for March.

Hon. John H. Small, Representative in Congress of the first district of North Carolina, could not come to the forest reserve convention, but he manifested his interest in its purpose by sending a letter giving his unqualified support to the movement and backing up this support with arguments that were convincing. Mr. Small is to be complimented upon the interest he has uniformly taken in the material welfare and progress of the State. Whether the development is in the East or West, he gives support and labor for what deserves these. His constant and untiring efforts for an inland waterway near the South Atlantic Coast, a matter that involves national interests, are to his infinite credit not only as a duty to his State but to the nation. It may be assumed that Congressman Small will do good work for the Appalachian forest reserve and the New Englanders may rest assured that his efforts will not be confined to forwarding the interests of this State or the South Atlantic section, but he will stand for a White Mountain reserve as well as the Appalachian.—Charlotte Observer.

The man who fools himself and drinks dope because it isn't likker, will make the same wreck as though he had taken the pure stuff.—Everything.

Strawberries as Medicine.

All herbalists agree in pronouncing strawberries as wholesome and beneficial beyond every other English fruit. Their smell is refreshing to the spirits, they abate fever and are diuretic and gently laxative. The leaves may be used in gargles for quinsies and sore mouths. The chemical constituents of the strawberry are a peculiar volatile aroma, sugar, mucilage, pectine, citric and malic acids in equal parts, woody fiber and water. The fruit is mucilaginous, somewhat tart and saccharine. It is especially suitable in inflammatory and putrid fevers and for catarrhal sore throats.

Indignant.

It was the bailie's first day on the bench. When the first prisoner was brought before him he asked, "Are you guilty or not guilty?" "Not guilty!" replied the man promptly. "Not guilty!" exclaimed the bailie. "Then what are ye daein' here? Tak' that man awa', polisman, an' bring in ane that is guilty, an' I'll gie him sixty days!"—London Standard.

Changed His Residence.

"Isn't there something in my policy," asked a caller at an insurance office the other day, "about having to report any change of residence?" "Yes, sir," said the man at the nearest desk, picking up a pen. "Where have you moved to?" "I haven't moved anywhere," rejoined the caller. "I have made a change in my residence by painting it a light straw color and putting a chimney pot on the kitchen chimney. I think that's all. Good day!"

She Broke the Spell.

"No, I'm not superstitious," said a citizen in conversation, "but my wife is. She went out yesterday and forgot her parasol, so she came back and laid down her pocketbook to get her parasol, then went out and forgot her pocketbook, so back she came the second time and sat down. "Aren't you going out?" I asked. "Yes, but if I went out the second time without sitting down to break the spell I would have bad luck."

"She got up and went out, and I saw that she had sat down on a brand new silk hat that cost me $8 and had ruined it. That was not very good luck for me."

Football Test of Character.

President Roosevelt once attended a football match between Yale and Harvard university teams and sat by one of the Yale professors. He noticed one of the players who again and again failed to support his side at a critical juncture. Turning to the professor, he said, "What is your opinion of that man?" The professor replied: "I advised the captain not to play that man. He is slack at his studies. Being slack at work, he will be slack at play." "Yes," replied the president, "it is character that counts both in work and play."—C. B. Fry in London

THE STORY OF AN INGRATE

A Gambler's Generosity and What It Brought In Return.

There is a well authenticated story of Scrope Davis, a London dandy of a hundred years ago, an inveterate gambler, but also a man of talent, a gentleman and a wit. One night he was introduced to a young man named Hastings, who had inherited a colossal fortune, much of which he had already gambled away. They commenced to play hazard, Hastings remarking at the same time that he must soon cut that sort of fun, as he was about to marry and settle down.

Scrope was in great luck. Main after main he won and as often wished to cease play, but Hastings, who continued to pour glass after glass of champagne down his parched throat, was pallid with excitement and insisted upon a chance to retrieve his fortune. The excitement became general. Other players left their own tables to crowd around the duellists. Time after time Hastings threw crabs, while Davis followed with the nick.

The rattle of the dice and the ceaseless flow of wines went on all night and far into the next day. Hastings was mad with excitement. Every pound and every security he possessed or could think of he pledged and lost. At last, like the gamester who staked his wife upon a cast of the dice and lost, he would have risked the welfare of the girl to whom he was engaged if the other would have accepted that kind of security. But he would not. Then Hastings hurled dice and box across the saloon, smashing a splendid mirror, and, throwing himself exhausted upon a sofa, burst into tears, exclaiming: "I can play no more. I have lost everything I have in the world. I am a beggar!"

Davis stood still, calm, unmoved, watching him. Then he said: "Mr. Hastings, listen to me. I will forego everything I have won tonight on one condition, and that is that you will take a solemn oath never to touch cards or dice again." The ruined gambler fell on his knees to thank his benefactor and to take the oath. The latter immediately restored everything he had won, and, oddly enough, Hastings kept his vow and lived a wealthy and prosperous man.

But the medal has a sordid reverse. When in after years Scrope Davis, reduced to great poverty, ventured to ask him for some slight assistance, the hound wrote him a curt, formal reply in the third person, regretting that Mr. Hastings was unable to offer Mr. Scrope Davis any assistance.

Dying Thoughts of a Cowboy.

One day a party of townspeople were camping in the hills beside a raging river till it should be safe to cross. They saw a rough man struggling midstream with a very small chance of ever reaching shore. It was an exhausting time even for those who helplessly looked on. When the man at last saved himself and had been ministered unto, the psychologist of the party asked, "What were you thinking of while you were in such danger?"

"I thought," said the honest cowboy, "that I had $100 to my credit and did not want to die with all that money unspent."

Whereupon he forsook his job, gathered his little fortune, made for town and blew it all in ere thirty-six hours were past.—Boston Transcript.

His Remorse.

One of the lords of creation broke a chair over his wife's head. When taken to jail and conversed with by the chaplain he displayed a good deal of repentance.

He said he "was very sorry that he had permitted his anger to obtain the mastery of him and to suffer him to do such an act, for the chair was a good one, an heirloom in his family, and he knew he never could replace it."—London Answers.

THE RALSTON

HEALTH SHOE.

Shoemaking has been developed on wooden feet—lasts—which know no "pinch" nor discomfort. The soft, yielding, tender flesh of a live foot has thus been compelled to inhabit an unnatural, ill-fitting and oftentimes unsanitary shoe. To be foot-tired is the average man's daily inheritance. And how much ill health can be traced to an ill-fitting shoe. When the foot is improperly shod the delight of walking is gone, and man's best friend,—his feet—refuse to him the comfort he should enjoy. A perfect walking shoe, one that keeps the foot always in good condition,—can such be had?

If you want something distinctive, individual, come and see this shoe

This question brought into being the Ralston Health Shoe. Recognizing that the foot sole is a curve made by the twenty-six bones which form the heel, ball and toes, (a fact strangely ignored by shoemakers in the past) we evolved a construction method which places prime importance in last modeling.

Ralston lasts are anatomically correct and differ from all other makes. Ralston construction is a principal combining comfort, ease, service, style, fit and commonsense,—real quality in footwear, built into the shoes from the very start.

Shoes made on Ralston lasts are nature shoes, conforming to the natural foot, and because they need no "breaking-in" they never lose that charm and style for which Ralston shoes are famous,—and which cannot be obtained in other methods of manufacture.

In the selection of materials for Ralston shoes the World's best makers are searched and every bit of upper, top, or sole leather, linings and fittings must pass the Ralston test before acceptance. The same idea with our employees. Each and all must do his or her part according to the Ralston idea, whether it is cutting, stitching, lasting, making or finishing. The result is a shoe unrivalled in pleasure giving, service and abounding in comfort and style. Thus our immense factory with its army of happy, skillful employees is dedicated to the gospel of the foot salvation from cramped and unsuitable footwear. The Ralston Shoe cannot be duplicated at the price asked—$4.00—and as good a shoe is not made or sold for less.
