GENERAL NEWS.

Happenings of Interest Over the Country.

Montgomery, Ala., March 18.—Special to The Advertiser from town in the northern part of the State says that so far no material damage has been done the fruit crop, although at some points the thermometer registered as low as 30 degrees. It is feared, however, that injury will be done tonight, as the predictions were for colder weather.

Atlanta, Ga., March 18.—Prominent fruit men in this immediate section say that while the promised frost came last night they do not believe the fruit crop was injured materially, the weather being dry. Reports from Southern Georgia say no damage was done the crop in that section. No danger is apprehended tonight, as rain is falling over a large portion of the peach belt.

London, March 19.—The Daily Telegraph's Tokio correspondent, telegraphing concerning the earthquake Saturday morning in the vicinity of Kagi, Island of Formosa, says that the railway lines were twisted, telegraph poles thrown down and houses destroyed. The correspondent says that The Nichi Shimbun states that the casualties exceed 100 and that The Jiji Shimpo places them as high as 800. An official dispatch, he adds, reports 60 deaths and many more persons injured and 200 houses destroyed.

Norfolk, Va., March 18.—The Tuscarora tribe of Indians, who migrated from Hampton Roads to Western New York in 1507, one hundred years before the first permanent English settlement in America was effected at Jamestown have expressed a desire to participate in the Jamestown Exposition. The chief of the tribe has written the exposition officials that he and his people want to help celebrate the three hundredth anniversary of "The white men's rule in America."

Princeton, N. J., March 18.—Former President Grover Cleveland spent his birthday away from home to-day for the first time since he moved to Princeton. This is his 69th birthday. Mr. Cleveland is now in Florida with Prof. Howard McClenahan, where the two have been for ten days. He will likely remain South a month longer on account of poor health. Mrs. Cleveland said to-night that his outing in Florida was improving him; and that she expected him to return much better.

Areadia, Fla., March 18.—A negro woman, the wife of Jake Simmons, and two of her children, aged three and five, respectively, were killed Saturday at Pine Level. The older children returning home at dusk failed to find their mother, but retired. Sunday morning a turpentine hand went to see the family and he and the children, after a search, found the mangled bodies in an old well hidden by palmettos. A bloody knife and gun stock lying in the yard were identified as belonging to Albert Simmons, nephew of the murdered woman, and Simmons has been arrested.

IN MEMORIAM.

Joint Resolutions of Respect to the Memory of William R. Parker, Who Departed This Life on March 9th, 1906.

Whereas: It hath pleased our loving Heavenly Father to take from our midst our beloved brother and church worker, William R. Parker, whose removal deprives us of the help and fellowship of one who was always a most faithful, loyal and consecrated laborer in the service of Christ, and who was always true to the highest ideals of Christian character and conduct, and whose noble life was always an inspiration to earnest and sustained effort to the Master's cause;

And Whereas: His departure leaves a gap in our ranks that cannot well be filled, and a wound in our hearts that cannot be healed by mere words of consolation, nor softened saved through the comforting offices of the Holy Spirit and the mellowing influences of time; and we, being conscious of the unerring wisdom and goodness of our loving Heavenly Father, and humbly submissive to the Divine will, murmur not at His decrees but claim the privilege of paying this last tribute of respect to the memory of our beloved brother, and tendering our sympathy to his bereaved family; be it therefore

Resolved: That we shall ever hold the life and works of our beloved brother in fond and grateful remembrance, and cherish deeply the influence of his labors, the great and enduring value of which eternity will reveal in results which shall redound to the praise and glory of our God and Jesus the Christ, whose servant he was.

Resolved: That we convey to his bereaved wife and children and kinsmen our warmest condolence and sympathy in this, their hour of severe trial and affliction, as with mingled sorrow and joy we mutually remember the noble dead, and commend the living to the tender watch care of the One who will never leave nor forsake them.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the family of Brother Parker, recorded on the minutes of the organizations of the church here jointly represented, and published in our religious and secular papers. Also that they be otherwise disposed of as may be deemed fitting and proper by those whose signatures are herewith affixed.

With deepest sympathy and respect,

E. A. Moye, J. G. Tunstall, for the Christian Church.

E. A. Moye, J. T. Latham, for the Christian Sunday school.

Mrs. H. T. King, Mary A. Moye for the Christian Women's Board of Missions.

Mrs. Heber Coward, Mrs. H. H. Moore, for the Ladies' Aid Society.

E. M. Moye, C. D. Tunstall, for the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor.

In our personal items Monday it should have been Will Parker who went to Norfolk, instead of Will Proctor as printed.

ORMONDSVILLE ITEMS.

ORMONDSVILLE, N. C., Mar. 19. Will Ormond and Elias Turnage went to Snow Hill one day last week.

It is said that our clever friend, Newman Ormond, has special appointments in Hookerton every Sunday. He surely attends promptly.

Zeno Lyons and Caleb Faulkner went to Snow Hill last Saturday.

Elias Turnage has purchased the C. F. Moore place adjoining his lands.

Miss May Brooks, of Grifton, but now a teacher of the Renston school, visited at the home of W. A. Darden last Saturday and Sunday.

A series of meetings will begin in the M. E. church here on third Sunday in April. Rev. Mr. Hornaday, of Greenville, is expected to assist the pastor.

R. I. Corbett and family went to Bethany last Sunday.

J. E. W. Sugg, of Snow Hill, county organizer of the Southern Cotton Growers association, organized a club at Ormondsville last Thursday night. The officers were elected as follows: A. E. Deaton, pres; W. W. Orman, vice pres; Elias Turnage, sec; John T. Reddie, treas; and R. I. Corbett, lecturer.

R. I. Corbett is very much interested in the poultry business and is now making a specialty of the white Plymouth Rock. They are doubtless the prettiest bird known, as they are perfectly chalk white with yellow legs and beak. They are very large and splendid layers. He has one pullet scarcely grown that weighs 7 1/2 pounds. This is a new breed in this section but it surely attracts the fancier's eye.

F. M. Hodges, Great Sachem of the I. O. R. M. assisted by Messrs. Bateman, E. A. Coward and others of the Greenville tribe, organized a tribe here last Thursday to be known as the Wyandotte Tribe No. 68.

Death by Fire.

Tuesday night Will Roberts and wife, who lives near the Lincoln Academy, went to attend a party two miles from home leaving four children (the oldest five years old) at home with a hired man who lived with them. The hired man retired about 9 o'clock in the same room with the two oldest children. Sometime about 11 o'clock the man was aroused by the falling in of the burning roof in the room in which the two younger children were sleeping. He was able to get out with the two older children but was unable to save the two youngest who were burned to death. The origin of the fire is unknown. The house and contents were a total loss with no insurance.—Gastonia Gazette.

Be on Hand.

Special offer to Odd Fellows only. Any one attending Covenant Lodge tonight and not being thoroughly satisfied with the exercises will have refunded to him cheerfully the price of admission. Suppens up, and don't you forget it.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town.

AYDEN, N. C., Mar. 20, 1906—

An entertainment will be given in the Ayden graded school building next Friday evening March 23, by the faculty and advanced pupils. The programme will consist of readings, vocal and instrumental music, drills, tableaux and a nont play.

The proceeds will be used for the better equipment of the building. Admission, adults 25 cents. children 15 cents.

Miss Mary Long Whitehead, Miss Alyce Taylor, Miss Dora Hornaday, Miss Bennie Brown, Mrs. F. G. Buhmann.

A happy man, J. T. Smith, Jr a baby boy, last Thursday.

The work done on Main street west of railroad is certainly an improvement, both in appearance and convenience. Let the good work go on.

On Saturday evening an oyster roast was given by Mr. F. H. Jordan, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Buhmann, complimentary to Misses Brown, Taylor and Whitehead, of the graded school faculty. The young men of the party were Messrs: T. Cook Covington, Raymond Turnage, Lil Cannon and F. H. Jordan. The affair was intirely informal, the hostess making the young people feel as much at home in the kitchen as in the parlor. The ladies, with their dainty aprons, assisted by the young men prepared the oysters to suit the taste of each and every one serving them fried, stewed, raw, etc, while ever and anon the entire party gathered around the open fire in the yard and did justice to the oysters as they came steaming hot from the coals, also to the olives, pickles crackers etc, with which they were served. It was a typical evening of "ye olden time" when jests, merry making and laughter ran riot and the young people gave toasts to the health and happiness of all especially Mr. Jordan.

A. W. Auge a prominent merchant of Winterville, has been to see us.

Miss Carlie Wilson died at her home near Haddock's Cross Roads on Sunday the 11th inst. Miss Wilson was quite an old lady and had been sick for some length of time and her death was not unexpected. She was an excellent woman and had a host of friends who exceedingly regret her death.

A missionary society was organized in the Methodist Sunday school last Sabbath with Mrs. B. E. Stanfield as president; Mrs. Herbert Ormond, Vice president; Miss Ida M. Edwards, Secretary; and Miss Carrie Johnson, treasurer.

Some one last Friday night was heartless enough to break both of the forelegs of Dr. M. M. Sauls' fine sheppard dog, Ned. The dog was perfectly harmless and on account of his fine appearance and friendly disposition was a general favorite with every one in town. Such acts are to be deplored and the guilty party should be punished.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Of Those Going and Coming

G. G. Fineman went to Kinston this morning.

Will Parke returned from Norfolk this morning.

Milton White returned from Norfolk Monday evening.

J. S. Goldsmith, a popular insurance man, is in town.

The days and nights are reaching the point of equality.

Dr. J. E. Nobles and F. W. Clare went to New Bern this morning.

R. J. Cobb, O. L. Joyner and R. F. Betts went to Richmond this morning.

John Hearoe, of Tarboro, who has been visiting his parents here, left Monday evening.

"EVERYBODY SKATES BUT FATHER."

In view of the fact that the roller skate fad occupies an important position in the minds of a large percentage of the population of this city the following parody on "Every body Works But Father," by a clever young business man of Kinston, may be of interest just at this time:

Everybody skates but father;
He looks sad all day,
Thinking of the doctor's bills
He may have to pay.
Mother skates each evening,
So does Sister Ann—
Everybody skates at our home,
But my old man
—Kinston Free Press.

Civil Court

There is not much of general interest going on in court. Judgments have been taken in some minor suits that were settled by compromise. Only one case has so far gone to the jury and that resulted in a mistrial.

Heavy Freight Trains.

The incoming freight trains are so heavy these days that they have a hard time pulling up the grade between the bridge and the depot. It frequently happens that part of the train has to be left on the track until the engine pulls the cars up to the depot in sections. This may be good railroading, but it looks to me like it is dangerous and expensive.

Land Did Not Move.

Some amusing things crop out in court occasionally. A land suit was being tried and counsel was examining witness as the succession of occupants. It was brought out that one of the occupants of the land died in a certain year. "What went with the land after he died?" asked the lawyer of the witness. "It stayed right there," was the prompt answer, and a smile went around the jury.

THE WEATHER

Fair tonight and Wednesday. Colder tonight in eastern portion with freezing temperature.

Odd Fellows come out tonight, work in the initiatory and second degree. Be on hand, the Lodge will be opened at 8 o'clock promptly. Visitors cordially invited.

The English Servant.
The English servant requires to be studied. The world's other servants are mere amateurs; the English servant has a trade. As an American I proceeded to treat mine a l'Americaine, and I made by first blunder. A sensible American is, if not friends with her servants, at least friendly. The English woman, if she is sensible, presents to her servants a surface of perfect indifference, and then she has peace, for the English servant despises a considerate and kindly mistress as not knowing her place. The most difficult thing for a stranger to learn is that impalpable line between the different servants' duties. If one does not enumerate what one expects of them when they are hired, afterward it is too late. They have, however, a rough sense of honor, and they generally do what they agree to.—Mrs. John Lane in Harper's Bazar.

Past Failures Redeemable.
There is no failure for a man whose spirit is unconquered. No matter how late the hour or how many and repeated his failures, success is still possible. The evolution of Scrooge, the miser, in the closing years of his life, from a hard, narrow, heartless money grubber, whose soul was imprisoned in his shining heap of hoarded gold, to a generous, genial lover of his kind is no mere myth of Dickens' brain. Time and again in the history of our daily lives, chronicled in our newspapers, recorded in biographies or exhibited before our eyes, we see men and women redeeming past failures, rising up out of the stupor of discouragement and boldly turning face forward once more.—O. S. Marden in Success.

Attractions of Her Long Voyage.
Flora—You know I've been so anxious to hear from that friend of mine who is on such an interesting trip to South Africa.
Dora—Yes.
Flora—Well, I've had a long letter from her, and all she says is, "We had a beautiful trip around the Horn." All the rest was about a man she had met on board!—Detroit Free Press.

Many a man's meanness is due to chronic stomach trouble.

It takes a good deal of courage not to pretend you have it.

Indigestion is much of a habit. Don't get the habit. Take a little Kodol Dyspepsia Cure after eating and you will quit belching, puffing, palpitation and frowning. Kodol Digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by John L. Wooten.

Why is a sarcastic man's nose like an eagle's nest?
Because it is elevated.

It pours the oil of life into your system. It warms you up and starts the life blood circulating. That's what Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Wooten's Drug Store.

The best safeguard against headache, constipation and liver troubles is De Witt's Little Early Risers. Keep a vial of these famous little pills in the house and take a dose at bed time when you feel that the stomach and bowels need cleansing. They don't gripe. Sold by John L. Wooten.

Why is a blind man like a potato?
Both have eyes but cannot see.

Have you pains in the bank, inflammation of any kind, rheumatism, fainting spells, indigestion or constipation, Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea makes you well. keeps you well. 35 cent. Wooten's Drug Store.

The best way to rid the system of a cold is to evacuate the bowels. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar acts as a pleasant, yet effectual cathartic on the bowels. It clears the head, cuts the phlegm out of the throat, strengthens the bronchial tubes, relieves coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough etc. Sold by John L. Wooten.

It is worth while reflecting on that nearly all men who commit suicide are married.

If you are troubled with Piles and can't find a cure, try Witch Hazel Salve. You are sure you get that made by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. It is the Original. If you have used Witch Hazel Salve without being relieved it is probable that you got hold of one of the many worthless counterfeits that are sold on the reputation of the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.

Have you weakness of any kind—stomach, back, or any organs of the body? Don't dope yourself with urinary medicine. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea is the supreme curative power. 35 cents. Wooten's Drug Store.

A man would hate to drink even whiskey if he was sure it was good for his health.

Don't frown—look pleasant. If you are suffering from indigestion or sour stomach, take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Hon. Jake Moore, of Atlanta, Ga. says: "I suffered more than 20 years with indigestion. A friend recommended Kodol. It relieved me in one day and I now enjoy better health than for many years." "Kodol digests what you eat, relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach, belching, etc. So do by John L. Wooten.

One would think the Laxative idea in a cough syrup should have been advanced long before it was. It seems the only rational remedy for Coughs and Colds would be to move the bowels and clean the mucous membranes of the throat and lungs at the same time. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar does this. It is the Original Laxative Cough Syrup, the best known remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Coughs, etc. Tastes good and harmless. Sold by John L. Wooten.

One Way Round.
An old man who sells produce in the towns near Lowell, Mass., has his share of the best kind of wit—the unexpected. Not long ago, according to a writer in the Lowell Citizen, he delivered a pair of dressed chickens to one of his customers. She was in the kitchen when he brought them in and, womanlike, shivered a little when she saw the headless fowls.

"I should think you'd simply hate to cut off the heads of those innocent chickens!" she exclaimed involuntarily.

"I do," replied the old man, "and so I never do it. I manage to get around it."

"How?" the housewife demanded, with eager interest. "The heads of these chickens are gone."

"Oh, yes," said the old man cheerfully, "I chopped the chickens off."

SLOUCHED HATS.

They Once Caused a Riot With Great Loss of Life in Spain.

Has not some one calculated that a sixth part of the memoirs of St. Simon in the original is occupied with the controversy whether or not the president of parliament should wear his hat or put it on the desk when performing various functions? At length the matter was compromised. The Tiers-etat should wear a chapeau rabattu, which had the slouched brim pinned up. This childish quarrel was remembered, no doubt, when the states general met and the king harangued them. His speech over, he put on his hat, and the noblesse did likewise, according to their privilege. The commons had no such claim, but they also clapped on their chapeaux rabattus, amid fierce protests from the nobles. The revolution might have begun that day with a scrimmage in the king's presence had he not removed his own hat, when all, of course, did the same.

But slouched hats had already caused a riot in Spain, which lasted so long and cost so many lives that it might almost be termed a civil war. This was twenty years earlier. Charles III. thought them untidy. He thought the streets of his capital untidy also and denounced both eyesores in an edict. Every Spaniard henceforth must pin up his flopping brim, and every household-er of Madrid must clean the street opposite his premises. Forthwith the people rose. They were little interested comparatively in the street cleaning, but they would die for their hats. And a good many of them did, but not unavenged. More than a week the fray lasted, but it was thought remarkable by foreign observers that at 2 p. m. regularly the soldiers piled arms, the furious citizens withdrew and silence reigned for one hour. Both parties were enjoying the siesta except perhaps the wounded. After that interval they recommenced. The king fled, and for the rest of his life he never returned to Madrid willingly. In fact, it was understood he designed to make Seville the capital henceforth and only gave up the project when his ministers showed him what a vast sum he had already spent on the new palace. So mighty may be the influence of the hat in state affairs. Finally the king compromised. He withdrew his edict so far as the realm at large was concerned. Within the walls of Madrid every man must wear his brim pinned up, but outside he was at liberty to let it slouch. But the police courts did not cease to be busy until the fashion changed.

An Odd Lease.

Probably one of the longest leases known was granted for a small piece of meadow land, some sixteen acres in extent, in Surrey, England. It is for the term of 2,900 years and was granted on St. Michael's day, in 1651, at the singular rental of "a red rose when demanded." It is not stipulated that the rose shall be the product of this land, which is fortunate, for no such rose grows anywhere on the sixteen acres.

The "Race of the Zoophytes."

Much of the superstition in poetry, says Andrew Wilson in the London Graphic, is due to the imperfections of science. Crabbe, for example, wrote of the Zoophytes that he styled "a race, which science, doubting, knows not where to place." In Crabbe's days at Aldborough he became familiar with the "sea flowers" with which the sea wrack was often mixed. To him they represented singular growths that were neither animal nor vegetable. Yet even in Crabbe's day the zoophytes were known to represent colonies of animals growing in the strange verisimilitude of plants. At the very least the poet committed no vital error, for he knew the race "involved in sea wrack" was a living one, and he duly commented on the difficulty of science placing it in any category of satisfactory kind.

The Straightest Line.

The strangest thing in nature or art is a ray of light when passing through a medium of uniform density; hence the eye is enabled to test the straightness of an edge or tube by holding it as nearly as possible coincident with a ray of light, such parts as depart from straightness then intercepting the ray and causing a shade to be cast upon other parts. It is not known at what early period in the history of mankind the discovery was made that straightness could be thus determined. It is certain that thousands of mechanics use the method daily without being able to give a rational explanation of it. This primitive mode of testing straightness, on account of its great convenience and accuracy, is likely to continue in use to the end of the world.

"Pin Money."

Pins were unknown at the beginning of the sixteenth century. Poor people used a sort of wooden skewer, while the rich used silver, bone or boxwood. When pins first came into use they were so expensive that only fashionable people could indulge in them, and they were given as New Year gifts and greatly appreciated. It became customary at last for husbands to give their wives the money to buy them instead, and so the term "pin money," meaning an allowance for small personal expenses, arose.

His Alma Mater.

"I thought," said the irritable old head of the firm, "that you said when I hired you that you had taken a course of instructions at an academy?"

"Yes, sir," replied the young man. "Well, do you mean to tell me that any one could go through an academy and spell the way you do? Look at that letter. Half the words are misspelled, and what do you mean by making me say 'has came'? Confound you, if I hadn't glanced over this thing after you'd got it copied the man it's written to would think me a fool! Come, own up now! What academy was this that you attended?"

"It—it was Professor De Flipperdale's dancing academy, sir."—Chicago Record-Herald.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Every now and then somebody asks us how the building and loan proposition for Greenville is coming on. We don't know how to answer except to say The Reflector is doing its best to awaken enough interest among the business men to get an association started. One man, who meant business about it, suggested that a list be opened to see how many shares will be subscribed for, and said put him down for twenty-five. We are going to try that suggestion and open a list at The Reflector office to see how many shares will be subscribed for. If enough shares are taken a meeting can be called and the association organized. Now is the time to show your interest in a matter that means a great deal for the development of Greenville and will be a profitable investment for all who take shares in it.

Those fellows who cry out occasionally that the price of diamonds is advancing must think they will scare somebody. Who cares?

Former President Grover Cleveland on Sunday passed his 69th birthday. The entire country offers congratulations and wishes for our honored citizen many more anniversaries.

Rockefeller's millions must be giving him lots of comfort when he has to stay in hiding to keep the subpoena servers from finding him. We had rather not have quite so much and be able to go at large when we pleased.

No man who loves the right of citizenship should wilfully lose this and disfranchise himself through failure to pay his poll tax. This is to remind all who are yet delinquent in their poll tax for 1905 that unless they pay this before the first of May they cannot vote in the election next fall.

Judge Parker in his speech at Charlotte expressed his opinion that the South, which furnishes most of the votes, should head the next National Democratic ticket. The South is entitled to this recognition, but may be expected to go on whooping it up for the other fellow.

New Orleans has just had a good size scare. A rather unusual case of fever occurred there which for a time caused much uneasiness that it was yellow fever. A thorough investigation proved these fears unfounded, much to the delight of the people not only of that city but also of the entire South.

GREATER GREENVILLE

It will be Greenville's own fault if the town lags behind in the present day march of progress. The opportunities surround us for making this one of the best towns in Eastern North Carolina, and if these opportunities are rightly used there is no reason why the population of the town should not double in the next few years. Everything possible should be done to stimulate the enterprises already here, and every encouragement should be given to induce the location of new enterprises among us. The town itself should begin by making a good thoroughfare to the depot and by furnishing day electric current so that small enterprises wanting power can get it. And there should be a building and loan association to enable those desiring to do so to build houses. Everybody get to work and help make Greenville the town it ought to be.

The most unjustifiable lynching of which there is record occurred in Louisiana a few days ago. A negro who had been arrested for stealing a calf was being taken to jail by officers when he was surrounded by a mob and put to death. This is an outrage that places an inefaceable stain upon the State in which it occurred.

And now there's something else new. They are trying to abolish the old smoke house, where we used to hang up the meat, start a fire smothered with corn cobs and hickory chips, close the door, and leave the good sweet country hams and shoulders to "cure" in wholesome smoke. A correspondent of the Progressive Farmer wrote that paper inquiring where he could "get essence of smoke for meat so that it will not have to be hung up to smoke in the old way." And our contemporary was progressive enough to tell the correspondent where he could get the "extract of smoke." What in the world is the extract of smoke, how is it used, and what are we coming to anyway. —Gastonia Gazette.

His Wife's Money.

Once upon a time a man married a woman who had inherited $500 from a grandfather. This was all she ever received, but the man never got credit for his efforts the rest of his life. He built a new store. "Did it with his wife's money," the neighbors said. The home was made over and enlarged. "His wife's money did it," was the only comment. The little measly $500 she inherited was given the credit for everything he did during life, and when he died and his widow put up a monument with his life insurance. "Her money paid for that," was said again. But this is what her money went for. During her engagement she bought herself a $350 piano and a $150 diamond ring, and in a few weeks lost the ring. There was always some regret that she didn't lose the piano. —Acheson Globe.

INTELLIGENT WRENS.

Some of Them Know a Human Friend When They See Him.

"Much has been written of the mind that centers in the brain of a bee or an ant," says Dr. Charles C. Abbott in Lippincott's. "The wren, too, has but a trifling brain when we consider its bulk, but from it flows many a suggestive train of thought. The career of the birds nesting in the roof of my porch was much the same year after year, and I will particularize only that of the season just drawn to a close. The first brood came from the nest a few days too soon, and great was the commotion that followed. The young birds were too weak upon the wing to avoid danger. I boldly declare I believe I was appealed to. The parent birds perched on the sill of my study window and sang as they had not done before. The marked difference from their ordinary singing attracted my attention. When I went out of the door their excitement visibly increased. I thought they would actually alight upon me. I saw the trouble and proceeded to remedy it. I caught four of the young birds, all that I could find, and immediately the old birds were more at ease. Placing a ladder against the porch, I carried the nestlings back. Every movement of mine was closely watched. I was followed every step I took, and when I replaced the young birds the parents were within a foot of my hand. Then such singing! It seemed unmistakable that I was accepted as a veritable friend in need and so a friend indeed. After this incident the wrens were even more tame.

"A few weeks passed, and I was again called upon to render these wrens assistance. The entrance to the nest had become too large for their needs, and a pair of English sparrows had discovered the fact. The rotten wood had so far crumbled away that the latter birds could pass in and out. This they attempted, and a battle royal was begun. The singing of the wrens was noticeably loud, incessant and suggestive of some unusual happening. I was attracted by it and saw the cause of all the trouble at once. Again I seemed to be appealed to. The wrens distinctly flew to me, singing while on the wing, and then darting viciously after the intruding sparrows. I took a strip of thin wood, bored an inch auger hole in it and prepared to place it before the old opening to the nest. Setting the ladder again in position, I was now closely followed by the wrens. They clearly comprehended what I was about to do. They did not leave me for an instant. I tacked the bit of wood in front of the nest and added a perching stick. The wrens stood upon the porch roof near by and fairly danced with glee, and before I was again upon the ground and the ladder removed they were passing into and out of the nest without a moment's hesitation. I never heard such exultant singing. It was piercingly shrill."

An Unbiased Judge.

A professor in a western university one day while walking with a friend in San Francisco became involved in an argument as to which was the handsomer man of the two. Not being able to arrive at a settlement of the question, they agreed in a spirit of fun to leave it to the decision of a Chinaman who was seen approaching them. The matter being laid before him, the oriental considered long and carefully, then he announced in a tone of finality, "Both are worse."

A Natural Question.

The young hopeful had just returned from the Sunday school and his mother was busy catechising him on the afternoon's lesson. "You know, mother," he exclaimed, "I don't believe Solomon was as rich as they make out."

"But, darling," expostulated the fond parent in pious horror, "you know what the Bible says?"

"Yes, I know it says 'Solomon slept with his fathers.' If he were so rich, why didn't he have a bed to himself?"

A FAMOUS SONG.

How "Abide With Me" Came to Be Written.

Henry Francis Lyte, author of that matchless composition "Abide With Me," for twenty years was a sufferer from consumption. During this time he was the minister over a parish composed largely of fisher-folk in a coast town of England. He labored faithfully among his people, yet he always longed to do something that would have an influence for the good of humanity after his death—a longing which found expression in a beautiful poem. The story of how this desire came to be fulfilled through writing "Abide With Me" is related in the Delineator in an interesting paper by Allan Sutherland, giving the history and romance of the famous hymn.

"In the autumn of 1847 his physicians informed Mr. Lyte that it would be necessary for him to relinquish his work and spend the winter in Italy. When the last Sabbath of his stay in England, Sept. 5, 1847, arrived he determined to preach once more to his little flock and to celebrate with them the Lord's supper. In spite of the protest of friends, he carried out his intentions, although scarcely able to stand in the chancel. In words of melting tenderness he pleaded with his people to live holy lives, and when he took his leave of them there was scarcely a dry eye in the church. The day had been well nigh perfect, and in the late afternoon, recovering somewhat from the strain of the service in the church, he walked slowly and feebly down the terraced walk to the water he loved so well and which he was about to leave forever. The spell of the hour was upon the minister. While the bright sunset colors faded into the sober grays of twilight he slowly made his way back to the house in prayerful silence and went to his room. When he joined his family a little later he bore in his hand the words that were destined to move thousands. His prayer had been answered. His last evening in his old home had produced that which will be a blessing so long as the heart turns to its Maker for help in times of need."

Coles Scuttled.

A biographer of Eton in the time when the Rev. J. J. Hornby occupied the head mastership tells a capital story of Russell Day, one of the masters, a quiet, insignificant looking little man, who made up for his lack of inches by his wit and ready retort.

On one occasion a big boy named Coles, who was reputed to be a bit of a "swagger," went on some errand into Russell Day's schoolroom and stood magnificently by the door. Little Day looked at him long and hard.

"What is thy name?" he asked drawlingly at last.

"Coles, sir," said the confident youth in resonant tones.

"Then, Coles, you may scuttle," came the quick and devastating reply. And Coles retired in ruins.—London Globe.

The Toad In Mediaeval Medicines.

Strange as it may seem to some, the ingredients of the witches' caldron in "Macbeth," at least a part of them, were once standard remedies among Europeans. In the tenth and eleventh centuries a sovereign cure for ague was the swallowing of a small toad that had been choked to death on St. John's eve, and a splendid remedy for rheumatism was to fasten the bands of clothing with pins that had been stuck into the flesh of either a toad or a frog. Physicians frequently recommended the water from a toad's brain for mental affections and that a live toad be rubbed over the diseased parts as a cure for the quinsy.

Honesty That Irritated.

"Once when I had occasion to withdraw $25 from my bank," remarked the conscientious man, "something happened which almost tempted me to think that honesty may at times be not so very commendable. By a curious mistake, considering the small amount of money, the cashier handed out six five-dollar gold pieces. Without thinking what it meant to him I shoved one of the coins back, saying, 'You have given me too much.' The look that man gave me I have never forgotten, although even at this day I cannot describe it. But I can assure you it was not a grateful glance."—New York Press.
