Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town.

AYDEN, N. C., Mar. 23, 1906—

Miss Fannie Hardee, who has been visiting Mrs. Ida Glenn Edwards, has returned to her home in Greenville.

Mrs. Ann Coward is in Greenville visiting.

Marshal Tripp has been to Fort Barnwell on business during the week.

B. F. Manning left here Wednesday for Fort Barnwell to see his family who are there on a visit, but when he arrived at Grifton to take the boat the captain in a very unceremonious manner left him. It was a shame.

Rev. S. B. Stephens and family left here Wednesday for Columbia, S. C., where they will make their home.

E. V. Cox is in attendance upon court in Kinston.

Mrs. Wooten and Mrs. Baynor came up on the train from Kinston yesterday to visit Mrs. F. T. Carr, at Willow Green.

W. M. Edwards and family have been visiting in Ormondsville.

Mrs. G. M. Tucker, of Whitakers, is here on a visit to her sister, Mrs. H. C. Ormond.

J. J. Edwards is in Hookerton.

F. T. Carr, of Willow Green, spent the day here yesterday.

H. J. Corbett and wife spent one day in Greenville shopping this week.

One day this week there were five representatives of the same insurance company in town.

Fred Hornaday spent a short while here the past week on his way to Hookerton.

Joe Dixon is here on business.

J. A. Harrington and Constable W. J. Hemby are perambulating in and around Farmville and Falkland.

Mr. Mumford, of Fremont, has been a guest of W. E. Hooks this week.

Would Promote Travel.

The Greenville Reflector makes an appeal for a later schedule on the late evening train on the Atlantic Coast Line that the train may make connection with the southbound from Norfolk at Hob. good, thereby giving passengers an opportunity to visit Norfolk and return same day, having several hours there. For our part we don't see why the Coast Line has not done it before; it would certainly promote travel and be a great convenience to the public.—Kinston Free Press.

Send Us Your Printing.

The Reflector is constantly making improvements, in its job printing department in order to be better equipped for turning out good work. More new type and a stapling machine have just been added, and other things will soon follow. We are in shape for doing almost any kind of work and want your orders.

THE WEATHER

Partly cloudy tonight and Saturday with snow or rain in extreme western and northwestern portions.

THE S. E. CLUB.

Reported for Reflector.

The "Social Evening" club met with Misses Louise Satterthwaite and Inez Pittman, at the home of Mrs. T. R. Moore, on South Evans street, Wednesday afternoon, Mar. 21st at 4 o'clock.

The guests were received at the door by Miss Inez Pittman, who ushered them to the parlor door, where they were graciously received and seated by Miss Louise Satterthwaite. The meeting was then called to order by Miss Pattie Wooten, the president.

After the business meeting was over, all were entertained with a very interesting guessing contest, which awarded Miss Rubell Forbes the prize, and Miss Aueyn King the booby.

The guests were then ushered into the spacious and beautifully decorated dining room by their hostesses, where elegant refreshments were served.

After many jolly games in the roomy back yard, and a fine ride around several squares with Mr. Haywood Dall in his dray, (which perchance was passing) all reluctantly left, declaring they were indebted to their charming hostesses for a most enjoyable afternoon, and will meet with Miss Bela Keel April 4th, at 4 o'clock.

Harmony Brings Prosperity.

Business jealousy is a bad thing and at times obstructs prosperity. Through it one person loses sight of the rights of another and learns to almost despise one who in another business would have been a good friend. This jealousy sometimes gets into the household, in the office, in the church, in the schools, and when it does creep in we find one ever mindful of self but neglectful of the rights of others, and business, character, good name, social standing and what not are driven to the winds, so long as these concern some one who stands in the way or holds something desired to be obtained. There is a legitimate field of effort for all, and only the slothful do not attain.

Build yourself up through the individuality and merit you stamp upon your work or business—concern yourself not with the sphere assigned to or occupied by another. Home, business relations and all, should always be amicable as between men and women who live in the open and have nothing to conceal, and good will should always prevail. Harmony, shoulder to shoulder, all working together, differences in belief buried so far as they effect friendship, these things will help any community. He is treacherous who would not subscribe to these, and is one who would seek to establish himself by the ruin he would wreck upon others.—Albemarle Enterprise.

One hundred and forty millions is a large amount of money, and yet that sum was voted by the Senate in less than twenty minutes Tuesday. There was no way of getting around it and it was just as well that it be quickly disposed of. The pension bill is one of the greatest burdens this government has to bear, and there is no relief in sight.—Charlotte Observer.

OVER THE STATE.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Col. O. H. Dockery, of this state, an ex-congressman, died Wednesday in Baltimore.

M. T. Norris, a prominent merchant of Raleigh, has been arrested on the charge of having set fire to a building belonging to his wife in order to get the insurance.

Governor Glenn has applied to the war department, at Washington, for a regiment of cavalry—or not less than a battalion—to assist in the great celebration which will be held in Charlotte for the observance of the twentieth of May.

Mount Olive, N. C., March 22—A movement is under way looking towards the establishing of a cotton mill here. The plan is to organize a $50,000 stock company, the same to be divided into shares of $50.00 each. This would put in a mill with about 5,000 spindles and employ at least one hundred laborers.

Asheville, N. C. March 22.—It is believed that the sharp cold of the past few days has practically destroyed the peach crop of Buncombe county and greatly damaged the small fruits and berries. The apple crop has not thus far been damaged. Peach trees were in blossom in many sections of the county.

Official Visitor.

Homer W. Kintz, of Washington, D. C., assistant superintendent of the division of salaries and supplies of the postal department, spent Thursday here examining into the needs of the Greenville postoffice. He found the office and its management strictly up to the times, but thinks some additions could be made to the furnishings.

Greenville Wholesale Company.

A new firm has been established here to be known as the Greenville Wholesale Company. The firm is composed of D. S. Smith, W. J. Thigpen and W. J. Hardee, all well known young men of good business experience. They will handle groceries at wholesale and will occupy a store in the White building.

In Hands of Receiver.

Application was made to the court at this term for a receiver for the Winterville Manufacturing Company. L. L. Kittrell was appointed as such receiver to close up the business of the company. He advertises the entire plant for sale and it offers a good opportunity for persons desiring to engage in the manufacturing business.

Keep Talking.

Keep up your licks at getting subscribers for The Reflector. Remember the one who sends in the most names by April 15th will be given his choice of a $3 fountain pen or year's subscription to our magazine club.

When the spring cleaning comes is a good time to leave home.

Sikes, of Iron City, Ga., who spent the early part of the week here and then travelled on to New Orleans before he discovered that his fortune, carried in an envelope, was missing.

It Keeps Growing.

The list of shares in the building and loan association did not climb quite so fast today, but it went up to some over 500 shares. There are many others who have said they want shares, and there is no doubt that in a few days more the number wanted for organization will be secured. Those wanting shares should not delay if they wish to be in the first series.

Anniversary Service.

The Memorial Baptist church will hold its anniversary service on the first Sunday in April. An interesting program of services for the day has been arranged. The rehearsals by the choir of music for the occasion indicates that this will be excellent. The effort will be made to have every member of the church who can attend present that day, giving the service the nature of a reunion.

When Mrs. Stowe Awoke.

A friend of mine, a northern woman, long a resident in Florida, once gave me the following account of a visit from Mrs. Stowe: "I had invited her to spend the day, with several other ladies, at my villa. She came with an old white fur tippet wrapped about her neck. She sat all day near the open fire, occupied apparently with her own thoughts, for she spoke to no one. When the day was well nigh spent one of the guests related the remarkable experience of a woman who had passed through some danger—I forget of what sort. Mrs. Stowe presently startled us all by inquiring, with some show of interest, 'Did the woman live?'—Julia Ward Howe on Harriet Beecher Stowe in Reader Magazine.

Criticism For Tennyson.

Alfred Tennyson early made it a rule to read aloud his newly written poetry to private friends in whose judgment and taste he could confide. It has come to light that he once called at Cheyne row and read a new poem to Mrs. Thomas Carlyle and then asked, "What do you think of it?" With characteristic and almost merciless outspokenness she replied, "I think it is perfect stuff!" Somewhat discouraged, Tennyson a short time afterward read it to her again. "It sounds better this time," was her criticism that day. On his reading the poem a third time Mrs. Carlyle was obliged to confess that she liked it very much, and Tennyson immediately communicated with his publishers.

The Playful Owl.

Not even an owl is as much of a hermit as it appears. The little fellow that all summer long sleeps by day in the hollow apple tree and hoots by night, from the adjacent tree tops has a taste for company, and when two meet their hooting gives way to a varied range of lowly murmured chatterings very different from the conventional cries of all owldom. Keep a pet one (and they are easily tamed), and you will find them not only as wise as they look, but not averse to rough and tumble fun.—Montreal Star.

Indigestion is much of a habit. Don't get the habit. Take a little Kodol Dyspepsia Cure after eating and you will quit belching, puffing, palpitating and frowning. Kodol Digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by John L. Wooten.

It pours the oil of life into your system. It warms you up and starts the life blood circulating. That's what Hollister's Rocky Mountain does. 35 cents. Tea or Tablets. Wooten's Drug Store.

The best safeguard against headache, constipation and liver troubles is DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Keep a vial of these famous little pills in the house and take a dose at bed time when you feel that the stomach and bowels need cleansing. They don't gripe. Sold by John L. Wooten.

Have you pains in the back, inflammation of any kind, rheumatism, fainting spells, indigestion or constipation, Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea makes you well, keeps you well. 35 cents. Wooten's Drug Store.

The best way to rid the system of a cold is to evacuate the bowels. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar acts as a pleasant, yet effectual cathartic on the bowels. It clears the head, cuts the phlegm out of the throat, strengthens the bronchial tubes, relieves coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough etc. Sold by John L. Wooten.

Have you weakness of any kind—stomach, back, or any organs of the body? Don't dope yourself with ordinary medicine. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea is the supreme curative power. 35 cents. Wooten's Drug Store.

If you are troubled with Piles and can't find a cure, try Witch Hazel Salve but be sure you get that made by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. It is the Original. If you have used Witch Hazel Salve without being relieved it is probable that you got hold of one of the many worthless counterfeits that are sold on the reputation of the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.

Fruits as Food.

The nutritive value of any fruit depends chiefly upon the starches and sugar which it contains. Dates, plantains, bananas, prunes, figs and grapes contain the most starch and sugar and therefore are the most nutritious foods. Cherries, apples, currants, strawberries and grapes contain considerable vegetable acid, making them valuable as blood purifiers.

Don't frown—look pleasant. If you are suffering from indigestion or sour stomach, take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Hon. J. W. Moore, of Atlanta, Ga. says: "I suffered more than 20 years with indigestion. A friend recommended Kodol. It relieved me in one day and I now enjoy better health than for many years. 'Kodol digests what you eat, relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach, belching, etc.' So do by John L. Wooten.

MYSTERIES OF RANK.

An African Tribe That Bases Precedence on Avoirdupois.

An African explorer tells of a tribe he met whose members determined worldly rank according to avoirdupois. The heaviest savage was chief of the tribe, the next fattest was first lieutenant and so on. As soon as a member gained in weight over the neighbor next above him in rank, he advanced one step in authority. Wealth, looks, personal popularity, capacity, were not taken into consideration when determining the standing of members of the tribe.

It is a pity our English cousins could not adopt some such simple method of determining rank, for their present scheme is so complicated that they themselves have difficulty in understanding it, while to the stranger within the gates its technicalities are absolutely bewildering. For instance, we are told that at a recent public dinner in London one hour was spent in arranging the diners in antepandrial procession according to rank. The general rule prescribes that the army and navy shall have first place, then the law, the church, medicine, "gentlemen" not engaged in any profession and, lastly, those in "trade." In the latter class, however, it appears that wholesalers are considered more "respectable" than retailers, unless a retailer happens to be a knight or a baronet, which sometimes occurs, when he takes precedence over his business associates who are mere commoners. But not even all lawyers, it seems, are "gentlemen." The question arose during a case at law, and it was decided that, while "barristers" are "gentlemen," "solicitors" are not entitled to that distinction. According to English custom, a young man who has just been called to the bar is many steps higher in the social scale than his father, who is a millionaire wholesale grocer.

In addition to the few instances cited there are a whole host of special exceptions founded on birth, education and other conditions that make the English scheme of social precedence a perplexing study for those who desire to be punctiliously correct.—Housekeeper.

Origin of Doily.

The word "doily" is used constantly, and yet few know the quaint story of its origin. In the time of William the Norman, Robert d'Oyley was one of his followers, and valuable lands at Hook Norton, in Oxfordshire, were granted him upon a curious condition. Each year at the feast of St. Michael he was to "make tender of a linen tablecloth worth 3 English shillings." As they went to royalty, the ladies of the d'Oyley family took great pride in embroidering the "quintrent cloths," as they were termed, and in consequence an art needlework collection of great beauty was accumulated by these annual tributes. They did service for state occasions in William the Norman's household and, very naturally, were called the "d'Oyley linen."

THE WORD "NITSHERO."

Does More Service Than Any Other In the Russian Language.

The one word that does more service than any other in the Russian language, says a writer in the Contemporary Review, is nitshero. It means "nothing," or, rather, "it is nothing." Most often it is heard as a deprecatory rejoinder to an expression of thanks, like the English "Don't mention it." But there seems to be no situation in Slavic life that does not resolve itself into nitshero.

A Russian diplomatist once said that when Bismarck served as Prussian ambassador in St. Petersburg he wore an iron ring with nitshero engraved on it. Somebody asked him what the word signified to him. Count Bismarck replied, "All Russia." Asked to explain himself, he told this story:

One time when he was driving to a bear hunt over a mountainous trail the muzhik who held the reins drove so wildly that he came near dashing the sleigh to pieces. "Look out there," said Count Bismarck, "or you will kill us!" The muzhik only shrugged his shoulders and said, "Nitshero." His driving became more furious than ever.

"If you don't take more care," shouted Bismarck, clinging fast for dear life, "I shall be tossed out of the sleigh!"

"Nitshero," responded the driver. Presently one of the runners struck a rock, the sleigh upset, and the horses, shying, backed the overturned sleigh into a deep ditch, where it broke through the ice.

Count Bismarck rose from the wreck, his face bleeding from bruises. In his wrath he turned on the muzhik and threatened to thrash him. But as he advanced on the culprit with uplifted whipstock the man met him with an apologetic smile and, wiping the blood from Bismarck's forehead, said soothingly, "Nitshero, barin."

Count Bismarck burst out laughing. He considered the incident so characteristic of the Russian character that he had the ring made from some of the wreckage of the sleigh and henceforth adopted the word "nitshero" for his talisman while in Russia.

Ancient Laws and Lawmakers.

In ancient days nobody but a lord was deemed worthy to establish rules of conduct for the people, and very crude rules they were too. The Greeks at the time of the Trojan war, the Jews, the Irish and the Anglo-Saxons placed a money value on every crime which man committed. Thus it cost about $65,000 of our money to murder a king and only $4,000 to kill a priest. If the fine was not paid then the friends of the king or the priest could fall on the murderer and kill him. If one man scratched another's face he had to pay for it. Such were the laws of the lords, but as civilization advanced and the common people got seats in legislative assemblies criminal jurisprudence took on dignity and wisdom.

One would think the Laxative idea in a cough syrup should have been advanced long before it was. It is the Original Laxative Cough Syrup, the best known remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Coughs, etc. Tastes good and harmless. Sold by John L. Wooten.

FRIDAY MAR 23th, 1906.

That Moscow bank robbery reads like a big fake.

Wonder what they will say next is the matter with Rockefeller.

The Raleigh News and Observer is not all talk. There is some fight, too.

Not even the grave ends the government pension list. It grows larger all the time.

The postoffice fight is moving to Durham. Strange that so many folks want to get on a government job.

If any man loses his vote through failure to pay poll tax, he can not say it was because he did not have warning.

The majority rules. If mean things remain in a town it is because a majority of the people permit them to stay.

The fruit crop prophets have only cut the peaches off half as a result of the recent cold spell. But we may eat as many peaches as usual.

The wage earner will find a building and loan association the ideal savings bank in which he can afford to lay aside each week a part of his salary.

Every young man who can spare something out of his salary each week can find no better place to invest it than in a building and loan association.

If Washington does not want the Raleigh & Pamlico Sound railroad, looks like the road might do as well to go somewhere else for its deep water terminal.

If Judge Parker had named the man there would not be so much guessing as to what Southerner should lead the next Democratic National ticket.

You pay rent month after month and are no better off at the end of seven years. In the same time you can pay for the house in a building and loan association.

J B Duke admits that he is worth $10,000,000. Well that is enough to keep him out of the poor house without his trying to bleed the tobacco farmers to death to add a few more millions to his pile.

If a man does not think his business is worth advertising what can he expect the public to think of it? If an advertisement accomplished nothing else for him, it would make people think he was doing something.

OLD MAN WORKED HIM,

An Old Time Darkey Who Was Too Sharp for a Newspaper Man.

There is no comparison between an old time darkey and the darkey of the present day; the new man is not in it; the old fellows lived right next to the white man and imbibed a great deal of what was either good or bad, most of which he has never forgotten, though only a very few of these old fellows are living. There is one, however, at Jackson Springs, where Press Correspondent Joyner spent a week recently. Now Mr. Joyner has traveled; his "range" has been wide and he has no doubt felt that the man who could work a bunco game on him did not live. But the sharpest get caught when least expecting it. It was so with Mr. Joyner. Quite a bevy of ladies were there, among them Mrs. Ransom, wife of the late Senator Ransom, and several other ladies from the eastern part of the State, from which section Mr. Joyner comes; he prides himself on being a down easter; he talks like one. One pretty day some of the guests who were posted, told Mr. Joyner that an old darkey, "Uncle Jack" by name, who was to be seen around the place every day, was from down east and could yet give the "holler" so common among the darkeys of that section in the days before the war. A man who has ever heard this "holler" will never forget it; it is not only novel, but has music in it and to hear a dozen darkeys coming home from the fields at eventide giving it in unison raises a man's hair on end. And so it was that Mr. Joyner was seized with a moving desire to hear it once more. He was told that "Uncle Jack" did not like to give it and would have to be "worked on," but Mr. Joyner said he was equal to the task and inviting Mrs. Ransom and the other ladies to remain at the spring, he tackled the old fellow; he told him where he came from, how he loved to hear the old sound and so on and so on. "Uncle Jack" was modest and did not want to "holler;" then the newspaper man gave him a quarter and the old darkey mellowed up a little, but still he would not "holler;" seeing he was not exactly in the notion, Mr. Joyner gave him another quarter, making 50 cents in all. Then "Uncle Jack" scratched his head and confided to his friends that the "new fangled niggers" at the Springs did not relish the sound and had a habit of making fun of him, so he would just "amble down de road a piece" and when out of sight, would let her go. He "ambled" off and Mr. Joyner hastened to the ladies and told them to just wait for the music which was coming. The old darkey went on and on, but no "holler" ever came back, nor did "Uncle Jack."

The truth finally dawned on the wide wakeners man that he had been buncoed. The old darkey was a Moore county negro and hearing Mr. Joyner's appeal, saw a chance to make a few cents and he did. "Uncle Jack" never heard the down easter "holler" in his life, but he made a down easter holler.

Mr. Joyner declares he is going back to Jackson Springs and kill that old negro if he lives long enough.—Greensboro Record.

J. E. WINSLOW.

Dick's Brilliant Scheme.

Dick had no father, and occasionally the fact worried him. One day his mother fell ill, and some one incautiously commented on the sad state of affairs if his mother, too, should die. Dick said nothing, but he kept up a great thinking. When his mother was quite well again one night at dinner Dick, who was seven years old, suddenly broke the silence with the question, "Mamma, why don't you marry again?" When the laugh which this unexpected query raised had subsided his mother asked Dick why he wanted her to marry. "Well," was his slow response, showing that he had carefully thought it all out, "then I'd have a papa, and if you died he could marry another lady, and she'd be my mamma, and if he died she could marry a man, and so I'd always have a papa and mamma." And then Dick looked grieved because his family all laughed harder than they had before at this continuous parent arrangement of his.

A Substitute.

A farmer paid a visit to a neighbor, and as he passed along by the side of the fields he made a mental note of the fact that no scarecrows were visible. Meeting his neighbor almost immediately, he opened conversation as follows:

"Good morning, Mr. Oates. I see you have no scarecrows in your fields. How do you manage to do without them?"

"Oh, well enough," was the innocent reply. "You see, I don't need 'em, for I'm in the fields all day my self."

The Color of Gold.

Few people know the real color of gold, because it is seldom seen except when heavily alloyed, which makes it much redder than when it is pure. The purest coins ever made were the fifty dollar pieces which once were in common use in California. All gold is not alike when refined. Australian gold is distinctly redder than that found in California. The gold in the Ural mountains is the reddest in the world.

CATTLE GIRLS.

They Tend Herds in the Pastures of Scandinavia.

Life in all its primitiveness is to be found in Scandinavia, but in no part perhaps is it more simple than in Dalecarlia. The pastures there are rich, and consequently the raising of cattle is the chief industry.

The girls of the farm take care of the cows, sheep and goats, leading them to the pastures early in the morning, guiding them by voice or horn to spots where the grass grows richest. At her girdle she carries a bag of salt, which she dispenses among the herd, every one of which answers to its name when called.

The cattle girl is industrious, and as she leads her flock she knits at a stocking, singing as she walks. When she reaches a good grazing ground she seats herself on a stump or stone and knits away till sunset. For luncheon she eats a slice of bread and drinks milk, which she gets either from a goat or cow, according to circumstances.

Should any of her charges stray afar she blows her horn to call it back. At sundown she conducts her herd homeward, where the cows and goats are milked and then housed for the night.

Picturesque is the dress of these daughters of Dalecarlia—a blue skirt with a dark bodice and a gayly striped apron. The dress is short, and the stockings, of which they are very vain, are embroidered in glowing colors. Smart caps of black and red complete the costume.

These girls are as good as they are industrious and are of great help to their parents, churning butter, making cheese and helping in the general work of the farm.

Good For His Health.

She—I believe Tommy Timkins is made of rubber! He's been thrown down by half the girls in town, but he always bounces up just as serenely as ever.

He—He explained that to me. He said that the throwdown had got to be such a habit that he missed the exercise if he didn't get it.—Detroit Free Press.

WAYS OF THE MINK.

A Study of the Clever Little Animal in Its Own Haunts.

"One summer morning when I was in the Adirondacks," writes a correspondent, "I rose early to go bass fishing."

"The day before we had caught three bass and three sunfish, which we put in a net pond out on the edge of the point in order to keep them fresh until needed. As I was preparing my rod my attention was attracted to a splashing noise in the direction of my pond of fish.

"Suspecting that something unusual was taking place, I approached the spot cautiously and saw the long, brown body of a mink gliding away with one of my fish in his mouth.

"I was greatly interested in the sight of a live mink operating in his own haunts and decided that I would rather see him work than eat the fish myself. While he was concealing the fish in some nearby but unseen nook I walked still closer, until I was within twenty feet of my pond, where I remained motionless, awaiting developments.

"In a moment the energetic little animal reappeared at the pond, gave a quick dive into the water, like a seal, and came up with another fish. Glancing about him with his little, black, beady eyes, he hurried off without even noticing my presence.

"I stood motionless and fascinated and watched him transport every one of my fish to his secret storehouse. After all my fish were safely stowed away the little worker tripped in nervous haste back toward the woods to tell his family of the find and invite them all down to dinner.

"Late in the afternoon of that same day this successful little fisherman led a colony of four other minks out of the woods and down to Rocky point. The dinner party had to pass close to our hotel in order to reach the point where the fish were stored. To do so unobserved they must travel under a long board walk. In doing this one little innocent mink, not knowing the ways of man, came up through a hole in the walk. A city boy saw him, and before we could stop him he seized a club and battered him to death.

"While this tragedy was being enacted all the other minks under the board walk set up a chattering wail, which sounded like a dozen rats caught in a trap. An Adirondack guide and old trapper who happened near called to us to stand by and watch the survivors carry off their dead. After we had scolded severely the murderer of the little mink we did as the guide suggested.

"In a few minutes out popped three little brown heads from various points near their dead, and then one brave little fellow ran out and, seizing the dead mink in his mouth, carried him back under the walk.

"The little dead mink doubtless had a decent burial, with all the pomp and ceremony known to these intelligent little creatures of the great woods. It was my intention to try to make pets of the minks which I had seen from time to time around the shores of our premises, but the slaughter of one of their number resulted in driving all of them away during the remainder of the season."—Youth's Companion.

A Distinction and a Difference.

Mark Twain was once talking about his boyhood in Hannibal, Mo.

"I hated work in those days," he said. "One morning my father led me into the garden and pointed to a bed of flowers that had a considerable number of weeds in it.

"I want you," said my father, "to weed out this flower bed."

"I examined the task ahead of me, and the more I looked at it the bigger it seemed to grow. Certainly I had never seen so many weeds in my life.

"'Wouldn't it be a simpler operation,' I said to my father, 'to flower out the weed bed?'"

A Willing Suitor.

Young Man (somewhat agitated)—I have called, Mr. Means, to ask your permission to pay my addresses to your daughter, Miss Ruth.

Banker Means—My daughter Ruth, Mr. Peduncle? Why, she is engaged to Mr. Swackhammer.

Young Man (still agitated, but reflecting that all is not lost)—Did you think I said Miss Ruth, Mr. Means? I said Miss Gwendolen. The—er—similarity of the names probably caused you to misunderstand me.
