Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town.

AYDEN, N. C., Mar. 27, 1906—
Edwin Tripp has been to and returned from Baltimore.
Miss Hennie Brown went to Grafton Saturday on a visit to friends and returned Monday.
Tom Dawson has been visiting his sisters, Mrs. F. G. Buhmann and Miss Isabella Dawson.
B. F. Nunn, of Bellefield, Va., is here smiling on his friends.
Miss Bessie Harding, of Greenville and Georgia Joyner, of Winterville, spent from Saturday until Monday with Misses Dora Hornaday and Ida W. Edwards.
Stancel Hodges and wife have been visiting in Beaufort county.
Rev. J. R. Tingle, of Belhaven, has been visiting friends here for the past week.
Mrs. H. C. Brooks is on a visit to her sister in Baltimore.
Mrs. J. A. Hornaday, of Greenville, spent Friday night here with her daughter, Miss Dora Hornaday who is one of teachers in the graded school.
Misses Nellie Mumford, Lena Hines, Albie Bland and Mrs. Joe Pittman all went to Greenville Saturday shopping.
Mr. and Mrs. Forrest went up the road on the train Saturday.
There is some talk of organizing a Knights of Pythias lodge here at a very early date. The prospects are exceedingly fine. In fact nearly all the names required have been secured. The lodge if instituted will be composed of the very best element of the town and community.
Miss Nellie Williams, who has been here sometime visiting her sister, has returned to her home in Norfolk.
Jack McLawhorn has gone to Belhaven to work. He will be missed by the boys.
Honor roll of fifth and fourth grades of Ayden Graded school, month ending March 16th, 1906: Sudie May, Cannon, Beulah Mumford, May Smith, Lucretia Worthington.
Lon Rountree, of Greenville, is here.
Elder D. W. Davis passed through here this week on his way to and from his appointment at Rountree.
J. T. Smith, Jr. has been to Kinston to see the boy.
Miss Lucy Turnage, of Ormondville is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. M. Edwards.
Miss Lizzie Carver after a visit to friends in Kinston, passed through yesterday on her return to Ormondville, where she has charge of a school.
The entertainment given last Friday evening by the lady teachers and the advanced pupils of the graded school was a decided success. Every part was excellently rendered and all acquitted themselves in a most creditable manner. The music was perfect and the recitations exceptionally fine. In fact the entire program was of a very high order and those who were present express themselves as not only pleased but agreeably surprised. The proceeds were about $50. A like performance would not be regretted.

GENERAL NEWS.

Happenings of Interest Over the Country.

Carson, Iowa, March 25.—While preaching to his congregation today, Rev. J. B. Lentz, pastor of a Latter Day Saints church, was struck by lightning, which caused his death within an hour. The bolt was communicated by a chandelier.
Atlanta, Ga. March 25.—Nine convicts escaped from the city stockade here tonight. The delivery was accomplished by the filing of a steel bar over a window. One of the men, a white man, was captured, shackles about his ankles preventing his escape. The police have been unable to locate the other eight.
Oxford, Fla. March 25.—The three children of Junius Bacheris were burned to death in their home near here last night during the absence of the parents. The children were too young to know what to do to escape, one being 5, one 2 years old and the other an infant. The house was destroyed and the bodies incinerated.
Tokio, March 25.—The misery and suffering in the famine region has been slightly relieved by the prompt and liberal aid from foreign sources and by the abatement of winter. The local authorities are trying to provide work for the able bodied, but the extent of the work is inadequate and thousands are on the verge of starvation. Many parents are parting with their children, sending them to the already crowded Okayama orphanage.
The Boy Still Missing.
Mr. M. E. Woodhouse, a well-known resident of Poplar Branch, Currituck county, was in the city this morning and to an Economist man spoke in reference to the strange disappearance of Kenneth, the small son of Senator S. M. Beasley, of that place, and pronounced the case as much of a mystery at the present time as it was over a year ago. According to him, not a ray of light has been thrown on it, not even a tangible clew by which a definite conclusion could be formed.
Those who have thought and brooded over the case during the long months have nearly all adhered to the first theory—kidnapping. Among this number are Senator Beasley himself, and his wife, both of whom have at all times refused to entertain any other theory.
The saddest part of the case is that the parents of the missing boy have relinquished all hope of even a solution of the mystery. For months after the disappearance they expected every day to receive information, clearing the case, either by the finding of the boy's dead body, or in the form of a letter from the kidnappers, demanding ransom. Mrs. Beasley has never recovered from the shock, her condition being considered worse and worse every day.—Elizabeth City Economist.
Go to the Odd Fellows meeting tonight and hear the recitation intitled "Bent on Bill," possibly May and probably will have Moore come and see. A pleasant hour promised.

COX'S MILL ITEMS.

COX'S MILL, N. C. Mar. 26, 1906.
This cold, wet weather makes one feel likespring was not so near.
Mrs. L. N. Edwards and four children are on the sick list with measles.
Mr. and Mrs. Henry White and two children have been down with measles.
Mrs. Albert Moore is very sick with measles.
There is plenty of measles around here.
Mrs. M. S. Cox is on the sick list.
Miss Cora Carroll's school closed at Stocks school house Friday. She gave a pound party Thursday night, a large, well behaved crowd was present and all passed off very nicely.
Miss Sadie Carroll, who has been teaching near Black Jack, has returned home. Her school closed Friday night with a pound party and a nice play.
Macon Haddock went to Greenville on business Saturday.
W. F. Carroll went to Winterville Friday and his daughter, Annie, and Miss Leona Cox, both of Winterville high school, came home with him and remained over until Sunday afternoon.
Our R. F. D. from Black Jack has 20 Daily Reflectors. Four copies are left in the writer's box each day, though three are for other people and that only leaves us one. We need four every night for awhile, as there are six of us and all want to see it at once. I try to be first.
Louis Hudson and Norman Patmore, of Black Jack, visited in our section Sunday.
Miss Eva Cox and Ed Clark made a flying trip our way Sunday.
Miss Minnie McGowan and brother, Hugh, were visitors near here Sunday.
Mrs. Emily J. Hardee, who has been with her brother, L. N. Edwards, for a few days returned to her home near Grimesland Sunday.
Uncle Sam presented a pretty spectacle in the Senate on Friday. Though the efforts of the Democrats, with Senator Daniel leading the fight with a powerful speech, $125,000 was appropriated for a government powder factory. This was done in order to head off the powder trust which has been gouging Uncle Sam to the tune of millions. The Republican party levies a protective tariff for the powder trust and enables it not only to make the people pay them tribute but to hold up Uncle Sam whose Republican administration gives it a soft snap and empowers it to smite the hand that empties the tribute into the lap of the trust!—Wilmington Star.

REAL ESTATE CHANGES.

New Residences Will Follow the Deals.

Several changes of real estate in Greenville have recently taken place.
E. G. Flanagan has sold the Cuthrell house and lot in South Greenville to Mrs. Jennie Hardy.
C. W. Harvey and Miss Mattie E. Vines have purchased the Moses King vacant lot on the corner of Pitt and Fifth streets. Both will build residences there.
Dr. D. L. James and S. T. Hooker have jointly purchased of J. E. Langley what is known as the "Hickory Hill" lot on Greene street. The purchasers, who live on each side, will each annex part of it to their present lots.
Mrs. V. H. Whichard has deeded to her daughter, Mrs. Ora Kennedy, a portion of her lot on the corner of Pitt and Third streets. Mrs. Kennedy will build there.

OVER THE STATE.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

High Point, March 24.—This afternoon, when the factories of High Point paid off for the week, the employes were quietly notified that, on and after April 2nd, no union man would be employed. This proclamation, of course, created quite a sensation.
Dave Joyner, a colored ditcher of Falling Creek, was found dead in the woods near the Claud Kennedy place in Falling Creek township, Sunday morning, by some colored people who were directed to the place by Joyner's little 10-year old daughter, who had kept a lonely vigil over her drunken father all night and left him only when day dawned and she was nearly frozen herself.—Kinston Free Press.
Government Stops Paying Charges.
Local banks have been notified that after March 31st the treasury department in Washington, D. C., will not pay the express charges on coin sent out from the mints. This expense, which has heretofore been borne by the government, is quite an item, and was done to facilitate business in change making. There was a special fund for defraying this expense and it has been exhausted, hence the stopping of paying by the government.
Short of Fuel.
The railroad has been causing Greenville no little trouble the past week. A shipment of coal for the water and light plant that was started out on the 17th has not yet arrived and the plant has been compelled to borrow fuel and burn wood or anything else it could get to raise steam. The result has been that the lights could not burn more than half the night.
You do not want to miss reading the large ad of Paramore & Ricks in this issue.
Members of the Baptist church choir are requested to meet at the church tonight to practice for the anniversary.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Of Those Going and Coming

Donnell Gilliam, of Tarboro, is here attending court.
L. H. Rountree returned from Grangers this morning.
L. D. Wade went to Philadelphia Monday evening.
Rev. F. D. Viehe returned from Kinston Monday evening.
C. S. Campbell, of Washington came up yesterday and returned today.
Deputy Sheriff S. I. Dudley returned from Ayden Monday evening.
Jesse Perry, of Scotland Neck, who had been visiting his daughter, Mrs. J. F. Brinkley left this morning.
J. M. Moore and family left this morning for Durham, where he will take a position with the American Tobacco Co.

Officer Wins Case.

A case that attracted some interest at this term of court came to an end this morning. J. F. Morgan brought suit against ex-Sheriff O. W. Harrington, the complaint alleging that while the latter was in office he seized under claim and delivery, illegally, property belonging to Morgan. In a few minutes after getting the case the jury returned a verdict in favor of the ex-sheriff.

THE WEATHER

Willing to Economize.
Little Willie, the attractive child of the washerwoman who has seen better days, was taken to dinner by a kindly disposed patron of his mother. He had the feast of his life, ordering almost everything on the bill of fare, and was finishing dessert when he announced that he wanted more. Reason did not appeal to Willie, and after several peremptory "Whys?" from him his hostess gave an excuse which she thought he could understand. "It costs too much," she said. "Oh, well, then," said Willie in a loud and cheerful voice which penetrated the room, "let's have some more ice water. That doesn't cost anything, does it?" — New York Press.

Freight Charges in Germany.
Freight charges in Germany are as uniform, as generally known and as simple as are postal charges on letters, post cards and printed matter in the United States. Freight charges in Germany are not determined by negotiation or by influence, and the goods of a foreigner which compete with German goods are not carried at a lower but at a higher rate than the native product. In Germany railways are built where they are wanted, by the population or by the state, even if they do not pay. The German state encourages the building of canals and electric railways.

Faithful to the Last.
"Go, you cruel, base deceiver!" sobbed Angelina to Edwin. "Why, what is the matter, darling?" "Matter, indeed! I have only just seen what is engraved in the horrid ring you gave me." "Yes, dear," taking up the spurned token and reading, "Faithful to the last." "And you told me I was the first you ever loved!" she moaned. — Kansas City Independent.

Hereditary Childlessness.
The proper bringing up of children was being rigorously and wisely discussed in a New York woman's club at one of its meetings, when one of the members remarked that women who had no children were not competent to talk on the subject, although they always seemed to be the most willing to do so. "Oh, of course," said another member, "we all admit that it is a great misfortune to be childless and that parents who have never had children are much to be pitied." The snicker that followed this remarkable statement was drowned by a roar of laughter when still another member remarked that she had noticed that childlessness was hereditary in some families in America.

One would think the Laxative idea in a cough syrup should have been advanced long before it was. It seems the only rational remedy for Coughs and Colds would be to move the bowels and clean the mucous membranes of the throat and lungs at the same time. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar does this. It is the Original Laxative Cough Syrup, the best known remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Coughs, etc. Tastes good and harmless. Sold by John L. Wooten.

Indigestion is much of a habit. Don't get the habit. Take a little Kodol Dyspepsia Cure after eating and you will quit belching, puffing, palpitation and frowning. Kodol Digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by John L. Wooten.

It pours the oil of life into your system. It warms you up and starts the life blood circulating. That's what Hollister's Rocky Mountain does. 35 cents. Tea or Tablets. Wooten's Drug Store.

The best safeguard against headache, constipation and liver troubles is DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Keep a vial of these famous little pills in the house and take a dose at bed time when you feel that the stomach and bowels need cleansing. They don't gripe. Sold by John L. Wooten.

Have you pains in the bank, inflammation of any kind, rheumatism, fainting spells, indigestion or constipation, Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea makes you well, keeps you well. 35 cents. Wooten's Drug Store.

The best way to rid the system of a cold is to evacuate the bowels. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar acts as a pleasant, yet effectual cathartic on the bowels. It clears the head, cuts the phlegm out of the throat, strengthens the bronchial tubes, relieves coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough etc. Sold by John L. Wooten.

Have you weakness of any kind—stomach, back, or any organs of the body? Don't dope yourself with ordinary medicine. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea is the supreme curative power. 35 cents. Wooten's Drug Store.

If you are troubled with Piles and can't find a cure, try Witch Hazel Salve but be sure you get that made by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. It is the Original. If you have used Witch Hazel Salve without being relieved it is probable that you got hold of one of the many worthless counterfeits that are sold on the reputation of the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.

True French Politeness.

"I congratulated a Frenchman one evening on the good manners of his nation, and he was very much pleased," said an American who had visited France. "He told me an anecdote illustrative of French politeness.

"He said that during the revolution a noble was on the way to the guillotine. As he rumbled in the cart along the boulevards howls and jeers from a half drunken crowd were rained upon him, and finally a young woman, as she ran along beside the tumbrel, cried:

"You tall villain! You will soon be shorter by a head!"

"Does that please you, madam?" said the doomed noble civilly.

"Yes, it does," she answered.

"Then," said he, "I do not die in vain."

VALUABLE TOWN PROPERTY FOR SALE.

The trustees of the Methodist church offer for sale the valuable property on the corner of Greene and Second streets in the town of Greenville, on which the old church now stands.

If not sold sooner at private sale it will be offered at public auction in front of the court house at 12 o'clock M., April 2d, 1906. It will be first offered in three lots, then in two lots and then as a whole, as follows.

IN THREE LOTS.

LOT No. 1 Beginning at the corner of Lela F. Cherry on Greene street and running northward with said street 55 feet.

LOT No. 2. Beginning at Greene street at the corner of Lot No. 1 and running northward with Greene street 55 feet.

LOT No. 3. Beginning at Greene street on the corner of Lot No. 2 and running northward with Greene street to Second street.

IN TWO LOTS.

LOT No. 1. Beginning on Greene street at the corner of Lela F. Cherry and running northward with Greene street 82 1-2 feet.

LOT No. 2 Beginning at the corner of Lot No. 1 on Greene street and running northward with said street to Second street.

IN ONE LOT.

The whole of said property fronting on Greene and Second streets.

In all of the sales the right to use the church building until January 1, 1907, will be reserved.

TERMS—One third cash, the balance payable in two equal installments, in six and twelve months with note well secured, or the purchaser can pay all cash if he so elects.

No bid will be effective until approved by the Board of Trustees.

The proceeds of the sale will be used to complete the new church and it is hoped that this valuable property will find ready purchasers.

ALEX L. BLOW,
Chairman Board of Trustees.

GREENVILLE, N. C.

A THRIFTLESS 'GENIUS.

The Hand to Mouth Existence That Was Led by Leigh Hunt.

Leigh Hunt had no sense either of time or of money, a grave fault, perhaps an unpardonable vice, in a man who had a wife and children depending upon him. As long as he lived he was thriftless and needy, a lender and a borrower, so generous that he could never afford to be just, bringing upon those whom he loved sincerely a constant burden of debt and care. How reprehensible this was he seems never to have felt, though he blames himself freely and light heartedly, and if the reader of his autobiography is disposed to feel sorry for Mrs. Hunt it is not because her husband sets him the example. This was Leigh Hunt's one vice, never amended or actively repented of. Yet he had had his warning. It is pathetic to compare with each other the two following passages and to see how clearly Leigh Hunt foresaw his danger and how incapable he proved of escaping it:

"I have seen," he writes in 1808, "so much of the irritabilities, or rather, the miseries, accruing from want of a suitable income, and the best woman of her time was so worried and finally worn out with the early negligence of others in this respect that if ever I was determined in anything it is to be perfectly clear of the world and ready to meet the exigencies of a married life before I do marry, for I will not see a wife who loves me and is the comfort of my existence afraid to speak to me of money matters. She shall never tremble to hear a knock at the door or to meet a quarter day."

And in 1832:

"I never hear a knock at the door but I think somebody is coming to take me away from my family. Last Friday I was sitting down to dinner when I was called away by a man who brought an execution into my house for 40 shillings."—London Spectator.

Not His Style.

A Welsh judge had before him a case in which a printer sued a pork butcher for the value of a large parcel of paper bags with the butcher's advertisement printed thereon. The printer, having no suitable illustration to embellish the work, thought he improved the occasion by putting an elaborate royal arms above the man's name and address, but ultimately the latter refused to pay. The judge, looking over a specimen, observed that for his part he thought the lion and the unicorn were much nicer than an old fat pig. "Oh, well," answered the butcher, "perhaps your honor likes to eat animals like that, but my customers don't. I don't kill lions and unicorns; I only kill fat pigs!" Verdict for defendant.

Her Children.

A well known sculptor is responsible for the following story of the "scrub lady" who cares for his studio: "How many children have you, Mrs. O'Flarity?" he asked her one morning. "It's seven I have, sir," she replied, "four be the third wife of me second husband and three be the second wife of me first."

LANTERNS AND UMBRELLAS.

How and Why They Are So Generally Used in China.

Chinese lanterns are made of paper, silk, horn, crystal and many other materials. Those made of silk are usually richly embroidered with figures of animals, birds or flowers. Those of horn are prettily decorated with paintings. Some of the most ornamental and expensive lanterns are mounted on beautifully carved frames of wood and ivory.

If a Chinese leaves his home after night without taking with him a lantern, such as is assigned to the use of the class to which he belongs, he is liable to arrest by the police.

As soon as it is dark every city seems ablaze with lanterns. They light up the homes of the rich and poor; they are attached to the angles of the pagoda; they are seen at every port and on every river. In fact, they make their appearance everywhere, and to call China the "land of lanterns" is by no means a misnomer.

Umbrellas, too, are of much importance in China, because there the umbrella is a mark of rank. Two large red silk umbrellas signal the approach of the governor general of a province. A red silk umbrella with three ruffles on it is the kind assigned to the four highest ranks of mandarin. The nobility of lower rank are entitled to an umbrella of red silk, but may have only two ruffles.

The two highest ranks of gentlemen commoners are entitled to a red state umbrella surmounted by a knob of tin. The third and fourth ranks have the knob of wood instead of tin, but it is always painted red. An umbrella of blue cloth with two ruffles and surmounted by a red painted wooden knob distinguishes the fifth rank.

Choate as an Interpreter.

Rufus Choate was once trying a case before Justice Shaw, and one witness who took the stand was a minister.

"What is your name?" asked Choate.

"Ezekiel Lee," answered the witness.

Justice Shaw, not hearing readily, leaned forward and asked Choate what the witness said.

"He said, your honor, that his name was Ezekiel Lee," replied Choate.

"What is your occupation?" continued Choate.

"I am a humble candle bearer of the Lord," replied the witness.

Justice Shaw bent over the bench and inquired what the witness had said. Choate responded, saying that the witness had said that he was a humble candle bearer of the Lord.

"Of what denomination are you?" questioned Choate.

"I am a Baptist," replied Lee.

Again Justice Shaw leaned forward and asked what the witness had said, and Choate replied, "He said, your honor, that he was a dip candle."—Boston Herald.

IT WOULD BE A GOOD LAW.

A recent press dispatch from Richmond states that the lower house of the Legislature of Virginia has passed a resolution to amend the State constitution so as to make ineligible to seats in the Legislature, or to public office of any kind, any person in the employ or who receives compensation in any form whatever from a corporation. We believe that resolution is a good one, and if the idea could be enacted into a general law it would be all the better. It has become notorious that corporations in a large measure control our legislative bodies by getting men in their employ elected to seats in these bodies. Were it not for the large number of corporation lawyers in Congress it would not be so hard to get any law passed that affects corporations and trusts.

Even in our own State, the effects of electing this class of men to the Legislature has been felt. Especially is this true of the Senate branch of the Legislature. Too many counties have the idea that a lawyer is the proper man to send to the Senate, and we do not believe it would be over-estimating it to say that nine-tenths of them are attorneys for some corporation. In this way the corporations have control of our law making bodies and it is impossible to make laws they do not want made.

We recall that in the last Legislature a member of the House from Pitt county introduced a bill reducing railroad fares in this State and the bill passed the House by over a two third majority. When the bill went before the Senate committee on railroads and corporations it was killed there by an unfavorable report, which was conclusive evidence that a majority of that committee were railroad or corporation lawyers.

The Reflector has nothing against lawyers. They are all right in their place. But their occupation is practicing the law, and in pursuit of their profession it is as legitimate for them to hire their services to corporations as to others, and most of them embrace an opportunity to do so. Hence it is reasonable to suppose that when the making of laws is placed in their hands they will not make any adverse to the interests of their clients. For this reason the people make a mistake when they elect persons in the employment of corporations as members of legislative bodies.

You people who want to take shares in the building and loan association should come on with your name. The list will soon be complete for the first series.

The mayor of Richmond has set himself right on the flag question, and the Star Spangled Banner is in no danger.

The furniture factories of High Point are looking out for their interests in serving notice that no member of a labor union will be employed. The organizer who goes around creating dissatisfaction among laborers is robbing them of their earnings while he himself lives handsomely out of the levy made upon them.

HOW TO DO IT.

You want to increase your business and trade. Advertising—newspaper advertising—is the most successful way to do it. Talk business through the columns of the newspaper and address hundreds and thousands at one and the same time. Do not imagine because you have been in business a long time that everybody knows you and what you are selling. You would be greatly surprised if you could fully realize just how few the times the general public thinks of you and your business. There are a great many people who do not know that you are in business at all. This is where advertising comes in. It would help you to create an interest in your store and goods and convince people that it would be to their advantage to trade with you.

A LIVE SOCIAL ITEM.

It is getting fashionable for ladies on Sunday afternoons to wear a live Maltese cat, a buff-colored jacket, and other things. The cat is worn on the shoulder—the right shoulder yesterday—is harnessed into place by a leathern collar and a sort of rein, carried in the lady's hand. A hole, it seems, must be popped in the cat's left ear, wherein a bow of red ribbon is daintily fixed; or it may be that the ribbon goes clean around its neck. Which is true there is no knowing, for who would dare to stop a lady on the street to scrutinize her clothes! The cat worn is a large one, and he soon will become accustomed to exclamations from passers. The preference with ladies for this cat over French poodle is by reason of the newness of the former. Ladies have worn the poodle ever since the inauguration of clothes, but the cat is fresh, and calls attention on the streets to its wearer, calling them often to a staring standstill and always inducing cries of pleasure from the other women. Watch for the cat!—Charlotte Observer.

Most Appropriate.
A student at one of the theological colleges had written a sermon with much care and passed it to the professor for criticism. After two weeks he called on the professor and stated that he left his manuscript with him and had called for it and would be glad of any suggestion from him. It was returned without any criticism or suggestions. The student, well pleased with his own production, was intent on having the opinion of his teacher and called again and, referring to the sermon, asked what hymns would be appropriate in connection with it. The professor replied, "The most appropriate hymn I can think of is 'Now I lay me down to sleep.'"

Under Conditions.
"What did the editor say about your story?" asked the young man's friend.
"I don't believe he liked it very well."

"Well, there are differences in the appreciative faculty as well as in the ability to create. The same man's taste will vary according to circumstances."

"I suggested that, and he agreed with me. He said that if a man found himself on a desert island with nothing to read except my story and a back number city directory he might read my story."

Lord Russell's Wit.
In his early days Lord Russell of Killowen, later chief justice of England, had a good deal to put up with from older men and judges who thought to prune down his exuberance. One day Sir Digby Seymour, Q. C., kept up a flow of small talk when Russell was speaking.

"I wish you would be quiet, Seymour," said Russell, with his Irish accent.

"My name is Seymour, if you please," replied the learned gentleman, with mock dignity.

"Then I wish you would see more and say less," was the rejoinder.

He Only Wanted the Insides.
A certain colonel's gardener was going through the woods belonging to his employer when he saw a man gathering nuts. As the colonel had given him strict orders that no one was to pick the nuts, the gardener said to the man:

"You'll have to clear out of this. I've orders to keep all these nuts for the colonel."

"It's all right," replied the man. "That's what I'm getting 'em for."

The gardener, satisfied, then passed on.

Meeting the same man a week after, he said:

"Look here! You were not getting those nuts for the colonel at all."

"I tell you I was," was the emphatic reply. "Do you think I was getting 'em for the shells? Not me."—London Mail.

Why Julia Quit.
The most peculiar reason yet assigned for a servant leaving her place "without notice" was given by a Germantown mistress when asked why Julia, a colored maid, had suddenly quit. "The whole trouble came about last wash day," said the indignant housekeeper. "It began to rain before the wash was done, and when it was ready to hang out it was drizzling at a good rate. Then it was that Julia, the colored help, came upstairs and asked me to lend her my rain coat while she hung out the clothes. I had never found an umbrella or a mackintosh necessary when I did similar work and declined to grant the request. Then Julia quit."—Philadelphia Record.

A Fear.
"So you think that this concentration of wealth is the inevitable outgrowth of our civilization?"

"I do," answered Mr. Thinker.
"And you must admit that the ultimate result of such a condition would be to put all the money under the control of one individual?"

"Yes."
"Well, it seems terrible to think of."

"What does?"
"The possibility of some billionaire getting out of temper some day and making up his mind to discharge the entire human race."—Judge.

"Whoa!"
The word "whoa," used in calling on a horse to stop, is merely a variant and emphatic form of "ho," formerly used in the same sense. This is easily proved, for Chaucer has "ho" in the sense of "halt" ("Canterbury Tales"). When King Edward IV. had to use this exclamation he actually turned it into "whoa." "Then the kyng, perceyving the cruell assaille (onset), cast his staff and, with high voice, cried whoo!" ("Excerpta Historica," page 211), which stopped the tournament, and no wonder.—London Notes and Queries.

Fresh Air a Necessity.
Were the schoolrooms constantly freshened with the air so abundantly provided for our needs there would be fewer nervous, irritable and wornout teachers and more bright, clear eyed, clear brained, strong bodied, happy pupils. Fresh air in the homes both day and night, summer and winter, with the knowledge and practice of correct breathing and the partaking in sufficient quantities of wholesome food and pure water, would transform many a sickly, irritable family into a bright, healthy, happy household. I will go still further and say that sunshiny and airy business houses and offices would reduce defalcations and embezzlements to a minimum. Unnatural darkness breeds disorder and disease of mind, body and spirit and fathers desperate deeds, while air and sunlight produce hope, health, cheer and morality.—Suggestion.

THE LAW OF ENTAIL.

Some of the Evils of Perpetuating Great Estates.

One of the chief sources of dissatisfaction with Great Britain among our revolutionary forbears was the law of entail which prevented the distribution of estates, created a wealthy and privileged class and deprived every other class of hope and ambition. Even Lord Bacon said that money was like a compost heap, which grew more and more offensive until it was distributed, but then produced everywhere, fertility and beauty.

Entails are not prohibited in the constitution of the United States, but they are abolished in Illinois and in almost every other state either by constitutional provisions or by statute. It is the sense of the American people that they are contrary to public policy and inimical to freedom.

It is important that there should be laws against entails, for otherwise we should certainly have them in this country. The instinct which originated them in England centuries ago, is firmly fixed in human nature and is as powerful among men of large estates today as it ever was. Whenever one of them dies and his will is published we discover that the strongest desire he had in death was to preserve his fortune intact and pass it on unimpaired to his descendants. He bequeaths the bulk of it to as few people as possible and even then puts it in the hands of trustees, so that it may continue under one management and retain its unity as long as possible. If the law permitted it, he would bequeath it all, just as his ancestors did in England or some other European country.

The evil of keeping a large fortune intact is just as great when it is involuntary, and the evil all grows out of the fact that the man who inherits a fortune is an entirely different character from the man who makes it and that the fortune itself in the hands of its founder plays an entirely different part in civilization from what it does in the hands of his progeny.—Chicago Chronicle.

To Her Art.

Mme. d'Albertin, one of the lesser painters of France, was as conceited about her artistic ability as she was notorious for her excessive use of cosmetics of all kinds. Her face was a study in enamel, rouge and penciling, and the older she grew the more pronounced it became. On one occasion a certain count, who held her in much disesteem, lost a bet to her.

"And what will madame choose?" he asked, with mock courtesy.

"Something in my art," she whispered. "Something I can paint."

"Very well, madame," he replied, bowing himself out.

A day later madame received a package from the count, which upon being opened revealed a life size drawing of her own face in outline.

Why the Leaves Fall.

As soon as a tree stem ceases to take in much moisture a layer of cells is formed with very tender shells or cases on the stalk of each leaf close to the branch or twig. This growing tissue presses forward like a wedge, pushing the older cells and at last compelling them to snap. The breaking point is often so clearly defined that when a leaf has fallen it seems as though its stem had been cut through with a knife. This is the real reason for the downfall of the leaves, and their weight is often enough to separate them from the trees, though, of course, wind and frost also help.

Car Laws and Rules.

"There is a law against expectorating in the cars in New York, is there not?"

"Oh, yes."

"And is there not a law against standing on the platforms?"

"Certainly there is."

"I suppose, of course, there's a rule against getting off a car while it is in motion?"

"Oh, yes; there are laws and rules against doing everything in the cars except standing up!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Still Boasting.

"She was a very extravagant girl. She used to boast of having the most expensive gowns in New York."

"Yes? And since she married the count?"

"Why, now she boasts of having the most expensive husband."—New York Press.
