BUILDING AND LOAN.

Date Set For Organization April 9th.

It is easy to do a thing when the people make up their minds it shall be done, hence the securing of enough shares to organize a building and loan association in Greenville was not a hard undertaking. While no specified number of shares are absolutely necessary to organize an association, it was desired to begin the one in Greenville with a thousand shares. That number is so near secured that it is certain the balance will be subscribed in a few days. There fore it has been decided to proceed with the organization, and for that purpose a meeting will be held in the Mayor's office on Monday night April 9th, at 7:30 o'clock. Let every one who has subscribed for shares or wants shares be present at that time so as to have a voice in the selection of officers for the association.

WORK FOR HIS OWN SAKE.

Get work! Get work! Be sure 'tis better work than what you work to get. While this advice might have been that of any wise man to youth in our own day, the words are Carlyle's to the youth of all time in his "Sartor Resartus." The young man who loses his appreciation of the fact that the work which develops his mind, his will, his power of appreciation and persistence of purpose, is in itself worthy of his love, and will some day come to be, according to loyalty of disloyalty to it, either his happiest memory or his most dreaded recollection, does not know real values. The time comes to every man to whom business has been a career and not mere bread-and-butter affair, when the enjoyments incident to his work and not the scattered plums which he has managed to secure from the proceeds of his work, are the real jewels of his collection.

The fun of the fight—the mere playing the game—is satisfaction such as one can make sure of as he works, and to fail to secure it because of the common misconception that happiness dwells apart from the paths of the worker and must be reached only at the end of a long climb, is in the nature of tragedy.

It was well back in the last century says The Bulletin of the American Institute of Bank Clerks, when the socialism of today took on a somewhat different phase, and the doctrine of state and community-ownership of lands was openly preached. All your work in accumulating acres is wasted. "What do you think of the redistribution scheme, 'Uncle John'?" The old man was prompt with his reply: "By glory, I just wish they would do it; I'd like no better fun in this world than to get the land all away from the fools again." No one could accuse the old man of not playing the game to the limit from pure love of the game.—New York Commercial.

WINTERVILLE NOTES

Interesting Items from Our Hustling Neighbor.

WINTERVILLE, N. C. Mar. 31, 1906.

Prof. G. E. Lineberry went to Jackson's school house Tuesday night to deliver an address at the closing of the school. He was also accompanied by Allen McLaughorn who is a student of the Winterville High school.

Prof. N. Y. Gulley, who is Professor of law at Wake Forest college, will speak in the Winterville High school chapel on Friday night April 6th. Prof. Gulley is easily one of the state's deepest thinkers and best speakers. So if you fail to hear him you have missed something good. Be sure to come and bring your friends with you.

C. A. Fair, of Ayden, was in town Friday evening on business.

Miss Sadie Carroll, of Black Jack, was in town Friday evening shopping.

F. O. House, of House, came down Friday night to attend the debate.

We are very sorry to announce that J. B. Little is quite sick, but we hope he will soon improve and be out again.

Miss Kate Chapman, who has been teaching at Corville, has finished her school and returned home. We are glad she is back with us.

J. F. Stokes went to Greenville Friday evening.

Friday night quite a large crowd gathered in the chapel of the Winterville High school to hear the debate given by the Vance Literary society. The debate was one of the best that has ever been given here. The boys who were on duty reflected much credit upon themselves, and showed deep study of the query judging from the good, sound argument they produced. The first being T. F. Taylor, and he used lots of his wit as usual. But he was well answered by his opponent, A. B. Letchworth, S. C. Carroll came next and gave some excellent arguments followed by his opponent S. L. Parker, who gave the subject justice. Then came G. C. Buck, who gave to us some good argument, well answered by his opponent, J. S. Cox.

Good argument was given on each side and the judges confessed it to be a hard question to decide, but after weighing it well on both sides, they give it to the affirmative. But the negative need not feel bad for they were not far behind.

K. A. Parker, of Conetoe, came down Friday night to attend the debate given by the Vance Literary society.

R. A. Fleming, of Ayden, came up Friday night to attend the debate.

Prof. J. L. Jackson went to Greenville Friday evening on business.

Lamb Taylor, of Kinston, came up Friday evening on business.

Quite a number from Ayden came over Friday night to the debate.

THE WEATHER

Fair tonight and Sunday, colder tonight in eastern and central portions.

THE SKATING RINK.

Misses James and Cobb Win the Prize.

There was a tremendous crowd at the skating rink Friday night and the number of skaters was unusually large. It was the most interesting night the rink has yet had. The improvement in the skaters was very marked, many who were quite awkward a week ago having become expert on the rollers. Of course there were new beginners who added to the merriment by occasional falls. There was no accident.

The highest interest centered in the contest among the most graceful lady skaters which took place at 9:30 o'clock. Previous to this the judges, Messrs. H. McClellan, C. C. Vines and C. W. Harvey, watched all the skaters and from among them selected seven of the most graceful ladies to enter the contest. Those selected were Misses Lillian Burch, Lottie Skinner, Janie Tyson, Irma Cobb, Nina James, May Whitfield and Mary Higgs. The best gentlemen skaters were selected to skate with them and they went in couples, changing partners at each two circuits of the rink.

The contest lasted for fifteen minutes and it was a pretty picture. The skating of all was so good that the judges found difficulty in reaching a decision. Finally they voted in favor of Miss Nina James with Miss Irma Cobb a close second. On this decision the managers of the rink presented both the young ladies with a complimentary ticket for a week's privileges of the rink.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Delightful Literary and Social Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the literary and social department of the Epworth League was held Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Wiley Brown, on Dickinson avenue. A large number of leaguers were present and all expressed their delight in spending an evening so pleasantly and profitably.

An elaborate program had been carefully prepared and was ably delivered to the large and appreciative audience, who by many expressions of praise, showed to Miss Bessie Harding, the president of this department, their high appreciation of her untiring efforts in this work and the rapid progress that is being made in this branch of the league.

The feature of the evening was a guessing contest, questions being asked and each answer being the name of a county in our State. Several of the young people, after long and careful study, succeeded in getting the list of answers correct.

After the contest music, games and conversation were in order until the evening had passed only too quickly.

At the next meeting, which is to be held in April, the subject for study will be "Longfellow—His Life and Works."

OVER THE STATE.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Asheville, March 30.—Hundreds of tons of earth and rock, loosened by the steady down-pour of rain, crashed from the side of a cut just on the eastern side of Swannanoa tunnel last night, shortly after midnight, and completely blocked the Southern Railway tracks.

Clinton, N. C., March 30.—Clinton had a $12,000 dollar fire last night. The flames burst out about 11 o'clock, burning the large two-story brick structure owned by W. B. Stewart, in which was the store of A. M. Barbrey, also our well-equipped postoffice, telephone exchange office, Parker's barber shop, law offices of Fowler & Crumpler and W. B. Stewart's business office.

Elkin, March 29.—The little three-year-old boy of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Transon, who live at the shoe factory, was accidentally drowned yesterday evening at five o'clock. The mother was busy preparing the evening meal and the little fellow was playing on the porch. When she called him and got no response she commenced a search. Going to the spring near by, then to the creek, and returning again to the house he was found to have fallen headforemost into a tub of water.

Wilmington, March 29.—Satisfactory conferences between the management and a committee representing the telegraphers and agent-telegraphers of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway Company were completed here today, as the result of which new rules and regulations and a new wage scale were agreed upon, effective April 1, and affecting about 900 men. The increase in the wage scale is estimated by the committee at about eight per cent. This, however, does not cover a general increase of pay at each station, but a readjustment to meet the existing conditions at each place.

Seasick Seamen.

Bitter complaint is made by a French naval journal because the modern training of French naval officers and seamen does not sufficiently habituate them to the sea. On the voyage of the Jaureguiberry from Toulon to Brest that battleship had to face a storm in the bay of Biscay which prostrated no fewer than 200 seamen and a large number of officers. In the Russian fleet at the battle of the Japan sea there was a similar state of affairs. It is urged that there be more cruising at sea in all weathers and a period of some years' service in torpedo craft for officers, with the object of giving the personnel of the French navy its sea legs.

She Had to Apologize.

This from Berlin: A well known woman Socialist agitator, Frau Tietz, recently visited the adjacent town of Kopenick, a place known as "Berlin's wash kitchen," on account of its numerous laundries. At a public meeting there, mainly attended by washerwomen, Frau Tietz stigmatized laundry owners as "pashas." This remark, with all it meant, was regarded as libelous by the owners, who took action against the lady, and she was condemned to eight months' imprisonment. Frau Tietz, to escape punishment, has agreed to insert an apology in the press to the effect that the laundry owners are not pashas.

The "Tree of Life."

The Guaraunos are to be found all over the delta of the Orinoco. They eat little and wear less. Many authorities claim that they subsist on the moriche palm tree alone. Whether this be true or not, the tree in question is without doubt an indispensable factor in the problem of life. Not only does it furnish a safe elevation for a home, but gives a nutritious sago, or meal, from which bread is made, a tree fifteen years old yielding 600 pounds of this meal. In addition, the juice furnishes a kind of wine, and out of the fiber are made cord, rope, hammocks and a rude species of cloth. This tree, owing to the many and various purposes it serves, was called by the early missionaries the "tree of life."

One would think the Laxative idea in a cough syrup should have been advanced long before it was. It seems the only rational remedy for Coughs and Colds would be to move the bowels and clean the mucous membranes of the throat and lungs at the same time. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar does this. It is the Original Laxative Cough Syrup, the best known remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Coughs, etc. Tastes good and harmless. Sold by John L. Wooten.

Armies of Caterpillars.
Of the plague of caterpillars that overran the Scottish lowlands in 1885 a naturalist writes: "The caterpillars marched in armies straight ahead, and the consequence was that when they encountered 'sheep drains,' which are open drains about eighteen inches deep and eighteen inches wide at the top, they tumbled into them in such numbers that their dead bodies dammed up the water, and they might have been taken out in barrow loads."

THE TEACHER TAUGHT.

Why Sir Edwin Arnold Ceased to Use the Rod on His Pupils.

Sir Edwin Arnold, in his autobiography, tells the unique story of how, as master of the Birmingham Grammar school, he was caned by one of the boys.

The class was engaged on Cicero. Some disorder occurred near the master's chair, and seizing the cane he "gave a nasty cut upon the too tempting back of one youth who seemed to be the offender." "If you please, sir," said the boy, squirming, "I did nothing. It was Scudamore that kicked me in the stomach underneath the desk."

The statement was true. Scudamore had demanded from his neighbor, quite illegitimately, the explanation of an obscure passage and, not being attended to, had taken this much too emphatic means of enforcing attention. Having called the class up, Arnold said to the doubly wronged boy, who was still rubbing the place: "It is I who am most to blame for having dealt you an undeserved blow. Take that cane and give it back to me as hard as you got it." "No, sir," the lad answered. "I can't do that." The whole great schoolroom was now listening, masters and all. Arnold insisted. "Jones, you must obey me, and if you disobey I am sorry to say I shall make you write out that page of Cicero three times, staying in to do it."

Whether it was desperation at this dreadful alternative or the sparkling eyes of his class fellows, evidently longing to have the good luck themselves of "licking" a master, that suddenly inspired Jones, I know not. What I do know is that he reached forth his hand, took the cane and dealt me no sham stroke, but the severest and most telling cut over my shoulders. I had no idea that the ridiculous instrument could sting as it did, like a scorpion. "Rubbing the place" in my own turn, I managed to thank Jones for his obliging compliance and then said to him: "Break that detestable weapon across your knee and throw it out of the window. Never again will we have anything to do with such methods here."

Sir Edwin Arnold adds that corporal punishment is, in his view, a cowardly and clumsy expedient and that "he who cannot teach without the stick had better get some other business."—London Globe.

Rather a Strong Finish.

"Big Tim" Sullivan, the Bowery Tammany king, met an impecunious constituent recently and took him to dinner in a restaurant much more pretentious than the man was accustomed to. He was a fellow of almost infinite appetite, and the amount of food he stowed away was something portentous. When Tim thought the man had consumed enough substantial he asked, "Now, what'll you have for dessert?" "What's that?" "Oh, something to top off with." The constituent languidly scanned the bill of fare. "I guess I'll have a beef stew," he replied.

The Red Clover Blossom and the Honey Bee on Every Bottle.

"A Cold or a Cough nearly always produces constipation—the water all runs to the eyes, nose and throat instead of passing out of the system through the liver and kidneys. For the want of moisture the bowels become dry and hard."

KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE HONEY AND TAR

Cures Coughs by cleansing and strengthening the mucous membranes of the throat, chest, lungs and bronchial tubes.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Mar. 31, 1906. Washington fog and dust still involve the rate bill. The measure has reached the point where the whole question is involved in the right of judicial review and in this provision if anywhere will be concealed the joker that is to make the measure acceptable to the railroads. For the benefit of the uninitiated, it may be said that the prospect now is for an agreement to an amended bill that will provide for a more or less broad court review. The object of the friends of the measure will be to frame this review provision so that it will not interfere with the obvious intent of the law and make the delays possible under the bill more than offset any benefits that the measure might confer.

Naval officers as a whole are pleased over the sanction of the Naval appropriation bill by the committee, not only because it gives a little short of $100,000,000 for the execution of the various plans that the department has on hand but because it also provides for at least one battleship that will rival the English Dreadnaught in size and effectiveness. There is a provision in the bill for one battleship of not over $10,000,000 that will be all that even the Navy department could desire.

While the work of defensive naval construction is going on, there is appropriation made also for a new dry dock that will equal the Dewey in size and will be retained in American waters. The proposed headquarters of this dock will be Solomon's Island in the Chesapeake, but though this spot affords unusual facilities in the way of deep water and a good channel, the dock, once it is completed, will be available for use anywhere on the Atlantic coast where there is water deep enough to submerge it and where the exigencies of the occasion call for its presence.

It is estimated that an agreement on the statehood bill is in sight. This is more or less cheering news, not that it makes any vital difference whether or not the territories that have been waiting years for admittance to the Union are admitted just at this time or not, but that agreement foreshadowed has the show of reason and decency about it and consequently reflects the same qualities on the conferees!

The President has recommended to Congress the enactment of the laws recommended by the Waterways Commission with a view of saving Niagara Falls. He says in effect that the appropriation of the falls for water power has gone so far that there is serious danger of the great scenic wonder being spoiled for spectacular purposes altogether.

WHAT TAXATION SHOULD BE

The Richmond Times-Dispatch gives the definition of the duty of the State in its exercise of the power to tax: "When the State undertakes to assess taxes against its citizens and compel them to pay the sum so assessed, it then becomes the bounden duty of the State to employ every means at hand to make the assessment fair and equitable, so that the burden of taxation shall fall upon each and every citizen according to his ability to pay. Our protest is against double taxation and unjust taxation in all its forms; against any system which discriminates against some and in favor of others. The system should be so adjusted as to make the burden and benefits fall equitably upon all." The Times-Dispatch is right. There is no greater abuse of the power of government than the inequality of taxation which, by one device or another, is enforced in some parts, perhaps many parts, of this country.—Fayetteville Observer.

It occurs to us that it would be just as well for the government to consider the number of people living on the routes as well as the number of packages delivered in its reorganization of the free rural delivery system. In the South many of the routes have been in operation for so short a time that the people have hardly recognized the great benefit that they will be to the community. —Durham Herald.

Lucy Larcom's First Poem.

There is a poem beginning
The first, the first! Oh, naught like it
Our after years can bring!

which seems to have a peculiar application to first verses in general and to Lucy Larcom's in particular.

When she was seven years old her brother John proposed writing poetry, "just for fun," and she assented. John soon abandoned the attempt, but Lucy produced two verses, which ran thus:

"One summer day," said little Jane,
"We were walking down a shady lane
When suddenly the wind blew high,
And the red lightning flashed in the sky."

"The peals of thunder, how they rolled!
And I felt myself a little cooled,
For I before had been quite warm,
But now around me was a storm."

John was elated over her success, and it is safe to say that Miss Larcom's "after years" saw "naught like it."

A Wise Fish.

In Java they have a species of fish that carries a very useful gun with him wherever he goes. This queer fish is called the jaculator, and his weapon is a combination air and water gun, which nature has provided him with. The jaculator has the power of puckering the mouth into a small, round tube and squirting water through it. He is such an expert gunner that when he observes a beetle or a fly on a twig above the water he invariably knocks the insect from his perch, even though the distance be five or six feet. There are seven other varieties of these water gun fishes, which are known as "sportsmen" and "gunners" on account of their queer habits.

COCHINEAL DYE.

The Way the Insects Are Gathered and Prepared For Use.

The history of the cochineal insect was for a long time very obscure, and at one time the species employed in commerce was considered a kind of grain. It was not until near the close of the seventeenth century that it was discovered to be of insect origin. The insect is a native of Mexico, where it was raised by the Mexican Indians long before the country was discovered by the Spaniards. It is now cultivated in some of the West Indian islands and in a few of our western states, but it is in Mexico only that it is raised in sufficient quantities to form an article of commerce. The insect is raised on the cochineal tree, or Indian fig or nopal, which is a species of cactus.

The cochineal is first collected about the middle of December. The insects are removed from the tree with a knife, the edge of which has been blunted, or are carefully brushed off with a squirrel tail. This labor is performed by the women. The insects are usually killed by the application of heat, by baking in ovens or by the heat of the sun.

When the cochineal arrives in the market it is in the form of a small grain, having a convex and a concave side, but with very little resemblance to the body of an insect. It is used for dyeing crimson and scarlet and for making carmine. Cochineal alone yields a purple color, which, when mixed with a solution of tin in nitromuriatic acid, may be changed to a most beautiful scarlet. The discovery is said to have been made in this wise:

A man who was making a thermometer placed in his window an extract of cochineal made with boiling water, and in some way a vial containing nitromuriatic acid was broken over it. This acid changed the purple dye into a most beautiful dark red, and by experiments this man soon found that the tin dissolved in the acid caused the change of color. An ingenious dyer at Leyden, Holland, brought the discovery to perfection. The secret afterward became known, and a large dyeing establishment was erected in Paris. This accident occurred 300 years ago.

The Fox and the Fleas.

Reynard is a knowing animal. The foxes are much tormented by fleas, but when the infliction becomes too severe they know how to get rid of the insects. They gather from the bark of trees moss, which they carry to a stream that deepens by degrees. Here they enter the water, still carrying the moss in their mouths, and, going backward, beginning from the end of their tails, they advance till the whole body, with the exception of the mouth, is entirely immersed. The fleas during this proceeding have rushed in rapid haste to the dry parts and finally to the moss, and the fox, when he has, according to his calculation, allowed sufficient time for all the fleas to take their departure, quietly opens his mouth. The moss floats off down the stream with its burden of fleas, and when it is out of jumping reach the fox finds its way to the bank much relieved.

Too Hot to Get Warm There.

During my experience as traveling agent for a certain railroad I was one day obliged to call on an agent whose station was located in the mountains in northern Vermont. It was a bitter cold day in February, and, although there was a roaring fire in the station, the building was so loose one had to almost sit on the stove to feel any warmth. Soon after I arrived an old gentleman came in and, walking to the stove, extended his hands, but it was so hot he was obliged to retreat a few steps, and after making several unsuccessful attempts to get near the fire he remarked, "It's so gol durned hot here I can't get warm."—Boston Herald.

His Bluff.

"Does your wife belong to any clubs?"

"Not one."

"How do you keep her home? My wife belongs to half a dozen and goes to them all, though I have forbidden her time and again."

"You went to work the wrong way. I told mine I approved of club life for women and to join all she could and not to mind if Mrs. Prettyman over the way did go about pitying me for being so neglected."
