A CHINESE EXPLANATION OF THE RECENT BOYCOTT.

No doubt the boycott was solely due to the stringency of the exclusion law; but the paramount object of the movement is to raise the Chinese people to an equal footing with any other people in relation with the United States, and not for securing the actual economic advantage of exporting laborers to America. It is for national right and dignity rather than for anything else. There are, however, more important points regarding this question that should be carefully examined; that is—first, the boycott has never been authorized by the government; second, the boycott has never been carried out with any forcible or violent means. The government has done nothing toward promoting the boycott. On the contrary, the Pekin authorities have tried hard to advise the merchants to modify their disposition. But no government in the world, however absolute it may be, has power to compel its subjects to buy goods from a certain country unless they are willing to do so. No doubt this disagreeable movement has been started by those who had personally suffered maltreatment under the exclusion law, or, rather, under the regulations of the Chinese Immigration Service Office. But there has been not the least sign of violence or force as the boycott has spread through several provinces. It is purely a voluntary action of individuals. So long as there is no disturbance of peace, "boycott" is considered a legitimate movement by any civilized country of the world. It is a commercial design, and not a warlike scheme. It is an individual action, and not a national policy. There is, therefore, no good ground upon which the recent alarming news could be supposed to have been based.—From "A Chinaman on the Chinese Situation," by T. Y. Chang, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for April.

THEY ARE PLENTIFUL.

All towns have a class of denizens who never see any but the dark side of every picture. They are known as chronic grumblers, and well named they are. If they were transported to the world of eternal light they would find fault with the management of that realm before they had been there twenty-four hours. Here they complain of their neighbors, friends, town, and in fact of everything except the thing in fault—theirself. Life is indeed a checkered scene, but the light occupies more ground than the shadows. We often have our sun obscured by intervening clouds but he soon bursts through them and transmits the shining rays. No one passes through life in the constant gloom of adversity; most of us number more days of health and ease than pain and sickness, more friends than foes; while we show a disposition to be friendly, more success than disappointment will meet us in the prosecution of lawful ends.—Ex.

Not long now before talk of early closing at night will begin among the merchants.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town.

AYDEN, N. C., Apr. 3, 1906.—W. B. Warren, of Dunn, spent Saturday and Sunday with his brother-in-law, J. W. Taylor.

The farmer rejoiceth with exceeding great joy. This beautiful weather is not only invigorating, but inspiring as well, as it means a chance to work and with a vengeance they are at the hoe and the plow. If it will only last awhile now the corn will shoot and cotton will sprout and mud, mighty mud will disappear. All mankind will join the farmers in his joy and the bright anticipations of a bountiful harvest will be realized.

Those who have not registered at a previous election and are entitled to vote at the election to be held on the first Monday in May, 1906, for officers of the town of Ayden are requested to call at my office and register as the law requires—J. M. Blow, Registrar.

At a recent meeting of the town commissioners J. M. Blow was appointed registrar, and Frank Lilly and R. W. Worthington as judges of the election for officers of town of Ayden to be held first Monday in May, 1906.

Miss Emma Brown and Mrs. J. D. Meeks are visiting in Scotland Neck.

Miss Julia Bready spent the day in Greenville Saturday.

Mrs. Sparks came home Saturday from a visit up the road.

Miss Lizzie McGowan, of Greenville, is visiting Miss Ida G. Edwards.

Dr. Jos. Dixon, in response to a telegram, left yesterday for Washington.

Miss Eula Cox was visiting her parents here Sunday.

A protracted meeting is in progress in the Disciple church here, conducted by the pastor who is assisted by his brother, Rev. Mr. Brown, of Wilson.

Miss Lula Taylor, of Greenville, after a visit to her brother here, has returned home.

Miss Mary Long Whitehead spent from Friday until Sunday afternoon with friends in Conetoe.

The little son of W. J. Hemby is very sick with pneumonia.

Whooping cough has struck this town with a whoop. North, south, east and west, go where you will you can hear the yell.

Mr. Skid, Heath, while hauling fertilizers from here one day last week stumbled and fell. Before he could rise or get out of the way the cart wheel ran over his arm and broke it.

Rev. W. E. Cox, of Greenville, filled his appointment in the Episcopal church Sunday night.

Rev. E. T. Phillips, editor of the Free Will Baptist, is on the sick list.

Mrs. Owen Sullivant, of Snow Hill, and Mrs. George Hart, of Hookerton, are visiting relatives in town.

Lumber is being placed on the lot for the erection of the two large

IT IS REMARKABLE.

Few Towns Can Make Such a Showing.

One of the most remarkable things in connection with Greenville's enterprises is the National Bank that is to begin business in a few days. The capital stock of the bank is $50,000 and when the books were opened the stock was oversubscribed in a few hours, and some people were more or less disappointed because they could not get stock. Organization soon followed and steps taken to get the bank ready to begin business. A call was made for the first fifty percent. of the stock to be paid in on April 2nd, and on that day Cashier J. W. Aycock was kept busy receiving the payments and writing temporary certificates. Every stockholder, without an exception, responded to the call, quite a number of them not stopping at fifty percent. but paying up in full. This shows the confidence all have in the enterprise. The bank certainly makes a most favorable beginning.

WIN A TELEPHONE.

Try Your Hand in This Prize Contest.

As will be seen from advertisement in this paper the Home Telephone and Telegraph Company offers several prizes for the five best descriptive articles giving reasons why every residence should have a telephone. The first prize will be a long distance telephone and $15 in coupons, the second a residence telephone and $10 in coupons, the third a residence telephone and $5 in coupons, the fourth and fifth residence telephones. The articles are limited to 250 words each and the contest will close May 1st. Read the advertisement for particulars.

Familiar Cry.

Dr. J. D. Hufham dropped in at The Reflector office to shake hands and pass a few words. In the midst of it a voice called "copy, copy," from the up stairs end of the copy chute. "How familiar that cry sounds," remarked the doctor reminiscently. "It followed me for thirteen years and I know all about it." The doctor was an editor for many years, and as good as was to be found. Even since getting out of the harness, his cheering letters and historical sketches have given pleasure to thousands of readers.

LEASE SUSTAINED ON TECHNICALITY.

Though Tenor of Judge Long's Opinion Seems Favorable to Annulment.

The decision of Judge B. F. Long in Hill et al vs. A. & N. C. Company and Howland Improvement Company, for the annulment of the lease of the A. & N. C. Railroad, was filed with the clerk of the Superior Court at New Bern, yesterday evening. The decision in sealed envelope, was placed in charge of Mr. June Stephenson, local agent of the Southern Express Company, Sunday morning, and taken to New Bern by Mr. Stephenson personally and delivered to the clerk of the court.

Upon request of several and in the presence of counsel, the decision was read last night. The opinion is construed to be a victory for both sides and though sustaining the lease on a technicality the whole tenor of the document seems to be favorable to plaintiff. Plaintiffs' counsel are much pleased with the opinion and express themselves as preferring the favorable opinion to a decision for them on technicalities. The matter was virtually referred to the Supreme Court of North Carolina for final adjudication, and will probably rest with the State court's decision, as plaintiffs would have no cause to remove to federal court should the opinion be against them and the only grounds for defendants to remove the case from the State court is that stockholders in the lessee corporation are non residents.

The opinion handed down by Judge Long is a lengthy one and he holds the pivotal point to be the clause in the A. & N. C. Railroad's charter, as to the State's right to lease, which is held to be vague. He cites court decisions and statutes and refers frequently to the allegations made in plaintiff's complaint.

The case will go up on appeal to the Supreme Court.—Kinston Free Press, 2nd.

BUILDING AND LOAN.

Get Ready For The Organization.

If you intend to take shares in the building and loan association do not put it off. Come on with your name so as to have a voice in the selection of directors and officers at the meeting for organization to be held in the mayor's office next Monday night. Do not wait for an opportunity to become a member later. Of course other series will be opened when occasion arises, but those who have the first shares will be first to reach maturity. The larger the number of shares the association begins with the better work it can accomplish. Let every one who has put down his name, and all others who may want shares, be at the meeting on the night of the 9th. No enterprise ever started in Greenville can do so much to develop the town as a building and loan association.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Of Those Going and Coming

Paul Jones, of Tarboro, was here today.

W. H. Dail Jr. went to Baltimore this morning.

R. L. Smith went to Norfolk this morning.

Rev. W. E. Cox returned from Ayden this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. James went to Raleigh this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. S. I. Dudley went to Statons this morning.

O. L. Joyner returned from Richmond Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. K. B. Tunstall and little daughter, of Kinston, who had been visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Tunstall, left Monday evening.

J. B. Harding, who for some months has been with a railroad engineer corps in East Tennessee, is home spending a few days with his parents before going to Mexico to do some engineering in that country.

Stick to the Farm.

It is often noticed in the newspapers that young men are advertising for positions in stores, offices, etc., but you rarely ever see an ad where a young man wants a position on the farm. Just why any young man who has no trade should desert the farm and coo-himself up in a store or office in the city we cannot understand, but we guess they think it is an easier life and one where they can wear better clothes than they could were they to remain on the farm. Of course this may be true, but in our mind we think a great mistake is being made by the farmer boy who leaves the parental roof and goes to the gay city life.—Weldon News.

Neither Dead Nor Sleeping.

Mr. J. F. Godley, of Chocowinity, was in to see us this morning. He says he had heard Joyner and Dail were dead and he came to Greenville to investigate before tearing up his tobacco bed and quitting the business. But since reaching Greenville he had found out that the rumor was false, and he is going back home and enlarge his tobacco bed and increase his crop.

Broke an Arm.

Little Miss Annie Leonard Tyson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Tyson, fell while skating Saturday afternoon and broke her left arm. She displayed great bravery and made no complaint when the accident occurred nor when the broken arm was set. She is getting along well with the injury.

Mr. Austin Clarke and his bride passed through the city yesterday enroute to Elizabethtown. Mr. Clarke is clerk of the court of Bladen county. He was married several days ago to Miss Jessie Lee Sugg, of Greenville, N. C.—Wilmington Messenger.

CINDERELLA.

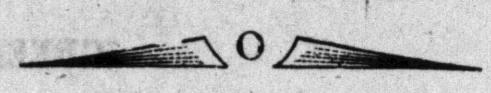

Her Story is Very Ancient and is in Sacred Hindoo Books.

The story of Cinderella is substantially the same as that told of Rhodopis and Psammitichus by Elian, who lived in Rome in the third century of the Christian era. The story as told by Elian is that while Rhodopis was bathing an eagle carried away one of her sandals and dropped it near the feet of Psammitichus, king of Egypt, who, like Cinderella's prince, was struck by its diminutive size, caused the maiden to be sought for and married her when found. Make the sandal a glass slipper and add the ugly sisters for the sake of contrast, and the stories are much the same. The glass slipper, by the way, is an acknowledged fiction, being in reality a mistranslation of "pantoufle en vair" (a fur slipper), and not "en verre."

This at all events is what is claimed by Perrault in his "Contes de Fees." Both these stories have doubtless a common origin, but it is necessary to go farther back in the history of literature to find it—to a people who lived in a period compared with which that of even Elian is quite modern. It is in the Vedas, the four sacred books of the Hindoos, that the origin is to be found.

After what has already been said it will not be surprising to learn that Cinderella is a dawn maiden, her sisters being the powers of darkness, who compel her to wait upon them, keeping her hidden from sight. The dawn maiden breaks from her bonds and captivates the sun, remaining with him for a time. But she cannot linger with him in the heavens. She can remain only until a certain hour. Once she lingers too long and, hurrying back, leaves on the path she has taken a token of her visit in the form of a fleecy cloud, which had borne her aloft when she left the regions of darkness. The sun, determined to find her, sends out his emissaries (the rays of light), but does not find her until she appears before him as the evening twilight. In the Vedas the prince is called Mitra, which is one of the names given to the sun. —London Globe.

THE MOOSE YARD.

Winter Quarters of the Animal and the Hunt For Food.

The yarding of the moose is a familiar phrase that has furnished the ground for several misconceptions. Many persons think that a moose yard is a large place, with all the snow in it hammered down smooth and surrounded by a straight wall of untrodden snow which rises to the level of the deep, soft covering of the forest beyond. They imagine, further, that as soon as the new snowstorm begins the moose gets to work, hoof and horn, to hammer it down smooth and hard within the yard.

The fact is that when the snow deepens the moose family, father, mother and little ones, or sometimes several families together, settle in some place of abundant food and by winding daily in this they cover the ground with a network of pathways. The longer they stay the more and wider the pathways, so that finally there are but few spaces untrodden of twenty square yards across.

The deeper the snow in the woods the more the moose must work for their food, since the lower bushes and ground herbs are cut off, and thus the difference between the snow in the yard and that in the woods increases. If the food is sufficiently abundant in the yard and no hunters find them the moose stay there till spring. If it gives out, they must begin a perilous journey through the snow in search of another place. It is during this journey only that they fear the wolves. It is always done in single file, so that the young ones in the rear do not have a very hard time, and it is usually done with judgment founded on their memory of the country.

The moose yard is commonly frequented by the moose birds, or Canada jays. I am not sure why. The moose by tearing down and rooting up logs and dead trees may expose worms, etc., or the parasitic insects in their hair may furnish food for the bird. There are several other cases of small birds associating with large beasts, and in each the bird is believed to serve the beast as a watchman and get his return in parasitic insects.

With the melting of the snow the necessity for yarding ceases, and the moose family scatters.—Ernest Thompson Seton in Scribner's.

Indigestion is much of a habit. Don't get the habit. Take a little Kodol Dyspepsia Cure after eating and you will quit belching, puffing, palpitation and frowning. Kodol Digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by John L. Wooten.

You're growing more beautiful every day, dear Grace. I hope you're not using cosmetics on your face; Oh, Charlie, this is a great injustice to me. I'm simply using Rocky Mountain Tea. (Sold out) Wooten's Drug Store.

The best safeguard against headache, constipation and liver troubles is DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Keep a box of these famous little pills in the house and take a dose at bed time when you feel that the stomach and bowels need cleansing. They don't gripe. Sold by John L. Wooten.

There is one thing we have never been able to understand, why ladies will buy harmful cosmetics when Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea makes clear complexion. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Wooten's Drug Store.

The best way to rid the system of a cold is to evacuate the bowels. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar acts as a pleasant, yet effectual cathartic on the bowels. It clears the head, cuts the phlegm out of the throat, strengthens the bronchial tubes, relieves coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough etc. Sold by John L. Wooten.

It enriches the blood, strengthens the nerves, makes every organ of the body strong and healthy. A great spring tonic. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Wooten's Drug Store.

If you are troubled with Piles and can't find a cure, try witch Hazel Salve but be sure you get that made by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. It is the Original. If you have used Witch Hazel Salve without being relieved it is probable that you got hold of one of the many worthless counterfeits that are sold on the reputation of the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.

One would think the Laxative idea in a cough syrup should have been advanced long before it was. It seems the only rational remedy for Coughs and Colds would be to move the bowels and clean the mucous membranes of the throat and lungs at the same time. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar does this. It is the Original Laxative Cough Syrup, the best known remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Coughs, etc. Tastes good and harmless. Sold by John L. Wooten.

Don't frown—look pleasant. If you are suffering from indigestion or sour stomach, take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Hon. Jase Moore, of Atlanta, Ga. says: "I suffered more than 20 years with indigestion. A friend recommended Kodol. It relieved me in one day and I now enjoy better health than for many years. 'Kodol digests what you eat, relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach, belching, etc. Sold by John L. Wooten.

CARE OF THE SKIN.

Some Things That Are Essential to Good Health.

To most persons the skin represents simply the organ of touch, and because it is customary to keep nearly all of its surface concealed its relation to the welfare of the body is overlooked. It has, however, most important functions, such as the casting out of waste matter and the maintenance of an even body temperature, disregard of which may lead to serious disturbances of health.

But aside from its purely physiological purposes the skin is an important influence for or against personal appearance, and its proper care is therefore worthy of consideration from this point of view alone.

Cleanliness is the greatest essential in the care of the skin. For the cleansing bath water as hot as can be borne is best, and a good soap should be freely applied with a moderately stiff bath brush. If the water is at all hard it is well to soften it by the addition of a little ammonia or borax. A quick sponging of the entire body with cold water should follow in order to cause the pores relaxed by the heat to contract, and the drying should be accomplished by brisk rubbing with a coarse towel.

Although the habitual use of hot water on the face is sometimes condemned on the ground that it tends to favor the relaxation of the skin and produce wrinkles, there is no danger of this if the washing be concluded with cold water.

The sponge is a thing to be avoided, as it is difficult to keep clean and forms a beautiful lurking place for germs. One washcloth should be kept for the face alone, and this should be boiled frequently.

At night it is a good plan to rub a little pure cold cream into the skin of the face and then wipe it off with a piece of soft linen. It is surprising how black the latter will appear when the operation is finished. Cold cream and talcum powder and some of the cosmetics are safe and useful, but other cosmetics do more harm than good.

The development of wrinkles can be retarded, and if present they may be lessened by gentle massage with the finger tips anointed with cold cream. A good general rule is to let the direction of the rubbing be upward and outward.

Above all, it should be remembered that cleanliness, exercise, fresh air, simple food and attention to the digestion are the most important considerations in the care of the skin.—Youth's Companion.

Maple Seed.

The seed of the maple is provided with a contrivance like the tail of a fish or the rudder of a ship. When this seed is separated from the tree, particularly if the breeze is blowing, the rudder imparts to the seed a revolving motion, somewhat similar to that for the propeller of a ship, and the germ of the future tree is thus transported often hundreds of feet from the parent stock.

TUESDAY APRIL 3rd, 1906.

Charlotte got all she asked for, and that is more than lots of them can say.

Things must be improving. A man has been convicted of murder in Wake county.

Hearst does not have the newspaper men on his side, and can hardly hope to win without them.

We cannot see that the decision of Judge Long in the Atlantic & North Carolina railroad lease matter gives the plaintiffs much comfort.

A few loud mouthed fellows may think they are the whole thing and can sweep a town in favor of saloons, but Wilson showed them differently.

Kinston wants a public building, but usually there is long waiting for the fulfillment of such desires. Speaking in time is the way to get there, however.

The saloon advocates in other towns that were watching Wilson to see how it came out, can follow the example of the ground hog—go back in their hole and stay there.

If the ground hog wants to help us enjoy the sunshine he can come out and frisk with his shadow all he wants to. But don't cut any more capers until next February.

Where is another town that can make such a showing as Greenville has made on her national bank? Watch us and you will see the building and loan association come along likewise.

The resolution adopted by the Pitt County Division of the Southern Cotton Association at least shows how they feel about it. 'Tis a little strange that those who look to the farmers take so little interest in this movement for better prices for cotton.

We doff our hat to Wilson. That town held a dispensary election a few years ago and carried it by twenty-odd majority. The anti's have been trying ever since to create opposition to it, and because they succeeded in getting another election called on the question thought they had turned over the sentiment of the town for saloons. That election was held Monday, and a majority of 142 for dispensary should be enough to satisfy the anti's for all time to come.

AN UNLUCKY DOG.

Although it is impracticable to make any such law, it seems to us that it is almost a pity that any boy should be raised in luxury or should be left any great sum of money by his parents. It is proper that after a man has worked hard and has saved he should leave enough to support his wife, his daughter and his small children in comfort. It is no good fortune to them if he leaves more than this.

For, although the pursuit of wealth absorbs the attention of the brightest minds of our country, the acquisition of great sums of money by a parent, in the majority of cases, is a misfortune to those who inherit it. In fact, this principle has been recognized by many men who have given liberally from their means with the view that their children should not inherit too much.

Andrew Carnegie believes that the man who dies rich dies disgraced. He has a little daughter, one who he does not wish anyone to marry for her money, but how he can give away all he has accumulated is a proposition.

John Rockefeller is in pretty much the same position; he has more money now than he has intelligence to properly dispose of it, for it is less an art with some men to take money away from some people than it is to properly restore it.

Mr. Brisbane recently commented in the New York Evening Journal on the subject of a $20,000 bequest by a man to his dog. His comment on this topic is rather pointed and we give over space for its reproduction. He says:

"You know of the man who recently left $20,000 to his dog. The money is to be spent to take care of the animal while he lives. The man left his money well, in one way. He selected as his heir his superior at least. If a dog had twenty thousand dollars he would leave it to his own kind; if he could think about it at all he would spend it buying dog biscuits for dog puppies. The dog that gets the money is the better man of the two.

"Twenty thousand dollars doesn't matter much in a country where millions are spent upon dogs or spent in worse ways.

"But the beginning of the dog's life as the heir to $20,000 suggests rather an interesting thought.

"The reporters who follow this dog with care announce that he is already dissatisfied with life. The conscientious executors, it seems, are trying to do all that could make a dog happy. They give him massage, chicken, mush and cream and other delicacies.

"There is a good deal of reportorial humorous exaggeration probably.

"But the fact is the dog is not doing well.

"We would advise the men with a hundred millions or more who think of leaving their money to some son to go and have a look at this dog with his twenty thousand dollars.

"The dog in a year from now or less will probably be found dying of mange, with his teeth loose and a generally disreputable look about him.

"Many a rich man if he would study this dog in the right way would make up his mind to leave to his son just as much as would keep him from being a charge on the community, but not enough to make it useless for him to try to work and succeed on his own account. Dogs and men suffer when they spend what they don't earn."--Norfolk Dispatch

JR. COOKING CLUB.

Reported for Reflector.

Another most enjoyable afternoon was spent Saturday, March 31st, when Miss Hilda Critcher very gracefully entertained the Jr. Cooking club. A large number of the members were present.

It was decided that each member should bring a certain amount of money which shall be used for buying books for the club.

After the business meeting was over the hostess had a contest and the prize was won by Miss Myrtle Warren, Miss Marguerite Higgs receiving the booty.

After the guessing was over refreshments were served which were prepared by the hostess and guests.

Mr. G. F. Evans treated the club to fine Florida oranges which were much enjoyed by all.

The hostess presented each of the guests with a beautiful bunch of hyacinths.

The club adjourned to meet with Miss Mamie Ruth Tunstall April 14th.

Fountain Improvement.

Coward & Wooten have just installed an automatic carbonator in connection with the soda fountain in their drug store. This carbonator working automatically keeps the fountain charged continually for use so there is no stopping to charge and replace tanks. It is a decided improvement and great time saver as well as convenient.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church will meet with Mrs. A. B. Ellington, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Curious Leaseholds.

Some of the English tenures are exceedingly curious. A farm near Broadhouse, in Yorkshire, pays annually to the landlord a snowball in midsummer and a red rose at Christmas. The manor of Foston is held by a rental of two arrows and a loaf of bread. An estate in the north of England is held by the exhibition before a court every seven years of a certain vase owned by the family, another in Suffolk by an annual rental of two white doves. The British government holds land in Chatham by paying the heirs of the man from whom it was bought two peppercorns. The man's descendants now live in Holland, and the peppercorns are annually sent thither in a gold box.

He Had Preferences.

Squire Lord, of local fame in Effingham, N. H., in the last century had accumulated, by all sorts of methods, a fortune for the times and place. Keeping the country store, being practically the "bank" of those parts and increasing wealth beyond expenditures, had nourished an ambition to live in a place larger and with more social opportunities than the little village afforded. So he packed up one autumn, took a house in Portland, which was the town of the world to country people then, and, with his family, started in to cut a dash.

To his chagrin he found he was one of many in that place, and not a scrape or bow was coming his way. Christmas saw him back, bag and baggage, in Effingham, and that evening in his store, to the inquiry of one of the village loafers, "Why'd ye come back, squire, fore ye'd calculated?" he replied:
"I've had enough of that place. Yer see, I'd rather be a king among hogs than a hog among kings."—Boston Herald.

Too Busy to Work.

The way to command a good price is to never cheapen one's stock in trade. At least that is the principle adopted by an Ohio justice of the peace. This gentleman, says a writer in the Philadelphia Ledger, has missed his calling. Given his opportunity, he would soon make a name among the humorists.

An attorney in a neighboring city wrote him to inquire about a judgment that had been entered against a client. He inclosed a stamp for reply. Several days later he received a postal card bearing this message:

"Your inquiry received. I beg to inform you that my time is mighty valuable just now. Corn cutting is most nigh here, politics is sizzling and the bass fishing is fine. If you would inclose a dollar bill it might stimulate me some. I paid $2 once to a lawyer for answering a question, and all he said was 'No.'"

Two Dyspeptics

If you are too fat it is because your food turns to fat instead of muscle—strength. If you are too lean the fat producing foods that you eat are not properly digested and assimilated.

Lean, thin, stringy people do not have enough Pepsin in the stomach, while fat people have too much Pepsin and not enough Pancreatine.

Kodol

contains all the digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach, and in exactly those proportions necessary to enable the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all foods that may be eaten. Kodol is not only a perfect digestant, but it is a reconstructive, tissue building tonic as well. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Palpitation of the Heart and Constipation. You will like it.

Digests What You Eat

Rests the stomach, rebuilds the tissues and gives firm flesh.

FIRST PHOTOGRAPHER.

Johann Schulze and the Sun Print He Produced.

The first photographer, Johann Heinrich Schulze—often spelled Schultze—was a professor of medicine in the University of Halle, and he wrote a great number of medical works, most of which are in the British museum library. He was born at Coblitz, in the duchy of Magdeburg, May 12, 1687. When at school and before he was ten years of age Corvinus, the priest of his native hamlet, was struck with his ability. Indeed, one day he found him in the garden studying a Greek Testament. His father was a poor tailor at Coblitz. In 1697 young Schulze was sent to the Royal Paedagogium at the University of Halle to continue his education.

In 1701 he began the study of oriental languages, and in 1704 he was admitted into the University of Halle as a student of medicine. He was trained by Professors Stahl, Richter and Ekebrecht. He at the same time gave some attention to antiquarian research and to rabbinic lore. In 1708 he accepted an appointment as teacher in the school of the university and worked in it for seven years, at the same time carrying on the study of several eastern dead languages. He then attracted the attention of Frederick Hoffman, the Boerhaave of Germany, who engaged him to aid him in his literary and medical work. He made so much progress that in two years he took the degree of doctor of medicine and shortly afterward began to obtain public reputation because of his medical writings. After his marriage in 1720 to a relative of Corvinus he was appointed professor of anatomy at the University of Altdorf.

In 1729 he was appointed professor of Greek and later on that of Arabic. The Prussian government in 1732 appointed him professor of elocution and antiquities at the University of Halle. In 1738 he was nominated a foreign member of the Academy of Sciences at St. Petersburg as successor to Bayer, and in 1737 he was professor of theology at Halle. He died Oct. 10, 1744. Schulze was the first to print an image of an object by the agency of light. In 1727 he poured nitrate of silver upon chalk, proving that its darkening in sunlight was due to light and not to heat. Then he printed upon the deposit the image of a piece of string tied round the containing glass. This was the first photograph ever taken in the world. Next he pasted printed matter round the glasses containing the deposits and photographed words and sentences.

Queer Theory of the Universe.

The natives of Australia have a queer theory of the universe. The sky is said to be inhabited by three persons—a gigantic man with an immense foot shaped like that of an emu, a woman and a child who never develops beyond childhood. The man is called Ulthaana, meaning "spirit." When a native dies his spirit is said to ascend to the home of the great Ulthaana, where it remains for a short time. The Ulthaana then throws it into the salt water, from which it is rescued by two benevolent but lesser Ulthaana, who perpetually reside on the seashore, apparently merely for the purpose of rescuing spirits who have been subject to the inhospitable treatment of the great Ulthaana of the heavens (Alkirra). Henceforth the rescued spirit of the dead man lives with the lesser Ulthaana.

He Only Wanted the Insides.

A certain colonel's gardener was going through the woods belonging to his employer when he saw a man gathering nuts. As the colonel had given him strict orders that no one was to pick the nuts, the gardener said to the man:

"You'll have to clear out of this. I've orders to keep all these nuts for the colonel."

"It's all right," replied the man. "That's what I'm getting 'em for."

The gardener, satisfied, then passed on.

Meeting the same man a week after, he said:

"Look here! You were not getting those nuts for the colonel at all."

"I tell you I was," was the emphatic reply. "Do you think I was getting 'em for the shells? Not me."—London Mail.
