WINTERVILLE NOTES

Interesting Items from Our Hustling Neighbor.

WINTERVILLE, N. C. Apr. 7, 1906.

The lecture given by Prof. Gulley Friday night was one of the best that has ever been given here. He spoke about an hour and was heard with close attention. Prof. Gulley is the equal of any man of the state, as well posted and entertaining a speaker, and on this occasion his talk was appropriate and instructive as well as entertaining. His leading thought was, "Let your eyes be opened that you may see." He paid special tribute to North Carolinians. He carried us back to the days of the civil war and showed the condition of North Carolina then and compared with now, dwelling largely upon the opportunities that lay before the people of the state today. The lecture was inspiring to all, and we feel that it has done the people good as a whole.

We also had the pleasure of hearing an interesting and instructive talk made by our county superintendent, Prof. W. H. Ragsdale, who was present, and always has something good to say, and says it in a way that benefits all.

It was a real pleasure also to have with us Prof. Smith, of Greenville, who made a very interesting talk.

Rev. Dr. Hufham, of Franklin, Va. preached for us here last Wednesday night. Dr. Hufham is one of the oldest and ablest ministers of the state, and it was a great pleasure to have him with us and to preach to us.

Miss L. LaRoach, who is a student of the Winterville High school, went home Friday evening to spend Saturday and Sunday with her parents, who live near Coxville.

Mrs. G. E. Lineberry was called to her home in Roberson county last Thursday morning to attend the burial of her mother.

Mrs. Bob Little was in town Friday evening shopping.

Profs. Ragsdale and Smith, of Greenville, came down Friday night to the lecture.

The Winterville High school campus is being greatly improved by having the stumps taken up that are on it.

Next Friday morning April 13, at 11 o'clock Gov. Jarvis, of Greenville, will speak at the closing exercises of Renston school which is being taught by Miss May Brooks. Be sure to come, and hear the governor for he always gives you something good. There will also be a concert at night given by the children of the school. We cordially invite the public to be present at the morning and evening exercises.

Frank Carroll, a very prosperous farmer of the Black Jack vicinity, was in town Friday evening.

Quite a number of traveling men have been in town this week.

John Homes, of Washington, was in town Thursday on business.

Deputy Grand Master, C. L. Pridgeon, of Kinston, will lecture here on Tuesday night April 17, in the Masonic hall, and all brother Masons are cordially invited to be here.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Holds Business Meeting and Plans Reception.

At the regular monthly business meeting of the Epworth League of the Methodist church on Friday night a large number of officers and members answered roll call. Reports were made by the different departments showing the league to be in a prosperous condition.

Much is being done by this excellent organization for the poor of our town and community, and at this meeting it was decided to begin a series of cottage prayer services to be held at the homes of those who are sick and unable to attend church.

Under the head of general business the league decided to tender to the entire membership of the church a reception to be given on the old Methodist church lot on the evening of May 18th, immediately after the next regular business meeting. The entire membership of the church, whether members of the league or not, will be invited to this reception, and a good time is in store for all present on this occasion. F. M. Hornaday, Corresponding Secretary.

Got a Strapping.

The introduction to a leather strap that Sam Slaughter is said to have received since getting back in the road gang, will be apt to make him think twice before he runs away from Superintendent McLawhorn again.

Be On Hand.

Monday night is the time and the mayor's office the place for the organization of the building and loan association. Every one who has subscribed for shares and every one who wants shares should be on hand and take part in selecting the officers. This is important.

Dr. J. D. Hufham returned here this morning from a visit to New Bern, Kinston and Winterville. He will preach in the Memorial Baptist church tomorrow morning.

If tomorrow is as pretty as today there should be few empty pews in the churches.

If the weather is as pretty as this when Easter comes there will be joy among the ladies.

As warm weather approaches there should be a general cleaning up of premises.

ENGLISH VESSELS.

The Red Tape That Must Be Wound When One Is Wrecked.

When an English vessel is wrecked an immense amount of red tape must be gone through before the case is finally closed. It depends a great deal, of course, on the nature of the wreck, but supposing, for argument's sake, that a vessel carrying a valuable cargo has been wrecked by being cast ashore and that no lives are lost, the first thing to be done is for one of the officers in charge of the vessel, the captain or a subordinate, to make his way to the receiver of wrecks and lodge a report of what has happened—in short, to make a deposition.

This must give full particulars, including the name of the vessel, its number and tonnage, name and address of owners, age, rig and build of the ship, description of the cargo, number of the crew, who the shippers and the consignees are, if any passengers, how many and whether the wives and children of any of the officers were on board. There must be stated the draft of water at the time of sailing, the hour of sailing, state of tide, weather, wind, limits of intended voyage, loss incurred and cause of casualty. These particulars are for use in the admiralty court.

Collisions at sea are fruitful of much litigation. Owners endeavor to obtain photographs where possible as evidence. The receivers, in addition to obtaining depositions, have to keep a constant lookout for driftage, for which an owner may be found or which may be converted into coin.

If anybody should chance to rescue any wreckage or "driftage," as it is technically termed, in the shape of barrels of beer, oil or barks of timber from the water in the lower reaches of the Thames he will probably receive a percentage of the gross value in the way of salvage money, provided, of course, that he delivers up the goods to the authorities. He is not legally entitled to anything, but it is customary to make such a reward. Not infrequently this kind of merchandise is found derelict on the river. The percentage awarded varies, according to the value of the find.—London Standard.

Doubtful About That Text.

An eminent preacher gave as his text, "As a man thinketh, so is he." After the sermon a lay brother said to the pastor:

"Your sermon was a scholarly effort, but I cannot agree with you in your premises."

"I am very sorry," replied the preacher. "I gave a great deal of thought and study to that sermon. To what part of it do you take exception?"

"Well," said the lay brother, "you say that as a man thinketh, so is he."

"Yes," replied the minister. "Well, I have a nephew who thinks he knows it all, when the truth is he is a confounded idiot."

A Heroic Recipe.

A young woman, one of many, who, being afflicted with a sudden and mad desire to become an actress, once called on the late Lester Wallack and requested his assistance in getting on the stage. The most debonair of actor-managers looked at her in his own light comedy way and asked:

"Are you married?"

"No," replied the aspirant.

"My dear young lady," said Mr. Wallack, "go and get married, have two or three children, lose them, be beaten by your husband, get a divorce and then come back and try to act."

Curiosity Satisfied.

The following is told of an old lady who had had her hair cut off in a severe illness and wore a wig in its place: She was staying in a continental hotel and one day noticed a gentleman looking curiously at her hair. Soon after on some excuse he crossed the room to behind where she sat. She calmly got up, turned round and, lifting her hair from her head, said, "Yes, sir, it is a wig."—New York Post.

Latest Type of Freight Steamer.

Of the very latest type of freight steamers is the British ship Bellerophon, built without masts, instead of which she has four pillars, two abreast fore and aft, for derricks. ### A Lost Lesson.

The proprietor of an engineering works in Scotland, according to the Dundee Advertiser, was watching the leisurely efforts of an apprentice who was swinging his hammer in a gentle way.

"Look here, laddie," he said, going up to the youth and taking the hammer from him, "when I see a man that takes his hammer by the end of the shaft and strikes a proper blow like that I give that man 32 shillings a week, but a man that takes it in the middle like this only gets 25 shillings a week and the sack whenever we get slack. See?"

Hoping he had sufficiently well driven home his point, he surveyed the lad more in sorrow than in anger, but the latter requested an extension of the lesson.

"Please, sir," he said, "where do I hold it for 4 shillings a week?"

In Bonny Scotland.

Pressing business engagements made it highly important that a tourist in Scotland should catch the 6 o'clock train for the south on Monday morning. Boots was interviewed on Sunday night, a hansom administered, perhaps incautiously, and a solemn promise received of an early call. Next morning the tourist awoke of his own accord at half past 7 and aroused the boots, who listened to the torrent of anger that was poured upon him in mild surprise. "Cot bless me, sir, you was not so bad at all! The man in the next room to you was to catch the 5 o'clock boat, and he's no wakened yet."

As happens to most big frauds sooner or later, Dowie is getting the mask pulled off of him.

They don't all get to be that old, but the New Bern Journal has reached the age of twenty-five years. They have been years of good service to its section.

The president seems to be waking up to the importance of the situation. He has been calling in Democrats to confer about the rate bill, and we notice that Senator Overman, of North Carolina, was one of those he wanted to talk it over with.

The statement of Samuel Gompers, the head of the Federation of Labor, that organized labor would enter the political field, is about what might have been expected. There are usually parties with axes to grind engineering such movements. The country would not fare any better controlled by labor unions than it would by corporations.

FARMERS WIN THE FIGHT.

The farmers have again won the fight—the bears beat cotton down to 10 1-2 cents, farmers who believe in the cotton association would not sell, up goes cotton, and up it should go.

With the great demand for cotton goods from all over the world and the excellent prices the goods sell at our cotton is cheap to the spinner at 15 cents.

Farmers all over the South are looking at the cotton question differently than they did in years past.

They begin to ask why it is that they must pay such a difference for cotton when they buy it in goods and sell their raw cotton for so little.

The farmer now unwinds a spool of cotton thread weighs it and with pencil figures the cost to him of a 500-pound bale of cotton sold to him at 5 cents the spool; he finds that he pays $2,000 per bale for what he sold at $75 the 500-pound-bale.

Mrs. Farmer is interested also; she puts a yard of seven-cent unbleached domestic on the scales, figures out the cost to her of 100 pounds of cotton in that shape to be $135 per bale, then she tells her husband that 15 cents per pound or $75 per bale, is not too much for him to get for raw cotton.

Lead pencil sales are great here of late, many farmers who had no pencil now wears one inch or so from one every night.

Yes, our farmers are figuring and thinking, they are to believe from on this cotton price question—they will have to say as to the price.

Our Southern cotton manufacturers are anxious to see the price of cotton advance, many of them tell me they make more on their finished product when cotton is high than when it is low.

Farmers are reading more and more of the cotton association, they are confident that through it is their only chance to receive fair prices for their cotton. I am asked "in what paper can I find cotton association information?"

More farmers read daily papers now than ever before; our farmers are well informed, they see that 15 cents is not too much for cotton, they see, too, that to maintain a fair price, the 1906 acreage must be cut one-quarter from the 1904 planting.

Why should they not see these things? Are they not aware that there is yet in the hands of patriotic men some four or five million bales of the 1903 cotton? If the South produces this year, over 11 million bales, there will be a surplus again and down will go the price.

Horse sense will say "don't put ten ears of corn in my trough, when there is already ten there the mule did not eat," what is the use of raising cotton the world will not use?

HOW TO REDUCE ACREAGE.

This is not an individual question entirely, but one for the township club—the constitution of the Southern Cotton Association provides for the township club to arrange among its members the acreage question.

An inventory of acreage on every farm in 1904 should be taken, call the roll of members and ask how much each will reduce; this may show 30, 40, or 50 per cent. reduction for the township, if so, then some man who wishes to do so, may increase his 1906 planting and yet township in total, be 25 per cent. under 1904.

I do wish our farmers would read the constitution and become fully acquainted with its broad, liberal provisions.

Farmers should by all means attend meeting of their club this week and have the constitution read aloud by a distinct reader. Your association has put many dollars in your pocket, it will do so next season if you will loyally stand by its officials.

These officials are men like yourself—they can not work for you, write for you, print for you; unless you support them.

Do you expect men to do the work that Jordan, Cheatham and others do, all for your good, and you do nothing for them? Is it fair for you to pocket $20 per bale on your cotton and give nothing to sustain the association?

Pay your quarterly dues and your 10-cent per bale levy at once. I want to send money to the Atlanta office—North Carolina is behind all States in the support of the central office.

WASHINGTON LETTER

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington D. C., April 6, 1906.
—Mr. Davidson, of Wisconsin, has come to the aid of the majority with a proposal in regard to tariff revision that promises to put the troublesome question off till after the coming elections. This is a move that will meet the warmest approval of the majority who do not want any tariff talk just now and yet who do not want to go before their constituents at the next election with the admission that there has been no arrangement made looking to a full discussion of the whole tariff question.

While the members of the Senate who are anxious to see their names in print have been warming the breeze with speeches on the rate bill, it is said that the forces of the administration and those of the opposition have been getting closer together and that when the leaders have done all they could do to align their forces the debate will be chopped off short and the voting will commence. Just what the result will be it is too early to say.

It should be noted that the convention of the State railway commissioners meeting in Washington this week recorded themselves in favor of such a provision. When they first struck Washington, they were attacked of course by the railroad lobby who made a determined effort to get them converted in its way of thinking, or at least to saying they were converted, which in the present situation would amount to the same thing. Some members of the convention the railway people very evidently got, and there was a question whether the meeting would not go on record as dead opposed to the extension of the powers of the Interstate Commerce commission and declare that the power to make rates was a delectate, not to say sacred function, that could not be safely entrusted to any people except the railroads themselves.

RESEMBLANCE TO SHAW.

A. G. Hales, the war correspondent, writing in London Opinion and Today on the unequal talent to be found in the house of commons, tells a story he heard of a coxcomb who was once mistaken for Bernard Shaw. He and Mr. Shaw were once in the same Turkish bath, lying on slabs, with towels over their faces. The attendant came along and touched the coxcomb on the shoulder. "Ready, Mr. Shaw?" he said. The coxcomb bounded to his feet, all aglow with pleasure at being mistaken for a man of intellect. After he had been rubbed down he gave the attendant half a sovereign, for so full was he of the pride that goeth before a fall. As he turned to go he said, "Er—my man—er—what made you mistake me for Bernard Shaw?" The attendant grinned. "Er—well, sir, you see, sir, you 'ave the same sized feet."

To Weigh the World.

This world is to be weighed once more, doubts being entertained by scientists as to the accuracy of previous estimates. But whether the error be a case of short weight or overweight has yet to be settled. An expedition is to set out in Egypt, where the great pyramid will be utilized by the investigators. First, the weight of the pyramid will be ascertained and then the weight of the earth estimated from its proportionate size. The swinging of pendulums will be the gauge. From the force exerted by the pyramid in pulling the swinging pendulum from its natural course the weight of the pyramid can be estimated, and that of the earth—the exact size of which is known—can then be calculated easily.

A Model Landlord.

Lord Cadogan is known as one of the best landlords in London. When North street, Chelsea, was remodeled a short time ago Lord Cadogan was approached by a syndicate which asked him to sell the property to them. To which the earl replied:

"I will sell it, but I must insist upon your granting new leases to every one who is in that street, so that no one is turned out for five years and so that they will have ample notice."

That made a difference of £50,000 to Lord Cadogan. In other words, if he had sold it outright without a condition of that sort he would have got £50,000 more than he did.

Children and Studying.

Dr. Dukey, a German specialist, as the result of numerous and systematic observations on school children and older students, fixes the amount of intellectual work compatible with the normal development as follows: For pupils from five to eight years of age, ten hours a week; eight to ten years, twelve hours; ten to twelve years, twenty-one hours; twelve to fourteen years, twenty-five hours; fourteen to fifteen years, thirty hours; fifteen to sixteen years, thirty-five hours; sixteen to seventeen years, forty hours; seventeen to eighteen years, forty-five hours, and eighteen to nineteen years, the maximum of fifty hours.

"Madam" Replaces "Lady."

"Have you noticed how completely the word 'madam' has superseded the hitherto ubiquitous 'lady' in public places?" said an observant woman in conversation the other day. "Where formerly one heard 'Fare, please, lady,' 'What'll you have, lady?' or 'This way, lady, please,' 'madam' is now substituted in every case. One is so addressed in shops and other public places, in cars, everywhere in fact. What has brought about the change of idiom? It prevails now to a certain extent in all eastern cities, but to a specially marked degree in Manhattan."—New York Press.

Oysters as a Nerve Cure.

Over in France, says What to Eat, there has been discovered what is called the oyster cure for nervousness. It consists in eating all the oysters a person can consume to the exclusion of other foods until the cure is effected. The theory is that in nervous disorders an excessive amount of phosphorus is eliminated from the system. This loss can be compensated by taking food containing a large amount of phosphorus. It is said a patient taking this cure can eat oysters fresh from the sea at the rate of about six dozen a day.
