SAN FRANCISCO WRECKED.

City Destroyed by Earthquake Followed by Fire.

ELEVEN HUNDRED LIVES LOST.

Property Destruction Enormous.—Most Disastrous Earthquake ever Known on Pacific Coast.

Norfolk Va. April 18—It is reported this morning that San Francisco, Cal., had been totally destroyed by an earthquake last night.

Norfolk, Va. April 18.—San Francisco was visited by a violent earthquake shock in the early hours of this morning. The shock was followed by fire which broke out at 5:50 a. m. and as no water is available it is feared the disaster is complete and terrible loss of life has occurred.

Norfolk Va., April 18.—Both the Western Union and Postal telegraph offices at San Francisco were wrecked by the earthquake so that only meagre particulars can be had. The water works were also destroyed rendering the fireman powerless to battle with the flames following the shock. The loss of life so far is estimated at 1100. As telegraphic communication is cut off, the government is trying to get information from the city by means of the wireless telegraph. It is the worst earthquake that ever occurred on the Pacific coast.

CITY SEEMS DOOMED.

New York, April 18—The best and most accurate information regarding the San Francisco earthquake indicates the whole city is practically being destroyed by fire. From the highest elevation in San Jose, 25 miles distant, the city can be seen ablaze.

LATER DETAILS.

Norfolk, Va., April 18.—Among the buildings in San Francisco destroyed by the earthquake is the city hall which cost $7,000,000. The shock which caused most damage came at 5:10 this morning lasting for three minutes. Fires followed quickly all over the city causing terror and excitement indescribable.

Most of the people were asleep and rushed into the streets in their night robes. Buildings collapsed with awful crash, burying their occupants beneath them, and covering an area of fifty blocks in the business section of the city.

The city is at the mercy of the conflagration. The Lick House and other hotels have been destroyed. Firemen and inhabitants are helpless before the flames.

The Hobart building, in which were the telegraph offices and Southern Pacific railway offices, were also wrecked, as was the entire business portion of the city.

Their new steeple is about complete, adding much to the appearance of the church.

ALBERMARLE PRESBYTERY.

In Session With the Church at Greenville.

Albermarle Presbytery, embracing the district of the State lying between the Seaboard Air Line and Atlantic & North Carolina railroad to the Virginia line, and comprising thirty-seven churches, met with the church in Greenville on the 17th to hold a three days' session.

The first session began at 8 o'clock p. m., and after prayer Dr. J. M. Grier, of Washington, Rev. Alfred H. Moment, D. D., of Raleigh, the retiring moderator, preached the introductory sermon. His theme was "God the Teacher."

He said that God from the beginning had been a teacher. The best illustration of this is seen in His dealings with His people. Then he emphasized the fact that the great school of God's people of old was Palestine. In this land they developed those deeper characteristics of the race.

The second part of the sermon was taken up with application. In this he emphasized the fact that the education was three-fold: 1. Education of the mind. 2. Education of the will. 3. Education of the heart. The full developed man finds his highest ideals realized in the PERFECT MAN, Jesus Christ.

The sermon was strong and inspiring, filled throughout with vivid illustration and application, and it was evident that the people were moved by the heart-power of the speaker.

Following the sermon Dr. Moment constituted the Presbytery by prayer.

State clerk J. H. Henderlite, called the roll of churches and a large proportion of them were represented.

The election of officers being then in order. Rev. Isaac Campbell, of Kinston; Elder George Allen, of Raleigh, and Rev. J. H. Jarvis, of Hobgood, were placed in nomination for moderator. At the request of Elder Allen his name was withdrawn. On roll call Dr. Campbell received 14 votes and Mr. Jarvis 6. Dr. Campbell was declared elected and took the moderator's chair.

Rev. J. E. Wool, of Wilson, and Elder R. A. Bullock, of Williamsboro, were unanimously elected temporary clerks.

The hours of meeting of the Presbytery were made as follows: 9 a. m. prayer service, 9:30 business session, adjourn at 12:30. Afternoon session at 3 evening session at 8.

WEDNESDAY MORNING SESSION.

Devotional exercises were conducted by the moderator, Dr. Campbell.

Minutes of previous session were read and approved.

The following standing committees were appointed:

Devotional Exercises—Rev. F. D. Viehe and Elder E. B. Ficklen. Narrative to General Assembly and Synod—Revs. A. H. Moment, N. B. Daniel and J. L. Grier.

Several communications were read.

Rev. T. W. Winfield, formerly of Canada, and more recently of New York Presbytery, presented his credentials and was permitted to labor in this Presbytery.

A call from Washington church to Dr. J. M. Grier was read and referred to committee.

The first order of business for afternoon session was made the reading of narratives.

A communication from Henderson church asking for change in pastor's salary from $900 to $1,200 was granted.

Rev. J. M. Grier was received from Mecklenburg Presbytery after the usual examinations.

The committee on calls and installations reported favorably on call of Dr. Grier to Washington church.

THE OLDEST LOCK.

It Formerly Secured a Door In a Palace of Nineveh.

The very oldest lock in existence is one which formerly secured one of the doors of a palace of Nineveh. It is a gigantic affair, and the key to it, which is as large as one man can conveniently carry, reminds one of the Scriptural passage where the prophet makes reference to such instruments being carried on the shoulder. The exact words in the passage referred to are, "And the key of the house of David I will lay upon his shoulder."

This enormous key to the lock from Nineveh is nearly three and a half feet in length and of the thickness of a four inch draintile. It was found at the end of a ruined chamber, where a large wooden door had probably once stood, the gigantic brass hinges and heavy bars being still in fair condition, though somewhat corroded. This relic of the olden times has but few points of resemblance to the keys of modern manufacture or even to those of the early part of the Christian era. The tubular idea had never been thought out in those days, but the key is fearfully and wonderfully made, being equally as intricate a piece of machinery as the lock in which it was used. A great many of the bars and pegs in the lock are believed to have been made of wood as their places are now empty. The notches and pegs in the key, however, show that there were corresponding pegs and bars in the lock at one time. The great lateral iron bars at the end of the key, with their complicated series of notches, cross-bars, bumps, etc., are proof that the lock was once similarly provided. This being the case, it is reasonable to suppose that at one time the door to the palace could not have been opened until the key had been inserted and the impediment to the drawing back of the bolt removed by raising up so many bars and pins which had fallen down into their places upon the key having been withdrawn. Similar locks and keys were in use in Egypt 5,000 years ago.

A Broader Field.

"Father," said the young man who was home from school, "you must not take offense if the farm does not suit me. I feel that my talents demand a broader field."

"That's lucky, my boy, an' to yer credit ez well. Ye'll be tickled to know that I've bought an adjoining section of lan', an' ez soon ez I git the fences moved every field on the place'll be half ez wide ag'in. Then ye kin turn in an' hustle ter yer heart's content."

He Struggled.

"Did you struggle against the consequences of temptation?" inquired the prison visitor.

"Yes'm," replied the object of interest.

"Ah, if you had fought just a little harder you wouldn't be here to-day."

"I did th' best I could, ma'am," said the prisoner modestly. "It took three p'licemen an' four bystanders to get me into th' patrol wagon."

Decline of Matrimony.

Dr. Prinzling of Berlin, writing in the Zeitschrift für Sozialwissenschaft, declares that it is not true that the proportion of old maids and old bachelors is increasing in European countries. One is perpetually told by writers, especially those representing the advanced woman movement, that marriage is decreasing and that unmarried persons are relatively increasing. As a matter of fact, this is only the case in Sweden, France and Ireland. In Germany the number of bachelors steadily decreases, and only in certain limited areas can any increase of old maids be certified.

Have the Billiard Habit.

Natives of New Zealand are victims of the billiard habit. The inspector of native schools in New Zealand attributes the lax attendance of the young Maories to the fact that their parents "spend their whole time playing cards or billiards." He alleges that the children are often kept up all night billiard marking and are of course utterly unfit for school work next day. He says he encounters billiards everywhere on his travels. The game is even played on the roadside.

New to Him.

At a musical comedy in London from his seat in the stalls Clyde Fitch noticed a young man in one of the boxes laughing uproariously. His companion was a critic, and Mr. Fitch said to him, "That chap in the box seems to be enjoying himself." "He is the author," said the critic. "Well, then," said Fitch, "I think he ought to have better taste than to laugh so loud." "Oh," said the critic, "he is the author, but he never heard these jokes before. They were put in by the comedian."

The Smallest School In England.

It is said that the highest mountain, the deepest lake and the smallest church in England are to be found at Wasdale Head, Cumberland, and now it would appear that the smallest school is also to be found there. There are nine scholars, and of these five belong to one family. The youngest is nine years of age, and they have to walk a distance of two and a half miles in order to attend school.

Care of the Hands.

Unless the hands are thoroughly dried after washing in cold water they will almost invariably be chapped. Boracic ointment, cold cream or glycerin rubbed well into the hands before going to bed will keep them in good condition, and a pair of loose gloves drawn on after anointing is still better.

Concerning Rugs.

If a rug has rather a long nap the best effect may be obtained by placing it so that the nap is against the light—that is, running toward it. This is particularly true of an oriental rug, for in this way the light strikes the pile, bringing out the lights and shades to the best advantage.

Trunk Cover.

A trunk cover is easily made of a square of denim, blue gray in color, the hem feather stitched in place with white mercerized thread, and with a monogram in the center or in one corner, also worked in white. This could be made also of coarse linen or canvas, as liked.

Left Overs.

Yolks of eggs left over when the whites have been used will keep several days in a bowl of cold water. Lemons keep better in cold water than on the shelf.

For Lumbago.

A strong liniment made of bella donna, chloroform and alcohol will often relieve the severe pain in the small of the back known as lumbago.

BETTER PUBLIC ROADS

Elsewhere we publish a letter from Congressman John H. Small on the subject of good roads. The Reflector has time and again tried to awaken the interest of the people of Pitt county in better roads, and we feel that the efforts in this direction have not been in vain. Matters of great concern sometimes move slow, and we yet hope to see the seeds sown in this direction bring forth a harvest of activity on the part of the citizens of the county. Congressman Small, whose efforts all through his congressional career have evidenced his earnest interest in matters pertaining to the welfare of the people, gives some timely suggestions in his letter as to the building of good roads. He pledges not only his own support to the movement, but also gives assurance that an expert will be sent from the United States Department of Agriculture to make plans and supervise the work of construction if the county will first take the action to warrant this. The Reflector would be glad to see the board of county commissioners adopt the suggestion of Mr. Small and start the movement for better roads throughout the county.

Don't forget that unpaid poll tax

Mr. Farmer, go back and plant some more corn.

Greensboro comes in the limelight again, the Blackburn trial being on now.

And Springfield has lynched another negro. Time they were stopping that kind of outrage.

North Carolina gets another honor in the appointment by the president of ex-Gov. C. B. Aycock as one of the delegates to the Pan-American conference which is to meet in July at Rio Janiero. A better man could not have been appointed, and President Roosevelt knows it.

Greenville is glad to welcome within her borders so distinguished a body of Christian workers as the ministers, elders and delegates who compose the Albermarle Presbytery now in session. The homes and hearts of our people are open to these, and all wish that the greatest good for the advancement of Christ's kingdom in the earth may result from their deliberations.

CONGRESSMAN SMALL ON GOOD ROADS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16. Editor Reflector: The following item recently appeared in the editorial columns of The Reflector:

"Good schools and good roads are said to be twin handmaids of progress. Pitt county has made wonderful advancement in her schools, and it is time her twin sister, good roads, was coming on the stage. The county will not come up to her opportunities until the public roads are what they should be."

I wish to commend unreservedly the sentiment contained in this paragraph. I presume my position upon the question of public education is well known. The extension and improvement of our public schools constitute the most essential factor in the development of our rural population, than which there is no finer in the world.

But it is the expression regarding public roads which induced me to write The Reflector. I have given this subject attention for several years. The importance of better roads cannot be overestimated. I hope at some early date to prepare an article illustrating the economic advantages of improved public roads. In my judgment the first necessary step is to educate our people both as to the necessity of better roads, and as to the best method of obtaining them.

The Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture, has published several editions of a bulletin describing the construction of what are known as "sand-clay" roads. I believe these roads constitute at the present time the best solution of the road problem in Eastern North Carolina, in that a method is afforded of utilizing the materials at hand. The difficulty in building macadam roads lies in the great expense involved in bringing the materials from a distance, as well as the great cost of construction. I shall be very glad to forward to any of your readers a copy of this bulletin together with other literature upon the subject of good roads.

Again, I believe if your board of county commissioners would arrange to construct one or more miles of sand-clay road as an object lesson to the people of the county, that a distinct and valuable contribution to the cause would thereby be made. If they should determine to do this, the United States Department of Agriculture would furnish an expert who would make all the plans and supervise the work of construction.

It will give me pleasure to contribute in any way I can toward the cause of better public roads.

Very respectfully,
JOHN H. SMALL.

FIRST ANNIVERSARY

OF

F. M. HORNADAY'S

General Insurance Agency.

On April 14th, 1905, we opened our doors to the people of Greenville and adjoining community, earnestly soliciting a share of their patronage. As a result of our labors we have gained the confidence and friendship of the vast majority of the insuring public and on this our happy anniversary, we wish to return to them our thanks for more than

One Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars

of Life insurance placed through his agency in addition to many thousands of dollars in Fire, Health, Accident, Burglary, and Plate Glass insurance which we also control. The enormous volume of business during our first year, and the great superiority of our contracts, have placed us in a position, as representatives of the leading insurance companies of the world, to successfully meet competition, and our earnest wish is that those desiring insurance give our contracts a thorough examination.

Having spent a pleasant and successful year in Greenville we wish to state that "We Are Here To Stay" and shall appreciate a share of YOUR patronage.

He Killed the Bill.

Senator Elkins was talking for statehood for New Mexico and Arizona the other day until they reminded him how he kept New Mexico out of the Union thirty years ago. Elkins was formerly a delegate in congress from New Mexico.
Once he had the bill making New Mexico a state in such shape that it was ready to be called from the table and passed. Senator Burrows of Michigan, then in the house, made a sensational speech against the bill. Elkins was not in the chamber. As he came in somebody told him that Burrows had made a great statehood speech.

Elkins rushed down the aisle, shook hands with Burrows and warmly congratulated him. He thought Burrows had spoken for instead of against him. The Democrats who were going to vote for the bill saw Elkins effusively tell Burrows that he had made a great speech and concluded that if Elkins, who was father of the bill, felt that way toward a man who opposed the bill, they could not afford to vote for it, and they didn't. The result was that the bill was beaten, and New Mexico isn't in yet. — New York World.

The Wrong Animal.

Ignorance of natural history—and some other things—played a part in a fight of which a well known actor tells a story.

A Welshman, he says, had taken boxing lessons until he thought he could whip anything of his weight.
He thereupon challenged an Irishman to fight him to a finish, and the challenge was promptly accepted.
The Welshman selected a fellow countryman named Davy for a second. The battle began, and after the first round the Welshman went to his corner and asked Davy how he looked.

"Look like a lion," said Davy.

In the second round the Welshman had one eye closed, but Davy still declared his champion looked like a lion. At the end of the third round the Welshman was out. When he came to he looked through his swollen eyes at his second and said:

"Ow do I look now, Davy?"

"Like a lion," said Davy.

"I don't feel like 'up. Did you ever see a lion?"

"Yes, hindeed. Bill Jones 'as 'un."

"Hit hain't a lion, man. Hit's a jackass!"

"Well, that's 'ow you look!"

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

General Uses of Ammonia in Work of the Household.

Put a teaspoonful of ammonia in a quart of warm soapsuds, dip a cloth in it and go over your soiled paint and see how rapidly the stains will disappear. No scrubbing will be necessary. It will cleanse and brighten wonderfully. To a pint of hot suds add a teaspoonful of the spirits, dip in your forks and spoons or whatever you desire to clean, rub with a soft brush and then finish with a chamois skin. For washing mirrors and windows it has no equal. It will remove grease spots from every fabric without injuring the garment. Put on the ammonia nearly clear, lay blotting paper over and set a hot iron on it for a moment; also a few drops in water will cleanse and whiten laces and muslins beautifully. A few drops in a bowl of water if the skin be oily will remove all greasiness and disagreeable odors. Added to a foot-bath it absorbs all noxious smells. Nothing is better to remove dandruff from the hair. For cleaning hair and nail brushes it is equally good.

Hot Water Bags.

Before a hot water bag is put away it ought to be slightly inflated, says a careful housekeeper. Otherwise the sides may adhere to each other, and in pulling them apart the bag will almost certainly be ruined. In case the precaution has been neglected and the parts have adhered some hot water with a few drops of ammonia should be put into the bag, and after a few minutes a thin, dull edged piece of wood may be inserted carefully between the two pieces of rubber.

Curtain Rod Substitute.

Use quarter inch iron wire instead of brass rods for the hanging of sash curtains. For the shams, the mantel and closet curtains and all the little extra "shirrs" put up in house decoration it answers just as well and is about one-fifth the price. It is necessary to have a little bottle of gold paint and to "wash" it, both for the sake of looks and to keep it from rusting.

For a Sprained Ankle.

For a slightly sprained ankle, if no ligaments are torn, the treatment is simple. The injured ankle should be bathed in water as hot as can be borne and rested on an elevated cushion or a chair for a day or two, with hot compresses. When able to bear the weight the ankle should be firmly bandaged with a figure 8 bandage for several days.

Our Good Friend, Salt.

Salt is said to be good as a tooth powder, as it whitens the teeth and hardens the gums.

A pinch of salt on the tongue, followed in ten minutes by a drink of cold water, is also said to cure a headache.

A pinch of salt in a glass of warm water is good for bathing weak or tired eyes.

Ointment For Pimples.

A good ointment to be used for pimples is made of five grams of lanolin, five grams of sulphur precipitate, two and one-half grams of oxide of zinc and ten drops of extract of violet. When the skin is free from irritation give it a daily treatment with a good face brush, hygienic soap and warm water.
