RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

DR. CHARLES A. BLOUNT.

Whereas, the Great Architect of the Universe, in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to call our beloved brother, Charles A. Blount from the terrestrial Lodge below, to the Celestial Lodge above, and whereas we as men and Masons who knew and loved him, desire to testify to the love and esteem in which he was held, both by men and Masons, therefore be it resolved

1st. That while we bow in humble submission to the Divine decrees of Him who doeth all things well, and while we consign the body of our deceased brother to the dust as it was, we commend his spirit to God who gave it, and will cherish his name in loving remembrance of his many virtues. We as Masons deplore the severance of another link in our fraternal chain, and tender to his bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy and condolence in this their hour of sore affliction, and assure them that we in common with them, mourn his loss, to them, of a kind and devoted husband and indulgent father, and to us an upright and loyal Mason, who by his kindly nature, frank and genial disposition, had bound him to us by irrevocable ties.

2nd. That we will wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

3rd. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes and that a copy be sent to the family of our deceased brother, and that a copy be sent to the Eastern Reflector with the request to publish the same.

Dr. Beaman Preaches.

Rev. R. C. Beaman, D. D., came on the morning train yesterday. Last night he preached a plain, Scriptural sermon of great power. His text was selected from Psalms 85:6, "Wilt thou not revive us again: that thy people may rejoice in thee."

He said the Christian church was born and cradled in a revival. Pentecost was the greatest revival the world has ever known, and from the day of Pentecost to the present, the history of the church has been little more than a series of revivals. He said the church had never before stood in greater need of revival than at the present. That worldliness has stealthily crept into the church until it threatened its very life. That worldliness had become so prevalent in the church—even in the Methodist church—that it was so brazen and defiant that it resented even the mention of its ways by those whose sacred duty it is to rebuke all sin. It was indeed a great message.

At 10 o'clock this morning Dr. Beaman preached again on the same line. He said the most serious trouble with the church of today is that too many of its members have not the spirit of Christ, and that the church cannot do its heaven appointed work until it catches the spirit of the Master.

The service tonight will begin at 8 o'clock. A most cordial invitation is extended to the people of Greenville to attend these services.

THE CASE CONTINUED.

Premeditated Absence of Important Witness Delays Trial.

The following cases have been disposed of:

At 10 o'clock this morning when court opened, the court room was filled to the doors, the crowd being mostly composed of white citizens from every section of the county. No case in years has attracted the general interest throughout the county as this now famous Bathel whitecapping case. The following counsel appear in the case:

For the State: L. I. Moore, C. B. Aycock, A. L. Blow, F. G. James. Harry Skinner being unable to appear, as he is attending Federal court at Wilmington.

For the defence: Donnell Gilliam, I. A. Sugg, H. W. Whedbee, J. L. Fleming, Julius Brown and Stephen C. Wooten.

Dr T. G. Basnight was called out, he failing to appear in answer to subpoena issued by state, and judgment nisi in the sum of $80 against him. Instanta capias, ad testificandum asked by the State. After evidence by S. C. Page relative to Dr. Basnight's whereabouts the court issued instanta subpoena, attached thereto a bond for Dr. Basnight to give for his appearance as a witness. Also instanta nisi issued for this witness. After heated controversy between counsel as to this matter, the solicitor stated that Dr. Basnight was an important witness, and the State very much desired his presence before going to trial.

Mr. Gilliam asked how many doctors the State wished as witnesses, and Gov. Aycock replied "All the doctors who attended your clients." This sally provoked a burst of laughter from the crowd.

After extended discussion led by the solicitor for the State and Mr. Gilliam for the defence, the solicitor prepared affidavit as to what the State wished to prove by Dr. Basnight.

Affidavit by W. J. Teel says:

1. That he is the person alleged to have been assaulted in his home on the night of April 15th, by the defendants and others and that he fired many shots, some of which he believes wounded his assailants.

2. That the testimony of the State will tend to show that on said night a crowd assembled near his house and broke into his door and attempted to drag him from his bed at 2 o'clock in the morning and that affiant succeeded in repelling his assailants, and that thereupon alarm was given and many of the neighbors assembled, and at once took the tracks of various buggy and foot prints leading from his house and followed said tracks to within a short distance of the town of Oakly where three of the defendants live.

3. That affiant believes that he will be able to prove by witnesses that early in the morning of the 16 inst. J. K. Barnhill in a buggy with defendant Chas. Wynn drove from the town of Oakley to the town of Stokes, at which town defendant Barnhill entered the office of Dr. T. G. Basnight, and that affiant believes that if Dr. Basnight was present as a witness in this case that he will testify that he treated defendant J. K. Barnhill for a gun or pistol shot wound, or both on the morning of April 16, 1906

4. That Dr. T. G. Basnight was summoned here by the State, that he came to Greenville on Tuesday for that purpose, that on Tuesday night the said witness absented himself from the court and from Greenville and has not been seen in or near the town of Stokes or county of Pitt.

5. That said witness has not presented himself to the solicitor for examination and has not been questioned, but affiant believes that aforesaid witness would testify as is above set out, if his presence was secured by the court at the hearing in this cause.

Upon this the trial was continued for the term.

All State witnesses were recognized in the sum of $500 each for their appearance of next regular term of Pitt Superior criminal court, or for any special term.

Defendants witnesses were not recognized.

The defendants were required to give bond as follows: Defendants Briley, Barnhill and Whitehurst, $2,500 each; defendants Whichard and Wynn, $2,000 each; defendant Woolard $1,500.

ORMONDSVILLE ITEMS.

ORMONDSVILLE, N. C., April 30
J. R. Turnage, of Ayden, came over yesterday

J. L. Corbett and W. E. Rodgers, of Speights Bridge spent Saturday night with E. I. Corbett.

Geo. W. Dail and family, of Ayden, spent Friday night here on their way to the union meeting at Grimesley's Saturday and Sunday.

H. C. Ormond and family and Will Edwards and family, all of Ayden, attended the burial of Ernest Ormond here yesterday.

Rev. A. L. Ormond, of Kittrell came yesterday to attend the burial of his brother, Earnest Ormond and will remain here until Tuesday.

Y. T. Ormond, John and Paten, Hooker, of Kinston, were here yesterday.

Jas. Smith and daughter, Dr. G. C. Edwards and others, of Hookerton attended the burial here yesterday.

Our farmers are exceedingly anxious to see a few showers of rain now as tobacco plants are ready for setting.

Quite a number of our people attended the union meeting at Grimesley Saturday and Sunday.

Elder J. M. Barfield, and G. M. Prescott, of Ayden, spent Saturday night in the neighborhood.

Earnest Ormond, son of John J. Ormond, deceased, and Nancy J. Ormond died here on last Saturday evening, being 35 years old. He suffered very much for near two weeks before his death. The cause of his afflictions as not known exactly but resulted in total paralysis before death.

We were very much shocked at the fruits of the dispensary of Ayden, last Friday evening. We were forced to believe by what we saw here that it is a poor improvement on the regular saloon. At least it seems to do business on the same old plan and make drunk in the same old way.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town.

AYDEN, N. C., May 1, 1906.—

Mr. C. P. Waters, a son-in-law of L. B. Tilghman of this place, who died in Georgetown, S. C. was brought here on Sunday evening's train and buried yesterday in Ayden cemetery. The remains were accompanied by the wife of the deceased.

Miss Florence Hardy, of Greenville, came down yesterday to visit her sister, Mrs. J. H. Savage.

B. D. F. Albritton, of Hookerton, passed through yesterday on his way to Greenville and returned same day.

Very many improvements are going on in Ayden, pumps are being driven, tiling placed for drainings, the streets worked on and an all round system of good order prevails.

Rev. Mr. Jones left on the train Friday for a visit up the road.

Rev. C. C. Bland came in yesterday from a visit to Kinston.

T. B. Carney and family have come home from a recent visit.

Lil Sumrell and Pete McLawhorn are home on a visit from Belhaven.

Mr. Ernest Ormond, brother of our townsman, Herbert Ormond, died at his home in Greene county Saturday and was buried Sunday.

While in New Bern we met our young friend, Foster Quinn, of Norfolk. He gave us a ride which was very much enjoyed.

At the recent fire here W. E. Hooks sustained an injury to which at first he paid but little attention. Since he has suffered intensely on account of it and is still a very sick man. We truly hope it may not be long before he is well again. Ed is a clever fellow and his many friends sympathize with him in his sickness.

We are informed our friend A. R. Holton has taken a relapse and grave apprehensions are felt as to his condition.

The merry-go-round is here and the children are in their glory, while the colored person rejoiceth with exceeding great joy and the hobby horse man reapeth the shakles.

J. A. Nichols, of Kinston, was here Saturday.

At the request of Uncle Sam with A. G. Cox and J. M. Brooks we attended Federal court at New Bern last week, as we had been informed our presence was very much desired on that occasion. We found the court a pretty big thing, a big judge a tolerably fair sized district attorney, a medium size assistant, some mighty big lawyers, a fine and courteous set of officials and a host of jurors as big as in the land. We were one and we felt a little big too, but that's natural, you, know. We remained in New Bern just one week and the time was pleasantly spent. New Bern is a big town and its people are a big hearted, generous set of citizens. We didn't find any strangers. Everybody knew us and told us so. That much for being a big man. Is it Having disposed of us his

PERSONAL MENTION

Of Those Going and Coming

Miss Louise Long, of Stateville, came in Monday evening to visit her father Hon. B. F. Long at the Macon Hotel.

F. M. Hodges and T. H. Bateman went to Raleigh this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Zeno Moore and son Harry, left this morning for Whitakers.

Mrs. A. A. Wright, of Parkton, who had been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. A. Hornaday left this morning.

F. M. Hornaday went to Rocky Mount this morning.

N. H. Whitefield went to Wilmington this morning.

Early Closing.

We understand that the merchants of the town will this evening begin closing their stores at 7 o'clock, except on Saturdays. This is a good step. Now let the patrons of the stores bear this in mind and arrange to do their shopping early so the stores can close at 7 o'clock.

Fire Near Grindool

Between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning the pack house, a building formerly used as the Alwood postoffice, the barn, stable, and other outbuildings, with their contents, on the land of J. E. Page, near Grindool, were destroyed by fire.

The loss is about $1,000. The buildings were situated near the railroad, and as a log train had passed a few minutes before the fire occurred it is supposed to have caught from sparks from the engine.

Black Jack Next Saturday.

County Organizer A. A. Forbes will be at Black Jack next Saturday, 5th, for the purpose of organizing a club of the Southern Cotton Growers Association. Let all the people of that section be present to hear him speak and give their support to the association. He has recently organized local clubs in several sections of the county.

THE WEATHER

Showers tonight, cooler in eastern portion, Wednesday fair.

May is with us.

honor told us to come home and here we are ready for business, and the sooner that business puts in appearance the bigger we will feel. We want everybody to help us to get the news and aid in making the Ayden department in The Reflector a credit. Every item furnished and any assistance rendered in this particular will be highly appreciated and if proper efforts are made we apprehend no fear as to the future results for Ayden. Our space is limited hence condensing matters but we mean business and we want all interested in the prosperity of Ayden and community to give us their assistance and we promise to do our best. Then let us work a pull and pull together.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

Some Queer Words to Be Found in the English Language.

"Bob," said Tom, "which is the most dangerous word to pronounce in the English language?"

"Don't know," said Tom, "unless it's a swearing word."

"Pooh!" said Tom. "It's stumpled, because you are sure to get a tumble between the first and the last letter."

"Ha, ha!" said Bob. "Now I've got one for you. I found it one day in the paper. Which is the longest word in the English language?"

"Incomprehensibility," said Tom promptly.

"No, sir. It's smiles, because there's a whole mile between the first and last letter."

"Ho, ho!" cried Tom. "That's nothing. I know a word that has over three miles between its beginning and ending."

"What's that?" asked Bob faintly.

"Beleaguered," said Tom. — Indianapolis Star.

Elephant Tag.

Each child takes the name of an animal—dog, cat, kangaroo, panther or anything he wishes—but one must be the elephant, and one must be the mouse. The elephant tries to catch all the animals except the mouse, and the mouse tries to catch the elephant. If the elephant touches one of the animals that animal must go into the menagerie, probably the front yard. He tries to get all the animals into the menagerie without getting caught by the mouse. If there are many children there can be two elephants and two mice. If one of the elephants is caught he is put into the menagerie, too, but he can be rescued if the other elephant touches him.

Things You Can't Do.

They say the following things can't be done. Try them and see for yourselves:

You can't stand for five minutes without moving if you are blindfolded.

You can't stand at the side of a room with both of your feet lengthwise touching the wainscoting.

You can't crush an egg when placed lengthwise between your hands—that is, if the egg is sound and has the ordinary shell of a hen's egg.

You can't get out of a chair without bending your body forward or putting your feet under it—that is, if you are sitting squarely on the chair and not on the edge of it.

Did Not Apply.

While Willie was spending his holiday at his aunt's he chanced one day to place his elbows on the table during dinner.

"My dear boy," said his aunt, "don't you know that children of the first families must never put their elbows on the table?"

"Oh, well," replied Willie, "that doesn't apply to me, for my father's been married twice, and I belong to the second family."

Care of Books.

When bookcases are to be closed for some time sprinkle a few drops of the oil of lavender on the shelves to prevent the molding of the books.

GLASSMAKING.

Thebes' Workers Were Adepts In the Art Forty Centuries Ago.

The glass blowers of ancient Thebes are known to have been as proficient in that particular art as is the most scientific craftsman of the same trade of the present day, after a lapse of forty centuries of so called "progress." They were well acquainted with the art of staining glass and are known to have produced that commodity in great profusion and perfection. Rosselini gives an illustration of a piece of stained glass known to be 4,000 years old, which displayed artistic taste of high order both in tint and design. In this case the color is struck through the vitrified structure, and he mentions designs struck entirely in pieces from a half inch to three-quarters of an inch thick, the color being perfectly incorporated with the structure of the piece and exactly the same on both the obverse and reverse sides.

The priests of Ptah at Memphis were adepts in the glassmaker's art, and not only did they have factories for manufacturing the common crystal variety, but they had learned the vitrifying of the different colors and the imitation of precious stones to perfection. Their imitations of the amethyst and of the various other colored gems were so true to nature that even now, after they have lain in the desert sands from 2,000 to 4,000 years, it takes an expert to distinguish the genuine articles from the spurious.

It has been shown that besides being experts in glassmaking and glass coloring they used the diamond in cutting and engraving glass. In the British museum there is a beautiful piece of stained glass with an engraved emblazonment of the monarch Thothmes III., who lived 3,400 years ago.

To Stop a Baby's Crying.

A physician told a young mother how to silence her crying babe.

"Lay the child on its back," he said, "and with your thumb and forefinger close its nostrils gently. The sudden stoppage of its breath will surprise it immoderately. Its howls will at once cease."

"But the cruelty"—the mother began.

"Cruelty? Nothing of the kind," said the physician. "There is nothing cruel in stopping a baby's breath for a second or two. Try this method. I have tried it on dozens of babies and never have known it to fail."

"Perhaps I'll try it," said the mother in a cold voice.—New York Press.

"Gee! I thought so."

"Why did you think so?"

"It—it started half a dozen revolutions in me stomach."—Chicago Daily News.

The Louisburg Times has taken another stride to the front, having enlarged from four to eight pages. The Times is always all right.

They are awful stories of looting that come from San Francisco. The sight seems to have left their conscience at home and are stealing every thing they can lay hands on.

If State Senator Toms, of Henderson county, wants to leave the Democratic party and join the Republicans it is his own affair. No doubt the former will be able to get along without him.

Wonder was the government playing for unmerited praise. There was much blowing of trumpets over appropriations aggregating $2,500,000 to aid the San Francisco sufferers, when here come the announcement that only $300,000 of it available. Looks like sailing under false colors.

When people look at a town with an idea of locating there, they want to see some advantage in it. The town that does not hold out inducements is not going to get any considerable number of the new home seekers. A man is not going to settle in a town just for the privilege of paying taxes. Have something for people to do, and encourage every enterprise.

A trust is a most undesirable thing to have other men running, but not so bad if you run it yourself.

RAILROADS VIOLATING THE SUNDAY LAW.

One hundred and sixteen cars of freight passed through Laurinburg last Sunday week. Why do the good people of North Carolina sit idly by and see the laws of the State, the laws of God and the laws of decency outraged and trampled beneath the feet of the railroads? Is it because the railroad is a great corporation? Is the railroad such a power that the laws of the State cannot reach them? If the business men of North Carolina, the mills and the manufacturing plants throughout the State were to open their doors for business on Sunday and get the looms and spindles in motion, there would be a great wail of distress sent up from every quarter of North Carolina. Yet they would be doing just what the railroad company does every Sunday. What is the explanation? Can it be that this great corporation think what they say by their action, that the State's laws are not sufficient to reach them? And it does seem that the law is badly crippled and is afraid to say to this great corporation, "Thou shalt not!"—Laurinburg Exchange.

SCHOOL RECORDS SHOULD REVEAL SPECIAL NEEDS.

In delaying the adoption of adequate records and accounts, educators, whether in New York or in other cities, must have overlooked the important fact that a system which fails to disclose weakness, inefficiency, and unsatisfied needs must also conceal strength, efficiency, and progress; to oppose revision is, therefore, to deny a school system the privilege of proving its true worth and of securing the generous financial and moral support to which it is entitled. A searchlight directed upon every city from its educational headquarters, and from educational bureaus of State and nation, will reveal social needs that otherwise escape notice: will, by prompt notice of children, families, and districts needing attention, materially strengthen every private and public child-saving agency and render the schools themselves more efficient in preventing ignorance, truancy, crime and dependence. One negligent New York truant officer, or one Philadelphia teacher who fails to tell of truancy because "the truant makes trouble," can manufacture work for a score of child-saving agencies; indifference to children illegally employed will furnish relief societies with clients for generations to come. If the highest purpose of the public school is to teach citizenship rather than scholarship, to develop moral, industrial, and civic efficiency, what better first step than for teacher and director to practice what they teach, and discharge their duty as trustees by rendering account of their stewardship in such a way as to make possible and necessary the hearty, because intelligent, cooperation of their community in support of every demonstrably sound, efficient school policy?—From "The Demand for Better School Reports," by William H. Allen, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for May.

PACTOLUS SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT
ADDRESS BY PROF. W. H. RAGSDALE.

Miss Charlotte W. S. Ireland entertained quite a large crowd at Pactolus public school house Friday evening, with tableaux and recitations rendered by the children. This was given in observance of "North Carolina day." Recitations and tableaux represented and covered that period from Colonial days to the present time, showing the development and resources of the "Old North State." Each child did his or her part well, and reflected much credit on their teacher who is recognized as one of the most efficient in the State.

After the recitations Prof. W. H. Ragsdale entertained the audience for one and a half hours, in which time he talked convincingly of the necessity of education, and urged parents and guardians to send their children to school, even if they were compelled to make a sacrifice to do so, as the result of so doing would repay them double fold in years to come.

Miss Ireland's school will close May 4th it being the end of the present term, and the patrons unite in hearty approval and appreciation, of the superior training and rapid advancement of their children, while under the care and surveillance of this efficient teacher and they will spare no effort in trying to secure her services for the next term.

This the closing term has been one the most prosperous and instructive the school has ever known.

OCCUPATION FOR WOMEN.

Nearly 5,000,000 women go to work every day in the United States—go to paid work, whether the returns be $2 a week or $10,000 a year. Sixty years ago Harriet Martineau, while visiting America declared that he found here but seven occupations for women—teaching, needlework, taking boarders, typesetting, employment in cotton mills, book-binding and domestic service. Now there are scarcely seven occupations closed to them. They are pouring out into the world of activities, and the 5,000,000 will be 6,000,000 at the next counting.—Success Magazine.

No "Broken In"

ONE characteristic of the "Queen Quality" Custom Made (order direct) shoes. Too many shoes are like the wooden bars over which they are made—hard and unyielding. They have to be "broken in" by a slow and tedious process to conform to the foot, the original lines must be changed. The shoe thus formed is sore and chafed. "Queen Quality" Shoes "Come Lasting" because they fit perfectly with a finished fit. The shoe conforms to the foot as does a glove to the hand. There are over fifty styles of shoes.

GREENVILLE COTTON MARKET,

REPORTED BY

J. R. & J. G. MOYE,

Middling 11

The most luxurious Van Dyke beard has its starting point.

The town pump doesn't know half as much as the town gossip.

In his desk the literary man like to have lots of chubby-holes.

The clock tinker cannot make good time when his hands are tied. Churches open later and close earlier than saloons.

THE DIET QUESTION.

Eat What You Like, What Agrees With You, but Eat Slowly.

That instinct is a much better guide to diet than faulty reasoning is the conclusion of Dr. Woods Hutchinson, writing on dietetic fads in McClure's Magazine. Here are some of his findings condensed:

Men should eat what they like and a good deal of it. "Given our age, sex, size, horsepower and the work to be done, the suitable fuel is only a question of cost and accessibility."

Fish is no richer in phosphorus than many other foods. Even if it were it would not therefore be "good for the brain," as some suppose.

Spices do not "heat the blood." That notion confounds the "hot" taste with actual heat. Spices are antiseptic. The Egyptians preserved mummies in spices. In tropical countries people eat more spices than in cold ones, and the diet does them good.

Pork is all right. It digests slowly, but that is an advantage. The more rapidly digested foods are not the most healthful. The digestive machinery must have work to do like the rest of the body.

Vegetarianism is "the diet of the enslaved, stagnant and conquered races." A diet rich in meat is that of the dominant races.

Few people who eat much meat ever become consumptive. "Tuberculosis sweeps like a pestilence through the grass and grain eaters—cattle, antelopes, chickens, pheasants, turkeys—but is decidedly rare among meat eaters—dogs, cats, tigers, lions, civets, badgers, hawks, eagles, crows."

Breakfast foods are well enough if you must have them, but "be sure and eat your breakfast first."

White bread "is the best, most healthful and most nutritious food which the sun has ever grown from the soil." Wars have always been fiercest for the possession of the great wheat growing plains. No nation eats brown bread when it can get white. Instinct is here also correct. Whole wheat meal, or "graham," contains more nitrogen than white, but the white has more "available" nitrogen.

"Mush makes a superb 'sour mash' in a weak stomach." "The tortures of the chronic dyspeptic are aggravated and in very many cases chiefly caused by the very foods which he takes for their cure." The chief value of "mush and milk" (meaning also other coarse cereal foods) is in the milk and sugar.

Eat slowly, eat what you like, what agrees with you and as much as you need, seems to be Dr. Hutchinson's idea.

NO ENGLISH BILLIONAIRES.

In Great Britain the Sum Is Too Vast For Reckoning.

"If you had a billion dollars," began Judson.

"I haven't that much about my clothes," returned Wagstaff, "but if you want it only for a month or so perhaps"—

"Oh, quit your guff," said Judson severely, "and learn something. If you had a billion dollars and took it to England with you, how much money would you have over there?"

"Very little after paying the steward's fees and tips on board ship," admitted Wagstaff. But Judson went on with the cold, calm determination which characterizes a man who has just learned a new fact and is resolved at any cost to impart it to his friends.

"You would not have a billion when you struck British soil, though you had every dollar with which you left here, for in Great Britain a billion is a million millions, while in France and the United States it is only a thousand millions. It is possible for a man to be a billionaire in this country or France, but no one is ever likely to be a billionaire in Great Britain. The English use of the word is the older and more correct, and how we ever came to take the French style I don't know. I imagine it was because it was handy to have something to jump to after you said million. Anyway, nobody ever thought of talking billions in ordinary conversation until late in the sixteenth century. The term was known only to scientists and great mathematicians, and even the great philosopher, John Locke, speaks of the word as a 'novelty.'"

"People used to think and count in thousands then, but nowadays we are as familiar with millions as our ancestors were with hundreds and speak of billions as they used to speak of thousands, so much vaster has the world grown. I suppose in future years trillions and quadrillions, quintillions and sextillions will be as familiar in the mouths of men as millions and billions are now in ours. Yet, as a matter of fact, you know, there are comparatively few people who are able to grasp the meaning of the term 'million.' We use it every day, but not many minds form a clear idea of what a million of anything would be."—New York Press.

Wrong In His Head.

A Yorkshire mill worker charged with having set fire to a large haystack was defended on the ground that he was not altogether responsible for his actions. One of the witnesses, a typical Yorkshire man, testified to the belief that the prisoner was "wrang in his heid."

"Can you mention any occasion on which the prisoner behaved in a manner to warrant your statement?" he was asked by the prosecuting counsel.

"Yes," answered the witness. "Ah mind once 'at he got hawf a crowr too much for his wage, an'—"

"Well?" said counsel as the witness hesitated.

"He took it back to t' manager!" concluded the witness amidst a roar of laughter.

Something Wrong.

"My dear," said the trusting wife, "I don't think your rules of economy are any good."

"You don't?" asked the fond husband.

"No," she replied, bending anew over the column of figures in her beautifully bound account book. "You told me the way to save money was not to buy things; that thus we would save the amount the goods would have cost us. So I have been careful to set down the exact price of everything I have wanted to buy, but felt I could not afford. I find, in adding it up, it amounts to $524, but I only have $1.50 in cash on hand. There must be something wrong with your theory."

Suspicious.

"If you want to be liked in a newspaper office," said the man at the desk, "you must be careful to write only on one side of the paper."

The youth with a bunch of manuscript looked at him suspiciously and exclaimed:

"No, you don't. I may look young, but I can see through some things. You want me to write my poetry on one side of the paper so that you can turn it over and use the other side for your long-winded articles about Europe. It's an economical idea, but I'm not so foolish."—Washington Star.

FOOTBALL IN CHINA.

The Game Was Playcd There Before the Christian Era.

Writing in the Nineteenth Century on "Football and Polo In China," Professor Giles asserts that the game of football at least was known during the Han dynasty before the beginning of the Christian era and was even then an imperial favorite and an object of censure.

The Emperor Ch'eng Ti was fond of football, but his officers represented to him that it was both physically exhausting and also unsuitable to the imperial dignity. His majesty replied, "We like playing, and what one chooses to do is not exhausting." An appeal was then made to the empress, who suggested the game of tiddlywinks for the emperor's amusement.

The ball as originally used by the Chinese was a round leather bag stuffed with hair. Bamboo poles were erected, and it was the aim of the contending sides to kick the ball over a net stretched on these poles. Some of the stories taken by Professor Giles from the old historians are not without application today. Thus of a Taoist priest of the sixteenth century, who was a good player, we read: "He used shoulders, back, breast and belly to take the place of his feet. He could withstand several antagonists, making the ball run around his body without dropping." And of a certain game played before a certain emperor on his birthday it is said that the winners "were rewarded with flowers, fruit, wine and even silver bowls and brocades. The captain of the losing side was flogged and suffered other indignities."

When Two Virginians Meet.

The first thing two Virginians do when they meet is to take a mint julep together. They next talk kin. If they are strangers to one another the first requisite is to locate and thus identify each other; then they take another julep. Then the wild hunt for relationship begins and generally ends in establishing cousinship from a first to a tenth degree from a marriage somewhere between 1650 and the present. Then they take another julep, and the conversation takes this turn and goes on for hours:

"You say you are one of the Randolphs of 'Curls?'"

"No, but my mother was a Page. Her mother was a Burwell. My great-grandmother was a Carry. My great-grandfather was a Lee. My great-great-grandmother was a Washington, and my great-great-great-grandfather was a Randolph of Tuckahoe, and, ah!"

Here another mint julep stops him.—Washington Post.

Jules Simon's Partridge.

When Jules Simon was ten years old he found a small red partridge dying in the snow. He took the bird home and warmed it into life. One of its legs had been broken, and Simon, seeing that the fracture was too bad for setting, amputated the leg with his pocketknife and replaced it with a wooden one. Two days later the partridge was as happy as possible, and the tick tack, tick tack of its wooden stump was to be heard all over the house. It became an inseparable companion of young Jules Simon, who named it Cornelia, and it followed him about wherever he went with the persistence of the little lamb. But one afternoon Cornelia was caught in a hailstorm and killed by the stones before Jules Simon could go to her help. And Jules Simon never ate partridge from that day to his death. A partridge always reminded him of Cornelia.—St. James Gazette.

WHAT GOOD PRICES FOR COTTON DOES.

The time was when a banker in a very dignified way was slow about letting a would-be borrower know whether he could be "accommodated." That was because wherever there was a dollar in this country to lend there were three men who wanted to borrow it, and the bankers could pick the man who had the best security and was the best moral risk. Now there is more money to lend and banks are seeking good loans. The Durham Herald says "They are actually begging you to borrow money in this town." It is true in other towns the banks are seeking borrowers of good moral standing who can give good security. That is, as the Herald says, proof of "good times" and proves that whenever you give the South good prices for its cotton every interest in the South prospers and money is easy.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Please Take Notice.

As this is campaign year and the time drawing near for candidates for the various offices to be coming from under cover, The Reflector wishes to give notice that hereafter a small charge will be made for all announcements of candidates, either by themselves or by their friends through communications. It is a heavy tax on newspapers to do all such work free, and the candidates have no right to expect it, but should be willing to pay for what they get just like other advertisers. Hereafter all such announcements or communications advocating any man for office will be charged for at the rate of one-half cent for each word. If you want such communications printed write them brief, count the words and send the money along with them.
