REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY.

The grand jury made the following report of the business done by them at the recent term of Superior court:

To His Honor, B. F. Long, judge presiding.

We, the grand jury for the term, beg to submit the following report:

We have acted on all bills coming before us except one and for that one we could not get the witnesses.

A committee composed of C. E. Spier, W. C. James and F. D. Gaskins were sent to investigate the county home and their report was accepted by the grand jury and is hereto attached.

We have visited the jail and find it in as good condition as could be expected under the circumstances. We most earnestly recommend that it be fitted up with a sewerage as soon as it is convenient to do so. The berth for the cells (as recommended by the last grand jury) have not been put in.

We have also visited the offices of the register of deeds and sheriff and find them in first class condition.

We find that the desk has not been purchased for the clerk's office nor have the books in register office where land is recorded, been re-indexed as recommended by the last grand jury.

We find that the court house needs cleaning and repairing where the plastering has dropped off and should be whitewashed to the upper and lower rooms.

The wooden floor for the sheriff's office has not been put in we recommend that this be done as soon as possible.

We find there are not sufficient seats in the hall way for witnesses wanting to go before the grand jury and recommend that more be provided.

Respectfully Submitted,
Walter Mewborn, Foreman.

This May 2nd 1906.

To the foreman and gentlemen of grand jury:

We your committee appointed to investigate the home for the aged and infirm beg to submit the following:

We find that the inmates are pretty well cared for, we saw all of them and they state that their superintendent is very kind to them furnishing them plenty to eat and good clothes and bedding with plenty of wood for fires in winter. The buildings are being repaired, as recommended by last grand jury. We found the farm in splendid condition planted in corn and vegetables, we also found a nice lot of hogs and poultry for the use of the home.

We recommend that a small cooking stove be bought for a kitchen occupied by the Cambells.

We find that some work has been done to the cemetery in the way of filling up the graves and clearing off the bushes. We most earnestly recommend that a fence of some kind be made around the cemetery and that head and foot pieces be placed at the grave either of wood or stone.

Respectfully submitted,
C. E. Spier,
W. C. James,
H. L. Gaskins.

April term 1906.

ALL THE MONEY ON EARTH.

Amounts to $12,000,000,000 and We Possess One-Sixth.

The total stock of money in gold, silver and uncovered paper in the whole world amounts in round figures to $12,000,000,000. In the United States the total stock of money amounts to about $2,000,000,000. Hence we have in our own purse one-sixth of all the cash of the globe.

These figures—and this is a fact which must be emphasized—do not represent the wealth of nations. Far from it. These figures represent merely the available hard cash. Divide this hard cash of the earth among the inhabitants thereof and each man, woman and child would have $10. But divide the hard cash of the United States among the people thereof and each of us would have $25. And there is one respect in which the people of a foreign country would have the better of us individually.

Were each nation to divide its cash among its own people each living human being in France would have $35, or $10 more than each person in our country under similar circumstances. Meanwhile, the divided cash of Great Britain would give each Briton only $18; in Germany the cash per capita would amount to only $17. Russia $8 and Japan $3, while in Cuba each person would get a $2 bill.

One twenty-fifth of all the cash in gold in the world is stored in New York alone. This gold, this symbol and synonym of wealth, comes like all things else. Here, again, we lead all nations, for we ourselves produce one-third of all the gold on the earth, as we produce one-third of all the silver.

Our chief contributors to this product are the mines of Colorado, South Dakota, California, Utah, Montana, Oregon, Arizona, New Mexico and Alaska. Consider merely Cripple Creek! As under a magician's wand that region has in 14 years developed until it now covers at least 130 square miles, with many city and towns connected one with another by rail. Here is an earnest, sober population, engaged in the business of extracting precious metals from the mountains to the tune, some years, of $25,000,000. So much for the work of man in securing the raw material for money.

We Need This.

There is not a single place of public resort in or near Greenville, a town of five thousand inhabitants, a great many busy, very busy business men, and no where for them to go and spend an hour or more in recreation. There should by all means be some such place. Men who work their brains all day in a close office ought at least have the opportunity of diversion. Cannot some one start up something of the kind. The town ought to own a park near by where its citizens could spend a leisure hour when they wish.

THE MEETING.

The Gospel Preached With Wonderful Power By Dr. Beaman.

At 8 o'clock last night the song and prayer service began at the Methodist church, and continued for half an hour. This preliminary service was in itself gracious and uplifting, and it prepared the congregation for the great message that followed, delivered by the elegant Dr. Beaman.

His text was selected from Psalms 51:12-13. "Restore unto me the joy of Thy salvation; and uphold me with Thy free spirit. Then will I teach transgressors Thy way; and sinners shall be converted unto Thee."

He said that David's marvelous power to sing grew out of a profound consciousness that his life was in harmony with God. And this blessed consciousness filled his soul with a rapturous. But his consciousness of harmony with God, and the unspeakable joy that grew out of this consciousness did exempt him from temptations and the possibility of falling.

And the time came when David was tempted, for one brief moment he ceased his joyous singing, listened to the pleasant voice of the tempter, tripped and fell in an awful sin, and his glowing sun went into a most disastrous eclipse.

Now David's grief and shame were as deep and sincere as had been his joy, and so he cried out "Restore unto me the joy of Thy salvation."

He said the trouble of this day is, that no power of earth or Heaven seems adequate to convict sinners of the folly and danger of sin, and that no power can save until this is done.

After the sermon quite a number of the members of the church came to the altar of the church and re-consecrated themselves to Him whose we are. It was a very precious services.

At 10:30 this morning, Dr. Beaman made quite an interesting talk on the subject of Consecration. He said a consecrated church is a victorious church; a prevailing church, a growing church. An unconsecrated church is a powerless church; a defeated church; a dying church. An unconsecrated church is constantly compromising itself with the world until it becomes so wedded to worldliness until it loses all its power and Almighty God leaves it in sadness if not in disgust, and without God in it of course it is a failure.

Consecration means absolute subjection to the will of God in all things at all times and at any cost, and this is the supreme triumph of grace in the soul.

Worldliness in all forms disqualifies us for usefulness, you may say what you please about the modern dance, card parties &c., one thing certain, those who indulge such things are not useful members of the church.

At the close of the service a proposition was made to the members of the church to consecrate themselves fully to the service of God, and almost everyone present promptly responded by bowing at their seats.

Services tonight at 8 o'clock, and tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

THE CHICAGO VICTORY FOR MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP A REAL ONE.

The simple truth, therefore, is that the mayor's victory is the most significant victory for municipal ownership Chicago has yet witnessed. The vote for the mayor's propositions, as the Record-Herald, which has been a candid critic of the Dunne administration, has recognized, is a vote which represents honest conviction and intelligent determination. The jubilant comment of the opponents of municipal ownership is the shallow comment of persons who make their prejudices father to their thoughts. To quote Dr. Graham Taylor, "It is far wide of the mark to think that there is not an overwhelming sentiment in Chicago in favor of municipal ownership and control of public utilities." True, municipal operation has been approved by the requisite three-fifths majority. But it commanded a substantial majority. Paradoxically enough this majority was larger than that of the ownership and anti-franchise propositions. The explanation of this paradox is, doubtless, this,—that the unintelligent heeled and spoilsmen and machine benchmen had been instructed to "kill" the $75,000,000 proposition, that being the most vital of all, and they had not sufficient sense to infer that a "No" vote on that question necessarily implied opposition to municipal operation as well.—From "Immediate Municipal Ownership in Chicago, a Year After," by an Impartial Observer, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for May.

Scholars Should Alternate in Using Arms in Order to be Evenly Developed.

William H. Maxwell, chairman of the school board of superintendents, has issued another of his notable orders concerning the routine of the public schools. He intends to remedy one cause of spinal curvature in pupils by ordering them to carry fewer books and to carry them in a certain way. His order is as follows:

Pupils should be required to carry their books on the right side of the even days of the month, and on the left side on the odd days. This applies to the changing of classrooms and to the carrying home of books. This is done to avoid one cause of spinal curvature. The number of books carried should be reduced to a minimum."

Maxwell's idea is to give both sides of the body the same strain, so that the development may be equal. For example, if two books be carried in the right hand today, two books should be carried in the left tomorrow.

The superintendent has arranged so that the number of books carried by pupils of various ages shall be graded. The lower the grade and the smaller the child, the fewer the volumes he or she will be required to take home. He has also planned that at the next meeting of parents of school children they be notified that the pupils should study at home only for certain lengths of time, according to ages.—N. Y. American.

The Laziest Man.

"The laziest man I ever saw," said a traveling man, as the Philadelphian Records tells it, "was a station agent in a little one-house village in Idaho. After I had finished what business I could do in the town, I went down to the railroad station to buy a ticket for my next stop.

"The lazy station master sat on a broken down office chair, his feet on the desk. When I asked for the ticket, he slowly reached up to the rack, drew it out, handed it to me, and took my money without bestowing a glance upon me or moving from his chair.

"That's the laziest thing I ever saw I said to him. If you can do anything lazier than that, I'll give you this dollar."

"Without the slightest curiosity or even interest the loafer drawled, 'Put it in my pocket,' and I did."

Over Two Hundred Cars.

Over three million quarts, quite a hundred thousand crates, in 206 solid refrigerated cars, of strawberries went north through South Rocky Mount Tuesday, the shipments during the day having broken the record, perhaps, for several seasons. At the low net average of 10 cents per quart the value of the shipments to Eastern North Carolina in the same day will be in the neighborhood of $300,000.

A Tax on Vanity.

The American colony in Rome is suffering from a tax on vanity. The municipal authorities have increased the income tax of American residents not on any actual return of income, but based entirely on external symptoms of the wealth of every inhabitant. The tax agent goes through the files of all the local society papers, and as it is found that the Americans in society like to have their dances and dinners noted in the papers the agent simply taxes the Americans in accordance with their social prominence and the luxury of their entertainments. The English have learned this clever move of the tax collector, and they keep out of the papers.—Argonaut.

Greatest of Chain Cables.

What are said to be the largest chain cables ever made for ships' use have been turned out in south Wales for the new quadruple screw turbine Cunarders. The iron bar used in making the links is three and three-quarter inches in diameter at the smallest part. Each link is about twenty-two and one-quarter inches long and weighs about 160 pounds. When tested for strength, the breaking stress of 265.7 tons required by law, instead of fracturing these gigantic links, simply elongated them about an inch. With the highest stress that the testing machine could give, about 370 tons, the links showed no signs of cracks or fracture.

European School Holidays.

The Russian schoolboy has the best time as regards holidays, for the education authorities allow four weeks in spring, five weeks in summer, a fortnight in autumn and a fortnight in winter. In most other continental countries practically all the holidays are taken in the summer, only a very few days being granted for the New Year and Easter. In France the summer vacation lasts from Aug. 1 to Oct. 1; in Austria, from July 15 to Sept. 15; in Greece, from Aug. 1 to Sept. 20; in Norway, from July 5 to Aug. 25; in Turkey, from the end of June to the middle of August.

Raising Sunken Ships.

Sunken ships may now be refloated by means of acetylene gas. An experiment was tried successfully on a ten ton boat in the river Seine. The boat was raised by means of small balloons inflated below the water with acetylene gas generated from the solid carbide of calcium. The inventor, M. Ducasse, professes to foresee the application of the invention to ships to prevent their foundering in collisions.

GREENVILLE, N. C.

Mr. Sidener had made his first public speech. His subject was good—the iniquities of industrial economy—and he hoped his treatment had been adequate. He was not sure. He waited for his wife's verdict, but she was strangely silent.

She had listened to him from the gallery of the town hall, and he had half expected her to meet him at the door afterward and to say as soon as they were out of hearing, "Oh, it was simply great, Eddy!" But they were halfway home, and she had said nothing of the kind.

"Well," he began awkwardly when he could bear it no longer, "what did you think of my speech?"

"What you said was all right," she answered, with guarded enthusiasm. "But it seemed to me you didn't make the most of your opportunities."

"Opportunities?" repeated Mr. Sidener. "What do you mean, Eddy?"

"Why," Mrs. Sidener replied, "you had ever so many chances to sit down before you did."

Origin of the Name "Puss."

A great many years ago the people of Egypt, who had many idols, worshipped the cat, among others. They thought she was like the moon because she was more active at night and because her eyes changed like the moon, which is sometimes full and at other times only a light crescent, or, as we say, a half moon. Did you ever notice pussy's eyes change? So they made an idol of a cat's head and named it Pasht. The same name they gave to the moon, for the word means the face of the moon. The word has been changed to "Pas" and "Pus" and has come at last to be "puss," the name the most of us give to the cat. Pass and pussy cat are pet names of kitty anywhere now. Who ever thinks of the name as given to her thousands of years ago and the people who bowed down and prayed to her?

Tact is born with some men and women, like the supple, delicate fingers of the artist's hand, and those who have it use their gift instinctively. It is not measured alike to those who have it. Men possess it in different degrees, while others again are wanting in it altogether. It is the outcome of intellectual and temperamental qualifications and implies the possession of clear perceptions, quick imagination and delicate sensibilities. It is these that give the tactful person his subtle intuition of another's mental processes and modes of feeling and in the same moment exactly the right method of dealing with these.

What She Remembered.

"Now, Mrs. Jones," said the prosecuting attorney to the witness, "will you tell us what Mrs. Smith said just before the shooting?"

Mrs. Jones—Oh, that was so long ago that I can't remember what she did say. But she wore a plum colored dress, with a bolero coat and applique on the revers. And she wore a turban hat with a pompon on the left side, and as I am under oath I tell you now that it was a fright. Her skirt was made in seven gores, with a long flounce—

But here the prosecuting attorney succeeded in breaking in on the line.—Detroit Free Press.

None of the corporation officials on a salary have been heard to make any great howl over the law prohibiting them from making campaign contributions.

President Castro is coming as Maxim Gorky is going. We can't catch butterflies all the time.

Now they are trying to prove that Gen Knorki is really Hector McDonald. They might leave Japan a little credit in the war as long as she did not get an indemnity.

It is a little sad to think how many more things Paul Jones might have done if he had only had the $135,000 to work with that the nation is now spending on his tomb.

GREAT MILITARY AND NAVAL CELEBRATION.

Armies and Navies of the World to Participate in the Jamestown Exposition at Hampton Roads.

(By Frank Eberle.)
(Norfolk, Va.)

The greatest naval and military exposition of the age will open its gates on the historic shores of Hampton Roads April 26, 1907. It will be known as the Jamestown Exposition, in honor of the first permanent settlement of English speaking people in America. Three centuries of important events will be commemorated in this history-making exposition. Every acre of land and water around the exposition grounds has played a part in the great drama of events from the arrival of the frail vessels with their little colony of English pioneers. April 26, 1607, to the passing of the French and American fleets with the remains of the founder of the American navy, John Paul Jones, a few days ago.

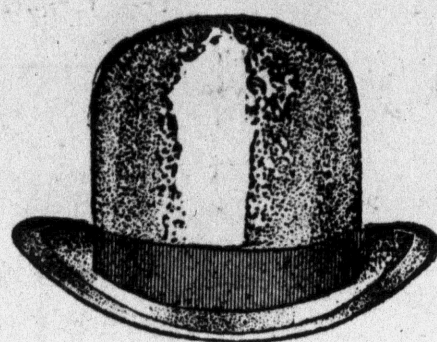

The first English settlers, who founded Jamestown, in 1607, and made the vast territory of Virginia an English colony, influenced the destiny of America and saved it from the clutches of Spain, then the most powerful nation on the sea. The importance of the settlement of Jamestown is therefore apparent, and the great exposition now in progress of preparation will be a worthy celebration of an event of such magnitude and far-reaching influence.

In the trying times of the American revolution the country around where the exposition is located was a bloody battle ground, and at Yorktown, but a few miles away, the last great British army surrendered to the Americans and the decisive blow was dealt which gave independence to the American colonies.

During the bloody war between the States, when two opposing ironclads met in battle for the first time, it was in the harbor of Hampton Roads, just off the point where the exposition grounds are located. The fight between the Monitor and the Merrimac was significant in more ways than one and denotes the passing of the wooden ships and the establishment of the ironclads in the great navies of the world.

The important events which have transpired in this locality led to the selection of this historic ground for the international exposition in which the great navies and armies of the world could be brought together in friendly parades and manoeuvres. The American Congress appropriated money to this grand affair and the President invited the nations of the world to participate in the Jamestown Exposition. It will be primarily a military and naval exposition, on the most extensive scale ever undertaken in any country, but there will be numerous other features to give it all of the attractions peculiar to world's fairs and great industrial and commercial expositions.

Give Us a Day Current.

A day current—a day current, Oh, if we only had a day current and in the busy days that will soon be here, the electric fans that would be used in our parlors would in itself more than pay for the extra expense, but to say the number of enterprises that would avail themselves of this power if they could get it. Let us have the day current.

RACES AT THE RINK.

Friday night at Center Brick skating rink there will be two races, one for boys under 14, and one for all above that age. Prizes for the winners. Admission 10 cents to all, no extra charge for skating.

Please Take Notice.

As this is campaign year and the time drawing near for candidates for the various offices to be coming from under cover, The Reflector wishes to give notice that hereafter a small charge will be made for all announcements of candidates, either by themselves or by their friends through communications. It is a heavy tax on newspapers to do all such work free, and the candidates have no right to expect it, but should be willing to pay for what they get just like other advertisers. Hereafter all such announcements or communications advocating any man for office will be charged for at the rate of one-half cent for each word. If you want such communications printed write them brief, count the words and send the money along with them.

An Early Egyptian Cow.

Some scientific grubber has dug the mummy of a cow from an Egyptian ash pile, and calculates that the animal dates back to 1700 B. C. Of course a cow of that age can have but little commercial value—outside of the cheaper boarding houses and railway restaurants, but the grubber thinks seriously of dusting her off and varnishing up her horns, and wiring her legs, and then using her as a choice museum or ornament. It will be admitted that there is something awe-inspiring in the thought that this disiccated animal once mood about the pyramids, and rasped her back against the Sphinx, and gazed with large unwinking eyes at the sacred crocodile of the Nile. Perhaps one of the well known Ptolemy family may partaken of her milk, and complained in choice early Egyptian because of the suspicious blueness. The venerable bossie while still a heifer possibly suffered from the corner in corn that has won for the patriarchical Joseph the pleasing approval of young Mr. Rockefeller.

Be that as it may, the venerable cow possesses a lineage that no amount of modern aristocratic pride can equal. She antedates history—she precedes the alphabet. A cow like that deserves kind treatment and fresh moth balls, and she should be carefully guarded—other wise the beef trust is pretty certain to kidnap her.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE SECURITY BOND SUIT.

Our now popular Mrs. Jane Hopkins "Security" Bond Suit originated last season in an attempt to furnish progressive dealers with a really meritorious boy's suit that can be sold at $5.00 with an unconditional guarantee of satisfaction or money back should the suit prove defective. After considerable experimenting as to fabrics, tailoring, improved features, such as Double seats, double double knees, extra strong thread, linings waist band, etc.

We succeeded in producing a guaranteed boy's suit that is proving a tremendous success with dealers now selling it. The "security" bond suit is good because it is so thoroughly reinforced throughout. Our success of last season has encouraged us to still greater efforts, and we are determined that the future of the Mrs. Jane Hopkins "Security Bond Suit" shall be a bright one from your standpoint and ours.

WHISTLING SOLDIERS.

An incident occurred in London recently which would have shocked the military officer of a century ago. A battalion of the Irish guards, led by two mounted officers, was marching along Oxford street to the merry accompaniment of a fife and drum band. Suddenly, with a flourish of drumsticks, the music ceased, and for a little time the soldiers tramped along with a solemn and steady tread. A boy came up a side street whistling the song of the moment, "My Irish Molly, O." A soldier in a fit of abstraction joined in. The refrain was immediately taken up by the others, and it flew to the front and rear ranks, until presently the whole battalion marched to its own whistling accompaniment. - London Mail.

Don't Rush.

The best work of the world is not done by those who hurry. The Japanese does all things well because he always has wrought with the idea of doing the work in hand perfectly rather than with the idea of getting it done by a particular moment.

"Melican man work eight hour (and is worn out). "China boy work daylight, dark. He no care," because he never bustles. If you watch his deliberate strokes in sawing and splitting wood you laugh and say he is "soldiering." But if you watch long enough you observe that he keeps at it steadily, accomplishing as much as anybody, wasting neither muscular nor nervous force, and ending the day with his potentiality seemingly unimpaired. - Chicago News.

Takes the Whole Road.

"Broughams are now very noticeable in Peking, occupied principally by Chinese officials and often their wives and children," says the Peking and Tientsin Times. "They not only run on the broad macadamized roads, but up the narrow side streets to their houses. Of course to meet a cart is fatal, to the cart at least if heavily laden, which has to turn the best way it can, go back to some crossroad and allow the brougham to pass. In this instance there is no left or right of the road, but the whole road. The police are conspicuous by their absence in such places."

Scorch Stains.

Soak them overnight, one by one, in buttermilk or in loppered milk. Next day rinse in pure tepid water and lay in the sun. The second night soak in pure water. Finally wash in the usual way. Scorched spots should be dealt with as other stains.

RESEMBLANCE TO SHAW.

A. G. Hales, the war correspondent, writing in London Opinion and Today on the unequal talent to be found in the house of commons, tells a story he heard of a coxcomb who was once mistaken for Bernard Shaw. He and Mr. Shaw were once in the same Turkish bath, lying on slabs, with towels over their faces. The attendant came along and touched the coxcomb on the shoulder. "Ready, Mr. Shaw?" he said. The coxcomb bounded to his feet, all aglow with pleasure at being mistaken for a man of intellect. After he had been rubbed down he gave the attendant half a sovereign, for so full was he of the pride that goeth before a fall. As he turned to go he said, "Er—my man—er—what made you mistake me for Bernard Shaw?" The attendant grinned. "Er—well, sir, you see, sir, you 'ave the same sized feet."

To Weigh the World.

This world is to be weighed once more, doubts being entertained by scientists as to the accuracy of previous estimates. But whether the error be a case of short weight or overweight has yet to be settled. An expedition is to set out in Egypt, where the great pyramid will be utilized by the investigators. First, the weight of the pyramid will be ascertained and then the weight of the earth estimated from its proportionate size. The swinging of pendulums will be the gauge. From the force exerted by the pyramid in pulling the swinging pendulum from its natural course the weight of the pyramid can be estimated, and that of the earth—the exact size of which is known—can then be calculated easily.

A Model Landlord.

Lord Cadogan is known as one of the best landlords in London. When North street, Chelsea, was remodeled a short time ago Lord Cadogan was approached by a syndicate which asked him to sell the property to them. To which the earl replied:

"I will sell it, but I must insist upon your granting new leases to every one who is in that street, so that no one is turned out for five years and so that they will have ample notice."

That made a difference of £50,000 to Lord Cadogan. In other words, if he had sold it outright without a condition of that sort he would have got £50,000 more than he did.

Children and Studying.

Dr. Dukey, a German specialist, as the result of numerous and systematic observations on school children and older students, fixes the amount of intellectual work compatible with the normal development as follows: For pupils from five to eight years of age, ten hours a week; eight to ten years, twelve hours; ten to twelve years, twenty-one hours; twelve to fourteen years, twenty-five hours; fourteen to fifteen years, thirty hours; fifteen to sixteen years, thirty-five hours; sixteen to seventeen years, forty hours; seventeen to eighteen years, forty-five hours, and eighteen to nineteen years, the maximum of fifty hours.

"Madam" Replaces "Lady."

"Have you noticed how completely the word 'madam' has superseded the hitherto ubiquitous 'lady' in public places?" said an observant woman in conversation the other day. "Where formerly one heard 'Fare, please, lady,' 'What'll you have, lady?' or 'This way, lady, please,' 'madam' is now substituted in every case. One is so addressed in shops and other public places, in cars, everywhere in fact. What has brought about the change of idiom? It prevails now to a certain extent in all eastern cities, but to a specially marked degree in Manhattan." - New York Press.

Oysters as a Nerve Cure.

Over in France, says What to Eat, there has been discovered what is called the oyster cure for nervousness. It consists in eating all the oysters a person can consume to the exclusion of other foods until the cure is effected. The theory is that in nervous disorders an excessive amount of phosphorus is eliminated from the system. This loss can be compensated by taking food containing a large amount of phosphorus. It is said a patient taking this cure can eat oysters fresh from the sea at the rate of about six dozen a day.

THE GORGEOUS EAST.

Luxury and Squalor Are Closely Linked In India.

Opulence and poverty are close companions in India. An observer writes: "One of the first objects that caught my attention when I began to look about me in Bombay was a man in very conspicuous vesture. His head was crowned by a large and showy turban, folded with bands of gold, and he wore a robe of rose tinted satin, with pendant earrings of pearl and a necklace of amethysts and emeralds. But when I looked below these splendors I found them supported by legs in frayed cotton pajamas and feet shuffling upon old carpet slippers. And when I came to know more it seemed to me that this figure was typical of India, in its strange mixture of pomp and squalor, of gorgeousness and grime, of luxury and discomfort, of gold and ashes, of ideal beauty and naked, realistic wretchedness.

"There is a certain amount of luxury with an absence of elementary necessities, more show than comfort. There are places where a silver ewer is more easily to be got than enough clean water to wash your hands or a glass of it pure enough to drink. The Anglo-Indian expects to sit down to a meal of four courses in the midst of the wilderness, but he does not hope to get a slice of nourishing fresh beef or mutton. His elaborate menu at dinner is largely made up of the flesh of animals which have been running about the compound at lunchtime or whose bodies have been conveyed to him in tins from Australia and America. There are many places where he can have iced champagne, but not milk which can be put into his tea with safety.

"Life is very public in India. Most of the bungalows have no internal passages. All rooms open into one another or upon the veranda, and if you want to know if anybody is at home the simplest way is to lift up the curtain and look in. Lastly, the luxury is compatible with the denial of some things, without which we suppose that existence would stand still. You cannot say that the drains are good or that they are bad in an Indian house, for as a rule there are no drains. The sanitary arrangement is precisely that which prevailed in England in the fifteenth century and in Scotland in the eighteenth.

"And the 'gorgeous east,' with its external glitter and its inward limitations, comes home to us again when we reflect that a man who perhaps rides abroad with a cavalry escort before a salaaming multitude lives at home under conditions which no English town council would permit if they were inflicted on a day laborer in a common lodging house."—Chicago News.

The Mustache.

The wearing of mustaches is such a universal custom that we might suppose it never had a special meaning or beginning. But the fact is that it did have a beginning several hundred years ago and served a very important purpose for awhile. For several centuries the Moors had possession of Spain, but were finally conquered or driven out by the Christians. The Moors were believers in Mohammedanism, and, having made many converts, it was not always an easy matter to tell a Mohammedan from a Christian, and as there were constant conflicts between the people of the two religions the Christians decided to adopt some sign by which they could be distinguished from the unbelievers. So they let the hair grow on the upper lip and on the chin in order to produce as nearly as possible the form of a cross, and in that way they were able to recognize one another at all times and flock together in times of danger.

Well-Balanced Cats.

"Did you know that if you cut a cat's tail off she can't catch mice any more?" asked a young woman of another.

"I don't see why," replied the other, "and further, I can't imagine what occasion you have for cutting off a cat's tail to see."

"I haven't cut off any cat's tails, but an incident deprived our cat of its caudal appendage. The feline became as helpless as a ship without a rudder. When it tried to spring upon an object it would alight far to one side. The look of pained surprise on the cat's features was pathetic. After a while it learned to jump straight again, but it was a long time and painful experience for the poor cat. The balance of power and the power of balance seemed to lie in the tail of the cat."—Kansas City Times.
