QUINERLY SCHOOL CLOSES.

Splendid Speeches by Hon. L. I. Moore and Prof. J. B. Carlyle.

Pitt county has reached the distinction of having as fine a system of public schools as any county in the state, and of the excellent schools in the county Quinerly school near Grifton is surpassed by none. The session of this school just closed was taught by Miss Johnson, of Virginia as principal and Miss Gibson, of Scotland county as assistant. The work of these two young ladies was of such a high order, and so pleasing to both patrons and trustees, that both were unanimously re-elected for the next session.

During the past term of the school the enrollment reached 75. The school is conducted as a public school for six months and the people of the community by private subscription carry it on for two months longer.

In January last the building met with the misfortune of being destroyed by fire. Though a serious loss, the people were undaunted by this disaster and the school closed for only one week. During this time temporary quarters were secured and the school went on without further interruption to the end of the session.

A new building will be erected this summer in time for the next session, and it will be larger and even better than the one that was destroyed. So popular has the school grown with the people that the plan is to have three teachers next session, instead of two as heretofore, so that more children can be accommodated.

Because of not having a suitable building in which to hold them there could be no closing exercises by the pupils at the end of the past session. Instead of this it was decided to have a picnic and speaking. This took place Thursday and reflected the highest credit upon the good people of that section. It showed how they do whatever they undertake. A speaker stood surrounded by comfortable seats, and a large table for dinner were placed in the beautiful grove near the home of Mr. L. J. Chapman, and here gathered in large number as splendid specimens of manhood, womanhood, boys and girls as ever gazed such an occasion.

It was a splendid scene, and inspired the speakers to their best efforts. Hon. L. I. Moore was the first speaker. He congratulated the community upon its educational development and pointed to their splendid school as the result of unity of effort. He paid a just tribute to the noble work of pioneer teachers of the past, but said it made all hearts well with pride upon beholding the grand progress of these latter years. Comparing Pitt with other counties of the state, he said it was due in large measure to having the best county superintendent in the state in Prof. W. H. Ragsdale under whose wise direction the schools of Pitt county could be surpassed by none. Character, education and religion are the three principles that make perfect manhood and being instilled in the people as never before.

Mr. Moore then introduced Prof. J. B. Carlyle, of Wake Forest College. Prof. Carlyle prefaced his address with a handsome tribute to the county superintendent the teachers of the school and the people of the community in having such a school. He announced as his time "Carpe Diem," seize the day. Dividing his subject under different headings he discussed each masterfully. Seize the opportunity to labor; it is dignifying to labor with the hands. Seize the opportunity to labor with the head. There is nothing great in this world but man, and nothing great in man but mind. Seize the opportunity to love-love truth, love country, love humanity. Seize the opportunity of being physical, intellectual, moral, spiritual. Let us all have this great platform: "A chance for every boy and girl to have the best opportunity possible."

Prof. Carlyle's was a great speech—the speech of an orator, a master of thought and language, and he carried his hearers with him.

After the speaking a sumptuous dinner was spread from well filled baskets brought by the people of the community.

It was the pleasure of the writer to spend Wednesday night at the elegant home of Mr. J. P. Quinerly, and to attend the speaking and picnic Thursday. Pitt is a grand county, but in all her borders there is not a more delightful section than Quinerly.

GREENVILLE R. F. D. ROUTES.

What they Have Done the Past Month.

There are six rural free delivery mail routes operating from Greenville, and during the month of April these routes handled the following amount of mail:

No.	Deliv'd.	Col.	Total
1.	3449	526	3973
2.	2033	290	2329
3.	1630	249	1877
4.	2066	331	2392
5.	1893	429	2323
6.	2083	301	2385

All of the routes have made good increase in the amount of mail handled, but the majority of them should be further enlarged to keep them from coming under the government pruning axe. To be absolutely safe from curtailment the routes ought to handle as much as 3,000 pieces of mail each month. People living along these routes should do all they can to increase the quantity of mail handled. They should take papers themselves and get their neighbors to do likewise.

Building and Loan.

The Home Building and Loan Association of Greenville will begin business tomorrow, Saturday. Then an entrance fee of 25 cents on each share and the first weekly installment of 25 cents on each share will be due, and the secretary and treasurer, S. C. Wooten, will be in his office on Third street ready to receive these payments and issue receipts for same.

TOWN MATTERS.

Proceedings of the Aldermen.

The board of aldermen met in regular monthly session Thursday night, all the members being present.

The street committee reported the streets in fair condition, some new tiling has been put in.

It was decided to pay hands at the rate of 10 cents per hour for sprinkling streets.

The white cemetery committee reported connection had been made with the water main to provide water in the cemetery.

The lights and wells committee reported that three drinking fountains had been placed at convenient points in the tobacco section of the town.

The cemetery committee was instructed to have the property recently purchased to be added to the cemetery enclosed and laid off in lots. It was decided to make the price of the best lots in this new addition $150, the less desirable lots at $120, and the price of lots on the slope in the old part of the cemetery $80.

Other standing committees had no reports to make.

The different officers made reports for the past month.

The dispensary report showed purchases during the month of $3,016.37 and cash sales $880.50.

The report of the superintendent of the water and light plants showed five light customers and four water customers added during the month. Receipts for the month were $862.89.

A petition from business men and citizens in the section of the town near the depot for a policeman in that section of the town was presented. A committee consisting of the mayor and two aldermen was appointed to take this matter under investigation and make such recommendation as found advisable.

The following registrars, poll holders and voting places in each ward were named for the election for aldermen to be held the first Monday in June:

First ward—Registrar, H. Harding; poll holders, B. T. Bailay and W. E. McGowan. Voting place Eborn house.

Second ward—Registrar, J. D. Garden; poll holders, W. C. Hines and D. S. Spain. Voting place J. D. Garden's house on Pitt street.

Third ward—Registrar, L. W. Lawrence; poll holders, W. H. Rives and W. S. Atkins. Voting place court house.

Fourth ward—Registrar, H. A. Timberlake; poll holders, T. M. Hooker and Ollen Warren, Jr. Voting place J. J. Turnage's store on Five Points.

Fifth ward—Registrar, P. M. Johnson; poll holders, G. E. Cherry and A. H. Critcher. Voting place Centre Brick warehouse.

Accounts were allowed and ordered paid amounting to $1,803.31.

Post Office Service.

There will be an examination held in Washington, N. C. May 19th, 06, for the position of clerks and carriers in the Post Office service. For blanks and further information apply to Frank M. Hodges, Local Secretary, at Post Office.

THE MEETING.

Another Great Sermon by Dr. Beaman.

Reported for Reflector.

The song service at the Methodist church last night preliminary to the regular service was well attended and was inspiring and helpful to all present.

At eight twenty five o'clock Dr. Beaman arose and announced his text, Matt. 27:22 "What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ?"

He said Pilot had Christ on his hands and must of necessity dispose of Him some way. So every man and every community today has Christ on their hands, and must dispose of him some way. You may go to the ends of the world, or down to hell, but Christ follows there and this question ever confronts you. Greenville has Christ on its hands from morning till night and from night till morning. He goes into every home, place of business, social life, and everywhere, and this question is ever before you. He is right here tonight before every man, woman, or child and says you must crucify me or crown me. No matter what your theory may be, or your belief may be, it remains a fact that Christ comes and asks that question.

Christ comes into the political life of people and asks what will be done with Him here. This question must be answered, and if you do not accept Him you must go to wreck and ruin. No political life can long last refusing to recognize Christ.

Our Christ confronts the business life of our country, and goes out here and asks if you will run your business on a Christly system. He enters every counting room and notes every column of figures and asks if you are adding that column on Christly principals or does the greedy, covetous principal predominate.

And so Christ comes into our modern society and faces us in our social system and asks this question here. Jesus Christ is confronting the social life of our nation today and asks if you will have the Christ with its purity and permanency or will you have the worldiness and gayety that will end in its unbridled lust and ruin. This Christ is being crowded out of social life until the very mention of His name in our social life is an unwelcome thought. And today the most infamous thing that creeps and crawls upon the face of God's earth is society so-called. The very practices that prevail in the city of Rome working its ruin until Rome died. The processes of death were at work six hundred years, but it did die. The peril of our Southern society is Christlessness.

And so Christ stands before every home tonight and says, "Here am I." He will benefit the home, and take the motherhood and ennoble it, and bring it to the great task of training and uplifting until sanctified womanhood in its purity shall lift this old world through Christ to the very feet of God. A Godless home is the devil's best

ENGLISH DRUMMERS.

The Way Their Comfort is Looked After at the Hotels.

"Traveling men in England have special dining rooms, special rates and special lots of things," said a citizen of Manchester, England.

"When you go into the lobby of an English hotel you may be surprised to find a great open fire burning in one end of the room. Great, comfortable chairs will be found about the lobby, and you need not exclaim if you see several salesmen smoking long pipes and reposing their stockinged feet upon large foot stools. Empty shoes can be found in many portions of the room.

"The English lobby is a parlor or sitting room, a place of comfort, and in no instance bears the stiff, varnished, emblazoned appearance of your American hostelry. When you go to the dining room you may be surprised to hear the clerk ask if you are a traveling man. If you are you are ushered into a simply but homely furnished room containing one long table. The apartment is more like a private dining room, and everybody is everybody else's friend.

"The meal is especially served, the waiters show especial deference, and everything bears a tone of home life. As each man leaves the table he is seen to drop a halfpenny in a little box. This is an unwritten law of the land, and the money thus collected goes to pay for schools and orphanages for the children of traveling salesmen who die without leaving sufficient means for their support. Several of these schools and orphanages are maintained throughout England.

"English traveling salesmen take life easier than do the men following a similar occupation in America. They never think of entering a man's store with a lighted cigar, and they would as soon forget to wear a collar or coat as to expect to do business with a man without having their shoes carefully polished. All hotels look to this, and a 'boots' gets your shoes each night, marks them with chalk, polishes them and returns them before you are awake the next day." — Louisville Courier-Journal.

Played Chess and Music Together.

There is perhaps no sounder musician living than Sir Walter Parratt, the master of the king's music, and it would require something of a musical genius to accomplish the feat Sir Walter performed when staying with some musical friends at Tenbury some years ago. To while away the evening chess was suggested, and Sir Walter proposed that he should sit at the piano and play from memory, while he opposed two friends on the chessboard at the same time. The challenge was accepted, and with his back to the board Sir Walter sat at the piano and played Chopin and Mendelssohn, calling out his moves whenever necessary. He won the game in three-quarters of an hour.—London Queen.

A MONSTER BOOK.

The Largest One in the World in the British Museum.

The Chinese department of the British museum library contains, says a writer in Cassell's "World of Wonders," a single work which occupies no fewer than 5,020 volumes. This wonderful production of the Chinese press is one of only a very small number of copies now in existence. It is an encyclopedia of the literature of China, covering a period of twenty-eight centuries, from 1000 B. C. to 1700 A. D.

It owes its origin to the literary proclivities of the Emperor Kang He, who reigned from 1662 to 1722. In the course of his studies of the ancient literature of his country Kang He discovered that extensive corruptions had been allowed to creep into modern editions, and he conceived the idea of having the text of the originals reproduced and preserved in an authoritative form. This was a mighty conception truly, and in its execution it remains unique down to the present time. For the purpose of carrying out the work Kang He appointed a commission of learned men to select the writings to be reproduced and employed the Jesuit missionaries to cast copper types with which to execute the printing.

The commission was occupied for forty years in its great task. Before the work was completed Kang He died, but he had provided that his successor should see the book completed, and he faithfully carried out his trust. The book is arranged in six divisions, each dealing with a particular branch of knowledge. The divisions are thus designated: First, writings relating to the heavens; second, writings relating to the earth; third, writings relating to mankind; fourth, writings relating to inanimate nature; fifth, writings relating to philosophy; sixth, writings relating to political economy.

To Bake Fish.
In baking fish use a special dripping pan. Place three or four thin slices of salt pork or bacon in the bottom of the pan, lay the fish on top, with or without dressing; cut gashes across the fish at inch intervals, and put into these tiny strips of fat pork. Dust with salt, pepper and flour. Lay thin slices of pork or bacon on to the fish, or simply brush with pork drippings, olive oil or butter. Pour in a cupful of boiling water, cover closely and bake in a hot oven, basting often. Allow about fifteen minutes to each pound of fish. When done lift carefully on to a hot platter, garnish with thin slices of lemon and parsley and serve with hollandaise or sauce tartare.

Removing Stains.
For grass stains rub the spot with molasses and the stains will come out in the ordinary process of washing.
Iron rust may be removed by rubbing oxalis (sheep sorrel) over the rusty places and then washing in alcohol, which will remove grass stains, and finish by a good scrubbing in warm soapsuds.
Stains of fruits, vegetables, meats and drinks on table linen may be removed by persistently rubbing the spot in sweet milk.

A FINE JOURNAL.

The first number of Plantation Life, a monthly agricultural journal published at Greenville, has made its appearance. It is published by the Plantation Life Publishing Company at 50 cents a year, with O. L. Joyner editor. This new journal is 16 pages in size with cover. Typographically it is beautiful and the publishers can well feel proud of its appearance. Editorially it is a gem, and is creditable to Mr. Joyner's reputation as a writer of ability. Every article from his pen bristles with earnestness and mastery of the subject in hand. This number also contains several splendid contributions by local writers of note.

We regard Plantation Life as an ideal agricultural journal, and the first number indicates a successful career. It has an inviting field before it and should be read in the home of every farmer in Eastern Carolina. It will be helpful to the farmer in the pursuit of his business, as well as be entertaining to the family circle, and at so small a subscription price it will have a large circulation.

A Washington dispatch to The New York Sun explains why only $300,000 of the $2,500,000 appropriated by Congress is now available for relief. All of the appropriation but $300,000, or most of it, will be used in replenishing army supplies sent to San Francisco as soon as the nature of the disaster became known and before action had been taken by Congress. The San Francisco authorities, it seems, had overlooked this feature of the relief measure. — Charlotte Observer.

QUINERLY SCHOOL CLOSING.

Editor Reflector:
It was my pleasure to visit the closing exercises of Quinerly school and enjoy the pyrotechnical display of the highflown oratory of the two distinguished speakers for the occasion. Hon. L. L. Moore, of Greenville, and Prof. Carlyle, of Wake Forest. Our young friend, Hon. L. L. Moore, gave us the development of the mind by education whereby it makes a mean man a good one, and in some cases a good man a mean one. It depends altogether how you apply the education received, whether for good or bad. If you educate him for meanness he will be mean. If you educate him for knowledge and truth, he will be a good man, and apply your teaching in that way you can make a man any sort of being you would have him be. I heard an old nigger say once that the preacher learned him how to be a successful thief. I asked him how was that? He said, says he, "that the preacher told him to always go 'round his enemies, as by doing so dey nebbber kotched him standing yet." All this because he usually went around his enemies. And then again when friend Larry closed his address, in his usual happy style, by his unearthly tribute to the angel women of our land, and all about our beautiful land and country, its beautiful women, etc., our heart melted with the sentimental echo. His words were so beautifully portrayed in language that we cannot express.

Then came the lion of the tribe of Demosthenes, and for an hour or more the vast throng of beauty and beast were enlightened, all about the makeup of man. To give you some idea of this surgeon of physical anatomy so descriptive of human beast, the shortest route to describe his handling the subject of human training, he just took up the natural man by the head, heart and heels and tied him all up in knots and wrung and twisted and turned him inside out, and outside in, and shook and beat and stamped all the meanness out of him and then rubbed him all over with hickory oil (just like his old tow-headed, gray-eyed, freckled faced 200-pound woman preceptor did him) and made a man of him. We say in all candor, that Prof. Carlyle gave us one of the grandest, sublimest, most logical, comprehensive and instructive addresses on "Seizing the Opportunity," that it has ever been my pleasure to hear. You could see the pearls in the words he uttered shine in regal splendor as they fell from his lips, and "Vanderbilt" said that he saved up so many of them that he feels as big as any of his namesakes, and if Prof. Carlyle had spoken an hour longer he would have saved up pearls of thought sufficient to have turned him a fool, or probably been a candidate for Congress.

Good-night, folks. I'm going to sleep now and try to dream about the living flower that adorned the grove of Salem church grow today in a bouquet of human faces. I was our pleasure to meet and form the acquaintance of so many people. We have not room to give all their names, but will close by saying, a happy greeting to you all and pleasant dreams this evening. Hello, Morpheus! Folks he's got me. Good-night, 10 o'clock. AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town.

Ayden, N. C., May 4, 1906.

The Masons held their regular semi-monthly meeting here yesterday. Much business of importance was transacted.

There is yet cotton in the land, Tedoc Frizzelle sold 16 bales this week which brought him a nice check. There is still more. Our farmers are not poverty struck.

Mrs. Maggie Waters, who came here with the remains of her husband, has returned to her home.

H. H. Proctor, of Grimesland, has been here during the week in consultation with J. W. Taylor concerning his eyes. Mr. Taylor advertises in the Ayden department and his patronage extends far and wide. His work always gives satisfaction.

Mrs. Stencil Hodges, musical director at the graded school, with her class will give a musical entertainment at the school building this evening. A general invitation is extended to all to be present.

The infant child of Mr. Jesse Broadway died Tuesday night and was buried Wednesday afternoon.

A movement is on foot to build a skating rink here. About two-thirds of the stock has been subscribed, and as soon as the remainder is taken the building will be erected at once. There is no doubt it will prove a paying investment and will add much to the pleasure and amusement of our people, especially our young folks, besides it will prove an attraction for many living out in the country near town. Make haste and let us have it. Everything is a help. Don't let Ayden be in the rear. Let us keep pace with progress and development in all that is necessary toward the advancement and growth of surroundings. By our next issue we hope to write the movement a success.

The singing class from the Oxford Orphan asylum will be in Ayden Thursday June 7th. Let all our people make preparation to give them a royal time and a fat purse. Our citizens have always shown a proper appreciation for the poor orphans and we feel sure when the class shall come in June they will find that visit no exception to the rule.

Force pumps are being driven in various sections of the town to be used in case of fire. The apparatus for throwing water is of tremendous force and can hoist a stream a considerable distance and with good effect. This with our hook and ladder company places us in good condition to fight the fire, fier d.

The large brick warehouse of J. R. Smith & Co. is about complete.

Right much disappointed was felt here at the postponement of the whitecap case at Greenville. The opinion among our citizens is if the parties indicted are guilty they should be punished and punished at once and that severely too. Lil' t'annon got the Baby.

Misses Mabel Clain and Lucille Brown left yesterday to visit relatives at Ahsokie.

John Pierce went to Greenville Tuesday.

There was a good size crowd to go from here expecting to hear the whitecap case tried Tuesday.

Prof. W. H. Ragsdale has been here on another of those special semi-monthly visits.

WARNING.

All persons are hereby forbidden, under penalty of the law, to leave any dead animal on our lands north of Tar river.

THE SECURITY BOND SUIT.

Our now popular Mrs. Jane Hopkins "Security" Bond Suit originated last season in an attempt to furnish progressive dealers with a really meritorious boy's suit that can be sold at $5.00 with an unconditional guarantee of satisfaction or money back should the suit prove defective. After considerable experimenting as to fabrics, tailoring, improved features, such as

Double seats, double double knees, extra strong thread, linings waist band, etc.

We succeeded in producing a guaranteed boy's suit that is proving a tremendous success with dealers now selling it. The "security" bond suit is good because it is so thoroughly reinforced throughout. Our success of last season has encouraged us to still greater efforts, and we are determined that the future of the Mrs. Jane Hopkins "Security Bond Suit" shall be a bright one from your standpoint and ours.

A RELIC OF THE WAR.

Senator S. E. Williams recently came into possession of an interesting old relic of what we think must have been the civil war. It is a shell of perhaps 10 pounds in weight, and has never been exploded. It was found at the railroad bridge over the Yadkin river, on the Davidson side. The double tracking force discovered it while scraping away the dirt from rock, and it was buried but a few inches, as the earth over the rock is not more than a foot in depth. At the same time a minieball was found. On inquiry, it was told the Senator that there was a battery at the spot where the ball was found just at the close of the war in 1865. The Yankees appeared on the Rowan side of the Yadkin and there was some firing done. That night Salisbury was set on fire. Therefore it is supposed that this old "implement" of war was left where it was found, something more than a week ago. Greene crossed the Yadkin not a great way from this place, and as he fought the British at every fording he made, that the bomb has come down from Revolutionary times. We do not know if shells were in use at that time, and the reference books at hand fail to tell us when they were first used. — Lexington Dispatch.

A THRILLING RIDE.

Swept Down a Mountain Side on a Colorado Snowslide.

"My first experience with a snowslide was at Creede, Colo.," writes Dr. J. Q. Allen of Telluride, in that state. "I, with three other men, was on the side of a mountain looking at some mining property. We were above timber line and about halfway from the bottom of the gulch to the top of the mountain. I did not think at the time of danger, as the snow where we were was only about eighteen inches deep. The field suddenly cracked, and the snow below us moved down a foot or two. This took away the support of an immense mass of snow above us, where it had blown over the top of the ridge to a depth of fifteen or twenty feet. It broke at the crest of the ridge, and all the snow on our side of the mountain curved around us in a circular manner, and the width of the slide was more than 1,000 feet, we being in the center.

"I glanced up on hearing the snow break and, acting upon my first impulse, turned my back to the avalanche. It struck me first on the legs, and I sprang into the air as high as I could. The mass passed under me, and by the terrific rush of the snow I was kept on the top all the way down into the gulch, about 500 feet. I was the only one free and proceeded to dig the others out. As the snow frequently packs after running almost to the consistency of ice, this was no easy matter.

"It happened that the man next to me was buried in a perpendicular position with only his hair visible. I had to free his body down to the ankles before I could pull him out. The last man reached was dead when extricated. The rest of us escaped with slight bruises. It was the next July before articles we lost were found."—Chicago News.

Wanted the Job.

One of the southern senators recounts a conversation that once took place between a friend of his—a business man in Mobile—and a colored man who had made application for work.

"Well," said the business man after the recital had been made of the darky's qualifications, "I should like to give you the place, but I'm afraid I can't do so, for I understand you are married. For special reasons I desire for this place a single man."

An expression of the deepest disappointment came to the dusky countenance of the applicant. Finally, after a short silence, during which he mumbled to himself by way of reflection, he asked, hopefully and eagerly, "Well, boss, if dat's de only trouble I think I kin arrange a divorce all right." — Harper's Weekly.

NO ENGLISH BILLIONAIRES.

In Great Britain the Sum is Too Vast For Reckoning.

"If you had a billion dollars," began Judson. "I haven't that much about my clothes," returned Wagstaff, "but if you want it only for a month or so perhaps"— "Oh, quit your guff," said Judson severely, "and learn something. If you had a billion dollars and took it to England with you, how much money would you have over there?" "Very little after paying the steward's fees and tips on board ship," admitted Wagstaff. But Judson went on with the cold, calm determination which characterizes a man who has just learned a new fact and is resolved at any cost to impart it to his friends.

"You would not have a billion when you struck British soil, though you had every dollar with which you left here, for in Great Britain a billion is a million millions, while in France and the United States it is only a thousand millions. It is possible for a man to be a billionaire in this country or France, but no one is ever likely to be a billionaire in Great Britain. The English use of the word is the older and more correct, and how we ever came to take the French style I don't know. I imagine it was because it was handy to have something to jump to after you said million. Anyway, nobody ever thought of talking billions in ordinary conversation until late in the sixteenth century. The term was known only to scientists and great mathematicians, and even the great philosopher, John Locke, speaks of the word as a 'novelty.'"

"People used to think and count in thousands then, but nowadays we are as familiar with millions as our ancestors were with hundreds and speak of billions as they used to speak of thousands, so much vaster has the world grown. I suppose in future years trillions and quadrillions, quintillions and sextillions will be as familiar in the mouths of men as millions and billions are now in ours. Yet, as a matter of fact, you know, there are comparatively few people who are able to grasp the meaning of the term 'million.' We use it every day, but not many minds form a clear idea of what a million of anything would be."—New York Press.

Wrong in His Head.

A Yorkshire mill worker charged with having set fire to a large hayrick was defended on the ground that he was not altogether responsible for his actions. One of the witnesses, a typical Yorkshire man, testified to the belief that the prisoner was "wrang in his heid."

"Can you mention any occasion on which the prisoner behaved in a manner to warrant your statement?" he was asked by the prosecuting counsel.

"Yes," answered the witness. "Ah mind once 'at he got hawf a crown too much for his wage, an'—"

"Well?" said counsel as the witness hesitated.

"He took it back to t' manager!" concluded the witness amidst a roar of laughter.

Something Wrong.

"My dear," said the trusting wife, "I don't think your rules of economy are any good."

"You don't?" asked the fond husband.

"No," she replied, bending anew over the column of figures in her beautifully bound account book. "You told me the way to save money was not to buy things; that thus we would save the amount the goods would have cost us. So I have been careful to set down the exact price of everything I have wanted to buy, but felt I could not afford. I find, in adding it up, it amounts to $524, but I only have $1.50 in cash on hand. There must be something wrong with your theory."

Suspicious.

"If you want to be liked in a newspaper office," said the man at the desk, "you must be careful to write only on one side of the paper."

The youth with a bunch of manuscript looked at him suspiciously and exclaimed:

"No, you don't. I may look young, but I can see through some things. You want me to write my poetry on one side of the paper so that you can turn it over and use the other side for your long winded articles about finance. It's an economical idea, but I'm not so foolish."—Washington Star.

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

Helpful Reminders as to the Laundering of Linen.

To prepare linen for washing soak the articles overnight in water. Never use hot water for soaking purposes, as it tends to make dirt adhere to linen, while cold or tepid water loosens it and so simplifies the process of washing. Use borax in the proportion of one tablespoonful to one gallon of water. It is perfectly harmless and has a marvelous power of softening water and of drawing out dirt. The object to be aimed at in washing is to get rid of the dirt with as little wear and tear as possible.

Do not put the clothes in the boiler if the water is at all hot. This method discolors linen and should at all times be carefully avoided. Allow the clothes to boil for ten minutes, remove from the boiler to a tub and add cold water. Do not allow the clothes to boil too long or they will become a yellow color, and they must on no account be boiled before washing.

Fireplace Mottoes.

"Welcome ye coming, speed ye parting guest."

"My home is your home."

"Peace be unto this house and all who dwell herein."

"As I sat musing ye fire burned."

"My fire is my friend."

"Let no man take beyond this threshold hence words spoken here in friendship's confidence."

"We strive to serve you, friends. In entering this house you do possess it. Peace and heart's greetings."

"As we journey through life let us live by the way."

To Get Rid of Cockroaches.

A housekeeper who was recommended to try cucumber peeling as a remedy for cockroaches strewed the floor with pieces of the peel, cut not very thin, and watched the sequel. The pests covered the peel within a short time so that it could not be seen, so voraciously were they engaged in sucking the poisonous moisture from it. The second night that this was tried the number of cockroaches was reduced to a quarter, and none was left alive on the third night.

To Launder Chiffon.

It is quite easy to wash and iron the better kinds of chiffon and make it look like new. Make a lather with soap powder in warm water. Float the chiffon in this for about ten minutes. Do not rub, but fold carefully between the hands and squeeze gently two or three times. Then place it between the folds of a clean, soft towel and press it until most of the moisture is absorbed. Iron on the wrong side while still damp, and the chiffon will be quite fresh and glossy.

Filling For Sofa Pillows.

New fillings for pillows constantly are being thought of, one of the latest being tea leaves. This is a prettier use for the waste from the teapot than the old fashioned plan of saving them for sweeping, and if the dried leaves have a few fresh ones added this pillow will make a pretty mixture of flavors when lying next those stuffed with dried lavender, rose leaves and cedar.

To Clean Paint.

Kitchen paints will soon acquire a shabby, dull look from the frequent cleaning that is necessary in this room. The use of soap only increases the difficulty, especially if the paints are varnished. The best plan is to boil one pound of bran in a gallon of water for an hour, then wash the paint with this bran water, and it will not only be kept clean, but bright and glossy.

To Remove Onion Odor.

The odor of onions will entirely disappear from your hands if after peeling them you hold your hands for a moment or two in the smoke that arises from brown paper when it is burning. After eating onions brush the teeth with common salt, using plenty of it.

The expedition of Father Sherman, who with a detail of United States soldiers will traverse his father's route on his famous march to the sea has stirred up a good deal of feeling along the route. If the son of the man who said "war is hell," and conducted his part of it with that idea uppermost, desired to traverse the route taken by his father he had a perfect right to do so, but why the thing should be so extensively advertised and turned into an official military expedition, is a mystery.—Charlotte Observer.

A young lady in Gastonia mistook a preacher for a dancing master. She wanted to take lessons and thought she was talking to the right man. He assured her that she was wrong, but she insisted, thinking he was only teasing her. At last she was made wise. Now one of two things must be true in the case; either the dancing master is a mighty pious looking somebody, or else the preacher has a gay and flashy look. If either is true the legislature ought to pass a law. No dancing-master should be allowed to look pious, certainly not without licence; nor should any preacher be allowed to favor a dancing master, therefore be it enacted, resolved and wherewithal until these things be
