RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Adopted by the Methodist Sunday School of Greenville.

Whereas, our loving Father in heaven, on the first day of May saw fit in His inscrutable providence, to take unto Himself little Linwood Bertram, infant son of L. B. and Nannie B. Barnhill, who was a member of our Sunday school cradle roll, therefore be it resolved:

First, That this Sunday school extend to the parents of little Linwood, and to all whose hearts are sad because of his departure from earth, our profound and sincere sympathy in their sore bereavement.

Second, That we point the bereaved ones to the sympathetic Savior, who said while here in the world, "Suffer the little ones to come unto me, and forbid them not for of such is the Kingdom of God."

Third, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of our Sunday school, a copy be sent to the bereaved parents, and that a copy be handed to The Daily Reflector with request that they be published.

Mrs. G. S. Prichard,
Mrs. J. L. Starkey,
Wiley Brown.

With regret, this Sunday school records the death of Paul Brown Clare, a member of the cradle roll, which occurred on Sunday morning, the 29th day of April 1906, at the tender age of 13 months.

To his parents we extend our kindest sympathy, and we pray that he who said "Suffer little children to come unto me" will comfort and sustain them in the loss of their little one, and that its transition to a higher life will be but another thread in the cord to bind their affections to our Heavenly father.

And as a testimonial of love and respect, it is ordered that this resolution be spread upon the minutes of the school and a copy be sent to brother and sister Clare.

Mrs. G. E. Harris,
Mrs. H. L. Carr,
Alex. L. Blow.

Visiting Minister.

Rev. T. L. Vernon, of Tarboro, preached in the Memorial Baptist church here Sunday morning. His subject was "Faith" and from it he gave his hearers a good sermon. At the conclusion of the sermon Mr. Vernon also made some statements relative to the plan of building a Baptist church at Farmville, one of the mission points under his charge. He exhibited a map showing a large territory adjacent to Farmville and covering portions of Pitt, Edgecombe and Wilson counties that is without a Baptist church, and emphasized the need of the denomination building at Farmville.

Veterans' Reunion.

Next Thursday, 10th, is memorial day and the date for the reunion of Bryan Grimes camp of Confederate veterans. It is going to be a big day in Greenville and the veterans will be given a good time. Hon. J. Bryan Grimes will be orator of the day.

FARMVILLE ITEMS.

Farmville, N. C., May 5, 1906.

Miss Rouse's art exhibit and rainbow fete was much enjoyed on Monday night. The work of the young ladies was of high art and deserves much credit for the short time of study. The instrumental and vocal music was fine, especially the solos by Henry Jackson and Mrs. N. W. Askew and the duet by Misses Eva Horton and Roland Joyner was very fine.

Miss Selma Staton, who has been visiting Miss Mollie Rouse, has returned to her home in Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hearne came in on the evening train to visit Mrs. M. T. Horton.

Mrs. M. E. Shaw, of Tarboro, is visiting Mrs. J. Stanley Smith.

Fred Carr and mother returned from Washington, D. C. today.

Bishop Strange will be here on second Sunday night and have confirmation services in Emmanuel church.

Mrs. J. Stanley Smith will give her musical concert on Friday night in the opera house. A treat is store for all who attend the choruses and drills of the Merry Milk Maids. Mrs. Jarley's wax works is included in the program, and well worth the small admission.

Mrs. John T. Thorne will give her musical concert on Monday night, 14th, in the opera house for the benefit of the graded school library.

J. M. Windham has a new office next door to Dr. Morrill.

Dr. D. S. Morrill has moved in his new office recently fitted up by R. L. Davis.

W. C. Askew has returned from the Tarboro hospital very much improved. We hope he will soon be able to be out again.

Attention Daughters of the Confederacy.

Members of the Geo. B. Singletary Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy are requested to meet at the home of the president, Mrs. John L. Wooten, on tomorrow, (Tuesday) afternoon, at 4:30 o'clock for the purpose of aiding the Veterans in the preparation of the usual annual dinner of the old soldiers.

The T. J. Jarvis chapter will also meet with the senior chapter at the home of the president on the morning of the 10th. All are expected to bring flowers.

Early Closing.

The merchants of the town, at least all but the grocers and druggists, have begun early closing in the evening for the summer. The idea is to close promptly at 7 o'clock and the people of the town should help the merchants as far as possible in conforming to this movement. This can be done by not waiting until too late in the afternoon to go shopping, and make it a rule to be through by 7 o'clock so as not to detain the merchants and clerks later than that hour. It will be easy for all to observe this.

THE WEATHER

Fair tonight preceded by rain in eastern portion, colder. Tuesday fair.

Original Observations.

Some people speak three times before they say anything.

When speaking of amusement circles it is proper to include circus rings.

Some people ask your advice for the purpose of working it off on others as original matter.

It frequently happens that a man's meanness isn't noticed until after he acquires a little money.

Some people think that first class piety is simply a feeling of pity for the third class passenger on the glory train.—Orange Va. Observer.

THE HIGHEST GOOD.

God's dwelling place is not in realms apart,

Whose heights no mortal feet have ever trod;

Truth's home is ever in the human heart—

Who walks with Truth may walk on earth with God.

Sickness has somewhat crippled The Reflector outfit today.

It is the May showers that bring the May flowers this time, as April went dry.

Greenville has made a small showing in aid of the San Francisco sufferers.

As old chickens are on stilts, the price of the spring variety may come one an air ship.

Greenville is going to have more eye to business and growth this summer than to baseball.

Before the summer gets far advanced you will see several more houses start up in Greenville.

These showers will start the race between the young crops and the grass, with the farmer umpiring the game.

Next Meeting in Greenville.

The W. F. M. Society of the North Carolina conference, M. E. church, South, convened in regular annual session in Wesley Memorial church, Warrenton, N. C. last Thursday.

This organization includes all of the North Carolina conference, and is composed of the most prominent and consecrated women in the church.

The following telegram to Mrs. H. L. Carr largely explains itself: "Warrenton, N. C., May 5, 1906.

"To Mrs. H. L. Carr, Greenville, N. C.

"Congratulations. The W. F. M. Society will meet with Greenville auxiliary in 1907.

Mrs. J. L. Horne."

The members of the Greenville auxiliary are indeed to be congratulated that they are to have with them a year hence these consecrated Christian workers, and we are sure Greenville will give them a royal welcome and make their stay among us as pleasant as possible

PROTECTION FOR THE TRUCKER.

Senator Simmons has introduced a bill in which the truckers of the eastern section of the State are particularly interested. It provides for the proper inspection of vegetables, strawberries, melons and the like, so that all of unmarketable nature may be condemned and that which is damaged may be passed upon in order to prevent the consignor from being duped relative to the latter. In other words the bill provides that the consignee will have to transmit to the consignor the certificate of inspection, or a duplicate, which will show the precise status of the products when received; also that the commission merchants who receive vegetables, melons, berries and the like on consignment must keep a record of sales, with the prices, and that these records must be open at all times to inspection. All consignees who fail to transmit certificates to the consignors in cases where the products are reported damaged or who shall make false entries about the sales shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be subject to punishment by both fine and imprisonment.

The Wilmington Dispatch says that such a bill is intended to protect the interests of the consignors and will stop them from being swindled as is now often the case. Unscrupulous commission merchants who have been in the habit of writing back that vegetables or berries were in badly damaged condition, when in truth they were not, and who sell for one price and quote one under that to the consignors, will have to halt in their nefarious ways or run the risk of imprisonment. The recording of all sales may prove somewhat cumbersome, but will be excellent if it can be accomplished. However, is such recording is deemed too impracticable, on account of its detail and botheration, the penalty for misrepresentation should still stand.—Charlotte Observer.

It is said that the only house built in Hillsboro since Cornwallis was there, barring a factory or two, was wrecked by a wind storm the other night before it was completed. Surely the fates are not against the old town. The late Joe Turner used to say that the Almighty intended to preserve the place in its ancient state and always frowned on any and all efforts to change.—Greensboro Record.

An Editor's Scoop.

Other editors have had the opportunity presented to them, but they have either failed to appreciate it or have postponed taking advantage of it until too late, or have ignored it. When it came to Editor Mailler of the Leona (Kan.) Hustler, however, he snapped it up. This is what he said:

"The bride wore a beautiful dress of French lawn, at least that's what they said it was.

Speaking for himself, he added:

"The groom (that means me) wore the customary black hand-me-down and was about scared to death."

Touching the ceremony, he continued:

"There were no bridesmaid or best man, because the groom did not think he could find a better man than himself."

With reference to the personal charms of the bride he wrote:

"Miss Randolph is a peach; most of her beauty is natural, and she looks good to us; she is one of our schoolmates, and we know she can throw a brick with remarkable accuracy. A sample of her rare nerve is shown by her vowing to 'love, honor,' etc."

And in conclusion he disposes of her husband in this fashion:

"The other interested party is a joke; he came to Leona in the fall of '83 without clothes or money, and is now free from all financial debt. There are plenty of others just as bad and they are not in the penitentiary, either."

Most men can talk more freely about the needs of their country than they can about the needs of their family.

REAL SEA SERPENTS.

Giant Ribbon Fish With Red Plumes and Heavy Manes.

An interesting form of the sea serpent is the so called ribbon fish, several specimens of which the writer has seen on the shores of Santa Catalina island. This creature is one of the most beautiful of all fishes. It resembles a white or silver ribbon slashed with black. A long fin extends its entire length, and over the head form a number of plumes or pompons of a vivid red that in long specimens might easily be taken for a mane waving to and fro.

That this delicate ribbon fish attains a very large size is generally believed, as good sized specimens have been captured. Some years ago a fisherman was hauling a net on the coast of Scotland when it was found that some heavy weight was holding the net back. Additional help was obtained, and a dozen men finally hauled in a monster fish, which was estimated to weigh 800 pounds. It was a gigantic ribbon fish, thirty feet or more in length, so long and heavy that it required the efforts of half a dozen men to carry it along the deck.

It was a veritable sea serpent, and extending from its head were tall, deep red or scarlet plumes, like fins, which formed a sort of mane, frequently described as being seen on the typical sea serpent. If these fishes attain a length of thirty feet there is no reason why they may not exceed this, and it is very possible that some of the "sea serpents" which have been observed at various times were gigantic ribbon fishes, which came up from the deep sea and moved along with undulating motion at the surface. One of the most remarkable as well as gigantic animals of the deep sea is the giant squid, a favorite tidbit of the sperm whale.

The size to which these animals grow, their strength and their hideous appearance place them on a par with many of the weird and grotesque creatures of a past age. The squid undoubtedly attains a length of nearly if not over 100 feet.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

To Make Paper Pads.

Very many persons would like to know how to pad sheets of paper so as to make tablets, but do not understand the proper composition for putting on the edges. The following recipe is vouched for by competent authority: Glue, four pounds; glycerin, two pounds; linseed oil, one-half pound; sugar, one-quarter pound; aniline dyes in sufficient quantity to color. The glue is softened by soaking it in a little cold water, then dissolved, together with the sugar, in the glycerin by aid of heat over a water bath. To this the dyes are added, after which the oil is well stirred. It is used hot. Another composition of a somewhat similar nature is prepared as follows: Glue, a pound; glycerin, four ounces; glucose sirup, about two tablespoonfuls; tannin, one-tenth of an ounce. Give the compositions an hour or more in which to dry or set before cutting or handling the pads.

EASIEST THING TO FIND.

You Can Even Find It Where It Does Not Exist.

The only thing that can easily be found where it does not exist is fault—that is, you can easily find it in others. But in yourself, though you be blackened with it, you can't see it so easily.

If the other fellow has a fault, and sometimes if he hasn't, you are quick to perceive it.

You incessantly find fault with the weather. It is either too warm or too cold, too wet or too dry, too sunny or too cloudy, and you have a good deal to say about it.

And the times never suit you. It's either hard times or else some other people are making too much money by the methods you don't know anything about and so don't approve. Deep in your subconsciousness you are quite sure that money making which you can't comprehend and can't imitate can't be honest.

And the government is all wrong, too, in your opinion. As a matter of fact, you may confess to yourself that you are unable to vote with real discrimination for county sheriff, but you do think you know all about running the national government and settling all international differences.

You may be loudly preaching for worldwide peace when you can't get along amicably with your own wife. You may not be able successfully to run a little corner grocery, but you think you know all about regulating the big trusts. You don't know what are the elements of failure in your own business affairs, but you think you know just exactly what are the faults of the great railroads.

The trouble with you is easily diagnosed. It is one of the most common disorders under the sun. You are "farsighted" in your mental vision. You see only the things that are beyond the reach of your hands and are blind to those that lie about you. You see the faults of the other fellow, but not your own.—Atlanta Journal.

Why Julia Quit.

The most peculiar reason yet assigned for a servant leaving her place "without notice" was given by a Germantown mistress when asked why Julia, a colored maid, had suddenly quit. "The whole trouble came about last wash day," said the indignant housekeeper. "It began to rain before the wash was done, and when it was ready to hang out it was drizzling at a good rate. Then it was that Julia, the colored help, came upstairs and asked me to lend her my rain coat while she hung out the clothes. I had never found an umbrella or a mackintosh necessary when I did similar work and declined to grant the request. Then Julia quit."—Philadelphia Record.

A Fear.

"So you think that this concentration of wealth is the inevitable outgrowth of our civilization?"

"I do," answered Mr. Thinker.

"And you must admit that the ultimate result of such a condition would be to put all the money under the control of one individual?"

"Yes."

"Well, it seems terrible to think of."

"What does?"

"The possibility of some billionaire getting out of temper some day and making up his mind to discharge the entire human race."—Judge.

It looks like our county-man Mr. J. J. Laughinghouse, is right in warning the people not to send a corporation lawyer to represent them in the legislature, when such men as ex-Judge A. C. THE BOUDOIR KNOCKER.

The latest fad of the independent woman of the day is to affix a tiny brass knocker to the door of her boudoir. The etiquette of the boudoir knocker is already being crystallized into a tradition, and dames of the smart set discuss the bearings of the new idea with much zest when they are together. My lady's maid is expected to use her knuckles upon the panel of the door as if the knocker were not there.

This piece of furniture is strictly reserved for callers who have the privilege of the entree, and it is becoming no uncommon thing for visitors instead of being shown into the drawing room or the library, as they used to be in the good old days, to be ushered direct to the upper floor and left to make their presence known for all the world as if they were still standing at the front door of the house. The idea is all very well in its way, and a good many specious arguments are adduced in favor of the boudoir knocker. But the innovation is just one of those things which come under the category of things that are better left alone.—New York Globe.

A Cock and a Bull Coin.

The great productiveness of the ruins of Babylon in the way of ancient coins has aroused the suspicions of visitors. An American who was going around with a guide became distrustful of the ease with which these relics could be disinterred. Accordingly he remarked to his guide while they were searching about the tower of Nimrod that he particularly wished to find one coin with a special design. On the one side was a horse's head, with some sticks placed roughly between the ears, and on the other side a bull and a fowl in the act of crowing. The guide requested him to draw on paper a picture of the two sides of the coin, which the traveler did. About a week afterward the very coin came to light. There was no doubt of its genuineness, for on the obverse was a mare's nest and on the reverse a cock and a bull.

A French Revolt.

The wearing of women's hats in the theaters of Paris has tried the patience of Frenchmen until a correspondent of the Temps writes that he and his friends, tired of not being able to see the stage, are forming a league to achieve the removal of women's hats. They propose always to wear their hats during performances—he forgets that a top hat will compete with most women's hats on very unequal terms—and in order to show that the hats are worn on principle and not from mere rudeness they will stick in them a card of membership of the league. When women no longer wear hats in theaters members of the league will no longer wear theirs.

A Dream!

Will there come a time when the whole American people will unite in support of some one man for the presidency, no other candidate being proposed or thought of?

It may be so. We wish it might come about in 1908.

Should such a situation arise the platform on which the American people will stand, all together—not a kicker among them—will naturally be very short and simple. Indeed it may consist of less than half a line of the narrowest column of the smallest newspaper in the land. Here it is:

"Give us a rest." —Hartford Times.

The Next Total Solar Eclipse.

Not very many people will see the next total eclipse of the sun. It will take place Jan. 3, 1908, and it will be visible only from two islands in the Pacific ocean—Hull island and Flint island. Both are uninhabited islands inclosed by coral reefs, and landing is said to be extremely difficult. The duration of totality will be three minutes on Hull island and four minutes on Flint island.

Have You Your Share?

A writer has calculated that if all the cash of the world were divided up each person would have $12. As to the different nationalities, if each country would divide out its cash the French would lead, each Gaul having $35. Americans would come next, with $25 in each purse; each English subject would have $18, each German $17, each Russian $8, each Japanese $3 and each Cuban $2.

Comfortable SHIRTS

The man with a comfortable Shirt is pretty sure to be comfortable all over.

It doesn't take an expert to tell when a Shirt is comfortable, but it takes an expert to make one comfortable. It has to be roomy, well-shaped, well sewed; the sleeves aren't be too long, the collar must not be cut too low or too high.

When a man once finds a comfortable shirt, he comes back for the same brand year after year.

Some even get to know the kind of box they are packed in and won't look at the Shirts at all if they don't see the right box.

SELLING THE BEST SHIRTS

Brings us more business every season, lets us buy more Shirts and, consequently, we sell better Shirts than we did the year before. Don't think you can duplicate anywhere the Shirts we are selling.

CONDENSED STORIES.

Secretary Wilson's Story of a Ready Witted Cook.

The secretary of agriculture, James Wilson, had been talking about his tea tablets, a boon to travelers, for one of these tablets, no bigger than a cough lozenge, suffices, in combination with boiling water, to make a pint of excellent tea.

"I hope," said Secretary Wilson, "that I shall never have to apologize

"AND YOU CALL THIS SPONGE CAKE?" for these tea tablets as I once heard a cook apologize for her sponge cake.

"I was taking tea with some friends one afternoon in Washington when a large and beautiful sponge cake was brought in.

"Ah, a sponge cake!" our hostess cried. And she broke it in generous portions, and we all helped ourselves.

"But, alas! It was not good sponge cake. The hostess, angered, sent for the cook.

"I thought, Jane," she said bitterly, "that you prided yourself on your sponge cake?"

"I do, ma'am," replied Jane. "And you call this sponge cake?" the mistress went on. "Why, it is as hard and tough as can be."

"Yes, ma'am," said Jane tranquilly. "That is how sponge is before it's wet. Soak it in your tea, ma'am."

Cleaning Gold Braid.

Gold braid that is only slightly discolored may be cleaned by treating it with a soft brush dipped in fine whiting, calcined magnesia or fuller's earth. If badly spotted and blotched the stains may be removed by carefully brushing with a brush dipped in a warm solution of potassium cyanide—one dram to one-half pint of water—then in clean warm water. If the braid is of a poor quality all attempts at cleaning will only make its appearance worse.

Spots on Wall Paper.

To remove grease spots from wall paper or any colored material a capital plan is to mix fuller's earth to a paste (about the consistency of rather thick mustard) with water and ammonia, leaving the paste to dry for twenty-four hours or so. When dry it will brush off and should have absorbed all the ugly spots. Sometimes, however, a second application is necessary.

The English Servant.

The English servant requires to be studied. The world's other servants are mere amateurs; the English servant has a trade. As an American I proceeded to treat mine a l'Americaine, and I made by first blunder. A sensible American is, if not friends with her servants, at least friendly. The English woman, if she is sensible, presents to her servants a surface of perfect indifference, and then she has peace, for the English servant despises a considerate and kindly mistress as not knowing her place. The most difficult thing for a stranger to learn is that impalpable line between the different servants' duties. If one does not enumerate what one expects of them when they are hired, afterward it is too late. They have, however, a rough sense of honor, and they generally do what they agree to.—Mrs. John Lane in Harper's Bazar.

THE SECURITY BOND SUIT.

Our now popular Mrs. Jane Hopkins "Security" Bond Suit originated last season in an attempt to furnish progressive dealers with a really meritorious boy's suit that can be sold at $5.00 with an unconditional guarantee of satisfaction or money back should the suit prove defective. After considerable experimenting as to fabrics, tailoring, improved features, such as Double seats, double double knees, extra strong thread, linings waist band, etc.

We succeeded in producing a guaranteed boy's suit that is proving a tremendous success with dealers now selling it. The "security" bond suit is good because it is so thoroughly reinforced throughout. Our success of last season has encouraged us to still greater efforts, and we are determined that the future of the Mrs. Jane Hopkins "Security" Bond Suit shall be a bright one from your standpoint and ours.

C. S. FORBES

THE MAN'S OUTFITTER

What Dr. Carter Sought.

The eminent lecturer, Dr. L. Carter, self made and not wholly unconscious of the fact, was addressing the Somerville Y. M. C. A. "My dear young people," he began, "let me refer briefly to the humble auspices under which my start in life was made. Without a dollar in my pocket and with no worldly possessions of consequence, my indomitable nature and an in-born determination to utilize to the fullest advantage my abilities constituted my entire assets. But even with this modest beginning what do you suppose was the first thing I sought—that which at the very outset of my career I strove most earnestly to attain?"

For one second an awestricken silence fell over the audience as the speaker paused to allow the significance of these impressive words to permeate the youthful understanding. Then in a spontaneous outburst of juvenile enthusiasm came the answer as of one voice, "Milk!"

"You know, they say," remarked Mr. Stoman, gazing dubiously at the mistletoe above her head, "that kissing really prevents disease sometimes."

"Yes?" replied the sweet girl. "By the way, did you know I was vaccinated recently?"

ENGLISH VESSELS.

The Red Tape That Must Be Wound When One Is Wrecked.

When an English vessel is wrecked an immense amount of red tape must be gone through before the case is finally closed. It depends a great deal, of course, on the nature of the wreck, but supposing, for argument's sake, that a vessel carrying a valuable cargo has been wrecked by being cast ashore and that no lives are lost, the first thing to be done is for one of the officers in charge of the vessel, the captain or a subordinate, to make his way to the receiver of wrecks and lodge a report of what has happened—in short, to make a deposition.

This must give full particulars, including the name of the vessel, its number and tonnage, name and address of owners, age, rig and build of the ship, description of the cargo, number of the crew, who the shippers and the consignees are, if any passengers, how many and whether the wives and children of any of the officers were on board. There must be stated the draft of water at the time of sailing, the hour of sailing, state of tide, weather, wind, limits of intended voyage, loss incurred and cause of casualty. These particulars are for use in the admiralty court.

Collisions at sea are fruitful of much litigation. Owners endeavor to obtain photographs where possible as evidence. The receivers, in addition to obtaining depositions, have to keep a constant lookout for driftage, for which an owner may be found or which may be converted into coin.

If anybody should chance to rescue any wreckage or "driftage," as it is technically termed, in the shape of barrels of beer, oil or barks of timber from the water in the lower reaches of the Thames he will probably receive a percentage of the gross value in the way of salvage money, provided, of course, that he delivers up the goods to the authorities. He is not legally entitled to anything, but it is customary to make such a reward. Not infrequently this kind of merchandise is found derelict on the river. The percentage awarded varies, according to the value of the find.—London Standard.

A Lost Lesson.

The proprietor of an engineering works in Scotland, according to the Dundee Advertiser, was watching the leisurely efforts of an apprentice who was swinging his hammer in a gentle way.

"Look here, laddie," he said, going up to the youth and taking the hammer from him, "when I see a man that takes his hammer by the end of the shaft and strikes a proper blow like that I give that man 32 shillings a week, but a man that takes it in the middle like this only gets 25 shillings a week and the sack whenever we get slack. See?"

Hoping he had sufficiently well driven home his point, he surveyed the lad more in sorrow than in anger, but the latter requested an extension of the lesson.

"Please, sir," he said, "where do I hold it for 4 shillings a week?"

In Bonny Scotland.

Pressing business engagements made it highly important that a tourist in Scotland should catch the 6 o'clock train for the south on Monday morning. Boots was interviewed on Sunday night, a hansom administered, perhaps incautiously, and a solemn promise received of an early call. Next morning the tourist awoke of his own accord at half past 7 and aroused the boots, who listened to the torrent of anger that was poured upon him in mild surprise. "Cot bless me, sir, you was not so bad at all! The man in the next room to you was to catch the 5 o'clock boat, and he's no wakened yet."

"Scratch Your Liver!"

"Scratch your liver!" was the cry which arose from the corner of the busiest and noisiest downtown restaurant about 1 o'clock one afternoon. The patrons of the place dropped their knives and forks and looked up in amazement. The waiters did not act in the least surprised and reached for the bills of fare, drawing a pencil through the line "Liver and bacon, 35 cents." The order came from the superintendent, who had received word from the chef that the dish had run out, and he was so busy at the time that he did not think how the shouted command would sound.—New York Mail.

Good Templar Root Beer.

Take a pint of bran, a handful of hops, some tender twigs of spruce, hemlock or cedar, a little bark of sassafras, with roots (a handful of each) of burdock, plantain and dock and two of dandelion. Boil up in a gallon of water, strain, add a spoonful of ginger, a quarter cup of molasses and a cup of yeast. Let it work, then bottle.

To Relieve Insomnia.

A very simple method of inducing sleep in cases of persistent insomnia and one that has succeeded where many drugs have failed is to simply administer a moderate amount of liquid food before the patient goes to bed. This diverts the blood from the brain to the abdominal organs and takes away the cerebral excitement that precludes sleep.

Keep the Iron Hot.

The best way to keep an iron hot is instead of using the ordinary ironstand, which lets the air through to the bottom of the iron, take a clean brick and set it on the stove for half an hour before using as a stand for the iron. This keeps the heat for a long time and saves having to heat often.

A Household Glue.

A glue which will resist the action of water is made by boiling half a pound of common glue in one quart of skim milk. Another method is to soak the glue till soft in cold water and then to dissolve it on the stove in linseed oil.

Luminous Ink.

A luminous ink may be made by carefully grinding together luminous calcium sulphide and a very thin solution of gum arabic and water. The writing will have to be exposed to strong daylight each day.

MYSTERIES OF RANK.

An African Tribe That Bases Precedence on Avoirdupois.

An African explorer tells of a tribe he met whose members determined worldly rank according to avoirdupois. The heaviest savage was chief of the tribe, the next fattest was first lieutenant and so on. As soon as a member gained in weight over the neighbor next above him in rank, he advanced one step in authority. Wealth, looks, personal popularity, capacity, were not taken into consideration when determining the standing of members of the tribe.

It is a pity our English cousins could not adopt some such simple method of determining rank, for their present scheme is so complicated that they themselves have difficulty in understanding it, while to the stranger within the gates its technicalities are absolutely bewildering. For instance, we are told that at a recent public dinner in London one hour was spent in arranging the diners in antepandial procession according to rank. The general rule prescribes that the army and navy shall have first place, then the law, the church, medicine, "gentlemen" not engaged in any profession and, lastly, those in "trade." In the latter class, however, it appears that wholesalers are considered more "respectable" than retailers, unless a retailer happens to be a knight or a baronet, which sometimes occurs, when he takes precedence over his business associates who are mere commoners. But not even all lawyers, it seems, are "gentlemen." The question arose during a case at law, and it was decided that, while "barristers" are "gentlemen," "solicitors" are not entitled to that distinction. According to English custom, a young man who has just been called to the bar is many steps higher in the social scale than his father, who is a millionaire wholesale grocer.

In addition to the few instances cited there are a whole host of special exceptions founded on birth, education and other conditions that make the English scheme of social precedence a perplexing study for those who desire to be punctiliously correct.—Housekeeper.
