CLOSING EXERCISES OF GRIFTON GRADED SCHOOL.

Grifton, N. C., May, 11, 1906.

Although the train was one hour late last night, we finished up our work by 8:30 o'clock and went out to the school room of the college and found the superintendent on the stage, expatiating upon the subject of education, and wound up his discourse by introducing the speaker who had been in that line for some time, the Hon. E. E. Hilliard. The gentleman acknowledged the introduction remarks (of the principal) in a very graceful manner. Anyone could very readily see from his bearing that he was no small man to handle the subject announced "Difficulties Imaginary and Real" and from that text he just went up into the mountains of thought and found all the imaginary springs of difficulty and followed their tributary courses on down, down to the end of their course, and found them all more or less an "ignis fatuus," a Jack o'lantern, imaginary and not real. That the most of all the difficulties we dread so much are not so real as we want to suppose, that the great difference between the two are as a mouse to an elephant, that all you have to do is to take hold of the horns of the dilemma the difficulty places you in and shake all the stuffing out of it and go on rejoicing that it was not so much of a difficulty after all. What we deem difficulties are a great many times the opportunities for the development of some great theme or event, the great God uses upon us His wonders to perform. For instance, John Bunyan, while in Bedford jail, overcame the difficulty of his position by giving the "Pilgrim's Progress." Walter Scott gave us the Waverly novels which occupy a front rank in the literary world. And the telegraph system that now flashes the news around the world quick as thought the steam navigation, railroad train, and all are but the offsprings of minds of men who brought them in existence under difficulties. With difficulties once overcome it, destroys all that is imaginary and shows forth the real blessings of tortured minds of men that have overcome the difficulties.

His description of the difference between the plow boy and the dude was a good one and the house came down, when the dude had asked the boy all manner of questions about the crop and the boy getting the best of him everytime. The dude then asked the boy if he was not a fool. The boy told him there was only one thing between him and a fool and that was the fence. But, says the speaker, there are and have been men who have to contend with real difficulties and cited his audience to Demosthenes Gambetta and A. H. Stevens. Greek, French, American. Demosthenes, the obscure boy in his day who fought with manly vigor the difficulties that always obstruct the pathway of the ambitious and is quoted by modern men as the great orator. The great Frenchman, who by his daring planted the seed of Republicanism into the heart his countrymen that gave freedom to France; and then our own Georgian, who but a mere pigmy in stature, a giant in strength and will power, a mouse of a man, but an elephant to trample under foot all the difficulties that beset his pathway to fame.

And there are scores of others that could be named (and Vanderbilt not excepted) who have been guilty of success by the will of asserting the manhood in themselves. Withal it was a great speech from a great mind, and we thank the superintendent for having him to come. We enjoyed it very much but space forbids further enlargement.

Then it was our pleasure to see the best superintendent in North Carolina here on this occasion Prof. W. H. Ragsdale, who has put by virtue of his office, Pitt county head and shoulders above any other in the State in the educational line. Vanderbilt.

MESDAMES VINES AND McCLELLAN.

Entertain Friends at Hotel Bertha

Never has there been gathered together under one roof in Greenville a fairer or lovelier set of ladies than that which on Wednesday evening met at the Hotel Bertha to do honor to the elegant reception given by Mesdames Vines and McClellan.

The upper halls and parlors were changed into bowers of beauty by the lights and flowers and the presence of fair women.

The guests were met at the head of the stairs by the hostesses, and were ushered into the parlors where they were served to punch by Misses Irma Cobb, Nina James, and Louise Finley, of North Wilkesboro.

Then a merry party gathered around the tables in the halls and parlors and engaged in unique guessing contests, in which the prize, a dainty fan, was drawn by Miss Bertha Patrick, the other a lovely plate, by Mrs. Ferrall, and the booby by Mrs. Richard King.

Amid the lights and the flowers and to soft strains of delightful music rendered by the Italian band, the guests were served to delicious refreshments.

Among those present were:

Mesdames Harvey, Picklen, H. L. Carr, Harper, Chas. Skinner, Harry Skinner, Aycok, Sam White, Coward, Flanagan, C. S. Carr, Wooten. Laughinghouse, Bowen, H. A. White, Ernest Parham, Ferrall, House, Cobb, Andrews, Whedbee Dail, Little, Moseley, James White, Woodward, Hooker, John Ricks, Jeffress, and Misses Irma Cobb, Louise Finley, Nina James, Lizzie Jones, Nell and Lottie Shinner, Bessie and Bertha Patrick, Ada Wooten, Annie Brame, Janie Brown.

After enjoying the beautiful music until the last moment of the hours set for the entertainment were ended the guests lingeringly departed, voting the occasion an entire success, and rendering sincere thanks to their hostesses for a most delightful evening.

Frost Kills Cotton.

Reports from all parts of Mecklenburg county yesterday indicated that a good part of the cotton that had come up was killed by the frost and cold of Wednesday night. Mr. T. J. Davis, manager of the Elba Manufacturing Company, and other cotton oil manufacturers and ginners yesterday received scores of applications from farmers for cotton seed for replanting. One man who owns a large plantation stated that he would have to plant 200 acres of cotton over again. Quite a number of farmers even yesterday began plowing up the injured crop to re-plant.—Charlotte Observer.

CARD FROM MR. LAUGHINGHOUSE.

EDITOR REFLECTOR:

All along a more or less eventful life, my position on many questions has been maliciously construed by some, and honestly misunderstood by others.

To the former class I have never attempted any explanation, knowing that he who willfully misrepresents is among those who "have ears and hear not." Concerning the latter I have been heretofore content to wait for time and circumstances to put me straight in their eyes, believing always that in the end "right will prevail."

Now, however, I am constrained from a sense of justice to myself and others to depart from my usual rule and attempt to make myself thoroughly understood.

A contribution which appeared in The Reflector of May 8th, signed by Mr. M. T. Spier, gives evidence of decided apprehension lest my article recently published in the News and Observer and copied from same by your paper reflects upon the senatorial career of Mr. J. L. Fleming. By way of explanation permit me to say, that my attitude toward railroad influences in the Legislature has been made so plain that a "wayfaring man though he be a fool," can understand it. In publishing the article to which Mr. Spier refers, I had no thought of Mr. Fleming, nor did it enter my mind that even a most vivid imagination would construe a single idea therein in any way pertaining to him.

I therefore wish to impress most forcibly that so far as I know Senator J. L. Fleming was and is as far removed from railroad influence as any other Senator in that body of which he was a member.

My belief is but for the article of my friend, Dr. C. M. Jones, in which he mentioned my name for the Senate, Mr. Spier would not have signed his friend's unneeded vindication. This belief coupled with Dr. Jones' kindly article prompts me to state that I have never told a single voter in the county that I would be a candidate for the next senatorial nomination, though I have been approached by many urging me to declare myself. My reply has invariably been—I am not seeking the nomination of any position.

If Mr. Fleming desires to go back to the senate, and the people nominate him, he shall have my most cordial support.

In conclusion, I wish to thank my friend, Dr. Jones for his kind letter. I am always grateful for every consideration shown me by the people of my county, and especially from the people from old Chocod, a people in whose honesty, purity and bravery I have absolute faith. A people as good as the best. A people with whom I have spent 37 years as a voter fighting for a good government under the Democratic flag. They know me, I know them, and love them for the confidence they have always imposed in me, and it was this kindly interest that prompted my friend Dr. Jones' communication to which reference was made by Mr. Spier. I do not recall that Dr. Jones made any unwarranted statements, nor did he intimate anything that would possibly redound to the discredit or hurt of any one.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

Story of Sam Sampson and His Wonderful Gun.

Not long ago an ex-governor of Michigan, a Cleveland capitalist and several friends were in the big woods near Turtle lake, guided by Sam Sampson, a famous hunter and trapper. Sam possesses a gun with a barrel five feet long. But once, according to his story, he had a still longer one.

"It was a wonderful gun," he said to the ex-governor. "I could kill a bar as fur off as I could see 'im, an' that gun was as knowin' as a man. If it hadn't been fur that it would never ha' busted."

"How did you break it?" asked one of the hunters.

"I strained it t' death," said the old guide soberly. "I was out huntin' one day when I seen a buck an' seven does a-standin' close on to me. I pulled up old Beetle—that's what I called th' gun—and was jest goin' t' let go when I heard an awful funny noise over my head. I looked up, 'n' there was more'n 10,000,000 wild geese a-sailin' over me. There I was in a predicament. I wanted th' geese 'n' I wanted th' deer. At last I aimed at th' geese an' let sliver. Beetle must ha' knowed I wanted both, fur that was th' end of the old gun! Th' strain on her was too much, an' both barrels busted. Th' shot in one of 'em killed the buck, th' shot in th' other killed ten geese, an' when Beetle died she kicked so hard I was knocked into a crick. But when I come out my bootlegs was full of fish! I ain't never seen another sech gun as Beetle!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

There Are Others.

"If I had my way," growled old Tightfast as he opened his morning mail at the breakfast table, "I'd have a sign placed on every letter box in the city."

"What kind of a sign?" queried his wife.

"One reading, 'Post no bills,'" answered the old man. — Chicago News.

Not Old For China.

When Wong Kai Kah was temporarily a sojourner here—alas, that this oriental gentleman who endeared himself to all who met him is no more—one of his new made acquaintances asked him as to the antiquity of his family.

"Oh," he said, with naive modesty and yet with a merry twinkle in his eye, "my family is now in China. Indeed we have nothing to boast of as to long establishment in that country, for we have been there only 2,500 years, having come from a place to the south and east of the Caspian sea."—Indianapolis News.

Modern Morality.

A quarter of a century ago the divorce court stained the reputation of all who came into contact with it. Now it causes them generally only a little annoyance. "We are all correspondents here," said a facetious man at a recent fashionable dinner party. And the remark caused general laughter because it was absolutely correct. — London Truth.

It will probably turn out that the proposed $10,000,000 battleship has gone up in smoke, as the money will have to be used to help out San Francisco.

The Administration must keep its weather eye open, or the beef trust will be running some of its embalmed beef in on the San Francisco sufferers.

The railroads and the trusts still have a strangle hold on the American people, in spite of the loosening effect of the San Francisco earthquake on pretty near everything else.

Republican senators tried to snub Senator La Follette by refusing to listen to his speech on railroad rate regulation, but the people in the galleries listened and applauded.

The standpatters will hardly dare stand out against abating the tariff on building material to the unfortunate San Francisco sufferers, though they will still continue the tariff tax on homes for the balance of us.

The ship subsidy steal is still one vote shy of being reported favorably by the Committee of Merchant Marine and Fisheries and Gen. Grosveor and the lobbyists have expended all their efforts so far for nothing.

The advantage of an indirect tax like the tariff is, as one of the principal standpatters said, the foolish geese don't know who is packing them, but the Republicans are discovering that the voters are getting their eye opened.

It was only a year or two ago that Senator Lodge voted to strike out the imprisonment clause of the anti-trust act and now he proposes imprisonment for railroad managers guilty of granting rebates. Has Senator Lodge repented or is he trying that old Republican dodge of trying to fool the people.

Secretary Shaw is so thick with the Rockefeller City National Bank and other Wall street bankers that he is virtually paying interest on the gold they are importing from Europe by advancing the cash without interest, on security other than United States bonds. "To him that hath shall be given" is the motto the administration follows.

It will be interesting to notice, when the State Republican platforms are promulgated, how far the Republican politicians will follow President Roosevelt in his proposition to confiscate the property of the very rich. Party organization must be preserved at all hazard and the party leader is entitled to full obedience, or the party machine will be worthless.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., May 11.—Rather late but still in time to be interesting, the Department of Justice has gotten busy with the drug trust. Whether the American people dose themselves too much or not as some foreigners claim, there is no question that the practice, in which they have a perfect right to indulge if they want, costs them an outrageously unnecessary sum. There are three companies involved, each of them powerful and extending over the whole country. First there is the association of manufacturers who make all the patent and proprietary compounds. Then there are the wholesalers who dispense these medicines to the retail trade and again there is an association of retailers who supply the general public. Everyone of the retailers including the corner druggist with whom you and I deal, is forced to membership in the association and is prohibited under all sorts of penalties from dispensing drugs and medicines at less than a set figure. If he does, the wholesalers refuse to supply him. And therein is the meat of the conspiracy. The Department of Justice thinks it has enough information to proceed against the three companies under the Sherman Anti-Trust law as a conspiracy in restraint of trade, which it unquestionably is; and the first case is to come up for a speedy hearing.

Of much more than ordinary interest of the Geological Survey to establish on the Atlantic Coast a plan for the examination of "black sand" similar to the one that has been working for the benefit of the Pacific coast for three years past. The average citizen of course does not know what black sand is. But it may be briefly explained that in distinction from common white or quartz sand, it is the heavy sandy sediment left after the lighter sand and soil carried off in hydraulic mining. There are many natural deposits of this sand also in the river beds and on the sea coasts. The Pacific coast is spotted with them and here are many deposits inland also. Now the practical value of the black sand, which was only guessed at five years ago, is that it is made up almost wholly of minerals. And some of them are very valuable.

Found Dead in Bath Tub.

A sad accident came to light at the Benbow this morning about 10:30 when the body of Mr. S. M. Spengler, a commercial man, who travels for a plate glass house, was found dead in a bath tub. Mr. Spengler is well known to the traveling public and his home is in Baltimore. He went to the bath room last night. His room being empty this morning, nothing more was thought about it until a servant went into the bath room, finding the body cold and stiff in death. Greensboro Telegram.

The free alcohol bill is hung up in the Senate Finance Committee, and Chairman Aldrich is "preparing to investigate the question thoroughly." As standard oil will be the principal loser, by free alcohol competing with gasoline and naphtha, it is quite possible that the grey wolves may hold up the bill for this session. Those Republican farmers who have been electing Republican members of legislatures and thus saddled themselves with those who ride them to their own undoing, will have to change their politics or still find the market for their grain limited as heretofore.

Comfortable SHIRTS

The man with a comfortable Shirt is pretty sure to be comfortable all over.

It doesn't take an expert to tell when a Shirt is comfortable, but it takes an expert to make one comfortable. It has to be roomy, well-shaped, well sewed; the sleeves aren't be too long, the collar must not be cut too low or too high.

When a man once finds a comfortable shirt, he comes back for the same brand year after year.

Some even get to know the kind of box they are packed in and won't look at the Shirts at all if they don't see the right box.

SECURITY TO DEPOSITORS

A National Bank

Is under the supervision of the United States government,

They are required to submit to the government a sworn detailed statement five times a year. The Stockholders are held responsible for double the amount of their stock, which has to be paid in, in CASH, and held in tact for the protection of the depositors. Further, the Bank has to add to its Surplus account each year before declaring a dividend. This adds more to the depositors security.

BEEN TO THE RACKET STORE?

One hears this question around town these days wherever the buyers meet, and the one who has been in will say "Don't buy a thing until you see their beautiful goods, they've got everything in this town beaten the biggest mile you ever heard of."

AND WE HAVE!

We've got the goods alright, and all we ask is for you to see them. These goods are bought and sold on the one grand principle "CASH." Don't forget the place

FLEMING, LITTLE AND LAUGHINGHOUSE.

EDITOR REFLECTOR:

Just a small space in your valuable paper if you please. I have read the communication of Dr. Jones from Chicod endorsing Mr. Laughinghouse for the senate; also from Mr. Speir of Pactolus endorsing Mr. Fleming for the same place. I have no candidate for any position. We have a great many men in our grand old county who would make us good and true representatives, and I will gladly support any, whoever they may be, that the Democratic convention may see fit to nominate. But it is my honest opinion in the interest of the party and for harmony and good will to all, for the Democrats to send, one more time, the three men who served us so faithfully and honestly in the Legislature two years ago; that is to say; Jas. L. Fleming for the Senate, J. B. Little and J. J. Laughinghouse to the House. As you know, fellow Democrats, they are better fitted to serve our interest, now they have already served one term, and they have the experience and know our needs. No good reason can be advanced for any change in position, and I do hope we all can come together as one man and nominate them for the places which they so honorably filled, by acclamation, and have no strife or bitter fight in convention.

I write this in the interest of no man, I have no candidate, but I do it from an honest conviction. This is the first time I ever subscribed my name to a communication endorsing any man, but I do say, all come together and nominate Fleming, Little and Laughinghouse.

With best wishes for the party peace and harmony, I subscribe myself,
R. W. KING.

THE SECURITY BOND SUIT.

Our now popular Mrs. Jane Hopkins "Security" Bond Suit originated last season in an attempt to furnish progressive dealers with a really meritorious boy's suit that can be sold at $5.00 with an unconditional guarantee of satisfaction or money back should the suit prove defective. After considerable experimenting as to fabrics, tailoring, improved features, such as Double seats, double double knees, extra strong thread, linings waist band, etc.

We succeeded in producing a guaranteed boy's suit that is proving a tremendous success with dealers now selling it. The "security" bond suit is good because it is so thoroughly reinforced throughout. Our success of last season has encouraged us to still greater efforts, and we are determined that the future of the Mrs. Jane Hopkins "Security Bond Suit" shall be a bright one from your standpoint and ours.

Fooing the People.

It was noted several months ago that it was impossible to find anywhere in Lincoln's published writings or speeches the saying that "You can fool all the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time, but you cannot fool all of the people all of the time." Contemporaries of the great president have been searching their memories to discover if they could recall when he said it. The Brooklyn Eagle has learned that J. L. Hill of Fletcher, O., says that he heard the saying in a speech which Lincoln delivered from a dry goods box placed on the north side of the old courthouse in Bloomington. There are two other known witnesses who say that they heard Lincoln use the words in the same speech. Such evidence may fairly be accepted in the absence of anything to contradict it that the aphorism has been correctly attributed to Lincoln.—Youth's Companion.

King Edward's Bodyguard.

The English bodyguard of gentlemen-at-arms, which is the "nearest guard" to his majesty, is limited in numbers and composed of officers who have seen active service, who are of a certain height and under fifty years of age at the date of appointment. His majesty personally selects the officers who form his English guard, and the appointment is looked upon as a great honor. The gentlemen-at-arms receive pay, and they are called upon for duty on the occasion of all court ceremonies in London or at Windsor, but they are never taken away from England. Their mess is a very good one, and they constantly have the honor of entertaining royalties. The captaincy of the gentlemen-at-arms is a political appointment and carries £1,200 a year.

Lang Tells a Dog Story.

Andrew Lang tells this dog story, which, he says, comes to him on good secondhand evidence: "A gentleman had a Newfoundland dog of great intelligence. He had also a pair of carriage horses which were far too fat. He told his coachman to dock their corn. This was done, but the steeds were as corpulent as ever. The coachman suspected that some member of the Society For Promoting the Comfort of Animals was surreptitiously feeding the horses. He therefore concealed himself and watched. The dog came in, lumbered painfully up a ladder into the loft above the mangers and shook an open sack of oats therein, so that the cereal fell into the mangers. The horses looked up and were fed."

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

Old Fashioned Method of Keeping Moths Out of Carpets.

If you see signs of moths in a carpet that you do not wish to take up, try this good, old Pennsylvania plan of dispossessing them: Put two tablespoonfuls of turpentine in a half pail of hot water, dip a clean broom in it, shake off superfluous moisture on a cloth, then sweep carefully both ways of the grain of the carpet; first one way, then the other.

This application is also of value when domestic animals have introduced fleas into the house. All the dust and sweepings from the carpet should be burned at once, as fleas are hatched and live for the first twenty-four hours of their existence in the dust of the floor. If it is necessary to take the carpets up, beat thoroughly, wipe off with naphtha and hang where the sun and air can reach every portion of them. The floor meantime should be disinfected by first cleaning out all the cracks with a brush, then soap and water, and lastly by washing with a preparation of diluted carbolic acid, injecting it into all cracks and crevices.

Menu For a Luncheon.

For a luncheon serve first a bouillon or clear soup in cups with bread sticks, followed by any kind of a creamed patty with either potato croquettes or Saratoga chips, peas or asparagus; a salad with cheese wafers, olives, nuts and tiny hot rolls. The dessert should be a frozen one or charlotte russe, small cups of coffee, cheese and bar-le-duc may be the last course; coffee or chocolate may be served with the meat course.

Good Leather Polish.

To clean and polish the leather covering of chairs, etc., mix together equal parts of vinegar and linseed oil, apply very sparingly with a piece of flannel and polish with a soft cloth. The same treatment is excellent for French polished furniture, but it must be remembered that the vinegar and oil mixture is to be applied sparingly and that "elbow grease" is to be used generously.

The Greasy Sink.

Unless frequently flushed with a powerful solvent to remove the grease, the kitchen sink will clog. A strong solution of washing soda made with boiling water is most effectual and should be used very hot immediately following a thorough cleaning with warm soapsuds. Prepare a sufficient quantity that the drainpipe also may be thoroughly flushed.

Care of the Hair.

Instead of washing the hair (which takes off the natural oil and causes it to "fly just everywhere" for several days, until the oil exudes and is brushed over the hair) spread a clean, white cloth that will not lint over the slightly parted fingers of the left hand and with the right one rub your brush thoroughly, but gently, on the cloth. Brush the hair a few minutes and again clean the brush by rubbing on the cloth. Hair treated in this way ten minutes every evening for two or three weeks will be clean, soft and silky.—National Magazine.

Remedy For Insect Pests.

A good way to rid the house of pests is to place an old saucer under different articles of furniture in the room filled with a strong solution of carbolic acid. Close all the windows and doors and keep them closed for twenty-four hours. Then remove the carbolic acid, air the room, and not an insect will come there for a year, so those who have used it affirm. Use only the dark brown carbolic acid, and never use it but once in a room, throwing it away as soon as the room is aired, saucer and all.

The Care of Linen.

No linen will become yellow when packed away if it is rough dried beforehand. It must have no starch in it and should be folded without ironing. In this condition it may be kept for years without showing the least sign of decrepitude. Use pure soap, fresh clean water and an abundance of it, much air and sunshine and carefully avoid starch.

Stains on Furniture.

Stains and spots in mahogany furniture may be taken out with weak aqua fortis or oxalic acid and water, rubbing the part with a cork dipped in the liquid till the color is restored. Then wash the wood with water, dry and polish as usual.

LAUNCHING THE LIFEBOAT.

At last modern invention has begun to grapple with the task of bringing the primitive method of launching a boat from a ship's side at sea to a condition more worthy of the twentieth century. The present system, clumsy in fine weather and one of deadly peril in storm, when alone the launching of the ship's lifeboat reaches its highest necessity, has been described as "a disgrace to marine engineering." M. Welin, a Swedish engineer, has made an effort to remove the reproach. His apparatus, which has been subjected to many practical tests, has a hinge arrangement in the "chocks." The drawing of a bolt sets them free and permits the boat to glide outward, while there are horizontal arms to keep the boat from crashing against the ship's side. As passengers and crew can be got into it before it leaves the davits, the boat can be got clear immediately upon touching the water, which removes another of the great dangers of shipwreck.

Italy's Wolf Hunter.

A modern Nimrod, a hunter of the old school, has just died in Italy. For half a century he made wolf hunting a business which kept him in comfort and left a margin for a "rainy day." Wherever there was a wolf to be destroyed Luca Chiaretti was called in, and many were his savage encounters and many the scars left upon his body as witnesses. His left hand showed the marks of some terrible rips, sustained in executing a royal commission from the present king's grandfather, the Victor Emmanuel of history, so long since as 1875. It was his ambition to capture the beast alive, and he closed with it for the purpose, but the wolf got his left hand in its jaws and tore it so furiously that with the maimed hand still between the animal's teeth he had to shoot it with his right.

The Kaiser's Latest Fad.

Kaiser Wilhelm has a new fad. It is collecting picture post cards, and he has thrown himself into it with characteristic energy. Every country in the world in which Germany possesses official representatives of any kind whatever are laid under contribution. The kaiser causes his secretary to write a picture post card to the official selected, and this is inclosed in a state envelope or indorsed "business of state." This is then sent by mail, and on reaching its destination, often in the middle of the night, the addressee is at once roused from slumber to receive the document, which merely conveys the imperial greeting and commands a reply by picture post card representing some local subject "by return."

Working the Password.

Certain Russian immigrants on reaching England without money have been passed by the immigration authorities, although they should have been rejected under the new aliens act, says a London paper. They were passed when they declared themselves to the Social Democrats and by replying to the following question: "Are the operations of the society directed against all governments or only against the Russian government?" "Only against Russia." "Admitted." The immigration authorities now find that they are overwhelmed with impoverished Social Democrats from Russia. In fact, nobody but Social Democrats seems to be emigrating from Russia just now.

Churchill Can Talk Back.

Winston Churchill, the English convert to Liberalism, is making a reputation for sharp wit. His curt retort to a woman heckler, "Madam, I will not be henpecked," was the best thing of the recent campaign. He is now raising a mustache. A fair lady was being taken in to dinner by the budding politician. "Mr. Churchill," she said, "I like your politics as little as I like your mustache." It should have been a crushing shot, but not so to Churchill. His reply was on the instant, "Madam, you are not likely to come in contact with either."

HOUSEKEEPING IN CHINA.

"Keeping house in China is delightful," said the wife of an American army officer who has just returned from the far east. "We had a lovely little house in Tientsin. There you never hear any talk about the servant problem, and you don't have to keep a continual watch on the 'want' columns of the newspapers for fear your hired girl will leave you suddenly." The truth is, however, that your "hired girl" is really a boy, for very few Chinese women do any work outside of their own homes. Instead boys, ranging from ten to eighteen years, take their places and make simply ideal servants. They may be hired for almost nothing, so that most foreigners have anywhere from six to eight employees about the house. One of these is promoted to the position of "butler," and he is the only one with whom you have any direct dealings. All your orders go to him, which certainly simplifies the house-keeping for the mistress. This butler is the responsible head of the domestic staff and can be depended upon to take care of everything and to get the proper amount of work out of the other servants.—Interior Decoration.

began to sell paper patterns we began to investigate. we said to ourselves,

 THE LADIES HOME JOURNAL

Is the leading Womans Magazine. It is first class and has never done anything in a second class way. We knew that its reputation was at stake. Our investigation convinced us that the patterns are as high grade as the Magazine

Furthermore the Ladies Home Journal added a new feature which makes these patterns much more desirable than any other pattern. They furnish a Guide Chart free with each pattern. This Chart shows exactly how the pattern is to be put together. It is so comprehensive that a child can understand it. It is a boon to ladies who are inexperienced in garment cutting and garment making. Mothers advise us that by the aid of the Guide Chart furnished with each

they train their daughters to do their own sewing

But there is still another point to consider. The patterns are all new, no old styles, no ancient creations; all new, all up-to-date and perfect in fit and style, and so much more easily understood than other patterns that one trial will convince you and make you a regular customer
