NO. 4445

COTTEN FOR LEGISLATURE.

Falkland, N. C. May 12, 1906.
TO THE VOTERS OF PITT COUNTY:

The time draws near for holding the county convention. Soon we will be selecting our representatives in the next Legislature. It is vastly important that we commit no error in so doing.

It is vastly important that regardless of personal feeling and regardless of the section of his residence, we name the man who can serve us to our greatest practical benefit.

Falkland township will ask for the nomination of R. R. Cotten, Esq. for the Legislature.

And mark this because we are convinced that there are few indeed who could at this time make us so useful a representative possessed of a very wide acquaintance all over the State, he could wield an influence that would require one less well known the whole term to acquire.

A farmer who lives on his farm and is dependant upon his farm he could not do other than espouse the causes conservative of the farmers and the public interests.

Industrious, progressive, and advanced in his views, and ambitious for the welfare of his county and State, we warrant that if he is sent to the next Legislature there will be "something doing" for the good of old Pitt county.

JENNES MORRILL.

Tendency Toward Changes.

Verily, old things are passing away and all things are becoming new. Northern Presbyterians are now seen wandering their way to church carrying prayer books, just like Episcopalians and Catholics, and it looks like the Methodist conference at Birmingham is going to break through the four-year limit for pastors. The committee on itinerary has reported in favor of changing the pastoral period from four to six years, and there is said to be a strong sentiment for removing the limit altogether and placing the whole matter in the hands of the bishop. This is an extreme view and it is probable that it will not meet with the endorsement of the conference. It is again probable that the present conference will not be moved by the discussion on extending the time limit, but it naturally becomes a church question that, if not settled now, will call for settlement at a future time. It would not be surprising if, in the end, the six-year advocates carry the day, for times are changing and churches change with them.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Daughtridge-Joyner.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Joyner request the pleasure of your company at the marriage of their daughter Mary Lee to Mr. Wm. Maurice Daughtridge on Thursday evening, June the seventh, Nineteen hundred and six at quarter after eight o'clock 431 West Gaston Street Greensboro, North Carolina. At Home after June fifteenth Rocky Mount, North Carolina.

MAUPIN ITEMS

Maupin, N. C., May 14, 1906.—Abrom Baker is critically ill at his home one mile in the country.

Dr. W. H. Bagwell, of Greenville, was here Thursday.

Our town election passed off quiet last Monday, electing G. H. Little and B. B. Satterthwaite for commissioners and J. J. Satterthwaite for mayor.

W. P. Johnson, of Elizabeth City, was here Thursday.

B. B. Satterthwaite and wife spent Wednesday in Washington.

R. R. Fleming went to Washington Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Moore and little son, Wesley Jones, of Grimesland, were visiting relatives here Sunday.

Fernando Ward and J. J. Satterthwaite went out to Berrie Swamp church Sunday to hear Elder T. H. Lawrence, of Hamilton, preach.

The frost and cold nights the past week did considerable damage to crops in this section.

D. R. Willis, of Washington, was here Friday.

L. H. Little went to Greenville Friday.

G. G. Gable, of Washington, was here Friday.

A Drummer Among Legislators.

A drummer by the name of John Dutton, who was stopping at a hotel in Montpelier, Vt, when the legislature was in session, found his hotel, the Pavillion, was the headquarters of most of the representatives, says the Boston Herald:

When supper was announced the legislators rushed in and took their places, and began to call upon each other to pass the food, saying: "Will the gentleman from Bradford please pass the rolls?" or "Will the gentleman from Essex pass the pie?" or "Would the man from Portland please pass the butter?"

This did not suit the drummer who had been unable to get anything, and during a brief interval of quiet he turned to the colored waiter and remarked: "Will the gentleman from Ethiopia please pass the bread?"

Funerals Tied Up.

New York, Saturday, 12.—A serious situation confronts the health department because of the strike of the funeral drivers. Two hundred funerals were scheduled for today and a like number for tomorrow, while 150 were postponed from yesterday. The health department has determined to ask the aid of the police department in preventing molestation of funerals. One undertaker has engaged sight seeing automobiles for a funeral today for the use of mourners, and the remains will be carried in a business wagon.

Commencements.

Winterville high school and Farmville graded school both have commencements this week. Hon. E. E. Hilliard, of Scotland Neck, will speak at Winterville, and Lieutenant Governor F. D. Winston will speak at Farmville.

AN EVENING DOWN TOWN.

We are going to make a plea for our women that we hope and trust will be received in the same spirit in which it is given, and if so we believe some good will be accomplished. Not long ago it was suggested to us by a woman that we write an article on the habit that so many men have of getting up from the supper table and marching off down town to spend the evening hours in the company of their men friends, instead of spending the time with their wives and children. It is a timely topic and one that deserves serious consideration. The men who do this mean no harm, of course. They do not remember that it is a plain preference for the society of others to those they love best. The little woman left at home is compelled to feel this way about it, anyhow. She will never say so in words; she is too proud for that, but in her heart she is bound to believe that the attraction down town is stronger than that at home, for everybody knows that a man will go where he enjoys himself most. Various excuses are offered. The mail must be looked over. Business engagements must be met. Conferences of various kinds must be held. This that and the other must be done; but after all, the man who never fails to spend from seven to ten o'clock every night away from his family, can not convince the wife that her company is as congenial or as pleasant as that of the gentlemen he meets in the grocery, drug store, and other popular places for the nightly "confab." In his place of business all day, with a glimpse of him at the three meals, it is hard that the wife and the children must remain alone through the three hours from supper until bedtime, and there can be no business reason strong enough to justify his leaving them. Now and then, of course, he is compelled to meet emergencies, but we are not talking about that. We are referring to the daily habit some men have, as regular as the coming of the night, of leaving their families at the only time they have every right to claim his presence. Think over the matter, brethren, and see if you have done the right thing by your dear ones. It will not do to say that you cannot help it. You know you can help it if you will. We beg your pardon for making these suggestions, but they are made now; and we trust they will do no harm.—Archibald Johnson, in Charity and Children.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings Over the State.

The Southerner says that in sinking wells at Tarboro, overflow water was struck at the depth of 80 or 85 feet.

Susie Hammon, a 12-year-old white girl, of Concord, has been convicted of manslaughter. Though so young in years she was leading a life of shame, and had shot and killed a married man named Stack.

The town of Sanford, had a bad fire Saturday. A sash and blind factory was destroyed, causing a loss of $25,000 on which there was no insurance. The factory was so close to the depot that several cars loaded with merchandise were also burned.

Daniel Litchfield and W. C. Selby, two boatmen from Washington, were arrested in this city by the police upon the authority of a 'phone message from the chief of police of Washington, Friday afternoon, and locked up on the charge of murder, pending the arrival of the Washington officer. The murder was committed on a boat at the dock in Washington Wednesday night, and the victim, negro, thrown in the river.—Kinston Free Press.

Thursday will be a memorable day with Henry Knight, one of the most industrious, and as he thinks now of the most foolish, men in Walnut Creek township. On that day his house was burned and so was his barn with all his corn, and even some chickens. The contents of the house were also destroyed. Among these were $380 in money, which N. B. Killebrew had urged him previously, more than once to deposit in bank.—Tarboro Southerner.

A Short Campaign.

The Winston Sentinel argues in favor of a short campaign this year. That is a sensible argument. With no Presidential election and no great issues that need long elaboration and discussion, no political meetings of any character ought to have been held until August. It was a mistake for the State convention to have been called until the latter part of August or the early part of September. The people are very busy and prefer to have conventions late and campaigns short, sharp and decisive.—Winston Sentinel.

The Lying Bear.

"The cotton bear," said Col. Peg Leg Graham to a number of friends yesterday, "will get by this frost all right. You can't lose the bear. He will argue like this: 'Well, that frost was not so bad after all—it will thin the cotton and kill the grass, just the thing the farmer would do himself. No, no the cotton planter will be benefitted by it, as labor is so scarce.'—Charlotte Observer.

Woods Fire.

Mr. Joshua L. Tripp tells us that his neighbors and himself were kept busy all day Sunday fighting fire in the woods. They finally succeeded in putting it out.

A LETTER OF ENDORSEMENT.

Fountain, N. C. May 10.

EDITOR REFLECTOR.

Sir I see in your issue of May 1st an article from Dr. C. M. Jones, of Grimesland, setting forth and recommending Mr. J. J. Laughinghouse for the senate. Now I beg to say that I endorse every word that Dr. Jones has uttered in that article, and especially do I join in with him in recommending Mr. Laughinghouse for the senate. I hope the people of Pitt in our coming Democratic convention will all with one accord call him for that position.

And as I prefer letting the office seek the man, I will offer the names of two farmers as suitable men for the lower house, men we all know, men that have the love of our country at heart, men that are practical and successful farmers and know the wants of our country. If we should select and elect them I am sure it will be the pride of Pitt county. Mr. R. E. Cotten, of Falkland and Mr. S. M. Jones, of Bethel, are recommended by your humble servant.

CHRISTIANITY AND ISLAM.

In Their Origin Both Religions Are Asiatic and Semitic.

In their origin Christianity and Islam are both Asiatic, both Semitic, and Jerusalem is but a few hundred miles from Mecca. In regard to the number of their adherents both have steadily increased from the beginning to the present day. But Mohammedanism has been practically confined to Asia and Africa, while Christianity has been the religion of Europe and the new world, and politically it rules now over all the world, except China and Turkey.

Mohammedanism has been identified with a stationary civilization and Christianity with a progressive one. There was a time—from the eighth century to the thirteenth—when science and philosophy flourished at Bagdad and Cordova under Moslem rule, while darkness reigned in Europe. But Renan has shown that this brilliant period was neither Arabic nor Mohammedan in its spirit or origin, and, although his statements may admit of some modification, it is certain that, however brilliant while it lasted, this period has left no trace in the Moslem faith unless it be in the philosophical basis of Mohammedan law, while Christianity has led the way in the progress of modern civilization.

Both of these are positive religions. Each claims to rest upon a divine revelation which is in its nature final and unchangeable. Yet the one is stationary and the other progressive. The one is based upon what it believes to be divine commands and the other upon divine principles—just the difference that there is between the law of Sinai and the law of love, the Ten Commandments and the two. The ten are specific and unchangeable; the two admit of ever new and progressive application.—Contemporary Review.

Warning to Girls.

Girls, we never tried it, but it is our opinion you would better be an old maid than the slave of some worthless man, and there are many worthless men in circulation. So don't be in a hurry to marry. You can do that almost any time. Those who have tried it say it is quite a task to cut loose from a stick of a man after you tie up to one.—Junction City (Kan.) Sentinel.

The Water Flea.

Residents in Edinburgh are much perturbed by the discovery that their water supply is polluted by the presence of a living organism, white in color, but described from its shape and general appearance as "a water flea." The creature exists in cisterns in different parts of the city and also in the fire hydrant street boxes, where it seems to thrive around the edges of the valve.

To Remove Mildew.

Dissolve chloride of lime and dip the article in, turning so all parts will be under water, and with sticks (it will make the hands sore, so be careful) punch the article till the mildew disappears. Then rinse in several waters and boil in strong soapsuds and rinse again in several waters, else it will be apt to make the cloth tender.

Working the Password.

Certain Russian immigrants on reaching England without money have been passed by the immigration authorities, although they should have been rejected under the new aliens act, says a London paper. They were passed when they declared themselves to the Social Democrats and by replying to the following question: "Are the operations of the society directed against all governments or only against the Russian government?" "Only against Russia." "Admitted." The immigration authorities now find that they are overwhelmed with impoverished Social Democrats from Russia. In fact, nobody but Social Democrats seems to be emigrating from Russia just now.

Churchill Can Talk Back.

Winston Churchill, the English convert to Liberalism, is making a reputation for sharp wit. His curt retort to a woman heckler, "Madam, I will not be henpecked," was the best thing of the recent campaign. He is now raising a mustache. A fair lady was being taken in to dinner by the budding politician. "Mr. Churchill," she said, "I like your politics as little as I like your mustache." It should have been a crushing shot, but not so to Churchill. His reply was on the instant, "Madam, you are not likely to come in contact with either."

Suspicious.

"If you want to be liked in a newspaper office," said the man at the desk, "you must be careful to write only on one side of the paper." The youth with a bunch of manuscript looked at him suspiciously and exclaimed: "No, you don't. I may look young, but I can see through some things. You want me to write my poetry on one side of the paper so that you can turn it over and use the other side for your long winded articles about finance. It's an economical idea, but I'm not so foolish."—Washington Star.

Marry and Live Long.

Marriage is an institution highly conducive to the health of both husband and wife. Statistics prove that among married men over twenty years of age and women over forty the mortality rate is far less than among those who remain single. Among the widowed and divorced the mortality is exceptionally great. Suicides among the unmarried are much more numerous than among the married. The matrimonial state promotes temperance in every form. Furthermore, the probable duration of life of a married man of thirty exceeds that of his unmarried brother by five years, and the wife may expect to live one year longer than a single woman of the same age.—American Medicine.

The Unexpected.

"Yes, my wife returned our new neighbor's call the other afternoon and found several ladies there playing bridge. The hostess asked her to take a hand, and although she is only a fair sort of player she didn't want to appear ungracious, so she sat in with the others. Imagine her surprise when she found out—after they stopped the game—that she had been playing for money!" "Gracious! What did she do?" "Why, she couldn't do anything." "Couldn't?" "No. She was $17 ahead of the game!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Nautical Description.

A sailor who was looking for work called at a certain farm to see if the farmer could find him a job. Farmer—Been working anywhere since you left your ship? Sailor—Yes. Farmer—What sort of work? Sailor—Well, I dunno exactly. It was on some sort of a machine. They put all the wheat down her main hatch, an' the straw came right out of her bows, an' there was two bags hooked on to her stern to catch the other stuff.—London Chronicle.

The song will have to be changed to "Teddy's a Clay Man."

Good roads for Pitt county and good streets for Greenville should be the cry until both are secured.

The railroads took the President's big stick away from him and convinced him that he really has no back bone.

If Uncle Sam wants any more horse jockey's bones they might be found nearer home without the trouble and expense of going to France after them.

Wall street is figuring on a plan to finance San Francisco. Falling into the hands of that crowd would be about the next worst thing to the earthquake and fire for the stricken city.

The spring weather has been such as to favor the idea of the cotton association for a small crop this year. The weather has been anything else but favorable and at this early stage of the season the prospect of a crop are very poor.

President Roosevelt has made almost an entire change of front in regard to the rate bill and flopped right over to the side of the railroads, showing that he, too, is under the control of the corporations. When the highest official in the land shows such bad faith it is enough to make the people wonder at the absence of honor.

Judge Walter Clark's idea, as enunciated in a recent speech at Philadelphia, that a constitutional convention should be held and make such changes in the Federal constitution as will give the people more voice in the government, is based on principal and right. There is danger of disruption ahead of the government if it continues to be controlled by a few bosses and corporations and manipulated in their interest.

According to the press dispatches coming from France, the United States has run up on a neat fake in the John Paul Jones matter. The report goes that the bones, reported to be those of John Paul Jones, which were dug up and escorted to this country by the fleets of two nations, and were only recently deposited in a mausoleum at Annapolis with great pomp and ceremony, are not the bones of John Paul Jones at all, but of William Jones, a Welsh coachman of notorious character. Too bad!

In nearly every street of the cities of Japan there is a public oven, where for a small fee, people may have their dinners cooked.

JUDGES TO RETIRE.

The Lord is always good to us, but it seems He is extending His mercies this year. The Landmark published a statement a few days ago that a certain Superior Court judge, whose term expires with the year, would not be a candidate for re-election, whereat we expressed gratification. The judge in question is a good man, an honorable man, of correct habits, but he is not suited to the work on the Superior Court bench and his retirement is the best thing for him and the people. Now comes the news that another judge will not be a candidate for re election, whereat we give an extra whoop or two for joy. He is a good man and we wouldn't hurt his feelings (or the feelings of the first mentioned, either,) but the fact is he knows little law, lacks decision and is utterly unfit for the work. Of correct habits, honorable and up right, it isn't pleasant to say these things, but it is well known, where ever he has held court, that he is entirely unsuited to the work and his retirement is the best thing for him and the people. Now if Bob Peebles and a few others we could mention would get down the Superior Court bench would be in very fair shape—provided, always, that Judge Shaw is retained.—Statesville Landmark.

Possibly the modesty of the Landmark prevented it talking in this connection about its own townsman, but down this way the people are of the opinion that Judge Long, of Statesville, is one of those who should be retained. He is one of the good judges in the State, but the Landmark intimates there are some others who can serve their State better by retiring.

Bill Jones, the coachman, will have some trouble identifying himself at the judgment, coming out of the grave marked for John Paul Jones, the father of the American navy.

W. W. Kitchin Mentioned For Governor. The name of Congressman W. W. Kitchin is receiving mention in connection with the nomination for governor. Of course Mr. Kitchin is running for Congress at the present writing, and the next convention that will nominate a candidate for governor is very far in the future, but some talk of that nature is being heard here just the same.—Washington cor. Charlotte-Observer.

SECURITY TO DEPOSITORS

A National Bank

Is under the supervision of the United States government,

They are required to submit to the government a sworn detailed statement five times a year. The stockholders are held responsible for double the amount of their stock, which has to be paid in, in CASH, and held in tact for the protection of the depositors. Further, the bank has to add to its surplus account each year before declaring a dividend. This adds more to the depositors security.

BEEN TO THE RACKET STORE?

One hears this question around town these days wherever the buyers meet, and the one who has been in will say "Don't buy a thing until you see their beautiful goods, they've got everything in this town beaten the biggest mile you ever heard of."

AND WE HAVE!

We've got the goods alright, and all we ask is for you to see them. These goods are bought and sold on the one grand principle "CASH." Don't forget the place

IT HAD NO "RING."

A Quarter That Seemed a Counterfeit, but Was Good.

The watchmaker was busy at his bench, with his magnifying glass in his eye, when a young woman came in to pay for some small repair job. She threw a twenty-five cent piece on the showcase, and the watchmaker's friend noticed there was no ring to the coin. The watchmaker observed it, too, and he dropped it himself to try its resonance. It fell with a dull, metallic sound, and he picked it up again and squinted at it carefully. "Oh, isn't it good, sir?" asked the young woman, blushing deeply and painfully confused.

"I guess it's all right, miss—thank you," said the watchmaker, and she hurried out, evidently relieved.

"I admire your chivalrous instincts, old man," said the friend, taking up the coin and trying to ring it on the counter. "But this is a counterfeit."

The watchmaker smiled. "You think it won't pass, eh?" he said.

"Oh, it may pass, but not if the man is awake. Why, the thing has about as much ring to it as a soda cracker!"

"I guarantee I can pass that at the window of the bank over the way," remarked the watchmaker.

"Not if you call the clerk's attention to it—no, sir."

"I'll even ask him if it's good," said the watchmaker confidently. "If the quarter isn't good I'll pay for our luncheons. If it is all right you'll settle. Is it a go?"

"You bet!" said his friend. And they went over to the bank.

"Just see if this quarter is good, will you?" asked the watchmaker of the cashier.

The cashier rang it and shook his head. "I guess not," he said. "But wait a moment." He stepped back with the coin and tested it. When he turned around he remarked, with a smile:

"Well, that's one on me! It's as good as they make 'em at the mint. But I'll give you a new quarter for it if you like."

"No, you won't!" exclaimed the watchmaker, taking the coin and putting it into his pocket. "I'll make many a lunch on that."

Then he explained that there was a tiny crack in the center of the quarter—a flaw too small to be noticed by the naked eye. But through his magnifying glass he had seen it and guessed the reason why the quarter was not a "ringer."—New York Press.

THE SECURITY BOND SUIT.

Our now popular Mrs. Jane Hopkins "Security" Bond Suit originated last season in an attempt to furnish progressive dealers with a really meritorious boy's suit that can be sold at $5.00 with an unconditional guarantee of satisfaction or money back should the suit prove defective. After considerable experimenting as to fabrics, tailoring, improved features, such as Double seats, double double knees, extra strong thread, linings waist band, etc.

We succeeded in producing a guaranteed boy's suit that is proving a tremendous success with dealers now selling it. The "security" bond suit is good because it is so thoroughly reinforced throughout. Our success of last season has encouraged us to still greater efforts, and we are determined that the future of the Mrs. Jane Hopkins "Security Bond Suit" shall be a bright one from your standpoint and ours.

A Democratic convention of Pitt county will be held at the court house in Greenville at 11 o'clock A. M. Thursday, June 14th, 1906, for the purpose of selecting delegates to the various State, Judicial and Congressional conventions. The Democratic primaries for the purpose of selecting delegates to the county convention will be held at the various voting precincts of the respective townships of Pitt county on Saturday, the 9th day of June, 1906, at 3 o'clock P. M. At these primaries the Democratic voters of the respective townships will select delegates to the county convention to be held at Greenville on the 14th of June. Each township will be entitled to the following number of delegates, to the county convention based upon its vote for Governor for 1904, to wit:

By order of the committee.

Former Quack Medicines.

Johnson bestows ironical commendation upon the modest candor of the vender of a beautifying fluid which "repels pimples, drives away freckles, smooths the skin and plumps the flesh, but does not profess to restore the roses of fifteen to a lady of fifty," while he also admires the zeal for the ease and safety of teething infants shown by the inventor of the anodyne necklace, and the affecting terms in which, he warned every mother that she would never forgive herself if her infant should perish without a necklace. It would be interesting to know what the great doctor thought of a certain advertisement in the Spectator of a "grateful electuary for the cure of loss of memory or forgetfulness, enabling those whose memory was before almost totally lost to remember the minutest circumstances of their affairs to a wonder. Price, two and sixpence a pot." — Cornhill Magazine.

Birds' Toilets.

Birds are very particular in the making of their toilets. Some use water only, others dust and water and others dust alone. Wild ducks, feeding by salt water, will only bathe in fresh water and fly inland twenty or thirty miles in order to get a fresh water bath. Sparrows take two kinds of baths—water and dust. They are not particular about the former, but for the latter only the cleanest and driest dust will serve. The partridge takes a loam bath. Scratching off the turf, he loosens a square foot of rich, chocolate colored loam and bathes therein his sleek plumage. All birds love a bath of ashes. He who walks through a field that has recently been burnt off will note every little while a disturbance in the charred ash heaps, and up, shaking off a fine cloud of ash dust, many birds will rise.

Bees as Embalmers.

Bees can embalm as well as any undertaker. All intruders on their hives are slain and embalmed carefully. If a worm or a roach or any insect blunders into a hive, the bees fall upon it and slay it with their stings. To get the corpse out would be a difficulty; therefore, embalming it, they let it remain. The embalming process consists in covering the corpse with a hermetic coat of pure wax. Within this air tight envelope the body remains fresh. It cannot in any way contaminate the hive. When a snail blunders in among the bees, they cannot kill it on account of the protection of its shell. So they embalm it alive. They cover it, shell and all, with snowy wax. It is a prisoner which only death releases.

CONDENSED STORIES.

Judge English's Amusing Experience With a Typical Hobo.

The late Judge English, the author of "Ben Bolt," had an experience with a typical hobo when the judge represented the Newark (N. J.) district in the house of representatives. The fellow spruced up for the occasion and, going to the capitol, sent his card in to the Newark member, who was noted as a humanitarian. When Judge English came out the fellow "kotoed" and introduced himself as an important member of Mr. English's party. He talked familiarly of some of the Essex county politicians. Former Representative William Fiedler, afterward postmaster of Newark, was described as "Me chum, Billy

"CERTAINLY I WILL LET YOU HAVE THE MONEY."

Fiedler," while former Representative Lehlbach was spoken of as "Lelly." After the fellow had almost exhausted his stock Judge English finally said:

"Well, my man, all this talk is leading up to something. What can I do for you?"

"'Tis awfully embarrassing to me, yer honor, to have to make me declaration, but truth is I am temporarily financially embarrassed and want enough money to see me home to Newark. An X will do the act, and I will return it as soon as I reach home."

"Certainly I will let you have the money," said Judge English, with a good natured twinkle in his eyes.

The hobo's face was at once wreathed in smiles, as he could already, in imagination, feel the crisp ten dollar bill in his hand.

"But," added the New Jersey representative, his face assuming a more grave expression, "of course before letting you have the money I will have to verify your story, which you have so plausibly and interestingly told. I will wire the chairman of the Essex county committee, and if he confirms what you have said I will cheerfully let you have the $10. It is now 2 o'clock. Come to my hotel at 7:30, and by that time I will have heard from Newark. If your story is true the $10 will be waiting for you."

It is needless to add that the fellow did not put in an appearance at the hotel.

Crushed.

The cigar girl in a Walnut street office building is red headed and is frequently teased about her hair by customers. She doesn't let them worry her, though, and usually gives them as good as they send. The other day a young man stepped up to the cigar case and touched the girl's hair with his finger. Drawing back his hand quickly, he began to shake it. "My!" he said. "I burned myself!" "Oh, no, you didn't," came from the girl. "You're away too green to burn." When the youth heard several men near by laugh he found he had pressed business outside.—Kansas City Times.

Charlemagne was in need of amusement.

"Why," they asked him, "do you have such a large number of court jesters in constant attendance on your royal person?"

"Because," he replied, with a right regal chuckle, "I could not earn the surname of 'The Great' were I not careful to keep my wits about me."

Fitted Him.

His majesty's inspector was testing the class in general knowledge. "Now, lads," he said, gravely, "your teacher, I expect, has explained to you the meanings of most of the mottoes which apply to the months of the year. Thus, 'If February give much snow, a fine summer it doth foreshow,' and 'In January if sun appear, March and April pay full dear.' But I wonder which of you can remember what comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb?"

There was an awestruck silence for a few moments, and then a pale looking boy said:

"Please, sir, it's our landlord when he gets his arrears paid up!"

The Norman's Dream.

The Normans are called the Yankees of France, which is a compliment to them, no doubt, though it sometimes has reference to their extremely thrifty habits and to the craft which they employ in evading a service that may cost them something. It is related that one good Norman farmer went early one morning to another's house and found him still in bed.

"Art thou asleep, neighbor?" he asked, somewhat falteringly, in the tone of a man who is going to ask a favor.

"If I were not asleep," murmured the other from his bed, "what probably wouldst thou want of me?"

"To borrow thy donkey to go to the fair at Gisors."

"Well, then, neighbor, I am sound asleep."

"Bah! Thou canst not be asleep when thou talkest to me."

"Nonsense! It is only a dream I am having, neighbor."

And the other had to go away without the donkey.

Mental Poise and Health.

People who reach extreme old age are, as a rule, pretty well balanced, physically and mentally. A poised life is serene, and serenity and harmony tend to longevity. The mind that is not well balanced is constantly jangled and out of tune. There is a constant jarring which racks the whole human machinery. There is discord in an unbalanced life, and discord is always destructive—deadly. The well poised, dignified life is not thrown off its center quickly. The man who goes all to pieces over trifles is one sided. There is a momentum in a poised, balanced nature which steadies its progress and helps hold it on its chosen track. Hot temper, constant mental confusions and disorder are vitality sappers—life shorteners.—Success Magazine.

Nothing to Do.

A busy wife, tired of hearing her husband declare that woman had nothing to do, made up a little statement of the way she had spent her time for one year. She had two children and two servants. Here are a few only of the items which silenced the husband once for all: Number of lunches put up, 1,157; meals ordered, 963; desserts prepared, 172; lamps filled and trimmed, 328; rooms dusted (a nine room house), 2,259; dressed children, 786 times; visits received, 879; visits paid, 167; books read, 88; papers read, 553; stories read aloud, 234; games played, 329; church services attended, 125; articles mended, 1,236; articles of clothing made, 120; fancy articles made, 56; letters written, 429; hours at the piano, 90½; hours in Sunday school work, 208; sick days, 44; amusements attended, 10.

Mother—Now, Jennie, I want you to divide that apple with Willie; and remember, you must divide it in the Christian way.

Jennie—What way is that, mother? I don't know the Christian way.

Mother—You don't know the Christian way, Jennie? Why, it means that you must cut the apple in half and then give Willie the biggest half.

Jennie—Oh, mother, I can't cut it! I'll give it to Willie and let him divide it between us in the Christian way.—Judge.

Girls Lost.

Two negro girls, aged 17 and 13 years, living near Adams creek, in Jones county, started on an errand a week ago and have not been seen since by their people though search has been made. It is feared they are lost or have met with foul play. Mr. W. C. Hines was applied to today to take his blood hounds over there and join in the hunt for the missing girls.

Nothing too GOOD

FOR

OUR CUSTOMERS

we are always looking for something better; always working to secure values and styles superior to other stores. when

The Ladies Home Journal

began to sell paper patterns we began to investigate. we said to ourselves,

 THE LADIES HOME JOURNAL

Is the leading Womans Magazine. It is first class and has never done anything in a second class way. We knew that its reputation was at stake. Our investigation convinced us that the patterns are as high grade as the Magazine

Furthermore the Ladies Home Journal added a new feature which makes these patterns much more desirable than any other pattern. They furnish a Guide Chart free with each pattern. This Chart shows exactly how the pattern is to be put together. It is so comprehensive that a child can understand it. It is a boon to ladies who are inexperienced in garment cutting and garment making. Mothers advise us that by the aid of the Guide Chart furnished with each

they train their daughters to do their own sewing

But there is still another point to consider. The patterns are all new, no old styles, no ancient creations; all new, all up-to-date and perfect in fit and style, and so much more easily understood than other patterns that one trial will convince you and make you a regular customer
