FORMER PRESIDENT CLEVELAND.

Heads Advisory Committee of Jamestown Exposition.

Before he accepted the chairmanship of the advisory committee of the Jamestown Exposition, former President Grover Cleveland had devoted time and thought to the enterprise which had his hearty commendation. To Mr. Hugh Gordon Miller, New York commissioner of the exposition, Mr. Cleveland said that nothing ought "to interfere with the success of the exposition planned for the celebration of the first white settlement upon the domain now embraced within the limit of the country we proudly call the United States.

"We have fittingly celebrated the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America. The three hundredth anniversary of the settlement of Jamestown is hardly less worthy of commemoration. A great nation cannot bring to mind its small beginning and its stupendous growth through such a celebration as the Jamestown exposition company contemplates without stirring in the hearts of its people their best patriotism and the sincerest devotion to the principles which have made this nation great. And such patriotism and such devotion so completely underlies American institutions that their soundness and strength are absolutely necessary to our strength and perpetuity.

"I hope, therefore, that nothing will be lacking to make the exposition successful, as an agency for the stimulation of our national pride and increase of our faith in free institutions."

President Woodrow Wilson, of Princeton University, Colonel Henry Watterson, Cardinal Gibbons and the other members of the committee which Mr. Cleveland heads are heartily in accord with the former President in his enthusiasm for the success of the exposition. Colonel Watterson said: "There is nothing that I can do either personally or as an editor that I will not gladly do to advance its interests. I do not think I need elaborate the many claims which so obvious an undertaking has upon the country. It seems to me that intelligent people everywhere will concur in the opinion that old Jamestown must be duly celebrated."

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town.

Ayden, N. C., May 18, 1906.

The net profits of the dispensary for its first year were $4,031.52.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. A. R. Holton, who has been seriously ill at his home, near here for some time, is so much improved as to be able to ride about. In fact we are informed he was in Ayden yesterday. This is indeed gratifying to his many friends.

Jesse Sauls, of near Fremont, is here on a visit to his son, Dr. M. M. Sauls.

J. H. Cobb, of Ballards, was here yesterday.

The Masons held their regular semi-monthly meeting Thursday. Will Bunnell has returned from Norfolk.

Johnnie Matthews, of Vanceboro, has been here on a visit.

Elias Turnage, of Ormondsville, has been in Ayden during the week on business.

Wednesday evening, near Ayden, at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Wyatt Harris, Mr. Abram Manning and Miss Ella Harris were united in marriage. J. J. Stokes, Esq. performing the ceremony.

J. A. Davis has been in attendance upon the closing exercises of the Wilson Disciple college during the past week.

Mrs. W. E. Hooks and children are visiting her parents out in the country.

All of the non-resident teachers of the graded school have gone to their various homes for the summer. Miss Alyce Taylor, of Virginia, Miss Hennie Brown, near Hamilton, Miss Mary Long Whitehead, Scotland Neck. These young ladies have rendered themselves very popular with our people by their pleasing manners, friendly intercourse and social relations added to which many other charming attractions that go to make their presences not only appreciative, but very much desired. We certainly will gladly welcome their return.

Capt. H. B. Phillips, of Shelmerdine, was here Tuesday.

Mr. McNorton, of Everett, spent one day during the week with F. G. Butman.

The skating rink is nearing completion and the hearts of our pleasure seeking folks are beating high in joyful anticipation of a good time.

F. G. Buhmann & Co. have moved their stock of goods from Ayden out to Slabtown, a short distance from here.

David Jones left one day this week for the sanitarium in Washington, to be treated for appendicitis.

Aydenites have been taking in the commencement at Winterville during the week.

E. Williams, Roy Flanagan, E. G. Flanagan, J. N. Hart, A. J. Moore, C. S. Forbes and R. M. Moye came down from Greenville Tuesday evening to assist the boys in the conferring of several ranks in the Pythians lodge of this place. Their visit was very highly appreciated, instructive and of great benefit. We want them to come again.

That was a nice write up of Ayden by our neighbor The Free Will Baptist, but really brother you slighted the drug store, the dispensary and the handsome little dandy of the town. Surely brother, you haven't noticed those lovely flowers we've been wearing lately. Our brother is a good writer and he is generous too. We know he didn't intend to hurt us. He just forgot. Ayden is so big you know. We excuse him. We know how it is.

We regret our inability to give the closing exercises of the graded school here the necessary write up, but we were sick at the time and unable to get the facts. We were very much disappointed and our last items even were written under trying circumstances. We ask pardon and we feel sure it is granted, as our friends know, just at this time, our health is none the best. That the graded school in Ayden during the past session was a decided success is admitted and appreciated by our people. The faculty was of the highest order and the progress made by pupils was evident and most marked. In the possession of such a school and its magnificent management we heartily congratulate our community upon their good fortune. It is an honor and a credit, and the blessings and benefits to be hereafter attained from it are inexpressibly encouraging.

Call For Congressional Convention.

In pursuance of a resolution adopted by the Democratic Congressional Executive Committee of the First Congressional District of North Carolina; a convention is hereby called to meet in Elizabeth City, N. C., on Thursday, June 28th, 1906 at 3 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate to represent said district in the Sixteenth Congress of the United States.

A. L. PENDLETON,
Chairman.

Found Dead in Bed.

Miss Julia Congleton, a maiden lady aged 72 years, who lived with her brother, Mr. H. S. Congleton, near Briery Swamp church, in Carolina township, was found dead in bed this morning. For some years she had been slightly paralyzed but was able to get about and recently her health had been as good as in a long time. This morning when some member of the household went to call her to breakfast she was found dead. She was an exceptionally good woman and held in highest esteem by all who knew her.

The Nashville, Tenn., American is authority for the statement that a well-known chewing gum manufacturer with an income of $27,000 a year draws a pension of $8 a month from the government. On the ground of "total incapacity for manual labor," he is now endeavoring to get the pension increased to $12. There is certainly nothing the matter with the chewing gum man's nerve.—Charlotte Observer.

WINTERVILLE COMMENCEMENT.

Magnificent Speech by Hon. E. E. Hilliard.

The three days' exercises of the commencement of Winterville High School came to a close Thursday night. The closing day was perhaps the most notable in the history of the school. There was an immense throng of people from Pitt and other counties present, the patronage of the school covering such a large territory as to make interest in it wide spread.

In the past Winterville High school has had as orators on commencement and other occasions men of national reputation—governors, doctors of divinity, congressmen, presidents and professors of colleges, editors of great daily papers—but the school and people assembled there have heard no more able and scholarly address than the one delivered Thursday by Hon. E. E. Hilliard, of Scotland Neck. His theme was "Searchers for Truth." He handled his subject masterfully, his beautiful eloquence and oratory enrapturing the large audience. He said there is nothing great unless founded upon truth. Take away truth and this old world would soon crumble into nothingness. We may stand on the brink of the mighty ocean and be enraptured with its greatness as we watch the rolling billows of the wide sea come in and lash the shore; we may stand at the foothills of some majestic mountain and look with admiration to its lofty peak which rises until it kisses the skies; we may sit in some magnificent hall and be entranced with the music of a superb orchestra, but these delights pale into insignificance in comparison with seeking and possessing truth.

The introduction of the speaker to the audience was made by Rev. T. H. King

At the conclusion of Mr. Hilliard's address the certificates of proficiency were presented to the class by Prof. W. H. Ragsdale with most timely remarks. Those receiving these certificates in the college preparatory course were Misses Lala Chapman, Hattie Kirtrell, Bessie Mooring, Lela Roach and Ada Sutton, and J. H. Fry and T. F. Taylor; and in the English course Misses Hattie Blackman and Nannie House and G. C. Buck

The debate by the Vance Literary Society in the afternoon was a treat. The query was "Resolved that the Philippine Islands should be granted a free government." The affirmative speakers were S. L. Parker, S. C. Carroll and J. H. Fry, the negative G. C. Buck, J. S. Cox and T. F. Taylor. These young men made speeches that would have done credit to men who had spent years in debate. They were full of vim and good argument. So evenly was the contest waged, that the judges—Messrs. E. E. Hilliard, H. B. Smith and J. S. Mooring—were about not to reach a decision. They did finally give it to the negative, but only by a narrow margin.

A splendid concert was given at night under the direction of the Fire at Scotland Neck.

The town of Scotland Neck had another disastrous fire to visit that town Thursday afternoon, in which about $100,000 worth of property was destroyed. More than a half block of stores on west side of Main street were swept away. The fire started in a shanty in rear of one of the stores from some cause unknown.

In the name of the Lord, amen! What next? The Northern Presbyterian church has, through a committee duly appointed, issued a prayer book for use in the services in the church. The committee had doubts about the innovation, hence the caption, "for voluntary use." The New York Times, from which this information is gleaned, says that quite likely some churches not very old in the faith may adopt it, but that its use will never be general until all the old members and their posterity die out. Catholics, Episcopalians, etc., claim that the other churches are but off-shoots of their churches and this innovation causes some of us who perhaps do not know any better to begin to believe that we are after all only a lot of seceders trying to get back home.—Greensboro Record.

Pan-American Literary Society that was a fitting close to the exercises.

Everything about the commencement from beginning to end was of a high order and reflected much credit on the school. Prof. L. J. ... and members of the faculty, as well as the people of the community and patrons of the school generally, have every reason to be proud of the excellent work Winterville High school is doing.

INTELLIGENT WRENS.

Some of Them Know a Human Friend When They See Him.

"Much has been written of the mind that centers in the brain of a bee or an ant," says Dr. Charles C. Abbott in Lippincott's. "The wren, too, has but a trifling brain when we consider its bulk, but from it flows many a suggestive train of thought. The career of the birds nesting in the roof of my porch was much the same year after year, and I will particularize only that of the season just drawn to a close. The first brood came from the nest a few days too soon, and great was the commotion that followed. The young birds were too weak upon the wing to avoid danger. I boldly declare I believe I was appealed to. The parent birds perched on the sill of my study window and sang as they had not done before. The marked difference from their ordinary singing attracted my attention. When I went out of the door their excitement visibly increased. I thought they would actually alight upon me. I saw the trouble and proceeded to remedy it. I caught four of the young birds, all that I could find, and immediately the old birds were more at ease. Placing a ladder against the porch, I carried the nestlings back. Every movement of mine was closely watched. I was followed every step I took, and when I replaced the young birds the parents were within a foot of my hand. Then such singing! It seemed unmistakable that I was accepted as a veritable friend in need and so a friend indeed. After this incident the wrens were even more tame.

"A few weeks passed, and I was again called upon to render these wrens assistance. The entrance to the nest had become too large for their needs, and a pair of English sparrows had discovered the fact. The rotten wood had so far crumbled away that the latter birds could pass in and out. This they attempted, and a battle royal was begun. The singing of the wrens was noticeably different and sadder.

The Name "Porcelain."

In the natural progress of nations and the development of trade porcelain was brought from China to Europe, and various legends were current as to its origin. Magic properties were attributed to it—as, for instance, that a porcelain cup would immediately burst if poison were poured into it. It was said to be composed of plaster, eggs, the shells of "marine locusts" and the like, and this suggests the origin of the word "porcelain." The Portuguese word "porcella" means "little pig" and a certain shell, being shaped like a hog's back, was named porcelana. This shell was used to some extent in the arts by being carved into cameos and personal ornaments. These became porcelana wares, and when the new production became known its likeness to the shellwork was recognized. The new material thus acquired the French name "porcelaine," or, in English, "porcelain."

Alboni and Royalty.

Among the many anecdotes told of that famous Italian contralto, Mme. Alboni, is one which, reading like fiction, is nevertheless perfectly true. Many years ago at a state concert at Buckingham palace Mme. Alboni was commanded to appear. And appear she did and sang exquisitely. As she turned to go after her last aria she slipped her hand into her pocket and drew forth a pair of scissors, sharp and new. Bending down, she quickly snipped the rope which separated the artists from the audience. "I have done it," she whispered triumphantly to a friend and escaped as gracefully as might be. Mme. Alboni had republican tendencies.

Not a Masterpiece.

A Scotch laboring man who had married a rich widow exceptional for her plainness was accosted by his employer. "Well, Thomas," he said, "I hear you are married. What sort of a wife have you got?" "Weel, sir," was the response, "she's the Lord's handiwork, but I canna say she's his masterpiece."

One thing about this way they are calling each other liars is they can prove it so easily.

As they have at last decided to make it a sea level canal, perhaps work can start in a few years more.

The way the lie is being exchanged around the Senate chamber in Washington may account for these warm times.

Pity but what people in other sections of the town cannot have some benefit from street sprinkling. On some streets residences suffer as much as the stores.

The song "All Coons Look Alike to Me" is brought to mind again by the number of Ed. Davises they are arresting for the negro by that name wanted in Salisbury.

A gentleman who was feeling pretty much run down was telling his ailments to a friend, and among other things said it gave him a disinclination to work "Oh, don't worry over that," consolingly said the disciple of Blackstone in whom he was confiding, "I have had that ailment for thirty years."

A learned gentleman was talking to us about the bad plight President Roosevelt has got in over the Tillman A'drich matter concerning the rate bill, and added "It recalls the fact that we have never had but one President who would not lie" "Which one was that?" we asked without thinking. "Why, George Washington, of course."

The Scotland Neck Commonwealth copied the muddle which we reproduced from the Wilmington Star and asked the former paper to help us unravel, and commented.

"The above is by the juvenile editor of the Greenville Reflector We are sorry for him in his ignorance, but it has been a principle with The Commonwealth all these years to encourage self-dependence. Perhaps Editor Whichard's ignorance comes of his failing to take Sam Jones' advice when he was down in Greenville. He told them they ought to travel and learn something. He insisted that some of them, doubtless Brother Whichard among the number, should take a trip to Parmele and Halifax.

"Wonder if Brother Whichard has 'traveled'—if he has not, perhaps after a little travel he can measure up with the now unknown tongue to him in which the Star and Post occasionally speak."

Now that is a pretty way to come back at a "searcher for truth," give him "a stone for bread." The venerable ex-pedagog editor of The Commonwealth has been so long out of the school room as to forget the principles of "square" root, and dodges what he can't answer by making out that he is encouraging self-dependence. Yes, we have "traveled," and did not go far before finding a man who could not tell us the way, though he made out he could.

PITT COUNTY PROSPEROUS

It was the privilege and the pleasure of the editor of The Commonwealth to spend a night in Grifton last week. We found that town live and prosperous, with every indication of better things to come.

The occasion was the closing of Grifton graded school which for some time has been under the management of that prince of school men Rev. T. H. King. He was superintendent of the Ayden graded school until this year when he gave up school work and devoted his entire time to the ministry, settling at La Grange. When some months ago they needed a man to take charge of the school interest at Grifton Mr. King kindly came and finished up the school year successfully.

He had a good corps of teachers and the exercises at the closing showed results of fine work. Mr. King is held in high esteem in Grifton, as well as wherever he is known, and when he announced that he would not be in the school next session many of the pupils were deeply moved and passed by and bade him farewell in tears. The board of trustees did all they could to keep him but he felt impelled to other work.

Prof. W. H. Ragsdale, county superintendent of Pitt, is one of the most progressive and efficient superintendents in the State, and giving his entire time to the work he has succeeded in building up a most excellent system.

During the past three years the writer has had occasion to make observation of four points in Pitt county and we believe that no county in the State has a superior system of public schools, and we doubt if any other county has its equal. Prof. Ragsdale has made a veritable revolution in the school interests of Pitt county. He made a pleasing address to the people of Grifton in the interest of their school.

It was only the writer's pleasure to make a few remarks before the school.

Pitt county shows signs of pleasing prosperity in all interests. The towns, schools and churches are all prosperous and peace and plenty and happiness abound with those good people, with whom it is always a pleasure to mingle.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

All the trains get out of whack sometime. Even the "Reflector Special" was 45 minutes late this morning, something very unusual for that train.

THE SECURITY BOND SUIT.

Our now popular Mrs. Jane Hopkins "Security" Bond Suit originated last season in an attempt to furnish progressive dealers with a really meritorious boy's suit that can be sold at $5.00 with an unconditional guarantee of satisfaction or money back should the suit prove defective. After considerable experimenting as to fabrics, tailoring, improved features, such as Double seats, double double knees, extra strong thread, linings waist band, etc.

We succeeded in producing a guaranteed boy's suit that is proving a tremendous success with dealers now selling it. The "security" bond suit is good because it is so thoroughly reinforced throughout. Our success of last season has encouraged us to still greater efforts, and we are determined that the future of the Mrs. Jane Hopkins "Security Bond Suit" shall be a bright one from your standpoint and ours.

Appropriate Garnishes For Various Fish and Meat Dishes.

Slices of lemon for fish and raw oysters; also for roast veal and calf's head.

Red beets cut in ornamental shapes for cold meat and boiled beef.

Currant jelly for game and also for custards and bread puddings.

Fennel for mackerel and salmon, whether fresh or pickled.

Carrots cut into ornamental forms for boiled beef, either hot or cold.

Use the tiny sprigs of celery tops for salads and cold meats.

Sliced eggs, showing both the white and yellow parts, are nice for chicken salad.

Spots of black pepper alternating with red on the fat side of the boiled ham, which should be uppermost.

Parsley is the garnish most universally used for all kinds of cold meats, fish, cheese, etc.

Horseradish for roast beef and for fish in general. When used for fish slices of lemon alternate with the little heaps of horseradish.

Washing Woolens.

To wash blankets so they will retain their first freshness use soft water and plenty of it. Make a strong suds of soap, and in it immerse the blankets, previously shaken free of dust and lint. Never rub the soap directly on the articles. Wash with the hands. Never rub on a board. Rinse through several waters, having each hotter than the one which precedes it. This is the one great secret of the process. The heat expands the wool and keeps it soft. Shake out well, pulling the edges straight, and dry quickly. Wash all woolens the same way.

Souffle Potatoes.

For souffle potatoes boil six good sized potatoes in their skins, and when cooked peel and wash them quickly, and add one tablespoonful of butter and half a pint of cream, a teaspoonful of salt and a pinch of pepper. Beat until light and smooth. Beat the whites of four eggs to a stiff froth and stir gently into the potatoes. Heap the mixture on greased paper, a spoonful at a time. Dust with grated cheese and bake a golden brown.

Toast Better Than Bread.

Toast is better as an article of diet than ordinary bread, says Health, for the simple reason that it is better cooked and therefore more easily digested. The toasting destroys the life of the yeast and eliminates some of the harmful products of yeast fermentation, and the action of the heat converts the starch into a more digestible substance.

THE AGILE TIGER.

A Great Stalker That Seems to Be "Shod With Silence."

Most wild animals are specialists—that is to say, they are highly developed in one particular direction. The tiger is great as a stalker. His feet seem to be "shod with silence." R. H. Elliot, for many years a resident of India, cited an experience of one of his neighbors illustrative of this point. He had been much annoyed by tigers and at last tied a bullock out in a clearing and took up his own position in a tree to wait till the tiger should come after the bait. The ground was covered with dried leaves, which in hot weather are so brittle that even the walking of a bird over them can be heard for a good distance. In no very long time a large tiger slipped out of the forest and slowly edged toward the bullock. His method was so elaborate and careful that the man who saw it used to declare that it would have been worth 1,000 rupees to any young sportsman to have witnessed it. So carefully did he put down each paw and so gradually did he crush the leaves under it that not a sound was to be heard.

Between him and the bullock was a stump about four feet high, with long projecting surface roots. This plainly the tiger looked upon as a godsend. He got upon one of the roots, balanced himself carefully, and so was able to walk quickly and silently as far as the stump. He approached so gradually and noiselessly and his color against the brown leaves was so invisible that he was close upon the bullock before he was perceived. Then instantly the bullock charged. The tiger eluded him and in a moment more had his paws on the bullock's neck, ready to drag him down. Then like a flash he caught sight of the rope by which the bullock was tied and turned and sprang into the forest, all so quickly that the man in the tree had no opportunity to fire.

Fame.

Two Americans who were traveling in England made a devout pilgrimage to Stratford-on-Avon and spent several days wandering about the neighborhood. One day they met a countryman, and, pausing, one of the pilgrims said:

"My friend, I envy you your life here amid the fields that knew the great poet's youth. What sublime thoughts must come to you as you tread the paths his feet trod!"

The rustic simply stared, and the American demanded if he knew of whom he was speaking, receiving a prompt negative.

"Why, of Shakespeare, man. You must know of him!" the pilgrim explained, stricken with horror.

After some coaxing the man finally admitted that he had heard of Shakespeare and believed that he had "wrote for summat."

"And have you any idea for what he wrote—was it the Times?" the American inquired, with infinite sarcasm.

"Oh, it warn't the Lunnor paper," the man said. "I know it was summat solemnlike. I think it was the Bible, belike."—Harper's Weekly.

The Baron's Nap.

Sir Frederick Pollock, chief baron of the English court of the exchequer, took a nap pretty regularly about midday. His waking was comical, for when his "forty winks" ended he would start to seize a pen and, with imperturbable gravity, say to the arguing counsel, "What page was your last citation?" The harmless deceit was humored by the bar, and only once did it provoke tartness. This came when an old sergeant retorted, "Did your lordship refer to the last citation made before your lordship gave Somnus a new trial or the citation I made when your lordship produced a gap in my argument?" Nothing nettled, Baron Pollock imperturbably answered, "The one immediately preceding the gap."

"Whoa!"

The word "whoa," used in calling on a horse to stop, is merely a variant and emphatic form of "ho," formerly used in the same sense. This is easily proved, for Chaucer has "ho" in the sense of "halt" ("Canterbury Tales"). When King Edward IV. had to use this exclamation he actually turned it into "whoa." "Then the kyng, perceyving the cruell assaille (onset), cast his staff and, with high voice, cried whoa!" ("Excerpta Historica," page 211), which stopped the tournament, and no wonder.—London Notes and Queries

ANCIENT MEDICINE.

The Idiomatic Nostrums in Which People Cases Drove.

If modern science can boast of anything, it can of the way in which it has reached medicine from the realms of imagination, says the London Standard. The wonderful prescriptions of the Magi, as narrated by the Roman historian, Pliny, are examples of what the earliest doctors were, while even the "salves" of our own Elizabethans seem at first sight not much of an improvement upon those of the Chaldean M. D.'s. Let us take a few examples of Magian healing from a Latin author, of which perhaps the most useful is the following—one that in modern parlance would run thus: A recipe to make women disclose their secrets. Take one hen and, having carefully extracted her heart, place the same on the mouth of a patient during sleep. You will ascertain her exact age the next morning. To do the old Roman justice he stigmatizes this statement as a "portentous lie." (No doubt he had tried it.)

Others are quite as grotesque. Feverfew, when used medicinally, had to be plucked by the left hand, after the patient's name had been spoken over it, the herbalist taking good care not to look behind him. A love charm could be easily obtained from a hyena caught when the moon was in Gemini. Sporting prophets who wish to excel in divination should change their customary chop for a few moles' hearts. It is stipulated that these be fresh. The Romans themselves, although no mean surgeons—they made use of the probe and nippers and instruments for trepanning—were not less given to prodigies than the people whose veracity they doubted. They believed that eating hare was a cure for insomnia, and even the skeptic Pliny imagined that there must be something in the superstition that people who had done so were good looking for nine days afterward. A veritable nine days' wonder! He recommended also, as a cure for quartan fever, that the dust in which a hawk had rolled should be put into a bag and the latter tied around the neck with a piece of red thread. Other cures for this same were the longest tooth of a black dog, in the same position, and a wasp caught in the left hand and then pressed against the forehead.

Lucy Larcom's First Poem.

There is a poem beginning

The first, the first! Oh, naught like it
Our after years can bring!

which seems to have a peculiar application to first verses in general and to Lucy Larcom's in particular.

When she was seven years old her brother John proposed writing poetry, "just for fun," and she assented. John soon abandoned the attempt, but Lucy produced two verses, which ran thus:

"One summer day," said little Jane,
"We were walking down a shady lane
When suddenly the wind blew high,
And the red lightning flashed in the sky."

"The peals of thunder, how they rolled!
And I felt myself a little cooled,
For I before had been quite warm,
But now around me was a storm."

John was elated over her success, and it is safe to say that Miss Larcom's "after years" saw "naught like it."

A Wise Fish.

In Java they have a species of fish that carries a very useful gun with him wherever he goes. This queer fish is called the jaculator, and his weapon is a combination air and water gun, which nature has provided him with. The jaculator has the power of puckering the mouth into a small, round tube and squirting water through it. He is such an expert gunner that when he observes a beetle or a fly on a twig above the water he invariably knocks the insect from his perch, even though the distance be five or six feet. There are seven other varieties of these water gun fishes, which are known as "sportsmen" and "gunners" on account of their queer habits.

APRIL 10th and 11th, 1906.

The Big Store long since established an enviable reputation for Trimmed and Untrimmed Millinery, constantly showing the latest and newest effects. In Imported Hats, we show the latest ideas, while the designs of our own staff of trimmers will equal them in beauty and excellence. Our Millinery Chief has surpassed even her previous record-breaking achievements. Remember the Opening dates

"The Best Life Insurance" is the title of a cartoon in the Memphis News-Scimitar, representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers as standing for "a strong hand and sober head in the cab." The Brotherhood being in annual session at Memphis makes the cartoon timely and the truthfulness of the representation is readily recognized. This is a labor organization of the right kind, and one to which strikes and like troubles are practically unknown. The "B. L. E." is a guarantee to the traveling public that they are in competent and reliable hands so far as the engineer is concerned.—Charlotte Observer.

THE KIMONA SALE.

Nothing too GOOD

FOR

OUR CUSTOMERS

we are always looking for something better; always working to secure values and styles superior to other stores. when

The Ladies Home Journal

began to sell paper patterns we began to investigate. we said to ourselves,

 THE LADIES HOME JOURNAL

Is the leading Womans Magazine. It is first class and has never done anything in a second class way. We knew that its reputation was at stake. Our investigation convinced us that the patterns are as high grade as the Magazine

Furthermore the Ladies Home Journal added a new feature which makes these patterns much more desirable than any other pattern. They furnish a Guide Chart free with each pattern. This Chart shows exactly how the pattern is to be put together. It is so comprehensive that a child can understand it. It is a boon to ladies who are inexperienced in garment cutting and garment making. Mothers advise us that by the aid of the Guard Chart furnished with each

they train their daughters to do their own sewing

But there is still another point to consider. The patterns are all new, no old styles, no ancient creations; all new, all up-to-date and perfect in fit and style, and so much more easily understood than other patterns that one trial will convince you and make you a regular customer
