OVER THE STATE.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

Raleigh, Tuesday, 29.—Herbert E. Lumley, of Durham, came to this place yesterday, stopping at the Yaboro House. This morning the chambermaid going to his room found him in an unconscious condition. In his room were found a number of bottles containing poison. What he had taken could not be determined or has not been at this time. Physicians who were called stated, however, that it was impossible for him to survive.

Charlotte, N. C., May 29.—Out of 120 applicants to practice medicine in this State who stood the examination before the State board last week, 35 have failed, according to the announcement of the chairman of the board today. This is something of a calamity to the unfortunate applicants, but the State board, it is believed, is making commendable efforts to raise the standard, and hence the large increase in the percentage of those who have failed to pass.

Durham, N. C. May 29.—News of a desperate attempt at suicide has been received here from the northern part of the county, the victim of her own attempt to end life is Miss Zenobia Franklin, daughter of Henry Franklin. The attempt was made last Saturday and the particulars could not be learned, on account of relatives trying to keep secret the affair. Miss Franklin, who is about 18 years old, was at the home of her uncle, Louis Duncan. She secured a shot gun and went to a tobacco barn, some two hundred yards from the house, and placing the breach of the gun against a rock attempted to pull the trigger, but could not reach it. She then secured a stick and leaning forward pushed the trigger and the gun fired, but the movement of her body saved her life as the load intended for her heart went wild of its mark. Her left breast was shot away, however, leaving the lung on that side of her body exposed.

Liquid Corn.

An Easterner was prospecting in the North Georgia mountains, when he came on a native apparently clinging to the steep side of a steep hill tilling corn.

The prospector stopped for a chat and the mountaineer, nothing loath for a rest in the shade from his fatiguing toil, was agreeable.

"Say, friend, how in the world do you get the corn down off the hillside after it is ready for harvest?" asked the stranger.

"In jugs," was the laconic and probably truthful reply.

Pitt Boys Win.

Dr. M. I. Fleming, of this county, who has located at Hamilton, recently stood the examination for license before the state board of examiners, and passed with marked credit.

Mr. Rollins says the state will go republican two years hence, but even the members of his his own party do not believe him.—Durham Herald.

The North Carolina Flag.

"Of the people of Charlotte, young and old, not one in ten would recognize a North Carolina flag if they should see it floating over any store in the city," remarked a prominent citizen to an Observer reporter yesterday. "Last week, there were flags and flags, hundreds of them, everywhere. Not one flag of the Old North State did I see anywhere, I am heartily in favor of a North Carolina flag being placed in the general assembly room of our several graded schools, so that our children might know the emblem of their native State. I would rejoice to see a North Carolina flag floating over the Carnegie Library and other public buildings, so that everyone might come to know what it looks like."—Charlotte Observer.

A Good Reason.

Two Irishmen were digging a sewer. One of them was a big, strong man, about six feet four inches in height, and the other one was a little, puny man about four feet six inches. The foreman came along to see how the work was progressing and noticed that one of them was doing more work than the other. "Look here," he cried out, "how is it that little Dennis Dugan, who is only half your size, is doing nearly twice as much work as you, Patrick?" Glancing down to his partner, Patrick replied: "And why should'nt he? Ain't he nearer to it?"

Reception Friday Night.

At an informal meeting of the Baptist church Wednesday night, arrangements were completed for the welcome to the pastor, Rev. J. E. Aycue, who was married at Wakefield to Miss Anna Belle Hoyle. He will reach Greenville with his bride Friday evening, and a public reception will be tendered them at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Parham from 9 to 11 o'clock.

The Editor's Cruel Jab.

At a gathering of newspaper men some time since this story was told of an editor up the State. A man, wild eyed and greatly excited, rushed into the office several steps at a lick, and exclaimed in a loud voice:

"My name is John Smith! Did you say in your paper that I was a miserable scoundrel?"

"I certainly did not," was the calm response of the unperturbed editor.

"Didn't you say that I was a political robber?" shouted Smith, "and didn't you call me a shark and a grafter and—"

"I did not," declared the editor.

"Well, some paper did," returned John Smith, "and I—"

"It must have been our contemporary down the street," was the harpoonful jab of the editorial one. "This paper never prints state news."

A Nebraska couple met for the first time, courted and married within an hour. We are not told when the separation took place.—Wilmington Messenger.

SHELMEKDINE ITEMS.

SHELMEKDINE, N. C. May 31.

Mr. John Bell, foreman on the railroad, for Beaufort County Lumber Company, died suddenly Tuesday night at 10:15. We sympathize with his dear relatives here, Mrs. L. E. Bicks, Miss Olive Woodard and Miss Mary Belle Ricks have gone on an extended visit to relatives and friends at Edwards.

F. P. Stallings, of Richmond, was in town Monday night.

T. B. Brushall, of Belcross and J. D. Brushall, of Raleigh, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bobbitt.

W. M. Ward and Mr. Peck, of New Bern, visited our town Wednesday.

Mr. Brown, of Ayden, was in town Tuesday.

Mrs. F. G. Whaley left Tuesday morning for a two weeks visit to Mrs. H. B. Phillips, of Suffolk.

Mr. Einstein, of Kinston, was in Shelmerdine Wednesday.

Rev. B. E. Stanfield, of Ayden, filled his regular appointment here Sunday night and preached an able sermon.

Miss Lula Sexton, is out again after a severe attack of measles.

Mr. Vance, of Georgia, was in town this week.

P. H. Harrington and Robert Minton spent Sunday in Washington.

Freeman Minton, of Georgetown, S. C., arrived tonight and will be here for several days.

Mrs. H. B. Phillips made a short visit to Shelmerdine last week and returned to her home in Suffolk, Saturday, accompanied by H. P. Phillips.

Rev. Jones, of Wake county, was here Tuesday.

H. H. Stanley spent Monday in Greenville.

Willie Ricks, of Greenville, was in town Monday.

Mrs. C. G. Calhoun, who has been quite sick, we are glad to note is much improved.

Little Emily Cole has been very sick for several days. We hope she will soon improve.

G. H. Minton and family have moved back to his home in Bertie county after a short residence in Shelmerdine.

Courier Pigeon.

Mr. J. L. Perkins, of Stokes, phoned us this morning that one of the men living on his place, killed a pigeon last night in the joist of his house. Sometime in the early part of the night he happened to look overhead and discovered a pigeon. On killing it he discovered it was a carrier pigeon. The bird had aluminum bands on each leg with "H. E." 1904—No. 101 engraved on the bands.

It takes more than a brotherly manner to make up for a lack of business method in a religious work. Many men think they would obey the Ten Commandments if they could just clip off one or two.

THE WEATHER.

Fair tonight and Friday.

THE HEPBURN BILL AND THE COAL ROADS.

Another feature of the bill which is of the utmost significance requires that after May 1, 1908, no interstate carrier shall engage in the transportation of commodities of its own in competition with shippers over its lines. This is intended principally to break up the control that the railroads now exercise over the anthracite-coal business in toto, and over the bituminous-coal business in large part. It remains to be seen whether this part of the law can be carried out as to be made really effective. As a rule, the coal business of the railroads is organized separately, although the stock of the coal companies is owned by the railroad companies and the presidents of the coal roads are the presidents of the companies that mine and sell the coal. Perhaps the most complete monopoly now existing in America is the anthracite-coal monopoly, and it will be next to impossible to break it up. For most great trusts and combinations it is easy to present a strong practical argument based chiefly upon the economies resulting from the substitution of united and cooperative methods on the large scale for the wastes and duplications of the old competitive system. But no argument at all can justify a monopoly due to the seizure of the whole supply of some natural commodity that is an article of general use by a common carrier or a group of common carriers, whose proper function is not to traffic in commodities, but to carry other people's goods at the lowest feasible prices. If the railroads which touch the anthracite field of Pennsylvania had always been limited absolutely and strictly to their functions as common carriers the users of anthracite coal would not today be paying much, if any, more than one-half of the present price of coal.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for June.

How Tillman Lost An Eye

Although his brothers were old enough to serve in the Confederate army, Benjamin R. Tillman was a school boy of fifteen when the great struggle began. He knew that at sixteen he must join the Confederate forces, and his brothers wrote back from the field entreating him to get as much education as possible, because the war might last so long that he would never again be able to go to school.

Even at night Tillman would continue his studies, frequently carrying a lighted pine knot into the woods and laying down with his books beside it. He was a lank, tall silent boy, dictatorial and brusque, but a natural student. The heat of the pine torch injured his left eye, and a plunge in cold water brought on a tumor that destroyed it. It was the almost two-year illness following this mishap that prevented the youth from serving in arms against the Union.—Pearson's Magazine for June.

PERSONAL MENTION

Of Those Coming and Going.

J. S. Campbell, of Washington, is in town.

R. M. Moye left this morning for Seven Springs.

Mrs. Ayskin, of Chicago came in Wednesday evening to visit Mrs. R. R. Cotton.

Miss Nancy Coward went to Ayden Wednesday evening to visit her parents.

B. C. Pearce, of Sanford, who had been spending a few days here left this morning.

Rev. W. E. Cox went to Winterville Wednesday evening and returned this morning.

Mrs. A. B. Graves, of Baltimore, who had been visiting Mrs. L. M. Savage left this morning.

M. L. Davis, of Beaufort, who had been visiting his sister Mrs. R. L. Humber left this morning.

Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley and children, of LaGrange, came in Wednesday evening to visit her mother, Mrs. C. J. Forbes.

Lumley Dies From Effect of Wounds.

Raleigh, N. C., May 29.—Young Lumley, who took poison in hotel here this morning, died in the hospital at 10:40 o'clock tonight. No cause for his act is known, but a report from Durham declares he had a quarrel with his employer yesterday morning. Chief of Police Woodall, of Durham, is here and he gives the young man an excellent reputation in that city and says he was very popular.

Deaths in the Country.

Mr. Augustus Forbes, a well-to-do farmer, died Tuesday at his home about four miles from town.

Mrs. Isabella Moore died Tuesday at her home in Carolina township. She was about 87 years old and leaves six daughters and five sons, all of whom are grown. Mrs. B. H. Hearne, of Greenville, is one of the daughters, and others of the children recently lived here.—Mr. Zeno Moore and Misses Lizzie, Ellen and Jackie Moore.

WE'LL GO A-SINGIN' STILL.

New times, or old times—we'll go a-singin' still.
An' climb where Hope shines brightest, on the halleluia hill
So many thorns are hidden to wound our wandering feet—
An' the world has so much sorrow, a simple song seems sweet!

New times or old time—however life appears,

We'll try to see the sunshine a glimmerin' through the tears:
An', takin' still a hopeful heart to where Life's journey ends.

We'll get so close to heaven that we'll recognize our friends!

—F. I. Stanton in Atlanta Constitution.

Fayetteville, N. C., May 30.—Between midnight and one o'clock a fire broke out at the extensive brick manufacturing plant of Mr. E. A. Poe, in the southeastern outskirts of the city, causing a loss of 10,000, with insurance of $2,000.

J. B. JOHNSTON,

The Great Desert.

The worthless area of the Sahara desert is proving smaller than has been believed. Professor E. F. Gauthier, the first explorer since 1826 to cross from Algeria to the Niger, has lately found in the Adrar plateau, 360 miles from Gao, on the Niger, a wide belt of steppe having from six to twelve inches of rain a year and covered with ponds and grass. Evidences of a large stone age population abound, including weapons, grinding stones, rock drawings and graves. It appears that the region must have gradually dried up, but that the desert conditions are now disappearing and the rain belt is again extending more and more to the north.

Live Ducks as Decoys.

J. F. Berger of Anthony, who is an enthusiastic duck shooter, has secured two pairs of domesticated mallard ducks for decoys. The ducks are taken to the hunting grounds in small covered baskets. To keep them from flying when in use a light leather strap with a buckled noose attached to a long shore cord is placed about their necks and a weight or anchor tied to one foot. This, however, does not diminish their ability to swim, and when placed in the water they go to the limit of their shore cord. For results they make the old-fashioned wood decoys look like 30 cents.—Arkansas City Traveler.

Through Bernhard's Eyes.

While in Washington on her last visit Sarah Bernhardt commented upon the tendency to run the nation's capital in the Puritan blue law fashion that has gone out of style nearly everywhere else. She said that in many respects Washington is more beautiful than Paris. "But," said Sarah, "why do you make your beautiful capital a country village? You have no amusements here—no gardens, no places where the workingman can go on Sunday or in the evenings. At midnight everything is closed. Then Paris wakes. I would rather not die in Washington. It is not a place for even so hilarious an event."

Worry a Disease.

Every one knows innumerable reasons why it is foolish to worry, the chief one being perhaps that it is so utterly useless, but science has added a new reason which is worth considering. It not only states that worry will kill, but explains why it will kill. Worry is a disease of the brain, a disease which destroys certain cells of the brain, often beyond repair. Like an enemy in the night, worry creeps upon the brain and begins its sledge hammer process of destruction. The vitality of the delicate organism is slowly destroyed. Nature may repair the destruction if worry comes at intervals, but worry is a habit and its power grows each time that it is allowed admittance.

WATCH THE ENEMY.

For quite a while the liquor question has been a very quiet one in Greenville, and one seldom hears argument about it. The people have seemed satisfied with the way the dispensary here is managed and regarded it as such a great improvement over the open saloon as to have no thought of ever returning to the latter.

While the majority of the people are satisfied with the improved conditions, there are some who are constantly watching an opportunity to get saloons back and who would take any advantage to get the town again under control of the whiskey influence.

But this kind do not come out in the open, and it is usually by some secret move or blind that they endeavor to carry their point. It has been intimated that right now there is a movement to capture enough of the nominations for aldermen in the primaries Friday night to get in control, then have the dispensary conducted in such a manner as to make it odious and be easy to vote out if another election is called on it and reopen barrooms.

Nice scheme, and it will not be so hard to work if those who are satisfied with present conditions are indifferent to the situation. It is the duty of every man in every ward to attend his primary Friday night and do his duty. Watch for the enemy to society and put down any movement that would attempt to again fasten the saloon evil upon the community.

Louisiana has followed North Carolina's lead and lynched a white man.

The coming of tax listing time brings many poverty stricken people.

Take an inventory of what you have the first day of June and give in your taxes accordingly.

The white man that was lynched at Wadesboro was a lunatic. That makes the matter all the worse.

The Statesville Landmark reports the marriage of a Mr. Goodnight to a Miss Deal. That was a Goodnight-Deal.

The judge and solicitor of the district have started an investigation at Wadesboro to find the parties who lynched the white man there a few nights ago. That is just a matter of time and money, and is like shutting the stable door after the horse has gone.

June is the biggest month for lying of any in the year.

Durham entered suit against a cotton mill situated seventeen miles above the town, because the mill emptied its refuse into the river from which the city took its water supply, and won out in the courts. Greenville for more than a year permitted a distillery that had about as filthy surroundings as could be imagined to operate right on the river bank only a few hundred yards above where the town took its water supply. It finally got so bad that the town required the owners of the distillery to enter into bond to keep the premises clean. Matters went on without improvement and recently notice was served on the owners that both their license and bond were forfeited. If the still starts up again it should be required to take a location less dangerous to health.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

(By an Occasional Contributor.)

It is reported that the Chinese Emperor is dead again.

For a man of his weight, Senator Burton seems to be sitting on the lid with remarkable confidence.

Senator Tillman ought to get some pointers from Mr. Beveridge on methods of getting legislation "passed while you wait."

The question now arises whether President Cassatt is hurrying home because he knows the Pennsylvania railroad is rotten or because he thinks it isn't.

Col. William Jennings Bryan is going to attend a session of the Russian Duma. The Mikado must have presented him with one of those bump-proof vests, too.

Senator Aldrich says Congress will adjourn by June 15. Considering that there are seven bills which it is absolutely necessary to pass, some must be counting on an epidemic of vocal paralysis among his colleagues.

If the Russians really want to make some of quieting Father Gapon, they ought to get a few suggestions from Wood. Nobody ever heard of a resurrection in the Philippines.

Commissioner Sargeant says that there are 70,000 unregistered Chinese in the country. But he intimated that this is much because he was for a while Commissioner of Immigration.

Interesting discussion followed the reading, before the State Medical Society yesterday, of Dr. Murphy's interesting paper on the best treatment of the insane and on a better point was made or more in controvertible proposition laid down than that no person should be charged for his or her care in any of the hospitals for the insane in the State. It is the law that certain classes shall be charged and it is enforced with all strictness, but it is all wrong. The person who has paid taxes all his life and whose estate is still paying them for the support of these institutions, is as much entitled to their protection without charge as is the unfortunate who has nothing to pay taxes on. They should stand on the same level.—Charlotte Observer.

SERGE

SUIT.

The case is this:
If a man has one Summer Suit, it ought to be a Serge Suit.
If he has two or more he ought to have a Serge Suit among them.

For his comfort, for one thing, for his looks, for another, and for the durability and service he'll get out of the Suit, for a third.

It might seem as though we were trying to make the Serge Suit out a paragon of all the virtues. It is really—at least

THE SECURITY BOND SUIT.

Our now popular Mrs. Jane Hopkins "Security" Bond Suit originated last season in an attempt to furnish progressive dealers with a really meritorious boy's suit that can be sold at $5.00 with an unconditional guarantee of satisfaction or money back should the suit prove defective. After considerable experimenting as to fabrics, tailoring, improved features, such as

Double seats, double knees extra strong thread, linings waist band, etc.

We succeeded in producing a guaranteed boy's suit that is proving a tremendous success with dealers now selling it. The "security" bond suit is good because it is so thoroughly reinforced throughout. Our success of last season has encouraged us to still greater efforts, and we are determined that the future of the Mrs. Jane Hopkins "Security Bond Suit" shall be a bright one from your standpoint and ours.

The standpatters should keep their eyes on Brother Taft, he is such a "little American" that he has ordered the Panama Commission to buy 20,000 barrels of British cement instead of patenting the home made article produced by the cement trust. It is true he saved the government 37 cents a barrel, or $7,400, on this one deal, which the trust loses over and above a fair profit and if he continues this patriotic policy the trusts, that control the price of other articles used at Panama, will lose in the same proportion. The American consumer of cement and other trust products must buy on less favorable terms than his own government as long as the Republican tariff that protects the trusts and the American people continue to elect Republican congresses.

The Ox Whip Used
As C. G. Aldrich and E. S. Moore, merchants of this city, were riding through Coldbrook River Village Sunday in Mr. Aldrich's automobile, Calvin Humphrey, a constable and a well known resident, signaled to them to stop. The machine did not slacken its speed, and as it whizzed past Humphrey wielded a long ox whip, the lash striking the men in the face.
The auto suddenly stopped and the men ran to Humphrey and asked him what he meant by plying the lash on them. Humphrey, after a few words, again struck the auto. Humphrey said Monday; "People with autos come up here and think they've struck a pack of fools. If they can make a man's horse run away they do it and then sit in the machine and laugh. These fellows yesterday ran up against another kind of fool."—Winsted (Conn.) Dispatch.

If life is a voyage, the cargo and the port are of much more importance than the fish they may catch on the way.

Headed Off Future Scandals.

A somewhat domineering judge who formerly held an appointment in a small colony was sole occupant of the bench, so he carried everything his own way. One day a member of the local bar disputed his ruling upon a certain point and appealed to printed authority in support of his position, and the judge's account of the incident, as given by himself, is said to be this: "Would you believe it, one of my own bar had the impertinence to tell me that he was right and I was wrong, and he appealed to a law book to support him, his own book and the only one in the colony?" "And what did you do?" was the natural question. "What did I do?" was the indignant answer. "There was only one thing to do. I borrowed the book from him and lost it, so that we shall hear no more scandal of that kind."

An Indian Shampoo.

Many city men regard a shampoo as a city luxury of modern times. Yet the shampoo is more common with some Indians than with us, and they enjoy it oftener than we do, says George Wharton James in Good Health. The Indian's wife takes the root of the amole, macerates it and then beats it up and down in a bowl of water until a most delicious and soft lather results, and then her liege lord stoops over the bowl and she shampoos his long hair and scalp with vigor, neatness, skill and dispatch. I have been operated upon by the best adepts in London, Paris and New York, and I truthfully affirm that a white man has much to learn in the way of skillful manipulation, effective rubbing of the scalp and delicious silkiness of the hair if he knows no other than such shampooing as I received.

Eating Snails.

Do you know how many snails are said to be consumed in New York city in one week alone when the season is at its height? Why, in the neighborhood of 20,000. They do not seem a very tempting food, but epicures like them and pay high prices for the dainty. The supply comes from France, and it is stated that they are such a profitable product that vineyards are given up as food for the snails, which bring better prices than grapes.

Chapters and Verses.

Not one person in ten perhaps could say when and how the Bible came to be divided into chapters and verses. The division into chapters was made by Cardinal Hugo in the thirteenth century while he was making a concordance and the division into verses by Robert Stephens, the printer, who introduced it in his Greek Testament in 1551 and in his Latin Bible in 1556.

IN SAVINGS BANKS.

Romances That Come to Light in Their Everyday Business.

A ragged little newsboy entered a Pittsburg bank one day and boldly invaded the private office of the president.

"Say, mister," he said, "can I put some money in this bank?"

"Certainly you can," the president answered. "How much do you want to deposit?"

"A quarter!" exclaimed the youngster, pulling a handful of pennies and nickels out of his pocket. The banker took him over to the receiving teller and introduced him with all the deference that he would have shown to a millionaire.

The boy left the city soon after opening the account, but he kept adding to his deposit from time to time, and as he was naturally bright and shrewd everything he undertook prospered. He is back in Pittsburg now, the head of a successful manufacturing concern and one of the bank's most valued customers.

A year ago a proud young father out in Michigan sent $25 to open an account for his first born son, then less than a week old. "The boy'll need it some of these days," he wrote, "and we may as well begin to save for him right off." Six months later a tear dimmed letter came asking to withdraw the money to pay the little fellow's funeral expenses.

A working woman in a little town in New York sent a dollar bill in the name of her daughter, six years of age. "She'll be marrying by and by," she said, "and ought to have something to start life on." That was nearly two years ago, and almost every week since a dollar bill has been added to the account. There'll be a snug little marriage portion for the young lady some day if nothing happens.

Not long ago a woman living in Illinois sent $5, with explicit instructions not to let her "old man" know about it, as "he'd be after spending every cent of it for drink."
—William S. Power in Success Magazine.

Alexandrite.

A popular but rare stone is the alexandrite, which owes its name to quite a peculiar series of coincidences. On the day of the coming of age of the Emperor Alexander of Russia the discovery of a new variety of mineral was made in the emerald mines of the Catherine mountains. This stone varied in color from emerald to the darkest green, having often a reddish tint. Its especial peculiarity is that when exposed to artificial light its color changes entirely to a beautiful red. As green and red are the national colors of Russia and in commemorative honor of the day on which the stone was discovered, the name alexandrite was given the mineral and the custom inaugurated of submitting all the finer specimens to the emperor for his selection before dealers are allowed to purchase.

A Club For Royalty.

Once during Heine's stay at Munich the poet and his writings came up for discussion at the dinner table of the Bavarian royal family. On the conclusion of dinner most of those present expressed a wish to make the acquaintance of the poet. One of the princesses who was rather fond of having notabilities about her at once offered to send for him. A royal servant was immediately dispatched to invite Heine to come to the castle and partake of coffee with the royal family. On receiving the invitation the poet coolly answered, "My dear friend, please present my humble respects to her highness and say that it is my custom to take coffee where I have also dined."

The Other Obstacle.

A handsome young shopman was recently made love to by a buxom widow, when he politely informed her that there were two impediments to their union.

"Name them," said the widow.

"The want of means to set up in business is the first," he said.

They parted, and the widow sent him a check for a good sum.

When they met again the young man had taken a house and stocked his shop, and the smiling fair one then ventured to inquire as to the other impediment.

"Name them," she asked.

"The want of means," he replied.

THE PLANETS.

Odd Ideas About the Beings Who May Possibly Live on Them.

It is common to hear people speak of the possibility of the planets being inhabited, and the discussion of the question often brings out some curious ideas concerning the supposed planetary beings. The majority of people never imagine that it is possible that the great worlds which we know only as shining points of light can be peopled by other than creatures resembling the highest type of animal life on this globe.

Such persons, although they may be able to tell you the exact weight of the earth in tons, pounds and ounces, the minimum and maximum temperature of the surface of the sun at different seasons and the exact day upon which the moon becomes an arid waste, never stop to think what would be the effect on stature of persons living in such gigantic worlds as some of the stars are known to be.

The dark planet which accompanies the giant star Algol is known to be more than 1,000,000 times larger than this earth, but its density is so light that it is only about 50,000 times heavier than our globe. You are now thinking that the inhabitants of this monster planet must be at least 5,000,000 feet in height (if they are constructed on such a plan as the world upon which they reside), but such is probably not the case. The density of the planet would have a great deal to do when it came to a question of size and weight.

Figuring with density and size both as a basis, Vogel came to the conclusion that the average man on Algol's companion world would be 24¾ feet in height and weigh between 700 and 800 pounds. Arnold and Metterich both figured from the same data, adding that of the intensity of gravity, and gave a string of "corrected calculations" in proof of the assertion that a man on that planet could never grow to exceed fifteen inches in height, but would spread out over a quarter of an acre of ground! — Chambers' Journal.

Traveling in Asia.

For traveling over the rolling plains of Central Asia a Chinese version of the Russian tarantass is used, to which in Russia three horses are usually harnessed abreast. Mongolians, however, know nothing about driving. So they fix a bar across the shafts, and a mounted man on either side, taking the end of this on his saddle bow and pressing it against his chest, sets off at full gallop. Another pair tug in front at rope traces attached to the shafts, and a couple of horsemen hook on to the sides of the carriage. In this way it is said that fifteen miles an hour can be covered without difficulty. But it is trying work for the nerves.

Puzzled Pa.

The country boy who was going to play on the college baseball team had written a letter to the old folks down home.

"I reckon he's gettin' on all right," drawled the old man as he scrutinized the page, "but 'pears to me he's doin' some things that a gal ought to do."

"How's that, Hiram?" asked the old lady.

"Why, the other day he says he made two or three muffs." — Chicago News.

The Latin Scholar.

"I have listened," said John Sharp Williams, "to some of the debates in this congress on the railroad rate bill, and I am convinced that a great deal of the so called profound knowledge on the subject of transportation that has been displayed is not so profound as it might be.

"Some of the speakers remind me of the man who claimed to be an excellent Latin scholar. 'All right,' said a scoffing friend, 'translate "vox populi vox dei" for me.'

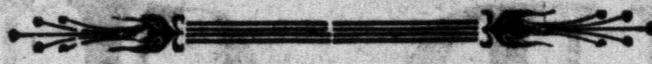

"That's easy," said the scholar. "It means, 'My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?'"

Day Current.

We feel like doffing our hats to Superintendent Dunlap. He let us have day current this afternoon, and The Reflector motor sent the presses a humming. It came at a time when it was needed, too, our negro power having gone on a vacation. Wish the day current would come every day.

Nothing too GOOD

FOR

OUR CUSTOMERS

we are always looking for something better; always working to secure values and styles superior to other stores. when

The Ladies Home Journal

began to sell paper patterns we began to investigate. we said to ourselves,

THE LADIES HOME JOURNAL

is the leading Womans Magazine. It is first class and has never done anything in a second class way. We knew that its reputation was at stake. Our investigation convinced us that the patterns are as high grade as the Magazine

Furthermore the Ladies Home Journal added a new feature which makes these patterns much more desirable than any other pattern. They furnish a Guide Chart free with each pattern. This Chart shows exactly how the pattern is to be put together. It is so comprehensive that a child can understand it. It is a boon to ladies who are inexperienced in garment cutting and garment making. Mothers advise us that by the aid of the Guide Chart furnished with each

LADIES HOME JOURNAL

They train their daughters to do their own sewing

But there is still another point to consider. The patterns are all new, no old styles, no ancient creations; all new, all up-to-date and perfect in fit and style, and so much more easily understood than other patterns that one trial will convince you and make you a regular customer
