AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town.

Ayden, N. C., June 12, 1906.—Miss Pattie Sutton, of Winterville, was visiting Miss Mary Smith last week.

Delicious—Those elegant ripe peaches we found on our desk last Friday afternoon as we came in our office from a visit down the street. They were fine and there were a plenty of them, too. Surely one can appreciate the kindness of such friends. To Mrs. M. M. Sauls and our sweet little friend, Miss Burrnes Sauls we extend our sincerest thanks and only hope we may be so fortunate at a very early date to reciprocate.

F. C. Harding, of Greenville, was here Friday as counsel in a case before a justice's court.

Miss Mary Kittrell, of Greenville, spent several very pleasant days with Mrs. Cam Nobles last week.

W. F. Hart came up on the train Friday from a visit down the road.

Mrs. McCullen and children, of Kinston, are visiting Mrs. H. C. Ormond.

Miss Maggie Savage and Master Frank Savage left Saturday for their home in Greenville.

Lil Cannon has gone to Wrightsville for a few days. The doctor, while basily engaged at the drug store, seems a little lonely, yet his patrons do not miss that jolly smile. It's there just the same.

G. F. Morrison, who has been away for some time came home Saturday.

Miss Marguerite Skinner, of Greenville, has been visiting her brother, Dr. L. C. Skinner.

Miss Fannie Savage, of Greenville, is here on a visit to her brother, J. H. Savage.

The skating rink here is a success. Nearly every night besides our home young people there are visitors from Greenville Kinston, Grifton and other sections. It is nicely conducted. No rowdiness or anything of the kind is allowed.

Mrs. Alice Langley and daughter, of Elizabeth City, after a pleasant visit to the family of R. I. Corbett, left yesterday for Oriental.

B. E. Parham and N. H. Whitfield, of Greenville, were here yesterday among our farmer friends with whom they seem to be general favorites, and why not, they are both clever fellows.

Clarence Cannon who has been attending school at the University came home Thursday night to spend vacation. Clarence is an unusually clever as well as popular young man and we are all pleased to have him back. In fact we bespeak for him a brilliant future.

Turnage-King.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. King request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their sister, Mary Turnage, to

Mr. William Joshua Turnage Tuesday morning, twenty sixth of June, nineteen hundred and six at eight o'clock, Christian Church, Greenville, N. C.

OVER THE STATE.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

D. T. Oates, a prominent lawyer of Fayetteville, died in Richmond Saturday evening where he had gone for treatment in a hospital. He was a brother of J. A. Oates, editor of the North Carolina Baptist.

Mrs. G. H. Atkinson, of Monroe, national secretary of the Y. W. C. A. died suddenly at Asheville Saturday morning. On Friday night she delivered the opening address at the convention which met at Asheville, and was stricken with heart trouble during the address.

Kinston, June 10.—Mrs. M. Pearson died this morning about 3 o'clock as the result of injuries sustained Thursday evening. The horse attached to a buggy in which she was riding became frightened at a hat box which her husband was about to place in the buggy and ran away, throwing Mrs. Pearson on the pavement, her skull was fractured and she was injured internally.

Wadesboro, June 10.—A report reached the city from Richmond county late yesterday afternoon to the effect that Mr. J. W. Dunn, better known as Bud Dunn, was shot and killed last night on the public road between Stanback's bridge and Powelton. No particulars of the affair can be learned, but it is said that his brother was the last man seen with him. The dead man was about 35 years of age, the son of Mr. Billy Dunn, and leaves a wife and three children.

Memorial Exercises.

Covenant Lodge No. 17, I. O. O. F. will on Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p. m. in Masonic opera house hold a memorial exercise in commemoration of their deceased brothers.

The choir of each church in the town is requested to render a selection. A male quartette from the lodge will also render a selection on that occasion.

Brother H. H. Moore will deliver the memorial address. Other short addresses will be made. Visiting Odd Fellows are invited to join us. The public is cordially invited to attend.

PLUCK SAVES HER HONOR.

Selma Girl Shoots Assailant.

Selma, June 10.—Last night about 11:30 o'clock Miss Pearl Jones, the telephone operator at this place, shot and fatally wounded Bud Richardson, a negro who, by his own confession, had premeditated an assault upon her.

Miss Jones is a most excellent young lady and her closest friends were agreeably surprised at the wonderful amount of courage she showed. She has reloaded her pistol and says she will continue to do her duties as if nothing had happened and fears no further trouble. A subscription list is rapidly growing, the object of which is to present her with a handsome gold-mounted revolver, a gift from the citizens and visitors of the town. The operators up and down the line are contributing money to purchase a gold medal for her.

FARMVILLE ITEMS.

Farmville, N. C., June 11, 1906.

On Saturday morning at her late home in Marlborough, Mrs. Sallie Hines departed this life for a home beyond. She had lived the wife of Robert Hines fifty years and at her death was in her seventy-second year. She was known and loved by the whole community, having given her entire life for the pleasure of others and for the faithful service of the Christian Sunday school. She united with the church when only a girl, and for the devotion of Christ's kingdom while on earth was most loyal. Her remains were laid at rest in the cemetery on Sunday morning. Funeral services conducted by Rev. J. J. Harper, of Wilson, and Jas. T. Moore, of this place. The pall bearers were Messrs. W. M. Lang, J. F. Dixon, W. E. Murphrey, M. L. Moye, John T. Flanagan, J. Mrs. J. F. Joyner most charmingly entertained the Magazine Club on Wednesday evening from 4 to 7. After regular business and reading minutes of last meeting, a delightful program was carried out by Misses Morrill and Rouse and Mesdames Albritton and Askew. Delicious ices and fruits were served, after which they adjourned to meet next time with Mrs. Will Askew.

INDUSTRIAL LIFE INSURANCE.

That industrious Republican, United States Senator Dryden, of New Jersey, who is also president of the Prudential Life Insurance Company, is very rich and the following example of how he accumulated his millions should act as a warning to insurers to examine the contract in a policy before they sign it: "Mrs. Kate Wright, of No. 310 East 125th street, New York, has been paying twenty-five cents a week for fifteen years on a Prudential policy that called for the payment of $110 when her mother died. She has already paid $195, and the insured still survives. The poor woman is tired of paying and went into court with an attempt to compel the issuing of a paid-up policy. She claims the company has turned a deaf ear to her numerous petitions, but the company as a special favor offered to issue a paid up policy for $50, although the policy did not call for such a liberal concession. No wonder Dryden is rich and controls the Republican party machine of New Jersey and can elect himself United States Senator.

SHAVING IN CHINA.

It Makes the Barber a Man of Considerable Importance.

The custom of shaving the forehead and wearing the back hair long and braided in a cue is now so firmly established in China as to be quite universal. Yet it has obtained for something less than 300 years only and is of peculiar origin. When the Tartar tribes of the north invaded the Flowery Kingdom and completely subdued the inhabitants of the country they decreed that all Chinamen should wear their hair in this style as a badge of servitude. The rule was so vigorously enforced that it has become a firmly established custom, and, in fact, a Chinaman who fails to comply with it is treated with contempt, and life for him in the Celestial empire would be unbearable.

The face of the Celestial is generally clean shaved as well as the forehead, mustaches and beards being permitted only under certain conditions.

A mustache indicates that its wearer is a grandfather, and each style has its own significance. The peculiar style of headdress makes the Chinese barber a man of considerable importance, and his strange methods are interesting. The barbers in the orient not only shave the face and forehead and braid the cues of their customers, but it is also part of their art to clean their ears and remove the hairs that grow inside the opening.

The shaving is done with a razor much like those at home, except that it is without a handle, and, being somewhat dull, it becomes a case of persistent scraping. This operation is performed without moisture or lather and must be extremely irritating.

A Chinaman must be regular in his patronage of his barber, as it is difficult to imagine a more repulsive human being than a Celestial with a two days' growth of thick black hair on his forehead, and, although they may neglect all other attractions to their persons, the Chinese seldom fail to take religious care of their heads and beard.

A few of the Chinese barbers have regular establishments, where they await the coming of their customers, but most of them are of the itinerant variety.

The Wily Tibetan.

Natives of Tibet sometimes impose upon inexperienced European hunters, according to a traveler: "A sportsman shoots at a herd, say, of ibex, which are always on difficult ground. His guide says he has killed one and advises him to give some of the nearest villagers 5 or 10 rupees to go and look for it. In the meanwhile an old head which has been brought for the purpose is steeped in water and dressed with the raw flesh of a sheep or goat and in a few days is shown as the one found by the villagers, who, of course, have never been sent, the guide pocketing the backsheesh and buying for a fraction of the sum a head as like the old one as possible from the first skinner he meets and palming it off on the unsuspecting sahib as the trophy of his skill."

Traveling In Asia.

For traveling over the rolling plains of Central Asia a Chinese version of the Russian tarantass is used, to which in Russia three horses are usually harnessed abreast. Mongolians, however, know nothing about driving. So they fix a bar across the shafts, and a mounted man on either side, taking the end of this on his saddle bow and pressing it against his chest, sets off at full gallop. Another pair tug in front at rope traces attached to the shafts, and a couple of horsemen hook on to the sides of the carriage. In this way it is said that fifteen miles an hour can be covered without difficulty. But it is trying work for the nerves.

Puzzled Pa.

The country boy who was going to play on the college baseball team had written a letter to the old folks down home.

"I reckon he's gettin' on all right," drawled the old man as he scrutinized the page, "but 'pears to me he's doin' some things that a gal ought to do."

"How's that, Hiram?" asked the old lady.

"Why, the other day he says he made two or three muffs."—Chicago News.

To Get Rid of Cockroaches.

A housekeeper who was recommended to try cucumber peeling as a remedy for cockroaches strewed the floor with pieces of the peel, cut not very thin, and watched the sequel. The pests covered the peel within a short time so that it could not be seen, so voraciously were they engaged in sucking the poisonous moisture from it. The second night that this was tried the number of cockroaches was reduced to a quarter, and none was left alive on the third night.

To Launder Chiffon.

It is quite easy to wash and iron the better kinds of chiffon and make it look like new. Make a lather with soap powder in warm water. Float the chiffon in this for about ten minutes. Do not rub, but fold carefully between the hands and squeeze gently two or three times. Then place it between the folds of a clean, soft towel and press it until most of the moisture is absorbed. Iron on the wrong side while still damp and the chiffon will be quite fresh and glossy.

Filling For Sofa Pillows.

New fillings for pillows constantly are being thought of, one of the latest being tea leaves. This is a prettier use for the waste from the teapot than the old-fashioned plan of saving them for sweeping, and if the dried leaves have a few fresh ones added this pillow will make a pretty mixture of flavors when lying next those stuffed with dried lavender, rose leaves and cedar.

To Clean Paint.

Kitchen paints will soon acquire a shabby, dull look from the frequent cleaning that is necessary in this room. The use of soap only increases the difficulty, especially if the paints are varnished. The best plan is to boil one pound of bran in a gallon of water for an hour, then wash the paint with this bran water, and it will not only be kept clean, but bright and glossy.

"SPOTTED DOG."

A Dainty So. Morsel That is Not Very Hard to Make.

One evening my friend, the skipper, suddenly clapped his hand on my back and blithely announced that tomorrow would be his birthday.

"And, gee whizz," he continued, "we must have some 'spotted dog!'"

This is always considered a rare treat aboard ship. Just why it is so regarded is as rare as a hen's tooth. "Spotted dog" is a sailor's term for plum pudding. In my wanderings around the world I have seen it served scores of times to celebrate some great event and taken from the table untouched. Mayhap some young woman who is learning to cook would like the recipe, so here goes:

Spotted Dog For Ten Persons.—Take about three-fourths of a bushel of flour in a large dishpan and add sufficient water to make a pasty dough. Do not knead it thoroughly, and do not add any yeast, for fear it may rise when baking. When you have finished kneading, place the pan containing the dough against the wall and step back about five paces. Take several heaping handfuls of dried currants and throw them with all your might and main at the dough. Those that hit the dough will give it a freckled appearance; hence its name. Place in a slow oven. If any of the currants miss fire sweep them up and add while baking, as they give the dish a peculiar piquancy and zest.

I never knew a special occasion aboard a sailing ship when this concoction was not served as the piece de resistance. I have known passengers to fast for days and pass by every other offering on the table in order to whet their appetite for it, but I never knew one to eat it when it was set before him. Of all the edibles of a ship's cuisine it is the most unpalatable. It might be replaced by lignum vitae or cobblestones.—Charles Sarka in Success Magazine.

TUESDAY, JUNE 12, 1906.

That Maryland should have selected a man 82 years old to succeed the late Senator Gorman in the United States Senate, gives Oslerism a jolt.

If our girls were learned how to shoot more of them could protect themselves against the assaults of black brutes as the Selma young lady did.

The corporation commission restrained the Southern railway from changing the night schedule out of Raleigh until the petitions and answers can be fully investigated.

New Orleans has opened a summer campaign against the mosquito and will spend $900 a day in the extermination of the pest. By getting rid of the mosquito it is hoped to keep the city clear of yellow fever.

President Cassatt, of the Pennsylvania railroad, says his hands are clean and he committed none of the rascality that has been exposed. But his employes did, and they might have been the scape goat for him.

The ability of the North Carolina members of the United States Senate is easily recognized, and honors come to them accordingly. Senator Overman has been made a member of the Democratic steering committee of the Senate to fill a vacancy caused by the death of the late Senator Gorman, of Maryland. Senator Simmons has been appointed a member of the committee on commerce.

The resignation of the sheriff of Wake county because his fees had been cut down, when after the reduction he was still making considerable more than the governor of the State gets, is starting the agitation again that public offices should be operated on a salary basis instead of the fees system. The next Legislature would do a good thing for the state if it would make this change. Every officer should be paid a salary commensurate with the duties and responsibilities of his office and abolish the fee system entirely.

Mr. Cassatt has come home to explain. While he is explaining how Patton and his other associates got so much mining stock and so much money from favored coal companies, wouldn't it be well also to explain how his company managed to get so many millions from the treasury of the United States and the District of Columbia for nothing by means of the so-called union station act? Men who cheerfully receive bribes will as cheerfully give them. How much did Babcock and Bliss get out of the union station graft for the use of the G. O. P? Tell it all, Mr. Cassatt.

GRADED SCHOOL NOTES.

F. G. James Attorney

At the opening session of Mecklenburg Superior Court Monday three grand jurors failed to answer to their names and were fined $40 each by Judge Bryan. The law requires the attendance of witnesses and jurors and when they fail to respond it is the duty of the court to punish them unless they can give a proper explanation of their conduct. But a judge can turn up at court a day or a half day late; he can adjourn in the middle of a term and inconvenience hundreds of people as well as impose burdens on the taxpayers. He is not punished but he ought to be. There should be some way to compel a judge to perform his duties.—Statesville Landmark.

DEMAND WHAT YOU WANT.

While it is not to be taken with seriousness, the following from the Statesville Landmark is a fine hit and is interesting reading:

It is the custom for corporations and various associations of business and professional men to secure legislation to advance their own interests. At a meeting of the State Medical Society in Charlotte last week the desirability of certain legislation was suggested and some of the doctors said, and truly, that the way to get it was to go to work for it; that if the State Medical Society would exert its influence properly it could control the politicians and secure whatever it wanted, or words to that effect. This is preliminary to saying that the newspapers, which furnish all the publicity and do most of the work for the schemes of other folks, not only have no special legislation in their interests, but are frequently made to suffer by adverse legislation. It is time to be up and doing, brethren beloved. The newspapers can, if they will, control all the politicians and Legislatures and everything else. We know that at least one newspaper man will be in the next Legislature—Mr John M. Julian, of the Salisbury Post, and The Landmark now moves that he be instructed to evote himself to securing legislation for the newspapers. To begin with we suggest that he have a law passed making the non-payment of newspaper bills—subscription and advertising accounts—a felony. After passing a few such mild measures as this he might see his way clear to ask for a more drastic measure, such as compelling every family to take at least one newspaper, etc. We may think of some other things later, but these will do to begin on. If The Landmark's motion is passed we will move to add as a penalty that in case Col. Julian fails to secure the passage of these and similar measures that he be expelled from the North Carolina Press Association. We know it will be only necessary to suggest this to cause the colonel to get a "hump on himself." He never would incur that penalty. P. S. We had almost overlooked the most important measure that should be enacted into law. Every newspaper should be granted (free of course) a franchise to do business in certain territory, the number of papers to be limited in towns and counties according to population; newspapers not having a franchise not being allowed to circulate in another's territory. With this arrangement and every family compelled to take a newspaper and pay for it, we are constrained to believe that the business would pick up a little.

Side Lights on the French Census.

France does not take its censuses as seriously as this country, though some Parisian wits are now paying fines for the gaudiness of their answers to the enumerators' queries. Some towns and villages set about swelling their population. Marseilles and Lyons were jealous about the second place among French cities. Whether they padded the returns or not does not appear, but Cassoulet is not a little town in the south, anxious to bring its population up to 20,000, so that its magistrates could have their salaries increased to $125. As only a few score of people were wanted, the affair was comparatively easy. Cassoulet jail was made the workhouse of a whole district, but entry was obligatory, not permissive, for all the tramps in the neighborhood. This drafting of citizens was successful.

The Solemn Back Bay Butler.

Some Boston editor intimated that Back Bay butlers made love to the housemaids. One of them has replied in defense of his class, and incidentally he shows how far culture has got down the back stairs of Boston society. He writes:
"I do not flirt with any of the female members of the household, and it is no exaggeration to say that I am not better than the average butler of the Back Bay, so far as morals are concerned. I have educated my boy in France and England and am now giving him a postgraduate course at an American college. Our feelings have been hurt by the article to which I refer, and we have undergone a great deal of mental suffering from the annoyance unwittingly caused us."

Beware of Ointment for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. How Lord Palmerston Squelched a Youthful Annoyer.

When the late Lord Palmerston, who had a keen sense of humor, first put up for the parliamentary representation of Tiverton and had duly introduced himself to the electors in the usual manner at a public meeting a youth scarcely out of his teens mounted the platform and requested permission to ask his lordship some questions.

The audience appeared somewhat astounded at his impudence, but the veteran statesman showed neither annoyance, surprise nor contempt. Coolly, quietly and clearly he answered question after question till the malapert querist appeared satisfied.

"And now, young man," said Palmerston, "may I be allowed to ask you a question?"

"Oh, certainly, my lord; most certainly," replied the unsuspecting catechist—"anything you please."

"Thank you. Then may I inquire does your mother know you're out?" asked his lordship gravely, and the youth made a hasty exit amid roars of laughter.—New York News.

He Had Heard That Name.

The stagecoach that carries the mail between Kent's Hill and Readfield station in Maine drew up along the roadside, and the driver accosted a little old man working in a field:

"Do you know who Mrs. Abby B. Brown is and where she lives?"

The old man considered. "Brown, Abby B. Brown?" he repeated. "You don't mean Mrs. Polly Brown, do you?"

"No; Mrs. Abby B. Brown. We've got a letter for her."

"B., you say the middle letter is B, do you? I know a whole lot of Browns that live on the other side of the road, but there ain't any Abby B. among them. You don't mean Abby B. Smith, do you? She lives over—"

"No; it's Abby B. Brown. We'll find it somehow. Thanks."

The stage driver started his horse, but before the corner was reached a faint "Hello!" caused the passengers to turn around. The old man, hoe in hand, was pursuing the stage.

"Brown, Mrs. Abby B. Brown, did you say? Why, I know her. She's my wife."—Pittsburg Press.

Not Addition.

An editor was talking about the late Lewis Carroll, author of "Alice In Wonderland," "The Hunting of the Shark" and many other delectable tales.

"Lewis Carroll," he said, "was a mathematician, but his mind was not so narrow and crotchety as the minds of mathematicians usually are."

"I once heard him say that the normal mathematician disliked poetry. He got into an argument about poetry with an instructor in trigonometry on a certain occasion, and, his argument failing, he gave the instructor Tennyson's 'Charge of the Light Brigade' to read.

"There, read that," he said, "and if you don't find it full of beauty I'll give in."

"The instructor sneered, looked at the page and began to read:

"Half a league, half a league, half a league—"

"Then he threw down the book.

"If the fool means a league and a half," he snorted, "why the deuce can't he say so?"

POLITENESS IN HAVANA.

To Render a Courtesy Gives Keen Pleasure to the Cuban.

Havana is a continuous performance. Picturesque groups of natives, queer looking wheeled vehicles, grotesque scenes and unusual sounds greet one at every corner. Havana is old, and it looks every day of its age, from the stone flagging on the streets to the tile roofs overhanging them. In fact, except that it is now the cleanest city in the world, where it bore the reputation of being the dirtiest, it looks just as it must have looked a hundred years ago. About every two squares are kiosks, or fruit stands, where green coconuts are piled up high and where native guanabana, or "soursop" lemonade, is dispensed at a few cents a glass. Pina fria, a refreshment made from the juice of the pineapple, is also prepared in a second.

These kiosks are also virtual information bureaus, not because they cater to this business, but because so many strangers stand on the corners and ask questions. The native Cuban, be he man of leisure or ordinary laborer, is cast in the same mold of old Spanish chivalry, and he will put himself at your disposal even to the neglect of his business. To the New Yorker, accustomed to the constant cry of "Step lively!" it is a genuine novelty as well as a pleasure to board a car in Havana and ask the conductor to call out when he reaches a certain street. To render a courtesy gives, to all appearances, the keenest pleasure to the Cuban. Even the blacks are Chesterfieldian in speech and manner, and they do not overdo it and make politeness a burlesque, as the French so often do.

Visitors to Havana, at least those who enjoy novelty, make a point of visiting the chocolate factory, just a few minutes' drive from the main hotels. It is not the amount of sweets which are bestowed upon the visitor nor the method of preparing various candies that makes the trip worth while. It is the fascinating spirit of welcome which greets guests from all sides. The factory is a large one, with many employees, and the especial duty of each seems to be to make it pleasant for the visiting stranger. A good looking guide from the office force accompanies the stranger from the top to the bottom of the factory.—Harriet Quimby in Leslie's Weekly.

The Face.

A single vertical wrinkle between the eyebrows shows strict honesty in money matters. Economy broadens the nose, making it rather short and thick above the nostrils. It gives in age a broad double chin. Lines extending downward from the angle of the mouth toward the chin, when marked, show a tendency to sadness and melancholy. The lines ranging outward from the eyes show capacity for enjoyment, as well as the two deep furrows framing the mouth by the upper lip. The former are the penalty we pay for mirth and form the future channel of the tear. When one has short vertical lines in the red parts of the lips, strongly marked, they indicate a capacity for friendship. If the lips be full, the chin well developed and square, one has much vital power over others, a strong capacity for loving and self reliant spirit.

Costly Water.

More money is paid for water in a single day than is paid for liquor in a week, though few purchasers are aware of the quantity of water they pay for. A ten pound turkey, for instance, is but three pounds solids and seven pounds water, and there are six pounds of water in ten pounds of pork, while the percentage of water in beef or mutton is about the same. Salmon and mackerel are but half water, though other fish contain a greater proportion of fluids. Sixty-five per cent of an egg is water, and there are about two ounces of water to the pound of butter. Vegetables run from 40 to 80 per cent of water, and even dried peas contain a small percentage. Taken at an average 55 per cent of all expenditures for food is paid for water. There is no way of avoiding payment.
