PROF. W. H. RAGSDALE'S SPEECH.

Response to Address of Welcome to the Teachers' Assembly in Raleigh.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

When I was asked to perform this pleasing task it was not on account of what I would say, or how I would say it. Last winter when your city extended its kind invitation to us to meet with you, there was little delay in accepting it. We all wanted to come, and were glad we had the opportunity.

Later when those whose duty it was to prepare this program, began to do so they had no choice left as to who should fill this place. For so long a time had I been favoring coming here, and so well known was my love and my admiration for this city, its people and its cordial hospitality that the place of right fell to me. It is good to be here. It is well to be here tonight. As I sat a few moments ago and listened to your kind, cordial and eloquent welcome, saw the many things you so freely and heartily tendered us, realized that they were realities and ours to enjoy in truth and indeed, I felt like exclaiming, O fortunate body to have these few days in such a city and among such people.

Twenty three years ago a few thoughtful teachers and a few public spirited friends of theirs realized that there was no organized body among the teachers in North Carolina. They saw the absolute necessity of having an organization to propagate educational thought, to encourage educational progress, to consider educational conditions, to ask for favorable legislation, to instill professional pride among the teachers, to create and foster a love for the work, and to stimulate activity and enthusiasm for the cause. Acting upon this suggestion they met away up in the mountains, there where the land rises to kiss the stars, in that pure atmosphere so invigorating, so stimulating, so helpful for the thought and work necessary to properly plan for and begin an organization with such laudable purposes, which was to continue and grow through all the years as they come and go. Thus Black Mountain became the birthplace of the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly.

For these twenty-three years it has stood for the best in education. Its meetings have been marked by wisdom and progressive activity. It would be an endless task to rehearse in your presence tonight what it has accomplished. It has been a source of inspiration to every teacher in North Carolina, it has been the Mecca from which he could go forth every year with new strength, and new courage for the arduous labors that lay in his path way. It is this body that has ever stood for and urged local taxation, so unpopular through the years, but which today is changing the educational map of North Carolina and giving us schools which are the pride of every lover of learning. It has always advocated the consolidation of districts with better houses, better equipped, until today they are being built at the rate of more than one a day for every day in the year. It is this body that for years has demanded that the county superintendent be unfettered and allowed to do his best work receiving a reasonable compensation for the same. Today this is dawning as a reality. More efficient teachers doing better work, with better pay, has been its cry. One has but to look into the faces of these here assembled and those who will be here during the present month to see what a wonderful transformation there has been in this particular.

It has appealed to the individual, it has endeavored to persuade the masses, it has gone into legislative halls and there plead for the children of the State. It stands today the most potent body in North Carolina for its educational development. Its work is just begun.

Its meetings have been migratory. It has met away up among the mountain peaks, which as they pierced the skies in their sublimity and grandeur have buoyed us upward and onward to higher endeavor and nobler purposes. Here our welcome was cordial. It has met in the beautiful summer capital of the West, where wealth, culture, delightful scenery and surroundings all united in making our stay pleasant. It has gone down time and again to old ocean's shore where summer crowds, splendidly rigged boats, delightful breezes, invigorating surf, and magnificent billows in their grand march across the world of waters all sang their most cordial greetings and inspiring welcome. It has met also in that beautiful city in the center, with its busy, bustling, progressive, live citizenship, a city which is reported as asking for almost every thing on the face of the earth and getting about all she asks for. Here was that royal welcome which we had last year.

But it seems exceedingly fitting in this year 1906, marked as it is by the finest educational spirit that has ever been within our borders in our entire history, that we should come to our own beautiful capital city—the city that in all the years of the assembly has felt and shown an interest in it that no other in the State approaches. What more could we ask, what more could we find anywhere to satisfy every requisite for an ideal meeting place than we have here.

Here are your beautiful women and gallant men, here are splendid homes and genuine hospitality. Yours is a city of churches with a consecrated membership led by ministers whose walk and words lead men to a higher life. Here is our own loved capital in whose walls have gathered the men of the past who made history. Here are our State institutions that are the product and outgrowth of a Christian civilization. Here we may come in contact with our State officers, both executive and judicial—men whom only to meet and greet gives new life and thought for work. Here are your public libraries and your hall of history in which are gathered that which of all people in the world should interest a body of teachers. Here is the city that is the undisputed educational center of the State with its splendid system of graded schools, with the only college in the State that not only fits and prepares young men for the learned professions but trains also their hands that they may go out in life and fill that long felt need of men who by their skill and training can play their part in the industrial development of the State; with its magnificent Christian female colleges, training both the heads and hearts of the young women who enter their walls so that North Carolina may have that best of all God's gifts to men on earth—educated, Christian homes.

Last to be mentioned but by no means least, here is the home of your great dailies and your religious papers. There can be no estimating the power of the Press when it stands for best in politics, the best in morals and the best in religion. This assembly could never have gained the prestige it now has and holds had it not been for the hearty support it has always had from the newspapers.

With all these things here present, with the splendid cordial welcome you have given us, with the love we already had for the city, which has been increased since hearing you, we can hope for a great meeting.

Just after one of those terrible inundations that sometimes comes to the city of New Orleans from the great floods of the father of waters, leaving in its train suffering and devastation, three ladies were discussing what they would do for the beautiful city if they had the power. The first said she would build high walls on either side of the river at right angles to its bed and just above the city so that when the rushing waters of the swollen stream came on in their fury they would be forced into the channel again and leave the city untouched. The second lady said "I would not do this. I would begin away up at the source of the river and build on each side of it walls gradually rising higher and higher until they reached the city. I would thus prevent the waters ever leaving the channel and in this way save the city." The third lady said, "I would do neither of these things. The waters might in some unseen and expected moment rise to such a height as to break through or rush over these walls and then our beautiful city would be swept by one great rush of waters from the map of the earth. If I had my way I would do this—I would raise our loved city so high that the snows might melt, the rains might descend and the floods might come but the torbid, mad, rushing, raging waters would never even touch its streets, it would be so high above them."

This is what we would have this meeting plan to do for North Carolina. Let us by the dissemination and irenication of education, culture, temperance and religion raise the State so high in civilization that ignorance, prejudice, superstition, violence and crime cannot even enter its borders. Conditions are here favorable for a forward step. We already feel the inspiration of this gathering. Our coming together is a pleasure to us, we shall be blessed. May you share our joys.

In behalf of the body I represent in their name allow me to thank you for this joyous welcome. We shall appropriate to our temporary use the many things you have so generously offered. Should we see others which you have not tendered, if such a thing is possible, we shall take and enjoy them, knowing from what you have already said that your response would be "they are yours, use them to your heart's content."

This little prophecy: When we have been with you these few days, when we have met, mingled and parted, as we go we will carry with us the fondest recollections of your genuine hospitality, of the most profitable and soul inspiring meeting this body has ever had, and it will be the mile-stone from which will begin a greater and grander work for the uplift educationally of this old State of ours, to that place which we earnestly hope and cheerfully believe she is soon to hold among her sister States in this great Union of ours.

To Raleigh and to this assembly, to you and to us, may there come from this meeting new hopes, new aspirations, new determinations, new strength for the great work that is now committed to our care and for the continued success of which we are largely responsible.

COUNTY CONVENTION.

Names Delegates to State, Congressional and Judicial Conventions.

In spite of the rain and generally disagreeable weather there was a good attendance upon the Democratic county convention held in the court house today for the purpose of selecting delegates to the State, congressional and Judicial conventions.

The committee was called to order by L. I. Moore, chairman of the county executive committee in a brief strong speech setting forth the principals of the Democratic party favoring special principles to none, as contrasted with the principles of the Republican party which favors class legislation and fosters trusts and corporations. His mention of the name of W. J. Bryan as the leader of Democracy was greeted with applause.

The secretary called the roll of town-ships.

A. L. Blow was elected permanent chairman of the convention, W. L. Brown and D. J. Whichard secretaries.

The strength of the convention for judge resulted in Morrill 644, Guion 284.

The strength for corporation commissioner was called for, but before this vote was taken J. J. Laughinghouse was on motion given the privilege of the floor. Mr. Laughinghouse spoke relative to the corporation commission and the influence of the Southern railway in hoping its affairs and controlling legislation.

A vote was taken as follows: Long 84 6-7 McNeill 8 1-7.

A little spirit was injected by the offering of a resolution instructing the delegates to the congressional convention for John H. Small; and at the same time condemning his vote for the fast mail appropriation. A substitute was offered for this resolution which was followed by a motion to table. The motion was lost. The following was then adopted.

Resolved 1. That we, the Democratic voters of Pitt county in convention assembled, instruct her delegates to cast the vote of Pitt county in the congressional convention for the Hon. John H. Small.

2. The we appreciate the industry and fidelity of our representative, the Hon. John H. Small, in looking after the interests of his constituents and instruct our delegates to the congressional convention to vote for his renomination, yet we do not endorse his vote for the so called fast mail subsidy to the Southern railway, but regret the same.

On motion the delegates from the county to the judicial convention were instructed to vote for Hon. L. I. Moore for solicitor.

The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That we demand of the corporation commission a reduction of the now exorbitant charges made by the telephone companies. That we also demand that they pay a tax for the use of the highway equal to the assessment of 6 1/2 cents on the hundred dollars valuation.

The townships then retired to select delegates to the State, congressional and judicial conventions.

The list of delegates cannot be published today owing to the late hour.

J. B. JOHNSTON,

The Game of Castle.
A circle is marked on the ground to represent the castle. A larger one outside limits the castle yard. Half the players retire to the castle; the others form the besieging party, who try to cross the yard and enter the castle without being caught by the castle dwellers. Every one caught is obliged to remain and become a castle dweller, but each one of the besiegers who succeeds in entering the castle is allowed to choose two of the dwellers to return with him to the besieging party. The winning side is the one containing the most men at the end of the play period.

Five Points.
Pile together as many sheets of note paper as there are persons to play. Scatter on the upper one at random five grains of rice. Prick with a pin, without disturbing the rice, five holes through the spots where the rice has fallen. You will then have a number of sheets of paper each containing five pinholes arranged in the same order. The game consists in each person drawing a figure which shall come within the points, using one for the head, two for the hands and two for the feet. A great variety of amusing figures and attitudes will be the result.

Counting a Million.
If you have never given the matter serious thought perhaps you may be surprised to hear that it would take you three days and three nights—seventy-two hours in all—to count a million, counting as fast as you possibly could. This will give you some conception of the distance of the sun from the earth, for it would take you 278 days and 279 nights to count the number of miles that separate the two bodies, 93,000,000.

No Zigzag Lightning.
If we had nothing but the unaided eye to guide us, we could not easily convince ourselves that lightning is not zigzag in its course, but the camera has shown that it is curved, or sinuous. A flash seldom lasts longer than the two-hundredth part of a second, and it is impossible for the eye to distinguish more than the general route traversed, but the highly sensitized plate of the camera catches it exactly as it is.

Taking No Chances.

"Here's a good scheme," she said, looking up from the paper she had been reading.

He seemed a trifle suspicious, but it was so evident that he was expected to answer that he made the inquiry.

"Why, it says that some wives shave their husbands and in that way save what they would ordinarily pay for a barber," she explained.

"Mary," he said after a moment's thought, "you may get that gown you spoke about this morning. It won't be necessary for you to get at my throat with a razor."

He Won the Suit.

"The worst case of ignorance I can tell you of occurred in 1869 in a remote section of our country," said a western congressman. "There was a man who suddenly became rich and built an enormous house, with some statuary, and so he wrote to Italy for a copy of Venus de Milo. The copy in due time arrived. It was executed in Carrara marble very beautifully. But no sooner did he receive it than the millionaire sued the railroad for $2,000 for mutilation, and, what's more, he won the suit."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

To the Top of the Jungfrau.

The success of the Alpine railways, notably of those around Interlaken, encouraged Mr. Guyer-Zeller, an engineer of Zurich, to venture a railway to the top of Jungfrau. He obtained the concessions from the Swiss federal council, and, being a man of wealth and enterprise, he set to work at once, notwithstanding apparently insurmountable difficulties. Today the first half of the work is completed, and thousands of tourists visit the famous glaciers of the Eiger and the sea of ice on the other side of the Jungfrau range as an afternoon excursion, sipping their 5 o'clock tea in the subterranean station of the Eiger pyramid, 10,500 feet above the sea.—Century.

He Was That Child.

David Lloyd-George, M. D., had been making a political speech. When he stepped down from the platform a rugged old man came up to him and took his hand. "Mr. Lloyd-George could not remember him. "You're ago," said the old man, "I was a doctor in Wales, and one night I was called out to go five miles to attend a young child who, I was told, was dying of croup. On my way home I wondered whether it was worth while to go so far to save a child who would only be brought up to a life of misery and hunger. However, the child recovered, and—well, you were that child."

Save the Golden Trout.

The golden trout is found in but one place in the world, in Volcano creek, California. Immense numbers are killed off each year by ruthless campers. An instance is on record of a game warden finding a heap of these fish stacked up to dry and decay. On the heap was a card stating that "we caught over 1,000 golden trout here," and the heap contained pretty nearly that number. If this sort of thing continues it will be but a short time before the golden trout will be practically exterminated.—Country Life

People all over the State regret the continued illness of Governor Glenn.

Another Durham man has attempted suicide. What's the matter with the bull town that so many people want to leave it?

It is sent out from Washington that Senator Simmons, chairman of the Democratic executive committee of North Carolina, favors Bryan and Aycock as the presidential ticket of 1908. That ticket is all right.

The Democrats of the eighth district have nominated R. N. Hackett, of Wilkes, as their candidate for Congress. And the entire State feels an interest in seeing Spencer Blackburn defeated by this sterling Democrat of Wilkes.

One of our subscribers who called to ask about it, seems to have misunderstood the article in The Reflector a few days ago relative to the exorbitant charges to railroads for rights of way, to favor giving the railroads such rights of way. In this idea he is mistaken. The Reflector thinks railroads should pay full value for a right of way or damage to the land of any person in passing through it, but it is not right for the owner of the land to demand several times what the right of way is worth just because he thinks the railroad will have to pass through it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

(By an Occasional Contributor.)

Secretary Shaw says the friends of the tariff are going to revise it. And if it is friends he is talking about, the revision probably will be "up."

Congress has done business for almost two weeks without anyone being called a liar outside of a few unimportant committee hearings.

An inquisitive correspondent wants to know whether all those Chicago packers are vegetarians. Couldn't answer for the packers, but their employees certainly ought to be.

Senators Burton and Smoot can now rub each other down with arnica and compare notes.

The packers claim that the Neill-Reynolds report is the wiener-wurst they ever heard.

It must be a whole lot of satisfaction to Gen. Miles to be able to say, "I told you so."

Nobody has thrown any bouquets at the Czar yet. And if they do, he will take precautions to see that they are not loaded.

What a mild mannered thing stealing a crop report would now seem after all the more horrible things we have read of lately.

With the thermometer crawling toward the century mark, the adjournment of Congress comes appreciably nearer in spite of the amount of legislation still unfinished.

It will be easier to believe that President Castro has retired from public life after one has not heard of him for a week.

England's advice to the anarchists will now be, "go West young man," since it is a moral certainty that no nation will let them go East and England no longer wants them.

Sir Thomas Lipton is divided in his mind as to which would be the best advertisement, making another try for the American's cup or opening a stockyard in opposition to Chicago.

CLARY-McNAMARA.

Brilliant Marriage of Popular Couple in Pitt County.

Shelmerdine, N. C. June 14, 1906. Tuesday noon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Calhoun, Miss Katherine McNamara and Mr. S. Richard Clary were wedded.

For several days the home had been a scene of loving preparation and pre-nuptial entertainment.

The house was delightfully decorated by Miss Julia Phillips of Suffolk, Va. indicating her personal exquisite refinement of taste.

The marriage ceremony was performed in the parlor, the color scheme being green and white. The large bay window was a perfect bower of palms, ferns and laurel.

The bride was becomingly attired in a stylish going-away gown of Alice blue cloth with hat to match and carried a bouquet of sweet peas and maiden hair ferns.

Rev. W. E. Cox of Greenville performed the wedding ceremony in language both eloquent and devout. The beautiful and impressive service of the Episcopal church was used and as the bride and groom awaited the blessing, the scene was of rare loveliness.

The friends were received at the hall door by the receiving party and served with punch. Mrs. H. H. Dawson, of Norfolk, gracefully presided at punch bowl. From the hall the guests were invited in parlor where a most impressive tableau awaited them composed of the bride and groom, Rev. W. E. Cox, Miss Elizabeth Jones, who served as bouquet bearer, and Mr. O. G. Calhoun, the brother-in-law of the bride, who gave her away. After the ceremony the guests were invited to the dining room where was served a most delicious wedding breakfast. The table decorations were green and white carnations. The presents received by the happy couple were numerous and handsome, fine china, cut glass and solid silver being much in evidence.

Mr. and Mrs. Clary left for a two weeks stay at beautiful Lake Toxaway and other points in the mountains of Western North Carolina.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ficklen, Miss Margaret Skinner, Rev. W. E. Cox, Rev. F. D. Viehe, Charlie James, Mrs.

Little and Mrs. Fleming, of Greenville; Mrs. H. H. Dawson, of Norfolk; H. B. Phillips, F. M. Phillips and Miss Julia Phillips, of Suffolk; Mrs. A. L. Jones, Miss Elizabeth Jones and Mr. Carol Jones, of Baltimore; Geo. H. Cole, P. H. Harrington, and Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bobbitt.

The bride is a sister of Mrs. O. G. Calhoun, of Shelmerdine. She is a woman of charming personality and rare intellectual gifts. She is a social favorite in North Carolina and Virginia.

Mr. Clary is a successful business man and is agent for the A. C. L. at Port Norfolk.

CHARCOAL AS MEDICINE.

An Antidote For Poison and a Good Household Remedy.

Charcoal as a home medicine has many uses, says Medical Talk.

"For all forms of poison pulverized charcoal is recommended to act as if by magic."

Our opinion is that these accounts just now are greatly exaggerated. We doubt very much whether a poisonous dose of strychnine would be antidoted by charcoal. At the same time, we believe charcoal to be a very excellent remedy, especially in ptomaine poisoning. All kinds of fermentation of food within the stomach or decomposition of food are immediately corrected by charcoal.

For many years we have been in the habit of prescribing pulverized charcoal for cholera infantum. This we add to the milk or other fluid nourishment which the child is taking. The dose is immaterial. As much as can be taken will do no harm.

We believe that the frequent use of charcoal in most cases of dysentery would be beneficial. Charcoal is perfectly harmless and can be taken freely without the slightest danger.

Charcoal acts as a disinfectant and absorbent of noxious gases and thoroughly cleanses the whole alimentary canal. Therefore, while we regard these recent accounts about the curative virtues of charcoal as exaggeration, we are glad so innocent and useful a remedy as charcoal has been brought into prominence by them.

We recommend our readers to give pulverized charcoal a prominent place as a household remedy. It can be made by those who use wood as a fuel. Hard wood is the best. The coal should be a clean one. It can be pulverized with a rolling pin. Those who do not have access to coals can purchase the charcoal already pulverized at the drug store.

It is a cheap remedy. It is an efficient remedy. It is a harmless remedy, and it is a remedy that we can thoroughly recommend in all stomach and intestinal disorders. In cases where it does no good it certainly will do no harm.

If we were present at a case of accidental poisoning and had no other antidote convenient we should certainly use pulverized charcoal. Therefore, it may be well to bear this in mind. Should any one be poisoned in the household a doctor should be immediately sent for.

Foreign Tongues In Italy.

Few people, even in Italy probably, are aware of the number of colonies of foreigners in the country who speak different languages and are ignorant of Italian. There are at least half a dozen of these colonies, inhabiting quiet nooks of the peninsula, a little world to themselves. They are French, German, Slav, Albanian, Greek and Catalan. French is the language of the country folk about Aosta. German dialects are found about Domodossola and in parts of the Venetian province; Slav is spoken about Trieste, in the north, where it is Slavonian, and in the Molise, where it is Serb. There are about 30,000 Italo-Serbs. Albanian is spoken by about 110,000 Italians in fourteen circumscriptions of southern Italy and three in Sicily. Fifteen communes about Lecce and Reggio speak Greek. Catalan flourishes in Sardinia.—London Globe.

Beware of Ointment for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c. per bottle. CONDENSED STORIES.

What Happened to a Bad Man When He Found the Judge.

Colonel Bill Zevely of Muskegee while in Washington not long ago told this story of Judge Stewart of South McAlester, which is the next town down the road from Muskogee in the Indian Territory:

A ferocious person came into South McAlester some time ago and disturbed the public peace by announcing that he was a wolf, that he came from the headwaters of Bitter creek and that this was his night to howl. He emphasized this sentiment by firing a pistol several times and was promptly put in the calaboose. Next morning he was brought before Judge Stewart, and the case was heard.

"I SENTENCE YOU TO JAIL FOR SIX MONTHS," SAID THE JUDGE.

"I fine you $50 for being a wolf, $50 for being from the headwaters of Bitter creek and $50 because it was your night to howl," said the judge.

"All right, judge," the bad man replied flippantly. "I've got that amount right here in my jeans."

"I also sentence you to jail for six months," continued the judge. "Have you got that in your jeans too?"—New York World.

Judicial Acumen.

The late Justice Daly of New York frequently enlivened the tedium of legal proceedings had before him by his kindly wit, according to the New York Tribune.

One day a suit was brought before him in which damages were claimed by reason of an assault. Plaintiff had been knocked down by the defendant and severely pummeled while prostrate. One of the witnesses seemed very reluctant to answer the questions put to him on cross examination, in which he was upheld by the court.

"With all due respect to your honor," complained the attorney for the plaintiff, "the court does not appear to take cognizance of the underlying principle in this case."

"In my opinion," replied his honor good naturedly, "the underlying principal in this case is your client, Mr. Attorney."

Got Himself Recorded.

If a member of the house wants to be recorded on a roll call that he did not hear either by reason of inattention or absence from the house it is the duty of the speaker to interrogate him to ascertain if he was present and giving attention. The theory is that if a man is inattentive he is not entitled to a record.

J. Adam Bede wanted to be recorded.

"Was the gentleman in the house?" asked the speaker. Without waiting for an answer Mr. Cannon asked, "Was the gentleman giving attention?"

"He was giving attention," said Bede. Then as a sort of after thought he added, "But he was not in the house." But he got himself recorded nevertheless.—Pittsburg Dispatch.
