WINTERVILLE NOTES

Interesting Items from Our Hustling Neighbor.

WINTERVILLE, N. C., June 20—

Mrs. Lula Uzzell and children left for her home at Seven Springs Saturday morning. She had been visiting Mrs. E. E. Cox, her mother, for sometime.

J. L. Jackson, cashier of the bank of Winterville, went to Conetoe Saturday afternoon where he spent Sunday with his family who are visiting relatives there.

Jno. R. Carroll, the excellent shipping clerk for the A. G. Cox Mfg. Co., attended church at Greenville Sunday.

A large number of our young people went to Hancock's and Black Jack to attend quarterly meetings which convened at each place Sunday.

Rev. B. E. Stanfield filled his regular appointment at the Methodist church here Sunday afternoon and night, preaching two excellent sermons.

F. C. Nye left Monday morning for the summer school at Raleigh to be gone several days.

Miss Mimie Cox went to Greenville Sunday to attend church. She is spending this week with Miss Hennie Ragsdale.

Miss Lena Dawson spent Sunday here with friends and returned to Ayden on the evening train.

Miss Bonnor Kittrell left for Raleigh Monday to attend the summer school.

J. L. Jackson, accompanied by his wife and little son, returned from Conetoe Sunday evening.

Mrs. C. T. Kittrell returned from Grifton Tuesday morning.

J. J. May went to Grifton Monday evening and returned Wednesday morning.

T. C. Nelson made a flying trip to Greenville Monday afternoon.

Miss Annie Nelson went to Greenville Monday afternoon and returned on the evening train.

J. E. Green, our clever railroad agent, spent Sunday night in Grifton.

Winterville is not on a boom, but it is gratifying to see the signs of material prosperity on every hand. We don't believe in standing still. Progress is our watchword. The numerous dwellings and a nice church in course of erection now, are an outward sign of the onward march of events in this town of thrift and industry.

We have seen a few barrels of potatoes here for shipment. The crop is shorter than usual on account of the continued drought during their growing season.

The recent rains have put a hustle on our farmers to keep their crops in growing condition. As a result of this times are a little dull with our merchants at present.

Miss Evelyn Sutton went to Greenville Tuesday afternoon.

Frank Lilly, of Ayden, was here on business Tuesday afternoon.

Thos. Buck came over from Ayden Monday and spent some time in our city.

Leon Smith went to Greenville this morning.

Josh Manning made a business trip to Vanceboro Monday morning.

BLACK JACK ITEMS.

Black Jack, N. C. June 19, 1906—

There was quarterly meeting here Saturday and Sunday with a large congregation present.

C. H. Vincent, from near Winterville, spent Saturday night and Sunday here.

Mrs. Nancy Hardee, from near Haddock X Roads, and her daughter, little Bertha, spent Saturday and Sunday here visiting relatives.

Miss Eva Cox and her brother, Koscoe, were here a short while Wednesday.

R. M. Mayo, of Grimesland, was visiting here Sunday afternoon.

H. J. Mills is very ill with pneumonia. We hope he will soon get better.

A good many of the Grimesland people attended church here Sunday.

E. F. Tucker and Miss Sarah Taylor, of Winterville, attended church here Sunday.

Elder W. H. Laughinghouse conducted services here Saturday and Sunday.

L. L. Stancill, of Washington, was here yesterday.

Miss Dora Cox, from near Red Banks, spent Sunday evening with friends.

Elder A. A. Tyson and wife spent Saturday night and Sunday here with friends.

W. O. Cox and wife, who have been visiting relatives here, left yesterday for their home in Ayden.

J. O. Johnston went to Greenville yesterday.

Mrs. Johnnie Williams, who has been visiting her parents here, returned to her home near Sheldermine Sunday.

H. Susman, of Washington, was here yesterday taking subscriptions for stock in the H. Susman Co., of Washington.

Souvenir Cards.

At the drug store of Coward & Wooten are displayed some very attractive souvenir postal cards. The cards contain pictures of buildings and scenes around Greenville that were taken with a kodak and mounted by a local amateur artist. The work is well done and the card makes as pretty souvenir as can be had. They are also a good advertisement for Greenville for sending to people at a distance.

Ladies' Meeting.

There will be a call meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church, Thursday afternoon at five o'clock, to be held at the new church.

Important business demands the presence of the members. Mrs. C. T. Munford, Pres.

Ladies, at Last.

C. T. Munford has been given the agency for the Currency Placket Fastener, and Miss Lena Harris will be glad to demonstrate this wonderful little article. This invention fills a long felt want and every lady should have a supply on hand.

THE WEATHER.

Fair tonight and Thursday.

Hoboes Leaving California.

Never in the history of railroading have the trainmen of the Southern Pacific Company had to contend with as many hoboes as have been steering their way over the lines in the past two weeks. Many of the brakemen claim that they are unable to cope with the situation, and if they attempted to keep the tramps off it would be impossible to run their trains on schedule time.

It is nothing to see trains pull in at this station carrying 'blind baggage' passengers as thick on the car platforms as bees on the entrance of a bee-hive. The railroad men do all in their power to force and compel these individuals to keep off, but they are traveling in 'flocks' of fifteen or twenty-five. To keep them off, the railroad company would have to carry guards, with orders to shoot when a command is disobeyed.

As high as fifty hoboes have been seen at one time in the Truckee yards. When a freight train pulls out a conductor and his two brakemen are as powerless to free their trains from this element as a lamb to get away from a pack of wolves. —Truckee Correspondence Sacramento Bee.

Shop Shots.

The two best mediums for store advertising are without doubt the window and the local newspaper. Cheap or slack treatment of either will prove to your satisfaction that advertising is not a failure.

Business follows the crowd. In other words, business makes business. Get the people coming to your store, whether it be to buy, to look or to ask for souvenirs. At all events, keep the store looking busy.

Printer's Ink is the best tonic for a business that has got that tired feeling. Use it in winter, summer, spring and fall. Use it as a preventive as well as a cure.

Newspaper advertising, reduced to its lowest common denominator is simply with reference to the goods, what, where and how much? Cover these three points in plain language and you have made paying advertisements. —Printer's Ink.

Things Will Soon be Moving.

Greenville has been duller in the last few months than we ever knew it. But it is not going to remain that way long. First thing you know the town will wake up and be going forward with great bounds. If you have been contemplating the purchase of a building lot it is not worth while to wait long about it, unless you want to pay a higher price than it can be had at now.

Where Greenville Leads.

If you want to see Greenville at her best, stand out and look at the handsome traps and handsome occupants as they go by late these afternoons. In this one particular Greenville cannot be surpassed, for we have the finest turnouts and prettiest women of any town its size in existence.

OVER THE STATE.

Happenings of Interest in North Carolina.

R. G. Hewitt, a street car conductor in Charlotte, was run over and killed by his own car Tuesday afternoon. The car had been reversed and was running backward at the time of the accident.

Fayetteville, N. C., June 19.—The Victoria Manufacturing Company, organized sometime ago with $300,000 capital, broke ground today for the construction of a large cotton mill on the main line of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad two miles from this city.

Charged with a criminal assault upon a little white girl, just eight years of age a negro boy, aged fifteen, is in Wake county jail. The negro boy is named Clement Rowland and the attempted assault took place in Panther Branch township. The little girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Britt, of that township. —Raleigh News and Observer.

Wilmington, June 19.—Growing out of charges preferred against him in opposing his election to the police force at last night's meeting of the board of aldermen, former Policeman M. E. Guy, this morning made an attack on Alderman E. F. Johnson, near the place of business of the latter, on Dock street. A fistcuff ensued in which the ex-policeman's eye was blackened and the alderman's vest and shirt suffered to some extent. Friends of the two men interfered before the final result of the affray was apparent.

Littleton, N. C., June 19.—An organized man hunt is in progress here today. Men and dogs are thought to be on the right trail of a band of burglars. Night before last a number of residences were entered and robbed of money and valuables. The Hon. S. G. Uaniel lost his handsome gold watch and a sum of money. An attempt was made to enter the residence of Sheriff John R. Patterson. His little boy Charlie, who was watching his sick grandmother, heard the window opening and frightened them off. One hundred dollars or more was stolen from B. I. Riggan. Numerous attempts were made to enter houses where the occupants were awakened by the noise and the burglars were frightened off.

The pluck and grit of the American boy is shown by the fact that a newspaper boys' association in Boston voted to send one of its members to Harvard. The association started a fund of $5,000 for a scholarship at that university and has raised half of the sum, and President Eliot has agreed to accept the present interest on the amount until it grows larger. That the first thought of this association was towards the higher education, and a determined effort to secure it, is an illuminating instance on the success of Americans which to Europeans is such a surprising thing. —Baltimore American.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Of Those Coming and Going.

E. B. Ficklen returned this morning from Danville.

Frank Perkins went to Tarboro Tuesday evening.

Rev. F. D. Viehe went to Grifton this morning.

Miss Mimie Cox, of Winterville, is visiting Miss Hennie Ragsdale.

Mrs. Sarah Patrick and Mrs. Bettie Tripp and child went to Grifton this morning.

R. D. Cherry, of Sanford, who had been visiting relatives here, left Tuesday evening.

Jesse Smith, of Portsmouth, spent last night here with his parents and left this morning.

Dr. D. L. James left this morning for High Point to attend the meeting of the State Dental association.

Prof. and Mrs. C. L. Houday, of Durham, who have been visiting the parents of the former, left this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Livscomb, of Columbia, S. C., who had been visiting the parents of former, left this morning.

Mrs. Julia Wooten and granddaughter, Miss Pattie and little Miss Ruth Wooten, of Tarboro, who has been visiting Mrs. Pattie Wooten, left Tuesday evening.

Crew of the Sweeney Safe.

New York, June 19.—The schooner Maggie M. Keough, Captain Tilton, which arrived here today from Savannah, brought into port the crew of the schooner Jennie Sweeney, which struck on the twenty-one foot lump of Frypan Shoals, off Cape Fear, in a heavy northeaster Tuesday, June 12, and went down two hours later. The crew of eight took to their boat, and after a night exposed to the severe weather, were picked up by the Maggie M. Keough.

Novel Vehicle.

R. L. Smith & Co., today received a speed cart which is about the swiftest and lightest riding vehicle that has been seen here. One fellow called it a goat cart and wanted to know when the billy goat was coming to pull it.

Our Thanks.

We are again indebted to Mr. D. D. Haskett for some of his fine tomatoes. The kind he raises are the best flavor we ever tasted. He also sent us some new corn, the first we have seen this season.

It is said that they are going to put the head of John Paul Jones on a postage stamp. We are willing for them to do anything with him they please except to dig him up and bury him some more. —Charlotte Observer.

Evans street and a thoroughfare to the depot are not going to be paved any sooner than they ought to.

A WILY STENOGRAPHER.

She Landed a Human Shark Who Got Work Done For Nothing.

Having been graduated from a business college, the confiding stenographer advertised for a situation. Her first answer was from a man who had an office in an imposing new skyscraper. He was a young man, gracious in manner, yet apparently not easy to please. His stenographer had been so unsatisfactory in general, he explained, that he had been obliged to make it a rule that before he engaged one he must insist upon a trial of the applicant's speed and accuracy. The young woman prided herself on her proficiency and, supposing such tests to be strictly in the order of business, promptly consented to the arrangements.

The young man brought out a pile of letters and commenced to dictate answers. It was 3 o'clock when her pencil jotted down the first address. When she had laid the heap of neatly written letters on his desk it was 5:30. In that time she had written twenty letters. The young man glanced at her work carelessly.

"I haven't time to examine this tonight," he said, "but I will do so the first thing in the morning. Call at 10 o'clock."

At 10 o'clock next morning she called again. The young man met her with a deprecating smile.

"I am sorry," he said, "but your work has a haphazard look that is not exactly businesslike. I am very particular about my letters. Anyway, I am afraid you are not rapid enough. I believe I shall have to look further. Good morning."

That was nearly a year ago. The confiding young woman has since worked in other places and has learned many things, not the least important of which is a brief history of the young man. Recently she had occasion to advertise for a position, and again she received a letter from the young man. He did not recognize her and dictated thirty letters to be written "on trial." She rattled off the correspondence with the quick touch of a master manipulator.

"I am in a hurry tonight," he explained when she had finished. "Call in the morning, please, and I will tell you what I think of your work."

"Pardon me," she said calmly, "but I never do business that way. I have done your work, and now I want my pay for it. My bill is $10."

"Ten dollars!" he stammered. "Ten dollars for thirty letters?"

"Yes," she said. "Three dollars for these, $2 for another batch I wrote a year ago and $5 as interest and partial compensation for the trouble and worry you have given me. If I put this matter in the hands of a lawyer it would cost you more than $10, besides unpleasant publicity."

The young man thought hard for a few minutes and then paid the bill.—New York Press.

The Oneness of the World.

One touch of nature makes the whole world kin;
One bunch of grafters takes the whole world's skin;
One touch of humor makes the whole world grin.
And food adulteration keeps the whole world thin.

CASNOW & CO.

The Light of the Sun.

From a comparison of the relative intensity of solar, lunar and artificial light, as determined by Professors Euler and Wollaston, it appears that the rays of the sun have an illuminating power that is wonderful in the extreme. According to their deductions, the illuminating power of the "great day star" is equal to that of 14,000 candles at a distance of one foot, or of 3,500,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 candles at a distance of 95,000,000 miles. From the above figures it follows that the amount of light which flow from the solar orb could not be produced by the daily burning of 200 globes of tallow, equal to the earth in magnitude.

A Precaution.

A girl baby was brought to a Seaside clergyman, according to the Post-Intelligencer of that city, to be baptized. He asked the name of the baby.

"Dinah M.," the father responded. "But what does the M stand for?" asked the minister.

"Oh, if she turns out nice and sweet and handy about the house, like her mother, I shall call her Dinah May. But if she has a fiery temper and bombshell disposition, like mine, I shall call her Dinah

THE GYPSY MOTH.

How a Careless Frenchman's Experiments Led to Trouble.

On a certain ill omened day in 1869 a gentle breeze rippled through the streets of a quiet town in eastern Massachusetts. It left chimneys unharmed and hardly rippled a tree, yet if it had been a cyclone it could hardly have done more damage, for in a bare little frame tenement house on a side street stood Pandora's box full of troubles waiting to be spread broad ast over the land, and the breeze furnished the needed key. Presently the owner of the house and of Pandora's box, a Frenchman, known to his neighbors for his curious experiments in silk raising and for his absorption in the study of strange insects, was seen searching anxiously in the grass outside his window. People who saw him said that he seemed much disturbed at the failure of his quest. Well might he be, for he had just let loose one of the plagues of Egypt upon a fair and fertile land. He had lost "le zigsag" and the new world gained the gypsy moth.

Mr. Trouvelot, the silk grower of Medford, can hardly expect to have his name pleasantly remembered among his quondam townsmen and countrymen, but he should be given credit both for intelligence to foresee the consequences of his negligence and for the candor immediately to give notice of the danger to which the public was exposed. But his warning fell on deaf ears. No one realized that the pest, which is a nuisance rather than a danger in Europe, would gain such headway in a new home, and, freed from its hereditary enemies, was to devastate wherever it went. It would have been economy, if the future could have been foreseen, to appropriate $1,000,000 if need be to quarantine the whole neighborhood, to fell the trees, to raze the houses to the ground, to plow the fields under and leave that part of the town a desert. But no one rose to the emergency till it was too late.

EASIEST THING TO FIND.

You Can Even Find It Where It Does Not Exist.

The only thing that can easily be found where it does not exist is fault—that is, you can easily find it in others. But in yourself, though you be blackened with it, you can't see it so easily.

If the other fellow has a fault, and sometimes if he hasn't, you are quick to perceive it.

You incessantly find fault with the weather. It is either too warm or too cold, too wet or too dry, too sunny or too cloudy, and you have a good deal to say about it.

And the times never suit you. It's either hard times or else some other people are making too much money by the methods you don't know anything about and so don't approve. Deep in your subconsciousness you are quite sure that money making which you can't comprehend and can't imitate can't be honest.

And the government is all wrong, too, in your opinion. As a matter of fact, you may confess to yourself that you are unable to vote with real discrimination for county sheriff, but you do think you know all about running the national government and settling all international differences.

You may be loudly preaching for worldwide peace when you can't get along amicably with your own wife. You may not be able successfully to run a little corner grocery, but you think you know all about regulating the big trusts. You don't know what are the elements of failure in your own business affairs, but you think you know just exactly what are the faults of the great railroads.

The trouble with you is easily diagnosed. It is one of the most common disorders under the sun. You are "farsighted" in your mental vision. You see only the things that are beyond the reach of your hands and are blind to those that lie about you. You see the faults of the other fellow, but not your own.—Atlanta Journal.

ISSUE BONDS FOR ROADS.

In selecting officers this year Pitt county should have a board of county commissioners and members of the Legislature who favor good roads. A bill should be prepared and passed by the next Legislature letting the question be submitted to a vote of the people of Pitt county of issuing bonds for the construction of good roads throughout the county.

The Reflector is aware that the question of bonds is not yet a popular one with perhaps a majority of the people of this county, but it is a question that must come sooner or later. It is a disgrace to a county as large and as wealthy as Pitt that we have such miserable roads, and these roads are never going to be much better until there is a bond issue to construct good ones. The people of the county are every day losing more money because of bad roads than they realize, for such roads as now exist are indirectly an enormous tax upon them. Just how anybody who will stop and consider the results can be opposed to good roads we are unable to understand.

Here is the situation. Pitt county is at present levying a road tax of 6 2-3 cents on each $100 valuation. Each tax payer can figure this tax on the aggregate of his property and see how much it takes out of his pocket each year, to say nothing of the additional cost that comes to him indirectly from the bad roads. Then look over the county and see what good spending this money under the present system of working the roads amounts to. It is practically that much wasted. True little patches of road here and there may be improved, but there is no permanency about the work done.

On the other hand note the difference if there was a bond issue to build these roads. We believe a bond issue of say $300,000 would be amply sufficient to construct good permanent roads in every part of the county. The interest at 5 per cent on these bonds would require only $15,000 a year, and a tax levy of 2 1/2 cents on each $100 valuation would fully meet this interest. Let the tax payer again figure out the difference between 2 1/2 cents and 6 2/3 cents on the aggregate of his property and see how much this item would save him each year. Then with the bond issue all the roads could be built in a short while so that the people could get the benefit of them.

Another thing to be considered is the improved values good roads will bring. Every man's farm with a good road right by the door would be enhanced in value, his means of getting to and from market with his produce would be vastly improved, and the wear on his vehicles and teams be reduced to a minimum. Can any one consider the saving and advantages of good roads and still be opposed to them?—A bond issue is the best means of securing these improved conditions.

With as much meanness as prevails in Russia there need be no surprise that Mr. Bryan's visit was looked on with suspicion.

This is the dull time of year, and those who can pay their debts should do so and help relieve the strain. A little money turned loose now would go a long ways.

The way other Eastern North Carolina towns are forging ahead will put the blush on Greenville if this town does not get a bigger move on herself.

Greenville lives so much in the present as not to take proper thought for the future, but some of these days the town is going to want a park.

The statement is made that the South got less than 1,500 of the 120,000 immigrants who arrived at New York during last month. That was more of them than the South needed unless they were a better class.

Postmaster C. T. Bailey, of Raleigh, announces his withdrawal for reappointment. Perhaps he is expecting or has the promise of something better. At any rate they seldom back down if there is a prospect of winning.

The statement is made that the North Carolina Pine Association, which might better be styled the Lumber trust, has ordered a reduction of 10 per cent. in price. It is time, for the price of lumber has lately been so high as to almost prohibit anybody from starting out to build a house.

In a lecture here a few years ago Sam Jones told the Greenville people they ought to travel and see something. If our business men would take a trip to some towns that might be named and see how factories there increase trade, they might be awakened to the need of such enterprises here at home.

We understand that a representative of the Southeastern Tariff Association was recently here looking over the town with a view of fixing the fire insurance rates for Greenville for the next year. So far as can be learned he came, he looked, he went, and nobody said anything to him about Greenville being entitled to a lower insurance rate. If there had been a board of trade or chamber of commerce, the representative could have been invited before this body of business men and conferred with them. His attention could have been called to our efficient water supply and means of fire protection, entitling the town to a lower rate. How long will we continue to hamper our own interest?

North Carolina has some peculiar folks. They fume and fret because the railroads and corporations have such a grasp on the throats of the people, openly defy our laws and impose such unjust burdens on the public, yet when they go to a nominating convention they turn down the very best men who are offered and put in responsible positions men who by patronage, association or relation are under the influence of these same corporations. Not even the judges escape.

The Reflector has time and again referred to the need of an active board of trade or chamber of commerce in Greenville. The town is not going to make the progress it should make until there is some such organization among the business men. Just so long as the spirit of selfishness predominates—every man working only for himself and against everybody else—the growth of the town is going to be slow. There should be a spirit of cooperation, all working together to secure the things the town needs. Not a week passes but what a good board of trade could accomplish something along this line. Other towns will go ahead of us until we become aroused and go to doing something for ourselves.

An evil doer is one who believes in doing others before they attempt to do you.

Of course, the man who thinks as much of himself as you do of yourself, is conceited.

The History of This Wonderful and Impending Structure.

Washington monument is a wonderful structure and very imposing. Built of white marble, absolutely without ornamentation and capped by an aluminum pyramid, this immense needle rises to a height of over 550 feet.

It took thirty-six years to build, cost $1,250,000 and weighs close upon 3,000 tons. There is room enough for the interior of the monument to house an army of 12,000 men, for the landings will accommodate 7,675, the stairs 3,845, the upper and lower platforms 450 and the elevator 30. There are 900 steps. The weight of the capstone is 3,300 pounds, while the number of blocks of marble used in its construction reached 35,000.

The construction of this gigantic monument was in progress from 1848, and on the 6th of January, 1884, the topmost stone of the pyramid was set in place. After the great shaft was completed, the immense structure rests on a foundation of concrete and is set on a stratum of bowlders and gravel, and its stability is assured against all natural calamities except earthquakes and the wearing out of the sand beds beneath the monument.

The Washington monument stands on a site selected by George Washington in the year 1783. It is close by the banks of the Potomac, surrounded by forty acres of sloping grounds and terraces, and but a fractional distance from the Jeffersonian mansion, which passes due north and south through the center of the White House and due east and west through the center of the capitol.

The monument has thirty-one landings, the first one being 30 feet from the base and the last 330 feet. On the walls of each landing are various memorial inscriptions and tablets presented by different societies, persons and countries. The thirteenth platform is at a height of 150 feet, and it is here where the government began its work of finishing the monument in 1878. Altogether the monument contains 176 memorial tablets. There is one tablet which is totally decayed and illegible, so that no one knows where it came from or who gave it.

Many of the blocks of marble were sent by foreign countries as a tribute of admiration for the Father of His Country. All of these now form part of the monument with one exception. This was a block of African marble from the temple of Concord, Rome, sent as a gift from the pope. It bore the inscription, "Rome to America." In March, 1854, however, the lapidarium, where the memorial blocks were kept, was forcibly entered, and this stone was taken and, it is supposed, was thrown into the Potomac. A reward for its return was offered, but the stone was never recovered, and its hiding place remains a secret to this day.

The Imperious and Conquering Reign of Isabel II.

"What's the news from Isabel, Mrs. Birch?" asked an interested neighbor.

"There is no news from my daughter Isabel. The only way I know she is still in existence since that baby was born is that I can recognize the handwriting as hers. It's a great mistake for a young mother to lose her identity the way Isabel's doing. I've lectured her about it in my letters, but I can't get a word of reply. Now when I wrote last week I asked Isabel six direct questions about herself, her own health, her summer wardrobe and so forth. Her answer was eight pages—all about names for the baby! She discussed the pros and cons of every name under the sun and then put on a P. S. to say:

"Leslie says this letter is all wasted. He has settled it that the baby is to have my name."

"There's one thing I insist on, though—they'll have to call that child 'Belle' or 'Lizzie' when they stop saying 'baby.' Isabel certainly has the first right to her own name."

This was only one of a long series of like questions, with like answers, as the months went by.

"Tell us something about Isabel," was the frequent refrain of friends and relatives.

"Well, let me see," Isabel's mother would answer quizzically. "She thinks there's no prepared food on earth like a certain brand of condensed milk. And she's going to put baby into short clothes two whole weeks earlier than her neighbors advise because baby is so advanced for her age. Oh, yes, and she is going to leave the ruffles off the baby's pillowcases after this because baby will chew them. That's all I know about Isabel."

"Won't you read me a scrap of that letter from Isabel, Mrs. Birch?" begged a girl friend one day. "I'm hungry to know something about her."

"Certainly," agreed Mrs. Birch. Then she read:

"Precious Mother—I write in haste to ask whether two clusters of tucks and two rows of insertion will be too elaborate for baby's best short dress this summer. Mrs. Lamb thinks it will, but her baby is a boy, and that makes a difference, doesn't it? Of course I'm going to feather-stitch above the tucks. Please answer at once. YOUR OWN ISABEL."

"Now, my dear," added Mrs. Birch as she folded the letter, "I'm going out to visit Isabel myself this fall, and probably I can bring you some news when I come back."

She went. She was away six weeks, and every minute of that visit was so precious that her letters home were few and hurried. The news would have to wait until she came back, she wrote.

When at last she returned Isabel's favorite brother met his mother at the train.

"Well, mother," he cried eagerly, "how did you leave Isabel?"

"Isabel!" exclaimed Grandmother Birch, with rapturous enthusiasm. "John, she is certainly a wonder! She's begun to put two words together!"—Youth's Companion.

A Beresford Anecdote.

An amusing reminiscence is given in Black and White of Lord Charles Beresford. He once created a disturbance in the house by a practical joke, for which the victim never forgave him. There was a certain member at the time who used to seek refuge in an empty bench behind the speaker's chair whenever a long winded debate was in progress. Here he would take off his boots and go to sleep until the division bell rang. On the day in question Beresford crept up to him and, taking one of the boots, hid it under a bench. Just then the division bell rang, and the sleepy member hunted high and low for his boot; but, unable to find it, he was hustled out by the tellers, and the humorous spectacle was witnessed of a staid member holding up one leg and showing a big hole in his sock.

The First Occasion.

The caution of the Aberdonian in giving an answer to a direct question was well illustrated the other day when I asked an eastern friend of mine whose family was not noted for very active habits:

"Was not your father's death very sudden?"

Slowly drawing one hand from his pocket and pulling down his beard, the interrogated one cautiously replied: "Aye, it was unco' sudden for him. I ne'er kent o' ma feyther bein' in a hurry before."—London

CHOOSING A PART.

An Actor's Experience in the Days Before He Became a Star.

We supported visiting stars at the museum. One of these stars was Jerry Cohan, the father of George Cohan. We played "The Molly Maguires" with him. I had to play a lawyer and had no white shirt. Convention demanded that a lawyer should not wear a colored shirt. Looking frantically about the dressing room I found a soiled paper cuff. I cleaned it with breadcrumbs, cut it into a V shape and pinned it over my colored shirt. Another star was Frank Frayne, who was a fine marksman. His wife and brother and brother-in-law traveled with him. He shot an apple off her head and a pipe out of a negro's mouth. A member of the company was a fierce looking bulldog that ran down an incline and sprang upon the villain of the company, bearing him to the earth and tearing angrily at a red flannel chest protector worn by the villain. The dog was a good actor, but intense. The man who played the villain showed me his chest covered with scars where the dog had bitten him instead of the chest protector. It was a very melodramatic spectacle, and Mr. Davidge depended upon it to build up the falling fortunes of his house. While Frayne was playing there was some dissension in the family, and his brother-in-law, who played the villain, left the company. Mr. Davidge sent for me and offered me one of the two parts, that of the negro who had the pipe shot from his mouth or the villain who was attacked by the dog.

"They are both splendid parts," he said, "and if you will play either of them I will put your name on the billboards."

I did not wait to consider. Of course I would play one of them. They were both dangerous, but if I played them I was to be featured, and that was worth dying for. Which part would I choose? I had held the dog before he made the run down the incline and attacked the villain. I knew his muscles were like steel, and I remembered how eager he was for his part in the performance. Besides, I never liked dogs. I don't now. I elected to play the negro. Frayne was a splendid marksman. He had never missed aim. But I thought he might. He never drank, but, I reflected again, he might for the first time. While I played the negro these thoughts disturbed me. The pipe wobbled between my unsteady teeth. A few years later Frank Frayne missed aim for the first time. He shot his wife in the head, killing her instantly.—Otis Skinner in Theatre Magazine.

Looking For Light.

Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Brown were bosom friends. They passed a good deal of their time in discussing the affairs of their neighbors. It was astonishing what a lot they knew about other people's business which didn't concern them in the least. They were hammering away at the latest scandal when the conversation turned in the direction of a Mrs. Tittlesay, a new arrival in the next street.

"I hear she's suffering from appendicitis," declared Mrs. Brown. "Suffering!" echoed Mrs. Jones contemptuously.

"Why, yes. Didn't you know that?" asked Mrs. Brown.

"Yes, I heard she had got appendicitis," replied Mrs. Jones, "but, Lor', judging by the way they bragged about it, I thought it was some sort of piano player! What is it anyway?"—London Queen.

Ian Maclaren's Pun.

The Rev. John Watson (Ian Maclaren) is degenerating into a punster. At a dinner not long ago the conversation turned to the art—or crime—of punning, and Mr. Watson ventured the opinion that he could do very well in that line, offering to try then and there. He sat silent for a few moments, and Hall Caine, who was among the guests, exclaimed, "Come along, Watson, we're all waiting." The preacher-punster replied at once, "Don't be in such a hurricane."

Greensboro, June 19.—Reports from farmers in different sections of the county, are gloomy this morning so far as the crop outlook goes. The hail yesterday covered quite a large area north and west of here, and literally destroyed all tobacco plants in its track. Gardens and fruit are greatly damaged, and any number of chickens were killed, as every one a hail stone struck on the head, dropped as if shot.
