AROUND GRIFTON.

Vanderbilt Sees and Hears Things.

GRIFTON, N. C., June 26.—We were visited with a wind and rain storm Sunday evening which blew down a great deal of vegetation.

Sometime or other, or some other time about 3:30 o'clock p. m. the 1st Sunday in July, at the graded school building in Grifton, the young folks, old folks and all the folks that is folks, who want to see what the "Big 4" of Grifton will be doing, can be spending their Sunday evening by lending their presence to the Episcopal school services, which will begin at the above named date and place, under the superintendency of our friend, C. J. Tucker. Come one, and all and join in with us in these Sunday evening exercises, thereby profiting by the means of salvation offered in this line.

We do this not to detract from the other Sunday schools of this place who hold their meeting in the forenoon of each Sunday, but to give our people a service of employment and enjoyment of religious exercises Sunday evenings.

At the last meeting of Grifton Lodge No. 452 A. F. & A. M., the officers elected for the ensuing year, were W. M., C. J. Tucker; S. W., C. T. Gaskins; J. W., W. H. McCotter; Sec. J. C. Gaskins. It is a sad duty to chronicle the death of Mrs. W. J. Kittrell, who died since our last. A good woman is gone and our loss of her in the community is her gain. We sympathize with the bereaved ones. May the protecting hand of our Father God ever be over them through life.

We notice for the first time in years our city fathers are posting the town laws and ordinances which does away with the plea of ignorance in his honor's court. The victim's ears will no longer ring with the echoes of "I told you so" when he is hauled up for his transgressions.

We had the pleasure of a call from our genteel, clever friend, L. O. Brooks, of Atlanta. Luther is one our Tar Heel boys whom everybody likes.

Miss Jones Shoots Again.

On Saturday night Miss Pearl Jones, of Selma, the plucky girl who two weeks previous shot and killed a negro in defense of her honor, was again molested and once more brought her gun to her aid. A negro, supposed to desire revenge for the one killed, went to her home and on the porch near a window to her room, when she sent a ball crashing through the window at him. The negro fled. The people of Selma are very much aroused and have determined to protect Miss Jones at all hazards.

Gulon and Moore.

Kinston, N. C. June 26—Hon. O. H. Gulon was nominated for judge and Hon. L. I. Moore for solicitor, both by acclamation, in the judicial convention heretoday.

ROMANCE OF A HOSPITAL

How Mr. Cherry, of North Carolina, Won a Maryland Bride.

Mr. James B. Cherry, of Greenville, N. C., who is well known in this city and an intimate friend of Mr. John Swikert, Jr., secretary to Marshal Farnan, announced today when he visited headquarters that he was the hero of a real romance. But Mrs. Cherry only smiled, for she declared even her own mother knew nothing about the romance.

It seems that Mr. Cherry, whose family have been readers of The Sun for many, many years, came to this city shortly before Christmas and was admitted to the Church Home and Infirmary on North Broadway.

Mrs. Cherry, then Miss Blanche W. Scott, of Darlington, Harford county, was there too. She was not ill and she always wore a cheery smile as she flitted about caring for the sick.

The little cap and gown of the nurse uniform and the gentle manner of the nurse left such a deep impression upon the heart of Mr. Cherry that when he returned to his home he did not remain well long, and his first thought was of the nurse who was so kind to him in the hospital in Baltimore. Finally, it became necessary that he have a nurse, and, of course, no one else would do.

Miss Scott, always willing to take care for the sick—to say the least—accepted the call to North Carolina. That was in April and as the patient grew stronger Cupid became a troublesome warrior. His darts flew thick and fast and both Mr. Cherry and the little nurse from Harford county were struck.

As Father Time tore off the days from his calendar the new ailment of the patient grew worse and the nurse found she could not even attend her own wounds, so Cupid just laughed and added two more victims to his list.

Finally matters reached a crisis on Thursday, and the same old treatment that had been handed down since "ye olden time" was prescribed for the nurse and her patient. It was a hopeless case, and Rev. Dr. William E. Cox, rector of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, of Greenville could do naught but tie the knot.

For a wedding tour the couple decided to make Baltimore their destination. Mr. Cherry has to go back to the hospital, but Mrs. Cherry says she thinks it mean because she cannot go back to her old home and nurse her husband—Baltimore Sun.

Who Counts in a Town.

Small men with small purposes do not help to make a town lively and progressive. The man who never contributes to public enterprises or voluntarily assists in supporting any of the public enterprises is not worth coaxing to remain in a town, and should he decide to move out it is always a matter of congratulation. It's units and not mere ciphers that count for something. "Be a unit."—Rock Hill Record.

PRETTY MORNING MARRIAGE,

Miss Mamie King Becomes the Bride of Mr. W. J. Turnage.

At 8 o'clock this morning in the Christian church a pretty marriage was solemnized, the principal parties to the happy event being Mr. W. J. Turnage and Miss Mamie King, with Rev. H. H. Moore as officiating clergyman.

The decorations of the church were in splendid keeping with such an occasion and most pleasing to the eye. From the ceiling across the pulpit were festoons of white and green from the center of which hung a mammoth horse shoe of white flowers. Both the pulpit and choir platform were covered in white, the latter being backed with palms, ferns and pot plants.

Just previous to entrance of the bridal party Miss Blanche Reid King, of Goldsboro, skillfully rendered "Merry Moments" processional on the organ. This was followed with a beautiful violin solo, Reubensien's Melody in F, by Miss Mabel King, of Goldsboro, who is only 13 years of age. Mrs. H. H. Moore in sweet voice sang "O, Promise Me."

The organ then under the touch of Miss Blanche Reid King swelled into Lohengrin's wedding march, changing into Mendelssohn's when the bridal party entered in the following order:

First the minister, Rev. H. H. Moore, then the ushers up the opposite aisles, Dr. D. L. James and Mr. E. A. Moye, Sr., Mayor F. M. Wooten and Mr. C. E. Rountree. Following these came Miss Lena King, sister of the bride and maid of honor up one aisle, and Miss Vernesa Smith, bride's maid, up the other. Each of these ladies were gowned in white china silk and carried white and pink carnations.

The bride, robed in a handsome going away suit of blue taffeta silk and carrying bride roses, entered with her brother Mr. S. D. King, while opposite them came the groom with his best man, Mr. Jesse Speight.

The ceremony that made the couple man and wife was impressive, the soft strains from the organ adding solemnity to it.

Mr and Mrs Turnage received a large number of beautiful bridal presents. The couple left on the morning train for a bridal tour to Asheville.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Nick Gorman Passed Away.

News reached the city this morning of the death of little Dorothy Gorman, the three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Nick Gorman, which occurred in Richmond, Va., at an early hour this morning. The child was severely burned a month or more ago, and never recovered from the terrible ordeal.—Durham Sun.

Fine Crop.

It is interesting to go out and look at Mr. D. D. Haskett's crop of growing tomatoes, just south of the town. He has a large patch of them, several varieties and they grow in great clusters. They are beginning to ripen and in a few days he will have plenty of them.

Dr. M. M. Sauls tells us of a delightful evening spent with his friend, Mr. W. C. Buhmann, out in South Ayden last Friday. The doctor surely had a nice time as he and his friend are now headquarters for bachelors' retreat, their better halves being away for the better part of the summer. Oh, how these old tied down married fellows seem to enjoy the blessedness of the more fortunate old bachelors. Such is life.

The Bank of Greenville.

The statement of the Bank of Greenville at the close of business on the 18th, as made to the Corporation Commission, appears in this paper. This bank makes a remarkably fine showing for the dull time of year. At the annual meeting in May $2,827 was paid in dividends to the stockholders, which slightly lowered the surplus from the amount of the previous statement, but the surplus and undivided profits are yet one-and-a-half times as large as the capital stock. The Bank of Greenville is an institution that stands high.

NO EXCURSION TRAIN.

But a Special Will Return From Kinston.

The Masons and their friends of Greenville and vicinity were greatly disappointed over the inability to get a special train to take them to the Masonic celebration in Kinston tomorrow. Kinston people are also disappointed because of this, as they were expecting a large number from Greenville.

A telephone message from Kinston to The Reflector this morning advises that the Atlantic Coast Line has agreed to run their passenger train back from Kinston to Greenville tomorrow night, leaving Kinston about 7:30 or 8 o'clock. This will give those from here an opportunity of going over on the 11:18 train in the morning, attending the afternoon exercises and return on the special night train.

A COLLISION.

It Was Between Two Men, and the Climax Was Pathetic.

A blind man was making his way out Washington avenue, using his cane as a guide for his feet. Across his chest was a placard bearing the legend, "I am blind," and suspended by a chain around his neck was a small tin cup, a convenient receptacle for charity coins.

It was broad daylight, and he knew that stretch of walk so well that he felt very little fear of accident. He was about the middle of the block, so he did not have to look out for the step down from the pavement to the cross street. There are never many pedestrians out that far on Washington avenue, and no one is going to run ruthlessly into a blind man.

He was striding bravely along when, to his utter astonishment, he collided with a rapidly moving object. The object was a man, who grew very angry, for the impact had dislodged his hat. It had also served to hurl the blind man backward, so that he must have fallen had it not been for the man who sprang to the rescue and who tells the story.

"Haven't you got any sense?" the enraged man cried. "Now, you'd better pick up my hat, you awkward lubbard!"

"I can't," the disconcerted fellow replied. "I think it was your own fault. You ought to look where you are going."

"How can I look where I am going? Can't you see that I am blind? It is you who ought to look where you are going and not go bumping into a blind man."

"What's that? You blind? I didn't know. I couldn't tell, you see. I am blind too. I'm sorry I knocked off your hat. I'm afraid I can't help you find it. I wonder which way it rolled."

The other man was staring blankly at him. Then he groped his way forward, fell upon the other blind man's neck and said in a broken voice: "We blind people get selfish, expecting all the world to get out of our way. I didn't mean to talk to you as I did."

By this time the witness to the little tragedy had picked up the battered hat, dropped a coin into each cup and hurried on, saddened but grateful for the priceless gift of sight.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Fastidious Public.

A young man who had given an excellent account of himself while on trial as a conductor was very much surprised when told by the superintendent that he would not be satisfactory as a permanent employee.

"What's the matter?" he asked. "Didn't I attend to business? Weren't my accounts straight?"

"Yes, you were all right that way," said the superintendent. "The trouble is, two of your fingers are gone. Unfortunately there have been many complaints from passengers as to the maimed condition of your hand. Most people are sensitive in regard to an infirmity of that kind, and, although they do not wish to be unkind, they object to being thrown in contact with it. I have been obliged to turn down other estimable young fellows who were thus handicapped."—New

An Ohio man tells of the sad case of a young fellow, the son of a wealthy Toledo manufacturer, who against his father's wishes insisted upon going to Chicago to make his way, whereas the parent desired that the son train himself in the Toledo business house. At first the lad did very well in the larger city, but it was not very long before he was making urgent appeals to his father for financial assistance. To these the old gentleman, who had himself been trained in a hard school, turned a deaf ear. Finally the desperate boy wired his father in these words, "You won't see me starve, will you?" The old man's reply came in the form of the following telegram: "No, not at this distance." Then the boy decided to return to Toledo and go to work for the old man.—Harper's Weekly.

TUESDAY, JUNE 26 1916.

The decrease in the use of canned goods may be followed by fewer cases of ptomaine poisoning.

If anything is offered you out of the can it might be well to inquire if it came from Chicago.

If a guard is not to shoot a convict who tries to escape we see no use in having a guard.

What to do to the streets is a problem we hope the incoming board of aldermen can solve.

Those felma negroes would be about as safe playing with dynamite as to be pursuing the course they are.

The anarchists will not even let the young heir of Spain get through his honeymoon without getting after him.

Greenville has been remarkably free from burglaries, but this is none the less a reason that our people should be careful not to invite any.

It is announced that President Roosevelt will make a trip to Panama in the fall to see for himself what is going on about the canal.

When Greenville wakes up with an active chamber of commerce or board of trade there will be more doing in the way of improvements around town than at present.

A reading of the bank statements in the Reflector ought to convince people that the banks are safer places to keep their money than to hide it around their houses.

When the next board of county commissioners is selected the town of Greenville should have a member on it and that member should be chairman of the board. It has now been years since the town had a representative on the board.

We see it stated that the number of State convicts has been reduced to 700 with only 128 in the penitentiary and no more available for any kind of work. When the fall courts get busy there will be something in the way of recuperating the number.

New Orleans, June 24.—One case of yellow fever was reported to-day at the Mississippi river quarantine station, 97 miles below New Orleans. This is the first case of yellow fever reported in Louisiana this year by the State board of health. The patient is a Cuban sailor who arrived at quarantine on June 18 on the steamer Helstein, from Havana.

DEATH OF MR. E. A. CHERRY.

On the morning of June 14, 1906, Mr. Edward A. Cherry of Bethel, passed peacefully from the cares and conflicts of earth to his eternal home.

For some time his health was not good, but in all his affliction no murmur escaped his lips, or sigh of discontent came from his heart. In his last illness he seemed perfectly willing to submit to the will of God in all things. All was done for him that loving hearts and hands could do; but God had hold of him and He took him home. A good man, a faithful husband has gone to his reward.

His funeral was preached by Elder M. T. Lawrence, of Hamilton. He was buried here with Masonic honors in the family burying ground.

The deceased was born June 12th 1851. In the fall of 1899 he was married to Sallie L. Mayo with whom he lived with great happiness. God blessed this union with twenty-seven happy years; but now the heart of the wife is torn and bleeding. May God give her consolation, resignation and hope. The loved companion is gone; but God will be a companion when all human companionship has failed.

He will be greatly missed in his community. He possessed a lovable character, looking more to the comforts of others than to himself. The writer has never known a more generous, unselfish nature than his, or one more considerate of the rights and feelings of others, and so free from envy, jealousy and those little defects that so often mar a fine character. Surely his life was worth living, leaving behind him an influence of lasting good, and those who knew him best since his embrace into Heaven, have another link in the chain of love to bind their hearts to the hearts above, that may meet again in the beautiful some time.

He leaves a loving wife, two sons and two daughters, besides a host of relatives and friends to lament their irreparable loss.

May his virtues be emulated by all who knew him, and following the example of Christain living so manifest in his character, when the messenger shall call them to go into the spirit land, may they be ready and without fear or dread go to sleep on earth and awake in Heaven. B. E. C.

GENERAL NEWS.

Happenings of Interest Over the Country.

Jealousy of his wife and Stewart is the cause given by Knight, who was committed to Brunswick jail charged with murder by the coroner's jury. Knight admits he knew nothing of his own knowledge and that his suspicions were based on hearsay only.

Everett, Ga., June 24.—J. M. Stewart, section foreman of the Seaboard at Bladen, Ga., was shot and instantly killed by Oscar Knight, his apprentice, last night. Knight shot him twice in the back and then he fired seven shots into his body. The body was found in the front of Stewart's home this morning.

Los Angeles, June 24.—By the overturning to-day of an automobile in Colorado street, Pasadena, while going 60 miles an hour, and the subsequent explosion of the gasoline tank and burning of the machine, Mrs. James J. Cordori, 28 years old, was roasted to death. John Henderson, of Pasadena, chauffeur, was burned so severely that he probably will die.

A Few Words to MEN

It doesn't make much difference what stores say about their Men's Clothing, if they can't prove to their patrons that what they say is true.

Because they study your wants and try to supply them. Don't forget the

One of the criticisms of the Corporation Commission is that it hasn't been active enough. That is a general criticism which might be made of nearly every official. Most of the offices are allowed to run themselves. The energy, the foresight, and the sacrifice of personal ease which contribute so mightily to the success of private business enterprises are not by any means invariably found in the conduct of public business. On the contrary, public business often runs itself. Everything is done by routine and if an official does as well as his predecessor he is content. North Carolina officialdom from the ground up needs a little ginger infused into it.—Greensboro Telegram.

The machinery with which to supply the day electric current seems to be hung up somewhere in transit.

Unless all signs fail there will be more weddings before autumn.

The Glass Washer.

When you dine en famille at a house where each glass on the table is worth $20 you naturally wonder how the servants manage to wash and dry so costly and delicate an article without breaking. I put the question to a matron who is her own housekeeper. "Tell me how many of your beautiful goblets, tumblers, wineglasses, sherry glasses, etc., are broken every week." She replied: "Every glass is insured by a company formed for the purpose. This company sends to us every day an expert glass washer, a Bohemian, and if he breaks anything it has to be paid for. Our butler keeps tab on him, of course. He breaks very few pieces, indeed. Before he came to us we lost a great many through the carelessness of our maids."—New York Press.

A Puzzler.

It is not often that a class of school children is permitted to examine its teacher, but a Glasgow pedagogue was so pleased at the way his pupils answered his questions in an examination that he told them they could ask any question they liked. No one took advantage of the offer, and the teacher was about to dismiss the class when he noticed one little chap in deep thought. "Well, what is it?" he asked. "I was just about to ask you, sir," replied the youth, "whether, if you were in a soil mud heap up to the neck and it was to throw a brick at you, would you duck?"

The young man picked up his hat and looked sadly at the lining.

"There is no hope for me?" he asked faintly.

"None whatever," replied the beautiful girl, her eyes filled with compassion.

When he reached the door, he turned toward her again.

"I have to thank you for one thing," he said bitterly.

"What is that?" she inquired.

"You have not told me that you would be a sister to me."

"I thought of that," she rejoined hurriedly, "but I suddenly remembered."

"What?" he asked shortly as she stopped.

"That I promised this morning to marry your father."

SARATOGA CHIPS.

Ways in Which the Potatoes Are Prepared and Cooked.

Making Saratoga chips, the Saratoga chips of commerce, is one business that is not in danger of being monopolized by any concern. In most of the cities will be found half a dozen or more small establishments where it is profitably conducted.

It does not require much equipment. In a typical establishment are half a dozen women busily engaged in peeling the tubers. There is a machine that does the trick nicely, but most of the manufacturers prefer hand labor. An expert peeler can dispose of the potato's jacket in almost as short a time as the machine. A five gallon measure stands on a chair by each worker. A special kind of a knife is used, which rips off the skin with absolute uniformity.

The chipping or slicing is done by machinery. Usually hand power is employed. The potatoes are dumped into a hopper, and by turning the handle it requires but a few minutes to slice them into bits of the required thinness. These fall in a pile and from there are shoveled into a vat.

This is a great iron kettle, containing several gallons of liquid kept at the boiling point. Within the kettle hangs a large perforated vessel that looks like a dishpan, which can be raised or lowered by operating a lever controlled by a piece of rope at the end. In this vessel are placed the slices. A hot fire is kept going during the browning process, and the liquid is stirred constantly to prevent burning. In a few minutes the chips are done and the mass turned into a big tub.

The product finds the readiest sale in the summer months. This, it is claimed, is due to the fact that women don't like to stand over a hot fire in the warm months cooking potatoes in the ordinary way. Twice as many chips are sold in the heated term as during the winter.

Lard is not used in the process by the best makers. This is because it makes the chips soft and in time rancid. Salad oil has been found to be the most satisfactory.—New York Sun.

KING AND CLIPPINGS.

When his majesty Peter I. of Serbia was called to the throne he was anxious to know the world's opinion about him and instructed an agency to collect all press cuttings, whereupon the Argus opened its one hundred eyes and in a few weeks gathered together a collection which, as regards quantity, would make a prima donna jealous. By his majesty's command the collection was bound, and the manager of the Argus himself took fifteen volumes to Belgrade to present them to his royal client. There a terrible disappointment awaited him. The king of Serbia, lacking in humor, gazed with horror and indignation at the collection wherein the English, French, German and Swiss caricaturists had displayed their wit at his expense. While the Argus clamored for its money the king was roaring threats inside his palace, declaring that nothing would induce him to pay a cent for those volumes. When the agency threatened to exhibit these morocco bound books the king shouted, "I don't care as long as they are not exhibited before me!" And now these 30,000 cuttings will be sold by auction in Paris, and the sale will no doubt attract many amateurs.—By-stander.

An East Indian Tragedy.

Here is a shocking tale of superstition from British India: "Ten Indians, of whom five were women, have perished by fire, the result of blind credulity and religious superstition. Seven were burned alive and three died as the result of burns. A fanatic at Vasad who claimed to be a god partially filled a pit with wood and invited his followers to jump in with him before he applied a light. On his assurance that they would obtain a glimpse of paradise while the flames should do them no hurt four men and five women joined him. The fanatic kindled the fire, but no sooner was the scorch of the flame felt than piercing shrieks for help arose from the pit. Ropes were thrown to the victims, but only three were brought to the surface, and these were fatally burned."

Curious Nesting Place.

A curious story of a nesting place chosen by birds comes from Germany. A pair of redthroats, so a correspondent says, have built their nests upon a freight car running between Marbach and Heilbronn. It contains four eggs, upon which the female is now brooding. The curious part of the story is that the wagon is in daily use, either in transit or in loading or unloading. The male bird feeds his mate, flying to and from the truck while in motion, and, unlike some human travelers who pay for their tickets, he has never been known to miss his train. The starting signal invariably finds him at his post near the nest.

Change in Flour Barrels.

It is stated that a revolution is pending in the Minneapolis flour industry involving a change in the manner of shipping flour. Flour is now shipped in barrels holding 196 pounds and in bags holding half a barrel. It is proposed to use barrels holding 294 pounds, of about the same size as sugar barrels. It is said that there would be a saving in the cost of handling and lower freights, while the barrels after use can be sold for 30 cents each, or double the price now paid for a flour barrel. There is also said to be 15 cents additional saving on the cost of packing the flour.

Funny.

The stranger paused before the hall and smiled. The great shrieks and screams of laughter that came from within were contagious.

The billboard announced an amateur performance. He approached the box office and said:

"They seem to be enjoying themselves in there. I heard their shouts and guffaws three streets away."

"Yes," said the attendant—"yes; that's right."

"What are they playing?" asked the stranger.

"Hamlet."

Don't LOSE A SINGLE Sale!

To any ordinary man or woman in our city the above sentence is not hard to conceive and the fact that crowds that gather there daily and depart with their arms laden with the good things advertised is sufficient proof to convince every one that MUNFORD'S BIG STORE IS THE PRIDE OF GREENVILLE.

Well may it be said, and so it may be deserved, what other store would ever even dare to reach down in their pockets and hand out, actually give away pure money, free as the water you drink, and what else can you call it. Scant over the prices and just compare, the idea.
