OPERA HOUSE MANAGEMENT

Many Attractions for Coming Season.

Mr. J. M. Reuss, who for the past season gave very faithful service as manager of the Masonic temple opera house, having resigned because of other duties upon him, the temple committee of Greenville Masonic Lodge has arranged with D. J. Whichard to conduct the opera house for the lodge, and the latter has placed Billie Burch in charge as head manager. Billie is an old hand at opera house management and knows all the details of it. Several good attractions have already been booked and the coming theatrical season promises to be the best Greenville people have yet enjoyed. The management will be alert to secure the best attractions on the road.

AN EXPLANATION.

Farmville, N. C. July 25th, 1906. EDITOR REFLECTOR:

Not having authorized the use of my name for Clerk of Court, I was surprised to see in print in another paper mention of me for that office.

For 22 years I have advocated free ballots, and worked faithfully for the Democratic party, always opposing court house rings and life tenure of office.

Although not a candidate, no man in Pitt county has had a harder time and received less reward from my party than I. And now I don't propose being used any longer as a tool, or stepping stone for others to ride into office over. I think the party has used me more than once, and I don't care to be slaughtered in convention again. From what I hear the farmer class are growing dissatisfied, and now the negro is eliminated from politics, the Republican party is lining up to its forces and will give battle this election, and more especially next. Many Democrats tired of ring rule and life tenure of office may falter in their allegiance to Democracy, for there is no color line to fight now.

Respectfully,
C. L. BARRTT.

SPEED TRIAL FOR HOBOS.

The Municipal Journal and Engineer, of New York is the authority for the following regarding the active little city of Wilson, N. C.

"This town has introduced a new form of 'sport'—tramp racing. When a hobo 'hits the town' he is arrested and incarcerated in the lockup. When several have been accumulated the whole lot is marched out into the public square. Across this a line is drawn and the tramps are told to line up. Hardly has the ragged line been formed when the Town Marshal confronts them, rawhide whip in hand, and informs them that one mile down the road is a ditch that marks the corporate limits of the town. At a given signal they are to start for the ditch, and it is to be distinctly understood that the hobo whose tattered coat tail last flutters across the ditch is to be treated to such a flogging as he will have cause to remember all the days of his life. 'Line up an' toe the mark square,' shouts the marshal. 'Git set! Go!' The line surges, then breaks and off go the hoboes. The marshal and his assistants leap upon their waiting horses and are off after the flying tramps, catching up with them and spurring the ambition of the laggards with sharp waring flicks from their whips. As a matter of fact, no man has yet been flogged, but belief in the flogging of the last man across the ditch is firm and no tramp that has once run the race has ever been known to return to the town of Wilson."

Ladies of Episcopal Church.

There will be a meeting of St. Paul's Parochial society Friday at 5 p. m., at Mrs. W. B. Brown's. Special business is to be attended to and all members are requested to be present.

FARMERS INSTITUTE.

Meets in Greenville Aug. 10th.

There will be a Farmers Institute held in Greenville on Friday, August 10th, and every farmer and every one interested in farming in Pitt county should lay aside everything and devote that day strictly to the one idea of getting all there is out of the exercises of the institute.

There is not a farmer in the county, it makes no difference how smart or how good a farmer he may be, that cannot get many good lessons that will apply to his particular case by attending this institute.

Another matter—the gentlemen who come here and assist in holding these institutes are in the employ of the State and every farmer in the county contributes toward defraying this expense, and unless the farmers show some interest and come out to these meetings the money thus expended is thrown away.

The managers of these institutes are skilled and experienced farmers themselves, they want to assist and aid the farmers in their work, but in order to get benefits of the institute work the farmers themselves must take an interest in them. They should not only go out to them, but as the institutes belong to the farmers they should ask questions about matters on which they want information.

The writer has known Dr. Tate Butler, director of farmers institutes, very well for some considerable time and we know him to be a conscientious, hard working, practical man, deeply in love with his work and anxious to aid in advancing and promoting the agricultural interest of the State.

In speaking about these matters some time ago Dr. Butler said to us: "If the farmers of Pitt county would manifest a sufficient interest and come out in large numbers that he could very easily arrange for two or more institutes instead of one each year and instead of devoting only one day, if the farmers desired and indicated the desire by their presence, several days could be devoted to the work, but that the poor encouragement and the small attendance that we have had here in the past was not an inducement to hold more than one institute."

Now, farmers of Pitt county, let us put our county in the lead as an agricultural county. We have as good farmers and as good farms as can be found in the State and all we have got to do is to indicate a desire for better methods and more information in order to get the very best skilled and practical assistance from the State department. If we will do this Dr. Butler and his associates will give us what we ask. On the other hand if he comes here and finds only a dozen or two farmers he will neither have the interest nor desire to spend Drew's Boarders Differed.

Under the proprietorship of L. S. Drew the old American House at Burlington was one of the most popular hotels in Vermont, and it was the scene of many a humorous episode. One night after supper Mr. Drew was welcoming a new arrival in the office when an extremely corpulent guest came out of the dining room. Pointing to the fat man, Mr. Drew said: "You can see how well we feed our guests. Just look at that man." It chanced that a permanent resident of the hotel overheard the remark. This man was extremely thin—just the opposite of the guest referred to by Mr. Drew. The thin boarder at once spoke up, saying: "Yes, that fat man has been here three days. I have been here thirty years. Look at me!"

THE MOB OF 1849.

Dramatic Climax That Awed the King of Prussia.

When the disturbance of 1848 broke out in Prussia the king, Frederick William IV., issued many proclamations. They denounced those who protested against the old state of affairs and urged a constitution as "a band of miscreants, mostly foreigners," and informed "my dear Berliners" that he would never grant a constitution.

The actual fighting, however, when for days his troops took barrier after barrier, only to be opposed after each as resolutely half a block farther down the street, soon changed his attitude, and he announced concessions. The troops were sent from the city.

When the soldiers had marched away from all parts of the city solemn and silent processions moved toward the royal palace. They escorted the bodies of those who had fallen in the battle. The bodies of the slain were borne aloft on litters, their gaping wounds uncovered, their heads wreathed with laurels and immortelles. So the procession marched into the inner courtyard of the palace.

The litters were placed in rows on the courtyard floor, and around them stood the multitude of men with pallid faces, begrimed with powder, smoke and blood, many of them still carrying the weapons with which they had fought during the night, and between them women and children bemoaned their dead.

The king was loudly called for. He appeared in an open gallery, pale and dejected, by his side the weeping queen.

"Hat off!" the multitude shouted. And the king took off his hat to the dead below. Then a deep voice among the multitude intoned the old hymn, "Jesus, Mein Zuversicht" ("Jesus, My Refuge"), in which all joined. The chorus finished, the king withdrew, the corpses were lifted up again and the procession moved away in grim solemnity.

It was a terrible humiliation to the crown, at the same time a pointed answer to the king's address, in which the fighters had been denounced as a band of miscreants. Had there been such among them Frederick William IV. would hardly have survived that moment when he stood before them alone and defenseless and they fresh from the field of blood, with guns still in their hands. But at that moment their cry was not "Death to the king!" nor "Down with royalty!" but "Jesus, my refuge!"—Carl Schurz in McClure's Magazine.

Waning Love.

"What's the matter, dear?" her mother asked, seeing the trouble in the young wife's face.

She had just received a telegram and sat with the yellow paper crumpled in her lap.

"It's from Douglas," she replied. "Has anything happened to him? I hope he hasn't been in a railroad accident."

"No; he says he's well and will be home tomorrow, but he only uses seven words when he might have put in three more."—Chicago Record-Herald.

MAKING MEDICINE.

The Way Indians Try to Propitiate the Goddess of Fortune.

All Indians are superstitious and have many ways by which they endeavor to propitiate the goddess of fortune, or, as they call it, make medicine, either to bring them good luck or to break a spell of bad luck. Each has his or her own peculiar medicine, which must be made in its own peculiar way.

Sometimes an Indian will quietly leave camp, go to a secluded hilltop or ravine and sit there alone in the hot sun for hours, hoping thus to induce the power of medicine to come and abide with him. Another Indian on coming to a stream or pond will strike the water with his hand or bow or tomahawk or other weapon, at the same time uttering a prayer to the Great Spirit to send him good medicine, or he will dip up some of the water in a vessel and pour it on the ground where grass is growing before taking a drink, no matter how thirsty he may be.

Others make a particularly strong and good medicine by standing naked in the rain until their hair is thoroughly wet through. If the rain lasts but a short time it is thought that the medicine has been broken and will be "no good." Some of the Indian women make medicine by standing in the water and cutting their arms and legs with a knife, believing that the deeper the cut the more powerful will be the medicine.

Indians also have what they call medicine horses, medicine dogs, medicine arrows, medicine bags, medicine bones and medicine images of men and beasts, all of which are supposed to bring their owners good luck. The medicine horse is often painted and decorated in the most fantastic manner and is thought to be able to carry his rider safely through every battle. The medicine dog is used to bring good luck when on the chase and sometimes to cure or prevent disease. So long as the dog proves to be good medicine he is safe from the pot, but woe to him when his medicine fails, for into his master's stomach he goes as soon as water and fire and strong teeth can take him.

Medicine bags are very common and are supposed to be filled with good medicine that will ward off disease, bring good luck and preserve the wearer from all harm in hunt or fight. Whenever an Indian has ill luck he is quite sure that it was caused by some one or something having broken his medicine, and he will immediately endeavor to find out who or what made the break and to repair it by making good medicine.

But, after all, the Indian is not alone in his medicine making. The white man has his medicine dogs, horses, cats, birds and goats, only he calls them mascots. He has rabbits' feet and horseshoes and lucky coins, but he laughs at the medicine making of the Indian.—New York Herald.

Helpless Childhood.

They couldn't for the life of them agree on the name for the newest boy baby. They didn't disagree, not that—they just couldn't decide on a name. At length somebody suggested that they compromise so that no possibility of a name that had ever been used, a secondhand appellation, should by chance be chosen. It was suggested that the letters of the alphabet be put in the hat and drawn out one by one till a collection was drawn with vowels and consonants sufficient to manufacture a brand new name. It was done, and to this day he bears the name of "Dwiah." The next boy in the family bears the name, decided upon in the same manner, of "Koylt."—Macon Telegraph.

Stains on Marble.

Take two parts of common soda, one part of pumice stone and one part of finely powdered salt. Sift the mixture through a fine sieve and mix it with water; then rub it well all over the marble, and the stains will be removed. Rub the marble over with salt and water, wash off and wipe dry.

Gently Reminded.

"So soon forgot," murmured the visitor sadly.
"Oh, brace up! What are you thinking about?"
"That five I eat you last week for a day."—Detroit Free Press.

Saved His Comrades Life.

"While returning from the Grand Army Encampment at Washington City, a comrade from Elgin, Ill., was taken with cholera morbus and was in a critical condition," says Mr. J. E. Houghland, of Eldon, Iowa. I gave him Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and believe saved his life. I have been engaged ten years in immigration work and conducted many parties to the south and west. I always carry this remedy and have used it successfully on many occasions." Sold by J. L. Wooten.

A Tragic Finish

A watchman's neglect permitted a leak in the great North Seadyke, which a child's finger could have stopped, to become a ruinous break, devastating an entire province of Holland. In like manner Kenneth McIver, of Vanceboro Me., permitted a little cold to go on until a tragic finish was ordered by Dr. King's New Discovery. He writes: "Three doctors gave me up to die of lung inflammation, caused by a neglected cold, but Dr. King's New Discovery saved my life. Guaranteed best cough and cold cure at J. L. Wooten's drug store. 50 cent and 1.00 Trial bottle free."

Modest Claims Often Carry the Most Conviction.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by J. L. Wooten.

Only 52 Years Old.

"I am only 52 years old and don't expect even when I get to be real old to feel that way as long as I can get Electric Bitters," says Mrs. E. H. Brunson, of Dublin Ga. Surely there is nothing else keeps the old as young and makes the weak as strong as this grand tonic medicine. Dyspepsia, torpid liver, inflamed kidneys or chronic constipation are unknown after taking Electric Bitters a reasonable time. Guaranteed by J. L. Wooten druggist. Price 50c.

Removes the microbes which impoverish the blood and circulation. Stops all trouble that interferes with nutrition. That's what Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will do. Tea or Tablets. 35 cents. Wooten's Drug Store.

Tied down to his desk in the office while others are free and at play, Papa fancies he is having a vacation, while drinking Rocky Mountain Tea.

A sweet breath adds to the joys of life. You wouldn't kiss your wife, mother or sweet heart with a bad breath. You can't have a sweet breath without a healthy stomach. THURSDAY JULY, 26 1906.

In Charlotte the dogs are not well dressed unless they wear collars.

Whether Thaw is insane or not some folks may be if they have to keep on reading about it.

When they get through executing the death sentence on Russian officers there will be fewer of them left.

Those negroes who murdered the Lyerly family are trying to bring in a white man as accessory to the crime, but they do not give his name.

When Russia turns on her own folks there is a feeling that she is reaping the fruits of her own sowing, but when she goes to slaughtering the innocent Jews it is enough to make the blood boil.

It has been some time since Greenville appeared in the list of towns getting charters from the Secretary of State to establish some enterprise. A chamber of commerce could work up the way for us to get on the list oftener.

The fact being established that paper can be made out of cotton stalks, a product that has heretofore gone to waste, this section would be a good one in which to locate a mill to utilize the stalks. A large quantity of them are grown in Pitt county.

The announcement that Superior Court Judge C. M. Cooke was going to resign because of ill health is denied by that gentleman as absolutely untrue. It is strange how such rumors get started. The newspaper that put out the story even went so far as to suggest who should succeed Judge Cooke.

EXCESS PEGGING.

There seems to be a growing feeling that this country is being overrun with excess philanthropic and slipshod philanthropic beggars. None would gainsay the value of good works. But there are sometimes feelings in one's bones that some of these canvassers in the name of philanthropy couldn't make a living doing anything else and that any real work of philanthropy doesn't fare much better in their hands than a corn field would if they had to work it. Superfluous and inefficient work in the philanthropic field is as useless as in any of the fields of material industry. Slipshod canvassing for any old thing under the name of philanthropy ought to be discouraged.

Some of these fellows are not real philanthropic agents, but are getting salaries in an easier way than working for it.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Tax Dodging.

It cannot be denied that there is a good deal of taxable property in this town which does not contribute one cent in the way of taxes to supporting city, state and county government. It does seem that there should be some way of making these people bear their share of government expenses. There is one thing sure, the poor man can't dodge his taxes. He has to come up every time. If he does not do so his wages, if he is an employe of some other party, are garnisheed. If working for himself he has to go down in his jeans and fish up the amount. The man who dodges the tax assessor is the man of means the financier, the schemer who thinks the chief end of life is successful financiering of any kind. The man who gives in his property for taxation at its full value has to pay for the tax dodgers also—Wilmington Messenger.

The poor and the rich both are loath to pay any more taxes than they have to. Some poor men will fail to toe the mark just as some rich men will. In fact, the average man understands that there is a great deal of looseness about taxation matters and he governs himself accordingly. If there is anything needed in this country, it is a thorough overhauling of the system of levying taxes.—Greensboro Telegram.

THE READING OF NEWSPAPERS.

It may be said without contradiction, that it is only the exceptional person that reads the daily newspaper so as to be able to have any coherent idea of its contents an hour after the paper has been laid aside. The newspaper reader as a rule, reads just the portion which is of personal or individual concern or interest, social or religious, of finance or of sports, and the rest of the paper is passed over.

Two phases of newspaper reading, or the neglect of it, perhaps a combination of each, are worthy of special consideration, these being the quickness with which the reader of the newspaper will see an article, be it good or bad, of a personal nature, and the extreme impossibility of becoming able to see other articles in the same paper, which may be equally personal but yet of a different character.

An article of a complimentary kind, will be noted at a glance on a page of matter, as will also the article which may be uncomplimentary. The newspaper reader will quickly see either of these, but let an advertising notice be set in prominent type, calling attention to the fact that taxes are due, and the tax-payer will swear that he never saw the notice, although he looked over the newspaper every day for a month. But let the same tax-payer be found a delinquent and he will note that his name is published in the first issue of the paper, although it be on an inside page, and the smallest type set in and surrounded with a hundred other names.—New Bern Journal.

Assassins Character.

We have on patience with the style of journalism which deliberately undertakes to stab and ruin character without evidence to sustain or justify the assault for the sake of making a sensation, selling a large number of issues, gratifying some spite or promoting some cause or individual. In our view it is as true now as it was 400 years ago that the man who steals another man's purse is far less a criminal, far more honorable and respectable, than the man who for his own gain, to sell his wares, to increase his hire, to get a job or to make himself prominent, deliberately steals another's reputation.—Richmond News Leader.

THIS IS FOR YOU

I take this method to thank every one who has sold a load of Tobacco with me for the past nine years. Since on the Greenville market I have always, as auctioneer, at all times, looked after your best interest in the sale of your tobacco and if you will continue to sell with me I will see in the future, as I have in the past, that every pile of your tobacco is well looked after. This season you can find me at the "Liberty Warehouse" to welcome you at all times and with Mr. S. T. Hooker, one of Greenville's best judges of tobacco, and as we all know the strongest bidding warehousemen in the State, I feel safe in saying that I am in a better position this season to look after your interest than ever before. You will also find Mr. H. S. Hardy to see that nothing is left undone that is to your best interest. Yours to serve,

The Edison Phonograph.

THE EDISON PHONOGRAPH solves the problem of home entertainment. Its clearness and richness of tone wins the immediate admiration of every audience.

BY means of this wonderful instrument your home can be brought in direct touch with the musical world, and you can hear as many times as you like, for the small cost of a Edison Record, what people in the large cities pay one or two dollars a night to hear. The Edison Phonograph reproduces so perfectly that you miss nothing but the sight of the orchestra and the faces of the singers.

EVERY family circle is incomplete without an Edison Phonograph. Every one of them bears the signature of Thomas A. Edison, the greatest inventive genius of the age.

TO those interested we will take great delight in showing it at our store. Come and hear it for yourself. Ask about our easy payment plan at the cash price. To prospective purchasers we will exhibit the Phonograph at their homes.

EVANS' BOOK STORE.

A Few Reasons why you Should Buy From A. B. Ellington & Co.

Because their prices are lower for the same goods than others. Because they have but one price. Because if goods are not satisfactory they can be returned and money refunded. Because they buy and sell for cash and save you time profits. Because it is the only store of its kind in Greenville. Because they need your patronage and are trying to deserve it. Because they study your wants and try to supply them. Don't forget the

A CLEAR, SOUND WARNING.

"It makes us tired indeed to have merchants insist on us to urge the people to trade at home and not send away to mail order houses or big city stores for their goods, and when we go around to settle our accounts have presented to us a bill-head printed away from home, or receive copy for an ad written on a letter head which never 'trade at home.' Yes, we believe in it, but those who cry out so loud and persistently should certainly be first to set the example" -Goldshoro Argus.

This is sound doctrine and every merchant who wants home trade and wants such to the extent of warmly advocating it—and they all do—should certainly read and heed. It is the duty of people to patronize home concerns, but at the same time it is the duty of these home concerns to patronize the people, that is by giving them work as individuals in preference to others. The merchant should not stop at having his printing done at home, but he should employ home people in his establishment when he can get them. Of course, if there are reasons why they cannot be obtained, either lack of ability or the actual growth of a town or city, why stretch out, but not before, and not try to picture such condition in order to obtain cheap labor. This should apply to every town and city and hence there would be no hardship worked anywhere. Of course, every place welcomes new-comers, but, from a logical, just standpoint, it is preferable to give employment to home people. —Wilmington Dispatch.

Can't Stand by Themselves.
A great many plants are not strong enough to stand upright by themselves, and as they cannot get enough sun if they lie on the ground they are obliged to clamber up their neighbor's.

Look in the garden and see if you can find a climbing plant, such as a honeysuckle or convolvulus, twisted tightly around a stick to keep it in an upright position. Doesn't it hold on firmly? If you pull it off you will probably break the poor thing off, and it will die.

House in a Maple Tree.

A singular maple tree on the left bank of the Oder, in Germany, is at least a century old, and has been twisted and cut into a kind of circular house of two stories. A firm, leafy floor has been formed by causing the branches to become gradually woven together. Above this is a smaller second floor, similarly formed, and the ends of the branches have been woven into solid walls, in which eight windows on each story have been cut.

A Needle and Thread Tree.

The Mexican maguery tree furnishes a needle and thread all ready for use. At the tip of each dark green leaf is a slender thorn needle that must be carefully drawn from its sheath. At the same time it slowly unwinds the thread, a strong, smooth fiber attached to the needle and capable of being drawn out to a great length.

Six Square Puzzle.

Place twelve counters on a piece of slate or cardboard so that they would be at the angles of six squares, as shown in M in the accompanying diagram. The twelve counters form the six squares A, B, C, D, E, F, whereas upon the counters 1, 2 and 12 being removed the squares C, D and E only are left.

The Mosaic Law and Marriage.

More than two centuries ago a tailor living in Currie was admonished by the kirk to stop courting his first wife's half brother's daughter. Instead of yielding obedience he fled to England with the woman and there married her, according to the Dundee Advertiser. A jury unanimously found him guilty, and the court ordered him to be beheaded. The reporter suggests that on the death of a wife her sister is no longer within the degree forbidden by the Mosaic law, nor is his brother's wife on the death of that brother. In fact, to marry a brother's widow was an express injunction of that law, and if the surviving brother declined the match the widow was entitled by that elegant and dignified system of jurisprudence to spit in his face.

One Better.

An Englishman who was entertaining his American cousin was continually annoyed by being reminded of the superiority of things American. A number of attempts to show young Jonathan something that distanced American progress all resulted unsatisfactorily, and the Englishman in desperation escorted the cousin to Mount Vesuvius.

"Well," exultingly exclaimed the Englishman, "you haven't anything like that in America."

"Well, no," replied the American as he watched the outpouring of smoke, "but we have a little Niagara falls over there that would put the whole thing out in a minute."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Employees Kick Against Foreign Labor.

Fayetteville, N. C., July 25.—The strike of operators at Hope Mills was settled this afternoon. The company had imported Italians from the North to learn the cotton mill business and operators at Hope Mills No. 2 walked out yesterday afternoon. The employees of the other three mills struck this morning. The Italians go back North tonight, the company abandoning the experiment and all operatives return to work tomorrow.

Because of a scarcity of labor in some departments, the company conceived the idea of relieving the situation by training these foreigners to fill the vacancies, but the other labor would not stand for it. They did not ask for higher wages or shorter hours, only that this imported labor should go.
