TOOK HIM AT HIS WORD.

Two Boys Start Walking to Farmville.

Saturday when Policeman W. H. McGowan went home to dinner, his son Wallace, about 10 years old, said "Papa I will walk to Farmville if you let me." The policeman having finished his dinner by this time and, (being night policeman and his usual time for retiring just after dinner), said, "Get out and go on." Whereupon Wallace took Joe, a younger brother, and started. About an hour later or more his wife informed him that Wallace and Joe were both gone and she appeared to be uneasy about them.

Mr. McGowan after looking about town and failing to find the boys went to a livery stable and secured a horse and buggy and went to look for them. Thinking of his conversation with Wallace at dinner time, he took the road to Farmville. After traveling about 8 miles he overtook them about Cobb's store. When he asked them where they were going and questioned them about the matter Wallace said "well papa, you said get out and go on, and we did it."

Policeman McGowan said the boys were hitting the road in a lively trot when he overtook them. He brought the boys back with him on the buggy.

TROUBLE AT GRIMESLAND.

An Officer and Two Colored Men Wounded, One of the Latter Fatally.

There was another difficulty in the town of Grimesland, Saturday evening, in which Policeman T. J. Tally was seriously cut by two colored men, Thomas and Sherman Grimes, father and son, and both of them were shot by the officer, one fatally.

The trouble started in the store of the Grimesland Supply Company where Sherman Grimes had gone and raised a quarrel with Mr. R. M. Eiks, a member of the firm, about an account Grimes owed them. The negro became so boisterous in the store that Policeman T. J. Tally was called. When the officer arrived the negro was very disorderly and resisted the officer as the latter was getting him out of the store. When the officer and negro got out to the street Thomas Grimes, father of Sherman, went up and the two assaulted the officer. Policeman Tally struck the elder Grimes on the temple with his billet but this did not stop the attack. He then broke away from the two negroes and drawing his gun ordered them to stand back. Instead of obeying the order they renewed the attack when the officer, who was already cut in four places, shot them both, striking the younger negro in the bowels and the older one in the leg.

This stopped the difficulty and the wounded men were all placed in the hands of physicians for attention. Officer Tally's cuts were found to be quite serious and for some hours there was apprehension as to their termination. For a while Sunday morning he was unconscious but improved later and today is reported able to

DELPHIA MOYE CHAPEL.

Universalist Church Dedicated Sunday

On Sunday morning the building lately erected on Dickinson avenue, west of the railroad, for the worship of the Universalist congregation, was dedicated with an appropriate service. The dedicatory exercises were conducted by Rev. Thomas Chapman, of Kinston, and the sermon was preached by Dr. D. B. Clayton, of Columbia, S. C.

Dr. Clayton's sermon was largely upon the faith and belief of the Universalist church. At the beginning of his discourse he made reference to the handsome building in which they worshipped, and said "it was well known to all present that this edifice had been one through the unceasing efforts of consecrated woman—Mrs. Delphia Moye. Her heart was in the work when she begun it, and though confronted by many obstacles she refused to be discouraged, and the building stands as a monument to her fidelity." He then delivered his sermon and as he concluded said that in dedicating this house to the service of God it had been given a name—Delphia Moye Chapel.

This was a memorial to Mrs. Moye who died about the time the building was completed. A beautiful window in memory of Mrs. Moye has been placed in the building on the west side of the pulpit.

At the conclusion of the sermon and some remarks which followed by Rev. Mr. Chapman in eulogy of Mrs. Moye, a church was organized, eight persons presenting themselves for membership.

As an offertory during the service Miss Meta Winsted and Mr. Paul Capelle, of Rocky Mount, sang "Salvation" very beautifully.

A large congregation attended the dedication service.

be up. It is thought that Sherman Grimes' shot wound in the bowels will prove fatal. He was reported in a dying condition today. The other negro, Thomas Grimes, is not seriously wounded beyond being disabled for a time.

BUGGY TURNED OVER.

Two Men Thrown Out in the Street.

This morning Dr. D. B. Clayton, of Columbia S. C., and Mr. Lam Lawrence, of Edgecombe county, who are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. King, were returning from the depot to Mr. King's home in a vehicle belonging to the latter. While on Fifth street opposite the residence of Dr. Laughinghouse, the horse they were driving became frightened at a goat and wheeled around so suddenly as to turn the buggy over and throw both gentlemen out. Dr. Clayton fell in the sand and escaped with only slight bruises. Mr. Lawrence was less fortunate. He fell on the curb of the sidewalk and his face was painfully cut and bruised.

STRUCK THE WRONG MAN.

Governor Glenn enters a denial to the sensational portions of the story from the New York American to the effect that he was "held up" in New York at the point of a pistol and threatened with death if he refused to pardon the gold brick swindler. There were no pistols, and the Governor did not swear, but the incident did occur and called for plain speech on the part of the Governor.

The facts have been in the knowledge of this paper for months, but the Governor was naturally averse to giving out a story that would embarrass his hosts. On the day after his big speech at Tammany Hall last year he was invited, with Lieutenant-Governor Sanders, of Louisiana, and others, by several prominent Tammany men to go down to Coney Island and dine with them. At the dinner a relative of Hawley asked the Governor to pardon Hawley, taking advantage of the cheer and good feeling that surrounds a dining at a summer resort. The Governor was surprised that such a request should be made at such a time, and courteously declined to discuss a matter of State at a dinner party. The man, evidently under the influence of liquor, then demanded that the pardon be granted and accompanied his demand with an insulting and threatening manner. In a second he found he had struck the wrong man. Governor Glenn turned to his hosts and expressed surprise that they should permit such an affront to be offered him, and withdrew after giving expression to his resentment in North Carolina English, but free from profanity. His hosts rebuked the man, returned with the Governor to the city, and in every way possible showed their regret and mortification. The Governor believed that the affront was not connived at by them, and was as unexpected to them as it was to him, accepted their apologies and assurances, and gave no publicity to the incident.

But though the story as printed was embellished and in important particulars was untrue, the important fact that at a dinner at Coney Island an attempt was made to extort from the Governor a promise of pardon under most extraordinary circumstances, by unheard of

BOTTLE CAME ASHORE.

Interesting Sequel to Ocean Trip.

A few weeks ago three Greenville young men—Messrs. F. J. Forbes, Eugene Wilson and W. G. Ward, went North on a pleasure trip. While some distance at ocean on the steamer Princess Anne, between Norfolk and New York, a note was written on a piece of brown paper, placed in a bottle with a paper stopper and thrown overboard. The note read: "This is the remains of F. J. Forbes, Eugene Wilson and W. G. Ward's trip to New York July 11th, 1906. If found please return to either of the above parties at Greenville, North Carolina, and a reward of $5 will be paid."

The young men had little idea of ever hearing from it again, but today Mr. Forbes received a letter from Mr. Emlen Martin, a druggist at Bristol, Pa., dated July 28th, enclosing the note written at sea and saying he found it on the beach at Seaside Park, N. J., July 19th in a quart bottle.

It is up to the young men and they will forward the promised reward.

A Scared Horse.

The horse of Will Scales, colored, cut quite a caper down near the union station yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The animal was feeding in the vacant lot to the west of the station, when he became frightened and broke loose carrying with him a large section of a cross tie to which he was fastened. Sandy Williams' horse was in his way, so the affrighted animal ran against him, knocking him down and then jumping over him. Sandy's horse took out for the woods—he left. In the meantime Scales' horse pursued the rough tenor of his way, until he reached the union station. Here he banged up against the concrete side sidewalk; he fell twice, but as quickly arose. A little negro girl was hanging on the iron bar that enclosed the station lawn, and when she saw the mad horse rushing towards her she presented him with her back. She quickly wheeled around and hung over the rod on her stomach. The horse came on and fell sprawling at her feet. Scared, the girl loosed her hold on the rail and dropped on the horse. The animal scrambled to his feet and the girl rolled off from the rear.

It all happened in less than three minutes.—Winston Journal.

demands, is true. No such attempted "hold up" of a State Executive has ever before been chronicled. It reads more like a story of the frontier days than an aftermath of a Fourth of July celebration in the American metropolis. With a weaker man, or with a man who could be induced to drink, the plan might have been successful, but with the abstemious and courageous Chief Executive of North Carolina the attempt resulted in a disgraceful failure and taught the base fellows who conceived it a lesson they will not likely soon forget. They made a mistake in the man.—Raleigh News and Observer.

A Tramp of the Sea.
 The shark known as the elephant, bone and basking shark roams nearly all temperate seas. Its mouth is comparatively small and bears six or seven rows of very small teeth, perhaps 200 in a row. The gill openings are enormous, the gill rakers long, close together and slender, recalling whalebone; hence the name whale shark. The skin is rough, covered with short spines. Where these monsters live in winter is not known, but doubtless they roam the temperate and semitropical seas. In summer they are gregarious and are seen in schools lying on the surface seemingly asleep. They reach the New England coast in June and July, the Hebrides and the Frith of Clyde in June and leave in July. On the Pacific coast they are found off Monterey bay in July, large schools being seen on the surface, when they can readily be approached. Metropolitan Magazine.

Proclamation by the Governor.

$100.00 REWARD

State of North Carolina
Executive Department

Whereas official information has been received at this department that W. H. Harrington Jr. late of the County of Pitt stands charged with conspiracy and assault upon W. J. Tell, and whereas, it appears that the said W. H. Harrington Jr. has fled the State or so conceals himself that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him.

Now, therefore, I, R. B. Glenn, Governor of the State of North Carolina, by virtue of authority in me vested by law, do issue this my proclamation, offering a reward of One hundred Dollars for the apprehension and delivery of the said W. H. Harrington Jr. to the Sheriff of Pitt County at the Court house in Greenville N. C. and I do enjoin all officers of the State and all good citizens to assist in bringing said criminal to justice.

Done at our City of Raleigh the 16th day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and six and in the one hundred and thirty-first year of our American Independence.

R. B. GLENN,
By the Governor.

Phosphorescence.

Decayed wood and especially peat have occasionally been observed to evolve a faint light, and even some flowers have been remarked to give out brilliant flashes of light during a warm summer's evening. This light, emitted without apparent heat, is termed phosphorescence. Various animal substances become luminous before putrescence has begun and especially the flesh of certain fish, of which the most remarkable example is the eel. Ferring lobsters and crabs often emit a phosphorescent light. Most familiar of all are the phosphorescent objects to boys and girls, however, the phosphorescence of living animals, such as the glow worm, found in decayed paper wood or under lime, bricks and pots in the garden, emits flashes of light when irritated by a little water.

Boiling Without Fire.

Do you know that it is possible to boil water without fire and without the use of any chemical? All you have to do is to put the water in a pail—it may be ice water, if you choose—and stir it with a wooden paddle; if you stir long enough it will "come to a boil." But just here is the crucial point of the operation—you will have to keep on stirring for about five hours. Boys and girls therefore are not advised to make the experiment unless they are in need of some rather strenuous exercise, long drawn out. If any feel brave enough to try it, it might interest them to watch the gradual warming of the water until it gets so hot that the hand cannot be held in it and finally begins to boil.

An Amusing Experiment.

A simple kaleidoscope may be made by any boy or girl by taking a straight lamp chimney—an argand one is best—and painting the outside of it black. If you make a pin-hole in a piece of paper and hold it at one end and look at it through the other it will appear as a number of circles of light. It is the cylindrical surface that reflects and causes this. If now you fasten two pieces of glass at one end of the chimney, placing between them beads and bright colored bits of glass so that they may move as you turn the chimney, you will have as good a kaleidoscope as you would care to buy.

THE MOB OF 1848.

Dramatic Climax That Awed the King of Prussia.

When the disturbance of 1848 broke out in Prussia the king, Frederick William IV., issued many proclamations. They denounced those who protested against the old state of affairs and urged a constitution as "a band of miscreants, mostly foreigners," and informed "my dear Berliners" that he would never grant a constitution.

The actual fighting, however, when for days his troops took barrier after barrier, only to be opposed after each as resolutely half a block farther down the street, soon changed his attitude, and he announced concessions. The troops were sent from the city.

When the soldiers had marched away from all parts of the city solemn and silent processions moved toward the royal palace. They escorted the bodies of those who had fallen in the battle. The bodies of the slain were borne aloft on litters, their gaping wounds uncovered, their heads wreathed with laurels and immortelles. So the procession marched into the inner courtyard of the palace.

The litters were placed in rows on the courtyard floor, and around them stood the multitude of men with pallid faces, begrimed with powder, smoke and blood, many of them still carrying the weapons with which they had fought during the night, and between them women and children bemoaned their dead.

The king was loudly called for. He appeared in an open gallery, pale and dejected, by his side the weeping queen.

"Hat off!" the multitude shouted. And the king took off his hat to the dead below. Then a deep voice among the multitude intoned the old hymn, "Jesus, Mein Zuversicht" ("Jesus, My Refuge"), in which all joined. The chorus finished, the king withdrew, the corpses were lifted up again and the procession moved away in grim solemnity.

It was a terrible humiliation to the crown, at the same time a pointed answer to the king's address, in which the fighters had been denounced as a band of miscreants. Had there been such among them Frederick William IV. would hardly have survived that moment when he stood before them alone and defenseless and they fresh from the field of blood, with guns still in their hands. But at that moment their cry was not "Death to the king!" nor "Down with royalty!" but "Jesus, my refuge!"—Carl Schurz in McClure's Magazine.

A Story of John Allen.

Everybody regrets that Senator Blackburn of Kentucky failed to re-elect him, for he is one of the most popular men in public life. And of course he feels his defeat keenly, although he is a philosopher and faces his defeat with a cheerful composure of spirit. To a man could you wish that the other day he related an anecdote of John Allen and the late Speaker Reed. The latter had been defeated for the presidential nomination. Allen had been defeated for the United States senate, and they returned to Washington about the same time. They met in one of the corridors of the capitol and shook hands silently. Sympathy and consolation oozed from their grasp. Words were unnecessary, but Allen remarked in his quaint way:

"Tom, there's a dangerous indifference about the public welfare floating about," and, shaking his head mournfully, he added, "The people ain't picking their best men this year."

The Air Stealer.

Reginald DeKoven was talking about a composer whose work is reminiscent—whose compositions, that is to say, are largely plagiarisms, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

"He must be a man of genius," said Mr. DeKoven, smiling. "He resembles so remarkably his predecessors, the famous composers of the past."

"How does he resemble any famous composers?" a pianist asked.

"Well," said Mr. DeKoven, still smiling, "he resembles them in the matter of inspiration. Rossini got his inspiration from the society of beautiful women. Wagner got his best inspiration in the midst of magnificent art works. Our friend in like manner is best inspired when he is surrounded by the compositions of other musicians."

Saved His Comrade's Life.

"While returning from the Grand Army Encampment at Washington City, a comrade from Elgin, Ill., was taken with cholera morbus and was in a critical condition," says Mr. J. E. Houghland, of Eldon, Iowa. "I gave him Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and believe saved his life. I have been engaged ten years in immigration work and conducted many parties to the south and west. I always carry this remedy and have used it successfully on many occasions." Sold by J. L. Wooten.

A Tragic Finish

A watchman's neglect permitted a leak in the great North Sea dyke, which a child's finger could have stopped, to become a ruinous break, devastating an entire province of Holland. In like manner Kenneth McIver, of Veniceboro, Me., permitted a little cold to go on until it had a tragic finish was cured and yivered by Dr. King's New Discovery. He writes: "Three doctors gave me up to die of lung inflammation, caused by a neglected cold" but Dr. King's New Discovery saved my life. Guaranteed best cough and cold cure at J. L. Wooten's drug store. 50 cent and 1.00 Trial bottle free.

Modest Claims Often Carry the Most Conviction.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements, what they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by J. L. Wooten.

Only 82 Years Old

"I am only 82 years old and don't expect even when I get to be real old to feel that way as long as I can get Electric Bitters," says Mrs. E. H. Brunson, of Dublin Ga. An Unanswerable Argument.

The superintendent of the Indian school at Chamberlain, S. D., nodded toward a prim, grave little girl. "Sometimes," he said, "the arguments of children are unanswerable. You see that little girl with straight black hair tied with a red ribbon? Well, her name is Arrow. She is a chief's daughter. Her father and mother are quite civilized, and she is being brought up in a household as civilized as a Bostonian's. In argument it is sometimes impossible to get the better of her. She said to her mother one day:

"I wish I had a new doll."
"But your old doll," her mother answered, "is as good as ever."
"So am I as good as ever," little Arrow retorted, "but the doctor brought you a new baby."

MONDAY JULY 30, 1906.

If one swallow does not make a summer, one Swallow, the prohibition preacher in Pennsylvania, can stir up considerable of a rumpus.

There is a good deal of work for the man with the hoe, but the muck rake is not being worked overtime, although there is sad need for it in many places.

The Republicans have had such bad luck with reforms that they have concluded in future to stand pat and let the tariff still plunder us.

Brazil and Costa Rica have both modified their tariff on imports. Are they afraid of the big stick that Secretary Root carries around with him?

Paul Morton must congratulate himself on getting out of the railroad business just in time to escape prosecution for rebating and then it was only because President Roosevelt held up the department of justice that he escaped.

They are swearing in special police and special constables and deputy sheriffs in Iowa in preparation for the Republican state convention. The Republican machine, Secretary Shaw, and the railroads will do anything to beat Cummins.

President Roosevelt and Speaker Cannon are much alarmed about the outcome of the congressional campaign and evidently have very little confidence in the new Republican managers selected. This must be nuts for Babcock who however is on the anxious seat himself.

Why is it that Norway is constantly increasing her merchant marine and built 65 steamers besides sailing vessels during the past year and yet she pays no subsidy? Is it because Norway has a tariff for revenue and the United States stand pat for protection that fosters trusts and high prices.

With private secretary Loeb sitting on the lid of the box containing the Roosevelt third term boom and Taft in Canada, Fairbanks and Cannon have the field to themselves for awhile. As long as hot weather lasts Fairbanks has the best of it on account of his well known refrigerating qualities.

The "Boxer" movement in Mexico, which is giving the government there so much concern, is gaining great strength by its demand: "Mexico for the Mexicans." Everywhere there is a feeling of unrest where the people are exploited for the benefit of an oligarchy of wealth. The labor people even here are revolting against the Republican party which has through the tariff and the trusts fostered monopoly at the expense of the great mass of the people.

The Washington Star reports that an official of the Department of Justice has received by express from Colorado a young cinnamon bear. It is something like a white elephant on his hands, says the Star, and he does not know what to do with it. Why do not ship the bear to Oyster Bay and give President Roosevelt some little pleasure. He could hunt that bear for weeks in the gloomy solitudes of Oyster Bay, with the aid of the secret service men and an adroit cowboy to lasso bruin for future use. It would be better for the bear and allow the president to let off his superfluous energy. President Roosevelt, it is said, has decided that he cannot leave affairs of state for long hunting trips, where cinnamon bears are to be found in their native wilds. So what could be more appropriate than to ship the cinnamon bear to Oyster Bay, where he is needed.

Such an amusement this summer might prevent the President from becoming entangled in the Republican factional fights in several states or even declaring war against somebody just to ward off the ennui caused by lack of excitement.

WILL THE PRESIDENT "STAND PAT?"

According to the reports from Oyster Bay the president has taken charge of the Republican congressional campaign and is quite optimistic about the result. The committee has hinted that it must have money or disaster will follow, and the president will no doubt attend to this necessary part of Republican politics. From whom can Mr Roosevelt collect funds to elect a Republican Congress? It would be useless to call on the life insurance companies now, as in the last campaign, for the policy holders are watching the management of those institutions much closer than in 1904. The president has evidence collected by the bureau of corporations against many trusts, that if followed up by the department of justice, would convict those corporations. Will they "come down" to prevent publicity?

The natural resource for Republican campaign funds is the protected interests and monopolists that are sheltered by the tariff. But they would undoubtedly require a promise of "no meddling with the tariff." Will President Roosevelt agree to "stand pat?" That is the question.

THE FICTITIOUS BALANCE OF TRADE.

The last fiscal year shows a balance of trade in our favor of $740,941,163, after allowing for exports and imports of the precious metals. The year previous the balance was $461,357,605. These vast sums would seem to be a clear gift by the people of the United States to foreign nations for there has been no reciprocal return as far as the government statisticians have been able to discover. Why do we apparently give Europe over $500,000,000 a year more than we receive? That is a disputed question. It is quite possible that the government statistics are colored to prove we sell more than we buy. This great drain has been going on for years and high balances would seem to represent an invisible debt accruing against the United States on account of interest charges and travelers expenditures rather than an accumulation of foreign credits in our favor.

In Indiana the Republican newspapers are afraid to jump on the ice trust for fear it will reflect on refrigerator Fairbanks.

THIS IS FOR YOU

I take this method to thank every one who has sold a load of Tobacco with me for the past nine years. Since on the Greenville market I have always, as auctioneer, at all times, looked after your best interest in the sale of your tobacco and if you will continue to sell with me I will see in the future, as I have in the past, that every pile of your tobacco is well looked after. This season you can find me at the "Liberty Warehouse" to welcome you at all times and with M. S. T. Hooker, one of Greenville's best judges of tobacco, and as we all know the strongest bidding warehousemen in the State, I feel safe in saying that I am in a better position this season to look after your interest than ever before. You will also find Mr H. S. Hardy to see that nothing is left undone that is to your best interest. Yours to serve,

THE SWEET VOICES OF THE SINGERS

And the entrancing Melodies of the Music, that flow from the Edison Phonograph, should be placed within the reach of your wives and children.

MUSIC breaks the discords of a busy day, tranquilizes the fretful mind, soothes the pain of the sick and afflicted, and is the delight of all.

THE EDISON PHONOGRAPH makes it possible to get the best, whether it be from the Orchestra, the Military Band, the Solo, duet or the Quartette. It places in your home that for which the multitudes in the cities pay large sums to hear, and for which you pay the cost of a record.

Do you envy your city friend who is always able to sing the latest music, and who can tell off hand the name of every popular air? why should not keep up with the musical world as well as the social or political affairs of the nations? It costs no more.

TO prospective purchasers, we would take a delight in exhibiting the Edison Phonograph at your homes. Ask us about prices and terms.

If you have never heard it, you don't know what a treat awaits you at

THE FALL ELECTIONS.

The state elections will be of more than usual interest and importance this year and will be watched closely as the result in several states will have great bearing on the presidential election two years hence. The important fact is the schisms in the Republican ranks in the usually strong Republican states of Pennsylvania, Iowa, Massachusetts and Wisconsin and the factional fights in Ohio, New York, Illinois, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Vermont. These party disturbances must have more or less effect on the campaign for congressmen and the election of legislatures that will select United States senators and as the Democrats have nothing to lose in the states mentioned, for their representation in the present congress is at the minimum, they make surprising gains. There is a genuine reform feeling prevalent and if the Republican reformers find themselves cut off by machine methods from tariff revision and a "square deal" their only resource is to quietly vote for decent Democrats.

TO OUR FRIENDS THE TOBACCO GROWERS

We take this opportunity of extending to our friends and patrons our sincere thanks for the liberal patronage bestowed upon us the past season.

WHEN THE CENTRE BRICK WAREHOUSE

was first erected, three years ago, it was the intention of its management to build up a permanent business upon a sound business basis. Our business has increased with the years, and we trust to be favored with your patronage the coming season

Each Customer, as well as each Pile of Tobacco shall have our Personal Attention, and we shall endeavor, as in the past, to make The Centre Brick headquarters for High Prices, Fair and honorable treatment.

It affords us pleasure to announce in this connection that

MR. W. T. LIPSCOMB,

THE VETERAN TOBACCONIST AND WAREHOUSEMAN

Will be associated with us the coming season. Mr. Lipscomb is too well-known to the trader, planters, buyers, or manufacturers to need any commendation at our hands, suffice to say with his judgment and experience at the command of our customers with our facilities for conducting the warehouse business, assisted as we will be by an experienced and competent force, in every department, it puts us in better position than any other warehouse in Eastern Carolina, at all times, to secure for our friend outside prices for their Tobacco. When you come to GREENVILLE, always and when your tobacco is ready to sell, bring it where experienced judges will sell it to the best advantage for you. Again thanking you for your liberal patronage we beg to remain,

THE NEWLY RICH.

Efforts of the War-made Millionaires of 1873 at Grandeur.

From 1865 to 1875 the most striking figure in American life was that of the nouveau riche. He was to instruct minds a most pathetic sight—so grossly conscious of his wealth, so anxious to spend it in an impressive way, to do something princely, something really "big," and yet being so hopelessly ignorant of how to do it.

He purchased urban dwellings with "brownstone fronts" and plate glass windows. He procured horses and carriages and stocked his cellars with champagne. In the country he built for himself enormous wooden mansions painted in many colors, surmounted by wooden cupolas and towers and battlements and adorned with a maze of wooden pillars representing what some one cleverly styled "the jig saw renaissance," while his lawn was dotted with cast iron statuary painted to resemble bronze.

Many of these war made millionaires ultimately lost their money as quickly as they made it. Some of them left it to be squandered by their sons. The wealth of those days was seldom perpetuated, and this fact was crystallized in a popular proverb to the effect that "there are only three generations from shirt sleeves to shirt sleeves."

The representatives of the still newer wealth bore slight resemblance to the shoddy millionaire. They lived in the age that had discovered Europe, where they had traveled and observed and learned, for at this time Europe became a mighty educator of the American people. It led to the appreciation and encouragement of art and architecture and landscape gardening and to knowledge of the true refinement of civilized existence.

There began to be laid in the United States the basis for something which resembled an aristocracy, founded in the first instance upon wealth, but in its higher phases deserving a better name than that of mere plutocracy. An aristocracy must always ultimately rest upon either power or service and more often upon a combination of these two.—H. T. Peck in Bookman.

The Barber's Pole.

How many of you can tell why a barber has a red and white striped pole as a sign? In the olden time barbers were also surgeons in a small way, particularly in the operation of bleeding. To assist the operation it was necessary for the patient to grasp a staff, and the barber always kept one ready, as well as strips of cloth for bandaging the patient's arm. When the staff was not in use the bandage was tied to it so that they might be together when wanted, and the barber usually hung them at his door as a sign. In the course of time, however, a painted pole took the place at the door of the one used in the operation, and thus came the sign.

A Tallow Projectile.

Perhaps you might smile with incredulity if any one should tell you that it is possible to fire a tallow candle from a gun with such force that it will pierce a board, but it is true nevertheless. The reason is that when the candle reaches the board every particle of matter composing it is in a state of intense velocity. At the moment of contact the particles of matter composing the board are in a state of rest, and as the density of the candle multiplied by its velocity is greater than the density of the board at rest the greater force overcomes the weaker and the candle breaks through and makes a hole in the board.

In the Wedding Month.

Bishop Olmsted of Colorado was talking at a dinner party in Denver about June weddings, according to the Chicago Inter Ocean.

"June is a lovely month," he said, "and that it should be the month of all months for weddings is a fact easily understood.

"I was amused by the remark a jeweler made the other day.

"The jeweler said that at this season it is a very common thing to see a well dressed, handsome, intelligent looking young man come into his shop and say in a painfully nervous way:

"Um, ah—er—er—ah—er—ha, um—"

"In this contingency the jeweler simply calls to his clerk:

"Get out that tray of engagement rings, Jackson."
