INCREASE IN COST OF LIVING.

Price Have Been Steadily Getting Higher in the Last Eight Years

The question of most absorbing interest to the people of the country at this time is the constantly increasing cost of living. Prices have been getting steadily higher and higher during the past six or eight years, and have now reached the point where the pinch is felt by persons in all stations of life. And they are talking about it.

Official admission will be made by the government within the next few days of the advance in the cost of food, clothing and other necessary supplies during the past year. The forthcoming report of the Labor Bureau on retail prices for 1905 will show that the cost of meat, flour, vegetables and other articles of food continued its upward fight during that period. A further important admission will be made that there was no corresponding increase in wages during 1905 to offset the higher prices. This is the first time that this report will show during the present era of prosperity an advance in the cost of living without an accompanying gain in wages. This may account in large part for the tremendous volume of complaint, which seems to be general all over the country that household expenses are running up beyond all reason.

Curiously enough the advance in prices is not confined to the products of the factories and mills whose goods pass through several hands before reaching the consumer. The farmer who sells his potatoes direct to the consumer has boosted prices because everybody else has. The housewife returns from market with a sad story of extortionate demands by the butcher man, the chicken seller and the dealer in beans peas and tomatoes. Without the excuse that the wicked trusts and the robber tariff are responsible, the dealers in these homely commodities seed their prices kiting and the common people foot the bills in the good old way.

"I paid 15 cents a quart for cranberries two years ago and last fall the price was 30 cents a quart, said a Washington housekeeper the other day. Similar stories are heard in every home."

Popular priced restaurants are being driven out of business by 35 cent steaks and 30 cent chop. A Washington proprietor of a 15 and 25 cent dining-room lost money during May and June of this year, although his patronage was far greater than in the corresponding months of a year ago. Men on moderate salaries have stopped building homes because the cost of lumber and other building materials has gone up away beyond their reach. What is the explanation of this condition and who benefits from it? Secretary Shaw, who worships the Dingley tariff and standpointism, maintains that the present conditions spell prosperity. Persons on small salaries, $15, $20, and $25 a week say it is a false prosperity, and exhibit depleted savings bank accounts and skimpy methods of living to prove

WINTERVILLE NOTES

Interesting Items from Our Hustling Neighbor.

WINTERVILLE, N. C., Aug. 1.—Miss Mimie Cox returned home Monday evening after visiting friends in Kinston, LaGrange and Seven Springs for several days.

A large crowd of our people went to Hancock Sunday to attend the union.

Miss Dora Cox gave an informal but very enjoyable entertainment to several of her friends Saturday night in honor of Misses Myrtie Proctor, of Grimesland and Florence Cobb, of Greenville and F. O. House, who were visiting in our town and community. Miss Myrtie Proctor furnished delightful music for the occasion.

Miss Myrtie Proctor, who spent several days with Miss Dora Cox, returned to her home in Grimesland Monday.

Theodore Cox, one of our finest business young men, spent Sunday in Morehead and reports an excellent trip.

Mrs. Anna Whitfield and two nieces, who had been spending sometime with relatives and friends, returned to their home near Robersonville Monday.

Miss Enla Cox, who had been visiting her cousin, Miss Eunice Hargrave, of Tuckahoe, returned Monday evening.

Prof. Lineberry spent Sunday at home with his family.

Mrs. Sarah Taylor and Miss Janie Kittrell spent Sunday and Monday in Ayden visiting.

Mrs. Nannie Wyatt and children returned to Morehead after visiting relatives here for sometime. B. T. Cox accompanied them back.

Mrs. Dora Cox spent Tuesday at Hanrahan.

S. L. Ange, of Jamesville, is visiting his son, A. W. Ange, of this town.

Levi Holliday and Roscoe Fleming were here Sunday.

E. R. Croaker, W. B. Bland and Claude Chapman were here Monday exhibiting a new patent of a washing machine.

Mrs. F. C. Nye went to Greenville today shopping.

Arden Tucker happened to the misfortune of getting his hand badly cut in one of the machines of the A. G. Cox Mfg. Co., Monday. Dr. Cox dressed the wound.

Robert Smith went to Greenville today.

THE WEATHER.

Showers tonight and Thursday:

The young ladies will give a dance tonight in Parham warehouse.

it. The country will hear more of this question later. It is being talked about at the breakfast table now, but in the coming campaign it will be discussed on the stump. Practical politicians realize that it is forcing itself to the front and are wondering how they will answer it. The increased cost of living will be a big factor in the all elections.—Washington correspondence Raleigh News and Observer.

TOBACCO MARKET OPENS, Sales Small But Prices Much Better Than Opening Last Year.

The Greenville tobacco market began the new season today with a very flattering opening. Owing to the excessive rains recently which have kept the farmers crowded trying to save their tobacco as fast as it could be cured and leaving them little or no time for grading, no one looked for much to come in at the opening, yet the sales were larger than expected.

All five of the warehouses had a fair amount on sale and the prices were most gratifying, running between $7 and $17.50 per hundred. The opening prices this season averaged fully $2 over last season.

The warehouses are all well equipped with good working forces and start off the season in good shape. The crews are as follows:

CENTER BRICK

Brinkley, Lassiter & Lipscomb, proprietors.

✓Dow Beaman, floor manager.

D. S. Spain and G. E. Harris, bookkeepers.

B. T. Bailey auctioneer.

PARHAM'S

Parham & Foxall, proprietors.

T. H. Walke., floor manager.

N. H. Whitfield and W. L. Hall, bookkeepers.

✓W. T. Burton, auctioneer.

LIBERTY

✓S. T. Hooker, proprietor.

H. S. Hardy, manager.

✓J. I. Smith and B. F. Hooker, bookkeepers.

H. A. Timberlake, auctioneer.

FARMERS CONSOLIDATED CO.

Operating both the Farmers and Star warehouses.

O. L. Joyner, president.

✓W. H. Dail, Jr., secretary and auditor.

R. J. Cobb, treasurer.

D. A. Bodenhamer, auctioneer.

W. B. Roebuck, floor manager at the Farmers.

Ola Forbes, manager at the Star.

H. M. Wall and J. T. Pratt, bookkeepers.

A. A. Forbes and C. F. Meadows, general assistants.

THE BUYERS.

At no time has Greenville had a stronger corps of buyers than are on the market this season, and they will work with the warehousemen in keeping Greenville in the lead of the Eastern markets. The buyers are:

F. W. Clare for American Tobacco Co.

R. O. Jeffress for Imperial Tobacco Co.

Andrews & Bailey.

Bowling & McGowan.

G. E. Cherry.

W. T. Burton.

E. B. Ficklen.

H. S. Hardy.

C. W. Harvey.

Moye & Kennedy.

Skinner, Gurden Tob. Co.

S. J. Parham.

T. A. Duke.

Timberlake & Harris.

E. H. Thomas.

B. S. Evans.

G. F. Evans.

G. S. Prichard and Co.

T. A. Person for the Japanese company.

There will be some other buyers later.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town.

Ayden, N. C. July 31, 1906.

Miss Nina Cannon has come home from a recent visit.

Misses Lula and Stella Tucker, of near Red Banks, have been visiting Mrs. W. J. Boyd.

Miss Annie Nelson, of Winterville, spent Saturday with Miss Myrtle Smith.

Miss Bessie Smith, of Fremont, is here on a visit to Miss Nina Cannon.

Elder Thomas Clark, of Fremont, while here in attendance upon the Primitive Baptist union was the guest of W. E. Hooks.

M. M. Sauls has moved into the large two story residence recently erected by George Worthington on Main street, and O. C. Noble will occupy the one vacated by Mr. Sauls on Lee street.

Elder Roberson, of Martin county, a Primitive Baptist minister, preached in the Disciple church here Sunday afternoon.

Heber Hart, who has been confined at his home with fever, is very much better and will soon be out.

Chief Alexander is making many long needed and decided improvements on our streets. He has the entire town almost under a thorough drainage system.

GENERAL NEWS.

Happenings of Interest Over the Country.

New York, July 29.—Three of a party of six persons who were boating on Lake Hopatcong, N. Y., today were drowned when their craft capsized through the apparent inexperience of the men who had undertaken to handle the boat.

Pittsburg, July 29.—Snapping and snarling like a dog and rolling and writhing on the ground while suffering from an acute attack of hydrophobia William Garrison, of 459 Thirty-third street bit three men last night before being gotten under control.

Houston, Tex., July 29.—Sufficient returns have been received to show that in Saturday's primaries T. M. Campbell, of Palestine, received a plurality of the popular votes and that he will go into the State convention with at least 230 votes and sufficient strength indicated for him as second choice to assure him the nomination for Governor.

Connsburg, Pa., July 29.—When Samuel Pearse, a well-known resident of Washington county, returned to his home from a drive to-night he found his wife and two children dead and a third child dying from bullet wounds. Who fired the shots has not been learned. Indications point to robbery as the motive. An attempt had also been made to set fire to the home, but Pearse arrived in time to extinguish a blaze that had been started in a bedroom.

H. C. CANNON FOR REGISTER OF DEEDS.

Ayden, N. C., July 31st.

Editor Reflector:

Sometimes since I sent you a communication which you kindly published, stating that I thought Contentnea township was entitled to some recognition at the hands of the Democratic party in its coming convention on the 15th of August. I did not specify any particular gentleman at the time because I had not then learned the prevailing sentiment as regards any particular individual. Since, however, popular sentiment seems to have centered on H. C. Cannon as the most available man for the position in question, that of Register of Deeds, Mr. Cannon, like all his ancestry, is of old Democratic stock, the best, purest and staunchest ever made. Should he receive the endorsement of his party as its nominee for the office of Register of Deeds, he will not only be elected, but will in every way prove himself worthy of the honor. A man of character, ability and the strictest integrity, he is the peer of the best. Honest and conscientious, possessing the esteem and highest regard of all who know him, he will carry with him into the office the confidence of his friends, and when his term of office shall have expired he will have won the confidence of the entire public. That success may be his is the earnest desire of those who know him best.

A Pig Which Was Honored With a Monument.

The English have erected a monument to the brave horses who died at Port Elizabeth in the colony of Natal during their late war with the Boers.

The strangest of all statues seems the one in Lunenburg, a little town of Hanover. The pig who was the original of the statue was the discoverer of a salt mine which greatly enriched the town. While rooting in the earth Mr. Pig accidentally made his important discovery. Not knowing if pigs like salt as much as they do dirt, it is difficult to say whether this pig was pleased or not, but the citizens of Lunenburg thought his achievement great enough to deserve a monument. It consists of a block of granite on which rests a coffin of crystal. In this reposes the body of the pig. The inscription on the monument is as follows:

"The passerby here looks upon the remains of a pig who acquired imperishable glory by discovering the salt mines of Lunenburg."

The Largest Loaves.

The largest loaves of bread baked in the world are those of France and Italy. The "pope" bread of Italy is baked in loaves two feet or three feet long, while in France the loaves are made in the shape of very long rolls four feet or five feet in length. In many cases even six feet long. The bread of Paris is distributed all over the world by women, who take the various bake-houses and spend about an hour picking up the loaves and putting them in the "bread" carts which go on the round of the city.

Carried by Bees.

An interesting experiment has been tried by a well known naturalist. Having caught a number of bees as they returned to the hive laden with honey, he placed them in a light paper box and weighed them. The weight of the box being deducted from the total. The same bees were again placed on emerging from the hive and again placed on the delicate scales. The result of the two operations showed that when laden the bees weighed three times as much as when empty.

The Bumblebee.

Some people have a notion that the name bumblebee is not correct, but is a corruption of humbebee. On the contrary, bumblebee is the preferable name for the insect, having been formed from the Old English humblen, to make a humming noise, that being a diminutive of bum.

MAIL BOXES WITH NAMES.

The rack of mail boxes in the lighthouse department building on Staten Island is labeled with some names that strike one as having a gay and festive and familiar air until one realizes the reason why. One box is labeled "Daisy," another starts one with its "D. Ring," and the stung impression left by "Nettie" is slightly assuaged and the reader made to feel that all is not familiar hereabout by the solid respectability of "John Rodgers." If any one had any lasting doubts as to the reason for these appellations it would probably be cleared away by another compartment labeled "Robbins Peep," and for the benefit of those to whom the mystery has not been cleared away it may be stated that the Daisy and the Darling of the letter boxes are not young ladies, but the boats employed by the department in its work along the coast in this section of our seaboard. —New York Press.

We were greeted at the entrance with a frontage of iron bars. No-bell was rung. Our guide noiselessly inserted a gigantic key, and we entered a large hall. A long row of locked doors greeted us on each side, and a gallery running around the top of the hall repeated the same thing. "These are their rooms," said our guide in an awful whisper. "They are shut up in there now—they must not hear us."

This grewsome hall oppressed one with a sense of doom and despair quite indescribable—no windows, no air from the skylight overhead.

"They are permitted to go out only in charge of a keeper for one hour in the day. But I will show you how things have been arranged for them," he added. "There is, I believe, one room vacant at the moment."

The Fall is Valuable.

The recent rise in the price of tin has led many European chocolate manufacturers to inclose this notice in the wrappers of their chocolates: "Do not throw away the tinfoil in which the chocolate is enveloped. It is composed of pure metal, a metal which is very dear. Keep it, and before long it will be called for by our agents, who will pay for it at its market value. The chocolate industry in Europe spends nearly $300,000,000 per annum in tinfoil, and these $300,000,000 are generally thrown to the winds."

It was a bare cell, just big enough to contain the narrow bed, small writing table, two chairs and a minute chest of drawers and washstand. Iron bars inclosed the window. A padlock and chain enabled the door to be opened about four inches when required.

"You see," our guide remarked, "by this means they hear the messe in the chapel without quitting their rooms."

What seems to give some color to the alleged treachery of the paper wrapper around the chocolate is the story told by a Socialist journal of Hamburg, to the effect that a group of workers were able to procure a part of their common library by collecting and selling these fugitive sheets of tinfoil.

In these cells, he told us, the boys lived day and night for two, three, sometimes for six or seven years. Professors come from Tours and give them instruction at the small writing table. Once a month they take a bath, more often if the relatives are willing to pay extra for it. They are escorted to the bath by a guardman. The isolation of each boy is so thorough that two brothers were once there together for two

$100.00 REWARD

State of North Carolina
Executive Department

Whereas official information has been received at this department that W. H. Harrington Jr. late of the County of Pitt stands charged with conspiracy and assault upon W. J. Tell, and whereas, it appears that the said W. H. Harrington Jr. has fled the State, or so conceals himself that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him.

Now, therefore, I, R. B. Glenn, Governor of the State of North Carolina, by virtue of authority in me vested by law, do issue this my proclamation, offering a reward of One hundred Dollars for the apprehension and delivery of the said W. H. Harrington Jr. to the Sheriff of Pitt County at the Court house in Greenville N. C. and I do enjoin all officers of the State and all good citizens to assist in bringing said criminal to justice.

Done at our City of Raleigh the 16th day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and six and in the one hundred and thirty-first year of our American Independence.

R. B. GLENN,
By the Governor.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

A Democratic convention of Pitt county will be held at the court house, in the town of Greenville, at 12 M, Wednesday August 15th 1906, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the Legislature and various county officers.

Township Primaries—The Democratic primaries of the several precincts are hereby called to meet at their usual places on Saturday, the 11th day of August, 1906, at 3 o'clock p. m., to elect delegates to the county convention, nominate Constables, Justices of the Peace, and elect precinct executive committees. The townships are entitled to delegates and alternates as follows:

Reaver Dam	3
Belvoir	2
Bethel	7
Carolina	6
Chicod	16
Contentnea	17
Falkland	7
Farmville	6
Greenville	20
Pactolus	3
Swift Creek	6

It is hoped that a full attendance of the Democratic voters of each township will be present and select their delegates in accordance with the organization of the party.

He Was It.

It was Oliver Wendell Holmes, was it not, who was asked after he had made a trip across the ocean if he had done any literary work while on board the ship and answered that he "had been a frequent contributor to the Atlantic?"

Somewhat similar is an anecdote related of a New York merchant whose business had required him to make several journeys to San Francisco and back during the year.

While on one of these long trips, after he had exhausted the stock of reading matter he had brought with him, he was showing a fellow passenger a bundle of the popular magazines that formed a part of the supply.

"You don't seem to have the Overland Monthly here," remarked the passenger.

"Huh!" exclaimed the New Yorker. "I'm the overland monthly myself."

Why He Lingered.

A man was accused of having stolen a pair of trousers. There were several witnesses, but the evidence was rather meager, and so the accused was acquitted. He was told that he could go, but he remained. His lawyer, to whose successful defense he mainly owed his liberty, hinted to him again that he was free to depart, but still he stayed.

There being no more cases to be heard, the court was getting empty, when the lawyer, growing impatient, asked, with some asperity, why he didn't go. The injured, innocent man whispered in his ear, "The fact is, sir, I did not like to move till the witnesses had left the court."

"Why so?"

"Because, sir, I have got on the trousers that I stole."

Got the Job.

The man who at a civil service examination for firemen answered a question in municipal government with "What's that got to do with squirting a hose?" has been eclipsed. At the last examination of applicants for the fire department one candidate seemed to have difficulty in answering several of the questions. He finally gave up trying and wrote after each question: "I don't know, but I want the job."

Geographical Game That Requires Quick Thinking.

The players are seated in a circle or around the room, and one takes a handkerchief and, throwing it at another, calls "Europe!" A time-keeper begins counting ten rather quickly, and the person to whom the handkerchief was thrown must name some place, river, mountain, person or thing connected with some country of Europe before number ten is reached. It may be arranged that the person answering correctly puts the next question. If incorrect or unable to answer a forfeit must be paid.

The players must be wideawake, for often the one who throws the handkerchief will look at one while throwing in quite a different direction.

The game may be made more difficult as well as interesting by taking special countries, and for older players a century may be given, and the famous characters belonging to it must be quickly thought out.

Polish Editors and Jail.

Some Polish editors have a hard time. In a parting word to his readers the retiring proprietor of the Polish paper Gornoslazak says that during the five years of the paper's existence the responsible editors have spent four and a half years in prison, while $3,750 has been paid in fines.

Popularity of Open Air Eating.

Timidly the old custom of open air eating is being revived. Many are having their meals on warm days in their gardens in London or in the country. At hotels on the Thames the proprietor no longer refuses to serve tea in the open, and at most of the suburban clubs luncheons and dinners may be eaten on the terrace or the lawn.—London Truth.

Saved His Comrades Life.

"While returning from the Grand Army Encampment at Washington City, a comrade from Elgin, Ill. was taken with cholera morbus and was in a critical condition," says Mr. J. E. Houghland, of Eldon, Iowa. I gave him Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and believe saved his life. I have been engaged ten years in immigration work and conducted many parties to the south and west. I always carry this remedy and have used it successfully on many occasions." Sold by J. L. Wooten.

A Tragic Finish

A watchman's neglect permitted a leak in the great North Sea dyke, which a child's finger could have stopped, to become a ruinous break, devastating an entire province of Holland. A fisherman Kenneth McIver, of Vanceboro Me. permitted a little cold to go unattended until a tragic finish was ordained by Dr. King's New Discovery. He writes "three doctors gave me up to die of lung inflammation, caused by a neglected cold" but Dr. King's New Discovery saved my life. Guaranteed best cough and cold cure" at J. L. Modest Claims Often Carry the Most Conviction.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this, but prefer to let the users make the statements. what they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. WEDNESDAY AUGUST 1, 1906.

John D. is back, but the Ohio sheriff did not catch him upon landing.

North Carolina will spend $30,000 on her exhibit at the Jamestown exposition?

Reports of assaults and attempted assaults show that it is not amiss to keep a supply of hemp handy.

Thaw having consented to accept the emotional insanity plea shows that he has more sense than he was credited with.

Greenville ought to profit by her past short comings and not wait for future years to show what ought to have been done.

They may have changed in some other respects, but the Republicans in this State have lost none of their old time ardor for making big claims.

When North Carolina puts her exhibit at the Jamestown exposition the folks will feel very much like they have gone "down home."

The announcement is made that Thomas Watson, of Georgia, formerly a chief of the Populists, has returned to the Democratic fold.

Orange would double in population if she had a system of water-works.—Orange, Va., Observer.

That is the way most corporations double—by watering.

Right here when we are all wrestling with the ice man the Orange, Va., Observer has the gall to say "Better get your winter's supply of fuel." One evil at the time is enough.

Big money adds all the more disgrace to divorce proceedings. Take the Castellaines, the Dukes and the Coreys for example. Money seems to give men license to live any kind of evil life.

As the Virginia soldiers passing through this State last Friday behaved so badly in Raleigh, perhaps the North Carolina contingent will try to be on their good behavior when they start home from the encampment, and put the Virginians to shame.

The board of aldermen meet Thursday night and a part of their business will be making the tax levy for the year. In view of the damage to crops by the recent excessive rains and the attendant poor prospect of business this fall, taxes should be as low as can be afforded to economically conduct affairs. It is not a time for the people to have too heavy burdens upon them.

As the Raleigh & Pamlico Sound railroad will be completed to Greenville in a few months it would not be a bad idea to have a union depot for that road and the Atlantic Coast Line to use together. Such a depot would be convenient to both roads as well as to the public. Matters of this kind could be looked after by a chamber of commerce or board of trade if the business man of the town would come together in such an organization. The town loses by letting things of this kind go by.

STICK TO THE PARTY.

EDITOR REFLECTOR:

In your Friday's issue of The Reflector, you mention the fact that only one man can be nominated for register of deeds, and that those who are defeated for the nomination should take their defeat in the right spirit. I as one of the candidates, promise you my hearty support of the whole Democratic ticket as nominated by the convention at Greenville. It seems to me that no true Democrat can afford to do otherwise. It would be the height of folly to forsake, or to do anything to injure, the grand old party that has always been the friend of the Southern white man, to forsake it, I say, for one who has tried always to place the black yoke on our neck.

What! for the sake of a petty office, turn our backs on all we hold dear in the way of good government? No, I refuse to believe that any one of the good men mentioned for office in Pitt county, will be disgruntled from so small a cause as defeat for office.

If there ever was a time that Democrats should fight out their differences in a brotherly manner within the party, it is now. With ever increasing graft in high places, with trusts drawing their cords tighter around us every day, with the stench that comes to us from the Chicago packing houses, and above all the increase of the nameless crime by the black man in the South, I do not see how any one can work for anything but to keep our beloved State in the Democratic column.

I have heard that there will be much splitting of tickets this year by men who want to vote for the man and not the party. Let me urge on you, fellow Democrats that the danger is not, and will not be soon passed. There are Republican leaders in the State who, if they can once get into power again, will re-enfranchise the negro in some way, and thus insure to themselves continuance in office.

Once take away the protecting power of Democracy in the State, and many Democrats will regret their nonattendance at the polls. We owe it as a duty to our family and to our God, to help make this a government for and by the people, and we can only do this by opposing all who are in league with trusts and the like.

R. W. KING FOR COMMISSIONER.

Falkland, N. C., Aug. 1st.

Editor Reflector:

We frequently hear it stated that the town of Greenville desires a County Commissioner from her residents. Surely this is a wise and reasonable desire, and if the "Greenvillians" will excuse an outsider for offering a suggestion we ask why not nominate Richard W. King? He knows as much or more about county affairs, county finances and county needs as any living man. He would make an ideal commissioner and every township in the "State of Pitt" will go for him.

PROGRAM.

Farmers Institute.

To be held in the court house at Greenville, Friday, August 10, 1906. Morning session will open at 10 o'clock sharp, and afternoon session at 1:30. Cotton culture by Dr. W. J. McLendon, Anson county. Peanut culture, by T. E. Browne, Hertford county. Tobacco culture, by A. J. Moye, Farmville. The feeding of farm animals, by Mr. Nutter. The improvement of cotton and corn by seed selection, by C. B. Williams, N. C. Department of Agriculture.

TO THE FARMERS OF PITT COUNTY--The above program is given to indicate the nature of the Institute, but it may be changed or added to, as those present desire. A question box will also be open, into which all are invited to put such questions as they desire discussed. A large number of intelligent questions means an interesting Institute, and special attention will be given to this feature.

The Farmers' Institutes are held for the benefit of the farmers, and none but strictly farming questions will be discussed. It is, therefore, especially desired that a large attendance of farmers be secured, and to this end you are urged to be present and to induce your neighbors to do the same.

A HEARTY WELCOME.

Amusing Incident of the Early Town
Rivalry in Dakota.

One of the earliest acts of Abraham Lincoln as president was to appoint Dr. William Jayne as first governor of Dakota territory. It rested with the governor to determine what point in the territory should be the temporary capital until such time as the legislature should select a permanent seat of government. The effort here was a great rivalry among the towns in Dakota to secure the honor of the new governor. In connection with this rivalry the author of "A Brief History of South Dakota" gives this story:

It was reported that Governor Jayne was driving out from Sioux City to look over the Dakota towns before he determined upon the temporary seat of government, and the enterprising town of Vermilion energetically prepared a great banquet in his honor.

Presently a carriage containing two well dressed gentlemen was seen approaching the village from the east, and a committee of citizens were sent to meet it and welcome the new governor. The two men were invited to accompany the committee forthwith to the banquet hall. There they partook of a fine dinner, and several hours were spent in speechmaking.

The guest of honor thanked the people sincerely for their courtesy, spoke of his good impressions of the country and declared his intention to settle among them.

This declaration was greeted with hearty cheers, but at that moment three or four carriages drove through the village, stopping only for a moment, and then driving on toward Yankton. One brought word into the banquet hall that Governor Jayne and his party had gone through to Yankton without giving Vermilion an opportunity to do him honor. Then the chairman turned to the guest at the banquet and asked him his name.

A Titled Painter's Pilgrimage.
A story is told in the life of a titled painter's pilgrimage. Years ago Vicomte Jacques de la Roche and his bride, to be married the day of departure, could not find a stipulation as to the return after their undertaking and what their bet. They have traveled Europe, America, Africa and Asia, living on nothing, but the profits of the vicomte's brush.

Patents in Germany.
The German patent office comes in for much censure. One would suppose such an institution to exact no more of inventors than is needed to pay current expenses, but in reality the charges are so high that the state pockets half the income as profit. It is pointed out that for poor inventors matters are almost as bad as they were when Gutenberg, after inventing the art of printing, lived in poverty and finally had to pawn his apparatus.

Music For South Africa.
One of the greatest markets in the world for musical instruments is South Africa, which spends on the average £200,000 a year, about £100,000 of which goes in pianos.—London Sketch.

BUNNIE WIDOWS.
A Trifling Incident in the Days of Chivalry.

"Of all the matrimonial trafficking in the age of chivalry the ways of widows," says a writer in an English magazine, "are at once the boldest and most comprehensive. As a rule their methods seldom resort to blandishments. It is remarkable when tenderness is an item in their bargain. Speed was their maxim. It was one that King John honored, for he profited by it. Yet one of the rarest exceptions in the way of delicacy to these commercial negotiations has evidently been prompted by a widow who had quite an exceptional lover. In 1206 William de Landa, either one of the most famous of the crusaders or his son, offers 50 marks and a palfrey for having to wife Joan, who was the wife of Thomas d'Arcey, 'if he may be pleasing to the said Joan.' The sheriff is instructed to ascertain the widow's wishes, 'and if the said Joan shall be pleased to have him for a husband then the sheriff shall cause William to have seizin of Joan and her land,' both of which he obtained in the name of gentle love and the faith of a true soldier. It is fitting that the name of one of the men who led the assault of Acre should be preserved in such a record as the above. He was in truth a very perfect knight.

"One of the most rampageous of the northern English borderers manifested the like delicacy. Young Walter de Umfraville, son of Gilbert, had left a widow, Emma, presumably in the very blush of her charms. Peter de Vaux had fallen at her feet, but he declined to obtain her in border fashion, and this fact is the earnest pledge of the chivalry of his love. If he would not steal her he was bound to buy her, and coin with the De Vaux was always a scarcity. So he offered the king 5 palfreys for her 'if she wished it,' and with what would read as a graceful acknowledgment of the borderer's pure chivalry John absolutely drops the commercial from his reply and simply orders Robert Fitz Roger, the sheriff, 'to permit it to be done.'"

All Doubtful.

"Dat was a great wedding, Sam."
"Deed it was."
"Well, who was the lucky man?"
"Dat's hard to say. De groom thought he was de lucky man till he squinted et de bride and foun' out she had wrinkles lak a welder map."
"Huh!"
"Den de best man thought he was de lucky man till he foun' out de rabbit's foot de groom had gibben him was er cat's foot."
"Lan's! Den de preacher mus ha' been de lucky man?"
"Well, he kinder puffed up dat way till arter de ceremony, and der he disobebed dat de dollar de groom had passed him es a fee was lead."—Chicago News.

Not the Horse For Him.

Hans came in from his ranch, two miles this side of Olney, to buy a horse.
"I've got the very thing you want," said Ike Bergman. "It's a fine road horse, five years old, sound as a quail, $175 cash down, and he goes ten miles without stopping."
Hans threw his hand skyward.
"Not for me," he said; "not for me. I wouldn't gif you 5 cents for him. I live eight miles from Astoria, and I'd haf to walk back two miles."—Astoria Herald.

FORMOSA HEAD HUNTERS.

The mountainous interior of Formosa is inhabited by a race of blood-thirsty savages, whose chief delight is to sally forth on head hunting raids. Few strangers (the exceptions being some intrepid Japanese explorers) have ever penetrated far into the wild mountain country which is the home of these savages.

They appear to be akin to the Dyaks of Borneo, but no definite study of their language or habits has yet been made, though interesting details will be found in Consul Davidson's voluminous book on Formosa. For hundreds of years the tribes, eight in number, have withstood their enemies, who have never been able to penetrate to their fastnesses. It remains to be seen what success the more systematic Japanese will achieve.

It seems almost incredible that the station of a military force should not be safe from the raids of these head hunters, but it was the case a few years ago. At that time one of the tribes crept in the night upon a post of the Japanese and made off with a score of heads.

Their most usual method is to stalk the Chinese of either sex when they are engaged in tea picking. The savage creeps up unobserved to his victim, transfixes him with his spear, secures his head and is lost in a moment in the neighboring jungle.—Macmillan's.

The Meddlesome Public.

"This canned beef is not what it might be," began the citizen timidly.
"Well, now, what do you expect for 15 cents?" demanded the irate packer. "Ain't the label bright and clean?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

HELPING AN ELEPHANT.

A Surgeon's Story of an Operation and a Grateful Beast.

A veterinary surgeon who had won reputation was once summoned by P. T. Barnum to come to his stables to attend Hebe, a favorite elephant, who had hurt her foot. She was a splendid creature and worth a small fortune. The surgeon told the story of his experience and its results in Our Dumb Animals:

Hebe had stepped on a nail or a bit of iron, and it had penetrated the tender part of her foot. She was in intense agony—almost wild with pain.

Long before we reached the inclosure in which she was kept we could hear her piteous trumpeting, and when we entered we found her on three legs, swinging the sore foot slowly backward and forward and uttering long cries of anguish. Her keeper said: "Don't you be afraid, sir. Hebe's got sense." But I own that I felt rather queer and shaky as I went up to the huge beast.

The men employed about the show came round us curiously as I bent down to examine the foot. While I was doing so as gently as I could I felt a light touch on my hair, and as I turned and saw the great trunk behind me it had an awful suggestiveness.

"I shall have to cut, and cut deep," I said to her keeper. He said a few words in some lingo, evidently intended for the elephant's understanding only. Then he shouted with the utmost coolness, "Cut away!"

Well, I made one gash with the knife. I felt the grasp on my hair tighten perceptibly, yet not ungently. Cold drops of perspiration stood out all over me, and I hesitated as to whether I should go on.

"Shall I cut again?" I managed to call out.

"Cut away!" came the response. This stroke did the work. A mass of fetid matter followed the knife—the abscess was lanced. We sprayed out the foot, packed it and bound it up. The relief must have been immediate, for the grasp on my hair relaxed, and the elephant gave a long sigh.

A year and a half after this I was called to western Massachusetts. Barnum's show was there. You may be sure I called to inquire for my distinguished patient.

"Hebe's well and hearty, sir," the keeper answered me. "Come in and see her. She'll be glad to see you." For a moment she looked at me indifferently, then steadily and with interest. She next reached out her trunk and laid it caressingly on my hair, and then she lifted up her foot, now whole and healthy, and showed it to me. That's the sober truth.

Senator Hoar's Staircase.

Senator Hoar was sitting with his wife on the porch of his house in Worcester when two wagons drove up and the men unloaded five enormous boxes on the sidewalk.

"What on earth is that?" asked Mrs. Hoar.

The senator went out and peered at the boxes. Then he answered proudly: "My dear, these boxes contain the staircase from an ancestral home of the Hoar family in England. I bought it when I was last in England."

"Indeed!" replied Mrs. Hoar, not a whit impressed. "And what do you intend to do with it, may I ask?"

The senator was flabbergasted. At last he said with great dignity, "Mrs. Hoar, that is merely a woman's question."—Boston Herald.

Honest Boy.

A boy was standing beside a stall where a farmer was selling cherries one day when he saw a coin lying on the ground and honestly picked it up and gave it to the farmer.

"Thank you," said the farmer. "If you are always like this you will get on well. Here, take a handful of cherries."

"No, thank you," said the boy.

"Why not?" said the farmer.

"I would rather you would give them me," said the boy.

The farmer gave the boy a handful himself.

"Why did you wish me to give them you?" said the man.

"Because your hand is bigger than mine," the boy replied.—London

FUNNY STORIES.

Some Merely a Trifle Less Sad Than Others, That is All.

Seriously speaking, a funny story is no laughing matter. Humor is one of the world's great institutions, a thing to be approached with reverence akin to awe, as something cold as the pole, imperishable as the pyramids and often a great deal more ancient. If we abase ourselves before ancient and holy things, can we afford to laugh at the capers of the convict chimpanzee, who in point of ancestry antedates the Peter Lelys and Joshuas of our baronial halls?

Funny stories, furthermore, are usually based on something which is not funny at all. Their points, in fact, often depend solely upon an unsympathetic view of some great human misfortune. What is more pathetic to a sane mind than a funeral or a harelip or a divorce or a mother-in-law? Yet, shades of Rameses, how useful they have become in vaudeville!

I don't think that there are any really side-splitting stories in the world. Some are merely a trifle less sad than others; that is all. How admirable is the calm philosophy of the man who refused to ride with his mother-in-law at his wife's funeral "because," as he explained, "it would spoil the day's pleasures for me!" And yet there are persons so careless as to regard this as mere buffoonery.

And so the endless procession of anecdotes files by, none of them, as I have said, really funny, but some a little less sad than the others. In the joyous days of heraldic aid, when the woods were teeming with parfit gentil knights and the sense of humor was less particular than nowadays, every king had a jester hired by the week, and the crown was furnished with a certain appliance which made all his jokes immediately appreciated. What, pray? Nothing more than a bladder on a stick. When the jester came to the point of the joke he popped the bladder smartly on the floor. That was a signal, "All laugh!" So the uproar was deafening. Those were golden days to live in!—Wallace Irwin in Success Magazine.

Ancient Use of Concrete.

The use of concrete masonry probably begins with the Romans, who employed it in road building and foundation work. Coming down from the time of the Romans, the ancient city of Ciudad Rodrigo has walls existing at the present day in which are buried large boulders of stone. These walls are in a good state of preservation at the present time—in fact, so much so that they still bear the prints of the boards which made up the forms which held the concrete in its semiliquid state at the time it was put in. It is an interesting matter to note that the modern practice of putting large masses of stone in concrete masonry follows exactly the scheme used in building these ancient walls of Ciudad Rodrigo. This method not only reduces the cost of the resulting fabric, but also makes it stronger.—Scientific American.

Curran and the Tailors.

Curran, the famous orator and wit, never hesitated to sacrifice his friends for the sake of a joke. On one occasion the Merchant Tailors' guild of Dublin gave a banquet, to which he was invited—in fact, he was the guest of honor. He kept his hosts amused all evening. There were just eighteen of his entertainers, and when Curran took his leave he waited till he reached the door, then with a smile and a bow said, "And now, gentlemen, I have the honor of saying good night to both of you." He made his escape before the eighteen tailors realized the joke, and then it was too late to catch him.

Sudden Change of Mind.

Puffing and blowing, the fat passenger began to climb to the upper berth in the sleeping car. "Pretty hard work, isn't it?" said the man in the lower berth. "It is," answered the fat passenger, "for a man of my weight." "How much do you weigh, may I ask?" "Three hundred and eighty-seven pounds." "Hold on! Take this one!" exclaimed the other, his hair beginning to rise on end. "I'd rather sleep in the upper berth anyway. The ventilation is better."—Chicago Tribune.

GREENVILLE THIRD TEAMS

Win Best Game of the Season--
Score 6 and 5.

The fastest game of the season was played at Munford's Park Tuesday afternoon between the third teams of Greenville and Bethel.

With the score 5 to 4 in favor of Bethel, Greenville went to the bat in the last half of the ninth and won out. Two men were down, two strikes and three balls on the batter, but the locals never gave up. Haskett C. reached second and third, scored on Lanier single to left. This tied up the score and Haskett won the game by singling to left, scoring Lanier.

The features of the game were the catching of Henry Haskett and the star outfielding of David Moore whose double up at first in the eight received much applause, also the pretty work of Blount in the box for Bethel.
