WILL SOON HAVE NEW CHURCH.

Christian Scientists to Erect Fine Edifice.

Plans Have Been Drawn for the Building of the First Church of Christ, Scientists, and New York Architect Will Supervise the Construction—Will be Situated at Tenth and Market Streets—Work Will Shortly Commence.

Wilmington is soon to be further adorned and advanced in the building line by a large and handsome new church, which is to be erected by the First Church of Christ, Scientists, of this city. Plans for the edifice have already been drawn the contract in this particular having been given out to Messrs. Hunt & Hunt, of New York City, and a member of that firm will shortly arrive in Wilmington to make ready for the building. The site is to be about Tenth and Market streets, where property was purchased with that end in view through the real estate agency of M. C. Darby & Co., but whether the church will be erected directly on the corner or not has not yet been determined upon. If erected on the corner it will be the southeast corner, but if not it will only be a short distance away, occupying a position on the South side of Market, east of Tenth street.

At present the church occupies handsome quarters in the Odd Fellows' building, but these quarters were only obtained temporarily, as it has long been the desire of the members of the church to possess an edifice of their own. Now the long expected time has arrived.

The building will be a handsome one and will very likely be of stone. It will be finely appointed and substantially constructed. The work of erecting it will be done under the personal supervision of a representative of Messrs. Hunt & Hunt, and the work of tearing down the buildings now on the site will begin shortly. The occupants of these buildings have been given due notice to vacate.—Wilmington Evening Dispatch, Tuesday, July 31st.

AYDEN ITEMS.

Newsy Notes From a Hustling Town.

Ayden, N. C. Aug. 7 1906.

A. J. Moore, of Greenville, has paid Ayden another of those recent visits. His presence here is highly appreciated, of course!

Miss Ruth Barruss, of Richmond, has accepted a position as cashier in the drug store of M. M. Sauls.

Mrs. W. J. Hemby and children are visiting up in Beaver Dam.

J. R. Turbage left yesterday for Wilson to return home today with his sister, Miss Lucy, who has been in the sanitarium there. It is very gratifying to her many friends to learn of the good fortune of her recovery.

Miss Charlotte Ricks, of Wharton, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. B. S. Sumrell.

Miss Agnes Dixon came home Sunday afternoon from an extended visit among relatives in the country.

The masquerade at the rink Friday night was a success in every particular. There was a large crowd out and every one had a good time. While the entrance fee was only 5 and 10 cents yet nearly $20 was the proceeds. The costumes were fine and Miss Nancy Coward won the prize for the most unique, a fine pair of skates and it can truly be said Miss Nancy put the blush of shame on the rag bag.

Mrs. Guy Brooks came home Friday from Grifton.

Mrs. C. L. Patrick has been visiting in Greenville.

Nat. Tripp and J. C. Raspberry, of Kinston, were here during last week.

W. J. Boyd and J. W. Quinerly were in Greenville Wednesday on business.

Carlos Harris is here from Greenville.

Mr. Edgar Ballard died at his home on Ballard's Cross Roads, last Saturday and was buried Sunday afternoon with Masonic honors by Ayden Lodge of which he was a member, assisted by brethren from the Greenville, Farmville and Norfolk lodges. A good number of Masons and a very large crowd were present to attest appreciation and esteem for the deceased. Mr. Ballard was a good Mason, an excellent gentleman and a worthy citizen who stood well among all who knew him. Our sympathies are tendered the bereaved in their great sorrow.

TOO MANY GOOD BYES.

And the Train Would Not Wait for Them.

There was a mad old colored woman at the depot just after the train pulled out Monday evening, and as she wobbled her fat self off she was saying "Doan keer if she did git lef' Euybody fool enuf ter stop and tell eter' nigger in town gud by orter git lef' an I hope she'll git lef' nex' time, too."

This ebullition of wrath was directed at the old lady's daughter. The latter had gone to the depot with the intention to go away, and there she was in her best dike of feathers and mixed colors, a conglomeration of pot plants and other fixtures ready to depart in fine style. In keeping with the peculiar fad among the colored people when one of their number starts on such a trip there was the usual hundred or more gathered to see her off. The train rolled in and the hub-bub of good-byes started. Before she had got half around the crowd the train had pulled out and gone, and there stood the damsel still saying good-bye. Her disappointment was a foot thick when she saw the train disappear around the depot.

"Doan ketch me foolin' my time lak dat tellin' a thousan' niggers gud by," was the last muttering of the irate old woman as she passed out of hearing.

LITTLE FOR THE HOUSE

Pactolus, N. C., Aug. 6, 1906.

To the voters of Pitt county:

We the undersigned voters of Pactolus township, wish to again present to you as a candidate for the House of Representatives Mr. J. B. Little as a north side of the river man. His interest is here with us and he is here much of his time looking after the same, and we feel that he is much of north side man as any man now living on this side of the river. He has served the county twice as a legislator and we sure that his experience in that line better qualifies him to fill the place than before, and as residents of the north side of the river do most earnestly ask that he be again nominated on August 15, 1906 at the county convention of the Democrats of Pitt county.

THREE NEGROES LYNCHED.

Lyerly Murderers Taken by Mob from Salisbury Jail.

Charlotte, N. C., August 6.—A mob of three thousand determined men shortly before eleven o'clock tonight forcibly entered Rowan county jail at Salisbury, removed therefrom three of the six negroes charged with the murder of the Lyerly family at Barber's Junction July, 13th, and lynched them. Nease and John Gillespie, and Jack Dillingham, supposed to be the principals in that case, were the victims of mob vengeance.

The remaining negroes, Henry Lee, George Ervin and Bella Dillingham were not molested, and later tonight officers hurried them off to Greensboro.

The mob began gathering at sundown. Mayor Boyden promptly ordered the saloons closed and with other prominent citizens, United States Senator Overman, Judge Long who was holding the special term of court to try the negroes, and Solicitor Hammer, gathered on the jail steps and addressed the crowd which at that time numbered two thousand. There were howls and cat calls from the mob but for a time there was no movement. The mob tackled a leader.

While citizens were appealing to the mob, two men slipped through the crowd and were entering the jail with hammers. They were discovered and arrested. The mob continued yelling but there was still no concerted move.

About 9 o'clock Mayor Boyden called upon the local military company, the Rowan Rifles, for aid. They assembled quickly but were supplied only with blank cartridges, having no orders to shoot to kill.

Firemen McLendon, of Charlotte a Southern railway employe, was shot in the stomach, said to have been fired by a member of the mob. He was fatally wounded. Will Troutman, a negro drayman, was also seriously shot at about the same time.

Both are said to have been accidental, occasioned by shots fired by members of the mob with the evident intention of frightening citizens.

At 10 o'clock there was a stir in the mob—it was augmented by fully 500 men, who came, it is said from Whitney, where the Whitney Reduction Company is developing the Yadkin water power. It was soon afterward that a crowd of fifty, forming a sort of flying wedge, made a break for the jail doors, overpowered the officers and effected an entrance. The great crowd outside surged in behind the leaders and in a few moments more the leaders emerged from the door with their victims.

The negroes were quietly marched northward towards Spence, but a halt was made at Henderson's ball grounds, at the edge of the town. There the negroes were given time to confess the crime. They refused to either deny or confess, and were so thoroughly frightened as almost to have lost the power of speech. John Gillespie wept piteously and begged for his life.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Mr. Jefferson, of Farmville, in Fit of Temporary Insanity, Slashes His Throat.

People who returned to the city from Seven Springs this morning report the attempted suicide of a Mr. Jefferson, of Farmville section, Pitt county, Sunday. The attempt at self-destruction was made with a knife by Mr. Jefferson while in a state of temporary insanity. He slashed his throat right severely, but the efforts of two physicians saved the life of the man and he was doing very well today.

He was a guest at the hotel and made attempt on his life at the hotel stables. Jefferson is 32 years old.—Kinston Free Press, 6.

Terrible Disorder at Sea.

Cartagena, Spain, Aug. 5.—A terrible marine disaster occurred last evening off Cape Palos. The Italian steamship Sirio, from Genoa for Barcelona, Cadiz, Montevideo and Buenos Ayres with about 800 persons on board, was wrecked off Hormigas Island. Three hundred emigrants, most of them Italians and Spaniards, were drowned. The captain of the steamer committed suicide.

Mr. A. H. Critcher sent us five watermelons today. Nothing short about being remembered like that, and they will give the editor a birthday feast tomorrow.

THE PORCUPINE.

He is Noted Chiefly For His Sluggish-ness and Stupidity.

The porcupine can hardly be said to have a home, but he uses a hollow tree as a tenement, or even a hole among the rocks. As warm weather approaches the female produces two or three young, which are of amazing size at birth, actually larger than the newborn cubs of a bear.

Their flesh is eaten by the Indians, but has never been liked by white men. The use of the quills in ornamentation by our Indians is well known, robes, garments, moccasins, pouches, weapon cases, bac-kets and everything else being ornamented with them by the squaws with great skill and often with truly artistic effect; but, as usual, the earliest methods and patterns, when the Indians used their own delicate dyes and sinew threads, were much better than are seen in these days of aniline colors and crude imitations of the white man's art. The longer quills of the European porcupine are turned into fancy penholders, and in India and Malaya they weave little baskets, etc., out of them, which are often as pretty as they are strange.

Reviewing his narrow life, the strongest impression left upon one's mind seems to be that of the creature's sluggishness and stupidity.
These are perhaps concomitants, if not consequences, of its strictly vegeterian life, in which its tastes are so simple that it rarely seems to have to make the least exertion for food at any season of the year, and to its highly protected condition, which makes it careless of danger, and hence unvigilant and steadily inclined to sluggishness of mind as well as of body. It is not well for an animal to be too safe or too comfortable, for its mind grows rusty with disuse, or, if it never had use, lies inert, and the whole creature exists on a low plane. I do not know an animal of the American woods that is so well off and so uninteresting as the porcupine.—New York Post.

CONDENSED STORIES.

Lawyer Beat the Judge in a Contest of Wits.

Supreme Court Justice Dickey of Newburg enlivens the proceedings of his court terms with more jocular remarks to witnesses and lawyers than most other judges in this vicinity, says the New York Sun.
Usually the laugh is on the witness or the lawyer, but a young law-

"I DON'T LIKE CRABS EITHER," RETORTED THE LAWYER.

yer plodding cumbrously through an opening address to the jury turned the tables the other day.

"Why don't you tell us what this suit is about?" said Judge Dickey sharply. "You're beginning at the end and going backward like a crab.
I don't like crabs."

"I don't like crabs either," retorted the lawyer, not a bit disconcerted at the flitting that ensued. "As a matter of fact, I don't like any crus-tacean, and since your honor has opened the subject permit me to say that especially I don't like lobsters, and more especially I dislike them a la Newburg."

The trial proceeded to a conclusion without further reference to matters outside of the law and the evidence.

A Clever Equivalent.

Sir William Gull, the famous English physician, was once the victim of an amusing piece of repartee on the part of a fellow practitioner.
The occasion was a dinner party, at which several distinguished medical men were present.

The conversation happened to turn upon the subject of quackery, and Sir William Gull expressed his conviction that a certain amount of it was essential to success in practice, adding:

"It is an example of the old saying, 'Populus vult decipi' (People like to be deceived)."

"Quite so," said the host. "Now, can any one present give an English equivalent to that?"

"Nothing easier," dryly remarked another physician; "the public like to be 'gulled.'"

Try These Cures For Stings.

All sorts of stings, whether from bees, wasps, hornets or bumblebees, should be sucked to remove as much poison as possible; then have a slice of acid fruity apple, tomato or peach, or a crushed berry or grape, either ripe or green, bound lightly to the wound. If the pain is severe, after a minute take off the fruit, wash the sting in warm water and bathe it well in alcohol. Then wet a folded linen rag in either alcohol or vinegar, and bind on the sting.
If neither alcohol, vinegar or fruit of any sort is at hand, try a bruised plantain leaf. Change the application, whatever it is, every ten minutes until the pain subsides.

She'd Cut It.

Miss Elder—Well, I maintain that women can do anything that men can.
Mr. Gazam—Oh, no, the auctioner's business is one women cannot go into!
Miss Elder—Nonsense! She'd
make every bit as good an auctioneer as a man.
Mr. Gazam—Well, just imagine an unmarried woman setting up before a crowd and exclaiming, "Now, gentlemen, all I want is an offer!"

A Musical Surprise.

"I was in Johannesburg, South Africa, in 1895, about the time of the Jameson raid," said a theatric's man. "Funds I had none, and on account of the activity of the Boers we concert people saw little opportunity to make any. Finally I recruited a small company of those in the same predicament as myself, and we went to a town called Middieburg. There was no theater in the town, but I secured a small schoolhouse. It had no piano, so I went out to borrow one. I succeeded, but the big hearted piano man said I would have to get some one to move it. By this time I didn't have a cent and finally went to a magistrate in the country. I told him my troubles, and he promised me the "chaiagang." The prisoners were brought out, and they carried the piano to the schoolhouse. I had nothing to offer the men for their work, but announced a rehearsal to which they were invited to remain. The prisoners listened to the singing and at last, and finally one young flaxen haired chap asked me if he would be allowed to play. The poor fellow then sat down and played a nocturne from Chopin, and such playing I had never before heard.
The man was in for murder. His list of alleged crimes included three or four killings. But how he could play! Talent we find anywhere, but usually in the unexpected places."
—Kansas City Times.

Witty Theodore Hook.

Theodore Hook replied to someone who asked him to contribute to a society for the conversion of the heathen, "I have no money, but bring along your heathen, and I'll convert him."
It was Hook who watched with interest a friend trying to make a pig out of orange peel in imitation of one made by his neighbor at table.
When the imitator failed to accomplish this he apologized for his lack of skill and the many pieces of orange peel he had scattered on the table. "Oh, well," said Hook, "you haven't failed. Instead of a pig you have made a litter."
When somebody spoke to him of poverty as a virtue, "That's making a virtue of necessity," he retorted.

Side Lights on the French Census.

France does not take its censuses as seriously as this country, though some Parisian wits are now paying fines for the gayety of their answers to the enumerators' queries. Some towns and villages set about swelling their population. Marseilles and Lyons were jealous about the second place among French cities.
Whether they padded the returns or not does not appear, but Cassoulet-sur-Lot, a little town in the south, was anxious to bring its population up to 20,000, so that its magistrates would have their salaries increased by $125. As only a few score of people were wanted, the affair was comparatively easy. Cassoulet jail was made the workhouse of a whole district, but entry was obligatory, not permissible, for all the tramps in the neighborhood. This drafting of citizens was successful.

The Solemn Back Bay Butler.

Some Boston editor intimated that Back Bay butlers made love to the housemaids. One of them has replied in defense of his class, and incidentally he shows how far culture has got down the back stairs of Boston society. He writes:
"I do not flirt with any of the female members of the household, and it is no exaggeration to say that I am not better than the average butler of the Back Bay, so far as morals are concerned. I have educated my boy in France and England and am now giving him a postgraduate course at an American college. Our feelings have been hurt by the article to which I refer, and we have undergone a great deal of mental suffering from the annoyance unwittingly caused us."

After Two Months.

Bride—Are you sure you love me
as much as ever?
Bridegroom—Perfectly.
"And you will never, never love
any one else?"
"Never."
"And there isn't anything you would do to make me happy?"
"No, sir—that is, of course, nothing within the bounds of reason."
"Thank you, I thought so. Let me see that you are not the tire of me.
You've begun to reason."

PECULIAR BURIALS.

Odd Funeral Customs of the Eskimos of Labrador.

Labrador's dreary waste is peopled, generally speaking, by a few scattered tribes of Montagnais Indians, while its seaboard in the north is occupied by about 3,000 Eskimos. Each race has its peculiar burial customs, interesting if awesome. When a member of a community dies the Eskimos carry the body to the top of a hill near their settlement and there lay it, in a sitting posture, on the surface of the hard, flinty ground. Heavy stones are piled about it in the form of a cairn, completely covering it so that the wolves and bears may be unable to disturb the body. The male is buried with his weapons of the chase and the female with her domestic implements. After years, when the action of summer suns and winter snows has broken down the mound of stones, it is not uncommon for other natives to help themselves to the stone lamps, flint and ivory arrow and lance-heads and other articles of value to them which are found lying beside the bodies. But in every case some substitute, even if less valuable, is placed there instead of what has been removed.

It is the idea of the pagan Estimos that, though the spirit of the dead person has reached the other world and no longer needs the articles, the ghosts who attended on him in life have to be propitiated by keeping up the number of articles originally placed in the grave, even if the material of these is departed from. The Moravian missionaries humor the natives whom they have Christianized by practicing this habit of substitution, and a favorable article to place in the graves is a rusty razor. Many years ago some admirer of the mission sent out an enormous quantity of razors in the belief that they were in general use.
But the last thing one would contemplate doing on this coast in winter would be to use a razor. As no other use could be found for the razors, they have been devoted to this peculiar purpose, and so it is common to see in every Eskimo grave that has been opened an appliance which no old time Eskimo ever

ANCIENT SHOES.

The First Footwear Was Probably of Reeds or Skins.

Nobody knows who was the first shoemaker. There must have been a time when everybody went bare-footed, and the first shoes were probably made of woven reeds or skins. The original shoemaker doubtless sought comfort more than style.

The Celt, who at times wandered over moor or morass, at others over mountains, invented a shoe that suited his purpose exactly. A sole of heavy hides protected his feet from the sharp stones, while uppers or legs of lighter skins protected his ankles and legs from thorns and bushes. The buskin was so constructed that the water exuded from it as soon as the foot ceased to be immersed. In the modern shoe the idea is that water be kept out, not let out.

The Celtic buskin was tough and elastic and could be replaced wherever there were untanned skins at hand. Every Celt was his own shoemaker.

With the Norman conquest came the introduction into the British isles of tanned leather, which had long been in use in Normandy, where it had been introduced by the Romans.

Shoes then began to take on style, and the styles have never been duplicated in later days. From close fitting shoes fashion went to long, pointed toes, which in time grew so long that they had to be fastened to the wearer's knees.

Shoes were gorgeous affairs in the middle ages. King Richard, the lion hearted, had his boots stamped with gold. John Lackland, his brother, wore boots spotted with golden circles, while Henry III. wore boots checkered with golden lines, every square of which was enriched with a lion. Cardinal Wolsey's shoes were

Of gold and stone precious Costing many a thousand pounds.

Sir Walter Raleigh wore shoes studded with diamonds said to have cost £80,000. The gallants in Charles II.'s time wore their high boot tops turned down to the ankles, to show the gorgeous lace with which they were lined.—Indianapolis News.

Looked the Same to Him.

A well known author, who was recently exploring a remote part of the east end of London, found himself beset by the pangs of hunger. Entering a small restaurant of somewhat doubtful aspect, he ordered a nutou chop. The waiter after a long delay returned bearing a plate on which reposed a dab of mashed potatoes and a much overdone chop of microscopic proportions and with a remarkably long and slender rib attached. Clapping this down briskly before the famished author, the waiter started off to attend to another customer without further ceremony.

"I say," shouted the author, "I ordered a chop."

"Yes, sir," answered the man: "there it is."

"Oh, beg pardon—that's true," returned the author, peering at it closely. "I thought it was a crack in the plate."—Pearson's Weekly.

Day and Night Doctors.

Physicians in Germany propose to divide the day and night between them. They object to being subject to the call of their patients at any hour of the twenty-four. The patient is not to be left in the lurch, however. His opportunity to spend his money on medical attendance is not to be curtailed. The German doctors propose, as a matter of simple justice to themselves, a day of twelve hours. This means night and day shifts, and as doctors need rest the same as all other human beings and can do their best work only when they have it, the change proposed seems to be as clearly in the lay interest as in that of the profession.

Oxen in the South.

The ox is essentially the moving power of the lumber world in the south in spite of the fact that every big mill throughout that section owns and operates from twenty to thirty-five miles of railway, where-with the logs are brought in. A yoke of oxen, work animals, is worth $100; the yoke itself, with bows and all appurtenances, $250, and then there are to be added about forty feet of two inch chain, a cart hook and a good ax. Five yoke constitute a team, and on a good road, with a good team, using a modern up to date wheel wagon, one can haul seven tons, 14,000 pounds.

DON'T ADVERTISE WHISKEY.

The Kinston Free Press is also in the class of newspapers that do not publish whiskey advertisements. In speaking of the matter that paper gives some excellent reasons for its position. It says:

"We doubt not that a large number of other papers could be added. The Free Press does not nor never will publish whiskey advertisements, or any other advertisements that it deems calculated to injure the home.

"We recognize the value of advertising, and its efficiency in putting an idea before the public and if we are sure that the advertisement will make the home poorer and unhappier, as is the case with whiskey, the same will not find a place in our columns. It seems to us that in publishing a whiskey advertisement the publisher either does not believe his paper will do what it purports to do, viz carry the advertised article into the home; or that he thinks carrying the article into the home no damage will be done; or that he is willing to place the home secondary to the appetites of its head or some other member thereof.

"The proper conception of the value of newspaper advertising will not permit the publisher, if he values the home, to invade it with an advertisement whereby an evil influence is likely to cross the threshold."

Cheatham denied it easy enough that he was dealing in futures, but he was "caught with the goods."

The local candidate who fails to hustle this week need not trouble much to do so next week

This weather is hot enough to thaw Thaw or any other iceberg.

Tom Watson of Georgia has returned to the Democratic fold and is welcomed as all honest voters are. With the Democrats successfully forcing reforms on an unwilling congress, there is no need for a third party. There are thousands of Tom Watsons in every state who have doubtless come to the same conclusion that he has, that it is the duty of all reformers to array themselves under the Democrat and aid in the defeat of those whose only slogan is "Vote for the hat."

Flora—You many anxious to hear of Mr. mine who is on his trip to South Africa.
Dora—Yes.
Flora—Well, I've letter from her, and all "We had a beautiful trip to Florida." All the rest of man she had met on board of the Free Press.

THE SWEET VOICES OF THE SINGERS

And the entrancing Melodies of the Music, that flow from the Edison Phonograph, should be placed within the reach of your wives and children.

MUSIC breaks the discords of a busy day, tranquilizes the fretful mind, soothes the pain of the sick and afflicted, and is the delight of all.

THE EDISON PHONOGRAPH makes it possible to get the best, whether it be from the Orchestra, the Military Band, the Solo, duet or the Quartette. It places in your home that for which the multitudes in the cities pay large sums to hear, and for which you pay the cost of a record.

Do you envy your city friend who is always able to sing the latest music, and who can tell off-hand the name of every popular air? why should not keep up with the musical world as well as the social political affairs of the nations? It costs no more.

TO prospective purchasers, we would take a delight in exhibiting the Edison Phonograph at your homes. Ask us about prices and terms.

If you have never heard it, you don't know what a treat awaits you at

The New York Republicans seem dependent upon what the Democrats will do, before deciding upon a candidate for governor. If the Democrats nominate a strong man, the Republicans will nominate Mr Hughs, if the Democrats split or nominate a weak candidate, the Platt-Odell people will put up one of their "yellow dogs." The responsibility therefore is on the shoulders of the Democrats for decent nomination by both parties and no doubt they will be equal to the occasion.

If you want the people's trade better let The Reflector help you get it. They all read this paper.

WARNINGS OF NATURE.

Signals of Safety and Danger That Men Should Heed.

For those who have eyes to see them kindly Nature hangs out signs of all kinds. She only asks that men will use their eyes, says Pearson's Weekly.

For instance, what is called the tow country of the northern Transvaal is partly healthy, partly feverish. In one spot you may camp in safety for a month; in another, not a mile away, the dreaded fever will seize you in a single night.

So, too, in Florida when a hunter is traversing the immense swamps—"hammocks," as they are called—which cover huge tracts in the southern part of that state, he searches for a spot where pine trees rear their tall heads among the cypresses and gums.

Many an Australian explorer has been saved from a horrible death by thirst because he has known the water mallee. This tree, though it may stand in the middle of a burning desert, invariably has water below the surface.

The Mississippi storm of 1734, which is generally supposed to have been the worst gale that has ever been recorded and the result of which was to wipe out nearly ninety settlements, flooded 10,000 square miles of land and permanently change the course of the great river.

Badly Out of Shape.

Eight-year-old Robert is very fond of using high sounding phrases, which he gleans from the conversation of grownups and stores in his mind until a suitable occasion arrives when he may spring them upon an admiring audience.

At breakfast he had heard his father read an extract from the morning paper, the phraseology of which had impressed itself upon his memory, as was evidenced by the announcement he made on his return from school.

"Mother," he said, "a poor pussy cat was run over by the Amsterdam avenue cars, and what do you think? It was crushed out of all likeness to humanity."—New York Press.

Why the Earth is Round.

It seems as if text books for children were now made so simple as to leave hardly any chance for misunderstanding, but the little folks still continue to commit to memory the words without much thought of their meaning.

A Brave and Simple "No."

An American naval captain was asked why, with his ship in extremity and the waves washing men overboard, he had suddenly hauled down his flag of distress.

A Washington Joke. Some Washington jokers played a cruel practical joke on the editor of an eastern magazine. In the July number a letter commending recently printed "Treason of the Senate" articles is prominently displayed.

A Cynical View of Woman. Arthur Symons seems to have been attacked with the Bernard Shaw microbe. In a recent book he writes of a woman in whom he seems to be intensely interested.

Ambitious Newsboys. The Boston Newsboys, a protective union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, has voted to send one of its members to Harvard university in the fall.

To Test Coffee. Adulteration in coffee may be detected by adding to a tumblerful of cold water some of the ground coffee. Genuine coffee will float and not give a distinct color to the water for several minutes.

WARNINGS OF NATURE.

Signals of Safety and Danger That Men Should Heed.

For those who have eyes to see them kindly Nature hangs out signs of all kinds. She only asks that men will use their eyes, says Pearson's Weekly. If they can and do so, she will never betray them. She has both good and bad signs, which are as plain in their way as red or green lights to a railway engine driver.

For instance, what is called the low country of the northern Transvaal is partly healthy, partly feverish. In one spot you may camp in safety for a month; in another, not a mile away, the dreaded fever will seize you in a single night. To uneducated eyes there seems little or no difference in the outward aspect of the two places, but your old prospector is never caught camping on fever ground. He knows the fever tree too well. The fever tree is an odd and sinister looking piece of vegetation, with twisted, greenish trunk and branches, and grows only in those spots where fever mist hangs at nightfall.

So, too, in Florida when a hunter is traversing the immense swamps—"umucks," as they are called—which cover huge tracts in the southern part of that state, he searches for a spot where pine trees rear their tall heads among the cypresses and gums. There he can camp and sleep in safety, though to spend a night but a few hundred yards away from the pines might mean a bone-racking dose of ague.

Many an Australian explorer has been saved from a horrible death by thirst because he has known the water mallee. This tree, though it may stand in the midst of a burning desert, invariably tells of water below the surface. If the traveler is not too far gone to dig he will find the precious fluid below the mallee's roots.

The Mississippi storm of 1781, which is generally supposed to have been the worst gale that has ever been recorded and the result of which was to wipe out nearly twenty settlements, flood 10,000 square miles of land and permanently change the course of the great river, was preceded by a strange and at the same time inexplicable moaning sound, which went on for three days and seemed to come from the upper air, although below all was still. The Indians heard it and left for the high ground; the whites heard it, stayed where they were and were drowned.

To Relieve Thirst.

It is noticed that pure cold water, even when iced, does not relieve thirst as well as when something is added. Lemonade, toast water, barley water or apple tea is often better for relieving feverish thirst and sometimes are valuable because they have a slight amount of nourishment. Do not drink a drop of water that has stood in a bedroom overnight, because it has absorbed the poison exhaled by the body.

DEPARTMENT STORES

The wearing of a shoe is the only true test. Buy a pair of "Dorothy Dodd" and you will be surprised at their snug faultless fit, at the lightness they impart to your gait, at their handsome shapely appearance, and distinctive style. You will no longer feel that drag to your step, that dead weight, that tired feeling.

There is no article of dress that can thwart a woman's pleasure with her pleasure, or irritate her mind like an ill-fitting shoe. Wear a "Dorothy Dodd" and forget your foot troubles.
