Handsome Monument.

A handsome monument has been erected at the grave of the late Mr. Alfred Forbes, in Cherry Hill cemetery. It is of polished granite surmounted with an urn and is a beautiful piece of monumental work.

THE WEATHER.

Local rains tonight and Sunday.

If every good tobacco sale day would bring as many farmers in to get Reflector receipts as came Friday we would be very glad.

Primaries are being held in every township of the county this afternoon to select delegates to the county convention next Wednesday.

Croakers and Boosters

A croaker is a curse to any community. The man who stands around and continually prophesies the downfall of his community and its utter lack of prosperity, is not one of its constructive forces. We all need to cultivate the high art of looking on the bright side of things and of helping to make things bright. Those who continually say that the town or community is a dead place, themselves help to kill it. No town can stand such talk as this if it is kept up for any length of time. The "booster" is what this and all other cities need—the man who looks to the future with a confident and eager eye, expecting large things and determined to help bring them to pass. He puts his shoulder to the wheel and gives a good, honest shove, waisting no time in vain babblings or dire croakings of ruin. Give us more boosters.

Town Statement.

Monday The Reflector began publishing in installments the financial statement of the town for his last fiscal year. Today it is sent out complete as a supplement. This statement will be especially interesting to the people of the town, as it shows what revenues are collected out of them and just how the money is expended.

Did you ever stop to reflect that it was one thing to talk about people and another thing to have people talk about you? If those of us who use our tongues a little too freely, about our neighbors, would stop and reflect about this matter and know the great evil that comes from too much gossip and tattling, we are sure we would call a halt and gossip no more forever.—Louisburg Times.

Here's a Chance.

Now that the day electric current can be had, somebody ought to get a portable wood saw. It would be a money making venture the coming winter as well as save housekeepers much annoyance in getting their wood cut.

NEGRO WANTED FOR SHOOTING IN PITT CAPTURED HERE.

Police Howland captured Spicey remen at one of the warehouses hursday morning at 3 o'clock, while the latter was asleep, and turned him over to Deputy Sheriff Cox, of Pitt, to take back there to answer to the charge of shooting a man there last Christmas. Since the shooting Bremen has been a fugitive from justice and Deputy Cox got wind of his being here. A search was made in the early part of the night, at all the places where negroes are likely to board, but Bremen was not located. Police Howland, who is on the night line, suggested a round of the warehouses and when he went into the Farmers his attention was attracted to some hogsheads placed around in a circle. Looking over he saw a man asleep and struck a match. This aroused the man and when questioned immediately upon awaking he gave his right name—Kinston Free Press, 10th.

One Lyncher Convicted.

Salisbury, N. C., Aug. 10.—George Hall of Montgomery county charged with being one of the leaders in the lynching here Monday night, was tried in Rowan Superior Court here today and sentenced to fifteen years in prison on the maximum of the law.

This was the first case against the Rowan lynchers. The trial was a speedy one, and it is the first instance in the history of the State, when a prisoner charged with aiding in a lynching was convicted, and it is considered a distinct victory for the court and the law.

Funeral.

The remains of Lyman Edwards son of Mr. H. C. Edwards, who died Friday morning at the home of his grandfather Mr. R. H. Garris, near Ayden, were brought to Greenville this morning. W. Tucker and T. R. Moore.

Death of Editor McCullen.

Morehead City, N. C., Aug. 10.—B. F. McCullen, editor of the Coaster, a weekly newspaper, died here this morning. He had been in bad health for the past month, but did not give up until Monday. The funeral was held this afternoon at the M. E. church. The interment was in Bayview cemetery, this city.

Postoffice Robbed.

Paint Rock, N. C., August 10.—Someone entered the store of G. B. Hall at this place last night by forcing open a rear window with an axe taken from a nearby yard. The postoffice located in the same building is the heavier loser. All the money in it at that time, about $12, was taken.

Two guns and a pair of shies were taken from the store, but the money drawer was overlooked. Bloodhounds have been sent for with a view of tracking the thief or thieves.

During the hot weather of the summer months the first unnatural looseness of a child's bowels should have immediate attention, so as to check the disease before it becomes serious. All that is necessary is a few doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy followed by a dose of castor oil to cleanse the system. Rev. M. H. Stockland, pastor of the First M. E. Church, Little Falls, Minn., writes: "We have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for several years and find it a very valuable remedy, especially for summer disorders in children." "Make Hay While the Sun Shines"
There is a lesson in the work of the thrifty farmer. He knows that the bright sunshine may last but a day and he prepares for the snows which are so liable to follow. So it should be with every household. Dysentery, diarrhoea and cholera mucus attack some member of the home without warning. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which is the best known medicine for these diseases, should always be kept at hand, as immediate treatment is necessary, and delay may prove fatal. ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

Homemade Cement For Mending Broken Glassware.

The best kind of glue for clear glass is made from a solution of two ounces of isinglass and half a pint of gin poured into an open mouthed bottle and set in the sun until it dissolves. It should be shaken well every day and before being used should be strained through a clean lawn cloth. When ready for the gluing the broken glass pieces should be well washed in hot suds, especially on the edges, dried, and then with a small camel's hair brush the cement should be put on the edges of both pieces, and when they are nicely fitted together rubber bands or clean strips of cloth should be bandaged tightly around them to hold the edges well together until the glue dries. If the cement has been properly made the break should really not be visible when dry, for the reason many cracks look jagged when mended is because the edges have not been well joined and, bubbles of air getting in, reflect the light, making the ragged, broken lines glaringly apparent.—Boston Traveler.

Care of Linoleum.
To keep linoleum nicely have a pint bottle, in it put a quarter of a pint of turpentine and three-quarters of a pint of linseed oil; mix both together thoroughly and always shake the bottle before using. Apply a very little of this to the linoleum and rub it in thoroughly. Then polish with dry, clean dusters. Constantly wash out the cloth used for applying the oil or there will be no polish. Never wash linoleum. If it gets dirty, rub it over with a damp flannel only.

Polish For Steel.
One tablespoonful of turpentine, one tablespoonful of sweet oil; mix the turpentine and sweet oil together, stirring in sufficient emery powder to make the mixture of the thickness of cream. Put it on the article with a piece of soft flannel, rub off quickly with another piece, then polish with a little emery powder and clean leather.

Jas F Davenport,

CATS AND DOGS.

Moods, Tempers and Natures of the Canines and Felines.
Cats do not take punishment as dogs do. Their tempers rise, and if struck they are apt to strike back, but beyond a gentle cuff to a kitten now and then I find a scolding or an exclamation of rebuke enough. They are also less intelligent and forgiving than a dog if unintentionally kicked or trodden on. There is no more beautiful expression in a dog's face than the look he turns to the friend who has involuntarily hurt him before there is time to explain. His whole demeanor expresses the highest magnanimity, not only the foregone pardon, but the eager desire that the offender shall think no more of the matter.

In many respects cats are more like men and women than dogs are. They have moods, and their nature is complex. A dog is very much of a piece. He is a good dog or a bad dog, brave or cowardly, honest or a sneak. The canine intelligence is much higher than the feline, but the disposition is simpler.

Cats are exceedingly irritable by temperament, sensitive to changes of the weather, to frost, to thunder. They are excitable and naturally disposed to bite and scratch when at play. There is a curious tendency in them, as in all balanced or over-strang human beings, to lose their heads when in high spirits, and the self command most of them show when full grown in resisting these impulses is a striking proof of conscious responsibility. A full grown pet cat scarcely ever scratches a young child, no matter how much mauled by it. Besides being irritable cats are moody and subject to depression, probably a physical reaction from the former condition.

With one exception all the cats I have known are captious. Their instinct when ill or sad is to be alone, but this is entirely neutralized by petting. They become as dependent on caresses and sympathy as children and much wiser than children when they are ill or injured, as they apply for relief with the most unmistakable suggestions, sometimes indicating plainly where they are in pain and presenting the suffering member for treatment. They are not so patient as dogs in taking medicine or submitting to surgical care, but show their recognition of its benefit by coming back for it under similar circumstances.—Temple Bar.

To Soften the Hands.
To make a mixture for the hands take equal parts of rosewater and glycerin, mix while warm and keep firmly corked. The bottle should be shaken before using. If the hands are rough it is best to put two-thirds of glycerin to one of rosewater. Rub well over the hands after washing and before retiring for the night.

Pickled Nasturtium Seed.
After the flower has dried from the nasturtium plant lay the seed in salt and water for two days; then drain and lay in fresh cold water. Drain and pack in jars. Bring vinegar to the boiling point and season it with mace and peppercorns and a little white sugar. Fill jars to overflowing and seal.

Flowers In Rooms.
Growing plants and cut flowers in profusion should never be permitted in bedrooms, for these exhaust the air which is required by the sleeper. Many a headache or attack of nausea in the morning may be accounted for by plants and flowers being allowed to remain in the room all night.

Ginger Beer.
Pour a gallon of boiling water on one pound of loaf sugar, half an ounce of ginger and one ounce of cream of tartar. When nearly cold add a tablespoonful of yeast. Strain, bottle, and in six hours it will be ready for use. If root ginger is used, boil it in the water for twenty minutes.

Treatment For a Cold.
When suffering from a cold avoid eating much solid food. Take soft foods, such as bread and milk, farinaceous puddings and soups; also warm drinks to produce perspiration, such as gruel, tea and cocoa. Coffee should be avoided for a few days.

Healthful Mouth Wash.
Tincture of myrrh should be used frequently as a mouth wash. It helps greatly to harden the gums and sweeten the breath, besides keeping the teeth healthy. The mouth wash should always be used at night and again in the morning.

Orange Frosting.
One large orange (juice and rind), the yolks of two eggs beaten to a froth and powdered sugar, enough to spread nicely.

A HUMOROUS PATIENT.

Surgery has much to gain from spinal cocainization, says Robert Jones, a Liverpool surgeon, in the Medical Press. He advocates this process in cases where patients cannot or will not take other anaesthetics. The resulting insensibility to pain lasts more than an hour, but the patient often develops abnormal loquacity.

Mr. Jones tells of an operation in which he cocainized the spine. It was that of a big man, who as soon as he had taken two or three whiffs of chloroform jumped off the operating table and scampered away. This happened twice, and Mr. Jones tried cocainization, injecting cocaine into the cerebro spinal fluid. By this means a troublesome operation of cutting out bones in the leg was safely carried out. The man, an old porcher, meantime regaled the doctors with stories of his art, only once interrupting, when the surgeon was chiseling a bone, to ask, "What is that knocking?"—London Mail.

Fall of the Bicycle.

In one of the principal streets, where the tide of commerce flows strong, the sign "Bicycles Stored" stands out from the wall of a building where bicycles were much stored eight years ago. "Yes," said a man in charge, "there was a time when we kept the wheels of business men and clerks during the day, and it was a paying thing too. Our regular customers paid us by the month, and there were over 200 of them. Then every day we took care of the wheels of from twenty to fifty transients. How many do we have now? None—exactly none. The men who rode on bicycles to and from their offices never ride wheels downtown and, so far as that goes, rarely ride at all. It's all off; nothing doing."—Philadelphia Record.

Training to Be a "Laird."

Coley Carnegie, youngest son of the late Thomas Carnegie and nephew of Andrew Carnegie, has gone into heavy training for the lairdship of Skibo. Uncle Andrew desires a male heir to take up the line and head the house of Carnegie on the other side of the big pond. The present laird of Skibo some years ago said, after the chronicle of an escapade of one of his kin, "There is not a male of the name of Carnegie fit for fish bait." Two years ago Uncle Andrew decided, however, there was good timber in his nephew. "If Coley will straighten up," Andrew Carnegie announced, "I will take him to Scotland and make a real laird of the boy."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Scotch Law.

The young man who goeth a-walking at eventide with his lady love and afterward findeth his purse depleted by the temptations of sundry ice cream shops will hear with delight that in Glasgow, Scotland, there is a law prescribing early closing hours for ice cream shops, for violation of which a number of persons were recently heavily fined.

The Glasgow law provides that any person who keeps or uses any house, building, part of a building or other premises as an ice cream shop shall not keep such premises open except during the hours between 7 o'clock in the morning and 10 o'clock at night on any day.

The Gardener's Victim.

William James Connors, the Buffalo newspaper proprietor and freight contractor, has a beautiful home out on the edge of the city. His house is surrounded by many acres of lawn. A year or so ago his gardener planted foliage plants on a slope of the lawn in great letters that spelled "William James Connors." "Dear me!" said one of the social leaders of the town as she was driving by, peering through her lorgnette, "the poor man must think he is a railroad station."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Titled American Women.

A remarkable list, collected for the first time, shows that American women have, within a few years, gained twenty-three titles by marriages into English families, twenty-six German titles, fourteen French, seventeen Italian and six Russian. It is further estimated that 160 American heiresses have taken to Europe in dowries no less than $30,000,000, or an average of $187,500 each. In Great Britain the American wives of British husbands help to control about 2,000,000 acres of land.

Saved His Comrades Life.

"While returning from the Grand Army Encampment at Washington City, a comrade from Elgin, Ill., was taken with Cholera Morbus and was in a critical condition," says Mr. J. E. Houghland, of Elgin, Iowa. I gave him Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and believe saved his life. I have been engaged ten years in immigration work and conducted many parties to the south and west. I always carry this remedy and have used it successfully on many occasions. Sold by J. L. Wooten.

Modest Claims Often Carry the Most

Conviction.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by J. L. Wooten.

NOTICE.

On account of disagreement between my partner, L. I. Moore, and myself concerning the accounting for fees, commission, &c. belonging to the firm I declined to continue the partnership, and Mr. Moore assented to a separation, which actually took place on July the 17th, 1906.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 11, 1906

One by one the good things come to Greenville. Something else will soon follow the day electric current.

The Kentucky idea might be a good one to head off lynchings. In that State a negro charged with criminal assault was put on trial, convicted, sentenced and executed in fifty two minutes. That was quicker than a mob could have formed, broken in the jail, taken the prisoner out and lynched him.

The Reflector has been told in confidence that Greenville stands a good chance of securing an enterprise within the next year that will mean a good deal to the town, and perhaps be worth more as a trade bringer than anything that has ever been located here. We are not permitted yet to give particulars, but it is in order to urge the business men to hurry up with the organization of a chamber of commerce and be in position to use every effort to secure the enterprise when the movement starts. There will be competition with other towns for this enterprise, and in order to win Greenville must make her best united effort.

It is real kind in the Charlotte Observer's staff correspondent to let Salisbury down so easy from the recent lynching there. The correspondent says that many reports sent out since the affair occurred have been very unjust to the town. From a reading of the letter one can almost conclude that only four men took any part in the lynching. These four have been arrested and have been described as pretty tough cases and about as big cowards as the world produces. That lynching was quite a gigantic undertaking for four cowards. The first reports of the lynching said two or three thousand people were in the mob. The Observer correspondent says the sheriff, the solicitor and a United States senator all faced the approaching mob and could not recognize a man in all the crowd save one of the four who has been arrested. On this Salisbury can prove an alibi. The four arrested on the charge of participation in the lynching and any others who can be proven guilty, ought to be punished.

They are carrying the thing too far in Missouri; and it shows the danger to which lynching will lead. Some time ago three negroes were lynched by a mob in that state. A trial of parties charged with engaging in the crime is now in progress. An anonymous letter has been sent to Governor Folk threatening that if either of the parties on trial is convicted a rope will be in readiness for every member of the jury and also for the governor.

It makes us want to cuss every time we read that some fellow who has got into trouble that is more or less disgraceful tells that he is a son or brother or nephew or cousin or bears some other relation to some prominent citizen. This very often humiliates the prominent relative and should never excuse the fellow for any misconduct. The fact that he has such a kinship and will disgrace it makes us think less of him. However, we notice a lot of them blurt it out first thing.—Lumberton Robsonian.

All of which is evidence that Mr. Bryant carried his good sense with him when he emigrated to Robeson county. Of all the people on earth that make the Landmark tired utterly, it is the class who harp on family connection. Good family connection is desirable is honorable. But the thing is what you are. It makes no difference, if you have all the royal blood in your veins, if you are worthless the connection is only discreditable to you in that you have failed to live up to it; and if your connection is bad and you have lived honorable, sensible people will give you the more credit for rising above your surroundings. In about 99 per cent. of the cases, the people who harp and harp on family connection are themselves a standing disgrace to their connection—generally not worth the powder and lead it would take to kill them.—Statesville Landmark.

We may have told it before, but the above reminds us that many years ago at a large gathering in a certain North Carolina town there was a young man so beastly drunk as to be reeling all about the streets in the throng. In his maudlin talk he was heard to boast "I am Chief Justice Blank's son." The father was a gentleman of high character and an honor to his State but the son was a disgrace to himself and no doubt brought the blush of shame to the face of his honored father.

CHRISTMAN'S OINTMENT

For all Skin Diseases on Man or Beast.

This Ointment has been used nearly two hundred years with the most wonderful success in the treatment of nearly every form of Skin disease, and in many instances, it has effected cures where other remedies had failed. While we do not claim that this Ointment will cure everything, we say a fair trial will convince any reasonable person that it is equal to any, and superior to most of the remedies for skin diseases on the market. This Ointment is made by the Christman Ointment Co. Greenville, N. C. and is for sale by druggists at 25 and 50 cts per bottle.

With Something to Sell.

When one has something to sell the way to get a purchaser is to buy publicity. It makes no difference how good an article is, whether it be merchandise or machinery, its continued success must come through advertising. Newspaper advertising is always the basis of prosperity, the medium through which public attention is most readily attracted.

Signs and circulars are but extravagant monstrosities. They offend rather than interest possible purchasers. When a man buys a newspaper it is with the knowledge that it contains advertising. When he buys a railroad ticket his trust is that the road will not be lined with hideous billboards. Finding them he confines himself to his paper and reads everything including advertisements.—News Letter.

The Man Ahead.

In every newspaper we pick up we're sure to find a lot of gush about the man behind the counter and the man behind the gun; the man behind the buzz saw and the man behind the son; the man behind the times and the man behind his rents; the man behind the plowshare and the man behind the fence; the man behind the whistle and the man behind the cars; the man behind the kodak and the man behind the bars; the man behind his whiskers and the man behind his fists; and everything behind has entered on the list. But they've skipped another fellow of whom nothing has been said—the fellow who is even, or a little way ahead; who pays his own subscription in advance and always has a cheerful word for the paper. We take off our hat to the man who's ahead. Ex.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

Spiders Are Intelligent Insects—How They Spin Webs.

Spiders are not only among the most poisonous insects, but they are seemingly the most intelligent. There are very many varieties of them. They have eight legs and generally eight eyes. Some say they can be educated. They display wonderful strategy in trapping and carrying off their prey and in building their nests. The silk they spin is formed by an apparatus situated in the back part of the undersurface of their bodies, which consists of several vessels twisted together and ending in very little openings (so small they have to be seen with a microscope) at the end of the tail. The gluey matter thrown out by these pores hardens in the air, forming threads of the finest description. It takes many of these to form a single strand of a spider's web. Different spiders have different colored webs. A Mexican spider has a beautiful web of red, yellow and black threads. It is said that 10,000 threads of a common garden spider would not be as thick as a single human hair, while others form threads so strong they will catch birds.

What is an American?

The term American is used to designate, specifically, a citizen of the United States; and yet some strict constructionists hold that it might just as reasonably be applied to citizens of South America or of Central America, as they are Americans too. And they say the same of the two countries. To call the United States America, however, and its citizens Americans is so well established as a custom that the terms would not be understood if you used them in any other way. There has been some discussion of this question recently looking to the selection of a better specific term for citizens of the United States, but it is not likely that a change will ever be made.

Celluloid Not Explosive.

There is a widespread belief that celluloid is explosive, but it is not, in spite of the fact that it is made largely of gun cotton. The material is the cellulose of cotton cloth, or raw cotton, which is treated to a weak solution of nitric acid. This has the effect of making a cotton pulp much like paper pulp. The acid is then washed out by a water bath, and after the pulp has been partially dried gum camphor is mixed with it. The final step is to roll it into sheets and dry it on hot cylinders, when it is ready for the market. Steam softens it, but it hardens again when dry. If flame be applied to it it will burn about like sealing wax.

An Unlucky Bungle.
On the 21st of December, 1885, Admiral Dundas gave up the command of the fleet and returned to England. He was succeeded by Admiral Lyons, between whom and Dundas a signal parting took place which will long be remembered as a standing joke in the navy.

As Admiral Dundas left the fleet at Kamiesch the crews of both English and French ships manned the yards and gave him a parting cheer. At the same moment, by the desire of Dundas, a signal was run up to Sir E. Lyons on board the Agamemnon, "May success attend you," to which Sir E. Lyons ordered to be hoisted in reply, "May happiness await you."

But though in real life hanging and happiness are generally considered to have no very close connection, yet in the signal code they are very much alike. Unfortunately, in the hurry to reply to Admiral Dundas, the flag for the former instead of the latter word was hoisted, and what was worse the stupid blunder was not discovered and hauled down till the whole fleet had seen and read it.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Good Excuse.
An officer of a certain regiment was one morning inspecting his company on parade when he came to an Irishman who had evidently not shaved for some days. Halting in front of the man, he said, "Doyle, how is it you have not shaved this morning?"

"O! have, sorr," was the reply.
"How dare you tell me that," said the officer, "with a beard on you like that?"
"Well, sorr," said Paddy, "it's loike this: There's only one shaving glass in our room, and there was nine of us shaving at the same time, and maybe O! shaved some other chap's face."—Pearson's Weekly.

A Step Saver.
When Mrs. Flatleigh chose the refrigerator with the mirror in the front door of it Flatleigh laughed.
"Of course," exclaimed Mrs. Flatleigh, bridling at once, "a man has no interest in saving his wife's steps."
"Steps, my"—
"But possibly he can appreciate the advantage of her being able to get dinner half again quicker through not having to run to some other part of the house every time she wonders how her hair is looking or her apron behind or something!"

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

Miss Smith's New Hat and What Became of It.

A certain good natured doctor whose doorbell rang late one night, supposing that the summons was from one who needed his services, rose from bed, put on his dressing gown and went down to the door.

A young man stood there holding a huge package, from which buds and leaves were protruding.

"Is Miss Smith in?" asked the man.

"She has retired," answered the doctor. Miss Smith was his cook.

"I am sorry, sir, to call so late. Something went wrong with the car I was in. I'll leave this for her, if you will kindly give it to her in the morning."

"Certainly," said the doctor. He took the bundle carefully, closed the door and carried the flowers into the kitchen. There he placed a dishpan in the sink, drew a few inches of water in it, carefully pressed the base of the package into the water and went back to bed, thinking how pleased the cook would be.

The next morning he went into the kitchen early to find the cook holding a dripping bundle. Her manner was belligerent, and her tone was in keeping with it.

"If I had the pussons wot did this," said she, "I'd empty the kettle on them! I'd let them see if they could put my new hat in a dishpan, I would!"

The doctor left the kitchen somewhat hurriedly, and not until he was safe in his study did he give vent to the laughter which was consuming him.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Game of Fish Pond.

The pond is a portion of the table bounded by a slip-noose, and the fishes are the fingers of the players. The noose is fastened to a rod held by the fisherman. At an unexpected moment the fisherman cries, "Out of the pond," and at the same instant raises the rod quickly, thus drawing up the noose and catching such fish as have not been nimble enough to escape to dry land. The captured fish must pay forfeits to be released.

An Impossible Feat.

Boys and girls may not know that it is impossible to stand sideways against a wall with the left cheek, left heel and left leg touching it and then raise the right leg. Try this, and you will have a good deal of amusement out of it.

Camping Out.

Last summer we went
To live in a tent,
My father and mother and I,
And when I would choose
To take off my shoes
I could made in the stream close by.

At night in the dark
I would lie still and hark
To the frogs that were croaking so near,
And all the day long
I could hear the sweet song
Of the birds singing out their good cheer.

Our breakfast we ate
At half after eight
On a cloth spread out on the ground.
We had little fishes
In birch bark dishes,
And wild sweet berries I found.

One evening I heard
A remarkable bird
Singing high in a hickory tree,
And its song was, "Who, who!"
And I said: "I know you.
I am Tommy K. Jinks. Don't you know me?"

A Rustic Critic.

One day while Millais was engaged in painting his famous picture, "Chill October," among the reeds and rushes on the banks of the Tay, near Perth, a voice came from over the hedge:

"Man, did ye never try photog-raphy?"

"No, never," replied Millais, painting slowly.

A pause.

"It's a hantle quicker," said the voice.

"Ye-es, I suppose so."

Another pause. The final thrust was:

"An' it's ma'r liker the place."

A Poor Passport.

A sheriff of Edinburgh had forgotten his twopenny ticket. Asked for fare, he said, "I have paid it." "Then where's your ticket?" "I have lost it." "Then you must pay again." "Come, now, my friend," said the sheriff, "just look into my face and tell me do I look like a man who would tell you a lie for such a trifle as twopenny?" The cash taker inspected the countenance thus offered as a guarantee for its owner's integrity and then dryly said, "I'll just thank you for the twopenny."

Ascertaining Himself.

"I'm anxious to get the names of all present," said the reporter. "Will you oblige me?"

"Oh," said the meek little man, "you may put down Mrs. Henry Peck and husband."

"You mean Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peck, don't you?"

"I would prefer that," he replied, with a furtive glance over his shoulder, "but for goodness' sake don't say I gave it to you that way."

City and Country Women.

"The city woman who belongs to what is called the middle economic class gets more outdoor life and develops better physically than does the country bred woman of the same financial condition," said Professor Graham Taylor at the Institute of Social Science. "The woman in the country lives much more time indoors than is commonly supposed."—Chicago Chronicle.

Turning the Tables.

"A Fort Dodge physician, a Dr. Pitcoe," said an Iowa man, "once had a grave dug for a patient, supposed to be dying, who afterward recovered, and over this error of judgment the doctor was joked for many years. Once he attended, in consultation with three conferees, another patient. This patient really died. After the death, as the physicians discussed the case together, one of them said:

"Since quick burial is necessary, we might inter the body temporarily. I understand our brother here has a vacant grave on hand."

"Dr. Pitcoe smiled.
"Yes," he said, "I believe I am the only physician present whose graves are not all filled."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Spider Tree.

In the country about Cape Negro, in Africa, there is a curious plant called the spider tree. It grows on windy plains, its stem attaining a diameter of four feet, although it does not exceed one foot in height. It puts out two leaves six or eight feet in length, and these are split by the whiffing of the wind into a number of stiff, narrow ribbons bearing no little resemblance to the legs of a gigantic spider. This resemblance becomes startling when a strong breeze puts the leglike leaves into rapid motion, and the negroes shiveringly exclaim that the great spider is struggling to get loose.

Macaulay's Wit.

Macaulay, who was in the habit of shaving himself, and badly, too, it would seem, once patronized a first class barber. After obtaining an easy shave he turned to the ton-sorial artist and inquired:

"How much do I owe you?"

"What ever you have been in the habit of giving the man who shaves you, sir," replied the barber.

"I generally give him two cents on each cheek," replied the celebrated English historian, "but you, sir, being a superior workman, deserve to fare better."

INSANITY AND PROSPERITY.

In view of the oft repeated discussions on the questions whether insanity is more prevalent than formerly, and if so what are the causes for that condition, the statement made by Dr. Charles G. Hill, physician in charge at Mount Hope retreat, in the sixty-third annual report of that institution, is interesting. Dr. Hill in speaking of the reasons for any possible increase gives, among other things, "the prosperity of the period." He says: "If there is a marked increase of insanity at the present time I believe that by a thorough research, consisting not only of a survey of the mental symptoms, but an investigation with microscope and chemical retort of the tissues, fluids and secretions of the body, it could be traced in a great part to the prosperity of the period—the luxurious indulgence, the dissipations, the departure from the old standard of rectitude and the moral deterioration made possible in all conditions of society to a greater or lesser degree."—Baltimore American.

The Lazy Worm.

A large district in the middle of Porto Rico with a population of 100,000 is afflicted with "the lazy worm," and official efforts are being made to improve the inhabitants' condition. A hospital has been established at Albonito, with an endowment of $15,000, and will do what it can to check the ravages of this minute reptile, of the existence of which the old time native Porto Rican never had the slightest notion. Last year an American medical officer, Captain Ashford, treated 4,500 cases, and nearly all of them were cured. As a result the population are aroused to much enthusiasm, and the afflicted are applying in great numbers for treatment. Heretofore the malady has been deemed incurable.

The Spirit of the Times.

Two newshoys were standing in front of a Bowery tobacconist's window recently gazing with rapt admiration at the enticing display of "weed." "Ef I had 2 cents I'd treat to cigarettes," remarked one. His companion remained thoughtfully silent, then quietly sauntered into the store. In a few minutes he emerged, a cigarette between his lips and a self assertive air. "Two?" remarked the other. "Nope, one. I's been hit by de street." For a few moments there was silence. "Den where do I come in?" questioned the nonsmoker. "Youse de minority stockholder—do de spittin'."—New York Post.

Sidelights on Royalty.

What queer little sidelights on royal life come sometimes from the quaintest quarters. An old lady named Pike, who wanted to be discharged from Old Windsor workhouse, has mentioned incidentally that she made the king's first waistcoat, of velvet with silver buttons, when his majesty was a boy in kilts, and that once she received 10 shillings for washing some handkerchiefs for Queen Victoria at Windsor castle, her majesty's clean handkerchiefs having by some means "been mislaid." It would seem that a domestic contretemps is not wholly unknown even in the most exalted families.

"Tay Pay."

There is no more general favorite in the house of commons than T. P. O'Connor, who, although severe in public speech, is essentially good natured and friendly in private life. "T. P." is as familiar with the Troy aristocrat as with the representative of labor. He chats with Mr. Balfour and he links arms with the prime minister. In fact he is on terms of friendship and intimacy with every fellow member of the house except one—Joseph Chamberlain, whom he once denounced as Judas for having, apparently at least, betrayed the Irish members in connection with certain legislation.

Meat Insurance in Italy.

The insanitary stabling of cattle in Italy and consequent tuberculosis have developed a new form of insurance. A company has been established insuring butchers against condemnation of beef by sanitary inspectors. Butchers pay to this company a premium for each head of cattle slaughtered in the municipal abattoirs or for carcasses brought there for inspection; and if the meat is condemned the company reimburses the dealer and retains the carcass.

A Keen Witted Woman.

Lord Waterford used to tell some good stories of his experience as an Irish magistrate. One of them referred to the case of a woman whom he had to sentence for a breach of the peace. He let her off on condition that she found two securities of £10 each that she would keep the peace for six months.

"Thank ye, my lord," said she, moving toward the door.

"No, no," said Lord Waterford; "you must name your securities that I may see whether they are satisfactory."

"Faith, and who would I name," she answered, "but your lordship's self? Yer good enough for two," a retort which not only showed the sprightliness of the Irish character, but in addition the feeling of friendly confidence which the Irish peasantry who knew him cherished for the lord of Curraghmore.—Pearson's Weekly.

"Captain Ab." Lost a Chance.

Several years ago there lived in Milntown, N. B., a unique character who always went by the title of "Captain Ab." His greatest peculiarity was that he was always on the opposite side, no matter what the question was. At a town meeting one day after the chairman had called for the yeas, which showed the vote was almost unanimous, he called for the "contramindeed." John Farnham, one of the citizens, rose and said, "Mr. Chairman, he has just gone out." The captain had left the room a moment before.
