OAKLEY ITEMS.

OAKLEY, N. C., Aug. 14, 1906

Fodder pulling is popular in this section.

B. D. Tew, the clever A. O. L. roadmaster, was here Friday.

Gordan Hines visited Grifton last week.

Mrs. S. G. Williams and Mrs. J. O. Williams visited in Bethel last week.

J. H. Moore, of Bethel, was a caller here Friday.

J. L. Williams, of Winterville, visited relatives here last week.

The Oakley school closed last Thursday.

Oakley is getting to be a modest town. We did not have so much as a dog fight last week.

W R Whichard, of Whichards was here last week representing a popular Norfolk dry goods house. We are always glad to see old Will.

J. E. Whitehurst and family, of Greenville, honored Oakley with their presence Saturday and Sunday.

L. F. Whitehurst and wife, of Hobgood, came down on the afternoon train Sunday.

W. H. Highsmith, of Alwood, was in town Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Williams, of Bethel, visited here Saturday.

THE WEATHER.

Showers tonight and Wednesday.

TOBACCO BOARD OF TRADE

Elects Officers for Next Year on Monday.

The Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade held its annual meeting on Monday. R. O. Jeffress was re-elected president, G. S. Prichard was elected vice president, and C. W. Harvey was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

The report of the president expressed gratification that the sales for the season of 1905-'06 were 10,579,720 pounds, against 8,587,410 pounds for the previous season, this being the largest increase made by any leaf market in the State. The market was also congratulated that the practice of indiscriminate drumming had been discontinued. Fully 90 per cent. of the farmers are heartily in favor of this regulation of the Board of Trade.

The president also stated that it gave him pleasure to report that violations of the regulations of the trade had grown fewer each succeeding year, there was less bickering and strife, and good feeling between warehousemen, buyers and sellers exists.

The report also referred to the fact that this Board is the only commercial organization in the town of Greenville, and has, perhaps, done more for the betterment of the community at large than any other organization the town has ever had, and that the Board should always take a decided stand for every improvement and every commercial enterprise that tends to the advancement of the town.

A GOOD TONIC.

Nothing So Inspiring As Music.

It is like a morning tonic to stop by Evans' Book Store and hear a few choice selections from his phonograph. It drives away the blues and sends you on to work feeling like there is something bright in this old world. The other fellow's experience of how "The World Moves On" makes you feel like he knows what he is singing about. Then a good band selection makes the joints feel like limbering, and the sweet words of "Will you love me in December as in May" or "Just a little rocking chair and you" takes the mind back to two bright eyes left at home. "A trip around the world" makes you patriotic, and the duet "God be with you till we meet again" is a benediction that lasts all day. Try it once and see if you do not enjoy the day's labor more and find your struggles lighter.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For Register of Deeds.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for Register of Deeds of Pitt county, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries and county convention.

W. M. Moore
Grimesland, N. C.

Notice

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the nomination for Register of Deeds of Pitt county, subject to the action of the Democratic county convention, and will appreciate the support any friends may give me.

J. C. Lanier.

To the Voters Pitt County

I take this method to announce myself a candidate for the office of Register of Deeds.

If I am nominated and elected I will endeavor to fill the office with credit to myself, and satisfaction to the people.

If I am not nominated, I will do all in my power to elect the nominee, and the entire Democratic ticket.

Respectfully,
OSBORN C. NOBLES.

Proclamation by the Governor.

$100.00 REWARD

State of North Carolina
Executive Department

Whereas official information has been received at this department that W. H. Harrington Jr. late of the County of Pitt stands charged with conspiracy and assault upon W. J. Tell, and whereas, it appears that the said W. H. Harrington Jr. has fled the State, or so conceals himself that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him.

Now, therefore, I, R. B. Glenn, Governor of the State of North Carolina, by virtue of authority in me vested by law, do issue this my proclamation, offering a reward of One hundred Dollars for the apprehension and delivery of the said W. H. Harrington Jr. to the Sheriff of Pitt County at the Courthouse in Greenville, N. C. and I do enjoin all officers of the State and all good citizens to assist in bringing said criminal to justice.

Done at our City of Raleigh the 16th day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and six and in the one hundred and thirty-first year of our American Independence.

R. B. GLENN,
by the Governor.
A. H. HARRINGTON,
Private Secretary.

The End of the World of troubles that robbed E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Ia., of all usefulness, came when he began taking Electric Bitters. He writes: "Two years ago Kidney trouble caused me great suffering, which I would never have survived had I not taken Electric Bitters. They also cured me of General Debility." Sure cure for all stomach, Liver and Kidney complaints, Blood diseases, Headache, Dizziness and weakness or bodily decline. Price 50c. Guaranteed by J. L. Wooten's drug store.

'Make Hay While the Sun Shines.'

There is a lesson in the work of the thrifty farmer. He knows that the bright sunshine may last but a day and he prepares for the showers which are so liable to follow. So it should be with every household. Dysentery, diarrhoea and cholera morbus may attack some member of the home without warning. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which is the best known medicine for these diseases, should always be kept at hand, as immediate treatment is necessary, and delay may prove fatal. For sale by J. L. Wooten, druggist.

Modest Claims Often Carry the Most Conviction.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements: what they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by J. L. Wooten.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

A Clever Trick With a Handkerchief and a Coin.

All that is necessary to have in order to perform the trick are a handkerchief, a ten cent piece and a piece of soap. With a knife cut off a piece of soap about a quarter of an inch in diameter and stick this piece of soap on the hem of the handkerchief in one corner. Place the dime in the center of the handkerchief, which must lie flat on the table. Take the corner which has the soap on it and fold it over, placing it gently on the dime; now fold the other corners over, placing each corner on the dime. The corner that has the soap on it is the one to your right. When the corners are folded the handkerchief will be in the form of a diamond, with one of the points toward the performer. Place the thumb and forefinger of each hand at the point of the diamond nearest to you. Pick it up, letting the four corners fall apart, at the same time sliding the right hand to the corner where the dime is. Shake the handkerchief and show that the dime has disappeared. —American Boy.

About Steel Needles.

It is said that steel needles were invented by the Spanish Moors. Before their introduction thorns and fish bones, the latter with a hole pierced for an eye, were in use. The first needles used in London were made by a Moor in the reign of Henry VIII., and in Queen Mary's day steel needles were sold in Cheapside, says Home Chat. After this time the manufacture increased rapidly, many Germans going to England and establishing needle works in various places.

Now is the Watchword.

"Now" is the suitable tickling from the clock of time. "Now" is the watchword of the wise. "Now" is on the banner of the prudent. Whenever anything presents itself to us in the shape of work, whether mental or bodily, we should do it with all our might, remembering that "now" is the only time for us. It is a sorry way to get through the world by putting off till tomorrow, saying, "Then I will do it." "Now" is ours. "Then" we may never have.

Care of the Eyes.

When the eyes ache close them for five minutes. When they burn bathe them in hot water, as hot as can be borne, with a dash of witch hazel in it. After weeping bathe them in rose water and lay a towel wet in rose water over them for five minutes. When they are bloodshot keep them closed and the pupils dull look to a doctor.

Jas F Davenport,

Strange, but True.

"I saw a curious thing the other day," said the favorite story teller at a party.

"Well, what was it? Is it a true story?" asked one of the listeners
"Yes; perfectly true. I saw a duck swimming across a pond and a cat sitting on its tail."

"Indeed!" exclaimed another listener. "What sort of a duck was it? Any particular kind?"

"Yes; it was a diving duck. Strange to say, the duck dived."

For some moments there was silence; then a lady asked:

"And what became of the poor cat? Was it drowned, or did it only lose one of its nine lives?"

"No; it wasn't drowned," said the story teller. "You see, the duck dived in the middle of the pond, but the cat was sitting on its own tail on a wall close by."

Her Triumph.

Mrs. Bricktop (bursting with pride)—How I've like my new carpet, Mrs. Crosseye?

Mrs. Crosseye (bursting with envy)—It's—er—very nice indeed, Mrs. Bricktop, fer—fer brussels. By the way, I nearly forgot what I came for. I wish you would lend me your lawn mower a few moments.

"Lawn mower? Why, certainly. But what on earth can you want of a lawn mower at this time of the year?"

"I desire to thin down our velvet carpet in the nursery a little. The children are always losing their marbles in it."—London Answers.

Unfortunate.

A certain merchant of Baltimore, who is well known for his philanthropic spirit, was approached one day by an Irishman, formerly in his employ, who made a touching appeal for financial assistance. Said he:

"I trust, sor, that ye'll find it convenient to help a poor man whose house an' everything in it burned down last week, sor."

The merchant, although he gives with a free hand, exercises considerable caution in his philanthropy, so he asked:

"Have you any papers or certificates to show that you have lost everything by fire, as you say?"

The Irishman scratched his head as if bewildered. Finally he replied:

"I did have a certificate to that effect, sor, signed before a notary, but unfortunately, sor, it was burned up with the rest of me effects?"

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

A Democratic convention of Pitt county will be held at the court house, in the town of Greenville, at 12 M, Wednesday August 15th 1906, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the Legislature and various county officers.

Township Primaries—The Democratic primaries of the several precincts are hereby called to meet at their usual places on Saturday, the 11th day of August, 1906, at 3 o'clock p. m., to elect delegates to the county convention, nominate Constables, Justices of the Peace, and elect precinct executive committees. The townships are entitled to delegates and alternates as follows.

How to See the Wind.

Take a polished metal surface of two feet or more and with a straight edge. A large handsaw will answer the purpose. Take a windy day on which to make the experiment, paying no attention to atmospheric conditions, for such an experiment can be as successfully made on a clear day as it can on a cloudy one, and the results will be equally good in summer and winter. The only thing you need to look out for is that you do not attempt to "see the wind" on a rainy or murky day, as conditions are then very unfavorable. When everything is in readiness, hold the metallic surface at right angles to the direction of the wind—i. e., if the wind is in the north hold the metal east and west, but instead of holding it vertical incline it about 42 degrees to the horizon. When this has been done eight carefully along the edge of a sharply defined object for some moments and you will see the wind pouring over in graceful curves almost like water.

The Juvenile Way.

Children are the real humorists. They never rack their brains to say something funny. Here is a small boy's ingenuous "composition" on politeness:

"Never eat quickly, or you might get bones in your throat. My father knows of a boy who got killed over his Sunday dinner. The greedy boy was picking a rabbit's head in a hurry and swallowed one jaw of it, and my father says he was choked to death there and then. Be very polite over your meals, then, especially when it's rabbits. Since my father told me that I have always felt rather queer over a rabbit dinner. I don't talk much and don't ask for any more."

A definition that won a little girl praise despite its stringency was "Turf, sir, is grass and clean dirt stuck together by God."

The Retort Caustic.

An American in Devonshire, according to the London Tribune, had been told he must not miss seeing a certain peculiar rock formation known locally as "Satan's Stool." While leisurely examining the curiosity he was accosted by an irate military looking man, who demanded in unprintable language what he meant by trespassing on private property. "Waal," said the Yankee, "I was told I should make a point of seeing 'Satan's Stool,' but I never guessed I should have the pleasure of meeting the owner."

Broken and Mended.

On swept the little red automobile that was built for two.
"You—you seem so quiet," whispered the beautiful girl anxiously. "Is there anything about this machine that is broken?"
"Yes," lisped the tall man at her side listlessly. "My heart."
Feeling remorseful at having jilted her so cruelly, the beautiful girl leaned over and added:
"Cheer up, George! If your heart is really broken we can stop at a repair shop."
"Nonsense! What kind of a repair shop could mend a broken heart?"
"Why, the parsonage, George!"
Twenty minutes later the "repair shop" was reached.—Chicago News.

How Pendulums Began to Swing.

Various dates have been given to the invention of the pendulum clock, which superseded the old time water clocks, but the story goes that Galilei, who lived from 1564 to 1642, when standing one day in the Metropolitan church of Pisa noticed a lamp which was hanging from the ceiling and which, having been moved by accident, continued for some time to swing backward and forward with some regularity. Noticing the path to and fro of its movements, Galilei was induced to think out the method, which is at once so simple and so certain, by which we can now measure time by means of the combination of wheels and pendulum.

Underhanded Methods.

"George," sharply demanded Mrs. Ferguson, "what was it you cut out of this paper?"

"It was this, Laura," responded Mr. Ferguson, promptly producing the clipping from his vest pocket and handing it over.

It was an article on the wastefulness and extravagance of housewives, and he knew, the designing wretch, that in no other way could he have succeeded in bringing it to Mrs. Ferguson's attention.

The Saying of Grace.

Some of Dickens' most touching and effective word pictures were those family gatherings where for a moment song and mirth were hushed and the revered head of the household quietly invoked a blessing on the repast. Who does not remember the wedding feast at the Wardle home, when even genial Mr. Pickwick brushed away a tear and Dickens voiced his feelings in that memorable passage, "There are dark spots on the earth, but its light shines brighter in the contrast." And through a mist of happy memories rises the home of the Cheeryble brothers, those typical examples who in the midst of their prosperity always remembered at mealtime the "giver of all good." "For these and all other blessings, brother Charles," said Ned, "Lord, make us truly grateful, brother Ned," said Charles.

Good Hint.

Although it has been said that puns belong to the lowest order of wit, there are occasions when a well timed pun serves an excellent purpose. One of these occasions was improved a good many years ago by a Boston man, honored and beloved by all who knew him. It was at the centennial anniversary of the "tea party," which was held in Faneuil hall. The first speaker said that, to him, the card of invitation, which bore a large teapot, gave a delicate intimation which he should endeavor to bear in mind, as he doubted not the other speakers would also. "I noticed," said he, with the utmost gravity, "that the teapot, though a large one, had a very short spout."

An Exceptional Effect of Nagging.

A young man was forced into teaching of mathematics against stronger inclinations and greater love for another science because of a failure to pass an examination in arithmetic in early life. He was so badgered and taunted by his family that in sheer desperation he specialized in mathematics and even achieved some distinction therein, although he is still reminded at times of his childish fiasco. But not every young man has so much grit. Most of the nagging critics' victims are too hurt, sore and discouraged to attempt further and bolder flights. The wings are clipped and rarely grow again.—Independent.

Dawes Could Thin Them Out.

The Hon. H. L. Dawes in his young manhood was an indifferent speaker. Participating in a law case soon after his admission to the bar before a North Adams justice of the peace, Dawes was opposed by an older attorney, whose eloquence attracted a large crowd that packed the courtroom. The justice was freely perspiring, and, drawing off his coat in the midst of the lawyer's eloquent address, he said: "Mr. Attorney, supposing you sit down and let Dawes begin to speak. I want to thin out this crowd."—Boston Herald.

Evensed Up.

"This living in furnished rooms," said the wife, "is hard on children."
"Very likely," replied her husband, who was trying to remove some ink stains from the red plush sofa. "but the children are also hard on furnished rooms."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Summer Diarrhoea in Children.

During the hot weather of the summer months the first unnatural looseness of a child's bowels should have immediate attention, so as to check the disease before it becomes serious. All that is necessary is a few doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy followed by a dose of castor oil to cleanse the system. Rev. M. H. Stockland, pastor of the first M. E. church, Little Falls, Minn., writes: "We have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for several years and find it a very valuable remedy, especially for summer disorders in children." TUESDAY, AUGUST 14, 1906

No, Greenville is not exactly asleep. She stirred enough between naps to get a $50,000 bank, a $100,000 building and loan association, day electric current and an ice factory all in seven months. Nothing sleepy about that. There is more to follow, too, including a chamber of commerce.

The Reflector was somewhat disappointed, as were also some of our readers, in not printing the reports of Saturday's primaries in Monday's paper. The reports from the several townships came in so late that we thought it best to give all of them today, and even now some are not full and some are yet behind.

A good business man said to The Reflector that Pitt county ought to have a bond issue of half a million dollars and the money expended on the public thoroughfares. Every bridge in the county ought to be constructed, of iron, every ditch crossing a road should be tiled, and every road in the county should be macadamized. That is common sense talk. If such a condition existed it would not be a year before every farm in the county would be worth twenty-five percent more than it now is, to say nothing of the advantage and saving good roads would bring. And the interest on enough bonds to provide these improved conditions would not take near as much money out of their pockets as they are now paying in taxes to keep the bridges and roads passable.

The Reflector would call attention to the report in the news columns relative to the Tobacco Board of Trade of Greenville. It is the only commercial organization in the town, and, as stated by its president, has done much toward the maternal advancement of the community. We want to congratulate the tobacco men for what they have done, and to suggest that if other business interests of the town were as well organized and would work with the tobacco board it would not be long before Greenville took rank as the leading Eastern North Carolina town, as it has already done as a tobacco market. By all means we should have a chamber of commerce bringing all together in united work for the advancement of the town.

The national Democratic committee is following the lead of the Republicans in asking for $1 contributions.

Carolina township took the idea of seeking the man instead of letting the man seek the office and endorsed W. R. Whichard for register of deeds.

The Pittsboro Record goes ahead of all the other non-whiskey advertising papers in the State that have been mentioned. The Record is twenty eight years old and has never published a whiskey advertisement.

DELIGHTFUL PORCH PARTY:

Given by Miss Jamie Bryan Complimentary to Miss Clara Hampton of Plymouth and Miss Nona Blow of Littleton,

A very enjoyable porch party was given Friday evening by Miss Jamie Bryan, complimentary to her guests, Miss Clara Hampton, of Plymouth and Miss Nona Blow, of Littleton.

The porch was beautifully decorated in red festooned from the top to both sides, and brilliantly lighted with Japanese lanterns. The guests arrived at nine o'clock and were received by Miss Jamie Bryan and Mr. Edgerton, of Louisburg, assisted by Miss Clara Hampton with Frank Wilson; then to the porch where punch was served by Miss Ethel Skinner and Alex Blow.

One of the most enjoyable features of the evening was the "progressive conversation." Cards were distributed among all the guests with twelve different topics, and each young man was allowed five minutes with every one present and the conversation he enjoyed more he presented a large pink heart, and it was found that Miss Ethel Skinner received the highest number, and was given a box of Huyler's chocolates which she presented to Misses Hampton and Blow. They cut for it and the former won. After this dainty ices were served.

Those invited were: Misses Clara Hampton, Nona Blow, Lillian Carr, Alice Blow, Margaret Skinner, Mary James, Mary Cobb, Ethel Skinner, Jamie Bryan, Bessie Haskett, Vernessa Smith, Susie Warren, Janie Brown, Lillian Burch; Mary Smith, Lizzie Higgs, Mae Schultz, Pearl Lichtenstein, of Richmond, Hennie Whichard; Messrs Frank Wilson, Elliott Edgerton, Ned Laughinghouse, Cecil Cobb, Mark Williams, Willie Wilson, Bascom Wilson, Carl Wilson, Alvin Dupree, Thurman Moore, Luther Powling, Blount Pearce, Ames Brown, Frank Skinner, John Shelburn, Bill Patrick, Dock Horne, Alex Blow, Barney Warren, Leon Pender.

THE PHILANTHROPIST.

His Persistent but Futile Efforts in First Aid to the Injured.

An elderly philanthropist who was walking home late, one night from his club passed a prosperous looking apartment house and noticed a man in evening clothes lying motionless on the sidewalk. "First aid to the injured," murmured the philanthropist as he shook the invalid gently. "What's the matter, my dear sir?" "No's'n; jes' takin' rest," said the sleeper. "Where do you live?" pursued the E. P. "This
'partment house, thir' floor front." This was rather a large freight order for the old gentleman; but, being willing to do good, he put the invalid on his shoulder, bore him laboriously to the third landing, found his room and tossed him into a large curtained bed in the front of the apartment.

The philanthropist immediately went downstairs and out into the street. And the first thing he saw on the sidewalk was apparently the same man he had just carried upstairs. "Strange, strange!" muttered the philanthropist, leaning over the man. "Where do you live, my dear man?" "Thir' floor front," replied the fellow almost inaudibly.
So the philanthropist picked him up, groaned up to the third floor front and again dumped his snoring burden into the mysterious can-opied and curtained bed. And for the third time he went out into the street and for the third time found what appeared to be the same man in the same place, lying in the same attitude. "Where do you live?" he asked, trembling with excitement.
"Thir' floor front," said the man very faintly. "I must be going insane!" groaned the E. P. as he ran for the janitor. "Janitor, for heaven's sake, tell me how many young men are living in your third floor front?" he gasped.

"Wan, and he do be the divvil's own," said the janitor. "Is he triplets?" was the next question. "He is not." "Well, how does it come, then, that I have carried this fellow upstairs to his room twice, put him into that curtained bed to the front, yet each time find him here on the sidewalk before I have time to get downstairs?"

"Where did you say you put him in his room?"

"Why, I put him in that large curtained bed to the front."

"Well, yez poor old fjt," said the janitor pityingly, "thot ain't no bed; thot's a window!"—Wallace Irving in Success.

FRANCE HAS A NEW POET.

The committee recently appointed by the French minister of public instruction to examine the claims of candidates for the Bourse Nationale de Voyages Littéraires and award the traveling scholarship, worth $600, has unearthed a new poet. He is M. Abel Bonnard, aged twenty-one, concerning whom the committee opines "the world will hear much."

M. Bonnard won the scholarship by his volume of verse, "Les Familliers," descriptive of nature, pastoral life and animals. The new poet has been bracketed with Abbe Delille, a famous versifier, who translated Virgil and Milton, and with La Foutaine, the author of the fables. He has also a good deal in common with George Rodenback, the singer of "Bruges la Morte," who died a few years ago in Paris. The committee which has chosen the new poet had to grapple with 257 productions in prose and verse. One of the first places to be visited by
M. Bonnard when he receives his $600 is England.

Seeing New York.

Among the group of men who come to New York every few months from Charlotte, N. C., partly on business and partly on pleasure is a lieutenant of the Bumblebee rifles, a militia organization of some repute in the Tar Heel State.
Not long ago one of the friends of the lieutenant, meeting him at a Broadway hotel, proposed a trip to the polo grounds to see a ball game.
"Where are the grounds?" inquired the North Carolinian.

"At One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street," was the reply.
"Say, you don't mean to tell me this town has grown to be as big as that?" the visitor exclaimed.
"I've been coming here every few months for ten years, and only last year everything was woods north of Fifty-ninth street."

It developed that the lieutenant had taken a walk up Seventh avenue and upon seeing the trees of Central park had decided he was at the end of civilization.—New York Post.

A Remarkable Spring.

One of the most remarkable springs in the world, says J. A. Eddy in the Engineering and Mining Journal, has recently been discovered in New Mexico. It is literally a spring saturated with sodium sulphate. Distilled water weighs eight and one-third pounds per gallon;
the water of this spring weighs ten and two-thirds pounds. The temperature of the spring is a little over 110 degrees F. As the saturated liquid overflows and cools it forms a crystalline mass like ice, which in the course of ages has spread into a snow white bed of solid sodium salts miles in extent and as level as a lake. The warm brine, Mr. Eddy reports, is inhabited by a minute shrimp-like organism, and a species of plant is found growing in the dry expanse of sodium sulphate.

His Rare Revolve.

John Forrester, living northwest of Moran, boasts of the fact that he has lived fifty-five years and resided in Kansas since 1859 and yet has never been on a train. Mr.
Forrester does not have any particular fear of riding on a train, but has never had occasion to ride. Several times his children have made up a purse to have him take in some of the Sunday excursions, but as his religious principles are against riding on the train on Sundays he has each time refused to take the trip.
—Kansas City Journal.

Rewarded at Last.

Here is a woman whose sense of gratitude was not misplaced. The Marchioness Isabella Lucini of Pa-via has left a legacy of $3,000 to a local comic paper to which she was a lifelong subscriber. Her will also directed that $300 in addition should be spent on a sumptuous banquet, to which the staff of the paper should be entertained "in recognition," so the will textually reads, "of the many pleasant hours spent in perusing its humorous columns."

Result of Wealth.

"How lean and lanky that Miss Wadleigh is, isn't she?"
"You shouldn't say that."
"Why not?"
"She has money. You should say she is divinely tall."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

ANCIENT SHOES.

The First Footwear Was Probably of Reeds or Skins.

Nobody knows who was the first shoemaker. There must have been a time when everybody went barefooted, and the first shoes were probably made of woven reeds or skins.
The original shoemaker doubtless sought comfort more than style.

The Celt, who at times wandered over moor or morass, at others over mountains, invented a shoe that suited his purpose exactly. A sole of heavy hides protected his feet from the sharp stones, while uppers or legs of lighter skins protected his ankles and legs from thorns and bushes. The buskin was so constructed that the water exuded from it as soon as the foot ceased to be immersed. In the modern shoe the idea is that water be kept out, not let out.

The Celtic buskin was tough and elastic and could be replaced wherever there were untanned skins at hand. Every Celt was his own shoemaker.

With the Norman conquest came the introduction into the British isles of tanned leather, which had long been in use in Normandy, where it had been introduced by the Romans.

Shoes then began to take on style, and the styles have never been duplicated in later days. From close fitting shoes fashion went to long, pointed toes, which in time grew so long that they had to be fastened to the wearer's knees.

Shoes were gorgeous affairs in the middle ages. King Richard, the lion hearted, had his boots stamped with gold. John Lackland, his brother, wore boots spotted with golden circles, while Henry III. wore boots checkered with golden lines, every square of which was enriched with a lion. Cardinal Wolsey's shoes were

Of gold and stone precious Costing many a thousand pounds.

Sir Walter Raleigh wore shoes studded with diamonds said to have cost £80,000. The gallants in Charles II.'s time wore their high boot tops turned down to the ankles, to show the gorgeous lace with which they were lined.—Indianapolis News.

The Latest City in the World.

Whether it be from laziness or the difficulty of reaching the business quarter, London is the latest city in the world to take down the shutters and start its day's work.
In Paris you may find a bookshop open with all attendants ready at 7 in the morning. A New York business man will make you an appointment at 9 or even an hour earlier, but at 7 o'clock in the morning Bond street or Cornhill—an arctic explorer is required to describe their aspects. London is not really awake until 10 o'clock. Is it the atmosphere that compels sleep?—London Chronicle.

Speaking of the Baker.

"The baker," said the knowing youth, "is the happiest man ever.
Everything he stirs up pans out well. All he kneads is his, he has dough to burn, and his stock is still rising. He certainly takes the cake.
He's a stirring chap and does things up brown. Though he is well bred and somewhat of a high roller, he is not above mixing with his hands.
Besides, he is pious and cheerfully icing his favors for everybody. The baker is the original wise man of the yeast."—Lippincott's Magazine.

A Clever Equivalent.

Sir William Gull, the famous English physician, was once the victim of an amusing piece of repartee on the part of a fellow practitioner.
The occasion was a dinner party, at which several distinguished medical men were present.

The conversation happened to turn upon the subject of quackery, and Sir William Gull expressed his conviction that a certain amount of it was essential to success in practice, adding:

"It is an example of the old saying, 'Populus vult decipi'" (People like to be deceived).

"Quite so," said the host. "Now, can any one present give an English equivalent to that?"

"Nothing easier," dryly remarked another physician; "the public like to be 'gulled.'"

Side Lights on the French Census.

France does not take its censuses as seriously as this country, though some Parisian wits are now paying fines for the gayety of their answers to the enumerators' queries. Some towns and villages set about swelling their population. Marseilles and Lyons were jealous about the second place among French cities.
Whether they padded the returns or not does not appear, but Cassoulet-sur-Lot, a little town in the south, was anxious to bring its population up to 20,000, so that its magistrates could have their salaries increased by $125. As only a few score of people were wanted, the affair was comparatively easy. Cassoulet jail was made the workhouse of a whole district, but entry was obligatory, not permissive, for all the tramps in the neighborhood. This drafting of citizens was successful.

The Solemn Back Bay Butler.

Some Boston editor intimated that Back Bay butlers made love to the housemaids. One of them has replied in defense of his class, and incidentally he shows how far culture has got down the back stairs of Boston society. He writes:

"I do not flirt with any of the female members of the household, and it is no exaggeration to say that I am not better than the average butler of the Back Bay, so far as morals are concerned. I have educated my boy in France and England and am now giving him a postgraduate course at an American college. Our feelings have been hurt by the article to which I refer, and we have undergone a great deal of mental suffering from the annoyance unwittingly caused us."

To Relieve Thirst.

It is noticed that pure cold water, even when iced, does not relieve thirst as well as when something is added. Lemonade, toast water, barley water or apple tea is often better for relieving feverish thirst and sometimes are valuable because they have a slight amount of tonic ishment. Do not drink a drop of water that has stood in a bottle overnight, because it has absorbed the poison exhaled by the body

DOES THE DOG REASON?

Authentic Instances That Seem to Warrant That Conclusion.

A dog I owned suffered a great deal with indigestion. The least indiscreet diet would bring on these attacks, and as they occurred very frequently I had a large bottle of medicine always on hand and kept it on a shelf in his kennel. The dog seemed to have acquired a thorough comprehension as to the relief bringing quality of that bottle. Whenever he was ill and food was placed before him he would scent it, walk away without touching it, then turn to the shelf and, gazing steadily at the bottle, indicate plainly his wants. He took the medicine without the slightest balking, which is rather exceptional, as any one who ever tried to dose a dog will agree.

This dog when let out would never disturb anything in the poultry yard, but the moment a stray chick lost her way into his yard the savage got the better of him. He would catch the unfortunate straggler, kill and devour it, leaving only a few feathers as evidence of the "murder." Punishment always followed. The remnants of feathers were shown to the dog so as to impress on him his wrong doings and make the cause of the punishment clear to him. From time to time young chickens would be missing, and all efforts to locate the guilty one were vain. The dog's yard was always scrutinized, but nothing found.

My best broilers were disappearing at a rapid rate, and I decided to have the dog watched. Soon he was caught in the act and the mystery solved. The moment the dog had finished his meal he scratched the feathers in a heap and carried them with his teeth to a corner of his yard, where he buried them. The dog had the most embarrassed and helpless expression at the time he was caught that I ever noticed on a dog. An extra severe punishment was dealt out, and I do not know if the mortification of being trapped or the punishment did the work, but the dog was cured from that moment on.

The related observations show reasoning in order to accomplish something for a set purpose. I believe most animals possess the quality in some degree, more or less, according to their mental development.

In the last case described the dog's instinct led him to catch and kill the chicken, but memory told him that punishment would follow if found out. He reasoned that by hiding the evidence of his guilt he would escape punishment for his actions, which he understood to be wrong. The very fact of being able to discriminate between right and wrong and trying to check the consequences of the latter shows the necessity of thinking and therefore of reasoning power.—S. L. De Fabry in Outing.

The Steamboat and an "If."

If Robert Fulton had succeeded in proving to Napoleon that his steamboat was a revolutionary invention the history of the whole world might have been changed. A critic reasons as follows: "Fulton laid before the French emperor his plan for steam navigation. It might have appealed to Napoleon had he personally investigated it, but he preferred to leave the decision to a commission of wisacres, who reported that navigation by the aid of steam was an obvious absurdity. That was two years before the battle of Trafalgar was fought. Had he accepted the advice of Fulton and gone at once to building, the great army massed at Boulogne might after all have landed in England and wrought its military miracles upon British soil instead of at Austerlitz, to which Trafalgar turned it."

He Relied on the Doctor.

While I was a student in the medical college I had a patient, an Irishman, with a broken leg. When the plaster bandage was removed and a lighter one put on in its place I noticed that one of the pins went in with great difficulty, and I could not understand it. A week afterward what was my astonishment to find that the pin had been run through the skin twice instead of through the cloth.

"Why, Pat," said I, "didn't you know the pin was sticking in you?"
"To be sure I did," replied Pat, "but I thought you knew your business, so I hit me twice."

Have The Foundation Right.

COLTON'S INVISIBLE LACING CORSETS

The Corset is The Foundation

Upon which all women should build their appearance. Those who desire to make the best appearance possible are most careful in selecting their corset, realizing that the best results can be attained only when the corset is right, right in fit---right in shape. The gown may be handsome and stylish in itself, but it will never show to best advantage over an ill-fitting, poorly constructed corset.

OUR CORSET DEPARTMENT

Comes to your aid just at this point by offering you a large variety of styles and makes, the kinds that have been tried and found satisfactory, and the selection is so great you may easily choose the the right shape, the one best suited to your needs, the one that will insure comfort and a stylish figure combined. We would like to show you the new "Invisible Lacing," and explain the many advantages it possesses over other kinds. Our corset department is very popular--there's a reason--Let us show you.
