JACKSON NOT POOR.

The Great Statesman Had More Early Advantages Than Most.

Verily we must abandon the belief that Andrew Jackson belongs to the class of American youths who rode to fame and fortune by their own efforts, unaided by the help of family and friends.

Never did he taste the bitter cup of physical want, of hunger and cold, of helpless spirit breaking poverty. Never was he without home and loyal friends and a sufficiency of the comforts of life. Never was it his lot to suffer that humiliation, that mortification, that inward-bleeding wound which the proud nature writhes under when there is no money in the pocket, no change of clothing for the body, no welcoming light in any window in all the world as the harvest day draws to its end and the wretched night comes on.

Poverty! Why Andrew Jackson never in his whole life had a genuine taste of what the cruel word means.

Few men have been more greatly indebted to the intelligent affection of a self-sacrificing mother. Few sons of poor parents have had such advantages as were his lot; a few lads of poor parents ever did such a scanty amount of manual labor. Compared to the rugged, self-taught Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman, Abraham Lincoln, Andrew Johnson, Sam Houston, Francis Marion and Nathaniel Greene, the boyhood of Andrew Jackson almost assumes the appearance of having been cast upon "flowery beds of ease."—Tom Watson, in his magazine for September.

TO THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS OF AYDEN LODGE NO. 498, A. F. & A. M.

Whereas it has pleased our all-wise Providence to remove from our Lodge, on May 23rd, 1906, our highly esteemed and much beloved brother, L. C. Quinerly, therefore be it resolved:

1st, That though grieved at our great loss, we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well

2nd, That we have lost a faithful member, Masonry one of its strongest devotees, and the community an honest, upright citizen.

3rd, That while we feel his loss so keenly, we will ever cherish his memory, and emulate his virtues.

4th, That we extend to the bereaved family of our deceased brother our sincere sympathy, and pray that God in his all-wise Providence may sanctify this affliction to their good.

4th, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Lodge, a copy be sent to the family of the deceased, and a copy set to each the Greenville Reflector, and Orphan's Friend for publication.

TOO LITTLE VALUE PLACED ON HUMAN LIFE

What authority to allow bail has the coroner, in a case where a jury summoned by him to investigate a homicide finds that a certain person did the killing and does not declare that there were any extenuating or mitigating circumstances connected with the action of the accused? Where the killing is shown to have occurred under circumstances which indicate it to be a case of murder in the first or in the second degree, is he empowered to do anything more than issue a commitment for the accused? Does the law give him the right to grant the accused the privilege of bail in such cases? Is not such proceeding solely within the jurisdiction of the judges of the superior and of the supreme courts, who can determine by a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus whether it is a bailable case or not?

The revisal of 1905 section 1051 declares that "as many persons as are found culpable" by inquisition of the coroner's jury "shall be taken and delivered to the sheriff and committed to jail," and the same section provides for the coroner making a report of his proceedings "to the next term of the superior court." Can the coroner do anything but send to jail or discharge?

Admitting, however, that there is law for the coroner fixing the amount of bail for a person found by his jury to be culpably responsible for the death of another he should have regard to the nature of the homicide and fix the bond in a sum in keeping with the character of the offense. That being so, does it not strike our readers that twenty-five hundred dollars is a very small bond to require in a case where the victim was shot down without provocation; in fact, while acting in the capacity of a peace maker? We feel sure that most persons who heard the evidence before the coroner's jury in this city last Friday or who read it in the papers yesterday, were surprised to learn that bail had been fixed for the person charged with that crime at the astounding low figures of twenty-five hundred dollars.

Too little value is put on life by our people. Homicide is not regarded with the horror that it should be. Men with little provocation or with none at all shoot down a fellowman. The deed creates a slight sensation for a day, the man is brought to trial after the case cannot any longer be continued and the defendant is acquitted or allowed to submit to a grade of homicide much below the one the facts in the case show it to be and a light punishment is imposed. Isn't it self-evident that this placing of small value on life by officials has a tendency to increase the disregard for it among the people? When the states officers by their official acts show that they think lightly of homicides they help to make life more unsafe and they are in a measure responsible for the feeling which has gained such foothold among a large class of men that

TO THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS.

Ayden Lodge No. 498 A. F. & A. M. Ayden, N. C., Sept. 19, 1906.

We your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our deceased brother, Edgar Ballard, submit the following:

Whereas, it has pleased a good and kind Heavenly Father to remove from our midst on Aug. 5th, 1906, Brother Edgar Ballard, and whereas, we must bow in humble admission to the will of Him who knoweth what is best, be it resolved, 1st, That our lodge has lost an ardent and honored member, the community an industrious and useful citizen, his friends a congenial and affable companion.

2nd, We tender our heartfelt sympathy to the widow and only child in the great loss they have sustained.

3rd, That a page be inscribed upon the minutes of our lodge sacred to his memory, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to his family, The Reflector and the Oxford Orphan's Friend for publication.

The Selfish Man.

The one who keeps apart from the rest of mankind, the one who has talent and uses the same for his own individual aims and desires, the one who plays to the galleries and is always looking for and seeking praise for himself; is the man who is a destructionist and has no rightful place in the progress of the world and the scheme of life. Look over the field of action in any department—business, athletics, science, society, etc.—and you will find that unless those engaged share unselfishly in the management and all work together, destruction follows. In politics the man who is looking for his own interests alone is the one who will soon be out of a job.

In athletics the individual who possesses talent and skill in some particular branch, and uses the same for the applause of the grandstand will sooner or later disorganize the team on which he plays. In the business world, when a gifted man begins to think that his talents alone are the safeguard of his firm, and then ignores others' ideas and plans, retrogression follows; and in the social life the I-am-holding-thou-individual is a distinct menace.—Merchants Journal.

ALMOST A RIOT AT HAMLET

Difficulty Between Conductor and Negro Incites Both Whites and Blacks.

Hamlet, Sept. 18th.—Yesterday and last night it looked as though a real riot was inevitable there.

Whites and blacks were armed with Winchesters, pistols and everything in the shooting line that could be had. Ammunition was ordered and all the preparations for an uprising was made. The cause of the trouble, from all I can learn, began several days ago, when Capt. Bell, a freight conductor, whose run is from here to Columbia and a negro train hand John Hubbard, got into a difficulty at Camben, S. C. Capt. Bell ordered the negro to get on top of some cars and release the brakes.

When he went up to obey the orders of the conductor he began to curse the engineer and conductor and it is stated that Capt. Bell threw a rock at Hubbard. When he did so the negro made for him, whereupon the conductor drew his pistol and fired upon the train hand. The negro ran and boarded a passenger train. He came to Hamlet, reported the conductor and had him suspended from the service of the company. After a thorough investigation, however, the conductor was reinstated.

Saturday night several engineers and conductors were sitting in Graham & Jamison's Hotel discussing the episode as related above, when Hubbard came along and offered some impudence, whereupon he was given a first-class thrashing. Others who came up as onlookers were knocked down as fast as they came. This incensed some of the colored race and threats of burning, shooting, killing, etc., were freely made. These threats incited some of the white people of the town to make preparation for self-defense and quite a number armed themselves for any emergency.—Wilmington Star, Sept. 18th.

CIRCUS DAY.

Cole Brothers' Show Here.

The coming of a circus is always an occasion of interest to the little folks, and even the older folks have not forgotten how they in years gone by enjoyed the sawdust ring, the funny clown, the riding, the acrobats, the big elephant and other animals. They thought the old time one ring circus of long ago was a big affair, and so it was, but in comparison with the mammoth aggregations with three rings under acres of canvas that come around these latter days.

The reputation of being a good show having preceded it here, both the little folks and big folks were glad that Cole Brothers' United Shows would visit Greenville today. From the appearance of things so far more are going to be disappointed in their expectations, and people have been coming in all the morning from every section of the country to see what is to be seen.

The circus arrived very early this morning from Kinston, where it showed Wednesday, and the tents are pitched in Munford park, near the railroad. The Reflector is issued several hours earlier today to give the printers a chance to see the show, and as we go to press thousands of people are gathered on the streets waiting to see the street parade.

There will be two performances, at 2 and 8 p. m.

Skating Rink Reopens.

Saved His Comrades Life.

"While returning from the Grand Army encampment at Washington City, a comrade from Elgin, Ill., was taken with Cholera Morbus and was in a critical condition," says Mr. J. E. Houghland, of Elgin, Iowa. I gave him Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and believe saved his life. I have been engaged ten years in immigration work and conducted many parties to the south and west. I always carry this remedy and have used it successfully on many occasions. Sold by J. L. Wooten.

Summer Diarrhoea in Children.

During the hot weather of the summer months the first unnatural looseness of a child's bowels should have immediate attention, so as to check the disease before it becomes serious. All that is necessary is a few doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy followed by a dose of castor oil to cleanse the system. Rev. M. H. Stockland, pastor of the first M. E. Church, Little Falls, Minn., writes: "We have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for several years and find it a very valuable remedy, especially for summer disorders in children." A Different Spelling of "Turner." Apropos to this matter of simplified spelling, it was the topic of conversation at a literary gathering in New York the other evening. There was serious and emphatic discussion for some time when at last one of the company very solemnly inquired if any one present could pronounce the word "phtholog-yrrh." There was much questioning, much repetition of the conglomerate mass of letters; then it was given up. "Simple enough," declared the propounder of the puzzle. "It spells 'turner.' Don't you see? Phth is pronounced t, as in phthisic; olo is pronounced ur, as in colonel; gn is pronounced n, as in gnat, and yrrh is pronounced er, as in myrrh." Amid shouts of laughter that word which nobody could pronounce was finally pronounced by all to be the very best argument of the evening in favor of simplified spelling. —New York Times.

A Clever Spaniel.

Spaniels are full of resource, and their exploits in retrieving wounded birds are wonderful. A small brown and white spaniel broke its fore leg which was set in stiff bandages hardened with some preparation. It could only go on three legs, but hopped out after its master with the other dogs when these were taken for a walk. There had been a pheasant shoot, and the little spaniel could not resist slipping off to smell down the side of a small belt. It discovered a winged cock pheasant, dashed after it on three legs and caught and retrieved it, hopping into the road with the big bird in its mouth. —Country Gentleman.

Old Heads and Young Hearts.

"Now, Samuel," said his doting mother, "you are going to see one of the nicest girls tonight you ever met, and I want you to make a good impression. Now, the way to do that is to show appreciation. As some one says, 'Be a good listener.' Now, don't you forget it."

"I won't, mother," answered the dutiful Samuel.

At another house, the one to which Samuel's feet were tending, a loving aunt was saying to her visiting niece:

"Now, if Sam comes, don't you rattle on as if you hadn't any brains. Just you keep quiet and let him do the talking. He'll like you all the better for it."

And to this day those match-making women can't understand why those two young folk despise each other. —London Tit-Bits.

Waning Love.

"What's the matter, dear?" her mother asked, seeing the trouble in the young wife's face.

She had just received a telegram and sat with the yellow paper crumpled in her lap.

"It's from Douglas," she replied. "Has anything happened to him? I hope he hasn't been in a railroad accident."

"No; he says he's well and will be home tomorrow, but he only uses seven words when he might have put in three more." —Chicago Record-Herald.

Drinking With Meals.

A fact that thin persons who wish to become fat should bear in mind is that much more food may be eaten and it will be more thoroughly digested if one drinks than if one does not drink while eating. No doubt many have noticed the relief experienced when, replete with food, they have sipped water. Frequently I have seen children writhing with the pain of colic instantly relieved by a few swallows of water. Dr. Jacobi has said that the colic of infants is due to a too concentrated milk or other food and that the free drinking of water will often cure it. —G. E. Flint in New York World.

The Shortest Names.

Many years ago there was a shop kept in the Rue de Louvain, in Brussels, by Therese O, and there is a Mme. O living with her two children at Molenbeck, a suburb of the Belgian capital, according to the Buffalo Commercial. In the Rue de l'Angle, in the same commune, lives a Mr. O (with a circumflex accent), who is no relative of Mme. O. In 1868 among the Belgian recruits was a young man named O, who could not write and signed his name with a cross, yet he could so easily have learned to write his own name! In the department of Somme there is a village called Y, in the Zuyder zee there is a bay called Y and Amsterdam has the river Y. In the Chinese province of Honan there is a city called Y, and in France there is a river and in Sweden a town rejoicing in the name of A.

SHAVING IN CHINA.

It Makes the Barber a Man of Considerable Importance.

The custom of shaving the forehead and wearing the back hair long and braided in a cue is now so firmly established in China as to be quite universal. Yet it has obtained for something less than 300 years only and is of peculiar origin. When the Tartar tribes of the north invaded the Flowery Kingdom and completely subdued the inhabitants of the country they decreed that all Chinamen should wear their hair
in this style as a badge of servitude.
The rule was so vigorously enforced that it has become a firmly established custom, and, in fact, a Chinaman who fails to comply with it is treated with contempt, and life for him in the Celestial empire would be unbearable.

The face of the Celestial is generally clean shaved as well as the ing permitted only under certain conditions.

to all time of the achievements on the battlefields of Bulgaria and of the fact that the new kingdom was not hampered by traditions. At his coronation when he took the crown in his hands King Charles said: "I assume with pride this crown, wrought from a cannon sprinkled with the blood of our heroes and consecrated by the church. I accept it as a symbol of the independence and power of Roumania." The queen's golden crown is also without jewels or ornaments.—London

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
Department of State.
CERTIFICATE OF DISSOLUTION.

To All to Whom These Presents May Come—
Greeting:
Whereas, It appears to my satisfaction, by duly authenticated record of the proceedings for the voluntary dissolution thereof of the unanimous consent of all the stockholders, deposited in my office, that The National Salvage Company, a corporation of this State, whose principal office is situated in the town of Greenville, County of Pitt, State of North Carolina, (Charles T. Munford being the agent therein and in charge thereof, upon whom process may be served), has complied with the requirements of Chapter 21, Revisal of 1905, entitled "Corporations," preliminary to the issuing of this Certificate of Dissolution.
Now, therefore, I, J. Bryan Grimes, Secretary of the State of North Carolina, do hereby certify that the said corporation did, on the 9th day of August, 1906, file in my office, duly executed and attested consent in writing to the dissolution of said corporation executed by all the stockholders thereof which said consent and the record of the proceedings aforesaid are now on file in my sal-office as provided by law.
In Testimony Whereof, I have hereto set my hand and affixed my official seal, at Raleigh, this 9th day of August A. D. 1906.
[Seal]
J. Bryan Grimes,
Secretary of State.

The presence of Uncle Sam's bluejackets in Cuba is having a quieting effect on the insurgents. But there is no promise as to how long they will be quiet.

The farmers of this section do not know what they are missing in not encouraging the development of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company. We have seen several letters lately to Mr. O. L. Joyner from farmers in other parts of North Carolina begging him to go to their sections and organize the farmers in the consolidated movement. One party writing to him stated that if he would go to that section ninety five per cent of the farmers would at once join the movement. Watch our prediction as to the future of this Company. It is on solid ground and the men at the head of it propose to keep it there.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

(By Occasional Contributor)

The Standard Oil Company is now preparing to take over the distilleries. Evidently want to make a corner on fassil oil.

It is reported that Germany has intervened in Riga. The Kaiser evidently wants to set Mr Roosevelt a good precedent.

Seeing the experience that he has had with the insurrections in congress, it is no wonder that President Roosevelt looks upon President Palma as an amateur, and the tempest in Cuba as of the tea pot variety.

It has been suggested that a joint debate should be arranged between Mr. Jerome and Mr Hearst. It is quite possible that if this is done Mr. Hearst will, as usual, turn over the job to his managing editor.

A young woman of St. Louis, Mo., has been committed to the insane asylum because she imagines she will marry a rich man. If this is a sign of mental aberration, there are numerous other young ladies who should not be at large.—Durham Sun, Universalist Convention.

The Universalist State Convention will convene in the Delphia Moye Chapel, in our city, on the 5, 6 and 7th of October. The public is cordially invited to attend all the services. The Universalists desire us to say, they will appreciate assistance in entertaining the delegates. There will be about fifty of them. If you can help, phone to Mrs. W. M. King.

A Royal Letter.

When I begin a letter to you, I regret difficulty is to leave off again. Oh! how warm it makes me feel to know there is one person in the world to whom one is every-thing! A lover is the most precious, the most marvelous possession. No wonder people like having them! And I used to think that so silly. Heavens! what an absurd person I have been! Why, love is the one thing worth having. Every-thing else—talents, interests, art, religion, learning, the whole trundlement, are so many drags with which the starved, the loverless, try to drug their pains, to put themselves to sleep.

How strange and dreadful love is! Till you know it, you are so sure the world is very good and pleasant in these serene, frost-bitten regions where you stand alone, breathing the thin air of family affection, shone upon gently by the mild and misty sun of general esteem. Then comes love, and pulls you down. For what? A descent? Isn't it? Some-thing, though it is so great a glory is a coming-down as well. Down from the pride of absolute independence of body and soul, down from the highmightsness of indifference, to something fierce, hot and consuming.—From "Fraulein Schmidt and Mr. Anstruther" in the October Delineator—

It will soon be the fashion to baptize babies in this country with water from the Jordan. All babies of rich parents will doubtless have that distinction. A copyrighted special from Alexandria, Egypt, to the New York Herald Company, tells us about the scheme. It says that Colonel Clifford Nadaud, of Covington, Ky., president of the International River Jordan Water Company—“arrived yesterday from Constantinople where he was able to obtain from the Turkish government the sole right of shipping the water of the Jordan to all parts of the world for baptismal and other purposes. The water will be shipped in casks bearing the seal of the Turkish authorities and the American consul, under strict supervision of the Patriarch of Jerusalem. It will be bottled in the United States in bonded warehouses.”—Charlotte Chronicle are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart.

Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

Origin of the Name "Puss."

A great many years ago the people of Egypt, who had many idols, worshiped the cat, among others. They thought she was like the moon because she was more active at night and because her eyes changed like the moon, which is sometimes full and at other times only a light crescent, or, as we say, a half moon. Did you ever notice pussy's eyes change? So they made an idol of a cat's head and named it Pasht. The same name they gave to the moon, for the word means the face of the moon. The word has been changed to "Pas" and "Pus" and has come at last to be "puss," the name the most of us give to the cat. Puss and pussy cat are pet names of kitty anywhere now. Who ever thinks of the name as given to her thousands of years ago and the people who then bowed down and prayed to her?

Chief Was Disappointed.

Colonel Bill Zevely of Muskegee, the leading lawyer of Indian Territory, has many clients among the affluent aborigines of the Creek, Cherokee and other nations. Colonel Bill is a fine, upstanding man.

A few days ago some Indians came to see the great father and were taken to the White House by Chief Porter. The Indians had a short powwow with the president and came away.

"What did you think of him?" asked Chief Porter as they were walking through the White House grounds.

There was no response for a few moments. Then one of the visiting chiefs said: "I was disappointed. I expected to see a fine looking man like Colonel Zevely."—New York World.

Turning the Tables.

"A Fort Dodge physician, a Dr. Pitcoe," said an Iowa man, "once had a grave dug for a patient, supposed to be dying, who afterward recovered, and over this error of judgment the doctor was joked for many years. Once he attended, in consultation with three conferees, another patient. This patient really died. After the death, as the physicians discussed the case together, one of them said:

"Since quick burial is necessary, we might inter the body temporarily. I understand our brother here has a vacant grave on hand."

"Dr. Pitcoe smiled.
"Yes," he said, "I believe I am the only physician present whose graves are not all filled."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

A Story of John Allen.

Everybody regrets that Senator Blackburn of Kentucky failed of re-election, for he is one of the most popular men in public life. And of course he feels his defeat keenly, although he is a philosopher and faces the inevitable with a cheerful countenance at least. To a man condoling with him the other day he related an anecdote of John Allen and the late Speaker Reed. The latter had been defeated for the presidential nomination. Allen had been defeated for the United States senate, and they returned to Washington about the same time. They met in one of the corridors of the capitol and shook hands silently. Sympathy and consolation oozed from their grasp. Words were unnecessary, but Allen remarked in his quaint way:

"Tom, there's a dangerous indifference about the public welfare floating about," and, shaking his head mournfully, he added, "The people ain't picking their best men this year."

The Air Stealer.

Reginald DeKoven was talking about a composer whose work is reminiscent—whose compositions, that is to say, are largely plagiarisms, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

"He must be a man of genius," said Mr. DeKoven, smiling. "He resembles so remarkably his predecessors, the famous composers of the past."

"How does he resemble any famous composers?" a pianist asked.

"Well," said Mr. DeKoven, still smiling, "he resembles them in the matter of inspiration. Rossini got his inspiration from the society of beautiful women. Wagner got his best inspiration in the midst of magnificent art works. Our friend in like manner is best inspired when he is surrounded by the compositions of other musicians."

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

A Clever Trick With a Handkerchief and a Coin.

All that is necessary to have in order to perform the trick are a handkerchief, a ten-cent piece and a piece of soap. With a knife cut off a piece of soap about a quarter of an inch in diameter and stick this piece of soap on the hem of the handkerchief in one corner. Place the dime in the center of the handkerchief, which must lie flat on the table. Take the corner which has the soap on it and fold it over, placing it gently on the dime, now fold the other corners over, placing each corner on the dime. The corner that has the soap on it is the one to your right. When the corners are folded the handkerchief will be in the form of a diamond, with one of the points toward the performer. Place the thumb and forefinger of each hand at the point of the diamond nearest to you. Pick it up, letting the four corners fall apart, at the same time sliding the right hand to the corner where the dime is. Shake the handkerchief and show that the dime has disappeared.—American Boy.

About Steel Needles.

It is said that steel needles were invented by the Spanish Moors. Before their introduction thorns and fish bones, the latter with a hole pierced for an eye, were in use. The first needles used in London were made by a Moor in the reign of Henry VIII., and in Queen Mary's day steel needles were sold in Cheapside, says Home Chat. After this time the manufacture increased rapidly, many Germans going to England and establishing needle works in various places.

Now is the Watchword.

"Now" is the syllable ticking from the clock of time. "Now" is the watchword of the wise. "Now" is on the banner of the prudent. Whenever anything presents itself to us in the shape of work, whether mental or bodily, we should do it with all our might, remembering that "now" is the only time for us. It is a sorry way to get through the world by putting off till tomorrow, saying, "Then I will do it." "Now" is ours. "Then" we may never have.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

Geographical Game That Requires Quick Thinking.

The players are seated in a circle or around the room, and one takes a handkerchief and, throwing it at another, calls "Europe!" A time-keeper begins counting ten rather quickly, and the person to whom the handkerchief was thrown must name some place, river, mountain, person or thing connected with some country of Europe before number ten is reached. It may be arranged that the person answering correctly puts the next question. If incorrect or unable to answer a forfeit must be paid.

The players must be wideawake, for the one who throws the handkerchief will look at one while throwing in quite a different direction.

The game may be made more difficult as well as interesting by taking special countries, and for older players a century may be given, and the famous characters belonging to it must be quickly thought out.

THE SHAPE OF THE SUN.

Professor C. L. Poor as the result of careful study of heliometer measurements confirmed by that of solar photographs makes the remarkable suggestion that the sun periodically changes its figure, being sometimes an oblate spheroid, like the earth, with its equatorial diameter exceeding the polar and sometimes a prolate spheroid, having a greater polar than equatorial diameter. His idea is that the solar globe is to be regarded as a vibrating body, having an equatorial diameter on the average slightly in excess of the polar, but changing at certain times so that the ratio of the two diameters is temporarily reversed. The period of variability, he thinks, is the same as the sun spot period. The changes of figure, if they really occur, are so small that only the most delicate observations can make them manifest, but, affecting a body of such supreme importance as the sun, they must possess much scientific interest.

A Davitt Story.

The Tribune of London in speaking of Michael Davitt gives this characteristic story of the Irish patriot while in prison: "This high strung and keenly intelligent man was put to a task for which he was physically unfitted, that of pulling trolley loads of stone through the quarry, and many a time a poor wretched criminal, sympathizing with the one armed man, would give an extra pull to spare his disabled chum. A few months ago Davitt was passing down Ludgate hill and was startled to see this Christian criminal selling pennyworths at the kerb. Needless to say, Davitt bought his whole stock and a day or two later set him up in business with a new and better stock. 'I have kept straight, Mr. Davitt, so help me, God,' the poor fellow protested."

The Empress of Byzantium.

Apropos of the Spanish queen's new title, Queen of Jerusalem, there is a claimant to that designation living in London, Princess Christoforo. She lives quietly in West Kensington and is married to an Englishman and has sons in the English army. She calls herself Queen of Jerusalem and Empress of Byzantium. Although not rich, she keeps up a certain state and receives her adherents seated on a dais and with a canopy above her head. The members of the various royalist societies know her well. She attends the special services at the old chapel of St. Mary-in-the-Wardrobe, in the city, and heads the Jacobite procession, which once a year deposits wreaths on the statue of Charles I.

Greek Athletics.

The recent Olympic games aroused such interest in Athens that two wealthy Greeks, Messrs. Bostovits and Tsanakles, have given $60,000 to the government for the building of a gymnasium at Athens. The building and equipment will be personally superintended by Crown Prince Constantine. The Swedish system of gymnastics will be largely followed, and, if present plans are carried out, officers of the Swedish army will be employed as instructors. During the first three years the running expenses will be defrayed by the two founders.

Drinking Milk.

Some complain that they cannot drink milk without being "distressed by it." The most common reason why milk is not well borne is due to the fact that people drink it too quickly. If a glass of it is swallowed hastily it enters into the stomach and then forms in one solid curdled mass, difficult of digestion. If, on the other hand, the same quantity is sipped and three minutes at least are occupied in drinking it, the reaching the stomach it is so divided that when coagulated, as it must be, the gastric juice while digestion is going on, instead of being in one hard, condensed mass, upon the outside of which only the digestive fluids can act, it is more in the form of a sponge, and in and out of the entire bulk the gastric juice can play freely and perform its function.

Should Work Both Ways.

Dr. Kallowmell (after a thorough examination)—There is nothing at all the matter with you. All you need is a little rest.

Caller—Thank you. Well, I must be—

Dr. Kallowmell—But thanks, my good man, will not pay my office rent.

Caller—Maybe not, but that's all I got for overhauling your watch the other day and finding that all it needed was winding.

The Seed of Hemp.

Chief Justice Cattlin (1571), from whom the Spencers, Russells and many of the greatest English families are descended, when sentencing a prisoner convicted as a go-between in the correspondence between Mary of Scotland and the bishop of Ross thus addressed him: "The good seedsman hath sowed in you good gifts, but as it is said in the gospel, then came the enemy and he sowed darnel, cockle and noisome weeds. Such wicked seedsman have been in England. If they had sown the right seed for their own use, the seed of hemp, and felt of it, then had they received according to their deserving, hemp, meet seed for such seedsman."—London Standard.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

Sibulous Husband Suggests an Idea to His Amiable Spouse.

When he got home in a night liner at 3 o'clock the other morning he found his wife propped up in bed reading a recent American historical novel. She was quite amiable.

"Oh, good morning," she said sweetly. "Has the milkman come?" He steadied himself against the chiffonier and struck an attitude of extreme dignity.

"Whaz zhat you're readin', my dear?" he inquired of her.

"Oh, one of these historical novels," she replied. "It's time to get up, isn't it, so what's the use of your coming to bed?"

"I didn't know you were in-shreshsted in hish'ry, my dear," said he, with profound solemnity.

"No?" said she. "Well, it is not to be expected that you could be really very familiar with my tastes. By the way, there is a story here of how the eminent Henry Clay happened to say he'd rather be right than president. Do you know, I've been thinking over that remark in connection with you."

"Zhaz sho?" he inquired wonderingly. "Shink I'm anuzzer Clay, eh?"

"Well," she replied, soft and low, "I think you'd rather be drunk than president." And then the servant girl's alarm clock could have been heard ferociously ticking in the attic room.

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

When Making Window Curtains Allow For Shrinkage.

When making curtains at home it is best to make the hems from one and one-half inches to two inches wide. The corners must always be mitered, as this looks much more finished than extending the side hem to the bottom and then folding it up again. As curtains are apt to shrink or stretch after being washed, it is well to turn in two or three thicknesses in the top hem, and this should be sewed by hand, so that it can be adjusted each time it is laundered. If this is done, the curtains will not be several inches too short or two or three inches longer than the space they are intended to fill when they go up after they are first laundered.

An Unanswerable Argument.

The superintendent of the Indian school at Chamberlain, S. D., nodded toward a prin, grave little girl. "Sometimes," he said, "the arguments of children are unanswerable. You see that little girl with straight black hair tied with a red ribbon? Well, her name is Arrow. She is a chief's daughter. Her father and mother are quite civilized, and she is being brought up in a household as civilized as a Bostonian's. In argument it is sometimes impossible to get the better of her. She said to her mother one day:

"I wish I had a new doll."
"But your old doll," her mother answered, "is as good as ever."

"So am I as good as ever," little Arrow retorted, "but the doctor brought you a new baby."

Naming His Quiverful.

A farmer in an English town has eight daughters, who are named to represent his feelings at the time of their birth. The eldest is called "Joy," and the second bears the name of "Summer," as she was born in July. The third arrived at a time of financial difficulties and would have been called "Sorrow," but her mother refused to have the name. So Sarah was substituted. Things were brighter when number four came, and "Hope" was her portion, while five and six—twins—were respectively "Spring" and "April," this last being their birth month. The seventh was styled "Harvest" and the youngest "Comfort."

Division of Labor.

Two English clergymen, one a very stalwart and muscular Christian, the other a frail little man, went for a sail at Brighton, accompanied by an old salt. When they were some distance out at sea the wind commenced to blow a gale, so the sailor hauled down the sheet and said, "Now one of you gents and me will have to take to the oars to get her home." The muscular Christian said, "Very well, my friend will row, and I will pray."
"No, no," responded the sailor; "you row. Let the little un pray."

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

Some Queer Words to Be Found in the English Language.

"Bob," said Tom, "which is the most dangerous word to pronounce in the English language?"

"Don't know," said Tom, "unless it's a swearing word."

"Pooh!" said Tom. "It's stumbled, because you are sure to get a tumble between the first and the last letter."

"Ha, ha!" said Bob. "Now I've got one for you. I found it one day in the paper. Which is the longest word in the English language?"

"Incomprehensibility," said Tom promptly.

"No, sir. It's smiles, because there's a whole mile between the first and last letter."

"Ho, ho!" cried Tom. "That's nothing. I know a word that has over three miles between its beginning and ending."

"What's that?" asked Bob faintly.

"Beleaguered," said Tom. — Indianapolis Star.

The Care of Linen.

No linen will become yellow when packed away if it is rough dried beforehand. It must have no starch in it and should be folded without ironing. In this condition it may be kept for years without showing the least sign of decrepitude. Use pure soap, fresh clean water and an abundance of it, much air and sunshine and carefully avoid starch.

Adam.

In the Hebrew language there are four names for man—adam, geber, enosh and ish. It is usually understood that the second title concerns a higher dignity than the first, that the third is nobler than the second and that ish is the most precious of all. The latter three have plurals—gebarim, anashim and ishim—but for adam there is no plural. When humanity feels as one, when the loss and suffering of one district bring forth active aid and sympathy from every city town and hamlet in the country, then their unity of purpose receives the approval of the Almighty, "Attem keruyim adam" ("Ye are called adam").

Curious Leaseholds.

Some of the English tenures are exceedingly curious. A farm near Broadhouse, in Yorkshire, pays annually to the landlord a snowball in midsummer and a red rose at Christmas. The manor of Foston is held by a rental of two arrows and a loaf of bread. An estate in the north of England is held by the exhibition, before a court every seven years of a certain vase owned by the family, another in Suffolk by an annual rental of two white doves. The British government holds land in Chatham by paying the heirs of the man from whom it was bought two peppercorns. The man's descendants now live in Holland, and the peppercorns are annually sent thither in a gold box.

Justin McCarthy was once showing a young American married lady over the house of commons. In passing through the library he mentioned to her, as a more or less interesting fact, that it was against the rules for a woman to sit down there.

"Is that really a law of the place?" asked the American lady, with wide open and innocent eyes.

"The very law," answered Mr. McCarthy.

"Then," said the visitor calmly, but determinedly, "just see me break it!" And, drawing up a chair, she sat resolutely down at the table.

Modest Claims Often Carry the Most Conviction.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by J.L. Woolen.
