Crazed by Drink and Ope.

Officers Cauble, Monroe and Graves had a struggle of long duration at the Southern passenger station last night with George Correy, a Gaffney, S. C., negro. Correy was on his way to Linwood to join the Southern's construction force and became violent at the station. The three officers overpowered him with the greatest difficulty and finally lodged him in jail. The negro who does not appear to be too bright, says he was crazed for the time by cocaine and whiskey. —Salisbury Post.

Found Boxes Closed.

People get busy and over look small things sometimes, but "Uncle Sam" don't. Postoffice box rent falls due every quarter, the time limit for payment being the 10th of the month. Many failing to pay in time this month a number of boxes were found closed this morning when people went for their mail. The result was good box rent receipts today.

J. W. Mobley gathered from his potato patch, about one-eighth of an acre, 52 bushels of eating potatoes, exclusive of slips. This is a yield at the rate of more than 400 bushels to the acre. Who can beat it? —Tarboro Southerner.

MRS. J. L. DANIEL DEAD.

An Aged Lady Passes Away.

Mrs. Lizzie Ann Daniel, wife of Mr. John L. Daniel, died Friday night a little past 9 o'clock, after a long illness.

Mrs. Daniel was born Aug. 8th, 1838, making her a little past 68 years of age at the time of her death. She was married 46 years ago and is survived by her husband and three daughters—Mrs. Maggie Hammond, Mrs. J. L. Barnhill and Miss Louie Daniel.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. A. Hornaday at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Methodist church, of which Mrs. Daniel was a faithful member. The interment was in Cherry Hill cemetery, the pall bearers being Messrs. Wiley Brown, A. B. Ellington, F. M. Hornaday, Charles Cobb, G. E. Harris, O. E. Warren, L. H. Pender and James Brown.

An Entering Wedge.

The people of Asheville are soon to vote on the proposition to adopt compulsory education for that city. The election on this question will be held at the same time of the general election in next month. So far as our memory now serves us, this is the first election on this important question to be held in North Carolina, and the result will therefore be watched with interest throughout the State. The indication at present is that compulsory education will carry in the mountain city. While North Carolina is not yet ready to adopt the system, if the proposition should carry at Asheville it will probably serve as an entering wedge in the direction of compulsory education for the entire State later on. —Waxhaw Enterprise.

Disciples Convention.

LaGrange, N. C. Oct. 12.—The State convention of the Disciples of Christ of North Carolina will be held in the Christian church in Dunn during the last week in October. E. A. Moye, of Greenville, is the president. Addresses will be made by eminent national workers of the churches of Christ.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

Fire Attendance and Interesting Session.

The Teachers' Association of Pitt county assembled in the graded school building, this morning at 10:30, and was one of the best attended sessions in the history of the association.

After devotional exercises conducted by Rev. J. A. Hornaday, the association was called to order by President J. H. McIver and the organization for the coming year was taken up.

A committee of three consisting of G. E. Lineberry, G. W. Prescott and Miss Wright were appointed to nominate officers for the coming year, which were as follows: J. A. McArthur, President, F. C. Nye, Vice President, and Miss Florence Felton Secretary. The program for the day was taken up, and Superintendent H. B. Smith made an excellent talk on the construction of globes and maps.

Then Miss Wright, of Centerville school, read one of the best papers we ever heard on the decoration of the school room.

It was regretted very much that Gov. Jarvis was prevented from being present to deliver his address.

The association has made an excellent beginning for this term and we predict some fine work this year.

A Working Colored Man.

If all the colored people were as industrious as John Hall, a tenant on Mr. Wm. McArthur's farm in Beaver Dam township, they would have money and get along much better. The other day John sold a load of tobacco at the Star warehouse for $276.29, the average being 19½ cents a pound. John is a regular subscriber to The Reflector, too.

Hearst Accepts.

MEMORIAL ARCH.

Daughters of the Confederacy So Decide.

Durham, N. C., Oct. 12.—Today the ending of the tenth session of the Daughters of the Confederacy was reached. There was a final business session tonight, at which time the convention adjourned sine die.

At the business session this morning the ladies discussed at length the plans for building a Memorial arch at the Confederate Cemetery in Raleigh. This arch, it is proposed, shall be built by the various chapters over the State and the stones furnished will bear the names of the Confederate dead there, or as many as possible, and in addition there will be on each stone the name of the chapter furnishing same. In this way it will perpetuate the memory of those dead and at the same time be a memorial to the chapters of heroic women over the State who are keeping fresh the memory of those who fought for the "lost cause."

During the discussion some one proposed the taking of pledges from the various chapters and it was soon ascertained that all of the chapters in the State were willing to give $20 each for this cause. There are 75 chapters in the State and this will insure the raising of $1,500 at once. Most of the time of the session was taken up with this discussion.

*Not quite so cool today.

Much cotton has come in this week.

A woman who has small feet is never afraid of catching cold from wearing low shoes on a stormy day.

The way for a woman to be sure her husband is a good man is for everybody else to be sure he isn't.

A girl would not get much pleasure out of flirting if her mother told her it was good for her health.

CITY AIR.

There Are Two Forms of Impurity, Gaseous and Solid.

The importance of ventilation and of a constant supply of fresh air in living rooms, whether sleeping or waking, has often been insisted upon. Without air life is impossible, and unless that air be moderately pure health cannot be maintained, although it is astonishing and a proof of the wonderful adaptation of living beings to their environment to note how great an amount of contamination of the air can be borne with seeming impunity.

There are two forms of impurity in the air—gaseous and solid. The gases, those resulting from exhalations from the lungs, and in city houses from the little unnoticed leaks from the gas pipes and from defective plumbing, are the most injurious. For the removal of these free ventilation through open windows and open fireplaces is most efficacious. But it is of little service in the removal of the other kind of impurity—that is to say, the solid particles of matter—dust—which are always floating in the air of houses as well as in that of the streets.

A beam of sunlight entering through a half closed shutter makes visible this dust, and as one looks with startled eyes on the beam which lights up the floating particles the wonder grows that the lungs are not made solid by this stream of dust flowing in with every breath. Fortunately the nose and the moist lining of the air tubes are designed to filter the air by arresting these particles before they can enter the delicate air chambers of the lungs. They do their work well, but not perfectly, and the greater the amount of dust the more they fail in their function.

Workmen engaged in dusty trades—carpet beaters, coal miners, potters, grinders, felt workers—often acquire disease of the lungs from the inhalation of dust.

Dust particles are injurious not only mechanically, but also and chiefly because they act as carriers of disease germs.

Since it is impossible to remove dust entirely by ventilation, it is necessary to do what is practicable to prevent its dissemination through the air. Settled dust is ugly, but inoffensive. But when the well meaning but ignorant housewife flops it into the air with a feather duster she only rouses the sleeping lion. Brooms and feather dusters are relics of barbarism and should be banished. The damp cloth for furniture and the mop and carpet sweeper for floors, or, best of all, the vacuum process, are the modern civilized agents of cleanliness. These gather up the dust and do not simply scatter it in the air, where it is invisible, but pernicious.—Youth's Companion.

The Honest Office Boy.

A Baltimore lawyer had engaged a new office boy, and to test the boy's honesty he put a twenty dollar note under the ink stand on his desk, letting the end protrude, when he went out to lunch. On his return a couple of hours later the note was gone. A silver quarter occupied its place.

Pale with rage and horror, the lawyer called the new boy to him.

"Look here," he shouted, "when I went out to lunch, a twenty dollar note was under this ink stand. Now there is only a quarter there. How do you explain it?"

The boy smiled brightly. "Why, sir," he said, "just after you left a gentleman called with a wine and cigar bill that he had to pay before he could go. I had been standing for four years, so I settled it with the twenty dollar note under the ink stand. He said, 'Why, here's the bill, but I don't have a cent to pay it.'"

Local Pride.

There is a railway map of the Lancaster and York roads, and the station points are marked. The map is of the Victoria station in London. The painter whose work it was had an experience with local pride. While at work he was asked to paint a sign for the station. He painted it, and the sign read: "Lancaster and York Roads." The painter's name was Owdham. Deeds knew Owdham's name, and he was a bigger man than Owdham and Royton both put together. They'll get punched if some chaps as Ah know fra Owdham cops thee doin' it."

Modest Claims Often Carry the Most Conviction.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by J. L. Wooten.

SATURDAY, OCT. 13, 1906.

Wilkes county hobs up with the first snow of the season in North Carolina. You can't lose Wilkes.

Republican speakers are making a desperate effort to win votes on their side, and seem to care not how carelessly they handle the truth.

Vice-President Fairbanks could not freeze his son out of the notion, and the young man ran away with his sweetheart and got married.

We complain of the sudden cold snap down this way, but suppose there was a snow storm with it like the West is getting.

The bumper cotton crop predicted by Wall street is not coming in evidence. The crop was already very short and the early frosts throughout the South will cut it off more.

J. B. Lloyd, of Tarboro, formerly prominent in this State as a Populist, is going to Illinois to take position as editor in chief of a Democratic paper. Such a change in environments may rid him of his old time ideas.

The Spanish war veterans have decided that in States where there were camps composed of negro members of the organization the negro camps should be organized into separate departments and that hereafter the word "negro" should be used instead of the word "colored."

No wonder there was a political upheaval in Cuba. The patriots found out that there were thirteen million dollars in the treasury. The "outs" thought it was time for their inning if they were ever to get any of the benefits of freedom which in their estimation is holding office and looting the treasury.—Wilmington Messenger.

The negro may be taxed in the South without being allowed representation, but there is not a state in the South in which he does not cost the state twice as much as it gets out of him.—Durham Herald.

LAND SALE.

J. Rountree, on the east by the lands of Zack Allen, and on the west by the lands of R. H. Allen, containing 200 acres, more or less, and being the land conveyed to E. M. Whichard by T. J. ### Johnny Hickey.

English people in New Zealand have a rough and ready method of nicknaming the Maori or native names. Kete Marae the English always refer to as "Kitty Maria." One of the most formidable Maori rebellions was headed by a chief named Honi Heki, but the British soldiers called him "Johnny Hickey," and out of this grew the legend of a tradition that he was really an Irish man paying off old scores in the guise of a Maori chief.—Argonaut.

Hard Traveling.

Hard traveling had no greater foe than for a man who recently rode the 500 miles from Paris to Marseille, strapped to an axle beneath a French railway car. When discovered at the Paris station, he was so tired stained that he was at first taken for a negro. However, when he was handed over to the police charged with intent to defraud the railway company, he said he was a Romanian. Beyond a little stiffness he was none the worse.

YOUNG GIRL

For boy, man or woman is quickly out of pain if Bucklen's Arnica Salve is applied promptly. G. J. Welch, of Tekonsha, Mich., says: "I use it in my family for cuts, sores and all skin injuries, and find it perfect." Quickest Pile cure known. Best healing salve made. 25c at J. L. Wooten drug store.

Young ladies should be most particular about their looks. Don't attire yourself carelessly; be faultlessly dressed, and Hillier's Bucky Mountain Tea will do the rest. Tea or Tablets, 35 cents. Wooten Drug Store.

The End of the World

of troubles that robbed E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Ia., of all usefulness, came when he began taking Electric Bitters. He writes: "Two years ago kidney trouble caused me great suffering, which I would never have survived had I not taken Electric Bitters. They also cured me of General Debility." Sure cure for all Stomach, Liver and Kidney complaints, Blood diseases, Headache, Dizziness and weakness or bodily decline. Price 50c. Guaranteed by J. L. Wooten's drug store.

Saved His Comrades Life.

"While returning from the Grand Army encampment at Washington, D. C., a comrade from Elgin, Ill., was taken with Cholera Morbus and was in a critical condition," says Mr. J. E. Houghland, of Eldon, Iowa. I gave him Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and believe saved his life. I have been engaged ten years in immigration work and conducted many parties to the south and west. I always carry this remedy and have used it successfully on many occasions. Sold by J. L. Wooten.

THE SONS OF LIBERTY.

Norfolk's Early Protest Against King George's Tyranny.

But few of the most diligent students of American history know that Norfolk patriots denied the right of Great Britain to tax the colonies without representation over two months before the promulgation of the celebrated Mecklenburg declaration of independence and nearly five months before representatives of the thirteen colonies met at Philadelphia and formally renounced the authority of Great Britain.

Yet as far back as March 13, 1776, a number of Norfolk citizens assembled under the name of "Sons of Liberty" and announced in resolutions of bold and certain terms their determined opposition to any encroachments of British authority on their rights to govern themselves under the British crown.

These Norfolk people did not declare their independence. They expressly affirmed their wish to be subjects of King George III. They merely declared that there should be no taxation without representation. Among the many prominent Norfolk names attached to the document are Henry Tucker, Robert Tucker, Robert Tucker, Jr.; Maximilian Calvert, Thomas Butt, Thomas Willoughby, John Taylor, Jr.; Joseph Hutchings, Jr., and James Parker.

The resolutions adopted read as follows:

Having taken into consideration the evident tendency of that oppressive and unconstitutional act of parliament commonly called the stamp act and being desirous that our sentiments should be known to posterity, and recollecting that we are a part of the colony which first in general assembly openly expressed its detestation of the said act, which is pregnant with ruin and productive of the most pernicious consequences, and unwilling to rivet the shackles of slavery and oppression on ourselves and millions yet unborn, we have unanimously come to the following resolutions:

Resolved, That we acknowledge our lord and sovereign, King George III., to be our rightful and lawful king and that we will at all times to the utmost of our power and ability support and defend his most sacred person, crown and dignity and shall always be ready when constitutionally called upon to assist his majesty with our lives and fortunes and to defend his just rights and prerogatives.

Resolved, That we will by all lawful ways and means which Divine Providence has put into our hands defend ourselves in the full enjoyment of, and preserve inviolate to posterity, those inestimable privileges of all free born British subjects of being taxed only by representatives of their own choosing and of being tried by none but a jury of their peers. And that if we quietly submit to the execution of the said stamp act all our claims to civil liberty will be lost and we and our subjects in America are deprived of the invaluable privileges aforesaid.

Resolved, That a committee be appointed who shall in such manner as they think proper go upon necessary business and make public the above resolutions and that they correspond as they shall see occasion with the Associated Sons of and Friends to Liberty in the other British colonies in America.

As a result of the adoption of these resolutions Lord Dunmore, who commanded the British fleet off Norfolk, made a demonstration before the city, and several shots were fired from the frigate Liverpool.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Alexandra's Jewels.

Queen Alexandra has a safe full of diamonds and pearls. She owns some wonderful colored gems, rubies, sapphires and emeralds, and the great Kohinoor, the property of the British crown, has been reset for her. But the jewel she values most of all is her engagement ring—set with a beryl, an emerald, a ruby, a topaz, a jacinth and another emerald. The initial letters of these stones spell the name by which her husband is intimately known and by which she has always called him. Next to this in her affections comes the diamond cross given to her by the women of Denmark on her marriage and the crown of brilliants, set in silver, which the women of England presented to her on her silver wedding day.

Constructing a Play.

A fat notebook and a pencil are the stock in trade of that clever playwright, Captain Basil Hood. He declares that he always writes the fourth act, if it is to be a four act piece, before anything else. This is a comparatively finished piece of work before any other act is begun. The third comes next—this only a rough sketch—and then the second, while the first is left to the last. Collecting ideas as he works, the playwright makes careful notes, and then, introducing them into his work, remodels the situations and dialogue as needed.—London

WHISKERS.

Once upon a time the clean shaven man used to be told that he looked like a groom. To tell him so at the present day would be, by implication, to insult Mr. Chamberlain, Winston Churchill and the bishop of London. Very similar, though in the opposite direction, has been the evolution of public opinion with regard to whiskers. At the time of the Crimean war they were the badge of the military caste and were the center of sentiment accordingly. One remembers a song, once popular, of which the refrain was, "The captain with his whiskers cast a sly glance at me." To quote it is like calling up the ghost of a forgotten past. It reminds us of the modesty of the early Victorian maiden than of the lady killing propensities of the early Victorian warrior. Whiskers were one of the lady killer's weapons in those days, and it would seem from the stiles of our contemporary that the hirsute circle is completed they may be made to serve that purpose yet again.

As an experienced motorman I should like to tell of a simple way in which the life of the motorman who was killed by the third rail the other day could probably have been saved. If the conductor or guard had taken a newspaper (which is an easy article to get) and used it as a glove or mitten they could have dragged the man from under the car as soon as they reached him, which would have saved some little time in waiting for a rope. I have sometimes in running surface cars torn down overhead wires and by using a newspaper (or any paper) and folding three or four thicknesses picked up the live wire and fastened it around a pole or a fence. I am convinced that paper can be used safely in such emergencies and may in future be the means of saving life.—New York Times

Night Air.

In the old times people had an idea that the night air was noxious. They shut their windows before going to bed, under the impression that it was better to breathe the same air over and over than to have fresh air when the sun was down. That notion still survives in some regions, but it is disappearing, and now comes an Englishman—a lecturer at the Institute of Hygiene in London—who declares that night air is purer and more beneficial than the air breathed during the day. He urges people to take their walks at night as much as possible, instead of going out when the sun is blazing and the microbes holding high revel and even regrets that it isn't practicable to have children take their outdoor recreation at midnight.

The Way of Lightning.

A correspondent of Nature remarks that the now known facts seem to require a modification of the statement found in some text books that "it is impossible to say whether a flash of lightning moves from a cloud to the earth or in the opposite direction." Many photographs of lightning taken in the Transvaal show that in all cases, the discharges were from cloud to cloud or from the clouds to the earth. Quite frequently the correspondent says, he has observed lightning flashes leaving a cloud for the earth, but fading away before reaching it. The opposite phenomenon has not been observed.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

... of a certain speech:
"A good speech of meaning was subtly compressed in a very few words. It was the speech that a young girl made to an aged millionaire.
"This aged man had proposed to the young girl and she had accepted his offer.
"A few days before the wedding the old gentleman, taking the hand of his prospective bride, said with tender earnestness:
"Dear, do you love me for what I am, or for what I was?"
"I love you, dear friend," she replied, "for what you will be."—American Spectator.

Conkling's Recipe For Success.
When the late Senator Gorman of Maryland first went to the senate Mr. Conkling and he happened to be seated together upon a sofa in the senate chamber while a well known statesman of the period occupied the floor. "Gorman," said Conkling, "you have come here in good season. Let me give you a sure recipe for success. Begin every speech you make with the assertion that you, and you alone, are the purest man that ever lived and end each with the declaration that you are the bravest." And when Gorman asked Conkling why he himself had not followed this receipt Conkling answered, with a sigh, "I learned it too late."—Reader.

Disapproval.
"What are your impressions of America?"
"You are a downtrodden people," answered the European revolutionist. "You not only have laws, but you actually seem to enjoy obeying them!"—Washington Star.

Game of Fisherman Furnishes Fun and Exercise.

To play the game of fisherman mark off two lines across a clear piece of ground about twenty-five feet apart. Then let all the children count out to see who is to be the fisherman.
The fisherman must stand between the two lines of players and repeat the following rhyme:
Swim, little fishes, from the river to the sea!
Swim, little fishes—one, two, three!
At the word "three" all the children, or fishes, must run across his territory to the land beyond their opponent's line while they run he (the fisherman) must catch as many as he can.

Those who are caught now become fishermen and help him catch more fish. The game goes on as before, the fishermen all repeating the rhyme in concert until all the fishes have been caught.

Fierce Sea Monster.

Have you ever heard of a hammer headed shark? This fish is distinguished by the singular shape of its head, having the appearance of the head of a hammer. The eyes are gray and protruding, and when the fish is irritated the colors of the iris are like a flame. The most common species are long and slender in body, which is gray, and the head is black. It is usually about eleven or twelve feet long and weighs up to 500 pounds. It is bold and greedy for food, and is often found around ships even near the coast.
It has not the strength of an ordinary shark, but is more ferocious and can strike with as much force. The sailors frequently have hairbreadth escapes from this dangerous creature of the seas.

Wedding Superstitions.

Here is what happens to brides when they marry in any color they may select.

Married in white, you have chosen all right;

Married in gray, you will go far away;

Married in black, you will wish yourself back;

Married in red, you will wish yourself dead;

Married in green, ashamed to be seen;

Married in blue, he will always be true;

Married in pearl, you will live in a whirl;

Married in yellow, ashamed of your fellow;

Married in brown, you will live out of town;

Married in pink, your spirits will sink.

Boys' Hair.

A boy's hair grows one-half slower than a girl's. In boys the average rate of growth is 3 feet 3 inches in six years. During his twenty-first and twenty-fourth years a man's hair grows quicker than at any other period.

The human hair forms a profitable crop. Five tons are annually imported by the merchants of London. The Parisian harvest is upward of 200,000 pounds, equal in value to 2,000,000 a year.

Don'ts For Schoolroom.

Don't enter the room with muddy, noisy feet.

Don't move about nervously in your seats.

Don't rattle your books, slate and pencils about.

Don't be untidy about your person nor your desk.

Don't play while you work nor work while you play.
