AYDEN ITEMS.

News From a Growing Town.

C. S. Carr, of Greenville, was here Friday.

Irvin J. McLawhorn and Jas. Buck left for the State fair this morning.

Mrs. Fred McLawhorn and children spent Sunday with Mrs. J. R. Smith.

Miss Lida Roberson of Gold Point, has been visiting Miss Nina Cannon.

Mrs. Dunn, of Kinston; is here on a visit to her cousin, Mrs. R. C. Cannon.

Mrs. Charlie Johnson and children returned from a visit to Grifton yesterday.

Chief of Police Alexander has returned from his vacation and resumed his duties on the force.

Cotton is rapidly coming in. We suppose there were something like 175 bales sold here Saturday and Monday.

Mr. Yelverton, of Fremont, has temporarily located in Ayden and accepted a position as book keeper with Winslow & Mills.

How any sensible man can after hearing Senator Lee S. Overman, Saturday, be other than a Democrat is a smutty hoe cake over our 'tater trap.

The gin house of Holton & Spier, of Ridge Spring, caught fire Saturday and came near being destroyed, as it was only a slight damage was sustained.

Misses Mary Whitehead, Henrie Brown, Lillian Munn, Dora Hornady, Lena Dawson and Nina Cannon and Prof. McArthur attended the teacher's outing in Greenville Saturday.

The two year old baby of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Brown died yesterday morning and was buried Tuesday afternoon. Rev. T. H. King, of LaGrange, will conduct the services.

Sergeant E. C. Flynn and family of Fortress Monroe, who have been to see B. F. Early, father of Mrs. Flynn, left for their homes Monday. Mr. Early continues critically ill.

We very much regret to learn Mrs. M. M. Sauls is confined to her home with malarial fever. Her friends, and they are legion, in and around Ayden, earnestly wish her a speedy recovery.

It was a thunder clap among the Republicans here Saturday when the message from Greenville was read announcing the withdrawal of Col. I. A. Sugg as an aspirant for Solicitor. It was also a sky scraper when the people were told it was without his consent or knowledge that the name of Elder Fred McLawhorn was placed in the Radical list, that he was a Democrat and proposed in the coming election to vote the entire Democratic ticket. It was a hacker.

Marriage Licenses.

Register of Deeds R. Williams issued marriage licenses to the following couples since last report:

COLORED,

John Crandall and Lula Peyton. David Daughtry and Maud Blow.

Lewellen Mooring and Caroline Davis.

Monroe Vass and Laura Dixon, Rodolph Phillips and Lucy Forest.

Up to the 15th no license had been issued to white people this month.

PLEASED WITH SCHOOL PROGRESS.

Winterville, N. C., Oct 17th. Editor Reflector:

I wish to thank the person who prepared the educational statistics of Pitt county for the past eight years and had them published in The Reflector.

Although familiar with what had been done I am glad to see it reduced to figures.

In my opinion the employment of our county superintendent for all of his time was the best day's work the board of education has done in all of these eight years. We can't overestimate the worth of the teachers' association to our county. It not only trains the teachers for their work, but gives them enthusiasm to interest the parents in the better welfare of their children, and thus the children are sent to school. The worth of the enthusiastic well prepared school teacher is great and we hope the public sentiment will soon see fit to reward them more liberally.

I rejoice to know that Pitt county is to have a woman's society to promote its interest in the betterment of school houses and yards and wish them great success in their undertaking.

The school houses are our training homes for our boys and girls, and our boys and girls are the wealth of our country. Then why spare the same care for our school houses that we have for our individual homes.

The Rate Law and Separate Cars.

The process of entangling and applying the new rate law brings forth ever an anon some fact unsuspected by the general public. It now appears that the increased rigidity of supervision given the inter-State commerce commission involves, to some extent, the "Jim Crow" car laws of the Southern States. The commission in inter-State commerce, has power to investigate and punish any discrimination against any class of passengers. It is believed, however, that this will not affect day coach arrangements, further than to secure to the people of both races equal accommodations. The Southern representatives and congressmen investigated this before voting for the bill. And certainly this is the reasonable view.

Both races pay equally and should have equal accommodations. The question of whether or not they occupy the same apartments is entirely aside. Separation is no more of a discrimination against than it is for. It is feared that the law may cause friction in regard to sleeping cars and dining cars. A petition from negroes alleging discrimination on this score has already been presented to the commission. If the necessity should arise, however, it looks as if this difficulty might be avoided in like manner as the first, by giving equal but entirely separate accommodation. —Charlotte Observer.

WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

News From our Neighbor Town.

Winterville, N. C., Oct. 17th.

Rev. W. E. Cox spent Monday night with his mother, Mrs. E. E. Cox, and returned to Greenville Tuesday afternoon.

There is a series of meetings in progress at the Free Will Baptist church this week, held only at night. They will probably continue through the entire week.

Miss Mollie Maynard left this morning for Raleigh where she will spend some time visiting relatives.

Joshua Manning spent Saturday night in Ayden.

J. R. Turnage, a prosperous merchant of Ayden, was here Monday on business.

The town has driven a pump near the bank building for the benefit of its citizens and visitors. It is excellent water.

Mr. Job, of Greenville, was here Monday superintending the moving of the dynamo. The Electric Light Co. has just installed a new engine for their use.

Miss Mayne Ives, who had been visiting Misses Lala and Kate Chapman, left for Grifton Monday.

J. B. Little went to Greenville Monday.

Heber Mumford, of Ayden, was here Saturday.

The registration books are open and in the hands of J. B. Little.

Rev. T. H. King, of LaGrange, was here Monday.

Miss Mollie Bryan is visiting her grandmother, who lives near Stokes, this week.

N. C. Everett, of Gold Point, spent a short while here Saturday evening. He is an old pupil of W. H. S.

Miss Lela Roach, who had been visiting Misses and Kate Lala Chapman, left for House Monday, where she will spend sometime visiting friends.

R. T. Evans, the clever and excellent photographer of Greenville, was here Tuesday taking groups of the school.

Quite a crowd of our citizens went down to Ayden Saturday to hear Senator Overman. They report an excellent speech.

What a Republican Newspaper Says.

The editor of the Concordia Empire, a Republican newspaper in Kansas, was asked to contribute to Republican campaign fund, and here is his reply:

"We have been invited to send a dollar contribution to the Republican campaign fund. We recently have completed building a house at a cost of something over $4,000, and for every foot of lumber, every pane of glass, every sack of cement, every pound of nails, and, in fact, for nearly every bit of material that went into it we made a good, liberal contribution through the trusts that control them and we guess we have done our share. It may be treason for a Republican newspaper to talk this way, but facts, are facts, and it sort of relieves our conscience to tell the truth about the trusts once in a while. We'll just let the trusts, to which we have had to pay unwilling tribute in the past year, pay our dollar for us. We need it and they don't."

MRS. DAVIS DEAD.

Passed Away in New York Tuesday Night.

New York, Oct. 16.—Mrs. Jefferson Davis, widow of the president of the Confederacy, who had been ill for a week at the Hotel Majestic in this city, died at 10:20 o'clock tonight. Death was due to pneumonia induced by a severe cold which Mrs. Davis contracted upon her return from the Adirondacks, where she had spent the summer months.

At the bedside when death came were Mrs. J. A. Addison Hayes, of Newark, N. J., only surviving daughter of Mrs. Davis; Jefferson Hayes, a grandson, who is a student at Princeton University; Mrs. Charles E. Bateson, a niece, and Dr. and Mrs. Gustav Webb, the latter a granddaughter, and Dr. Robert H. Willie, who with Dr. Webb had cared for Mrs. Davis throughout her illness. J. Addison Hayes, husband of Mrs. Davis' only living child, had been summoned from Colorado Springs, and was hurrying across the continent, when a message announcing the death of Mrs. Davis interrupted him.

Miners Blown to Pieces.

Salisbury, N. C., Oct. 16.—Burgess Cox and Bill Frazier, miners of Gold Hill, fifteen miles from Salisbury, were killed last night by the explosion of dynamite in the mine where they were working. The men were on the night shift upon which there were fifteen others engaged and had placed a half dozen cartridges preparatory to making the shot. They gave the signal for the discharge, which is made by electricity, and before they had gotten to a safe distance they were blown to pieces. Both bodies were partly buried under falling dirt 860 feet underground. They were not taken out until this morning when an undertaker prepared the remains for burial.

Cox was married and had a family. This is the first accident in some time at Gold Hill.

JUST A FEW.

Not Many Names Found This Time

Prayer meeting in the churches tonight.

Three weeks from today you will know who is elected.

S. J. Parham returned from Kinston Tuesday evening.

J. E. Winslow returned from Ayden Tuesday evening.

Ollen Warren returned from Kinston Tuesday evening.

Rev. W. E. Cox returned from Winterville Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Ada Cherry and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cherry came home Tuesday evening from Baltimore.

ROBBERY IN DAY TIME.

Home of Mr. W. J. Turnage Pilfered.

This morning Mrs. W. J. Turnage and her guest, Mrs. M. F. Turnage, of Colorado, left the former's home in West Greenville and came down town to do some shopping. Returning about 11 o'clock they found a small negro girl in the yard. As Mrs. W. J. Turnage went in the gate the girl was scratching in the dirt, and rising up asked Mrs. Turnage if she didn't want to hire her. Mrs. Turnage told her no, and went on in the house. Getting inside she found wearing apparel scattered around the rooms and several articles missing.

Mr. Turnage was phoned for and he hurried home with Policeman Clark. It was found that the girl caught in the yard and an older accomplice had been in the house through a window on the back porch and had carried a lot of things over to where they live on King Row. Most of the articles that the girls stole were recovered and both of them were arrested. The older girl seemed to be a hard case and said she did not care what was done with her for breaking in the house.

The Mutineer's Will Hang.

Robert Sawyer and Arthur Adams, the negro mutineers from the schooner Harry A. Berwind, now confined in the county jail here will hang on Thursday, November 1st. President Roosevelt yesterday having declined to grant either an absolute pardon or a commutation to the prisoners. This will come as a distinct surprise to the public which generally believed that if the prisoners were not pardoned outright, their sentence would be commuted at least to life imprisonment. The prisoners themselves have been usually confident since the confession of Scott when he was hanged some months ago, and the announcement now that the President has declined to interfere will no doubt be a crushing blow to them in the jail today. —Wilmington Star.

"I Shall Have to Sneak From Door to Door to Beg My Bread."

One of the bitterest disappointments in Schubert's life was Goethe's indifference. In 1818 he sent a selection of his compositions to the poet's songs to Weimar. What precious pearls of music were among the collection—the songs of "Mignon" and "The Harpist," those from "Faust," the sad melodies "Longing," "Nightsong," "The Wanderer's Nightsong," "The Earl King," "Haidroslein," "The Fisherman," "The Bard," "The King of Thule" and the music to "Claudine of Villa Bella." Goethe, who had an ear only for the stiff compositions of Zumsteg and Reinhart, then in fashion in Weimar, took no notice of Schubert's music and left his letter unanswered. Not until 1830—after Schubert's death—did Goethe learn to appreciate the extraordinary value of the compositions that lay neglected in his drawer. It was then that Wilhelmine Schroder Devrient sang "The Earl King" to him.

It was Schubert's greatest delight to make some little excursion with his friends to the picturesquely situated villages in the Wlnerwald or on the Kahlenberg, and it was in the arbors of the small inns, with a glass of pure country wine before him, that inspiration came most easily. But even these modest delights were imbibed by the melice that pictured him as a drunkard who composed his songs when he was full of wine. It is an absolute fact that he did not lose the faculty of artistic work even under the saddest circumstances. He composed the greater part of the "Miller Songs" while he was lying ill in hospital in 1823.

He was quite right when he wrote to his friend Kuppelwieser in March, 1824, "Those of my compositions which have been inspired by pain seem to please people best." And in a letter to Bauernfeld he complained: "What will become of poor me? Like Goethe's harp player, I shall have to sneak from door to door and beg my bread." The only ray of light that fell into his dark life was when, through the kindness of Count Johann Esterhazy's manager, Unger, the father of the famous prima donna, Unger-Sabatier, he was appointed music master in the count's household in Zelecs, where he spent some happy summers, the happiest of his life. It was in Castle Zelecs that he is supposed to have fallen in love with Caroline, his patron's beautiful daughter, who was his pupil and who probably never learned the secret of the musician's heart, though it is strange that one so gifted and so beautiful should not have married before she was well into the thirties. Bitter disappointment followed this short spell of a life free of care.—London Telegraph.

Perforated Sails.

Although the assertion recently made by an Italian sea captain that the power of sails was increased by their being perforated was ridiculed, it has just been proved that he was right. His theory was that the force of the wind cannot fairly take effect on an inflated sail because of the cushion of immovable air that fills up the hollow. To prevent the creation and presence of that cushion he pierced his sails with many holes, through which the wind blew, the balance of the air pressure striking against the canvas and exercising its full effect. Several experiments have been made on these lines, and the results are declared to have been eminently satisfactory.—Leeds Mercury.

It Killed the Dog.

James Lawrence Toole, England's veteran comedian, who died not long ago, once played a practical joke on his dog with fatal results. In order to get her husband home at a reasonably early hour after his work in the theater was over Mrs. Toole used to promise him just as good a meal as could be found in any restaurant or club in London. This meal his wife would provide and leave on the table for the comedian. Toole didn't like to disappoint his wife and so used to give the food to his dog. Next morning the plates would be clean and Mrs. Toole happy. By this device the comedian managed to eat his club suppers until the dog died of overfeeding.

Mean of Sister.

A young fellow had called upon a girl with whose charms he was somewhat smitten and was waiting in the parlor when her small brother came in, weeping bitterly. From either a sense of politic precaution or natural kindness of heart the young man had been kind to the little fellow on several occasions and now took him on his lap and asked the cause of the trouble.

"Sis-sister is mean to me," the little fellow sobbed.

"Oh, I guess she didn't intend to be. Maybe you worried her when she was busy," the youth said consolingly. "What was she doing?"

"She was playin' an' wouldn't let me play, too," Bobby said.

"Playing what—the piano? I guess she thought you didn't know how."

"Oh, yes, I know how better'n she does," Bobby asserted. "She was playin' Indian an' wasn't puttin' half'nough paint on her face."—New York Times.

EMERGENCY SPEECH.

It Soothed the Indians and Probably Saved General Gaines.

People often say very funny things in times of emergency. It was fortunate for the general whose conciliatory efforts are described in Mrs. Jefferson Davis' life of her husband, that the Indians with whom the men were dealing had no great sense of humor. Lieutenant Lewis, then on the staff of General Gaines, had accompanied his superior officer to a conference with the chiefs of the Sac nation.

The council met in a tent. The warriors, decked with war paint and feathers, sat scowling and silent, their arms stacked near by. Seated with them was a dark old woman, shrunken to a mere skeleton, clothed in white woolen. She held herself with great majesty of mien.

The general began the council in a hesitating manner. He explained that it was necessary for the Indians to move on, for the white man must have the territory. At this the old squaw became greatly excited and began speaking with vehemence. She declared that the Sacs must die on their own hunting ground. The general showed considerable irritation at her tirade and spoke to the interpreter.

"Tell her—a—that—a—woman is not expected to interfere between the—a—white and Indian braves. She must be silent."

The squaw rose from her seat with great impressiveness and stretched her skinny arms above her head with a wild gesture.

"Does he say I am to be silent in the councils of my people? In these veins runs the blood of the last of the Sac kings. It is my right to speak."

The chiefs rose about her, stirred by her words, gesticulating angrily. It was plain that trouble was at hand, and the Indians far outnumbered the whites.

The general calmly listened until the speech was interpreted. Then he rose, with a sweep of the hand, to command silence.

"Mr. Interpreter," he said, "tell her—a—that—a—my mother was—a woman."

This revelation brought grunts of satisfaction from the Indians, and the frankness of the statement pleased the old princess. Order was restored, and the council proceeded with the business in hand.

ARGENTINE COWBOYS.

The Southern Gaucho Wears the Biggest Trousers on Record.

Our friend the gaucho is as much in evidence along the line to the west as to the south in Argentina.
He still sticks to the inevitable poncho, but he has discarded the chirpa, a blanketlike garment that the southern gaucho wears around his legs, or bombachos, which is the name for absolutely the largest trousers on record.

The bombachos in the first place were, I believe, brought to Argentina by the Basques. The things went straight to the heart of the gaucho, and he adopted them at once. Only he has steadily insisted on amplifying them, until today one leg of a pair of bombachos will house a small family. There is no particular point of utility to be argued for these wind bags, but they serve to make their wearer a conspicuous figure when he rides into town, which is reason enough for the gaucho.

The recado or saddle used in the west is much the same as in the south. It consists of a couple of smooth pieces of wood to be laid on a blanket behind the horse's withers. Over these several thicknesses of fleece or soft blankets are strapped, a pair of stirrups thrown over the whole and the recado is ready for use. This sounds like a crude arrangement, and such it often is. Nevertheless I have heard a number of Englishmen who have used it claim that the recado gives a knee grip in the soft blankets that insures a seat more sure than that possible in any saddle of hard leather.

The most inseparable companion of the gaucho of the west is his ri-benka, or whip. This has a heavily loaded handle about a foot and a half long, which terminates in a thick single or double throng of rawhide of the same length as the handle. The handle is sometimes covered with hide or, again, heavily inlaid with silver. A blow from the handle of a ribenka will fell a horse, and a cut from its lash will tear open a gash in the flank of a tough skinned mule.

The gaucho of the south fights with his knife in one hand and his folded poncho in the other as a

Mistletoe of the Druids.

Mistletoe for centuries has been one of the most important factors in Yuletide decorations, its use dating back as far as the days of the Druids. The mistletoe of the Druids is Viscum album. It is a true parasite, existing on the sap of other trees and never at any time is it in contact with the soil. It grows freely on apple, pear and plum trees, on poplars, thorns, maples and basswood and rarely on the oak. It is said that the only sacred mistletoe of the Druids was that found upon the oak. The propagation is by the seeds. These are covered with a translucent, gummy substance. They are placed in position by birds, which, in trying to rid their beaks of the sticky seeds, rub them on the bark. The seeds which are deposited on the east or north side of the tree grow more rapidly than those on the south or west.

FACTS AS TO SALARY.

It is strange how some people will wilfully misrepresent facts in order that they may serve some purpose. We learn that it is being circulated in the county that County Superintendent W. H. Ragsdale's salary has been raised, and the amount is put all the way from $1,800 to $2,500. There is not a shadow of truth in the report. Prof. Ragsdale gets now the same he got the first year that he was elected to give all of his time to the work. His salary is $1,500 per year, and he has to pay all of this expenses out of this. Every horse and buggy used, every hotel bill, every railroad fare, in fact every expense, is paid by him and the county has never had any expense for superintendency except the salary.

To do the work as he is doing it necessitates considerable expense. We publish this because some good people are being deceived by the false statements of those who have a purpose to serve. For the work being done the county has never had cheaper superintendency than it is getting now. Think of a man thoroughly equipped for work, with twenty-six years of constant successful experience in educational work, a man whose ability is recognized the State over, giving his entire time and paying all of his expenses, and having no greater income than $1,500 a year! We pity the little soul that is so selfish and miserly as to want the earth for nothing.

After three years of waiting the United States Supreme court has decided that ex-Senator Burton, of Kansas, convicted of taking fees while in the senate and sentenced to prison, must take his medicine.

Hon. John Sharp Williams, the Democratic leader in congress who is making speeches in North Carolina this week, finds that he has many kinspeople among the Tar Heels. Some of them, descendants of Dr. Robert Williams live in Pitt county.

A New York Republican club composed of negroes met and resolved, asking the president to come down South and do something for their race. Yes, by all means let him come and get the bad ones to behave themselves, and everybody will feel grateful.

Some of the straw hats just wont be frozen out by a little frost.

It will be harder to learn how to spell words in the proposed simplified way than to follow the old fashioned spelling book.

The sudden death of Rev. Sam P. Jones is generally regretted. His noted lectures and sermons gave him a reputation that was universal.

The Republican ticket in this county might be termed a skeleton from the number of blanks in it. And the way some who were put on it without their knowledge or consent are coming down there is likely to be nothing but a skeleton left for the Democrats to bury on election day.

Weather.

Rain tonight and Thursday.

Senator Overman on Saturday spoke to a large audience at Ayden, Pitt county, and that night another big crowd heard him at Greenville. Down there he was in the neck of the woods where he rubbed up against one of the noblest Romans of North Carolina, Ex-Senator, Thos. J. Jarvis.—Wilmington Star.

German Court Dancing.

The German emperor insists upon good dancing at court, and the arranging of an evening party is one of his favorite pastimes. He is most anxious that the court balls shall be distinguished for their elegance and exacts that the smallest details shall be carefully planned beforehand. Each year, therefore, he chooses, either from his bodyguard or from the first regiment of cavalry of the guard, two brilliant cavaliers, who are excused from all military duties. These officers must dance to perfection, wear their uniforms with distinction and lead a cotillon with method and dash. They open the ball with a princess of the blood royal, and they and their partners bring the function to a close with a deep obeisance before their majesties. Upon their success in this exacting role their future career largely depends, and it is said and may easily be imagined that their exalted office is no sinecure.

BELLS ARE VERY ANCIENT.

They Were Known to the Egyptians Before the Exodus.

Bells were well known to the Egyptians before the time of the Jewish exodus. In the description of Aaron's sacerdotal robe mention is made of the fact that upon the hem of the garment there were bells of gold, alternating with pomegranates of blue, of purple and of scarlet: "A golden bell and a pomegranate, upon the hem of the robe around about. And it shall be upon Aaron to minister, and his sound shall be heard when he goeth in unto the holy place before the Lord, and when he cometh out, that he die not." Hand bells were in common use all over the ancient world. The earliest use of bells in churches was for the purpose of frightening away the evil spirits which were believed to infest earth and air, and the earliest curfew was rung at nightfall to rid the neighborhood of the village or town and church of demons.

Most old churches of Europe have a small door on the north side, and at certain points in the service this door was opened, and a bell was rung to give notice to the devil, if he chanced to be present, that he might make his exit before the elevation. By the command of Pope John IX. church bells were rung as a protection against thunder and lightning. The monument of Por-sena, the Etrurian king, was decorated with pinnacles, each surmounted with a bell, which tinkled in the breeze. The array of Clothaire raised the siege of Sens on account of a panic occasioned among the men by a sudden chime from the bells of St. Stephen's church. The largest bell in the world is in the Kremlin at Moscow. Its weight is 250 tons, and the value of the bell metal alone, not counting the gold and silver ornaments which were thrown into the pots as votive offerings, is estimated at £66,565, or about $332,825.

Tennis.

Tennis was first played in the early part of the sixteenth century in England and France. Matches for considerable wagers were frequently held, and rather than give up the game many men played for parts of their wearing apparel after their money was gone. In England toward the last of the century covered tennis courts were erected, and nearly all the nobility played, including the women. Henry VII. was a devoted follower of tennis, and Henry VIII. was also fascinated by the sport. The first royal tennis match was played between this monarch, with the Emperor Maximilian for a partner, against the Prince of Orange and the Marquis de Brandenborow. Charles II. was the first person to adopt a tennis costume.

BATTLES IN THE BLOOD.

An interesting record of what may be called, somewhat fancifully and yet with a certain degree of truth, the battles that occur in the blood of a fever patient between noxious and benign micro-organisms was presented at a recent meeting of the Royal Microscopical Society by Dr. Bernstein. The patient in this case was suffering from malarial fever. The observations were made at intervals of a few minutes during a period of five hours. The defenders of the patient's life were a kind of leucocytes, which destroyed the malarial parasites. A leucocyte would engulf a parasite, which would then be seen undergoing a process of disintegration inside the leucocyte, and only the pigment granules were left. Afterward other leucocytes would approach and absorb even these granules.

Future of the Eiffel Tower.

The future of the Eiffel tower is now becoming a topic of serious discussion. It has been a familiar object to the holiday makers of the world for some years now and in 1910 was to become the property of the city of Paris. This fact raised the question as to whether by that time the tower might be regarded as having accomplished its destiny and as ready for demolition. Scientists, however, like it as a point of observation; others aver that it acts as a lightning conductor for half Paris, and military engineers consider it a useful and ready made station for wireless telegraphy. Under the influence of these strong credentials the city fathers have prolonged the Eiffel tower agreement till 1915.

Voltaire's Body.

It is probable that the remains of Emile Zola will be allowed to rest in peace in the Pantheon, whither they are now to be transferred in honor of his fight for Dreyfus and justice. Some of his illustrious predecessors, however, have suffered another fate. The body of Mirabeau, buried in the Pantheon in 1791, was turned out when Marat was placed there in 1793. Later the remains of Voltaire and Rousseau were subjected to similar indignity, one version being that they were removed in a sack one night and ignominiously disposed of in the open country. According to another version, Voltaire's body was removed during the "Hundred Days."

The Spread of Leprosy.

Leprosy is increasing in both North and South America. Colombia, where there were only 400 lepers forty years ago, is said to have 40,000 now, and many find their way into the United States. Such a medical authority as Dr. Ashmead, who was formerly chief medical adviser to the government of Japan, says the increase is alarming. When leprosy is brought into a new country it takes fifty years for the seeds to take root, and it becomes epidemic after some 200 years. It has been shown that mosquitoes are active in transferring the bacilli of leprosy.—Chicago News.

Fruition.

Sir Anthony MacDonnell expressed the belief the other day that the coming year would see the fruition of those hopes which the best Irishmen had for many years entertained. A correspondent of the London Times observes that "the misuse of this word (fruition) is one of the commonest errors of educated persons. It is supposed to have something to do with fruit, whereas it comes from the Latin and means enjoyment. Fructification or fructuation means 'fruiting.' The Oxford Dictionary points out that the use of 'fruition,' in Sir Anthony's sense, is a common modern error."

State Lotteries.

State lotteries add to the incomes of foreign governments. In Italy they bring the government in a sum of nearly £2,500,000 a year. In Prussia the profits of the public lottery amount to no less than £4,250,000. The Dutch government gets the nice little sum of £50,000 profit out of its lottery. Portugal makes about £70,000 in this way and Denmark a profit of £58,000. In Brazil, where the government does not itself run the lottery, but collects a tax on the receipts of private lotteries, the amount realized is £17,000.—London Queen.

In Self Defense

Major Hamm, editor and manager of the Constitutionalist, Eminence, Ky. when he was fiercely attacked 4 years ago, by Piles, bought a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, of which he says, "It cured me in ten days and no trouble since." Quickest healer of Burns, Sores, Cuts and wounds. 25c at J. L. Wooten's drug store.

There is nothing that take away the beautiful womanly charms like a plodding, stooped awkward carriage. There is absolutely excuse for that as long as Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea is made. Tea or Tablets. 35 cents. Wootens Drug Store.

Modest Claims Often Carry the Most Conviction.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by J. L. Wooten
