RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Ayden, N. C. Oct. 20, 1906.

To the officers and members of Eureka Eodge, No. 167. Ayden, N. C.

We your committee appointed to draft resolutions, beg leave to submit the following:

Whereas, it has pleased an All Wise Providence to remove from the family circle of our brother, W. B. Quinerly, a precious little infant.

And Whereas, we recognize and bow in humble submission to the will of Him, our Great Chancellor who knoweth what is best, therefore be it resolved,

That we tender Brother Quinerly and his family our sincerest sympathy in their hour of sorrow, and point them for comfort to Him alone whom can give.

That we would remind them our Great Chancellor chasteneth only those whom he loves, and what seemingly is now a great loss will in the end redound to their happiness and joy, for He doeth all things well. That a copy of these resolutions be sent the family of Brother Quinerly and a copy sent The Reflector with request to publish.

Telephone Rules.

The telephone is a great institution but like all good things, there are those who constantly seek to dilute its blessings. For the benefit of those who have suffered by the action of those who have always managed to break in at the wrong time and in a dozen different ways cause inconvenience, we give the following rules governing the proper use of the telephone, taken from the Richmond Journal:

1. "Don't call a man to the telephone for a social chat during business hours.

2. Don't waste the time of other people by talking longer than is necessary.

3. Don't "jolly" Central and keep others waiting. Give Central your number only. Anything more is an imposition on the other subscribers.

4. Don't use the office telephone to carry on personal conversations.

5. Don't relate gossip over the wire. If you must tell it, write it.

6. Don't use the telephone at all unless you have something to say.

An Errand of Mercy.

Deeply impressed lately by an address given at Crighton on the evils of smoking, a young minister rose and said that that morning he had had a present of 100 cigars, one of them he had smoked, but he now determined to go home and throw the rest into the fire. Thereupon a Baptist minister arose and said that he meant to accompany his reverend brother. "My intention," he added, "is to rescue the ninety and nine."

An old fashioned spelling match was held in W. H. S. Friday evening between Prof. Nye's and Prof. Lineberry's rooms. The contest was close and exciting. All the students enjoyed it as well as being greatly profited by it. This is an excellent way to become good spellers.

A. G. Cox is improving the sidewalks in front of the concrete stores by paving it with concrete slabs. May the time come when all our side walks will be improved in this way.

We want to thank the editor for his most excellent compliment to the teachers' association of Pitt county.

Were They Wiser Than God.

In the Republican State hand book Secretary Shaw is quoted as saying:

"Self-government is the severest task which God in His wisdom ever placed upon His children. It took six thousand years to develop a people into whose hands He dared commit their own political affairs."

This is a great truth, and yet the Republican party boasts of its wisdom in giving the ballot to a great horde of ignorant black men less than three hundred years removed from savagery and but a few years removed from slavery, who by virtue of their numbers became in many places rulers of their masters.

The Republicans dared by statute to repeal God's eternal law of the races and the ages, and now they glory in their shame and folly.—Raleigh News and Observer.

MRS. JEFFERSON DAVIS BESIDE HER HUSBAND.

Buried In Hollywood Cemetery at Richmond.

Richmond, Va., Oct 19.—The train bearing the body of Mrs. Jefferson Davis arrived here about half past 8 o'clock this morning and was met at Elba, an uptown station, by Lieutenant Governor J. Taylor Ellison, who conducted the ladies of the funeral party from New York to the Jefferson Hotel. The members of the Davis family who came with the remains were Mr. and Mrs. Addison Hayes, Jefferson Davis Hays, Miss Hays and Dr. and Mrs. Webb.

At Byrd street the remains were met by details from the local camps of Confederate Veterans and escorted by them to St. Pauls Episcopal church.

At three o'clock the casket was taken into the body of the church which was packed with people and the funeral services were begun. These were conducted by Rev. Robert W. Forsyth, rector of the church, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. William Jones, chaplain general of the Confederate Veterans; Rev. Dr. James Power Smith, who was Stonewall Jackson's chaplain; Rabbi Calisch, of Beth Ahaba synagogue, Richmond; Rev. Dr. Landon R. Mason, Rev. Dr. W. V. Tudor and Rev. Dr. N. A. Seagle.

After the services a procession was formed and the march was taken up for Hollywood Cemetery. The procession was made up of the local battalion of the Seventieth regiment of Virginia volunteers, a company from Petersburg, the Richmond Howitzers, local and visiting camps of Confederate veterans and sons of veterans, daughters of the Confederacy and Confederate Memorial Associations. There were representatives in line from most of the States which made up the Confederacy. At the head of the procession rode General Stephen D. Lee, of Mississippi, in civilian garb, as chief marshal of the parade.

At the cemetery there was another large gathering of people. The services, which were brief, were conducted by Rev. Mr. Forsyth and Rev. Dr. Seagle. The Howitzers fired an artillery salute with the guns which were recently issued to them by the general government and two companies of the infantry fired three volleys over the grave.

A noteworthy personage at the obsequies was James Jones, a colored man who drove the Davis family carriage during the war and who now lives in Raleigh, N. C. He attended the funeral of President Davis and Miss Winnie Davis and though now bent with age and much enfeebled, insisted on being present today.

Taps were sounded over the grave of Mrs. Davis by Bugler Cowardin, of the Richmond Howitzers, who performed a similar service for President Davis, and thus ended the sad ceremonies of today in the old and yet new capital of the Confederacy

Mr Walter M whom, Drops Dead

Perkins-Hamersley..

Weldon, Oct. 18.—Mr. William Whithead Perkins, the mail clerk on the Weldon and Kinston branch, and Miss Virginia Musgrove Hamersley were married at the home of the bride at Rolling Hill, Charlotte county, Va.

Mr. Perkins is a splendid young man and stands high with the officials of the railway mail service. The bride is said to be a lovely and charming young woman—Raleigh News and Observer.

The marriage took place Wednesday. Mr. Perkins is a Greenville boy and fills a good position in the railway mail service in which he is very efficient. His bride is also well known here, having visited Greenville several times.

They are expected here on this evening's train to spend a few days with relatives of Mr. Perkins before going on to Kinston where their home will be for the present.

Their Supper.

The simplest, most straightforward acts are often fraught with a dramatic power which elaborately studied art would fail to produce. Much homely tragedy is contained in the deed of a poor woman related in the Chicago Chronicle. Quietly and modestly she entered a barroom and advanced to her husband, who sat drinking with three other men.

She placed a covered dish on the table and said: "Thinking you'd be too busy to come home to supper, Jack, I've brought it to you here. Then she departed.

The man laughed awkwardly. He invited his friends to share the meal with him. When he removed the cover from the dish he found that it was empty save for a slip of paper, on which was written:

I hope you will enjoy your supper. It is the same your wife and children have at home.

FELL IN WELL.

And Had a Time Getting Out.

Henry Taft, a colored tenant on Mr. R. A. Nichols' place, in Beaver Dam township, had a very thrilling experience recently that he will not forget. There was preaching at a colored church in the neighborhood and Henry wanted to attend. He went home and put on his Sunday clothes and on his way to church stopped at a well to get a drink of water. While there his hat fell in the well.

Henry got a piece of timber and tried to fish his hat out, but could not quite reach it. He climbed over inside the top curb to bring him self nearer to water but just as he threw his hat out the part of the curb he was standing on broke and down he went in the well.

There he was in the well at an out or the way place, with nobody in hearing distance. How to get out was what puzzled Henry, but he finally did so by bracing himself against the sides of the well and lifting up a little at the time.

The corporation commission has never done a better service for the public than it has in its order requiring the railroads to keep bulletin boards at their stations and to have the movements of passenger trains correctly marked on them. The railroads should thank the Commission, as much as the people will, for this order; for no other one thing has caused them to be so much cursed as their custom of fooling the people with untruthful statements on their bulletin boards.—Charlotte Observer.

"Curb" Versus "Kerb."
It is not more phonetic surely to spell the edging stone of a footpath "curb" than to spell it "kerb," yet Americans, one and all, write and print the word in the former manner. For "trifling," which used to be written "free fight," there is the excuse of a better arrangement of letters, but to write a "bride" and a "pardon" to add needlessly to the number of errors of an error of meaning.—London Chronicle.

The "Shopper's Face."
The "shopper's face" is one of the ills that the strenuous life has brought about upon the long suffering modern woman. It is described as "a fixed, tense, anxious, puzzled look, that brings wrinkles before their time."—London Penny Magazine.

Why Soap Removes Grease.
Soap, as everybody knows, is made of the oil of fat. Why, then, does it destroy or remove grease? The explanation is quite simple. Oil has a solid part, stearin, and a liquid part, olein. Stearin is not soluble in water, but when soda or potash is boiled with it, as is done when the soap is made, it loses its oily principle and is converted into an oxide of potassium, which is soluble in water.

Counteract Strong Smells.

A generous lump of soda placed in pots and pans in which fish, cab-thoroughly cleanse and make them smell sweet and clean.

A teaspoonful of vinegar boiling

A few drops of sandalwood oil dropped on a hot shovel is a delightful deodorizer.

A sponge placed in a saucer of

SATURDAY, OCT. 20, 1906.

Top cotton, bottom cotton and middling cotton have all fared badly in the recent weather.

The weather man guesses right frequently and again he misses it as bad as any of us.

They are about to start up that Thaw case again. It would be more in keeping with the season to put it off until spring.

The storms on the extreme Southern coast seem of frequent occurrence. A few weeks ago there was a disastrous one and on Thursday was another that devastated several towns.

Atlanta can stand the loss occasioned by the young sharper who palmed himself off as a son of George Gould and got a few checks cashed. It served to give the city some advertising.

The Republican postmaster of Greensboro and the chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Guilford county have bet a $5 hat on the result of the election in that county. Isn't this a case for the next Guilford grand jury?

The following from the Louisville Times applies as well to every town as to Louisville:

The mothers of this town who are responsible for the girls who gad the streets should stop and think what they are doing. These girls are no longer children. They are at the impressionable age. Where will you have their impression come from—from the rill of the street or from home? It is for the mothers of this town to settle the question.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our correspondent.)
Washington D. C. Oct. 19, 1806.

Some interest has been aroused by the statement that there is a shortage of $1,500 in the St. Louis sub-treasury. That there is either a shortage of this amount or a similar mistake in book-keeping is generally admitted, and both the expert accountants of the treasury department and the officers of the secret service have been put on the case to run down the deficiency.

There are more rumors of cabinet changes and report has it now that Postmaster General Cortelyou will be sent to the treasury department on the retirement of Secretary Shaw and that Ambassador Meyer will come back from St. Petersburg and in all probability take the postmaster general's seat at the cabinet table. Who will succeed

Attorney General Moody when the latter resigns, is still an open question, but it is quite probable that Secretary Bonaparte will be sent to the department of justice and that some new man will be brought in to take the position as secretary of the navy.

The Supreme court has made an order in the case of the United States Senator Burton which will give him an interval of about two weeks before he will have to go to jail to serve his sentence for practising before the departments while he was still a Senator of the United States. Senator Burton was convicted of having acted before the post-office department as paid attorney for the defunct Rialto Grain Company, and while he claimed that he was not consciously violating the law, he has been sentenced to pay a fine of $2,000 and serve six months in the penitentiary.

Fair in extreme western, rain and colder in central and eastern portions tonight and Sunday.

The Democratic county candidates had a fine meeting at Bethel today. There was a large crowd, good speakers and much enthusiasm.

Since the foundation of the government in 1789 three states have furnished twenty of the forty-eight Attorney Generals, Pennsylvania supplying eight, Massachusetts seven and Maryland five.—Springfield Republican.

There are changes needed in the law regarding the trial of small civil cases. A case was tried at the present term of court which consumed a whole day and then the jury was hung for a day and night, and only about $25 involved. Such cases should never be allowed to go in the court house.—Louisburg Times.

An old man, named Joseph Thompson, in the edge of Alamance died last week, leaving in his house hid away over $5,000. He was an old bachelor and was very miserly. It is said that he had wheat on hand that was twenty years old, and that he was so illiterate that he didn't know the denomination of paper money.—Pittsboro Record.

The Folly of Worry.

"I ain't gwine to worry any mo' over what's a-comin'," said Brother Williams. "Yer I is gray-headed befo' my time, and all on account er worryin' 'bout what pas' en gone en what gwine to happen. I once knowed a man dat hearn tell of a railroad wreck. He wuzn't on de train, but dat didn't make no diffence ter him. He got right down—he did—an' thought 'bout what might er happened ef he'd been on dat train—how many legs he'd had broke, an' mebbe his head would er been knocked sideways, an' hit him not havin' no accident policy! An' he worried 'bout it so his wife left him, and he married a widder 'ooman dat made him take out a accident policy, an' put him on de train an' kept him gwine yer an' dar twel de train runned off en kilt him, sho' enough! An' wen' de widder put a monument over him, she put a writin' on it, wuz all fer de bes', an' she wuzn't gwine to call him back no mo'; an' she persuaded another man ter marry her; but he wuz wise ez de widder, an' she never could git him on er railroad train—though I hear tell she's still livin' in hopes!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Good Reports From Canvass.

Notwithstanding the disagreeable weather and rain, the Democratic county candidates have had a good week in their canvass. At every appointment they have been met by good crowds of voters who are pleased with the speeches. The candidates bring in good reports from these meetings. They find very little dissatisfaction among the people and the Democratic vote will be large at the election.

Ohio has appropriated $75,000 to erect a building and make exhibits at the Jamestown exposition.

New York will spend $150,000 in making a creditable display at the Jamestown exposition. Her state building will be one of the finest.

A CARD.

Whereas we have been falsely accused of being Republicans we therefore wish to say to our fellow citizens through the columns of this paper that we are staunch Democrats.

HE... CONGRESSMAN.

Warren F. Daniell, the wealthiest man in the vicinity of Franklin, N. H., is exceedingly democratic in manner. Some years ago he represented his district in congress. One day as Congressman Daniell was standing in one of the corridors of the capitol a New York millionaire, thinking he was an attache of the building, asked in rather a brusque manner to be directed to the room of a well known house leader. Congressman Daniell conducted him to the desired place, and as he was leaving the New Yorker pressed a twenty-five cent piece into his hand. Mr. Daniell noticed that a newspaper man had witnessed the transaction and, sliding over to him, said: "Don't give this away. That is the first money I have earned since I have been in congress." The next day the millionaire was in the visitors' gallery and saw Daniell occupying a seat in the house. After the session he hunted Mr. Daniell out, and the two took supper together at the New Yorker man's expense.—Washington Post.

Commercial Panics.

Is it true that these great commercial panics recur at fairly regular intervals—as a rule once in every twenty years? Are periods of commercial distress and, therefore, the intervening periods of prosperity thus separated? The fact seems incontestable. Our country's record fixes the years 1837, 1857, 1873 and 1893 as the dates of our greater panics. England's record is 1825, 1844, 1866 and 1890. In each case the twenty year interval is preserved with reasonable accuracy. It will be observed that the "panic years" in England were not the same as in the United States. Our commercial distress of 1893 and 1873 reacted, no doubt, on London, as the acute foreign troubles of 1890 and 1866 recoiled on financial New York. But the result was never a part of the first order in the market indirectly affected.—A. D. Noyes in Atlantic.

Peace While They Rob.

The fakirs and peddlers have begun doing the country. Good crops always bring them. They are selling patent rights, taking orders for enlarging pictures, soliciting for books and maps, selling cloth for men's wear—cloth that "escaped duty at the port"—offering tinware or cutlery very cheap, selling soap and throwing in a prize and unloading worthless stuff generally. It used to be a peddler was poorly clad, but nowadays the peddler is a well dressed, prayerful, smooth proposition, male or female. He or she is smart, dressed neatly and ready to say grace at the table, lead in high five, dance the twostep, milk the cows or make the piano sing and talk. To please people while robbing them is the peddler's mission on earth.—Paola (Kan.) Spirit.

"High" Noon Lunches.

Talk about your "high" noon luncheons. There are men in Gotham who would sit on the damp edge of a cloud while depleting their dinner pails if given a chance. On Broadway, near the Battery, every noon hour may be seen a dozen or more men who sit on the edge of a seventeen story office building and eat their noonday meal. The other day I saw one chap who had swung his legs over the coping and kicked his feet together, presumably in glee. I wondered at the time if he was eating pie.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Ostentatious Millionaire.

The great wealth in question being an essentially new phenomenon, its American possessors have no inherited culture and no inherited positions to guide them in their personal expenditure of it. It tends to produce a class which is held together internally by nothing but emulous, extravagant, and insane self-satisfying indulgence, and which asserts its supremacy in the eyes of the general public merely by making this insane self-indulgence ostentatious.—W. H. Mallock in North American Review.

To Polish New Boots.

It is often very difficult to get new boots to polish brightly, but if rubbed over with a lemon and left till dry they will generally clean very easily. The process should be repeated if necessary.

Modest Claims—Often Carry the Most Conviction.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by J. L. Wooten
