BETHEL CORRESPONDENCE.

Hallowe'en Party, Corn Shucking, Politics and Personals.

Bethel, N. C., Nov. 5, 1906.

The Hallowe'en party given by the Atheniemi Literary society on Friday night last, in the society hall for the benefit of the graded school library was quite a success. The attendance was good and the receipts amounted to over $20. Miss Inez Thomas, in a fetching gypsy costume, made a charming daughter of the mystic art and foretold every happiness for the fortunate ones "crossing her palm with silver."

Miss Ruth Whitehurst had charge of the lemonade booth and by her pleasing manner coaxed many a tardy shekel from unwilling purses.

Miss Maud Barnhill cut the wedding cake and gave to the lads and lassies a peep into the book of fate with their slices of cake.

The following young ladies served the refreshments; Misses Alice James, Carrie Bullock, Ella Bullock, Lizzie Wainright, Estelle Williams, Gladys Andrews and Jennie Jones.

S. M. Jones gave an old time "corn shucking" at his hospitable home near Bethel on last Thursday night. Quite a number of our young people attended and had a most enjoyable time. The songs, the old darkey leader, the crowd of huskers round the corn pile all in the witching light of a Hallowe'en moon, brought back the pictures and stories of Joel Chandler Harris, and Thomas Nelson Page and gave the young folks a living picture of one of the familiar scenes of "befo de wah times."

Miss Effie Grimes entertained a few of her friends most charmingly on Saturday evening with a chafing party. The following were the fortunate ones: Misses Bertha Waldrop, Nannie Watson Hudgins, Etta Huggins, Henry Staton, Billie Woodard and Harlie MacCall.

Quite a number of our young people attended the performance of the "One Woman" in Tarboro last week.

Several Bethel folks attended the Conetoe dance last Friday night and report quite a swell affair.

Miss Effie Grimes returned Friday evening from a visit to friends in Rocky Mount.

Mrs. Herbert Taylor, of Tarboro, spent Saturday here with her mother Mrs. Hetty Taylor.

Mrs. D. E. House, of Greenville returned home Sunday afternoon after a visit to her mother, Mrs. Mayo, of this vicinity.

T. R. Andrews, C. M. Warren, Fred Forbes and Tom Moore, of Greenville, spent Sunday here.

W. J. Mayo, of Conetor, spent Sunday in Bethel.

On last Thursday night Mack Rogers an old drayman, suffered a stroke of paralysis.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Baptist church will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock with Miss Hennie Ragsdale.

IT WAS FINE.

The Four Pickerts Delighted the Audience..

A large audience greeted the 4 Pickerts at the opera house, Monday night, and every one present was pleased with the presentation of "Oklahoma." The acting was good and the plot very interesting from start to finish.

The specialties between the acts delighted the audience and applause was frequent. The dancing baby elephant was exceedingly amusing. The illustrated songs by Moreau Carpenter were much enjoyed. A new feature was the singing of Charlie Miller, the boy soprano, who has a most wonderful voice. The dancing and singing of the Pickert girls was very catchy, and old man Pickert was good every time he showed up.

There was not anything dull about the entire program.

The "Inventor" will be presented tonight with specialties. There will be a matinee Wednesday afternoon.

A SEVEN CENT SUPPER.

The ladies of the M. E. church have sent invitations to the public generally to be present at their Seven-Cent-Supper on Wednesday evening, Nov. 7th, to be held at Pender's store on Main street, beginning at seven o'clock. It was their intention to send a personal invitation to everyone in Greenville, but, owing to the difficulty in getting them typewritten, it was impossible. However, they hope everyone will feel most cordially invited. The following is the invitation:

MENU.

1st Course Oysters, crackers
2nd Course Chicken Salad, rolls
3rd Course Ice Cream.
4th Course Cake, Coffee.

On the seventh instant without fail.

Will be a seven cent sale. By the members of the Ladies Aid, whose crowns of glory shall never fade.

There'll be bargain packages piled up high.

And seven round cents your choice can buy.

For seven cents you can buy such cake,

As your mother herself never dared to make.

You can eat ice cream for seven cents,

So good you'll forget all about expense.

And of useful things you will find a feast.

At prices that end in seven, at least.

So remember everyone I pray,

At seven o'clock on the seventh day.

Of the eleventh month, come wet or dry,

Please gather to laugh, and talk and buy.

Effected a Cure.

"Does your husband smoke as much as formerly?" asked the friend of the family.

"Oh, no," replied the hostess.

"He doesn't smoke at all now."

"That's queer," rejoined the Man. "I sent him a box of cigars only last week."

"Yes," she replied. "that's what broke him of the habit."

AYDEN ITEMS.

Ayden, N. C. Nov. 6, 1906

One traveling through the various sections of Contentnea township can but be impressed with the surroundings contingent thereto. In any and every locality from center to circumference the horses, mules, cattle and swine in excellent condition, the beautiful homes, the magnificent farms in the highest state of cultivation, the scenery and landscape unexcelled by any clime, and with a little inspection of the bank account will readily convince the most skeptic mind that while this is not a land of milk and honey, yet the generous hand of a beneficent creator is evident, backed by the bone and muscle of a hard working, energetic and prosperous people. In the very midst of which lies the beautiful and thriving town of Ayden. A few factories, a sum properly expended by capitalists and a spirit manifest would soon develop a region that would bear fruit of untold wealth and bring this section before the world as unrivaled and unexcelled in all and everything essential to the success of business in its every phase and as an open sphere for successful investments and speculations sure to us it has long seemed strange the step of the capitalist has not been heard among us, for surely this is a region of prospective undertaking and a sure realization many fold of any venture risked for gain.

Mrs. Bettie McCullen, who has been making her home with Jesse Cannon for considerable length of time left Saturday for Alabama where she will reside with friends.

Misses Magdalene Cox and Lizzie Combs, of Winterville, visited Misses Lizzie and Lorena Dixon from Saturday until Monday.

Mrs. B. R. Wall came up on the train Monday from a visit to friends down the road.

Clyde Daughtery, of Winterville, was over a short while on business.

Mayor E. G. Cox is confined to his home on account of sickness. J. F. Barwick now runs the town government and he proves a good one, too.

Some time ago Mr. J. I. Humbles, who lives but a few miles from Ayden, came to town and after transacting his business and conversing with a few friends he hitched up his horse and left for home. After his arrival there he missed his pocket book and nowhere could it be found. Three weeks later he came to Ayden again and driving to the post where he usually hitched his horse, in a very public place, on getting out of his buggy there on the ground lay the long lost pocket book, not a dollar gone, not a penny missing. Fortunate man, wonderful luck and no wonder Mr. Humbles has had the grins ever since. Miss Dora Manning, of Winterville, was with friends here last week.

NO MONEY IN THE TREASURY.

President C. C. Moore and Secretary T. B. Parker Far Behind in Their Salaries—No Relief in Sight Assessment Not Paid.

The financial condition of the North Carolina division of the Southern Cotton Association is decidedly poor. President C. C. Moore has been laboring day and night for almost a year to build up the State organization and so far has received but $300 for his services. His salary is $2,500 per year. Secretary T. B. Parker was to receive $1,000. He is yet to draw his first dollar of salary. There is nothing in the treasury and the prospects are rather slim for much in the future. No effort has yet been made to pay the State assessment of $1,800 for the support and maintenance of the national organization. The South Carolina division has already paid its assessment of $2,300 in full. North Carolina has not even made a start.

The only method for raising money for the support of the State organization is to have the county officers to make sure to collect the 10 cent levy on every bale and forward the State's share of three cents to the proper authorities. Little attention has been paid to raising this money in the past, and hence the present deplorable condition of the State treasury.

When President Moore started out on his canvass of the State in September, he was forced to sell one of his horses so as to procure the needed funds for his expenses. Such a condition of things cannot continue much longer.—Charlotte Observer.

Don't Wait.

Again we would remind those who have received statements of what they owe The Reflector for subscription, and have not yet responded, to let us hear from them. We do not like to publish items of this kind, but the money due is needed to help us meet our obligations. All should appreciate this and be prompt in paying.

Long Bridge Completed.

Beaufort, N. C., Nov 5—The great railroad bridge connecting Beaufort and Morehead City was completed today. Master Charles Laban Abernethy, the six year old son of Mr Charles L. Abernethy, drove the last nail completing the bridge. This structure is 8,400 feet long and has two draws. The train will run into Beaufort in about a week. Beaufort is expecting to have a big celebration when the passenger station and all the railway through town and the Y and connections are completed

Names of People Caught Passing.

D. C. Moore went to Bethel today.

R. L. Smith went to Richmond today.

F. G. James returned this morning from Ayden.

Harry Skinner, Jr., went to Bethel today.

G. B. King, of Washington City, came in this morning.

T. J. Jeffries, of Williamston, has been here a few days.

Mrs. E. D. Harris left Monday evening for a visit to Durham.

C. L. Wilkinson returned Monday evening from Winston.

A FUNNY DOG.

Tries to Catch Stream of Water From Hydrant.

Mr. John Ivey Smith's bull dog created lots of merriment on the street Monday afternoon. Policeman George Clark was having the street sprinkled from one of the hydrants. The dog was attracted by the stream from the nozzle and ran out to catch it, and for several minutes ran back and forth grabbing at the stream and cutting up all kinds of antics. The dog did not mind the water at all and his capers were very amusing.

Meet Tomorrow Afternoon.

This being election day, the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of The Home Building and Loan Association has been postponed to Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 in the office of the secretary.

Election Returns.

The telegraphic returns of the election will be received tonight at Democratic headquarters in the office of Chairman F. C. Harding. The returns will also be read between the acts in the opera house.

Did you vote?

Odd Fellows meet tonight.

It is all over but the hurrah.

"Invention" in the opera house tonight.

You just order seen the elephant dance.

This being election day the market exchanges are all closed.

Now that a Chicago minister has declared that Adam was a real man there is room for doubt.

The Georgia mill operative who mistook a saloon for a sleeping car hit the right place, however, to obtain slumber.

Don't stay away from the opera house tonight for fear you will miss the election news. Bulletins will be read from the stage.

Weather.

Fair tonight and Wednesday.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

Little Girl's Delightful Anticipation
More Than Realized.

This is the story they tell of a cunning little five-year-old girl whose nurse had been promising her all summer a little coon doll when the family reached the city if she would be very good and obedient. This was a delightful promise, and the little girl was as good as a little five-year-old could be. Then the family came back to the city a little earlier than usual, and something interesting happened—a brand new baby came to the house. It was a funny, red faced little creature, which only a loving mother and experienced nurse could possibly consider beautiful, but it was a great thing for the little girl, who had never before in her short life seen a real live baby.

"There is a great surprise for you," said the nurse, taking the five-year-old upstairs, where the little new sister was lying snuggled up under a canopy of muslin and ribbons. "What do you think of that?" she continued, lifting the little girl so that she could see the funny little face on the white pillow. And the little girl was as much pleased as every one had expected she would be. She gave the nurse a big hug as she cried:

"Oh, nurse, is that my coon doll?"—New York Times.

His Politeness.

Matt W. Ransom, late senator from North Carolina, made politeness a point of conscience. One day he saw the very worst bore of his acquaintance, and with a short "Howdy do?" brushed swiftly past. The bore, evidently hurt, proceeded sadly. Ransom's conscience smote him. After ten steps he turned back, and, with a pleasant smile, called back: "Goodby, Simpkins! I've been thinking a mighty heap about you lately, Simpkins." The bore's face relaxed. "Ah!" said he, returning. Ransom waved him back with both hands, crying: "I've been thinking a mighty heap about you lately, Simpkins; but don't come back, Simpkins; don't come back!"—Washington Post.

Her Feet on Wax.

A visiting woman went to dinner with a man and his wife to one of the men's clubs, and as they sat at a table waiting to be served she sighed. Her hostess looked surprised, and the man with a polite, closely inflected voice said:

"I am not a very happy man when I go to a man's club. No wonder a man gets dissatisfied with his home. His wife is so kind and thoughtful, but she can't seem to get into the service of such a place as this."

Just at this moment the soft footed waiter gracefully tipped a plate of soup in her lap.

"Thank you," she said to him gratefully.—Minneapolis Tribune.

A Disgusted Shah.

When a shah of Persia was visiting England he frequently expressed his contempt for the mildness of English law. So he was finally taken to Newgate in order that he might see a gallows. He at once manifested great interest in it and, expressing a desire to see how it worked, asked the governor of the prison. The governor explained that he had not at the time been ready for the execution, and that the shah expressed his disappointment that he intimidated the governor. "Of no consequence," said the governor. "I said he, pointing to each man of whom I was reminded in his shoes. The shah indeed was the shah, when he found that he had been deceived."—

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

Fierce Animal That Feels the Light of Day.

How many of you little girls and boys fear the darkness of the night? Not many, I hope, for night is a wonderful time. There are so many beautiful things to be seen and heard at night, that people who are afraid miss much. What would you think of an animal that was afraid of the daylight, but brave at night? Our friend, the lion, prowls about in the forests of Asia and Africa, seldom shows himself by daylight, as he fears man. But with the darkness his bravery returns. When we look at the full grown lion he seems a fearful beast. But this same lion was once a cub, as tame and playful as your kitten. Unlike kittens, lion cubs are born with their eyes open. They become playful before they are many days old, and roll each other about. Think how brave a lion cub must be to pull and bite its mother's tail.

Lightning Spares the Beech.

It is said that the Indians always seek the shelter of a beech tree during a storm, if they can find one, because they know that it is rarely struck by lightning. This immunity of the beech was known to the ancients, for there is an old mythological legend to the effect that the young god Jupiter once found shelter in one when he was pursued by an enemy, and when he became the chief of the gods, and the Thunderer, he returned the favor by never allowing one of his bolts to strike the beech. But in spite of this alleged immunity of the beech, it is safer never to seek shelter under any kind of tree during a thunder storm.—Chicago News.

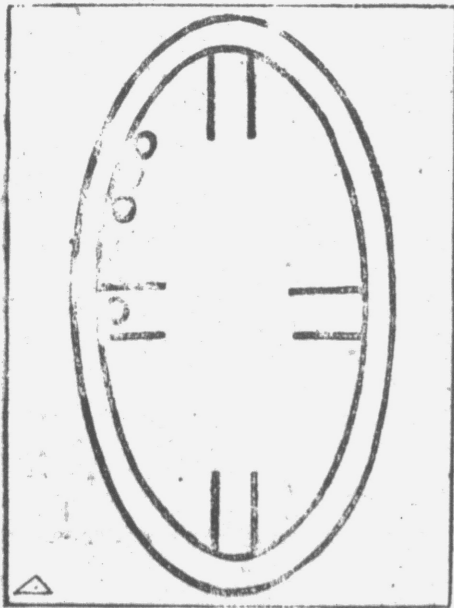

Statue to a Monkey.

A chimpanzee of Grenoble, Spain, rescued a little child who had fallen into a pit. The citizens of the town felt so grateful they decided the chimpanzee should hereafter be dressed and treated as a man. Strange to say, the chimpanzee seemed to like his promotion and went attired in man's garments until his death. Then the city council voted a large sum of money to erect a statue of the chimpanzee in bronze. This statue may be seen in one of the public squares of Grenoble to this day.

A New Puzzle.

The accompanying picture almost explains itself. It is a round wooden tray, with a rim about half an inch in height and four pairs of raised partitions arranged in the form of a cross, with their openings toward the center.

In the tray are four pellets or very small marbles, and the puzzle is to work one marble into each compartment.

CROSS AND PELLETS.

It looks simple and easy, but try it and see what skillful handling is necessary to do it. You could amuse a roomful of people an entire evening with it.

Any ingenious boy can make the apparatus. A wooden tray may be had at a house furnishing store, and the partitions are easily glued in place.

WORDS WE APPRECIATE.

The editor of this Journal as an officer of the Consolidated Tobacco Company desires to extend the thanks of the company to Editor Whichard for the many nice and complimentary things it has said in behalf of the Consolidated Tobacco Company.

When almost as a boy the writer came from the farm to engage in the tobacco business in Greenville one of the first men to extend to him the hand of friendship and good wishes for success of the business was D. J. Whichard. During all the years since that time to our personal knowledge this man has never failed an opportunity to say and do anything that he could for the advancement of the tobacco interest of Greenville and Pitt county.

During the early days of the markets history when its fate almost hung in the balance, when the other business interests of the town were arrayed against the tobacco market, Whichard and the Reflector stood up and fought for the tobacco market. He opened the columns of his paper and many of the people of the county remember that for a period of several years a regular tobacco department was conducted through the columns of the Reflector. This contributed in no small way to making permanent the success of the market when it required strong efforts to keep it from going down.

The truth is we have known of no public enterprise that looked to the upbuilding and advancement of the general interest of the community that the Reflector did not enter into the fight and assist with all its power in bringing about the successful building up and development of these enterprises, and while all the people of the county may not have agreed and may not have seen questions as the Reflector saw them, yet no one can doubt the sincerity and honesty of purpose of the Reflector in doing that which it thought would result in building up and protecting the moral as well as the material interest of the community.—O. L. Joyner in October Plantation L. A.

It always helps a man to know that his efforts in any undertaking are appreciated, and the above is doubly appreciated because it comes from a man whom we know to be sincere. In the past dozen or more years we have been thrown much with Mr. Joyner in business relations and have always found him to be a man of his word, a man of value to the community, and one whose energy was indomitable. We have known of his struggles and sacrifices in his determination to make Greenville a great tobacco market, and it has always been a pleasure to the Reflector to stand by him and render what aid it could in this undertaking, and, as he intimates, the result speaks for itself.

We have always had faith in Mr. Joyner and faith in Greenville, and the belief that a strong tobacco market would be a great factor in the upbuilding of the town spurred us on all the more to do what we could to establish it. Ask any business man here today what Greenville would be without her tobacco market and there would be but one answer—a dead town. Hence we are glad of every effort put forth in this direction.

As has also been said several times in this paper, we have faith in the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company, and we believe it is going to prove the greatest help to the tobacco farmers of any organization that has ever been started.

Ain't you glad the campaign is over?

Nobody cares particularly what hour, minute or second the president voted, or the color cravat he wore, but we bet the press dispatches tell it

THE OLD NATIONAL PIKE.

A Maryland representative has taken charge of the bill to rebuild the old national turnpike. This is the oldest east and west thoroughfare in the United States. It is the route that Braddock took to Fort Duquesne. Washington marched over it often. More than a century ago it was made a national road, and for forty years it had more traffic than any other road in the country. Beginning at Baltimore, it went almost due west to Frederick. South of Hagerstown, Md., it was joined by turnpikes from York, Harrisburg, Lancaster and Philadelphia. Thence it went on to Cumberland and to Wheeling. Joined by the Pittsburg turnpike, the old national road went through the Ohio valley and on to Illinois, which was then the end of civilization. Over this road the old Conestoga wagons carried eastern farmers to the western frontier. The old stage coaches brought General Jackson and Henry Clay over it to their seats in congress. To restore this road and to make it a great thoroughfare between the east and the west would revive many memories and help illustrate the political history of the olden times.—New York World.

Sale of Blooded STOCK.

are opportunity by the Farmers of this Section to get improved stock at common Stock Prices.

On Wednesday November 14th, 1906 I will offer for sale at my farm, three miles West of Greenville on the Tarboro road about 150 head of high bred hogs, about 20 young steers some of them ready bricketo work, and a few choice young bullocks of the Red Pole and Polled Angus breed. I will also sell some very fine farm mules. Only reason for selling mules is I want to replace them with mares for breeding. I am ordering this sale of improved stock simply as an experiment and if the farmers will buy this stock at anything like fair prices my purpose in future is to have an annual sale of improved stock. Here is a rare opportunity to get especially fine gilts, either of the Berkshire or Poland China blood, for common stock prices and the stock will be offered for sale in such a manner that everyone rich or poor, can have the same chance to purchase. In other words you can buy one or as many more as you like. Let everyone interested in this branch of farming attend his sale.

The London Gabby.
The meter system has been introduced in London, and one of the papers there asked a cabby how he liked it. "You see," said the cabbie frankly, "most of us likes a bit of spare time in my job out in London, and I don't know whether I'm going to make my yard money or to make a quid over for myself. You like my meanin'?" It's like backin' losses." All the cabby wants is a sporting chance.

New York's Barbers.
No one knows exactly how many barbers there are in New York. The official record of certified barbers puts the number at 20,000. Boss barbers are sure that the actual number of those in the barbering profession, judging from the applications made for employment, cannot be less than 100,000.—New York Sun.

Beards and Creased Trousers.
These men wearing beards will have them clipped torpedo fashion.—Order to the British Naval Volunteers.

"A torpedo beard," explained an expert, "is a beard clipped to a point—a sort of stubby Vandyke beard—and is the official beard of the navy. Just now the torpedo beard is becoming more popular—in fact, it is the only beard that smart people wear.

"The flowing beard is hopelessly out of fashion and is usually worn only by people who have reached that stage of life when they have ceased to crease their trousers."—London Mail.

Australia Prosperous Again.
Australia is in the flood tide of prosperity. Her revenue is nearly half a million sterling in excess of the estimate, and for the coming year the various states will receive back from the commonwealth government more than £300,000 above the minimum to which they are entitled. The distribution would be larger still but for the very right decision of the government to establish penny postage at home and with the rest of the empire. Australian trade is booming. Exports exceed imports by nearly £20,000,000.—London Saturday Review.

The Merry Microbe.
The London Lancet has been warning its readers against the table implements at restaurants, the door handles of public places and vehicles and, above all, the coin of the realm. The merry microbe thrives on these unnutritious substances, it seems, and takes a malevolent delight in imparting all manner of diseases to the unwary. Knowing from experience that the Lancet approves of few things to eat and drink, a contemporary suggests that the human race live in balloons and subsist on bananas and sterilized milk.

The Gawkwar's Little Joke.
A London paper seized the earliest opportunity to make the gawkwar of Baroda what he meant by his slighting remark about the beauty of American women. The potentate replied, "I was only joking." It was the American habit of humor which he had absorbed during his sojourn here. We were caught napping. It is a curious thing about our best jokes that we don't recognize them coming from alien lips.

Modest Claims Often Carry the Most Conviction.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and is on hand has never been known to fail. For sale by J. L. Wooten's drug store.

THE REASON WHY

It is only by reason of the maker's intimate, thorough knowledge of women's tastes and the requirements of her feet that "Dorothy Dodd" Shoes have achieved their marvelous success. First, they satisfy the eye and hand, and distinction to the foot. Secondly, they fit women's feet as only "Dorothy Dodd's" can fit. Thirdly, their large sale permits them to be sold at a moderate price. This store secured and controls the sale of these splendid shoes, because it believes them to offer the wearer more real value and satisfaction than any others possible to procure. New styles now ready. Glad to show even though you do not care to buy.
