GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. King Celebrate Their Fiftieth Anniversary.

Fifty years of wedded life are allotted to but few people, and our honored citizens, Mr. and Mrs. William M. King, are the second couple in Greenville to have reached this distinction in the memory of the present generation. Fifty years ago, Nov 17th, 1856, on just such an ideal day as was last Saturday, they were happily married. Surrounded by all their living descendants except one grandson and a host of relatives and admiring friends, on Saturday evening they celebrated their golden wedding at their elegant residence on Fifth street. There were with them on this joyous occasion 4 children, 11 grandchildren and 2 great grandchildren.

Innumerable callers gathered at the home to offer congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. King upon having reached their fiftieth marriage anniversary and to extend best wishes for many more happy years.

Upon arrival the callers were given a cordial welcome by Hon. and Mrs. Larry I. Moore who received at the front door. In the hall punch was served by Mr. Ned Laughinghouse with Miss Rosa Wells, of Wilson and Mr. J. Benjamin Higgs with Miss Meta Winstead, of Rocky Mount. The hall was decorated in green and white.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. King, of Washington City, received at the parlor entrance, and after greeting them the callers were introduced by Dr. Charles Laughinghouse to those in the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. W. M. King. These were Mrs. Ada C. Bowles, of Boston; Mrs. Pattie Winstead, of Rocky Mount; Capt. John King and Mrs. A. V. Newton, of Falkland; Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Wells, of Wilson. The parlor decorations were in white and yellow with fifty wedding bells suspended among the festoons.

At the library door Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Bullock, of Rocky Mount and Mrs. H. A. White received. From here the callers were conducted by Mr. H. A. White and introduced to the guests of honor in the library. These were Mr. H. Winstead, and Misses Ivor Winstead, Bessie and Annie Lee Bunn, all of Rocky Mount. Mrs. B. R. King, of Goldsboro and Mrs. J. J. Laughinghouse served oyster cocktail in the library. The decorations here were festoons of rainbow colors.

The dining room was in charge of Miss Martha O'Hagan, Mrs. W. H. Bagwell, Mrs. Florence Dancy, Mrs. E. B. Ficklen and Miss Yettie Bullock, the latter of Rocky Mount. Salads, turkey, sandwiches, cheese straws, crackers, beaten biscuits olives almonds and mints were served by Misses Lizzie Winstead, of Rocky Mount; Ella Wells, of Wilson; Ruby Timmons, of Columbia S C Lillian Burch Mary Shelburn. White brick cream was served by little grand sons, Tom Moore, and George and Edwin King. Coffee was served by Mrs. Charles Laughinghouse, while Mrs. J. A. Ricks served old wine that was bottled thirty years ago and kept for this occasion. The dining room decorations were pink and white interspersed with fifty lights.

The presents were numerous and beautiful, a number of them being of pure gold. Perhaps the most admired was a silk umbrella for Mrs. King and ebony cane for Mr. King, each with handsomely engraved large gold head. Those were from their Winstead grandchildren. Several congratulatory letters and telegrams were received. Another very noticeable present was a beautiful old china plate from Mrs. N. E. Tucker that formerly belonged to the late Mr. Sam Vines, grandfather of Mr. King.

Those coming from a distance especially for this celebration whose names have not been already mentioned, were Capt. and Mrs. J. D. Bullock and Mrs. Crute, of Rocky Mount; Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Newton and Mrs. Lucy Havens, of Tarboro; Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Stancill, of Hill; Mr. and Mrs. Lam Lawrence, of Old Sparta; Mrs. Magette, of Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wadsworth, of Cove; Mr. Owen Moore, of Scotland Neck.

Croccia's Italian band was stationed in the rear hall and furnished music throughout the evening. At intervals the sweet voices of Misses Meta Winstead and Nina Jones in song mingled with the strains from the orchestra.

It was an occasion long to be held in pleasant recollection, no more charming and delightful reception ever having been held in Greenville. Mr. and Mrs. King are held in highest esteem by every one, and the greetings extended them were hearty and sincere. Mr. King is one of our most honored citizens. He was a member of the State constitutional convention, of 1875 and has served his county as commissioner register of deeds and sheriff. Both he and Mrs. King are remarkable in appearance for their age, and made a strikingly handsome couple as they stood together on this happy occasion.

Died.

Mrs. Sue Bynum, wife of Mr. R. B. Bynum, of Farmville, died Friday afternoon and was buried Saturday. Besides the husband she leaves five children. She was a sister of Mr. Henry Shepard, Mrs. Alice Harper and Mrs. J. T. Smith, of Greenville, and Mrs. J. N. Bynum, of Farmville.

Miss Elizabeth Bergeron died at Farmville on Saturday and was buried Sunday. She was perhaps the oldest woman in the county, being about 90 years of age.

CHINA WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Cobb Celebrate Their Twentieth Anniversary.

Reported for Reflector

On last Friday evening from 9 to 12 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Cobb gave a public reception at their elegant home on Fifth street, the occasion being the celebration of the twentieth anniversary of their marriage. The house was appropriately decorated and brilliantly illuminated for this special event. The popularity of the bride and groom was attested by the large number of guests who called to congratulate them and extend wishes for continued happiness and prosperity.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles O'H. Laughinghouse received at the front door with their accustomed grace and ease. Punch was served in the hall to the guests as they entered, the punch bowl being presided over by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ferrall and Miss Nina C. James.

In the parlor, the color scheme of which was white and green, standing beneath a cluster of twenty candles interlined with smilax were the bride and groom, the bride holding a bunch of American Beauty roses presented by the groom. Next to these were their four children viz, Miss Irma Cobb, Mr. Cecil Cobb, Misses Lucille and Ruth Cobb. Standing with the bridal party and forming a semicircle were Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Rountree, the former father of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. J. Woodward brother and sister of the bride.

From the parlor the guests were ushered into the reception room where oyster cocktail was served by Mr. and Mrs. H. A. White and Mrs. S. J. Parham. In this room were displayed the many beautiful and costly presents, which was another proof of the esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Cobb are held by their friends.

The guests were invited next to the dining room, the color scheme of which was red and white. An elegant supper was served by Mrs. H. W. Whedbee, Mrs. E. B. Ficklen, Mrs. J. L. Wooten and Miss Ada Wooten.

Delightful music was furnished throughout the evening by Croccia's Italian band. Miss Nina C. James entertained the guests with several vocal solos, which were thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated.

A West Virginia man made his bride a present of a $50 bill forty years ago. He died recently, and his wife, in buying a tombstone for his grave a few days ago, paid the identical bill on the account. An exchange figures it out that in keeping the bill hid away in a napkin as she did, instead of depositing it in a bank at compound interest, the woman lost more than $100 in interest on that bill. If you are keeping your money hid away as she did, instead of putting it in the bank on interest, here is something for you to think about.—Waxhaw Enterprise.

Encourage the "We" Boy.

Don't laugh at a boy who magnifies his place. You may see him coming from the postoffice with a big bundle of his employer's letters, which he displays with as much pride as though they were his own. He feels important, and looks it, but he is proud of his place. He is attending to business. He likes to have the world know that he is working for a busy concern. The boy who says "we" identifies himself with the concern, its interests are his. He sticks up for his credit and reputation. He takes pleasure in his work and hopes to say "we are" in earnest. The boy will reap what he sows if he keeps his grit and sticks to his job. You may take off your hat to him as one of the future solid men of the town. Let his employer do the right thing by him; check him kindly if he shows signs of being too big for his place, counsel him as to his habits and associates, and occasionally show him a pleasant prospect of advancement. A little pride does an honest boy a heap of good. Good luck to the boy who says "we."—Ex.

Think of It.

A dearth of local news often leads to murmurs on the part of those who prize local gossip above all else, and it is not all the fault of the publisher. Any live publisher will not fail to give all the local news worthy of note, therefore when the local department is short you should not rail at the editor, but remember you might have committed suicide, got married, quarrelled with your neighbor, stole chickens, let your team run away, or done a hundred other things to make a local item. If a newspaper should publish current gossip, or the hints and illusions of the society in the community it would be ostracized and the poor editor horse whipped or burned at the stake. Think a minute of the mean and low things you say about your townsmen and your neighbor and imagine how it would look in print. Don't criticize the newspapers for what they print, but give them great credit for what they don't print.

A newspaper that contains one-half the nonsense current among the best citizens, would be considered unfit to read. Honest!—Louisburg Times.

Politeness Pays.
 A dog one day discovered an organ grinder's monkey seated upon a bank within his master's grounds and at once made a rush for it. The monkey, which was attired in jacket and hat, awaited the onset in tranquillity so undisturbed that the dog halted within a few feet of it to reconnoiter. The animals took a long stare at each other, but the dog was evidently recovering from his surprise and was about to make a spring for the intruder when the monkey raised his paw and saluted by lifting his hat. The effect was magical. The dog's head and tail dropped, and he sneaked off to the house, refusing to leave it until his polite but mysterious visitor had departed.

Ignorance.
 "Adam," said Eve after the rabbit had been named, "why does he wobble his nose?"
 "How do you suppose I know?" answered Adam, with some irritation. "The New York papers have been trying for years to find out, and not one of them has evolved a satisfactory theory even yet."
 He condescended however, to explain that the reason why the animal's tail wobbled was that all the sportsmen had been used in making the rabbit's nose.

JOYS OF THE SIGHTLESS.

The Blind Take More Pleasure In Travel Than Many Suppose.

A blind man was making a tour of the New England coast on his vacation. In Maine, in the pretty village of Castine, a lady said as she waited with him at the pier:

"What pleasure is there in travel for a blind man?"

"More pleasure than you think," he replied. "I enjoy this fine, invigorating wind from the sea as well as you do. The noise of the water is as pleasant to me as to you, and the warmth of the sunshine is as agreeable, and when we get aboard the boat do you think I shall appreciate the swift sail seaward?"

"The blind are not so blind as the world imagines. When I walk the streets I know the shops I am passing by their odors. Meat, perfumes, tobacco, leather and flowers tell me as well as eyes would that a butcher's, a tobacconist's, a shoemaker's or a florist's is near.

"So it is in the country. A spicy smell tells me I am in a grove of pines. The sweet breath of new mown hay floats from the meadows, and in fancy I see the haymakers. The wild blackberries have their pungent odor, and it is easy to know the presence of the wild honey-suckle. The lowing cows, the neigh of a horse, the bleating of sheep tell me the occupants of the field I pass, and the gurgle of water assures me that in that field is a running brook.

"Do you wonder how a blind man makes his way in a crowded street? I will tell you. He walks fearlessly as long as he hears nothing, but when the sound of approaching footsteps reaches him he turns a little to the right and passes by without delay and without collision. Farther on he meets children. Children are easy to recognize by their noisy prattle and their light, quick, irregular steps. And the blind man, knowing that it is difficult to count with any degree of certainty upon the actions of these little people, goes very prudently, creeping along at a snail's pace until the children are passed.

"He knows a street crossing by the increased violence of the wind, the louder noises and the gradual descent of the pavement for some forty or fifty feet. He knows when he draws near a wall or big stationary object by the different sound his steps have, and by the different feel to his flesh of the air, which is much more compressed.

"A blind man gets along better on a dark night than at any other time, for then all the world goes cautiously and slowly, and there is little danger of being run over or run down."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Remenyi's Route.

On one of his early concert tours of the west, before the famous violinist, Eduard Remenyi, was thoroughly familiar with the railway routes of the United States, he inquired in Chicago concerning the best way to reach a town in Illinois.

"C. B. and Q.," replied the hotel clerk without looking up.

Remenyi was quite dazed. But, says the contributor of the story to the memoir of the violinist, his sense of fun carried him through.

"Ah!" he said gravely. "Then I will go D. A. T."

It was the clerk's turn to be puzzled.

"What does that mean?" he said, looking up this time.

"Well, what did you mean?" demanded Remenyi.

"Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, of course."

"Ah! I meant day after tomorrow."

Sermon Stealers.

"Sermon stealers," said a minister, "ought to be careful. They ought to read over several times the sermons that they steal before delivering them.

"I know a young man of twenty-one or twenty-two who preached a stolen sermon he had not read over, and in a most impressive part he found himself declaiming, 'My friends, when I first came among you more than forty years ago these thin, white locks were thick and brown and this bent back,' etc.

"Another sermon stealer, presiding in a village of about 100 souls, said, before he could check himself, 'In the teeming streets of this great metropolis.'"—London Mail

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make a statement. BACON AS A FOOD.

Properly Cooked It Is Valuable and Easily Digested.

Lean bacon which contained fairly large proportions of both protein and fat formed a part of the ration in a number of experiments made at the Minnesota experiment station, about nine ounces being eaten per man per day. It was cut in thin slices and baked or broiled in the oven until crisp and brown. All the fat which cooked out was saved and eaten with the bread and other food which made up the daily fare. In an average about 90 per cent of the protein and 96 per cent of the fat of the ration containing bacon were digested, and about 88 per cent of the energy was available. Calculated values for bacon alone showed over 90 per cent digested protein and 96 per cent digestible fat, figures which compare favorably with those which have been obtained for other animal foods.

Allowing 5 per cent for waste, a pound of bacon will contain from one-tenth to three-tenths digestible protein and from four-tenths to six-tenths pound digestible fat, which is about two-thirds as much as is found in butter. "Lean bacon contains as much protein and about twice as much digestible fat as other meats," says the experimental station professor, "making it at the same time and even at a higher price per pound a cheaper food than other meats. Bacon fat is easily digested, and when combined with other foods it appears to exert a favorable mechanical action upon digestion."

Many who are fond of bacon hesitate to eat it, since they believe that, being very rich in fat, it is a frequent cause of indigestion. As has been pointed out by a number of writers, it seems fair to say that in the majority of cases such digestive disturbances are not due to the fatty nature of the food, but to the fact that the bacon was overcooked, or, rather, cooked at too high a temperature. It is not surprising that this should be the case when it is

A GLIMPSE OF SPAIN.

The Manner of a Wedding Dance in the Provinces.

The wedding dance was being held in a long, narrow building near a fountain, and we entered on a smooth earth floor. Seats were arranged about the sides of the white-washed room, and the low rafters were draped and festooned with fancy wall paper with gold scrolls in it. The music was furnished by a piano organ at one end of the long room, turned in rotation by a number of small boys in their clean blue blouses and brown corduroy breeches, who felt their importance, and at the other end of the room a table was spread with cakes and bread and a wine concoction very sweet and pleasant, but seductive. The women, some bringing their babies, were a pleasant set, but not beautiful, although a few, with their large dark eyes, came very near to it. They did not wear the gay costumes of my imagination, but their dresses showed great care and conscientious patching. A gay handkerchief was often folded around the neck and across the breast, and large earrings and big breastpins were the vogue even among the young women. The men wore broad brimmed black felt hats and clean blue blouses, corduroy trousers, either light tan or brown, and the long red or black sash belt called a "faja" wound many times about the waist, the folds serving as pockets for cigarettes, tobacco pouch and the villainous knife that every one carries.

The dances were "round," interspersed with a square dance, where four people comprised a set—a sort of fandango, with lots of stamping and attempts at lithe, serpentine motions, with the hands raised above the head. There was a very old man who danced with great gusto and amused the crowd of young people, who encouraged him with clapping of hands. Edward Penfield in Scribner's.

PEANUTS.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 19, 1906.
 Peanut companies have realized the shortage in the peanut crop, and are sending their buyers to every peanut producing point, that they may secure some stock before the farmers realize the extreme high prices they should receive for their peanuts this season.

Bunch peanuts are selling today at 5 cents per pound, and other grades are bringing correspondingly high prices. Machine picked peanuts have been sold this week at 4½ cent per pound.

The peanut acreage was greatly reduced this year, and the continued rains during the summer months caused the yield per acre to be very much less than previous years. Extreme unfavorable weather conditions, during harvesting season, seriously and greatly damaged the crop, and from the best information obtainable the supply of good nuts will be considerably less than 50 per cent. of an average crop. Under these conditions prices will rule very high, and if there is not over 50 per cent. of an average crop the supply of nuts would be entirely exhausted about June 1st.

We are told that within the last twenty years peanuts sold for 10½ per pound, and if the conditions of this crop are as serious as present conditions indicate, nuts will sell for 10 cents per pound or above, if there are any to be had during the latter part of this season.

Yours very truly,
 Columbian Peanut Company.

"Life and Sayings of Sam Jones"
 Edited by His Widow.

The people of the United States, who knew the late Sam Jones, as an unexcelled evangelist and pulpit orator, will be glad to learn that his life and sayings are to be made imperishable in the form of a volume that will be published by J. L. Nichols & Co., of Atlanta early in December.

A few days after the funeral of the great evangelist A. N. Jenkins, president of Nichols & Co., in company with J. L. Turner, of the Turner-Franklin Printing Company, went to Cartersville and a contract was entered into to push the work to completion at the earliest practical moment.

The work is under the supervision of Mrs. Jones, who is assisted by the Rev. Walt Holcomb, the evangelist's co-worker for a number of years and closest friend, together with a corps of trained writers and compilers.

"The Life and Sayings of Sam Jones" contains over 400 pages, fifty full page illustrations. Half morocco $3.50; cloth $2.50; edition deluxe, $5.00. Expressage prepaid. Agents are coin- ing money. A handsome outfit may be had for 50 cents. Circulars free. Address J. L. Nichols & Co., 915 Austell Building, Atlanta, Ga.

PLAYED WITH GUN.

And One Boy is Accidentally Shot.

Dewey Manning, an 8-year-old son of Mr. W. J. Manning, who lives about 3 miles from town, was playing with a gun Saturday afternoon. A small colored boy was also playing with him and in trying to get the gun from Dewey the weapon was discharged, the load striking Dewey in the right thigh. Dr. W. H. Bagwell was called to attend the boy and found that his injury consisted of only a flesh wound. At last report the little boy was getting along nicely. Guns are dangerous things for boys to play with.

COTTON

The South has as great an advantage over Europe today, as Europe had over the South a few years ago, when Europe got her Cotton at a price less than the cost of production. Today cotton is relatively lower than any other product of the earth. Foreign spinners recognize this. We have the demand this year as shown by the exports up to this date. It matters not what the crop is, so much as what the size of the demand is. You have seen small crops sell at low prices. Every bale will be wanted this year unless prices go above 12 cents.

Buy cotton futures now and wait for 12 cents. We execute orders in lots of 25 bales and upwards. Will loan 90 per cent of the value on spot cotton shipped to us.

BELLS ARE VERY ANCIENT.

They Were Known to the Egyptians Before the Exodus.

Bells were well known to the Egyptians before the time of the Jewish exodus. In the description of Aaron's sacerdotal robe mention is made of the fact that upon the hem of the garment there were bells of gold, alternating with pomegranates of blue, of purple and of scarlet: "A golden bell and a pomegranate, upon the hem of the robe around about. And it shall be upon Aaron to minister, and his sound shall be heard when he goeth in unto the holy place before the Lord, and when he cometh out, that he die not." Hand bells were in common use all over the ancient world. The earliest use of bells in churches was for the purpose of frightening away the evil spirits which were believed to infect earth and air, and the earliest curfew was rung at nightfall to rid the neighborhood of the village or town and church of demons.

Most old churches of Europe have a small door on the north side, and at certain points in the service this door was opened, and a bell was rung to give notice to the devil, if he chanced to be present, that he might make his exit before the elevation. By the command of Pope John IX, church bells were rung as a protection against thunder and lightning. The monument of Por-sena, the Etrurian king, was decorated with pinnacles, each surmounted with a bell, which tinkled in the breeze. The army of Clothaire raised the siege of Sens on account of a panic occasioned among the men by a sudden chime from the bells of St. Stephen's church. The largest bell in the world is in the Kremlin at Moscow. Its weight is 250 tons, and the value of the bell metal alone, not counting the gold and silver ornaments which were thrown into the pots as votive offerings, is estimated at £66,565, or about $332,825.

A Good Deal of Meaning.

Senator Knox at a reception in Philadelphia said of a certain speech:

"A good deal of meaning was subtly compressed in a very few words. It was like the speech that a young girl made to an aged millionaire.

"This aged man had proposed to the young girl and she had accepted his offer.

"A few days before the wedding the old gentleman, taking the hand of his prospective bride, said with tender earnestness:

"Dear, do you love me for what I am, or for what I was?"

"I love you, dear friend," she replied, "for what you will be."—American Spectator.

Conkling's Recipe For Success.

When the late Senator Gorman of Maryland first went to the senate Mr. Conkling and he happened to be seated together upon a sofa in the senate chamber while a well known statesman of the period occupied the floor. "Gorman," said Conkling, "you have come here in good season. Let me give you a sure recipe for success. Begin every speech you make with the assertion that you, and you alone, are the purest man that ever lived and end each with the declaration that you are the bravest." And when Gorman asked, Conkling why he himself had not followed this receipt Conkling answered, with a sigh, "I learned it too late."—Reader.

A Clever Match Trick.

This trick requires ten matches, which must be laid out as shown in the accompanying illustration. The problem is: How can they be arranged into pairs, taking each of five matches in turn across two others? Number the matches from left to right in your mind and then solve as follows: 4 to 1, 6 to 9, 8 to 3, 10 to 7 and 2 to 5.

An Abdication.

"We'll have a coronation," said Sister Dorothy. "We'll have a coronation Here in the nursery."

They set King Richard on the throne— King Richard, aged three— They crowned him with a candle shade Of silver filigree.

A scepter in his dimpled hand And royal robes had he, And all his courtiers drew near, A goodlie company.

So for a space he sat in state And ruled right royally Until his queenly mother came His kingdom for to see.

Then from his throne descended King Richard, aged three, And laid his crown and scepter down To sit on mother's knee! —St. Nicholas.

BATTLES IN THE BLOOD.

An interesting record of what may be called, somewhat fancifully and yet with a certain degree of truth, the battles that occur in the blood of a fever patient between noxious and benign micro-organisms was presented at a recent meeting of the Royal Microscopical society by Dr. Bernstein. The patient in this case was suffering from malarial fever. The observations were made at intervals of a few minutes during a period of five hours. The defenders of the patient's life were a kind of leucocytes, which destroyed the malarial parasites. A leucocyte would engulf a parasite, which would then be seen undergoing a process of disintegration inside the leucocyte, and only the pigment granules were left. Afterward other leucocytes would approach and absorb even these granules.

Future-of the Eiffel Tower.

The future of the Eiffel tower is now becoming a topic of serious discussion. It has been a familiar object to the holiday makers of the world for some years now and in 1910 was to become the property of the city of Paris. This fact raised the question as to whether by that time the tower might be regarded as having accomplished its destiny and as ready for demolition. Scientists, however, like it as a point of observation; others aver that it acts as a lightning conductor for half Paris, and military engineers consider it a useful and ready made station for wireless telegraphy. Under the influence of these strong credentials the city fathers have prolonged the Eiffel tower agreement till 1915.

Voltaire's Body.

It is probable that the remains of Emile Zola will be allowed to rest in peace in the Pantheon, whither they are now to be transferred in honor of his fight for Dreyfus and justice. Some of his illustrious predecessors, however, have suffered another fate. The body of Mirabeau, buried in the Pantheon in 1791, was turned out when Marat was placed there in 1793. Later the remains of Voltaire and Rousseau were subjected to similar indignity, one version being that they were removed in a sack one night and ignominiously disposed of in the open country. According to another version, Voltaire's body was removed during the "Hundred Days."

The Spread of Leprosy.

Leprosy is increasing in both North and South America. Colombia, where there were only 400 lepers forty years ago, is said to have 40,000 now, and many find their way into the United States. Such a medical authority as Dr. Ashmead, who was formerly chief medical adviser to the government of Japan, says the increase is alarming. When leprosy is brought into a new country it takes fifty years for the seeds to take root, and it becomes epidemic after some 200 years. It has been shown that mosquitoes are active in transferring the bacilli of leprosy.—Chicago News.

Fruition.

Sir Anthony MacDonnell expressed the belief the other day that the coming year would see the fruition of those hopes which the best Irishmen had for many years entertained. A correspondent of the London Times observes that "the misuse of this word (fruition) is one of the commonest errors of educated persons. It is supposed to have something to do with fruit, whereas it comes from the Latin and means enjoyment. Frustration or fructuation means 'fruiting.' The Oxford Dictionary points out that the use of 'fruition,' in Sir Anthony's sense, is a common modern error."

State Lotteries.

State lotteries add to the incomes of foreign governments. In Italy they bring the government in a sum of nearly £2,500,000 a year. In Prussia the profits of the public lottery amount to no less than £4,250,000. The Dutch government gets the nice little sum of £50,000 profit out of its lottery. Portugal makes about £70,000 in this way and Denmark a profit of £58,000. In Brazil, where the government does not itself run the lottery, but collects a tax on the receipts of private lotteries, the amount realized is £17,000.—London Queen.

THE REASON WHY

It is only by reason of the maker's intimate, thorough knowledge of women's tastes and the requirements of her feet that "Dorothy Dodd" Shoes have achieved their marvelous success. First, they satisfy the eye and lend real distinction to the foot. Secondly, they fit women's feet as only "Dorothy Dodd's" can fit. Thirdly, their large sale permits them to be sold at a moderate price. This store secured and controls the sale of these splendid shoes, because it believes them to offer the wearer more real value and satisfaction than any others possible to procure. New styles now ready. Glad to show even though you do not care to buy.
