WINTERVILLE ITEMS.

News from our Hustling Neighbor.

Winterville, N. C.,
Nov 24th, 1906.

Mrs. Emma Hicks returned to her home at Conetoe Wednesday evening after having spent several days with her sister Mrs. J. L. Jackson.

Miss Laura Cox who is one of the teachers in the LaGrange graded school came in Friday afternoon to spend several days at home.

Jesse Speight, of Greenville, was here Friday buying cotton.

Mrs. J. B. Little and little daughters Josephene and Emily, went home Friday evening to visit relatives.

One hundred dollars worth of poultry Thursday and seventy bales of cotton Friday tell what the market of Winterville is doing. Life and activity are our watchwords.

Mrs. Nancy Jones of Lenoir county came up Friday evening to visit relatives near here.

Claude Chapman, of Shelmerdine, came in on his automobile Friday, to spend awhile with relatives.

Miss Julia Breedy, who is teaching in the Red Banks section passed through Friday evening en route to Ayden, to spend Saturday and Sunday at the home of C. A. Fair.

Ernest Manning of Greenville, was here Friday evening.

Miss Anna McLawhorn and Mrs. John Cheek were here shopping Friday.

Richard Crant, aged seventy-seven years, after several days of suffering, died Thursday and was buried Friday evening. He was one of our oldest and most respected citizens, leaving seven children to mourn the loss of a tender and devoted father.

Leon Hardee, who lives near Greenville, spent Friday at the home of L. L. Kittrell.

The moving picture concert was well attended Thursday night and all seemed to enjoy it.

Miss Lydia Roberson is visiting Mrs. J. D. Cox.

Chas. Smith and two little sons, went to Greenville today.

Miss Huldah Cox came in Friday night to spend Sunday at home.

Mr. Moore Coming Next Saturday.

Mr. Chas. C. Moore, the president of the North Carolina Division of the Southern Cotton Association, sends the Reflector a card in which he says enthusiastic meetings were held this week at Monroe, Wadesboro and Lumberton and the farmers were greatly interested in the $100,000,000 company that will be organized to buy weak cotton. Mr. Moore says he hopes to meet at least 500 Pitt county farmers in Greenville on next Saturday, Dec. 1st. He will be here that day and all farmers interested in getting better prices for their cotton should be present.

Miss Mabel Barnhill, of Bethel, recently obtained license as a pharmacist from the State board of examiners.

HOWARD-GARDNER.

Marriage of Popular Couple at Wilson.

At times during this life, clouds of adversity hang darkly over us and seem to have no silver lining; but to him who has been crowned monarch over the realm of a pure and lovely woman's heart, and has heard from her own lips, "Till death do us part," we must say, thy cup of happiness is filled and overflowing.

May the bitter drugs of life never be tasted but we hope these two young people may float down the stream of life on the bark of contentment with no rocks of sorrow nor shoals of misfortune to threaten them.

With the above as a preface, it is my delightful pleasure to announce the marriage of Mr. H. E. Howard and Miss Florence Gardner which charming event occurred in the Christian church here last evening at nine o'clock, the pastor, Rev. J. Boyd Jones, performing the ceremony in the simplest and most impressive manner. The church was packed by a host of admiring friends of the contracting parties. The decorations were exceedingly handsome; indeed the interior of the church looked as if all their many friends had placed flowers there. The music was entrancingly sweet, being rendered by Prof. Levine's orchestra from Raleigh, as follows:

"Rivals"

"Face to Face"

"Intermezzo Cavalleria Rusticana"

At the conclusion of this selection, the bridal party marched down the aisle to "Mendelssohn's Wedding March," in the following order:

Messrs. Willis Hackney and J. I. Morgan, ushers, full dress, pearl gloves.

Miss Rosa Hooker, Greenville, N. C., bridesmaid, white organdy over white taffeta; pearls, pink La France roses, pink ribbon; pearls and Diamonds.

Messrs. John Gorham and Edward Ferguson, ushers, full dress, pearl.

Miss Carrie Gay, of Greenville, and Miss Bruce Evans, of Wilson, bridesmaids, white organdy over white taffeta; pink La France roses, pink ribbon, pearls.

Miss Bruce Gardner, maid of honor, the lovely young sister of the bride, white net over pink taffeta, pink La France roses, pink ribbon, pearls.

Next came the bride slowly down the aisle, the synocure of all eyes, the bright particular star of the occasion, entrancingly beautiful queenly gowned in white net over white taffeta, diamonds and pearls, bridal veil, carrying in her hand a very handsome bouquet of lilies of the valley, white ribbon. She was met at the altar by the groom who came in with Rev. J. Boyd Jones, when they were joined together in the holy bonds of matrimony, while the orchestra played very softly "Hearts and Flowers."

After the vows had been spoken the "Bridal Chorus" was rendered as a recessional, and God had joined together these two young people for all time.

SHELMERDINE ITEMS.

Shelmerdine, N. C. Nov. 24th,

Rev. J. A. Hornaday, of Greenville, was here Thursday night to attend the Masonic meeting and was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Cole. His little son, Leslie, accompanied him.

Mr. Robertson, of Petersburg, spent Thursday night here and was the guest of O. G. Calhoun.

Mrs. F. G. Whaley returned Friday from Greenville where she has been for several days visiting her many friends.

Mr. Powers, of Wake county, was in town Friday selling maps of North and South Carolina.

Misses Bessie Hellen and Olive Woodard spent Saturday in Greenville shopping.

Mrs. J. D. Cox and Miss Elizabeth Boushall, of Winterville, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bobbitt Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Crumpler, of Washington, was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Ricks a few days this week.

B. P. Fanny has returned from Rocky Mount and resigned his position with the B. C. L. Co.

Miss Lottie Dickens spent Friday in Greenville shopping.

Shelmerdine hotel is undergoing considerable repairs. It is being newly painted and furnished. Mrs. D. A. Leggett, the former proprietress, has moved in a residence on Pine street and as yet the hotel is without a proprietor.

Shelmerdine public school opened Monday with a full attendance. Forty two pupils were present and the enrollment is now fifty three.

Prof. W. H. Ragsdale, of Greenville, was here Monday night and received the handsome new school building. He also delivered a very beneficial address to a large and attentive audience. After the address a Woman's Betterment association was organized, and $10 was immediately raised for a school library. Mr. Ripply, agent for the Southern Pub. Co., was present and donated quite a nice book to the library.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard left on the late train for New York and other Northern points and carry with them the good wishes of our people for a long, happy and prosperous life.

The bride is the lovely and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gardner, and a niece of the late T. J. Gardner, and one of Wilson's most beautiful young ladies.

The groom is a son of the late B. A. Howard and Mrs. M. C. Howard, and is one of Wilson's most prominent and popular business men and farmers. He is at the head of the firm of Howard, Williams & Co.

The presents were very costly and numerous, attesting the popularity of the contracting parties.

A FRIEND.

The ladies of the Episcopal church have postponed their masquerade party and supper until the second week in December.

BROTHERLY LOVE.

A Non-Member Narrates Some Experiences Wherein the Inhospitality of Church Members is Brought Out—Charlotte Compared With Chicago.

Knowing your paper is interested in the welfare and good of the community, perhaps a few lines through your columns in reference to the sociability of Charlotte folk will tend to awaken a spirit of brotherly love which seems lacking.

Having listened to a sermon this evening on sociability and a word where needed, and meeting the lack of it in the congregation, makes me state as follows; It has been about one year that I enjoyed the privilege of calling myself a citizen of Charlotte, and during that period have attended services at five different churches on different occasions. During this time one elderly gentleman came to myself and wife and gave us the hand of welcome. On all other occasions we have entered a Christian church as strangers, listening and enjoying the discourse and music but always departing as strangers. How much like mockery it seems for a topic of fellowship and brotherly spirit to be discussed at the same time never noticing one who has made an attempt to live up to the teachings given when entering their midst.

What a difference in communities—what a difference in peoples—what a difference in welcome in different churches. I can but cite an instance not long since in Chicago, that dreadful city of all cities, where I made my first appearance in that Godly little church—Westminster—on the north side.

Immediately after the service was concluded a member next to me arose, shook hands and introduced himself; turned to a neighbor brother and presented me to him, and soon until I had met some twelve or fifteen, making me feel that glow of friendship which permeated the entire flock. The third Sunday I was a member of a young men's club—The Reed Club—and to think, made an officer in the aggregation.

This is the hand of fellowship of which is true brotherly love, of which we so freely hear discussed from the pulpit, but so seldom come in contact with. Does it mean anything to a stranger to hear words of advice on his brotherly love and be made to make his withdrawal without an expression of that which is taught?

I would not have the congregation of Charlotte feel that I speak of this for my own interest, just for the sake of a hand shake, but I do feel that there are those who would profit by a welcome and an invitation back. If the church ever hopes to uplift humanity or do a community any good whatever, it must start with the teachings of brotherly love, possibly first among themselves, then to those with whom they come in contact. Let us all do unto others as

O. Hooker went to Norfolk, Friday afternoon.

G. W. Baker returned to Lewis ton this morning.

C. V. York went up the road this morning.

D. C. Moore went to Bethel Friday evening.

Jesse Speight returned from a trip down the road Friday evening.

P. S. Cotten, who came home to attend the marriage of his sister, returned to Norfolk today.

Mrs. J. L. Bryan, of Fremont, came in Friday evening to visit her sister, Mrs. J. W. Aycock.

Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley and children, of LaGrange, came in Friday afternoon to visit Mrs. Hadley's mother, Mrs. C. J. Forbes.

Miss Louise Todd, who has been out at Cottondale attending the Wiggins Cotten nuptials, left Friday afternoon for her home in Atlanta.

we would that they should do unto us, even in the little things at least.

When I shall find a set of church people who thoroughly convince me that they are brethren in the true sense of the word, I shall place my name on its roll and take a pride in being classed as one of them. Until the narrow views of socialism are erased I shall feel that more good can be accomplished by my being outside of its membership, coming in contact with non-church member as one not in any way superior to them, but on the same plane as themselves. Christianity is from the heart, and whether within or without the church we can be Christians.

Geographical Game That Requires Quick Thinking.

The players are seated in a circle or around the room, and one takes a handkerchief and, throwing it at another, calls "Europe." A time-keeper begins counting ten rather quickly, and the person to whom the handkerchief was thrown must name some place, river, mountain, person or thing connected with some country of Europe before number ten is reached. It may be arranged that the person answering correctly puts the next question. If incorrect or unable to answer a forfeit is made.

The player must be wideawake, for often the one who throws the handkerchief will look at one while throwing it quite a different direction.

The game may be made more difficult as well as interesting by taking special countries, and for older players a century may be given, and the famous characters belonging to it must be quickly thought out.

A TEXAS WONDER.

There's a Hill at Bowie, Tex., that's twice as big as last year. This wonder is W. L. Hill, who from a weight of 90 pounds has grown to over 180. He says: "I suffered with a terrible cough, and doctor gave me up to die of Consumption. I was reduced to 90 pounds, when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Now, after taking 12 bottles, I have more than doubled in weight and am completely cured." Only sure Cough and Cold cure. Guaranteed by Jno. L. Wooten Druggist. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, at whose laboratory Kodol is prepared, assure us that this remarkable digestant and corrective for the stomach conforms fully to all provisions of the National Pure Food and Drug Law. The Kodol laboratory is a very large one, but if all the sufferers from indigestions and stomach troubles could know the virtues of Kodol it would be impossible for the manufacturers to keep up with the demand. Kodol is sold here by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

It is noticeable a cold seldom comes on when the bowels are freely open. Kennedy's Laxative, (containing) Honey and Tar is the original Laxative Cough Syrup. Taste as pleasant as simple sugar. Free from all opiates. Conforms to the National Pure Food and Drug Law. Sold by Jno. J. Wooten's Drug Store.

A Legend of the Early Jurisprudence of Michigan.

The early history of the jurisprudence of Michigan, if faithfully chronicled, would furnish forth an entertainment abounding with the soul and point of humor. Many of these little legends yet float around the scenes which have given birth to them and serve sometimes to give zest to a bar dinner or to enliven a bar meeting. Among them is the following:

Judge B., a plain and worthy man, but no lawyer, was once county judge of Oakland under the old system. A case came on for trial before him on one occasion in which the action was founded in tort, and the plea of the defendant, which was special, was such as to give him the affirmative of the issue, upon the strength of which he claimed the right to open and close the case. This point was denied by the counsel for the plaintiff, "who never in the whole course of his practice had heard of such an enormity as the defendant's presuming to open the case." Authorities were brought and cited, however, and the judge, after mature consideration, determined that such was the defendant's right and so pronounced his decision. After a short pause, during which the plaintiff was grumbling his dissatisfaction, the court told the defendant's lawyer to go on.

"Your honor," said he, rising, "I am not quite ready to open the case. When I get ready I will let the other side know!" This opened, if not the case, at least the eyes and mouth of the other side, who sprang to his feet and bellowed forth denunciation upon the stupidity of the judge, whose absurd decision had placed him in such a dilemma. "You see, your honor, what you have done. You have actually placed the case in the hands of the defendant. He took possession of our oxen, and when we brought an action to recover them he took possession of that also." "I can't help it, sir," said the learned judge, with great sternness. "The decision is made, and it is too late to alter it. The law must take its course. You must withdraw your action and sue again."

"If he does, your honor," said the defendant's counsel, "I shall plead the pendency of this action in bar and beat him." "Then, Mr. —," said the judge, "I see no other way for you but to sit down quietly and wait till the defendant gets ready to try this case." The plaintiff took the judge's advice, but the "time appointed" has never elapsed, and he is waiting yet. — Philadelphia North American.

A Surprised Preacher.

When a clergyman in the course of his sermon asks a question he doesn't expect any one to answer it. At a watch night service at St. Paul's church, Brixton, England, the vicar was preaching a sermon on the prodigal son, in the course of which he said: "Last year some people came to watch night service from a neighboring public house, and some of them were drunk. Is there any one here like that to-night?"

"Yes," said a respectable looking man seated in the aisle; "I'm here, and I'm drunk."

The effect on the congregation was electrical. The preacher was startled for a moment, but after saying, "Poor fellow, poor fellow!" proceeded with his discourse.

"I tell you I'm drunk," said the intruder.

"Hold your tongue," said the vicar. "I am speaking now and must not be interrupted."

A Fine Piece of Work.

"I tell you," exclaimed the young medical student, "our professor is an eminent surgeon."

"How's that?" asked his chum.

"Well, a fellow was brought in with a crushed leg. The professor said it must come off, but by some means or other he cut off the wrong leg."

"Do you call that a fine piece of surgery?"

"Wait a bit. The professor said it would be terrible for the poor fellow to go about with no legs at all, so he splinted up the crushed leg instead of cutting that off, too, and now it is as good as ever. An ordinary surgeon would have left the fellow legless. Wonderful skill, the professor's!" — Strand Magazine.

Royal Builders.

Both Ludwig II. of Bavaria and Stanislaus, the Polish king, father-in-law of Louis XIV., were most inveterate builders. In the course of a few years the former built the castle of Neuschwanstein and the palace of Linderhof and Herrenchiemsee, the last intended by him to be a monument to Louis Quatorze, while the latter, to gratify his hobby, demolished churches, chapels, ducal palaces, castle towers and town homes. His greatest glory, according to some, is the church of Notre Dame de Bon Secours. But antiquarians see in this church the king's greatest crime, for to construct it he demolished the famous old church of the same name erected by the Duke of Lorraine in gratitude for his victory over Charles, duke of Burgundy, in 1477.

Unequal Human Eyes.

Many persons who think their sight perfect have a greater visual power in one eye than in the other. With regard to the respective power of the right and left eye, a well known optician finds that a person occupied in writing all day has, as a rule, stronger vision in the left. Writing with the right hand, and his left arm resting on the table, his left eye is nearer his work, and its vision is more concentrated. This expert says our race will never become so short sighted as the German while outdoor athletic games are encouraged in our public schools.

No Discount For Baldness.

A customer in a downtown barber shop got into a heated argument with the boss barber over the price of a hair cut.

"See here," he said, "I'm bald-headed. There certainly can't be nearly so much work in trimming this little fringe of hair on the back of my head as in cutting a whole mop of hair. Consequently it doesn't seem fair to charge so much."

"That is the contention of half the baldheaded men in town," sighed the barber wearily. "They don't take into consideration that a man who has but little hair is much more careful of it than one who has a good deal. Therefore a barber has to take extra pains with him. It goes pretty hard with the man with the shears, I can tell you, if he happens to clip off an extra hair. In view of the caution required he certainly earns the full price of a hair cut."—New York

STUDIED THE ENEMY.

Admiral Sampson's Plans For the Bombardment of Havana.

Admiral Sampson had determined to begin the Spanish-American war by the bombardment of Havana, and on April 4, 1898, Evans, then captain, wrote a letter to the then editor of Harper's Weekly containing this paragraph:

"I shall have the honor of leading in the Iowa, and when we open at about 800 yards, with Indiana close astern, if those poor chaps from the Maine don't giggle in their coffins it will be a wonder."

This was the pregnant part of the letter. Sampson was forbidden from Washington to attack Havana, much to his disappointment and wrath. To one sitting at a distance, not knowing Evans, not knowing of the proposed bombardment only as a rumor, the letter might have seemed a bit of bluster.

But after a few months chance put the log book of the New York, the flagship, in the way of the recipient of the letter and there he read Sampson's order for the bombardment of Havana, giving the order of the ships and designating the distance at which the firing should begin, precisely as Evans had stated them in the letter.

But why go in to within 800 yards of the new forts, which were much more heavily armed than the ships of Sampson's fleet? Months after reading the log book the recipient of the letter attended a dinner given in honor of Admiral Sampson.

The admiral made there one of the few speeches of his life, and in it he told the reason—a reason characteristic of his keen judgment and of his boldness—for selecting 800 yards. He had found out that a short time before the Spaniards had momentarily awakened from their usual torpor and had practiced from the new works, firing at floating targets. They had floated these targets past their guns at 3,000 yards.

Sampson at once concluded that they supposed that he would attack at that distance and quickly determined to go in at 800 yards, for, he explained, the Spaniards, having once fixed their sights for a target 3,000 yards away, would not be able to change them, but would fire over his ships until he had dismantled their heavy pieces with his rapid fire guns. So the chain was completed, for we had the facts and the reason for them.—Harper's Weekly

The turkeys must have had a presentment that Thanksgiving is coming, or else read read it in the newspapers, and taken to the woods. They do not appear on the market.

If the next legislature will put a tax on dogs sufficient to raise the funds that would be required to establish a reformatory, we will withdraw our objection to it, even if only about five per cent of the appropriation would go to the care of white youths.

Whether or not the matter of good roads reaches the voting point in Pitt county within the next two years, the coming legislature should be asked to pass a bill giving the county the privilege of voting on the question of issuing bonds for that purpose.

Judging from what we read in the Snow Hill Laconic, the washing machine right schemers have also been working Greene county and found victims plentiful. People seem so ready to part with their money when a stranger comes along with a smooth looking proposition.

In every campaign there are no more earnest workers for the success of the party than the editors, and they do more in influencing the result than any other class. This they do cheerfully, and in most instances with out reward or the hope of reward, for it is rare that an editor is found who asks for or expects an office. But when one does seek a position no one has a stronger claim upon the party. For that reason we think Editor W. C. Dowd, of the Charlotte News, should be chosen speaker of the next house of representatives. He has already served his county a term in the legislature and has been again elected. In point of ability he is surpassed by no member of the body, and to elect him speaker would be a just recognition of the valuable service he has rendered the party.

WHAT THE SOUTH CAN DUPLICATE

Each setting sun sees the South richer by over $3,000,000 in actual wealth, but even this is not more important than the accumulation of experience in the utilization of our resources which is now in progress and the awakening of the entire country to the fact that in the South is to center in the mightiest industrial and commercial forces of the world. This action can duplicate the coal and iron and steel industry of the North and West, it can duplicate the cotton spinning interests of the world, it can duplicate the lumber and woodworking interests of the entire country; it can duplicate the oil trade of America, if not the world's; it can continue to monopolize the world's cotton production; it can produce all the rice needed in America, nearly all the tobacco and much of the sugar; it can duplicate all of the citrus fruit and trucking industry of the country; it can double its present cereal crop of 800,000,000 bushels, double and quadruple its cotton crop, duplicate through its great rivers and splendid harbors the coastwise and foreign trade of the country. It can and will do all these things and even then not have reached the limit of its development.—Manufacturers Record, Baltimore.

The South has as great an advantage over Europe today, as Europe had over the South a few years ago, when Europe got her Cotton at a price less than the cost of production. Today cotton is relatively lower than any other product of the earth. Foreign spinners recognize this. We have the demand this year as shown by the exports this season far exceeding last season up to this date. It matters not what the crop is, so much as what the size of the demand is. You have seen small crops sell at low prices. Every bale will be wanted this year unless prices go above 12 cents.
Buy cotton futures now and wait for 12 cents. We execute orders in lots of 25 bales and upwards with a loan 90 per cent of the value on spot cotton shipped to us.

GREENVILLE COTTON MARKET, REPORTED BY
J. R. & J. G. MOFF,

AN EXPLANATION.

To the farmers who patronize the Greenville Market:

Since resigning my position as auctioneer for the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company, I have heard from different sources that it is rumored among the tobacco growers who sell their tobacco on the Greenville market, that the reason I left Greenville was because of unpleasant relations between Mr. O. L. Joyner, the president of the Consolidated Tobacco Company, and myself.

In justice to Mr. Joyner and myself I wish simply to say that the fact of my resigning my position with this company was on account of my wife's health. Before resigning I was compelled to make two trips from Greenville to go to her bedside and on my return to Greenville after the second trip I talked the matter over fully with Mr. Joyner in detail; I told him that unless her condition improved I felt that I should have to resign.

At all times Mr. Joyner treated me with the greatest courtesy, and I found him a gentleman of the truest type in all my dealings with him, and I am sure in the management of your business Mr. Joyner is the very best man for the position.

In the past 15 years I have been with quite a number of the best warehousemen both in Virginia and North Carolina, and I consider Mr. Joyner right in the front with them all. And I will say further that should your company make a failure the cause will be due to the stockholders of the company and not to Mr. Joyner's management. I am certain if you carry out what Mr. Joyner would have you do success is sure.

I am very respectfully,
D. A. Bodenhamer.

A GOOD SHEEP DOG.

What He Had to Do and the Work He Had to Do.

What a hard dog has first to learn is to know every one of 200 or 300 sheep, and to know them both by sight and smell. This he does thoroughly. When Watterson was running sheep on the plains he had a young collie not yet put to the herd, but kept about the pumping plant. As the sheep came in by hundreds to the troughs the dog grew so to know them that when they had picked up a stray from another band he discovered it from afar off and, darting as a hornet, nipping and nipping, parted it out from the band. At that time no mere man would have pretended, without the aid of the brand, to recognize any of the thousands that bore it.

How long recollection stays by the dog is not certain, but at least a twelvemonth, as was proved to Filon Girard after he had lost a third of his band when the Santa Anna came roaring up by Lone Pine with a cloud of saffron colored dust on its wings. After the shearing of next year, passing close to another band, Filon's dogs set themselves unbidden to routing out of it and rounding with their own nearly twenty head, which the herder, being an honest man, freely admitted he had picked up on the mesa following after Filon the spring before.

Quick to know, the willful and unbidable members of a flock, the wise collie is not sparing of bites and, following after a stubborn stray, will often throw it and stand guard until help arrives or the sheep shows a better mind. But the herder who has a dog to lead at the difficult work of herding range sheep through the chutes and runways into boats and cars for transportation is the fortunate fellow.

There was Pete's dog, Bourdaloue, that at the Stockton landing, with no assistance, put 800 wild sheep from the highlands on the boat in eight minutes by running along the backs of the flock until he had picked out the stubborn or stupid leaders that caused the sheep to jam in the runway and by sharp bites set them forward, himself treading the backs of the racing flock like the premiere equestrienne of the circus, which all the men of the shipping cheered to see.—Mary Austin in Harper's Magazine.

The Left Side of the Face.

"Profile?" said the photographer. "Then turn the left side, please."

The young girl looked impressed.

"Did you notice it?" she asked.

"You must have sharp eyes. I thought it was a fact known only to myself."

"What fact?" said the photographer.

"Why, the fact that the left side of my face is a little better than the right side, and especially that the left profile is more regular."

"Oh," said the photographer, "of course I noticed that. That, you know, is the case with everybody. Everybody's left profile is better than the right one. The eye is opened more fully, the mouth has a finer curve, the cheek's contour is firmer and the hair about the temples is thicker."

"Notice after this the profile photographs you come across, and you'll find that nine out of ten of them portray the left side of the face."

"How are you?" in German is "Wie befinden sie sich?" (How do you find yourself?) It is also "Wie geht's."

The Dutch say "Hoe vaart gij?" (How do you fare?) The Italians ask, "Come state?" (How do you stand?) The French, "Comment vous portez-vous?" (How do you carry yourself?)

The Greeks ask what you are doing, the Chinese want to know if you enjoy your rice, and the Russians inquire how you are living.

The Arabs, a devout people, say, "God grant his favors to you." The Turks, no less devout, say, "Be under God's care."

The London Telegraph tells of a small girl who entered a grocer's shop in Whitechapel and said:

"Please, sir, I want a pound of butter and a pennyworth of cheese, and muvver says she will send a shilling in when farver comes home."

"All right," replied the man.

His Special Line. When the late Colonel Elliott F. Shepard, son-in-law of Commodore Vanderbilt, bought a newspaper and started to run it he found that he knew little about the duties of active newspaper men. Although it was an afternoon paper, he made an innovation by employing a night city editor, and this was a signal for all kinds of people to seek employment on the paper. One day a very bright general writer sought the colonel and asked for a place on the staff. The colonel then put him through a regular course of catechising as follows:

"Are you a member of the church?"
"Yes; I am a Presbyterian."
"Well, that is good. What is your special line?"
"I am merely a bohemian writer."
"Do you speak the language of the 19th century?"
"—Lester's Weekly.

A ROYAL FAD FOR JEWELS.

Louis XIV. and the Famous Crown of Agrippina.

Louis XIV. had an unconquerable passion for jewels, and his most valued possession was the famous crown of Agrippina, which was composed of eight tiers of immense brilliants in a transparent setting.

He kept the most precious of the crown jewels in his private cabinet in order that he might admire and examine them at his ease, an occupation in which he took much delight. Nor did he ever hear of a gem of great value either in Asia, Europe or any other country without making strenuous efforts to secure the prize.

At an entertainment given by Louis to the Princess of Modena it happened that the conversation turned on the fashions and designs of jewelry, which prompted the Marquis de Dangean, who prided himself on his antiquarian knowledge, to observe that it was in the time of Nero that the imperial crown was first arched, whereupon Louis remarked that he possessed one himself and that the Marchioness de Montespan would produce it for him.

When the sparkling circlet was brought forth it excited universal admiration, but when the king obtained a close look at it he exclaimed to the marchioness: "How is this, madame? This is no longer my crown of Agrippina! All the stones have been changed!"

The setting was intact, but the brilliants had been replaced by paste. When the mystery was solved it was proved that the maker of the casket which held the crown had pretended an attachment for one of the waiting women of the Marchioness de Montespan, who during his visits, having free access to where the crown of Agrippina was kept, had substituted mock diamonds for the true ones. He was convicted and hanged, upon which occasion Louis remarked to the duchess, "He has at least left us the setting, but Cromwell would have seized it whole."—Sunday Magazine.

Lead Workers.

It is said that lead working disfigures the human body more than any other kind of work. In this industry it is inevitable that sooner or later the workers must succumb to lead poisoning, and there would appear to be no part of the body that the poisonous fumes and floating particles which permeate the atmosphere of the workshops do not affect. The complexion takes on a ghastly, corpse-like pallor, the gums turn blue, the teeth decay rapidly and fall out, and the eyelids are hideously inflamed. A scratch or an abrasion of the skin becomes an unhealable sore. Later on, when nerves and muscles become affected by the poison in the blood, the eyeballs are drawn into oblique positions and take on a dim and bleared appearance. The joints, especially the knee and the wrist, become semiparalyzed, and the whole form is gradually bent and contorted.

Failed to Please.

His eyes make no attempt to conceal his admiration of the beautiful young thing as she enters the parlor.

Indeed, he does not want them to. "You are positively queenly," he declares enthusiastically.

An offended expression comes to her face.

"Queenly?" she asks disdainfully. "Yes; you are a veritable queen in appearance."

Haughtily she bids him leave.

"But why?" he inquires, amazed.

"Oh, nothing. I'm a queen in appearance, am I? Well, I happened to look over a lot of magazine pictures of different queens and princesses today, and if you think I look like them it's time for you and me to be strangers."—Life.

What Restrained Him.

A stranger in a small town wanted the advice of a lawyer and as he was hunting for one one day he came upon a sign which read, "A. Swindle, Attorney at Law."

He entered the office and after receiving the necessary advice said that the lawyer was a fine man, but he wanted to know why he made his name sound so ridiculous and why he did not put his first name in full.

"I would," replied the lawyer, laughing, "if my first name were not Adam."—Magazine of Fun.
