THANK OFFERING AT METHODIST SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Reported for The Reflector.

Sunday morning, Nov. 25th, 1906, the members of the Greenville Methodist Sunday school had an opportunity to show their interest in girls and boys less fortunate than themselves, and their love to their kind Heavenly Father, and their response was beautiful, touching and inspiring. The Sunday school, under the wise supervision of the faithful and energetic Superintendent, Mr. G. S. Prichard, is flourishing, and last Sunday to the work was given an impetus whose results cannot be measured by the finite limitations of time. Did not God in His highest heaven note the offerings with joyous approval, and did He not place more jewels in crowns that are awaiting some of His followers here?

When the regular work of the Sunday school was over, Mr. Prichard asked all who had brought a pound or more for the orphans in Raleigh as a thank offering, as he had suggested the previous Sunday, to come forward with their gifts. One hundred and ninety-five boys and girls—yes, all were young; for, though the frosts of many winters had sprinkled "the silver among the gold" on some of the heads, yet all the hearts were young and tender on this occasion—formed in line in the aisles and marched up and laid their offerings on the altar. A holy calm pervaded the sacred silence and it seemed that Christ himself was there to commend the slight offerings as He did the widow's mite nearly two-thousand years before. One three old boy really gave his "last mite," he had saved up forty-cents, but he brought it all, saying, "It's all that I've got, but I want the orphans to have it every bit."

On each side of the pulpit was a barrel of flour, around on top of which were piled sugar, coffee, rice, canned fruit, soap, pickles, etc., forming two great heaps that surpassed in real beauty and worth the most costly monuments of marble or gold, for it was a monument of the love and devotion of human hearts to their divine Lord, for in showing their love to their fellow beings, they showed it unto Him. "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these, ye did it unto me."

May the offering sent by the Greenville Sunday school be accepted by the children at our orphanage in the spirit in which it was sent, a spirit of sympathy and love, and may it make Thanksgiving a time of greater happiness and gratitude for the dear little boys and girls who have not parents' love and protection. And may God's richest blessings rest upon the Sunday school that exemplified so beautifully St. James' definition of the Christian religion: "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this: To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world."

A SWEET CHILD TAKEN.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Baker Sorely Bereaved.

Mary Estelle, aged 20 months, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Baker, died at 3:25 o'clock Tuesday afternoon after a brief illness with meningitis. The little one was taken sick a few days ago, but no one dreamed that she would be so soon torn from loving hearts. It was seen late Monday evening that meningitis had developed, and from then the approach of death was rapid.

Much sympathy is expressed for the heart broken parents. It was their first and only child, and the sorrow falls heavily upon them.

The funeral was held at 3 o'clock this afternoon in Cherry Hill cemetery, the service being conducted by Rev. J. E. Ayscue. The pall bearers were Drs. R. L. Carr, C. O'H. Laughinghouse, J. E. Nobles, Messrs. J. N. Hart, R. C. Flanagan, C. M. Jones, H. L. Carr and A. C. Holloman.

The Thankful Brother.

One of the old-time Georgia brethren made the following prayer at a week-day meeting recently:

"Lord, we thank Thee for a family of 13 children, and though 13 is said to be bad luck, we've never had cause to complain; and we're thankful, too, that, though we raised no meat this year, we have plenty of corn an' greens, and the squirrels and the partridges are plentiful, fur more fillin' than bacon at 15 cents. We don't deserve all these blessings, but we've got 'em just the same, and we're grateful enough to shout halleluia on the morning hills!"—Atlanta Constitution.

AN EXCELLENT COMPANY.

Mildred and Rouclere Gives a Pleasing Performance.

A return engagement of Mildred and Rouclere is always welcome here, where their art is well known. They were, therefore, greeted at the Colonial Theatre Saturday night with a large and appreciative audience, before whom they gave their marvelous and fascinating performance.

Although they deal with the occult, their magical science is such a combination of the subtle and mystical that it is anything but gruesome, and affords an evening of delightful surprises. The sleight of hand work done by Rouclere is as clever as it is unique, and excels anything ever seen here before. He not only works on the stage, but in the audience and picks money from the heads, arms and hands of the surprised spectators as easily as if the legal tender grew there. He smashed up gentleman's hats, tore them in shreds, and then returned them intact.

His box trick in the aisle in the audience was exceedingly clever. He is a conjurer, a wizard and an illusionary entertainer all wrapped into one, and taken as a whole the illusionary entertainment was in its entirety a fantastical comedy. All the vaudeville features were good and far above the average. There was nothing gruesome or uncanny about the performance, but it was light and breezy and fascinating. As a mind reader who is silent—Mildred is very good. She goes into the audience, picks out individuals and writes answers to questions, but does not speak a word. Her work, while exceedingly clever, is not in the same class with Shadow's and comparisons are invidious.

The entire performance was highly pleasing, acceptable and entertaining and Mildred and Rouclere will always find a hearty welcome from an Annapolis audience.

After a four night's performance of a similar nature by Professor Baldwin's Company, the large audience greeted Mildred and Rouclere was a compliment to their skill as necromancers and ledgerdeman artists and is marvelous even for Annapolis, which is known to be a critical theater town.—Evening Capital, Annapolis, Md. Nov. 12, 1906.

The above attraction will appear here next Wednesday night December 5th.

Lake Steamer Sunk and Thirty Persons Drowned.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 27—A Free Press special from Whar-ton Ontario, says:

The coasting steamer J. H. Jones, owned by the Crawford Tug Company, a local concern, foundered off Cape Cocker Thursday afternoon and all hands were lost. The crew consisted of twelve, all from Whar-ton, and the number of passengers is estimated at sixteen.

To Measure Tiny Space.

An apparatus for measuring the seventy-millionth part of an inch has been made by a professor of Nottingham university, England. It works upon the principle of electric touch and consists of a fine micrometer screw and six levers. The apparatus is so sensitive and delicate that it is impossible to manipulate it before an audience. It is hung by rubber bands, covered with thick felt and must be worked at dead of night when there is no traffic or factory working. The smallest distance that this mechanism measures is about the distance between a solid and a liquid molecule.

The Kentuckians.

Writing in the London Mail in a series of articles entitled, "American Revisited," Bart Kennedy says: "The Kentuckians are undoubtedly the finest people in the United States. And in some respects they are the finest white people in the world. They carry about them an atmosphere of manners and breeding, and, though they speak with a very long drawl, their voices have not the harshness of the voices of the Americans in the east."

A TEXAS WONDOR.

There's a Hill at Bowie, Tex., that's twice as high as last year. This wonder is W. L. Hill, who from a weight of 90 pounds has grown to over 180. He says: "I suffered with a terrible cough, and doctor gave me up to die of Consumption. I was reduced to 90 pounds, when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Now, after taking 12 bottles, I have more than doubled in weight and am completely cured." Only sure Cough and Cold cure. Guaranteed by Jno. L. Wooten Druggist. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, at whose laboratory Kodol is prepared, assure us that this remarkable digestant and corrective for the stomach conforms fully to all provisions of the National Pure Food and Drug Law. The Kodol laboratory is a very large one, but if all the sufferers from indigestions and stomach troubles could know the virtues of Kodol it would be impossible for the manufacturers to keep up with the demand. Kodol is sold here by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

It is noticeable a cold seldom comes on when the bowels are freely open. Kennedy's Laxative, (containing) Honey and Tar is the original Laxative Cough Syrup. Taste as pleasant as maple sugar. Free from all opiates. Conforms to the National Pure Food and Drug Law. Sold by Jno. J. Wooten's Drug Store.

A MIND OF HIS OWN.

The Manner of Man That Mr. Stiggly Likes to Meet.

"I like a man with a mind of his own," said Mr. Stiggly. "Right or wrong, I like a man who knows what he thinks and who is not afraid to speak it. I hate a man who doesn't know what he thinks or who is afraid to say what he does think."

"Now, there's Jones. I say to Jones on a lowery morning:

"What do you think, Jones? Think I'd better take an umbrella?"

"And Jones says:

"Take an umbrella? Why, within twenty-two minutes it'll be raining blue, green and purple pitchforks, and if you haven't got a boiler iron umbrella with I beam ribs you'll be speared to death and then drowned. Sure you want an umbrella!"

"Or suppose it had happened to be Robinson I asked, another man who knows what he thinks, and Robinson says:

"Umbrella! Foolish! In twenty minutes it'll be as clear as a bell. All blue-sky."

"Now, of course Jones and Robinson couldn't both be right, but I would rather lug an umbrella uselessly, following Jones, or get drenched following Robinson—be led by a man who had a mind of his own and wasn't afraid to speak it—than to hear what I would get from Snibbly if I asked him:

"Better take an umbrella, hadn't I?" I say to Snibbly, to hear him saying:

"Ye-es, I suppose it would be safer."

"Snibbly doesn't know what he thinks about the weather or about anything else, and if he does know what he thinks he doesn't say it. He sides in with me. He thinks it would be safer!"

"I like the man with a mind of his own, and he is everywhere the man that makes the wheels go around."—Washington Post.

An Old Story of Niagara.

A hundred yards above the brink of the American fall a rock ten feet square projects for a foot above the water in midstream. One morning the inhabitants awoke and saw a man sitting on it. The noise of the rapids prevented verbal communication. They did not, do not and never will know how he got there. He stayed there thirty-six hours. The people telegraphed to Buffalo, and the railway company sent one excursion train after another for thirty-six hours to see the man on the rock. They painted signs and stuck them up for the man to read, saying, "We will save you." Two hundred yards above there is a bridge. From this by ropes they floated rafts with provisions to him. At the end of his stay a big one came for him to get on. What they were going to do with him if they got him in this seething rapid is not known. He tried and failed and went over the fall, and that is all.—Blackwood's Magazine.

The Caterpillar.

If any schoolboy were asked to give the derivation of "caterpillar" he would say that it had something to do with "cat." And he would be right. The common explanation of "caterpillar" is that it is the old French "chatepelose," which means literally "hairy cat" and is very like the English "woolly bear." The last two syllables suggested the English "pillar," a plunderer, and "caterpillar" was the regular spelling until the seventeenth century. Dr. Murray's dictionary suggests that the word may have come straight from "cat" and "pillar." A Lombard word for caterpillar is "gatta" (cat) and a Swiss word "teufelskatz" (devil's cat), while a "catkin" is the vegetable imitation of the caterpillar.

Kneeling Down to Die.

Though a camel is supposed to have carried Mohammed in four leaps from Jerusalem to Mecca, seven miles an hour is the latter day camel's limit. It cannot maintain this rate for over two hours either. Its usual speed is five miles an hour, a slow pace beyond which it is dangerous to urge it, lest, as Asiatics say, it might break its heart and die literally on the spot. When a camel is pressed beyond this speed and is spent it kneels down and not all the wolves of Asia will make it budge again. The camel remains where it kneels, and where it kneels it dies. A fire under its nose is useless.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

A Geographical Game That Requires Quick Thinking.

Seat the players in a ring. Let the first one say aloud the name of a city, mountain, river, lake, etc., located in any part of the world or in any division of the earth agreed upon. The next player must give a name beginning with the last letter of the previously said name, and the third must supply one beginning with the first letter of the second, and so on around the circle. Thus, America, Athens, Santiago, Omaha, Antwerp, Peru.

Each player is allowed thirty seconds in which to think. If by the end of that time he fails to supply a name he must drop out of the game. The one who keeps up longest is champion. Any player may at any time be challenged to give the geographical location of the place he has named. If he cannot do this he must pay a forfeit.

Migrating Birds.

Some naturalists think that the birds that go north in summer are guided by the stars. It seems rather incredible, but the argument in its favor is plausible, says the Chicago News. It is known that these birds fly steadily toward the north on clear nights at a height of at least three miles above the earth's surface. At that elevation it is impossible for them to distinguish the topography of the country, and yet they go on uninterruptedly. This may be explained in one of two ways—they must have the sense of direction, as have the bees and wasps, or they are guided by the stars. If they have the sense of direction, why is it that they seem to become bewildered on cloudy nights and seek the ground? The only reasonable inference is that they are endowed with the power of "steering by the stars."

Queer Grass.

There is a grass in some parts of New Mexico and perhaps in other parts of the southwest that makes the animals that eat it go to sleep. It is said that horses fall asleep standing after eating it, while cows and sheep generally lie down. The cattle often come across patches of the grass, where they feed for half an hour or so and then go to sleep. They usually sleep about an hour. No serious results follow. It is not yet known what it is in the grass that produces the sleep. It may be opium, as in the poppy, or it may be some substance the nature of which has not been discovered.

Making Fire by Means of Water. Here is an interesting experiment for boys and girls.

First of all, do you know how to set anything on fire by bringing it in contact with cold water? This is the way to do it: Fill a saucer with water and let fall into it a piece of potassium of the size of a pepper corn (about two grains). The potassium will instantly become red hot, with a slight explosion, and burn vividly on the surface of the water, darting at the same time from one side of the vessel to the other with great violence in the form of a red hot fireball.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Work For the Handy Boy.

There would be an immense amount of pleasure to be found in making things out of cigar boxes if it were not so hard to remove the labels from them. With starch boxes there is no trouble of this sort to face, and by putting four together in the way shown in the picture herewith a pretty cabinet can be made. There is need to supply a back for the smallest of the five compartments unless a back is to be provided for all, and a door also is required. The finish will be a matter of individual taste but if a black stain should be used ornamental lettering would give a pleasing last touch. Of course, the grooves made for sliding the box covers in and out should be filled with putty before any staining is done unless that part of the box is cut off at the start.—Philadelphia Ledger.

CABINET MADE OF BOXES

An End.

A little girl went counting on
To one—two hundred, say,
"Is there no end to it?" she asked,
In quite a puzzled way.
I told her no—she had begun,
She might go on all day!
"There is an end to it—this end!"
She cried with laughter gay.
And back she counted, back to one,
And ended so her play.

THANKSGIVING.

The day of thansgiving is again here. While at all times, every day in the year, we should thank Almighty God for his many mercies and blessings, especilaly is it fitting on th day set a part for national observance that ever heart should be lifted in gratitude to Him and every lip utter His praise. The past year may not have been all desired; it may have brought disappointment to the hopes of some, it may have brought disaster to cherished plans, it may have brought sickness and affliction, even the shadow of death may have fallen across some thresholds; yet who is there who cannot feel in his heart that there is much to be thankful to God for? Not one can claim that he is not blessed more than he deserves. If you but try to

"Count you many blessings, Count them one by one."
you will find them more than you can enumerate. Give praise to God for these. Do not rob life of much of its sweetness by ingratitude to Him "who crowneth thee with loving kindness and tender mercies"

If you want to see Greenville grow get in the boat and help pull.

Open both your heart and your pocket book to the orphans tomorrow.

The turkey has lost his head, and if he does not see his finish tomorrow what is left will go to hash next day.

A recent book entitled "The Family," written by Mrs. Herbert Parsons, wife of Congressman Parsons, of New York, and a daughter of Henry Clews, has attracted an amount of attention out of all proportion to its importance. As a contemporary states it, "Mrs. Parsons advocates what she calls "trial marriages," or what might otherwise be spoken of as experimental marital relationships. In other words, her idea is that a man and woman shall be allowed to enter into a marriage contract for a limited period, the continuance of the marital relation to be optional with the contracting parties. At the end of the period agreed on the parties are to be free to separate and to enter into other contracts of the same kind." This is no more nor less than the ancient doctrine of free love and the practice suggested would be wholly destructive of the marital relation. A people who would tolerate it could no longer be called a Christian people. Why waste time and space in discussing it?—Charlotte Observer.

A STRONG COMPANY.

And A Fine Show.

The Edsall-Winthrope Co. presented a very strong play in "The Power of the Cross" at the Masonic Temple last night to a large and elite audience. The company is one of the cleverest that has visited our city, while the play was without doubt the strongest seen on our stage, at least by a popular price attraction. Miss Pearl Winthrope as "Daisy Lucas" the farmer's daughter, acted the part of the innocent and wronged girl admirably and had many of the large audience hid their faces behind their perfumed handkerchiefs during her pathetic scenes. Mr. N. Alvarez as the old broken hearted father did excellent acting and his portrayal of the character was the best ever seen here. Mr. Edward Abbott as the village parson was very good and looked the part of a young minister, in fact the whole company seemed at their best. The specialties of "The Three, Hylands" and Goodwin and Goodwin are the best seen on our stage, especially the work of Master Clifford Hyland, a little tot of about 4 years of age. This company is giving fine performances at popular prices and their good work is being rewarded by full houses nightly. "In the Shadow of the Gallows" was announced as the offering for tonight which will be their last performance.

The Omission Regretted.

The article in Tuesday's Reflector headed "A True Thanksgiving Day" was written by Rev. W. E. Cox, but by an oversight of the printer the signing of his name was omitted. We very much regret this omission, but being called away from the office about the time the paper was going to press it was not detected until almost the entire edition had been printed.

Football.

There will be a game of football in Richmond tomorrow between teams of the A. & M. College of North Carolina and V. P. I. of Virginia.

Welsh Rabbit.

Grate enough mild cheese to make one cup; add a rounding tablespoonful of butter, a saltspoonful of salt and a few grains of cayenne. Heat all in a double boiler, add three well beaten eggs and stir constantly until the mixture is like cream. Take up instantly before it cooks any longer and pour over thin slices of hot toast.

Removing Mud Stains.

To remove mud stains first dry and then try brushing with a stiff brush. If the spot remains, dip a piece of linen in strong alcohol and rub till the spot disappears. This will remove mud stains from silk and wool as well as from wash goods.

To Keep Cheese Moist.

To keep cheese wrap it in a clean fresh cloth that has been wet in vinegar and then wrung out as dry as possible. Wrap it in a paper bag and put in a dry place. If prepared in this manner the cheese will not dry out or mold for a long time.

Mock Maple Sirup.

A good substitute for maple sirup is made by using equal parts of granulated white and dark brown sugar; add one-half the quantity of water and boil until it is of the desired thickness. When cool add three drops of vanilla extract.

To Renovate Black Ribbon.

Black coffee that has been strained until it is quite clear and free from grounds is good. The ribbon should be well brushed, gently sponged with the coffee and ironed carefully on the wrong side till dry.

To Brighten Zinc.

Make a paste of sifted wood ashes—the finer the better—and kerosene and apply with a piece of soft flannel. Leave the paste on for an hour or two and polish with soft flannel.

Removing Warts.

Trim the warts with a sharp knife, but not to the quick, and then apply a stick of fused nitrate of silver. Repeat the application every day until the warts have disappeared.

AN EGYPTIAN MUMMY.

It Paces as a Modern Oracle in the B. K. Museum.

Can an Egyptian mummy render first class service as an oracle? Can the spirit of the dead return and answer or no to the questions of the living? Some people in London believe these things are possible, and they have the mummy right in the British Museum to prove it. A writer in the London Mail tells all about it: "This strange story is the mummy of Katebet, a priestess of the temple Ankhnesneferibre, who on the top of her head wore the first Egyptian mummy of the most beautiful specimens. With its golden face turned to one side, giving a look of life. On the breast is a hawk-headed ornament containing a scarab, the sacred beetle. On the wooden models of the hands are rings made of carnelian and precious stones, and an attempt had been made to imitate bracelets by painting. The system of swathing is unusual.

"In wall case No. 10 stands Katebet's painted wooden coffin. It again is singular. On the feet the feet and sandals of the deceased are painted in an unusual manner, and the face is evidently intended for a likeness. The Lady Katebet died in Thebes 2,700 years ago. The measures taken to preserve her body in its full beauty were evidently carried out with more than customary care and fidelity. Is it possible in this later world of miracles in mechanical law that a miracle of natural law is manifested here—that Katebet's spirit is in touch with her body?

"The peculiarities of the mummy make it easier to believe, but the way in which answers to questions are given affords a common sense mechanical explanation. The process gone through by the various devotees at this queer shrine is as follows: They approach the case with reverence and lay a hand upon it. Looking earnestly in the golden face of the priestess, they put a question that permits a plain affirmative or negative reply. If the priestess moves the answer is 'Yes.' If she makes no sign it is 'No.' They assert that she does nod sometimes and that the advice she gives is good.

"The explanation is severely modern. First, in the winter there is a dynamo of great power pounding away below to supply electric light and heat. Second, the movement of people in the room would be sufficient to cause a vibration which would move the case in which the mummy lies. The museum is exceptionally well built and therefore elastic, answering and giving easily throughout through vibratory motions wherever generated. If the official opinion were given this is undoubtedly what it would be."

Cough Candy.

An excellent cough candy is made of slippery elm, flaxseed and sugar. Soak a gill of whole flaxseed in a cup of boiling water. In another cup put broken bits of slippery elm bark until it is full. Cover this also with half a pint of boiling water and let it stand for two hours. Strain the flaxseed and slippery elm through a thin muslin cloth and save the liquid. Add a pound and a half of granulated sugar to it. Boil this sirup for ten minutes. Add juice of lemons and boil until it forms candy.

Barbecued Rabbit.

Secure a young rabbit and after skinning lay it in salt water for half an hour. Then dip into boiling water, wipe dry and rub the surface with olive oil or sweet butter. Dust with pepper. Put a gridiron over a fire of coals, lay the rabbit on it and cook tender, turning frequently, so that the surface will not become hard and dry. When done and nicely browned transfer to a buttered serving platter. Have ready a sauce made of four teaspoonfuls of vinegar, one of currant jelly and a pinch of mustard. Pour this over the rabbit, rubbing it in well, and serve at once.

Washing a Sweater.

Use pure soap and water not too hot in washing a sweater. Never rub soap on the sweater. Make suds instead. Pinse the sweater in water of exactly the same temperature as that of the washing water. Every laundress knows that rule for woolens, but not one in a thousand follows it conscientiously. Never hang a wet sweater up to dry. It will sag and stretch and be ruined. Lay it on a clean cloth on the grass in the fresh air and sunshine if you can. If not, lay it on a flat surface anyway or hang it up in a cheese-cloth bag and let it dry that way.

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

A Few Helpful Hints For the Economic Housewife.

A good beefsteak, however well cooked, will not be at its best unless served directly it is cooked.

Every saucepan that has been used and finished with should be filled with cold water, a lump of soda put into it and set to boil out.

To utilize scraps of lemons, having removed the yellow rind and the juice for flavoring, the pulp should be dipped into salt and used for cleaning copper pans.

Make potatoes look white and floury by boiling in as little water as possible, strain and take at once to an open door. Give the potatoes a vigorous shake in the pan, let it remain uncovered at the side of the stove for five minutes before serving.

Lamps should be filled daily and the chimneys polished at the same time. Once a month either wash and dry the wick or have a new one.

DECENCY A BUSINESS ASSET.

It used to be an accepted theory that the business world has nothing to do with the private life of business people. As long as a man attended honestly to his business occupation, was true to his obligations and paid his debts, that was considered sufficient. It is no longer considered sufficient. The business world, before it will accord to any man the highest rate of credit, must be shown that the man is not only faithful and reliable, but is not addicted to habits and occupations which may impair his standing. The Wall Street Journal recently went so far as to declare that the business world has a right to know of any business man "not only where he spends his days, but where he spends his nights. It has a right not only to know his financial standing, but also his status in the scale of social decency. The man who is faithful to the duties of his office and false to the standards of domestic decency must have his financial credit marked down and the business confidence of his fellow men lowered to the class of extra hazardous risks."—Baltimore Sun.

Winter Rhubarb.

Rhubarb is a vegetable easily raised in the cellar in winter. For forcing, or cellar growing, select and safely store away strong, big clumps of roots at least four years old and of early varieties. They may be planted at any time after they have had a short rest. If a succession is wanted a few are brought in at intervals of two weeks. On the bottom of a trench a foot deep place a four inch layer of fresh horse manure, followed by a two inch layer of loam. The roots are to be set in this trench, one foot apart, with the dirt carefully packed about them. When you have watered the plants and excluded all light the bed can be left to itself except for an occasional watering. The crop will be ready in from one to three months, the time varying with the temperature, the vitality of the plants, the season and other factors.—Suburban Life.

Smile!

Have you tried smiling? It is the latest remedy for all the ills of the flesh and the spirit, and it is cheap. All that is necessary to do to try the new "smile cure" which, we are informed, the London doctors are recommending is to lift the corners of the mouth slightly by means of the facial muscles, expanding the lips and showing the teeth. Practice this before the looking glass night and morning until the smile has worn in, and the beneficial results will be forthcoming, it is seriously asserted. There is no state of affairs so discouraging that it can't be bettered by smiling over it, and there is no joy in life so joyous that it will not spread a little wider over the surface of the globe with the coaxing of a smile.

If you have trouble bear it and grin—Smile and smile till the smile grows in.—Albany Argus.

A Crusher.

George Hoadly, ex-governor of Ohio, once related that the hardest setting down he ever experienced fell to him while campaigning in his own state. Tired and out of sorts, he arrived at a little town one evening and went to the only hotel in the place. The proprietor stood coatless behind a little desk smoking a corn-cob pipe. After Mr. Hoadly registered his host said, "Take yer grip up to No. 10, down at the far end of the hall." With some exasperation the state's chief executive said, "I am George Hoadly, governor of Ohio." The man looked him over calmly and replied, "Well, what d'ye want me to do—kiss ye?" The governor went meekly to bed.

Not Her Personal Sentiments.

Apologies have just been made to Marie Corelli by the London Daily Mail, which quoted as a personal expression the following passage from her novel "Temporal Power." "I have never loved any man, because from my very childhood I have hated and feared all men. I loathe their presence, their looks, their voices, their manners—if one touches my hand in ordinary courtesy my instincts are offended and revolted, and the sense of outrage remains with me for days." Those, it seems, are not her personal sentiments.
