YEAR CLOSES.

Large Numerical and Financial Increase.

The conference year for the Methodist church has come to a close. The last services for the year were held on Sunday, at which time an appropriate sermon was preached in the church here, and a report of the entire pastorate of the present pastor, Rev. J. A. Hornaday, was made.

This report showed that during the past three years one hundred and thirty eight persons have united with the church. Of the entire membership thirty seven have been lost to the church by death, removal, etc., leaving a net increase in membership of one hundred and one.

This is a larger number of accessions than any other pastor ever reported, and a larger net increase than was made during the sixteen years preceding the present pastorate.

The report also showed that during the three years past, the entire assessment of the church has been met in full. Large amounts have been donated annually to the Methodist orphanage at Raleigh, and other worthy causes.

In addition to this, a handsome brick church has been erected in our town at a cost of $25,000. This beautiful structure is now receiving the finishing touches, and it is hoped will be occupied by the first of the year.

Indeed, such reports speak well for both pastor and people.

Every time a church encourages or countenances promiscuous begging in behalf of any of its causes, to that extent it "cheapens" and lowers itself in the estimation of the general public. Indeed it must be a very sorry sort of religion that has to go a begging for support. Every church member owes its church a duty, and that duty is never fully discharged so long as the demands of any cause of the church are not satisfied. No church can afford to ask the outside world to do what its own members are too stingy to do. — Waxhaw Enterprise.

Rouclere the Greatest.

This superb mystifier will during his engagement here on Wednesday, Dec. 5th, present many strange and fascinating features peculiar to the magic of the great Chinese Conjurers—exhibitions of dazzling skill from ancient or celestial teachings blended with modern observations. Rouclere is the only illusionist in America who attempts these weird presentations and really they are but a small item in his remarkable entertainment. When you see Mildred and Rouclere you see the limit. In connection with these well known artists is a company of high class society entertainers whose part of the performance will be a delightful surprise to the audience.

This has been inauguration day in county affairs and the courthouse has presented a busy scene.

PITT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

New Officers Elected--State President Moore Speaks.

The Pitt county branch of the Southern Cotton Association met here Saturday and held its annual election of officers. The following were chosen for the next year:

President, J. J. Laughinhouse. Vice-President, G. T. Tyson. Secretary and Treasurer, R. L. Little

Executive Committee, L. F. Evans, Moses Moye, William McArthur, O. L. Joyner, W. A. B. Hearne.

Delegates to State Convention, G. T. Tyson, Alston Grimes, Collector, R. L. Little.

It was decided that the county association meet hereafter the first Saturday in each month at 11 o'clock a. m., the executive committee to meet the same date at 10 a. m.

After completing the business President C. C. Moore of the North Carolina Division addressed the meeting. He urged that the farmers come together in order to get the greatest benefit from the association and said he yet expected to see Pitt county have a strong organization. He explained fully the operation of local cotton warehouses and also the movement to organize the Southern cotton company to purchase and hold low priced cotton. It was a strong speech and will lead the Pitt county farmers to considering the matter of establishing a local cotton warehouse.

Foolish 'Possum.

"My, my!" said the old Georgia darkey, as the 'possum sped away from him, "you sho' is handy wid yo' foots, honey, en like some folks I knows uv, you'd ruther git out er de way er de trouble den have a reputation fer bearin' it cheerful! But how you gwine know how de worl' 'preciates you ef you don't stop and pass de time er day with it? Ef you could only see how juicy-brown you look after you come off de fire, en hear de folks at table smackin' dey mouth at de very sight er you, en could feel in you' soul dat you wuz makin' de worl' religious enough ter say grace over you, hit's my opinion you'd feel sich a gratefulness you'd come right up ter de ol' man, en lay down at his two foots, en say: 'Yer I is suh! Des take me long wid you!'—Atlanta Constitution

Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday, colder tonight in extreme western portion.

PIANO IN SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Little Girls Ask to Make First Payment On It.

The Baptist Sunday school recently decided to purchase a piano for use in leading the Sunday school music. On Saturday Mr. G. G. Fineman, salesman for Chas. M. Stieff, put a nice new piano in the Sunday school on trial. Sunday morning Superintendent W. H. Ragsdale was making an explanation about the piano when one of the girls in Miss Maggie Doughty's class arose and asked for the class the privilege of paying the first installment on the purchase of the instrument. The school accepted the offer with a vote of thanks to the class. With such girls as these working for a good cause it is bound to succeed.

News from the Other World.

A Washington woman prominent in the official set of the national capital tells of a function to which she had invited an attache of one of the legations famous for his extreme politeness. The invitation was formally accepted, but on the morning of the appointed day she received a note, written by the diplomat's valet and couched in the following terms:

"Senor blank regrets much that he will not be able to attend Mrs. So-and-So's reception on the evening of the 22nd instant, as he is dead."—Harper's Weekly.

Shool Boy Breaks Arm.

While playing on the graded school campus today Clifton Rountree, a son of Mrs L. W. Whichard, fell and broke one of his arms.

Critically ill.

Mrs. S. T. White, who has been very sick for several weeks, is now in a critical condition and her friends have almost lost hope of her recovery.

New Board of Commissioners.

The new board of commissioners, consisting of R. W. King, M. T. Spier, D. J. Holland, N. T. Cox and J. Z. Brooks, took charge of the affairs of the county today. R. W. King was chosen chairman of the board. Their first work was passing upon the bonds of other county officers.

All persons having packages for the bazaar at the Perkins opera house will please send them in tomorrow.

ESCAPES FROM CAMP.

One Prisoner Catches Another.

Mr. Joe McLawhorn, who has charge of the county convict camp, tells us of an unusual incident. Among the prisoners at the camp is Ed Weathington, a white man who is not regarded as very bright. Weathington was treated as a trusty, and Sunday evening he gave the guards the slip and run away. Among those sent to look for him was Pete Mewborn, a colored prisoner who is also a trusty. Pete was first to come in sight of Weathington, and running him down held him until guards could arrive and take him back to the camp. Mewborn is serving a sentence of one year, and Mr. McLawhorn says he is going to try to get some of his time off for good behavior.

Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh.

Like the Concord Captain.
Senator Tillman was accusing a political leader of overbearing and arbitrary methods, says the New York Tribune.
"He goes too far," said the senator. "He is like a militia captain they used to have in Concord."
"This man is a Concord with a war record," said a captain's appointee.
"He is a Concord." The first day he entered his company he examined the men by their heads, every button on their coats. It was an ordeal for them.
"On the whole the captain was pleased with his inspection. One thing dissatisfied him, though—his men all had clean shaven upper lips.
Some had side whiskers, some had mutton chops, some had goatees,
some had petriotic chin beards.
There was not one who had a mustache.
"The captain complimented his company in a short speech and concluded by saying:
"Only one thing is lacking to make a crack, martial looking company of you—mustaches. I want every man Jack of you to raise a mustache."
"At this order the men looked at one another, and a young farmer, stepping out from the ranks, saluted
and said:
"What color will you have them,
sir?"

CONDENSED STORIES.
A Butcher Made the Victim of Novel Scheme of Vengeance.
Dr. Henry Mitchell, secretary of the New Jersey state board of health, tells the following:
"A Trenton butcher named Ludwig was continually being robbed of meat, poultry and sausages by a large black tomcat belonging to a next door neighbor.
Ludwig suffered these thefts a long time. Finally his temper got the best of him, and he killed the cat with a poisoned fish.
"The cat's owner the next morning found his large black cat lying

"WHERE YOU ARE, MR. LUDWIG." dead before his door. He knew at once who had done the killing, and with a low, bitter oath he took the dead cat by the tail and went indoors. He had already decided on the revenge he would take.
"Butcher Ludwig had happened to advertise for the week a mark down sale of sausage. The advertisement took well, and that night
his shop was thronged with sausage buyers.
"Suddenly, when the crowd was thickest, the next door neighbor elbowed his way through the people and threw upon the chopping block
the dead body of the huge black cat.
"There you are, Mr. Ludwig," he said. "That makes No. 35. I'll bring the fifteen others when you're not so busy."

Father Kielty's Joke.
The Rev. Francis M. Kielty, rector of the Church of the Holy Angels, St. Louis, who died recently at the age of eighty-two, was an Irish scholar, wit and practical joker.
Archbishop Kenrick twice nominated Father Kielty for a bishopric, once of Memphis and once of Peoria, Ill., but in each case Rome gave the honor to some one else.
Father Kielty began his sermon
one Sunday morning by announcing in a voice with pathos that he had a confession to make.
"I might as well make a clean breast of it. I've been sued for alimony, and you'll have to pay it," he said.
As the congregation gasped he waved in the air a document, signed and sealed to resemble an order of court.
"Yes, I mean it," he said,
and then, pointing through one of the stained windows, continued,
"That alley out there has been paved, and the city has sued me for the alley money."—Rocky Mountain Herald.

BETTER THAN A REFORMATORY.

Did you ever know a boy to be sentenced to the chain gang or to penitentiary who was not so tough that any place except a prison was too good for him? Our judges are humane men and when a young criminal is brought before them they never send him to chain gang or to State prison unless the boy deserves to go there. When a boy is tried and convicted in the courts if there is any hope for the boy there is always some good citizen willing to take him and keep him for the work he will do and the sentence is "to jail with leave to hire out." We know a number of instances where good citizens have taken boys from the court house, kept them at home and have done a good part by them, and saved the boys from prison. Just now when labor is so scarce is there possibility of saving the young criminal from prison and from chain gang. All over North Carolina there are farmers who would take young criminals, those who are not too mean to go anywhere except to a chain gang, and keep them for any length of time the courts might sentence them. And what better could you do with a young law-breaker than to put him in the hands of a good and humane farmer who would work him all the week, teach him what a good honest work is, give him the same as the farmer's family have, let him live comfortably and let him go to church on Sunday? That would be a great deal better than to spend thousands of dollars to build and to keep a reformatory for young criminals. If the boy who is sent from the court to a farm runs away, and refuses the home offered him why, put him where he will stay. Let him understand that it is work on the farm or it is work on the chain gang. We heard a lawyer who has a large practice and who has been a member of the bar twenty-two years say just a few days ago that he had never yet heard a judge pass an infamous sentence on a boy. Build your reformatory, send every little white boy and every little nigger to it who is brought before a magistrate for some petty violation of law and it will be but a few months until it is so full that boys feet will be sticking out of windows. And if you advocates of a reformatory propose to take the young criminals in hand and make a school of the reformatory, teach them a trade and teach them in books, then you are going to do for them more than is being done for the innocent boys in this State. Let every orphan boy and girl be sheltered in our homes for the orphans; let every boy and girl who does not break the law receive from the State the rudiments of an education in the public schools and let the youthful criminals be farmed out, if they are not so tough that a prison or a chain gang is the only place for them. — Monroe Inquirer

The Baptist State convention meets in Greensboro this week.

Now we will be hearing some more of what congress is doing or failing to do.

Col A. A. B. Andrews, first vice-president of the Southern railway, was mentioned as successor to President Spencer who was killed in the fearful wreck last week. Report says that as the acceptance of this position would necessitate Col. Andrews changing his residence from North Carolina to New York, he declined being considered in connection with the presidency of the road.

A BONE OF MYSTERY.

Standing alongside the railroad tracks near Hackensack, N. J., is a row of four little workmen's cottages that bear the cryptic title in that countryside of "the mastodon houses." The reason for the title is based on the fact that when the cellars for these cottages were being dug in the soft black loam the workmen came across a bone of such an unusual size and appearance that the name of the "find" soon spread through the neighborhood, attracting the attention of all of the amateur naturalists.

One of them wrote to the state geologist at Trenton, giving him a complete and accurate description of the bone and requesting the official to take some steps toward securing the relic for the state museum. But the geologist replied that he had no money for such a purpose, and as the builder and the naturalists could come to no agreement over the possession of the thing the builder took it upon himself to decide the fate of the bone by sticking it back in the earth again, where, so far as any one knows, it still remains. Its monument consists of the shabby little houses with the title that overbalances their size and appearance materially.—New York Press.

The Green Above the Red.

On the occasion of opening the new Dublin main drainage works guests were to be taken down the river in the corporation steamer Shamrock. The red ensign with the union jack quartered upon it floated from the flagstaff. Among the guests was Alderman Kelly, the leader of the movement of platonic Fenianism. Immediately on boarding the corporation steamer Alderman Kelly marched straight to the ensign staff, took out a large clasp knife, cut down the union jack and threw the flag into the river. At a banquet later in the day his majesty's attorney general for Ireland made no reference to the cutting down of the flag or to the fact that several members of the Dublin corporation had walked out when the toast of the king was proposed.—London Outlook.

COLLECTING QUARTERS.

"Are you collecting quarters?" asked a messenger boy, addressing another, the other day and displaying at the same time a handful of silver twenty-five cent pieces. "Naw," came the surly reply. "Whatcheruse?" "Cause you can get a premium from Uncle Sam when you collect quarters with the letters 's-o-u-t-h' on 'em."

He referred to the small initial letter that appears on the silver pieces, and which stands for the city in which the mint that produces them is located. For instance, those made at the San Francisco mint bear the letter "S," those at New Orleans "O," and so on.

"The government does not pay any premiums for such purposes," said a treasury official when asked about the matter. "However, if it did no person could ever collect coins having the mint letters on them that would spell 'south.' The mints are located at Philadelphia, New Orleans, San Francisco and Denver, and there was one at Carson City, but it has been discontinued. There is no initial letter used at Philadelphia; hence if the collectors get all the letters that are used they will have only 'S,' 'O,' 'D' and 'C.' It is remarkable how many people are deluded with this idea and are striving to get what they call 'the south collection,' with the expectation of getting a large sum for it from the treasury department."—Washington Star.

A Strayed Comet Found.

The rediscovery of Finlay's comet with the telescope of the Koenigstuhl observatory on the night of July 15 last was effected in an unusual manner, and it recalls the original discovery of the planet Neptune, since, like that, it was the direct result of a preceding mathematical calculation intended to disclose the whereabouts in space of an invisible body—invisible, that is to say, except in a telescope pointed directly at it. This comet, first seen in 1886 and reobserved upon its return in 1893, was missed in 1900, when it should again have been visible. This year another return was known to be due, but the comet did not appear when and where it was looked for. The German astronomer L. Schulhof, knowing that the comet must have experienced a disturbance by the planet Jupiter, calculated so accurately the results of this disturbance that he was able to indicate to the observers at Koenigstuhl the part of the sky where the comet should be visible. They looked in that direction and actually found the little wanderer near the point that Schulhof had indicated.—Youth's Companion.

His Name a Passport.

John Burns, London's famous labor member of parliament, visited Belgium recently and did not carry with him even a visiting card, something which he does not possess. In Brussels he went to the labor colonies, prisons and other institutions unexpectedly and unannounced. He asked for the director and when shown into the bureau of that important functionary introduced himself as follows: "Je suis John Burns, ministre de ——" (I am John Burns, minister of —). But he rarely got further, as he was promptly recognized. All doors were thrown open at the words "Je suis John Burns," every courtesy was shown him and all information readily granted him.

The Word "Humble."

"Humble" is a word that has gone out of fashion during the lifetime of many of us. An Australian paper that is reproducing extracts from its files of fifty years ago prints this advertisement of 1856: "Young woman wants home in a humble family." Nobody sees an advertisement of that sort in the papers nowadays except in the weekly journals of the Irish rural districts, where such announcements as "Wanted, an humble girl," still occasionally appear.
