The Doll Hospital

By J. A. EDGERTON

(Copyright, 1906, by J. A. Edgerton.)

THE world is full of hospitals, not only for disease racked and wrecked human beings, but for dogs, horses, birds and—dolls. And why not? Dolls have ailments as well as other folks—in fact, rather more so. They lose their hair, their eyes, their teeth, their hands, their legs, their sawdust and even their complexions and heads. Small boys delight in crippling and maiming them, rockers smash them, big folks step on them. This is a hard world for dolls.

So the doll hospitals flourish. Most large cities support one. Doll surgery has become a science. The poor things do not have to take medicine, fortunately, except paint applied externally and sawdust internally, so that a pharmacopoeia is not required in doll doctoring. The operations are all surgical. But for all that the doll doctors are entitled to place M. D. after their names, M. D. standing for mender of dolls.

It is quite a grewsome sight in the wards and operating room of the hospital itself. There heads, arms, legs, eyes and trunks lie about in startling array. Most of the heads are minus hair and have great holes in the tops of them. Arms or legs are hanging literally by a thread. Noses are broken, hands are minus, feet have been amputated, faces are mashed in, while the internal machinery that makes the doll cry, say "mamma" and open and shut its eyes is out of whack as badly as some people's livers. The wax, china and paper mache babies have never developed appendicitis as yet, or stomach ache, but they are subject to almost every other ail.

The doll hospital is a great boon to the little mothers. They come at all hours of the day, bringing their ailing darlings, or, if they live too far away, they send dolls by express or messenger, with crumpled and pathetic notes. One little girl had let her precious fall downstairs and break its leg, another had been listening to a hand organ in the street, and her brother, who was playing that he was a Chinese juggler and was executing some of his stunts, just to keep in practice, had cut her head off with a fire shovel. Still another small miss of seven had kicked the nose off Mable's doll. Dolls usually have long names, you know—and would the doctors please fix it? They would.

On the work table at the hospital are not only arms and legs galore, but all kinds of wigs, paints, threads and cords, miniature teeth, tiny curling irons, pastes and glues, hooks and scissors of many shapes and sizes and even an appalling assortment of glass eyes of various colors and sizes. The eyes, which open and shut with a weight, are placed in position through the opening in the head. A few stitches serve to mend loose arm or leg, while hooks and cords are usually required to fix a fractured joint. The paint brush touches up a faded complexion, as is the case even with flesh and blood grown folks.

There are almond eyed Chinese dolls with faded yellow complexions and long eyes, Indians with feathers missing from their war bonnets, pickaninny dolls with moth eaten wool and angel faced cherubs with a battered appearance that makes them look as if they had been in a Bowersy scrimmage.

But surgery does miracles, and this particular branch of it performs even greater wonders than that in the sure enough hospitals. It makes bodily members grow on where none had been before, and before its marvelous powers even decapitation is not fatal.

CHRISTMAS TREE

Of Winterville High School Thursday Night Dec. 20th.

Winterville N. C. Dec. 22nd.

It was a pleasant sight indeed to behold the radiant and expectant countenances of the students of W. H. S. as they assembled in the auditorium Thursday night to receive the many presents there in store for them on the beautiful tree.

After a chorus by several of the girls and an instrumental solo by Miss Venitia Cox, Prof. G. E. Lineberry introduced Rev. J. E. Ayscue, pastor of the Baptist church at Greenville, who gave us a most excellent and appropriate address. He dwelt principally on the meaning of Christmas and the spirit in which it should be celebrated, laying special emphasis on the fact that we should not be content to be receivers only but givers also; that in as much as Christ had given Himself for us and brought joy and gladness to the shepherds, the devout ones and the wise men thus representing all classes of people even so we ought to go out and carry joy and sunshine into some humble home by there bestowing our gifts. He made a special appeal to the boys and girls to consider the manner in which they celebrated this great event.

His address made lasting impressions on his hearers. As soon as Mr. Ayscue had closed his address, Santa Claus came upon the scene ready for the distribution of the presents, a task which he performed in a most admirable manner. None of the presents cost more than five or ten cents and every child who was a student received a present either from his teacher or friend.

The teachers also received a very valuable and useful presents from the pupils of their respective departments.

Thus here ended the fall term of the most prosperous session of the school so far. The work of the spring term will begin promptly Monday, Dec. 31. The prospects for the spring term are bright. New students are engaging rooms almost daily.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 22.

CHRISTMAS.

The season of Christmas is with us once more, the happiest and merriest time of all the year—a time for home comings and family reunions, a time for greetings in love and friendship, a time when joy and gladness should fill every heart and good cheer surround every fireside. For months Christmas is looked forward to and planned for. It means so much to the world that every one wants to catch the glad spirit and be a part of it.

Yet there are some who will not experience the joy of this Christmas season unless it is imparted to them by others. Let us look out for these—the poor, the sad hearted, the sorrowful—and give them a portion of the happiness that is made possible for us all. He spends a poor Christmas indeed who contributes naught to the joy of another; and he spends the happiest Christmas who does most in bringing joy to others. Let the Christ-like spirit be in every one.

Those senators who keep jumping the president over the discharge of those negro soldiers do not seem to know when they are whipped.

How glad we all should be that a Sunday comes between and gives opportunity for a day's rest in the midst of the crushing holiday rush.

The old blue back speller is hard to down. It ought to find its way back into the public schools as it is far ahead of any latter day effort at spelling.

The newspapers are giving report of the toy pistol casualties that usually come along about Christmas time. Notwithstanding the numerous accidents resulting from rifles and toy pistol parents continue to allow their boys to have them.

While it cost the State a good bit of money to hold that investigation at Morganton, it was perhaps right to order the investigation to clear up the charges brought against an official of a State institution. At the same time there ought to be a way to reach the man who brings such charges just because he has a sore spot to air, and throw the cost on him when it is shown that his charges are without foundation.

Rev. Mr. Glenn Hurt.

Rev. E. C. Glenn was struck by a dray belonging to Chrismon Bros. and driven by George Marks, a negro, about seven o'clock last evening on South Elm street, in front of Odell Hardware Company's store. He was knocked down and two wheels of the dray ran over his body painfully injuring him. Greensboro Record.

RIGHTS UNDER A PATENT.

Each of the Three Constitutes a Separate Monopoly.

To make, to use and to sell are the only ways in which an invention is capable of commercial enjoyment. The patentee can, if he wishes, sit down and not only not use the invention himself, but prevent others from making or using or selling the patented thing. If any one else makes, uses or sells the subject of the patent the courts will grant the patentee an injunction against further infringement and a recovery of the profits made.

Each of these three rights—to make, to use and to sell—is a separate monopoly and may, by proper instruments, be granted or sold separately. For instance, a patentee of a machine could grant to a manufacturer the exclusive right to make the machines for him (of course under proper restrictions as to price, etc.), and the manufacturer would be an infringer if he used the machines or sold them to others. The patentee could then grant to a jobber the exclusive right to sell the machines (reserving proper compensation to himself, such as a percentage of the profits), and the jobber would be an infringer if he either made or used the machine. The exclusive right to use the machines could then be granted to a given consumer, who in turn would have no right to make or sell the machine.

Dor chapped and cracked hands nothing is quite as good as an application of F. J. Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. Put it on before going to bed, use an old pair of gloves and see what a difference the morning will bring. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

It is a mistake to use a violent cathartic to open the bowels. A gentle movement will accomplish the same results without causing distress or serious consequences later. DeWitt's Little Early Risars are recommended. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

Some men make a specialty of posing as horrible examples.

Free from all opiates. Conforms to the National Pure Food and Drug Law. Sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

A man with a sprained ankle will use a crutch, rest the ankle and let it get well. A man or woman with an overworked stomach can't use a crutch, but the stomach must have rest just the same. It can be rested too without starvation. Kodol will do it. Kodol performs the digestive work of the tired stomach and corrects the digestive apparatus. Kodol fully conforms to the provisions of the National Pure Food and Drug Laws. Recommended and sold by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.

Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves, regulates the bowels, aids the kidneys, cures stomach troubles, builds up the nervous force and repairs the ill effects of over eating. Tea or Tablets, 35 cents.

A TEXAS WONDER.
There's a Hill at Bowie, Tex., that's twice as big as last year. This wonder is W. L. Hill, who from a weight of 90 pounds has grown to over 180. He says: "I suffered with a terrible cough, and doctor gave me up to die of Consumption. I was reduced to 90 pounds, when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, Coughs and Colds. Now, after taking 12 bottles, I have more than doubled in weight and am completely cured." Only sure cough and cold cure. Guaranteed by Jno. L. Wooten Druggist. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, at whose laboratory Kodol is prepared, assure us that this remarkable digestant and corrective for the stomach conforms fully to all provisions of the National Pure Food and Drug Law. The Kodol laboratory is a very large one, but if all the sufferers from indigestions and stomach troubles could know the virtues of Kodol it would be impossible for the manufacturers to keep up with the demand. Kodol is sold here by Jno. L. Wooten's Drug Store.
