

THE NORMAL SCHOOL

Some strange things happen sometimes with newspapers as well as individuals. We find in one issue of the Kinston Free Press an article giving the advantages of, and the reasons why, a normal and industrial school should be located in Kinston, said not a word about there being no necessity for the establishment of such an institution. In a few days afterward an editorial appears in the same paper opposing the establishment of the school. Why this change of front?

The article has only one paragraph in it proposing to give any reason whatever why the legislature should not establish this school and do so at this session.

We are almost amazed at some of these reasons. For instance it says "We do not believe that conditions would justify the legislature in taking this step." For fifteen years conditions have been changing in North Carolina. Better houses have been built, consolidation of districts has been made, local tax districts have been formed and public sentiment has changed until these conditions absolutely demand better teachers for every school. This has become so universal that not only is it embarrassing, but it is alarming.

The great question with every school now is what shall we do for a teacher? Not even a trained teacher can be had, and as for trained teachers it is next to impossible to get them. There is the demand, where is the supply? What is the remedy? Common sense would answer that more teachers must be trained.

Now the normal at Greensboro is working to its full capacity. It is preparing teachers as fast as it can and is doing it nobly and well, and there ought not to be a man in the State who is not its friend and who would not do anything in his power to aid this worthy institution. Shame upon the man who would throw any obstacle in the way of its progress. Let the legislature give it all it can use and use well, but after this is done where is your supply of teachers to come from? We believe it is true that if every woman who graduates at the institution were to teach that five counties in North Carolina could take them all every year and not more than fill their demand. Now what must the other 93 counties do? They would necessarily have to do one of two things, close their schools, or continue to use teachers who have had no training for the work.

We venture that the educational world will assent to the truth that as is the teacher so is the school, and that consolidated districts, splendid houses, and local tax districts will not give us schools such as are now being demanded. Nothing short of teachers trained for their work

PITT COUNTY TEACHERS' MEETING A GRAND SUCCESS.

The first monthly teachers' meeting for this calendar year was held in the Greenville graded school building Jan. 12th, 1907. A large number of teachers of the public schools of Pitt county were present, and on the face of each seemed to be stamped the determination to "Do noble things, not dream them all day long." The number present and the interest and enthusiasm they showed were unmistakable evidences of a spirit of progressiveness and co-operation on the part of these men and women who are giving the best efforts of mind, body and soul to the great and good cause that is so near their hearts.

President, J. A. McArthur presided.

"All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name" was sung; after which Rev. M. T. Plyler read a Scripture lesson and led in prayer.

Prof. W. H. Ragsdale came before the association with announcements and words of kindly cheer. He announced the subjects for the historical papers to be written by pupils of the county in the contests for the Grimes and Arthur medals, the first subject being, "What has Pitt County Contributed to Carolina History?" The other, "What do the Citizens of Pitt County Owe to Their Schools?" The names of all pupils who are to contest for these prizes must be sent to Mr. Ragsdale by Feb. 20th, and all papers must be sent in by April 1st.

Interesting and suggestive remarks on "How much home work by first grade pupils should be required?" were made by Prof. E. C. Nye, Miss L. Brown and Miss Haldah Cox.

Mr. S. C. Wooten then appeared on the rostrum and delighted the audience for - I know not how long; the lapse of the minutes was not noted by his audience, as it listened intently to his inspiring address on "The Teachers' Opportunity." He uttered words of wisdom, sentences of beauty, thoughts of strength and power that will linger long in our memories and accomplish much good.

Professors G. E. Lineberry H. Smith and H. B. Cale answered questions on "Difficulties encountered in teaching Grammar." The discussion was quite interesting and helpful, showing plans, new and old, for preventing and overcoming carelessness and unsatisfactory work in this important branch.

After a few encouraging remarks by the president of the association, the meeting adjourned at one o'clock.

The New Year has made a good beginning for the association; may not the work be pushed vigorously onward, and may not even more good be accomplished during the remaining months of this school year than has ever been accomplished in the same length of time? The influence of these meetings is felt throughout the county, and it is an incentive to earnest, faithful work.

Will not the meetings continue to strengthen, encourage and help those who attend them? Dora A. Hornaday.

LAUGHINGHOUSE BILL.

For Relief of Prisoners Awaiting Trial.

Representative J. J. Laughinghouse the first week of the legislature introduced a bill for the relief of prisoners awaiting trial. From what we learn of this bill it is a good one and should become a law. The features of it are that any prisoner in jail awaiting trial can, upon his request, work upon the roads. If he is convicted at the trial he is to be credited on the sentence for the time already worked, while if acquitted he is to be paid by the county commissioners for the time he has worked.

Such a law as this would benefit the prisoners waiting trial, as it would be conducive to their health by permitting them to be at work out in the air instead of confined in jail. It would also be beneficial to the county in that the prisoner would be doing something to pay for bed and board while being held in custody and not be a dead expense on the county.

All Next Week.

The Williams Comedy Co. will be the attraction at the Temple opera house all next week. This company has been here before and the people know them. They will play at popular prices, 15, 25 and 35 cents. On Monday night the ladies will be admitted free if accompanied by a lady or gentleman with one paid reserved seat ticket, ticket must be purchased before seven o'clock on Monday evening. This company has an abundance of specialty people and we can look for some good singing and dancing.

Deid

Burton L. Brown, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, died at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at their home on Dickinson avenue. The sorrowing parents have the sympathy of a host of friends.

Funeral services were held at the residence at 3:30 this afternoon, conducted by Rev. M. T. Plyler, interment following in Cherry Hill cemetery. The pall bearers were Harry White, George Prichard, Charles Haskett and Ben Taylor.

Pitt on Committees.

In the appointment of committees by Speaker Justice of the house of representatives, Pitt county's members are on the following:

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Planning for Exhibit at Jamestown Exposition

On Monday night there was a meeting of the chamber of commerce in the mayor's office to discuss the matter of extending the corporate limits of Greenville, and to confer with Mr. Babcock, representative of the Norfolk & Southern railroad, relative to an exhibit at the Jamestown exposition. Owing to other meetings in progress at the same time the attendance was small, and the extension of the town limits was deferred to a later meeting.

Mr. Babcock outlined the plan for an exhibit of the resources of this section at the exposition, and a committee consisting of R. O. Jeffress, S. T. White and R. J. Cobb was appointed to arrange with him the details for the exhibit. It was decided to hold another meeting with Mr. Babcock on Saturday, 26th inst, at which time the farmers of the county are especially invited to be present, as it is desired to interest them in making an exhibit of their crops.

Several prizes are offered to farmers on this exhibit. The best 10 ears of corn $5, second best $2.50; the best 10 water melons $2 each, second best $1 each; the best bushel of sweet potatoes $5 and of Irish potatoes $5, second best $2.50 each; also premiums for the best tobacco exhibit and for other crops. It will be worth while for the farmers of the county to be present on the 26th and learn the details of the exhibits. Pitt county can make a fine showing at the exposition and should do so.

TO THE TOBACCO FARMERS OF PITT AND ADJOINING COUNTIES

Greenville, N. C. Jan. 11th, 1907.

In view of the fact that in the opinion of farmers as well as warehousemen and buyers that the 1906 crop of tobacco has practically all been sold and there still remains only a small remnant of the crop in the hands of the farmers the Greenville tobacco market deems it advisable and to the interest of the farmers to urge them to market this remnant as early as possible.

Their reasons for urging this is as follows: There are several buyers here engaged in buying certain grades of tobacco; as long as these grades of tobacco are being sold in sufficient quantities to justify the buyers in getting a package of this grade there is not much danger in the price declining, but when it becomes so scarce that it takes a long time to fill a package and there is doubt as to whether or not a package can be filled the buyer is likely to get off the market entirely. They are forced to do this in order to protect themselves and to prevent having on hand several incomplected parcels or packages of tobacco.

The board of trade believes that it is to the best interest of the farmers and it is on this account that they urge the farmers to sell the remnant of tobacco now held by them, and in order to get the full benefit of all tobacco farmers will do well to heed the above suggestion.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL.

can meet the demands as they now exist. The State is already making appropriation for two schools in the west for the training of teachers. Why do this in the normal at Greensboro can do the work? This is no criticism of the work done there, but recognition of the demand for better teachers now.

Why shall the East not have at least one school for this purpose? No where in the State is the demand so great for trained teachers as here. We say without hesitation that we believe it is a waste of money to appropriate it to schools and then not put a teacher in charge—not some one to hear lessons but to teach the children.

There has been a great effort to lengthen school terms. This is all right, if you have a school that is doing something, but some of the money spent for lengthening terms could a long way better be applied in preparing somebody to teach school. It would pay the State much better. A good school for three months is better than a poor one for five months.

Again this statement occurs in the Free Press editorial: "The comparatively young but growing institution established at Greensboro by the honored McIver can do all the work that conditions demand of a normal in this State." Let's see about that. We quote the following from the North Carolina Journal of Education in its last issue: "More teachers leave the teaching profession every year, and more new teachers enter every year, that can be trained in our normal schools in ten years." The demand now is largely in excess of the supply, more new teachers enter every year than can be furnished by the present normals in ten years, when will the demand ever be supplied?

Again we quote from the same authority and it is the organ of all the educational forces of the State: "It will not be an extravagant statement, judging by reports from different county superintendents, to say that next year at least one-fourth of these 6,260 teachers (the number of rural public school teachers in the State) will cease to become instructors of the young." This will make 1,565 vacancies to be filled. Take every trained teacher from every school in the State doing this kind of work and you will see that more than a thousand unprepared and untrained teachers must be in the schools in addition to those who remain in the work.

We would ask the Free Press if it can suggest even any remedy for this other than to devise some means for the immediate better training of more teachers than we have at present. Let the Greensboro normal work to its full capacity, give us another college like it, and there will be a demand for every graduate of the colleges training teachers, and when we get these teachers we will advance more in education even with shorter terms, if this were necessary, than we are now doing. There can't be any question about it's paying the State.

If the people in Eastern North Carolina desire to see this section go forward educationally, they will unite in the demand for more trained teachers and ask this legislature in no uncertain tone to give us a normal college in the East to supplement the work that is now being done at Greensboro.

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart. Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasantly delightful. Gently though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation. If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If it's a painful restlessness, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 30 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure. Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense. THE DOOM OF VENICE

IT MAY BE TO LIE IN THE BOSOM OF THE ADRIATIC.

The Famous Bells of St. Mark's May Toll on Ocean's Depths Like Those of Old Port Royal—The Sunken Cities of the World.

It is believed by many that Venice is sinking into the Adriatic and that she gradually will disappear beneath the waters of the great lagoon from which her palace crowned islands arise. Other cities have gone that way before her, and ships now sail over spots which were once teeming with a populous life.

At the entrance to the harbor of Kingston, Jamaica, the original city of Port Royal lies fathoms deep beneath the blue and sunlit waters of the Caribbean sea. A narrow strip of land, on which are a small settlement and a fort, is all that is left of what was once the richest and wickedest town in the West Indies. It was the resort of pirates, who rested there from their depredations and made the city hideous with their revelry. But these pirates brought great stores of their loot to the city, and its commerce grew and flourished. Palaces and churches were built, a pirate often striving by a rich endowment of a church to square his accounts with heaven.

Throughout the greater part of the seventeenth century no town in the western world was so magnificent as to its buildings or so luxurious as to its habits as Port Royal. Then one day in 1692 the anger of the Lord shook the island of Jamaica, and the greater part of Port Royal sank beneath the sea, carrying with it hundreds of its inhabitants. Towers, churches, palaces and forts went down, many of them not tumbling in ruins by the shock, but sinking bodily beneath the waves.

On a bright day, sailing over the spot where Port Royal once stood, one can look far down through the clear water and see the remains of the city still standing there on the ocean bottom, with fishes swimming about among its towers and great tropical seaweeds waving from its sunken walls.

The negroes of Jamaica—and some white people, too—will tell you that before a storm the sunken bell of the great cathedral which went down with the city on that awful day in 1692 can be heard distinctly tolling below the waves, rung as a warning by the ghostly hands of the spirits of departed buccaneers which haunt the submarine city. People who do not believe in ghosts, but think they have heard the tolling of the bell, say the explanation is that when the city sunk the great bell of the cathedral was not thrown from its place, but still hangs as it originally did. The coming storm before it reaches Jamaica stirs up the waters of the Caribbean and sends in upon the shore deep waves, which roll through the sunken city and set the bell a-tolling.

Another sunken city of renown is Baiae, that splendid resort on the Italian coast where Nero and Caligula "reveled and drank deep." A struggling village and heaps of marble ruins still stand upon the shore and bear the name of Baiae, but the greater part of the city lies beneath the waters of the Mediterranean, and tourists from Naples go out there to gaze down into the waters and try to catch a glimpse of the submerged city.

The resort of all the wealthy nobles of Rome when Rome was mistress of the world, Baiae was a marvel of luxurious splendor. Palace after palace was built on the shore, and architects designed magnificent structures extending out into the sea.

When Rome decayed and the Goths ravaged Italy, Baiae was sacked by the invaders. Soon after the city began to sink. First the buildings which had their foundation in the water subsided beneath the waves, and then the sea made an attack on the land. Gradually the shore line receded, and the Mediterranean flowed through the streets where Hadrian had driven his imperial chariot and Horace had walked thinking of his next poem.

These promontories, crowned with grand towers and gorgeous palaces, were undermined and toppled into the deep until at last the major part of the splendid city was submerged. Its disappearance was not sudden, like that of Port Royal, and due to some convulsion of nature, but Baiae went down to its death gradually, as Venice is said to be going.

In Holland the subsidence of the land has brought it about that many towns once populous are now covered by the sea. The old Roman camp at Brittenburg, after sinking beneath the waves, emerged again in 1520, only to disappear, and its remains now lie in deep water opposite the town of Katwijk. The original Katwijk itself now is beneath the waters, as also are the original towns of Scheveningen, Domburg and Egmond. In fact, a succession of towns bearing these names is now at the bottom of the sea, for they repeatedly have been rebuilt farther inland as the land sank, and the waves come in to take possession.

The Goodwin sands, large and dangerous shoals off the southeast coast of England, were once above the water and formed a flourishing estate the property of Earl Godwin. There was no city on the Godwin estate when it subsided beneath the sea, but several small villages went down to the deep when the tract of country gradually disappeared beneath the waters.

There are legends which may or may not be true of lost cities sunk at the bottom of Swiss lakes.—New York Mail.

Oblivion is the flower that grows best on graves.—George Sand.
