

Winterville, N. C. Jan. 23.

Miss Kate Chapman, who is teaching near Shelmerdine, spent Sunday at home.

Rev. B. E. Stanfield, of Ayden, filled his regular appointment at the Methodist church here Sunday afternoon and night, preaching two excellent sermons. Brother Stanfield is popular here not only with his own people but with all the other denominations as well.

Zackariah Walters, of Pantego, was here Saturday and carried off a beautiful wagon made by the A. G. Cox Mfg. Co., for him by special order. He will use it in delivering pictures.

J. J. Lawrence, of Grifton, visited his two daughters, Misses Gussie and Anna, who are attending W. H. S., Saturday. He is a firm believer in education and is proving his faith by his works.

J. B. Carroll is remodeling the old building occupied by the Winterville Mfg. Co., which will add much to its appearance.

John Jarrell, of Grifton, spent Sunday here.

Bruton Bryan has returned to his work with the Raleigh & Pamlico Railroad Co.

We are glad to welcome Capt. Levi Whitehead and family into our midst. They are occupying a cottage near the railroad. He is one of our best citizens.

Mrs. Alie Woolard, of Whichard, N. C. is visiting her sister, Mrs. M. G. Bryan and son Willie, who is a student of W. H. S.

Capt. H. A. White, of Greenville, was here Saturday on business.

Wm. Smith has purchased the grist and flour mills formerly owned by the Winterville Mfg. Co. and will operate them on the A. D. Cox lot on the corner. We are glad that they will continue to be operated here as they were a source of much convenience to the town and community.

J. Mc. Dixon is removing some of his large unwieldy lightwood stumps with dynamite, which he says, does the work more quickly and much more cheaply than by hand. Mr. Dixon is one of our leading farmers and keeps posted on the best and most profitable methods of farming. He is also making use of the pretty weather.

Making Good.

The Williams Comedy Company now filling a week's engagement in Masonic Temple opera house is certainly making good. Another large audience greeted the company Tuesday night when "The Girl I Love," was presented in a manner that pleased all. The specialties between the acts were very amusing and entirely different from the previous night. The bill for tonight is "Under Southern Skies" a pleasing drama in five acts. The curtain will rise promptly at 8:30 and all should be in their seats by that time. A matinee will be given Saturday evening at 3 o'clock. Prices 15 and 25 cents.

Strange But True.

The late goers to the opera house do not seem to take into consideration that they lose an interesting part of the play by not being there when it starts, nor that they disturb those who are already seated and trying to hear what is going on.

The Gentle Art of Pleasing a Husband.

If you have a brand new husband and are a bit uncertain just what to do with him, but are quite certain that you want the dove of peace to roost in the family martin box down in the back yard, give that husband sugar. Don't bother about being either brilliant or reasonable. For some inscrutable reason a man prefers to think that while he is reason incarnate, a woman has no reason whatever—only intuition. It's a harmless delusion and let him enjoy it. And so, while the clear, cold light of reason shines like a searchlight in your brain keep it to yourself. Searchlights are better for battleships and dangerous places along the coast. A tallow dip is safer for the family altar.

Devote your spare moments to keeping the sugar bowl well filled. As for being brilliant, the most brilliant speech you can make will not attract and rivet your man's attention so quickly and so lastingly as the simple remark that you wonder what you've done to be so lucky as to get him. He listens to that speech with delight on Monday, with increasing joy on Tuesday, tender gratitude on Wednesday; greets it with a happy smile on Thursday; hails it joyously on Friday; asks for it on Saturday and on Sunday hurries home from church in order to hear it once more. And when all is said, isn't it a comfort in a world that demands so much that criticises so mercilessly, to pass your existence with an individual who asks for so little—just sugar?—Mrs. Lindsay Patterson, in Charlotte Observer.

Pecan Orchards in the South.

Just as the people of the North eat peanuts in great quantities so do the people of the South eat pecans," remarked Allen Durpe a merchant of New Orleans. "On the streets of New Orleans are many vendors who sell them in all sorts of ways—shelled, unshelled and in handy form. Peanuts are sold, too, but pecans have a far greater sale.

"To meet the demand for them, which is growing, pecan orchards are now being laid out in the bottom lands of the far South. When old timber is cut down pecan trees are planted. Many pecan orchards are gradually growing up. They are of slow growth, requiring about fifteen or twenty years to reach maturity, but they are profitable. The main supply comes from Mexico, some sixty carloads of shelled pecans being shipped from there every year, the most part to be consumed in the South, but in a decade the main supply will come from the Southern States, which will thus gain a new industry."—Washington Post.

Little Chap Meant Well.

It happened during the spelling lesson in one of the Biddeford primary schools. The teacher told the members of the class to spell the word "motto." Then she told them to write a motto, and this is what she read on one of the slips of paper handed up to her by one of the boys: "God blast our home."—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

The Girl People Like.

She has so much to do that she has no time for morbid thoughts. She never thinks for a moment that she is not attractive, nor forgets to look as charming as possible.

She is considerate of the happiness of others, and it is reflected back to her as from a looking-glass.

She never permits herself to grow old, for by cultivation all the grace of heart, brains and body age does not come to her. She awakens cheerfully in the morning and closes her eyes thankfully at night.

She believes that life has some serious work to do, that the serious work lies very close to the homely, every-day duties, and that kind words cost nothing.

She is always willing to give suggestions that help some less fortunate one over the bad places in life's journey.

She has her own sweet, unaffected, womanly self—therein lies the secret of her popularity, of her success.

Forgive and Forget.

It is divine to forgive and forget. All great men forgive those who injure them. Oftentimes in our wilful obstinacy we refuse to forgive and forget, and suffer much loss. If you would increase your happiness and prolong your life, forget your neighbor's faults. Forget the slander you have heard. Forget the temptations. Forget the fault-finding and give a little thought to the cause which provoked it. Forget the peculiarities of your friends, and only remember the good points which made you fond of them. Blot out as far as possible all the disagreeable of life; they will come, but they will grow larger when you remember them, and the constant thought of the acts of meanness, or, worse still, malice, will only tend to make you more familiar with them. Obliterate anything disagreeable from yesterday; start out with a clean sheet today, and write upon it for sweet memory's sake only those things which are lovely and lovable.

Lookout for Them.

The "short change" artists are in the city and merchants will do well to lookout for them. Their little "skin" game was attempted on Mr. Burrell Stroud this morning but he was too wise for them and they didn't "do" him. The trick is as old as the hills and very simple, yet one may be easily taken in. It is to make a small purchase and put down a large bill and when the change is counted out to them the artist pretends that he made a mistake and has a smaller bill, which he asks the merchant to take, so that he may avoid so much charge. In the conclusion he usually "swipes" a bill. One of the men operating here now is tall and his partner is low. Both are young men and pretty well dressed.—Kinston Free Press.

Shirtwaist Sale.

The ladies of the Baptist church will have a shirtwaist sale the first week in March, date to be named later. We would be glad if the ladies of the town would bear this in mind and help to make it a success. Special orders may be given to Mrs. Ola Forbes or Mrs. B. E. Parham. Please give orders as early as possible. 2td.

VANDYKE-TAFT.

Popular Young Couple Wed.

At the home of Mr. E. H. Taft, brother of the bride, on Dickinson avenue at 8:30 o'clock this afternoon, Mr. V. P. Vandyke and Miss Rosamond Adelaide Taft were married by Revs. J. E. Ayscue and M. T. Flyler.

The home was beautifully decorated in green and white with windows darkened and the rooms illuminated with tapers. The couple stood beneath a canopy of holy and white flowers as the words were said that joined them for life.

As the wedding march was played by Miss Nina James the bridal party entered the parlor. Miss Bessie Harding was maid of honor and Miss Margurite Higgs bride's maid. Each of these were dressed in white silk and carried carnations. The groom entered with Mr. E. B. Higgs as best man, and the bride with her brother, Mr. E. H. Taft.

Mr. J. M. Taft, brother of the bride entered with the brides' maid Miss Higgs.

The bride wore a handsome costume of navy blue eton and carried bride roses.

As the brides arrived to attend the marriage they were received at the front door by Misses Loraine Horne Annie Lawrence.

The couple left on the 4:30 train for a bridal tour to Washington City and Baltimore.

They received a large number of bridal presents, some of them exceedingly handsome.

Mr. Vandyke is a member of the firm of Taft & Vandyke, and is one of our town's very best young men. His bride is a sister of his partner in business, and a young lady whose excellent qualities make her deservedly popular.

THE LEGISLATURE

What the Law Makers are Doing.

At Tuesday's session Hon. F. M. Simmons was formally elected to succeed himself in the United States senate, in accordance with the caucus held last week to nominate a senator. The Republicans of the body cast their ballots for Spencer B. Adams.

There were a number of important bills introduced. Those in the senate were to require fixing reasonable time limit for transportation of freight; to provide for relief of indigent aged and infirm; to prevent sale of certain toy fireworks; to prevent intoxicated persons traveling on common carriers; to lessen number of challenges in civil and criminal actions; to make it unlawful for any tenant to leave landlord until all debts are paid; to prevent discrimination in freight rates; to provide for separation of prisoners suffering from tuberculosis.

There were also several important new bills in the house; to amend the act relating to divorce making ten years separation a cause for divorce; authorizing penal and charitable institutions to condemn property when agreement cannot be had with owner; to authorize the corporation commission to compel railroads to establish depots; to amend the revision regarding the place of sale of liquors; regulating rates of passenger fare on railroads and prescribing rules of service; limiting the liability of railroads as to transporting freights within reasonable time.

Sinking in Ocean.

The Hague, Jan. 22.—The tidal wave which devastated some of the Dutch East Indian islands south of Atchin, as announced January 11 practically engulfed the island of Simalu. According to the latest information received here Simalu has almost disappeared. It is said that probably 1,500 persons lost their lives. Violent earth shocks continue to be felt daily. The civil governor of Atchin has gone to the scene of the catastrophe.

According to the brief official dispatch which first announced the devastation wrought by the tidal wave in some of the Dutch East Indian islands, 300 persons perished on the islands of Tana and 40 on the island of Simalu.

Pudababi is situated off the northwest coast of the island of Sumatra and south of the province of Atchin.

Setting Himself Straight.

George Washington Thomas, an able-bodied negro of Sleepy Hollow, appeared before Magistrate Nussbaum charged with stealing chickens. The negro was accompanied by his lawyer, Col. Simmons, a rising young white attorney. The old Judge sauntered into the dingy courtroom where he had reigned for more than twenty years, and after calling for order he looked around on the little company there assembled. Seeing George Washington Thomas, he pointed to him and said:

"Be you the defendant in this case?"

Quick as a flash George was on his feet, and, not understanding legal terms, he exclaimed politely:

"No, sah; no, sah; I ain't de 'fen'ant; dar's de 'fen'ant ovah dar." And saying which, he pointed to his lawyer. There was a general laugh about the room in which the queer old judge joined heartily. The darkey felt abased. He was visibly embarrassed, and, thinking to correct the mistake, if mistake it were, he said again, pointing at his lawyer: "Yas, sah; he's de 'fen'ant," and, pointing to himself, he said: "T's de gent'-man what stole de chickens."

IMMIGRATION BUREAU.

In his recent message to the legislature, Governor Glenn recommended the establishment of an immigration bureau with an annual appropriation of $10,000 to enable it to do effective work. Such an amount, or even a larger one, judiciously expended would be money well invested for the State. Every producer that comes in and every new enterprise started adds to the wealth of the State, and every acre of idle land brought under cultivation enhances values. It is apparent that more people are needed in North Carolina to cultivate her fields, operate her mills and develop her resources, and how to get the men and women required to do this work is the problem. The cry for labor does not mean that we have fewer workmen than formerly, but the agricultural and industrial expansion is constantly increasing the demand. Some thrifty farmers come from the North and Northwest and add a very desirable element to our population, but increase from this source is naturally slow. It is apparent therefore, that we must look to foreign fields for any considerable increase, and it is in this respect that an immigration bureau properly conducted could be of great value to the State.

More than a million people from other countries landed in the United States last year, but they settled principally in the West. The South got only a few of them and North Carolina's proportion was hardly enough to count. As a rule, the immigrant chooses his home in this country before he starts here, and the way to get the best of them is to acquaint them with the advantages we have to offer before they embark.

Under the Federal law, corporations or individuals cannot send agents to foreign countries to solicit immigrants, nor can they advertise these with a view of inducing people to come here. But a State can do both. South Carolina recently made an effort in this direction that resulted in a ship with 475 immigrants landing at Charleston last November. So satisfactory was the experiment that offices with agents were established in several foreign countries and it is announced that another ship load of immigrants collected by these will sail for Charleston soon.

This is the best way to get a desirable class of immigrants. What South Carolina is doing North Carolina can as easily do. An immigration bureau for this state with sufficient funds to operate on could place agents in the foreign countries and bring a class of people into the State who would help in development of our resources and relieve the scarcity of labor.

Appearances Deceptive.

"Well," said the new reporter at the creditors' meeting, "It's easy enough to pick out the bankrupt."

"Think so?" replied the older one.

"Yes, see how shabby and careworn he looks."

"That's the principal creditor. The bankrupt is that man with the fur overcoat and diamonds."

STRONG

Again
is what Mrs. Lucy Stovall, of Tilton, Ga., said after taking Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Hundreds of other weak women are being restored to perfect health by this remedy. YOU may be well if you will try it.

Indigestion, nearly all the sickness that women have. It deprives the system of nourishment and the delicate organs peculiar to women suffer - weaken, and become diseased.

Kodol

enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten. It nourishes the body, and rebuilds the weak organs, restoring health and strength. Kodol cures indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia, sour risings, belching, heartburn and all stomach disorders.

Digests What You Eat

Small bottles sold 9¢ times as much as the trial, or 50 cent size.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

CRAB CLAWS.

A Scilla's Right. Even More For Fun Than For Sustenance.
Visitors to the Par. Temp. will see women carrying baskets full of crab claws, says a woman in the Par. Temp. The claws are cooked and people nibble at them more for fun than for sustenance. Just as the Russians nibble suet and seeds. But what is this crustacean? What becomes of the rest of him, especially if he is a crawfish, of his tail?
As a matter of fact the crawfish has no part in the business. The carapace, as the claws are called, are taken from a salt water crab, the G. v. tangeri, which lives along the shores of Morocco, Spain and Portugal. Each little crab, with his one little wife, has a little cage for a home, and, adopting the Arab estimate of the other sex, he usually keeps his wife shut inside the cage, meanwhile staying about the threshold himself and making a brave show with his big claws.

When the tide runs out the crab fishes prow along the beach looking for crab holes. Either the crab is stalking up and down seeking what he may devour, and thus showing whether he has fine claws, or he is still at home, and the size of his doorway indicates the size of the householder. In the one case the fisherman cuts off his retreat by blocking his front door with mud. In the other case he lets him out. Anyway, he deprives him of his pinners and sets him at liberty - a prosaic move.

Light here appears, the happiest feature of the whole affair, for the pinners are not torn away from the crab at all. Instead he presents them to the fisherman - perhaps even, with his compliments. It is a fact easily demonstrable that the crab can detach his claw by a muscular effort, thus making no hemorrhage, but leaving the stump in such condition that a new claw is soon grown. The fisherman simply takes Mr. Crab by the hand, whereupon he lets go, leaves the claw with them and runs off home without it. And as the claw is no longer of any use to him or to anybody else in the water and as it is salable and edible, the fisherman naturally takes it home and sells it.

Value of Lean Bacon.

Lean bacon has a unique value in the dietary. It furnishes, according to a report of the United States department of agriculture, as much digestible muscle-forming food as other meats and nearly twice as much fat, making the total nutrients and available energy derived from bacon much larger than from other meats. Bacon fat is easily digested and when combined with the solids it appears to exert a favorable mechanical action upon digestion. Over 96 per cent of the fat of bacon is digested and absorbed by the body, and lean bacon, at the same and even a higher price a pound, is a cheaper food than other meats. A fact made clear is that the fat increases the digestibility of other foods. For instance, fat meat baked with beans makes the beans more digestible than without the fat.

What He Really Meant.

Little Harold had been directed by the teacher to write the word "folly."
"I can't," said Harold, "because my pencil's busted."
"Why, Harold, what did you say was wrong with your pencil?"
"It's busted."
"Dear me! Children, can any of you tell what Harold means? I'm sure he hasn't used the right word."
Up went the hand of little Marjorie.
"Ah, Marjorie, dear, I thought you would know. What does Harold mean?"
"He meant that his pencil had been blunted." - Chicago Record-Herald.

The Upper Rhine.

It is present the Rhine may be said to be navigable only to Mannheim, where it has in consequence become the greatest inland port in Germany, with an active transshipping traffic to southern Germany and Switzerland. The continuation of the Rhine regulation to Strassburg offers considerable difficulty, because the Rhine carries much detritus, which results in continual changes of the waterway. Until recently it was doubtful whether it would be possible to build a lasting channel, and it had therefore been suggested to build a canal parallel to the river. This scheme has, however, now been abandoned, and repeated and successful attempts have been made to navigate the Rhine between Strassburg and Basel, so that this part of the river will probably be made navigable. - London Engineer.
