Movers.

N. W. Jackson has moved into his new house in the Sam White house, and E. E. Griffin has moved to the house in South Greenville vacated by Mr. Jackson.

W. E. Moore has moved his repair shop to a portion of the corner building occupied by L. H. Pender.

Be Careful How You Plant Cotton.

The action of the cotton market recently would indicate lower prices for this crop and still lower for the next should another large crop be raised. Of course the consumption of cotton is steadily on the increase and so is the production, for Southern farmers are learning how to grow two blades of grass where one grew before, and many of them by intensive cultivation and the liberal use of fertilizers are also learning the art of growing two bales of cotton where only one grew before.

This present crop, if the movement is a large one will run probably over thirteen million bales, and this is quite too much for the world's requirements, notwithstanding the enormous consumption and great demand for cotton goods.

Farmers should learn not to press the demand for cotton, but let the demand press the supply.

Demand and supply regulate the price and there is no way to get around it. Twelve million bales is sufficient for the South to raise on an average and this amount would not be exceeded the farmers would diversify their crops, raise meat, corn and food-stuffs.—Wilson Times.

Prospecting for Business School.

Prof. R. T. Cecil, of Thomasville, is here with a view of opening a commercial school in Greenville. He has excellent testimonials of his work from prominent educators throughout the State. He teaches classes both in the day and at night, the latter being very advantageous to young men who are employed during the day as it gives them opportunity to take a thorough business course after regular work hours.

The Rural Mails.

People may not stop to think of it, but the carriers who take the rural mail to them every day in such weather as this have a hard task. The rural mail service is a great convenience, as it enables people along the routes to remain at home and keep comfortable in bad weather, and have their mail carried to them every day. The carriers who perform this daily duty are certainly entitled to every possible consideration.

Church About Completed.

The Jarvis Memorial Methodist church is practically completed, the putting in of the pipe organ being about all that now remains to be done. The organ has been shipped and it is expected to be in readiness for the first service to be held in the new church on the second Sunday in March. It is a handsome edifice and every citizen of the town is proud of it.

He Buttoned up this Time.

The ground hog got the better of Postmaster Flanagan and ran him into his overcoat. We had begun to think that he was going to pull through in his shirt sleeves, just to show that a move of his fine physique don't mind such a small thing as weather, but the sleet was too many for him.

Faithful Colored Man Dead.

John Quince Jackson, a well known colored man here; died Monday night. He had for many years been a blacksmith in the factory of the John Flanagan Buggy Co., and was a faithful workman.

OUR TERRIBLE TONGUE.

You take a swim
You say you've swum,
Your nails you trim,
But they're not trum:
And milk you skim
Is never skum.

When words you speck,
Those words are spoken;
But a nose you tweak
Is never twoken;

A top you spin,
The top is spun;
A hare you skin,
Yet 'tis not skun;
Nor can a grin.
Beever grin.

If we forget
Then we've forgotten
But if we bet
We haven't botten;
No house we let
Is ever lotten;
What we upset
Is not upstotten;
Now don't this prove
Our language?

All in Mine Dead.

Elkins, W. They have actually got the Thaw jury and commenced taking the evidence.

The congressman's annual bag of seed has come, but the weather forbids putting them in the ground.

When Greenville's boundaries are extended you will see the old town putting on airs and humping ahead along various lines.

No, it is not expected that the streets of Greenville will always be as bad as at present. When the next bond issue comes there will be some better ones.

People should be thoughtful of their animals when weather like the present comes and not leave them exposed. Care and kindness in this respect is humane as well as best from a financial standpoint. An animal worth having is worth taking good care of.

If Greenville is to get her share of the good things going there must be unity of sentiment and organization of effort. There is no question that comes up but what the people can be and should be brought together on it. There may be individual differences of opinion, but these differences can be reconciled on the level of best interest for the progress of the town. To do what is best for the town should be the first idea with every citizen. Get to work, and keep at work along this line, and watch Greenville grow.

The bill introduced by Senator Fleming to submit a vote of the people of Pitt county the proposition to issue bonds to the amount of $200,000 to be used for the purpose of building a good system of public roads throughout the county, ought to find favor with every voter and tax payer in the county. It is useless to argue the need of good roads, for that is apparent to every one who travels any at all on the roads. How to get better roads has long been a problem, and the issuing of bonds for that purpose is the most practical way to get them. The bonds will make a fund with which good roads can be built quickly all over the county so that the people can have the benefit of them, and the interest on these bonds will not take as much money annually out of the pockets of the people as their taxes for roads now amount to. Every voter in the county ought to favor the bonds for good roads.

Notice is hereby given, that application will be made to the present general assembly of North Carolina to amend the charter of the town of Grifton. E. J. Brooks, Mayor. February 2, 1907. 4 2wp

England's Historic Miser.

John Camden Neild, whose magnificent bequest to Queen Victoria supplied the funds out of which the prince consort built the present Balmoral castle, deserves a place among the great misers and was as remarkable a man as any of them. He was educated at Eton and Trinity college, Cambridge, and was a barrister at Lincoln's Inn. At the age of thirty-four his father's death placed him in possession of a fortune of £250,000, and from that moment he became a confirmed miser. Neild lived at 5 Cheryne walk, Chelsea. His big house was so meanly furnished that it did not even boast of a bed. Two old women, who did his chores, and a black cat were his sole companions. When he visited his large estates in the Midlands, which he did frequently, he generally walked unless he could get a horse for nothing, and he was not even above taking a gratuitous seat on a dung cart. Sometimes he was compelled by the weather to take a seat on the stagecoach, and there he would sit outside, shivering and dripping, for he never wore a greatcoat, an object of commiseration to his fellow passengers.

Lincoln's Rebuke.

The saying that there are few honest lawyers did not hold true in the case of Lincoln. A man once called to retain him on a suit. "State your case," said honest Abe. The man did, and then Lincoln said: "I cannot represent you, for you are wrong, and the other party is right." "That is none of your business if I employ you," said the client. "Pardon me," said the man who afterward became president; "my business is never to defend wrong. I never take a case that is manifestly wrong." "Well, but you can make trouble for the other fellow." "Yes," said Lincoln, "I can set a whole community at loggerheads, I can make trouble for this widow and her fatherless children and by so doing get you $800 that rightfully belongs to her, but I won't do it." "Not if I pay you well?" "Not for all the money you are worth," was the reply.

A Warrior Too.

The wooden boards that had marked the graves in a certain rural cemetery rotted off and were raked up in the spring cleaning. Consequently on Memorial day when the delegation from the G. A. R. arrived with flags and appropriate floral decorations for their departed comrades the decorating committee found itself somewhat in doubt as to which grave belonged to Captain Blodgett and which to Hannah Ericson. The mistaken delegates heaped their offerings upon Hannah's last resting place and departed. That afternoon Ericson, the widower, drifted, with the rest of his world, to the cemetery. When he saw the flag and the flowers above Hannah, the astonished Swede fell to chuckling joyously. "Well," he exclaimed delightedly, "dese faller bane poety smart too! Ay tank dat vor all right and som gude yoke on Hannah—he vor poety gude fighter herself."—Youth's Companion.

Devonshire Terrace.

Dickens was twenty-seven years old when, in 1839, he moved from Doughty street to Devonshire terrace. George du Maurier lived for some years in 1 Devonshire terrace. In this celebrated house Dickens wrote no fewer than ten of his books—"The Old Curiosity Shop," "Barnaby Rudge," "The Christmas Carol," "American Notes," "Martin Chuzzlewit," "The Hated Man," "The Battle of Life," "Dombey and Son," "The Cricket on the Hearth" and "David Copperfield." Devonshire terrace was situated at the corner of the Marylebone road and used to be called the smallest terrace in London.

It Varied.

The late Judge Saunders of North Carolina was noted as an angler, but he had a poor memory as to the weight of the fish he had taken. On one occasion a friend, trying to entrap him, said, "Say, Judge, what was the weight of that big catfish you caught the other day?" The judge turned to his waiter and said, "Bob, what did I say that catfish weighed?" "What time yesterday, boss—in de mawnin', at dinner or after suppah?"

The Moon.

Astronomers long since came to the conclusion that the moon's surface is very hot during the height of the lunar day, which, as will be remembered, lasts two weeks, and very cold during the lunar night, which is equally long. These extremes of temperature reach their height at the lunar noon and midnight and are greater than any natural temperatures on the earth.

The Golfer.

Willing to See.

Mrs. Enpeck—The philosophers tell us that blessings often come to us in disguise. Mr. Enpeck (with a sudden show of spirit)—Maria, when are you going to unmask?

Weak Women

Weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments, must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical action membrane repository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the tissue system, seeking the repair of all nerve, tissue, and all blood elements. The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, aids up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

French Economy.
France in her system of finance and in her whole scheme of economy aids and encourages saving among the people. The government conducts a vast banking institution whereby every postoffice has its savings bank department—its "caisse d'epargne." Here any one may make a deposit as low as 1 franc (20 cents), which deposit is recorded in one's "livret de la caisse d'epargne" (savings bank book). A convenient feature of this system tending to make saving easy is that one may make his deposits in any postoffice anywhere in France and may withdraw any part or all his savings at any postoffice, without regard to where the deposits have been made. I have never had a servant in France who had not her "livret de la caisse d'epargne" and yet the girl or woman, if she had no family of her own to support, almost invariably contributed to the support of her father's family. I have had one middle aged "femme de chambre" on whose face each day I could read pretty well how the bourse was going.—Flora McDonald Thompson in Harper's Bazar.

Shopping.
Shopping is a form of cruelty indulged by married ladies toward their husbands. It is incipient in young girls, reaches an active condition in brides and arrives at its most virulent stage between the tenth and the twenty-fifth year of married life. A small, delicate, slight, nervous, sensitive woman who would faint away at an empty mouse trap will go through the shopping district in from two to seven hours and come out refreshed and sustained by an unflinching trust in her husband's credit is good, while that gentleman at the end of forty-five minutes had to be carried home on a stretcher. Some women are born shoppers, others achieve it, but not one of them has it thrust upon her. Shopping is extensively practiced on week days, beginning on Monday with a rush and ending on Saturday in time for the opera. It promotes industry. Without it married men would have time to rest.—Delineator.

Shooting a Rabbit.
In Sullivan county there is a man who spent a whole day hunting, and at nightfall he was returning homeward empty handed when he found a rabbit in a snare and still kicking. He released it and was about to dispatch it with the back of his hand when it occurred to him that he could not say he shot it, as no shot marks would be found to corroborate his story. So he tied a string to one of the hind legs of the rabbit, tied the other end to the fence, backed away twenty yards and fired. The shot cut the string and bunny ran away. Such a good joke on himself was too good to keep, and he told it at the village grocery, little thinking that it would be handed about, until now if you want to anger him the mere mention of the yarn opens the old sore.—Forest and Stream.

Practicing by Ear.
When Grover Cleveland was practicing law at Buffalo among his associates was a young lawyer who, though a bright fellow, was rather inclined to laziness. He was forever bothering Cleveland about points of law rather than look them up himself. At last Cleveland became tired of it, and the next time the young man sauntered in Cleveland knew what he wanted and getting up, pointed to his bookcase and said: "There are my books. You are welcome to them. You can read up your own case." The fellow was caught, but he rose to the occasion. "See here, Grover Cleveland," he said, "I want you to understand I don't read law. I practice entirely by ear, and you and your books can go to thunder!"

Women Rule as Babies Do.
The ordinary man would still much rather glorify women and set them on a mock throne, whence he can depose them at will, than have to acknowledge in them a real title to regard. It is difficult for a man to overcome his essential self importance. Most of us perhaps prefer to have inferiors round us—an abject trait of character, but natural. And only very slowly have we been getting to prefer our womankind as friends and equals rather than as queens and pets, ruling us as a baby or a spoiled dog does.—London Saturday Review.

A Clever Hint.
"You are so popular," sighs the swain. "You have so many suitors."
"The idea!" smiles the fair young thing. "Why, I can count them all on the fingers of my left hand. See. The index finger is Mr. Smugforth, the second finger is Mr. Balder, and the third finger—the third finger of my left hand—the third finger is you."
Next day he got the ring for it.—Chicago Post.

News to Him.
"The beauty of this great and glorious republic," said the American proudly, "is that any boy born here may become president."
"Fawney!" exclaimed the British tourist. "I was under the impression that the president had to be at least forty years of age."—Catholic Standard and Times.

A Philosopher.
A philosopher is a man who when he has hard luck, due to his own carelessness and idiocy and other shortcomings, can blame it all on fate.—Somerville Journal.

Nobody Else to Look Like.
She—Mr. Duddleigh is looking more like himself, don't you think? Chapple—Ya-as. His twin brother is dead.—Puck.

Nature and Broken Bones.
In the splicing of broken bones nature can give the best surgeon pointers. When a bone is broken the splintered ends are surrounded with cartilage until they are firmly held in position. Then gradually a layer of bone is placed between them and soldered together. All the physician has to do is to bring the two ends of the bones together so that the point will be smooth and even. Nature's little agents do the rest.—New York Tribune.

Taste Governs Spelling.
Shakespeare spelled his own name in sixteen different ways which have survived, and it is evident that Elizabethan spelling "depends upon the taste and fancy of the speller." It is the printing press which made spelling by stereotyping it, and it is, after all, on the printer's reader more than on the professor that the spelling of the future depends.—London Star.

Napoleon's Name.
The name Napoleon written in Greek characters will form seven different words by dropping the final letter of each in succession. When read, these words form a complete sentence, meaning, "Napoleon, the destroyer of whole cities, was the lion of his people."

Wrong.
"There is a word of one syllable in the English language that is always spelled wrong, even by the most educated people."
"What is that?"
"The word 'wrong.'"

Obviously.
"Let me see," mused the sporting editor. "What is an incubator?"
"An incubator," replied the agricultural editor, "is an egg plant."

Long Sight.
The longest distance ever compared by human vision is 130 miles, being the distance between the Chequamegon park in Colorado and Mount Elbert in Utah. This feat was accomplished by the surveyors of the United States coast and geodesic survey, who were engaged, in connection with representatives of other nations, in making a new measurement of the earth.

Cheerfulness.
The cheerful man's face in nature touches his manner with grace and business life with friendliness and humanity.—Jackson's (Tex.) Herald.

It's a pleasure to tell our readers about a Cough Cure like Dr. Shoop's. For years Dr. Shoop has fought against the use of opium, chloroform or other unsafe ingredients commonly found in cough remediid. Dr. Shoop, it seems has welcomed the Pure Food Drug Law recently enacted, for he has worked along similar lines for many years. For nearly 20 years Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure containers have had a warning printed on them against opium and other narcotic poisons. He has thus made it possible for mothers to protect their children by simply insisting on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by Bryan's Drug Store.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they have offered One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
