COUNTY WITHOUT FUNDS.

Shortage of Sheriff Aman Larger Than Expected—His Whereabouts Unknown.

Clinton, N. C., Feb. 5.—Further investigation into the affairs of A. W. Aman, defaulting sheriff and treasurer of Sampson county, and general merchant of Clinton, shows his shortage with the county to be larger than was at first supposed. It now looks as if it will reach $25,000 which added to his mercantile liabilities of $10,000 will amount in all to total liabilities of about $35,000. His assets consisting of mercantile stocks will approximate $12,000. Sheriff Aman has absented himself since filing his deed of assignment and his whereabouts are unknown. His bondsmen have appointed incoming sheriff D. C. McPhail tax collector and he has taken charge of the tax books and is collecting the balance standing uncollected on them. The failure of Sheriff Aman is deplorable in many ways. There is no money in the treasury to meet the current expenses of the county or to pay vouchers of the public school teachers but provision is being made to meet these obligations and it is hoped that the most pressing will presently be discharged. This is the worst failure of an individual nature that has ever occurred in Sampson county.

The day when it could be said that North Carolina has no literary men and musicians of the foremost rank has passed. There has been a literary awakening in the State and at the same time has come an awakening in the musical life of Tar Heeldom. A worthy representative of this musical movement is Don Richardson, who has won fame as a violinist and a music composer. Mr. Richardson is a genius—the greatest musical genius the State has produced. He has to a high degree that thing called temperament—the spark of genius. When he plays his very soul is in his music and his instrument is a part of him. His skill and technique are perfect, but they are to be taken for granted; his genius shows in his tone and inspiration, which are easily recognized.

Mr. Richardson, with accompanists, will give a recital at Greenville soon.

It was pleasant to see ex-Governor Jarvis in the capitol yesterday, and doubly so, since it is guaranteed that he has recovered from his recent serious illness. He is here as chairman of the Greenville delegation that will present the claims of that prosperous town to the committee on education this afternoon if it is decided to establish a normal school to be located in Eastern North Carolina. It looked like old times to see him in the capitol. He has served as speaker of the house and president of the senate, and for nearly seven years has occupied the executive office. He began his services as member from Tyrrell in the days following Reconstruction and "did the State some service" in these stormy days, and has since been a leader in the educational and religious as well as the political life of the State—Raleigh News and Observer.

In the local ad of J. R. and J. G. Moye, the type made us say "Oats at 75c" when it should have been 55c, and the price quoted for Corn was "50c" and it should have been 70c.

Mrs. Stonewall Jackson's Example.

The Houston Post pays a graceful tribute to Mrs. Julia Jackson in commenting on her refusal to allow the legislature of North Carolina to pension her life. It says in an editorial headed "Mrs. Stonewall Jackson's Example."

Mrs. Julia Jackson, the aged widow of General Thomas J. Jackson, one of the confederacy's immortal leaders, declines to accept from the state of North Carolina a pension of $100 a month. In her letter declining the provision which her State would make for her comfort she suggests that the amount be appropriated for the relief of destitute widows of confederate soldiers.

In this day of pension grabbing, Mrs. Jackson sets a wholesome example to those who are engaged in the business of cashing in their patriotism at so much a month. The federal pension rolls are padded with the names of tens of thousands of well-to-do men and women who are accepting from the government as a right what should go to only the destitute and infirm. Mrs. Jackson is poor. She has no large estate to maintain and support her in her old age, but she lives a simple life and maintains the dignity and respect of a noble woman.

It was a graceful act on the part of the legislature of North Carolina to offer such assistance to the widow of a southern hero, but her attitude there illustrates those qualities of southern womanhood to which were largely due the glorious achievements of the southern armies.

Mrs. Stewart Carr Entertains.

The Sans Souci club was delightfully entertained by Mrs. Stewart Carr on Wednesday afternoon at her lovely new home on Fifth street. We were glad to have with us at this meeting two of our charter friends Mrs. Galloway of Mt. Airy and Miss Whedbee of Hertford.

The literary program for the evening consisted of two very interesting selections read by Miss Whedbee and also a sketch of the life of Burus by Miss Nina James.

After serving delightful refreshments the club adjourned to meet next with Mrs. J. W. Ferrell.

The choir of the Baptist church will meet at the residence of Mrs. Ola Forbes for practice tonight. Every member requested to be present.

Our State at Jamestown.

North Carolina wants to put her best foot forward at the Jamestown Exposition, and if the Legislature votes the additional $20,000 which we think it will do, the old State will for once make a creditable representation of her resources and accomplishments to the world. The South Carolina Legislature appropriated $20,000 for an exhibit and that State is to have a 'booth' at Jamestown. The Charleston Post says it is too be decorated with palmettos, mosses, sheaves of rice and other characteristic vegetation. "South Carolina," The Post says, "will be able to show the very finest long staple cotton grown in the world. It comes from Major Julian Mitchell's plantation on Edisto. Pecans from Major Harbeck's grove will be sent to Jamestown to represent the largest pecan grove in the United States. From Charleston's vicinity will come the only tea plants grown in America. Both Mr. Sheppard and the American Tea Growing Company will send on specimens of their plants. Samples of phosphate rock will go from Charleston."

North Carolina can show palmetto from Smith's island, moss and rice from Wilmington, but it has no pecans to speak of, and of tea, it has none. But it has all sorts of textile manufactures, and can show more varieties of home-made furniture than any State in the Union. It can show gold, silver, iron, copper and almost all the known gems, including one that is found nowhere else in the world. In hard woods it will take the prize over any State. Yes; if North Carolina puts her best foot forward at Jamestown, the world is for the first time going to get an idea of the real greatness of the Old North State.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Weather.

Partly cloudy and not quite so cold tonight and Friday.

The Women's Missionary society of the Baptist church will meet with Mrs. W. H. Bagwell Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Every member is requested to be present.

NEWBERN VOTES DOWN THE DISPENSARY.

Exciting Campaign Closed With a Decided Majority for Prohibition in City Churches.

Newbern, N. C., Feb. 5.—For the second time the prohibitionists won a signal victory in a battle for the return to the liquor traffic today. The campaign has been one of the most interesting and exciting in the history of the city. There have been no personalities nor mud-slinging, but mass meetings held by both factions have been largely attended and the ministers have taken an earnest part in the fight against the establishment of the dispensary. The dispensary faction has been led by W. W. Clark and James A. Dwyer, and the opposition forces by Messrs. R. C. Beaman and J. J. Douglass. The latter has developed wonderful powers of forensic eloquence. There has been very little outside help. Meetings were held continuously in the churches and prayers were offered for the success of the prohibition movement. The majority against the dispensary was 95.

HICKS' FORECAST FOR FEBRUARY.

The following is Hicks' weather forecast:

On the whole, the forecast for February is believed to be the most severe and disagreeable of the winter months.

The month opens with a reactionary storm period, which is central from the 3rd to the 5th. Prolonged cloudiness and marked storm conditions will be noticed through the opening days of February. These conditions will terminate in general storms of rain, sleet and snow about the 3rd, 4th and 5th. These disturbances will be marked by high temperature with lightning and thunder over central to Southern parts of the country at first, but sudden and severe change to storms of sleet and snow will strike followed from the 4th to the 7th by a severe cold wave.

A regular storm period is central on the 9th. Watch for prolonged and greatly intensified storm period between the 7th and 12th. The 10th, 11th and 12th will probably bring the culmination of what we may call a series of danger days. In the Southward sections, low barometer, with warm and humid conditions will be the admonition of violent storms. Northerly sections will suffer blizzards and a general cold wave will reach most parts of the country from about the 12th to the 15th. Many earthquake shivers will be reported in extremes of the world about the 12th, which is the central day of a period of five to seven days.

The reactionary period will be central on the 15th and 16th. About this time elements will reach to much warmer, the barometer indicating a wave of marked depression and storms of rain and snow will prevail from west to east. Especially about noon of the 16th look for high temperatures and possibly electrical storms to a sweeping and severe cold wave.

From the 19th to the 23rd, a regular storm period occurs, which is central on the 20th. This period being clearly within the embrace of vernal equinox, equinoctial storm in southern regions, and storms of heavy rain and snow northward may be expected. A change for much colder weather may be looked for from the 22nd to the 24th.

The last period, a reactionary storm period, is central on the 28th, which covers from the 29th into March.

Not too Distrustful.

Though dearly bought experience many of us learn that we are too ready to impute the motives of others before we have just cause. We often think we have studied human nature so closely that we can easily interpret the action or course of others into something wrong, when the truth is, we are entirely erroneous in our conclusions. When others do things for which they ought to be condemned and censured, we are excusable for condemning and censuring; but even then it is good to place as good construction as possible on such acts. In the end we may be mistaken in our conclusions of disfavor; and if so the lighter our condemnation of the other person the less will we have to regret when the whole matter shows up. To be sure, one is not called upon to trust and believe in those whose records are not such as to give us reason for such trust; but mild judgments against those whose courses we do not fully understand are better than too harsh criticism hastily given.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth

It is impossible to avoid occasional accidents in the running of machinery. This being the case we will continue to have from time to time trouble with the street lights. Not much danger of meat spoiling now

There have not been many people in town this week.

If we cannot predict the outcome of the Thaw case; two things are evident: it has furnished a great deal of material to fill up space in the news papers, and has also furnished much money for lawyer's fees.

Up until this week the present winter has been very moderate in Georgia, and the percentage of sickness has been large. This cold wave will doubtless do much to relieve the causes of sickness. Considering our past wet year, we welcome the cold feeling that we will escape much sickness next spring and summer.

There will be much talk against Senator Fleming's bill submitting to the people of Pitt county a proposition to vote to issue bonds to the amount of $200,000 to be used in making good the roads of the county. Our roads are terrible and the county will develop much more rapidly when we have good high ways. Nothing marks more clearly the intellectual and material progress of a people than the condition of its high ways. We have not yet dreamed of the possibilities of Pitt, and this will be one of the means of helping to develop the county.

VALUE OF GOOD HABITS.

Prohibitionists may put their candidates in the field, prosecute their crusades against vices and ministers may denounce gambling, racing and drinking, but the most effective work being done now in the direction of accomplishment of these reforms, is the pocket-book premium being placed by business firms and corporations upon proper living and correct habits. Without parading their methods these large firms have determined upon a course that has shown gratifying results in the diminution of the drink and gambling evil. They have made it plain that the drinking man is not wanted and the booze fighter is simply given the choice between changing his habits or losing his job.

This reform, with pure business motives as its basis, was begun two years ago in Chicago when several of the largest business firms issued orders prohibiting their employees from drinking, gambling and smoking cigarettes. There were no tedious homilies on morals, the men were plainly told that clear-headed and correct men were wanted and if those who sought the work were not disposed to be so, others would be found. Other corporations followed the example and last week the Lehigh Valley Railroad was added to the list having drinking under ban. And now bonding companies are refusing to stand for men who have not proper habits and other houses are on record as ready to discharge their employees seen patronizing the poolroom or visiting the race track.

 Students of human nature realize that the time is far remote when drinking and gambling can be wholly eradicated. They cannot be abolished by public or private rules, but the experience of these corporations show that these can at least be minimized to the point that they will not constitute a national menace.—Salisbury Post.

Andrew Jackson's Education.

During each winter for two or three years after he had reached the age of seven Andrew Jackson was sent to the old field school of a Mr. Branch. After this he attended the select school which a Presbyterian preacher, the Rev. Dr. David Humphreys, taught in the Waxhaw settlement. He appears to have been going to this higher school in the spring of 1780, when the inroad of Tarleton created a panic in that portion of the Carolinas. At some later period of his youth he is said to have attended the old Queen college or seminary at Charlotte a couple of terms, but the time is not definitely known.
 As to education, therefore, it may be safely stated that Andrew Jackson enjoyed much more than the ordinary advantage of a backwoods boy of his time. At the age of ten he had become so good a reader that he was often chosen to read the newspaper to the assembled neighbors, and he remembered with pride in after years that he had thus had the honor of "reading out loud" the Declaration of Independence upon its arrival in the Waxhaws. For a lad of ten this was, indeed, something to remember with honest pride.—Thomas E. Watson in Watson's Jeffersonian Magazine.

Caustic.

Recently a weary looking little mother, carrying a small baby, boarded a street car and took a seat next to two men who were earnestly engaged in conversation. Neither of the men was very handsome, and it must have required considerable nerve on their part to hand out their photographs among their friends under the pictures had been previously retouched with sandpaper. In a few minutes the baby began to cry with a reliable yelp that could be heard above the din of the street babble for half a block, and, with a grouchy glance at the youngster, one of the men arose and peevishly remarked to his pal:
 "I think we had better sit over here, Jim."
 This ungallant act plainly embarrassed the little mother, but she was equal to the occasion.
 "It won't do a bit of good to change your seats, gentlemen," said she in a finely sarcastic voice. "The baby can see you quite as plainly over there as he could here."

A Dying Glass.

In the glass collection at the Museum of Art in Dresden, Germany, there is a large drinking cup which stands apart from all other art objects under a heavy glass cover. It is of Dutch workmanship, and the inscriptions and style show that it was made early in the eighteenth century. The vessel is remarkable because it is known in the museum, says a Berlin paper, "as having consumption which can be communicated to other objects of glass. On that account it is isolated. There are remedies against this glass disease, which is usually developed because of defects in the glass mixture, but these have not been applied to the Dutch vessel in order that the progress of the wasting disease may be observed."

A Big Calculation In Water.

The ocean, sea and lake surface of our planet is estimated at something like 145,000,000 square miles, with an average depth of 12,000 feet, and is calculated to contain not less than 3,270,000,000,000 tons of water. The rivers of the earth are estimated to have a flow sufficient to cover thirty-six cubic miles of the above area each day. Now, if all the oceans were suddenly dried and the rivers could keep up their present rate of flow, which, of course, they could not without ocean evaporation, it would take 3,500 years to refill the basin.

Companionship of Books.

Will you go and gossip with your housemaid or your stable boy when you may talk with kings and queens, while this eternal court is open to you, with its society wide as the world, multitudinous as its days, the chosen and the mighty of every place and time? Into that you may enter always, in that you may take fellowship and rank according to your wish. From that, once entered into it, you can never be outcast but by your own fault.—John Ruskin.

Mislead the Pudding.

Dinner was late, but when the mistress started to make a mild remonstrance the new maid was on time with her excuse.
 "Sure," she said, with an irresistible Irish smile as she placed the soup on the table, "sure, I mislead the pudding, and there I was hunting the house for it, and where would it be after all but in the oven!"

KODOL

DISPESIA CURE

Under all curable conditions

Mr. D. Kauble of Nevada, Q., was cured by Kodol of stomach trouble which had effected his heart.

Mrs. W. W. Layler of Hilliard, Pa., was cured of Chronic Dyspepsia by the use of Kodol.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments, must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted forces, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

Dehorning a Rhinoceros.

A rhinoceros which lived in the London zoo was troubled by its horn, which grew down in front of its mouth, so that only with difficulty could it eat or drink. To save its life the keeper decided on amputation. The horn of a rhinoceros is not a horn at all, but an accumulation of hair and skin which has hardened and become cemented together by some gummy substance. The owner of this one had a very touchy temper and was not easily approached. Its keeper, however, decided to try what he could do. For some days it required all his skill to persuade the beast to come to the front of the cage and put its horn through. Then for some days he stroked the horn, much to the animal's disgust at first, although later it seemed to like it. When it found he meant no harm it let him take the horn in his left hand and then with the right imitate the motion of a saw across it. When this had been done some time and the rhinoceros no longer minded it, a piece of wood was held in the right hand, and at last, when even this no longer worried the animal, a real saw was brought in and the horn cut off without the slightest remonstrance from the owner of it.

Outcome Always Same.

A Philadelphian was praising for his learning and uprightness the late Judge M. Russell Thayer. He quoted the moving passage from Judge Thayer's will, "Owing to the fact that almost my entire life has been passed in the public service of the United States and of the state of Pennsylvania, I have but a small estate to leave to my dear children and wife."

"Judge Thayer," he continued, "was a very honorable man. First as a lawyer, afterward as a judge, he treated all with whom he had dealings with the greatest fairness. Once, years ago, after he had served me well in a difficult case, I remonstrated with him about the smallness of his fee.

"Well," he said, smiling and smelling the flower in his buttonhole, "I, you know, am not that type of lawyer whose client once said:

"I never was entirely ruined but twice—once when I lost a lawsuit and once when I gained one."—Washington Star.

A Terrible Punishment.

A man suspected of treason in Morocco was punished by having the flesh of his hand sliced, the wound filled with salt and the whole hand sewed up in leather. It is a common belief that this punishment causes mortification to set in and that the hand decomposes, but such is not the case, for by the time the leather wears off the hand is healed, the result being that the hand is rendered useless and remains closed forever. It is a punishment not often in use, but is sometimes done in cases of murder or constant theft, as, without in any way injuring the health of the man, it prevents his committing the crime a second time or for the hundredth time, as the case may be. It is a punishment that cannot be applied except by the sultan's orders.—Blackwood's Magazine.

A Fairly Big Fish.

Paddy had been telling the story of a big pike he caught, too big to get into the boat, so that he had to be towed behind (with the gaff in it, it must be understood). Then followed this dialogue: "What weight, Paddy?" "Divvil a knew I know, but he was an ojus baste." "Was that the biggest you ever saw, Paddy?" Then Paddy gave a description of the biggest he ever saw. "What weight, Paddy?" "Sorra a bit I know. He was a terror." "How big, Paddy?" "Sure, I can't tell to a foot or two, but a man could walk down his throat." On this incredulity, but Paddy "clinched the matter and silenced all controversy" by adding, "Wid his hat on."—Angler's Evenings.

Emergency Foods.

According to Dr. Robert Hutchinson of London, if at any time meat is not available, bread, sugar and eggs will make "a very respectable support for the body." Sugar is an exceedingly valuable article of food as a source of energy, the unfortunate thing about it being that it contains no nitrogenous matter. Bread, however, does contain some; hence it balances up well when combined with sugar. In times of scarcity of food bread and molasses is not a half bad diet—at least it can be relied on to keep the body up to a fair state of efficiency.

Women as Walkers.

Even the athletic girls and women of today can hardly make any advance upon the record of Mary Lamb, who wrote to Miss Wordsworth (both women being between fifty and sixty years old): "You say you can walk fifteen miles with ease. That is exactly my stat." She then speaks pityingly of a delicate woman who could accomplish "only four or five miles every third or fourth day, keeping very quiet between."

Manhattan Island.

Indians who accepted $24 from Governor Peter Minuit for Manhattan Island in 1624 did not make such a bad bargain, for if they had invested that sum of money at compound interest at the prevailing rates since then their heirs would now have $12,000,000,000.

Keeping Pace With the Service.

Patron (angrily)—Bring me some lunch. Restaurant Waiter—But you've already ordered a breakfast, sir! Patron—Yes, but it was breakfast time then.

Courage!

If you get a job the first day you look for it don't be discouraged. You may lose it Saturday.—Atlanta Journal.

The Treacherous Lioness.

"Lionesses are far more dangerous than lions," said an animal trainer. "Their tempers are more uncertain. They are more treacherous. They are more wily. If a lion is in a bad humor, he shows it. He growls and snarls and lashes his sides. You know what is in the wind and prepare accordingly. But a lioness in a bad humor is as affectionate as a girl. She brushes, purring, against your leg, and she minds you with the joyous alacrity of a good fox terrier. Then, as soon as your back is turned, whizz—a yellow streak shoots through the air, and you are on your back, and she is at your throat. With all the cat tribe it is the same. Whenever you hear of a trainer mauled or mangled, be sure it was a female, not a male, cat that did the deed."

Greenland's Glaciers.

Nearly all the Greenland glaciers and tongues from the internal ice cap terminate in vertical faces from 100 to 1,000 feet high, presenting facilities for investigation. The vertical faces reveal pronounced stratification on the basal ice, even earth materials in the bases carried by the ice being arranged in layers. Fine laminations were seen twelve or twenty to an inch. The layers are sometimes twisted and contorted and even "shoved" over each other. The glacier movement at the ice border is a foot per day to a foot per week.

Force of Example.

"Talk about the instinct of the lower orders! I built a little two story house for our parrot not long ago, and the very next morning after I put her in it she looked out of the window and greeted me in a very profane fashion."

"Why should she do that?"

"Complaining about the house, I fancy."

"But why should she swear at you?"

"Took me for the janitor, no doubt."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

His First Love Affair.

Mrs. Rose—Did your husband ever have more than one love affair? Mrs. Pose—Oh, only one, I believe! Mrs. Rose—And that was when he fell in love with you? Mrs. Pose—Oh, dear, no! He had fallen in love with himself long before he had met me.

Women in Medicine.

First Lady Doctor—He is sleeping now and is certainly recovering. He proposed to me this morning. Second Lady Doctor—Indeed? He was probably delirious.—Boston Transcript.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they have offered One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

It's a pleasure to tell our readers about a Cough Cure like Dr. Shoop's. For years Dr. Shoop has fought against the use of opium, chloroform or other unsafe ingredients commonly found in cough remedies. Dr. Shoop, it seems has welcomed the Pure Food Drug Law recently enacted, for he has worked along similar lines for many years. For nearly 20 years Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure containers have had a warning printed on them against opium and other narcotic poisons. He has made it possible for mothers to protect their children by simply insisting on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by Bryan's Drug Store.
